LUSITANIA'S DEATH LIST 1,216

WASHINGTON OFFICIALS FACE THE GRAVEST COMPLICATIONS SINCE OUTBREAK OF THE WAR

POSSIBILITIES IN SITUATION FAR-REACHING

Nowhere Is There Any Desire to Minimize Present Condition.

Await Full Details Before Laying Out Course of United States.

Chairman Stone of Foreign Committee Says "Don't Rock the Boat."

Washington, May 8.—Shocked and appalled by the tragic aspect of the Lusitania disaster, as hourly developments disclosed its magnitude and far-reaching possibilities, with the probable loss of 137 American lives, President Wilson and his advisers are waiting for all the facts and for a crystallization of public opinion to aid in laying out the course the United States will pursue in this latest international complication—the gravest the president has faced since the outbreak of the European war.

Nowhere in administration circles is there any disposition to minimize the situation, but President Wilson, while seeking the facts, hopes that the country will assume an examining attitude and reserve full judgment until all complete information is at hand.

As more details began coming in, activities at the White House and the executive departments of the government disclosed how much administration officials realize the tensity of the situation.

Asks for Report.

Secretary Bryan cabled Ambassador Gerard at Berlin to informally ask the German government for its report of the disaster and to Ambassador Page at London he sent messages urging renewed efforts to aid the suffering and gather information.

President Wilson, while he went to the golf links for his recreation, left strict instructions to be notified of any important dispatches. Cabinet officers, who had planned a week-end holiday away from Washington, canceled their plans and Secretary Garrison abandoned a week's official trip through the South.

Chairman Stone of the senate foreign relations committee issued a statement counseling calmness and advising "Don't rock the boat." Chairman

WAREHOUSE FILLED WITH BODIES OF DEAD

Many Survivors Arriving at Queenstown Are in Serious Condition From Severe Injuries and Exhaustion.

Queenstown, May 8.—The bodies of victims from the Lusitania are arriving on every incoming boat. The Cunard line warehouse which is being used as a temporary morgue, already has been filled and sixty more bodies have been taken to the town hall.

Additional dead lie in hotels and boarding houses, the victims of injuries and exhaustion. Still others are at the hospitals to which were taken those whose condition appeared more serious. Two little children who were brought ashore clasped in each other's arms have not yet been identified.

Mrs. Stanley Lines, who was brought ashore in one of the ship's boats immediately started a search of the city to find her husband. She learned at 4 o'clock this morning that he was dead at a hotel.

The women landed presented a pitiful appearance. Some were covered only with blankets. Many children were without their parents.

The funerals of most of the British victims will be held at Queenstown Sunday.

Two stokers have confirmed the report that the steamer was struck by two torpedoes. The first entered No. 1 stokehold and the second the engineroom.

RESCUE STEAMERS RETURNING WITH SURVIVORS AND DEAD

MANY BODIES ARE PICKED UP

No Trace Found of Alfred Vanderbilt or Charles Frohman.

Scene at Queenstown Such as Never Was Witnessed Before.

Queenstown, May 8, via London.—The various craft that yesterday afternoon went out from here to the scene of the Lusitania disaster returned to Queenstown last night and early this morning. All of them brought survivors in greater or less numbers. It is now estimated here that 600 will be the outside number of those saved. No trace has been found here of either Alfred G. Vanderbilt or Charles Frohman.

The latest rescue boats to arrive are bringing mostly bodies of the dead picked up from the water at the scene of the disaster. The dead now here number 124, and many of them are women.

ANCHOR LINER STARTS ACROSS

British Steamer Leaves New York for War Zone With Many Passengers.

New York, May 8.—The British steamer Transylvania of the Anchor line sailed late yesterday for Liverpool, a few hours after news of the Lusitania's sinking had been received. The Transylvania's cabins were crowded, her agents said. There were 579 passengers aboard and others who wanted to go, according to officers of the line, could not be accommodated for lack of room.

Capt. John Black, who was recently transferred to the Transylvania from the British auxiliary cruiser Columbia, commanded the ship.

"I have been hunting for a submarine ever since this war began," was his comment on the Lusitania. "I only hope I see one on this trip and that she comes close enough for me to ram her."

"Do you expect to fly the American flag when you reach the war zone?" he was asked.

"No sir. I'll take my ship to port with the flag of England flying, or not at all," he replied.

All precautions, however, Capt. Black said, would be taken when the Transylvania reached the war zone.

Of the Transylvania's passengers, 117 were in the first cabins, 310 in the second, and 452 in the steerage. Almost half the passengers were from Canada, it was said. There was little nervousness apparent among the passengers, all of whom had heard of the Lusitania's fate. Twelve last cancellations were recorded. This, it was said, was not an unusual number. Four of those who canceled their passage, officials said, did so because of illness. The reason why the others canceled was not disclosed.

The Transylvania, due to sail at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, was an hour late in getting away.

BERLIN PAPERS ARE REJOICING

Hail Sinking of Lusitania as New Triumph for Navy.

London, May 8.—The Exchange Telegraph company has received today the following telegram from Copenhagen: "Berlin newspapers print the news of the sinking of the Lusitania in colossal type and hail the successful torpedoing of the ship as a new triumph for Germany's naval policy. The general impression is that England has got what she deserves."

SOME SURVIVORS ON SOVEREIGN ISLAND

London, May 8.—A number of survivors have been landed by fishing boats on Sovereign island in the vicinity of Galley Head. Many are in a serious condition and it is feared that some will not survive.

McCOMBS SAYS THIS COUNTRY IS HELPLESS

Cincinnati, May 8.—William F. McCombs, chairman of the Democratic national committee who was in this city for a few hours today, said he greatly deplored the blowing up of the Lusitania, but he could not see what this country could do about it.

"This country is helpless," he said. "Suppose we should declare war against Germany, it would amount to nothing more than the recall of the ambassadors of each country. We could not fight because there are no German ships on the sea, and no one would consider the insane proposition of sending an army over there. I am absolutely neutral in this war."

Mr. McCombs stopped over in this city on his way to French Lick [illegible], Ind.

DRIFTER BRINGS IN 45 MORE SURVIVORS

London, May 8.—A further telegram has just been received by the British officials from Cork stating that forty-five more survivors from the Lusitania have been landed at Queenstown from a drifter.

STEAMER LUSITANIA NOT AN ARMED SHIP

London, May 8.—The British government today made the following announcement:

"The statement appearing in some newspapers that the Lusitania was armed is wholly false."

CAPTAIN AT POST WHEN SHIP SANK

London, May 8.—Captain Turner of the Lusitania stood at his post on the bridge until his ship went down, and was rescued three hours afterward wearing a life belt, according to D. A. Thomas, the Cardiff, Wales, coal magnate.

TWO-THIRDS OF ALL ON BOARD PERISHED

Number of Passengers on Ship Given as 1,254, Crew 665, Making a Total of 1,919.

All the Rescue Boats But One Are in, With Little Prospect of Further Survivors.

The latest available information indicates that about two-thirds of the persons on board the Lusitania lost their lives.

The number of passengers is given by the Cunard steamship representatives in New York as 1,254 and of the crew as 665, a total of 1,919. The number of survivors now accounted for is 703. This indicates a death list of 1,216.

Hopes that the list of persons saved may be materially increased were dashed by an announcement from the British admiralty that all but one of the rescue fleet which put out from Queenstown had reported and that there was little prospect of news of further survivors. Nevertheless, inquiries are being made all along the coast in the hope that other rescues may have been made by small craft which put in at isolated points.

BUT 76 FIRST CLASS SAVED.

Of the 290 first class passengers, it is now believed only 76 were saved. No word has been received of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, Charles Frohman, Elbert Hubbard and other prominent men aboard.

The story of the Lusitania came in slowly, owing partly to the confusion prevailing at Queenstown where most of the survivors were landed. No information was available as to how many of the Americans on the Lusitania had gone down. Stories told by survivors seemed to confirm the earlier report that the Lusitania had been struck by two torpedoes.

Ambassador Gerard at Berlin was directed to make inquiry of the German government concerning the sinking of the Lusitania. While the situation is regarded at Washington as a serious one on account of the loss of American lives, it is expected the government will await the receipt of official information from Germany before deciding on further steps.

Twelve Hundred Lost.

London, May 8. — Twelve hundred persons lost their lives, the British admiralty estimated, when the Cunard line steamship Lusitania was torpedoed yesterday afternoon off Old Head Kinsale on the Irish coast. The known survivors number only 703, while there were 1,919 souls aboard the great liner when she was attacked. Of those who were saved 595 were landed at Queenstown and eleven at Kinsale, while fifty-two others are reported to be aboard a steamer. All but one of the rescue fleet of torpedo boats, tugs and trawlers, which went out from Queenstown have reported. There is a slender hope that fishing boats may have rescued a few more.

In addition to the living ashore, the bodies of forty-five who died of injuries or were drowned have been landed at Queenstown. Five more are at Kinsale and it has been reported that an armed trawler accompanied by Persons Notable in Social and Business Life on Lusitania.

Alfred Vanderbilt, Elbert Hubbard, Charles Frohman and Others.

New York, May 8.—Many persons notable in the business or social life of New York city were among those whose names were missing from the list of survivors of the Lusitania made public by the line here and at Queenstown.

Of those not reported as being saved, Alfred G. Vanderbilt is one of the most widely known. Inheriting the bulk of the estate of his father, estimated at $70,000,000 to $100,000,000, he is one of the wealthiest men of New York. Mrs. Vanderbilt, at her home here, was trying to obtain any news that might show that her husband was saved.

Elbert Hubbard, editor of the Philistine, author of essays and publisher at East Aurora, N. Y., is known throughout the country as "Fra Elbertus."

He intended to conduct an investi-

SAYS IT WAS CRIMINAL TO CARRY PASSENGERS

New York, May 8.—Capt. Franz Von Pahen, military attache of the Imperial German embassy is quoted by the New York World this morning as making the following statement regarding the sinking of the Lusitania.

"It is deplorable, if true, that so many lives have been lost. I am shocked to hear the news, especially that American lives have been sacrificed.

"But it was absolutely criminal for the Cunard company to carry and for the British government to allow the line to carry neutral passengers in a ship which was transporting explosives and munitions of war to be used by Great Britain and her allies.

"The ship's manifest will show that she carried a large amount of picric acid and other explosives. They certainly were not intended for peaceful uses. They were to be used against Germany and Germany had to defend herself against them. The best way was to destroy the ship, and such destruction was amply justified under the rules of war."

BODY OF CHARLES FROHMAN IS FOUND

Queenstown, May 8.—The body of Charles Frohman, the theatrical manager of New York, has been recovered and brought to Queenstown, where it is now being embalmed.

WORST KIND OF PIRACY, SAYS COL. ROOSEVELT

Syracuse, N. Y., May 8.—Theodore Roosevelt, after learning details of the sinking of the Lusitania, late last night made this statement:

"This represents not merely piracy, but piracy on a vaster scale of murder than any old-time pirate ever practiced. This is the warfare which destroyed Louvain and Dinant and hundreds of men, women and children in Belgium. It is warfare against innocent men, women and children, traveling on the ocean, and to our fellow-country women, who are among the sufferers.

"It seems inconceivable that we can refrain from taking action in this matter, for we owe it not only to humanity, but to our own national self-respect."

TAKE 1,600 PRISONERS

Eighteen Cannon and Four Machine Guns Also Captured.

Usual Artillery Duels Occur Along Western Battle Front.

Berlin, May 8, via London, 3:50 p. m.—Official announcement was made at the German war office today that the city of Libau, in the province of Courland, Russia, has been captured by the Germans.

The text of the communication follows:

"On the greater part of the front there were yesterday the usual artillery duels.

"An infantry battle took place in the Vosges. Only in this section did the French attack our positions. At Steinbrueck on both sides of the valley of the river Fecht they attacked after a preliminary fire of artillery which lasted for hours. All these attacks resulted in failure with heavy losses to the French.

"In the eastern theater of the war:

"The troops we sent against the city of Libau took possession of this town yesterday. Sixteen hundred prisoners, 18 cannon and four machine guns fell into our hands.

Pursuit Continues.

"In the southeastern theater of the war: The pursuit of the defeated enemy was continued steadily through-

Of those who were saved 595 were landed at Queenstown and eleven at Kinsale, while fifty-two others are reported to be aboard a steamer. All but one of the rescue fleet of torpedo boats, tugs and trawlers, which went out from Queenstown have reported. There is a slender hope that fishing boats may have rescued a few more.

In addition to the living ashore, the bodies of forty-five who died of injuries or were drowned have been landed at Queenstown. Five more are at Kinsale and it has been reported that an armed trawler accompanied by Persons Notable in Social and Business Life on Lusitania.

Alfred Vanderbilt, Elbert Hubbard, Charles Frohman and Others.

New York, May 8.—Many persons notable in the business or social life of New York city were among those whose names were missing from the list of survivors of the Lusitania made public by the line here and at Queenstown.

Of those not reported as being saved, Alfred G. Vanderbilt is one of the most widely known. Inheriting the bulk of the estate of his father, estimated at $70,000,000 to $100,000,000, he is one of the wealthiest men of New York. Mrs. Vanderbilt, at her home here, was trying to obtain any news that might show that her husband was saved.

Elbert Hubbard, editor of the Philistine, author of essays and publisher at East Aurora, N. Y., is known throughout the country as "Fra Elbertus."

He intended to conduct an investi-

SAYS IT WAS CRIMINAL TO CARRY PASSENGERS

New York, May 8.—Capt. Franz Von Pahen, military attache of the Imperial German embassy is quoted by the New York World this morning as making the following statement regarding the sinking of the Lusitania.

"It is deplorable, if true, that so many lives have been lost. I am shocked to hear the news, especially that American lives have been sacrificed.

"But it was absolutely criminal for the Cunard company to carry and for the British government to allow the line to carry neutral passengers in a ship which was transporting explosives and munitions of war to be used by Great Britain and her allies.

"The ship's manifest will show that she carried a large amount of picric acid and other explosives. They certainly were not intended for peaceful uses. They were to be used against Germany and Germany had to defend herself against them. The best way was to destroy the ship, and such destruction was amply justified under the rules of war."

BODY OF CHARLES FROHMAN IS FOUND

Queenstown, May 8.—The body of Charles Frohman, the theatrical manager of New York, has been recovered and brought to Queenstown, where it is now being embalmed.

WORST KIND OF PIRACY, SAYS COL. ROOSEVELT

Syracuse, N. Y., May 8.—Theodore Roosevelt, after learning details of the sinking of the Lusitania, late last night made this statement:

"This represents not merely piracy, but piracy on a vaster scale of murder than any old-time pirate ever practiced. This is the warfare which destroyed Louvain and Dinant and hundreds of men, women and children in Belgium. It is warfare against innocent men, women and children, traveling on the ocean, and to our fellow-country women, who are among the sufferers.

"It seems inconceivable that we can refrain from taking action in this matter, for we owe it not only to humanity, but to our own national self-respect."

Eighteen Cannon and Four Machine Guns Also Captured.

Usual Artillery Duels Occur Along Western Battle Front.

Berlin, May 8, via London, 3:50 p. m.—Official announcement was made at the German war office today that the city of Libau, in the province of Courland, Russia, has been captured by the Germans.

The text of the communication follows:

"On the greater part of the front there were yesterday the usual artillery duels.

"An infantry battle took place in the Vosges. Only in this section did the French attack our positions. At Steinbrueck on both sides of the valley of the river Fecht they attacked after a preliminary fire of artillery which lasted for hours. All these attacks resulted in failure with heavy losses to the French.

"In the eastern theater of the war:

"The troops we sent against the city of Libau took possession of this town yesterday. Sixteen hundred prisoners, 18 cannon and four machine guns fell into our hands.

Pursuit Continues.

Ad-Less Town

Can you imagine a city where no one ever advertised anything?

Can you picture the business stillness — the all pervading quiet?

Pretty hard to visualize in this age of "up and at them."

Advertising has become the very vitals of business activity. And its power is most highly shown in newspaper advertising.

If your goods or your business is not being advertised the world is walking away from you.

"BEYOND THE POINT OF ROCKS"

WILL STRIVE FOR MAY QUEEN HONORS

Candidates Asked to List Names at State Bank.

At a meeting of the committee in charge of the May Queen celebration to be held on May 28 in the West end, plans were made to have candidates for "queen" register their names at the Duluth State bank. The names can be listed early next week, and members of the committee say they would like to have the names in early.

"The coupons or ballots have been left in every store in the West end," said S. W. Hill yesterday. "Now we expect the names of candidates to come in rapidly. Any young woman residing in the West end is eligible to become a candidate."

Mr. Hill said that from the work done so far and the ready response and assistance given by the merchants, that this celebration promises to be the best the business men have held. Details of the parade for the evening are also being rapidly worked out.

GIANT POLICEMAN AND TINY CHUM MAKE STRANGE PAIR

ALFRED LANGEVIERE AND FRED MAHLAN.

The two extremes, the "long and the short," are probably best represented when Alfred Langeviere, better known by his friends in the West end as "Stub," and Fred Mahlan, the city's largest policeman, and probably the biggest man in Duluth, are to be seen walking together through the streets of the West end. Men seldom attract as much attention as these two when they stroll in company.

Langeviere is the call boy for the Northern Pacific railroad, and has been for the last three years. When an engineer or fireman cannot be reached on the telephone at night or probably is such a sound sleeper that the girl in the central office is unable to rouse him out, then it is Langeviere's duty to get the drowsy one out in some other manner.

On many nights difficult calls are made. Often on these occasions he asks the assistance of "Big Fred" if the latter happens to be nearby. When the railroad man will not answer the bell or his family cannot be aroused in the ordinary manner, if Fred is along, he picks up his smaller companion, and raises him to the level of the second story window, giving "Stub" a chance to let out a good yell at the object of his attentions.

"Stub" is 23 years old. He is the smallest of a family of six and lives with his parents at 29 North Twenty-fifth avenue west. Mahlan is said to be the tallest man in Duluth. He measures six feet and seven inches. He has been on the force for ten years, most of the time patrolling in the West end. His small friend, when standing on tiptoe, manages to reach the mark of four foot, four inches.

DR. WARBO CHIEF SPEAKER ON NORWEGIAN INDEPENDENCE DAY

Dr. Thomas Warbo of Chicago will be the principal speaker for the celebration of May 17, the anniversary of Norwegian independence day, to be held by the Normanna Male chorus on Sunday afternoon, May 16, at 3 o'clock at the Duluth Central high school. He will also be guest of honor of the chorus at a reception to be held Sunday evening at Foresters hall, Fourth avenue west and First street.

The program for the celebration will be completed at a meeting of the chorus to be held tomorrow. Committees to have charge of the various details of the dancing party to be held Monday evening, May 17, will be appointed. This affair will be held at Woodman hall, Twenty-first avenue west and First street.

Dr. Warbo is one of the leaders in the activities of the Norwegian-American Singers' association. His work in the association has had much to do with making the national organization a success. His theme for the address will be on the history of Norway, which led up to its people getting its own constitution 101 years ago. He will also touch on the progress of the people since that time.

The program will include an address by Mayor W. I. Prince. John Heitman will preside. The complete male chorus of forty members will give several numbers.

M'KERCHER IS POLICE CHIEF

Humane Agent Named to Succeed Troyer After May 15.

Chosen From Eighteen Candidates; Resident Here Twenty-one Years.

CHIEF TROYER'S STATEMENT.

"Commissioner Silberstein has made a good appointment in selecting Mr. McKercher. The latter is a 'live wire,' a tireless worker and a good, honest man. His experience as a humane officer will help him considerably in his new duties. I wish him the best of success."

Duluth's chief of police after May 15 will be Robert D. McKercher, humane agent for the last four years.

The appointment was announced last night by Commissioner Silberstein, head of the public safety division, after he had considered eighteen candidates for the position. Chief Troyer will retire next Friday to become chief of police at Fargo, N. D., and Mr. McKercher will assume his new duties the following morning.

For the last three days the name of Mr. McKercher has been prominently mentioned among the most likely candidates and yesterday morning indications pointed to his probable appointment, although the commissioner would make no official announcement at the time. He notified Mr. McKercher at 9:30 o'clock last evening and the latter immediately went to Mr. Silberstein's home, where they had a conference and discussed the plans for the department after the new chief takes office.

No Further Changes Now.

Following the conference, Commissioner Silberstein officially announced the appointment and also that there will be no immediate changes in the police department. Mr. McKercher, he said, will be given an opportunity to study the personnel before recommending any changes. He said this morning, however, that there is no likelihood of any member of the force being dropped at this time.

"I am confident Mr. McKercher will make a good chief," said Mr. Silberstein this morning. "I have selected him out of eighteen candidates and feel certain that his work as head of the police department will prove satisfactory to the entire city. He is the best man I could find for the position so ably filled by Chief Troyer. Mr. McKercher will take office next Saturday morning. As far as we know now, there will be no changes in the department."

Mr. McKercher said this morning that he will tender his resignation to the humane society within a day or two and that he will not give up his duties as agent, until his successor is selected and becomes acquainted with his new duties. He expects the society to hold a special meeting either this afternoon or Monday for the purpose of selecting a successor.

"It is going to be hard to please all the people," said Mr. McKercher this morning, "but I hope to do my best and with the co-operation of the general public am certain that we will accomplish something. I am sorry to see Chief Troyer go, but will do my best to fill his place."

Started Here as Blacksmith.

Mr. McKercher came to Duluth twenty-one years ago to work in a local blacksmith shop and after two years obtained employment with the Marshall-Wells company, where he worked for four years. He then obtained a position in the freight department of the Northern Pacific railroad, remaining there for eleven years, giving up his position when he was appointed humane agent four years ago. Since then he was re-elected to the office each year.

The new chief was born at Glengarry, Ont., on March 19, 1874, coming to Duluth direct from the Canadian city. He is married and the father of twin daughters and a son. He resides at 811 West Fourth street.

LOUGHNEY NOT MURDER VICTIM

Brother of Duluth Man, Killed at Missoula, Thinks Death Accidental.

That his brother, Joseph Loughney, killed in the Milwaukee railroad yard in Missoula, Mont., this week was not murdered, but was the victim of an accident, is the belief of Dr. A. M. Loughney of Minneapolis, who was here yesterday after attending the funeral in Superior. Dr. Loughney, better known in Duluth as Moody Loughney, says that the coroner's inquest at Missoula showed that Joseph met his death under a train, while in charge of a crew of construction men.

"Everything bears out the theory of an accident," said Dr. Loughney. "Just how it happened is unknown, but there is no reason to suppose that Joe was murdered. The best and most careful of railroad men and construction bosses are sometimes killed or maimed this way, and it was just a case of that kind. Joe was well liked by the railroad officials and by the men under him, we are given to understand, and nobody knows of any motive that would cause anybody to murder him."

Some of the relatives still believe it was murder and have advanced the theory that the young man was pushed under the train by somebody who was jealous of his promotion.

PLAYGROUNDS GET A TRIAL

School Board Appropriates About Half of the Sum Asked.

If Try-Out Is Successful, Balance of Amount Desired Forthcoming.

Playgrounds and a general recreation scheme will be given a trial in Duluth between June 1 and Sept. 1, and, if successful, probably will be continued on a larger scale, as indicated by developments at the monthly meeting of the board of education last night at Central high school.

Board members refused to appropriate $1,500, estimated as half of the cost of trying out the system from June 1 to Jan. 1, 1916. The city was to appropriate the other half of entire $3,000 needed.

As one of the two alternatives proposed by the committee on maintenance of buildings and grounds, $800 was voted to cover half the period, and on Sept. 1, if the plan succeeds, the board members intimated that the remaining $700 would be forthcoming. The other proposal was to reject the plan on the ground that the appropriation would add to a deficit in the general fund.

Would Evade Blame.

Director E. R. Cobb, following the committee's report, offered an amendment to the resolution placing the limit at the $1,500 asked by supporters of the recreation movement.

"I would rather give them what they ask, and thus give the plan a fair trial. If it fails with an $800 appropriation, the blame may be laid to the board," he said.

The directors refused to sanction this increase, however, the amendment being defeated and the second alternative of the committee, placing the maximum expenditure at $800, was accepted. Directors C. F. Colman and L. Q. Greeley voted with Mr. Cobb for the larger sum. In the final vote, Director W. B. Getchell alone opposed the $800 outlay, insisting that the board had no right to spend the money.

Delegation Supports Plan.

Before the vote was taken, a delegation including representatives from nearly every civic organization in Duluth urged favorable action on the resolution.

Watson S. Moore, acting as chairman of the petitioning delegation, presented the various speakers, all of them being emphatic in wanting the $1,500 so that the plan could be given a fair tryout.

Frank Crassweller, representing the Commercial club, characterized the $1,500 as "a mere flea bite" considering the school budget, and emphasized the belief that social centers and playgrounds should both be under the supervison of the school board.

Others who spoke in a similar vein, bringing out the various advantages of the playground plan, were Mrs. L. H. Corcoran of the Bishop's club; Mrs. P. L. De Voist of the Woman's council; Miss Frances Earhart, public librarian; Miss Edna G. Mecker, secretary of the Associated Charities; Miss Jean Poirier, for twelve years an exponent of public recreational work; W. L. Smithles, president of the Inter-Church council; A. G. Catlin of the Federated Trades assembly; E. F. Burg of the Rotary club; C. R. Pattinson of the Duluth Office Men's association; Rev. John W. Hoffman, pastor of the First M. E. church; F. A. Cokefair and Dr. A. G. Schulze of the Citizens' committee, and T. S. Settle, field secretary of the Playground and Recreation Association of New York, who outlined the plan recommended for trial here.

NEW POLICE CHIEF TO BE HONOR GUEST

Robert D. McKercher, newly appointed chief of police, will be the guest of honor at the meeting of Duluth Council No. 3, Modern Samaritans, Monday night. Mr. McKercher is a charter member of the council and a large attendance is expected. The meeting will be held at the lodge rooms on the sixth floor of the Old Masonic temple.

The business meeting will begin sharply at 8 o'clock and will be followed by a brief program of speeches by prominent members of the council, after which the regular monthly dance will be held.

The date for the annual minstrel show has been set for June 24. Duluth Council No. 3 for the last three years has closed its social season with a minstrel show given by members of the order, and the entertainment provided has been of high grade for amateur performers. Last year the show was put on for the members of Clan Stewart and the local lodge of Elks, as well as for the Samaritans.

The meeting Monday night will be open to all Samaritans and their friends.

METCALFE APPEAL DELAYED.

R. N. Metcalfe's appeal against his dismissal from the health department has been postponed until Friday afternoon, May 21.

The hearing was to have been held yesterday afternoon, but because of the absence of H. W. Nichols, a member of the civil service commission, who is out of the city, a postponement was necessary. This is the third time that the hearing has been postponed.

Mr. Metcalfe, who was a former health inspector, says that he was discharged without cause and that under the civil service regulations he is entitled to his position.

HENRY NOLTE WILL HEAD PUBLIC AFFAIRS COMMITTEE

President Cotton of Commercial Club Names His Fighting Force.

Most Active Business Men of City Named to Militant Committee.

President Looks on Coming Year as One of Unusual Opportunity.

President Joseph B. Cotton of the Duluth Commercial club has just issued the list of those whom he has chosen to constitute the public affairs committee of the club during his term of office. Henry Nolte will be its chairman. That its personnel is strong and made up of representative men of affairs, is the general opinion of those to whom Mr. Cotton has given his confidence during the time he has taken to select the membership.

"The members of the Duluth Commercial club," said President Cotton, in discussing his selections, "are all busy men; and busy men, as a rule, dislike the idea of being asked to spend much time outside of their own business. But it has been my aim, in choosing the membership of the public affairs committee to get the acceptances of men who are acquainted with the needs of the city, are ready for the opportunities that are hers, and who, when they once don the harness, will work with a will and with a determination to press ahead.

"In many instances, when some of those whom I asked to serve have demurred, I have had to urge; but I have found that without exception, when these men have thought the matter over and realized what concerted action means for the business of the city as a whole this year, their reluctance has disappeared and they have asked for suggestions as to what they can do to start things going and keep them going. The progressive spirit is rife in Duluth, and nowhere more so than in the membership of the Commercial club.

Predicts Year of Results.

"I predict a year of results, for there are big results to be attained, and the members of the public affairs committee and of the Commercial club as a whole, are ready to try for them and try hard. Mr. Nolte, the chairman of the committee, is always at it, anyway, and his enthusiasm and energy are just a part of the day's work. I know of no man better fitted for the edge of the wedge than he."

Henry Nolte, the new chairman of the public affairs committee, has been vice chairman for two terms, and has been head of the legislative sub-committee, in which he has wielded much influence, and has done excellent work. He is one of the leading business men of the city and is prominent in every active movement for the benefit of the municipality.

Among the members of the public affairs committee, all of those who have been particularly active have been reappointed and many others who have kept out of the club activities because of pressure of business have been induced by Mr. Cotton to take up the committee work for the coming year. The committee, which will be sub-divided by Chairman Nolte, follows:

GREAT YEAR IN PROSPECT FOR CITY AND THE CLUB.

"In many respects, this new year of the Duluth Commercial club will be one of the most important in its history. Great years have gone before and the club has, through its officers, met conditions with wonderful success because of the wide-awake character of the men in authority and who made up the personnel of its committees. Great things have been accomplished for Duluth by the club; but all the great things due Duluth have not yet happened.

"I believe that many of the truly great opportunities for this city and for the club to meet and take advantage of are almost due; and I look upon it as an honor and a privilege to be chosen president of the Duluth Commercial club at this time, and to thus be given an opportunity to do my part in advancing the city's interests. With the country just emerging from the gloom which the shadow of war cast upon the whole world, Duluth should be one of the first great centers of trade to make an advance. Not only that, but this city should and will be one of the communities to take an advanced position and maintain it.

"The Commercial club, this year, I believe, will have, perhaps, the greatest chance of its career up to this time, to work for the good of the city and it is necessary that its strongest men, its most active men, those who keep not only abreast of the times, but ahead of them, should be chosen to take the lead.

"To select from among its most active men members of the public affairs committee, which does the real work of the club, with a membership so virile and so able as that which constitutes the Duluth Commercial club to pick from has been no small task. I have given much thought to the work and I believe that the list presented will, when the year is ended, show few errors of judgment. Were a secondary committee provided for, I should have to select every remaining member, for I know of none who would not serve with distinction on the first.

"JOSEPH B. COTTON,
"President of the Duluth Commercial Club."

HOUSING CODE DISCUSSED

Charities Head Dissents From Recommendations of the Committee.

City Attorney Will Present Three Reports to the City Council.

That Duluth will eventually have a housing ordinance that will include hotels, lodging houses, apartments and dwellings, and in fact, cover the whole question of sanitation and health in so far as lodging conditions are concerned, was the consensus of opinion expressed by the general committee appointed to report on the proposed revised housing ordinance, which conferred with City Attorney Henry F. Greene at the Commercial club rooms last night. The plan at present simply covers apartments and dwellings, and it is expected that an effort will be made in the near future to enlarge the sphere of regulation by the city and insure better conditions.

Reports Summarized.

While the proceedings of last night were not final, the recommendations of the general committee will be carefully summarized by Mr. Greene, who will submit a report in three sections to the city council upon which they will act in framing the final draft of the housing code. The reports will comprise the recommendations of the Associated Charities, the Commercial club and those of the real estate men, building managers, architects, etc.

E. A. Silberstein, president of the Associated Charities, was the chief dissenter from the recommendations of the general committee, and he voiced the sentiment of the Associated Charities. In the main, he desired much more rigid regulation than other committeemen, and he maintained that rigid regulation was imperative to secure sanitation, health and general welfare.

His first point of dissension was in opposing the recommendation for the reduction of the minimum of the area of living rooms in apartments and dwellings. The present code demands that the area for at least one room shall not be less than 150 square feet and that all others shall not contain less than 100 square feet. He opposed a reduction to 140 feet and 80 feet as proposed by the committee.

He also opposed the reduction of the number of cubic feet of air space to each person in an apartment or dwelling house. The present code demands at least 400 cubic feet of air space to each adult and 350 cubic feet to each child under 12 years of age. He opposed a reduction to 350 and 300 feet.

Courts and Back Yards.

In the third point he dissented with the general committee but concurred with the Commercial club in regard to the size of inner courts and back yards. The committee proposed to reduce the requirements for inner courts from 10 feet to 6 feet, while Mr. Silberstein declared 10 feet was small enough. In regard to back yards he went further, opposing a reduction of from 10 to 8 feet and asking for an increase to 12 feet.

Mr. Silberstein said that these points had been carefully gone over by the Associated Charities, and that the housing codes of other cities had been studied. He said Duluth should not be so easy in its demands as to make its demands less than those of any other city in America that had prepared a code. The present code, he said, would be largely experimental, but it was necessary to educate the people on the subject and get all classes to study conditions and adjust their building operations to meet requirements necessary for health.

It was brought out also that too strict regulation would work hardship on many persons in Duluth who have already built apartments and dwellings or are now building. Nothing tangible was worked out to meet these cases although the city council is expected to consider all details of the question in preparing a final draft of the code.

LICENSE REFUSED TO LONE SALOON KEEPER

South International Falls Declines to Issue Permit Sought.

International Falls, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—After an extended discussion of the situation the council of the village of South International Falls voted unanimously against granting a liquor license to Gus Brother, who has been running a saloon there. Rev. E. L. Heermance of this city appeared in behalf of the "dry" faction and an argument that amounted practically to a debate of the question followed between him and Rev Heermance.

Had to Violate Law.

A committee appointed by the council to investigate the manner in which the saloon had been run during the past year reported that, although the place had run in constant violation of the law, that it was necessary for it to do so in order to make it a financial success. When a vote was called for it resulted in an unanimous verdict against license and the saloon will be forced out of business on May 2, when the present license expires.

This French Car Has No Competitor

There are plenty of people satisfied with ordinary, cheap, unattractive cars, hastily built and hurriedly bought.

Others, with no more money to invest, want a really high-grade light car. The Briscoe Car appeals to these discriminating purchasers, because it is built of the finest material, with the greatest care in workmanship—a car of assured reliability and of highly finished, artistic appearance.

The manufacturers intended that the Briscoe Car should satisfy discriminating buyers by years of service and by a quality of service beyond their expectations.

The Briscoe Car was first built in the Briscoe experimental shops at Billancourt, near Paris. The leading French engineers collaborated in producing it. It is the finished product of three years' careful investigation and study on the part of Americans who have had fifteen years' experience in building American cars. The Briscoe has been tried and proved under every conceivable practical test, both abroad and at home.

WORK WELL WITH HANDS

Manual and Agricultural Training in City Schools Very Successful.

Health Inspection System Also Proves Beneficial to City Department.

Supervision of regular teachers, as well as the special ones, by Supt. Denfeld and W. H. Schilling, assistant superintendent, has been an unqualified success and will be continued on a more thorough basis in the future.

"It has enabled us to keep in close touch with the work," declared Supt. Denfeld in his April report, presented to directors of the board of education at the monthly meeting last night.

Particular attention to the report of Edward F. Geiger, director of manual training, and E. P. Gibson of the agricultural department was paid by the superintendent. Success of manual training work in classes of defectives has been marked, and the high school greenhouse has been doing excellent work, according to Mr. Denfeld. His recommendations to the board included:

Improvement Recommendations.

Engaging a practical printer to take charge of the high school printing department on full time.

Improvements to playground facilities at Franklin school.

Additional space to carry on work of the junior high school.

Remodeling the Central high school stage to accommodate graduating classes.

Purchasing filing cases to facilitate tracing pupils and keeping a record of their school careers.

There were 734 girls enrolled in the domestic science course during the month, and 305 half-day lessons were given. Costs per pupil for the half-day lessons varied from 2½ cents at the Denfeld high school to 6 cents in the Irving-Salter school.

Dental inspection work was started in the Franklin school yesterday, according to the report of Dr. J. H. Andres, medical inspector. Twenty-eight schools were visited during the month and 1,411 children were examined. Nurses visited 304 cases during the month and treated 116 cases.

Helps Health Department.

"Dr. Fahey," reads the report, "expressed gratitude for the work done by our nurses. An absentee, investigated by one of our nurses, proved to be an unreported case of scarlet fever. Upon further investigation the nurse found that the father of the patient was a dairyman and was distributing milk to ninety-four families."

One of the features of the manual training report, as presented by Supt. Denfeld, was the statement by Prof. Geiger that the annual report of the board of education had just been turned out by the Central high school printing shop. Copies of the report were distributed for the first time last night.

Duluth's agricultural classes undoubtedly are eligible to the $1,000 aid given by the state to high school agricultural departments, in the opinion of Prof. Gibson of that department.

His report, telling of work done in the greenhouse, aroused considerable interest among the board directors. It said, in part:

Greenhouse Accomplishments.

"The greenhouse is a very valuable feature of the agricultural department, in fact it is in itself an efficient teacher of the principles of plant-growth and crop-production. The boys show real enthusiasm over every success in growing vegetables out of season and unusual in Duluth. It is the aim of the department to make the greenhouse not only thoroughly educational but also self-supporting, or more, as soon as its detailed equipment is completed.

"For instance, though this represents only a beginning, and was not allotted space at the expense of other features, we grew on thirty-five plants in a part of the greenhouse, three pounds of ripe tomatoes of the best quality, which were sold for $24.46 at prices ranging from 30 cents to 20 cents per pound from Feb. 14 to April 14.

Many Crops.

"Early summer greenhouse crops of tomatoes and of cucumbers are well under way now. Of the more experimental crops we grew successfully, though on a small scale, four crops of lettuce, three crops of radishes, and crops of string beans, cauliflower, peppers, White Spine cucumbers, and Rollinson's Telegraph cucumbers. We have a number of muskmelons that we are not telling about, and these are nearly full grown. The summer crops of tomatoes, cucumbers and muskmelons in the greenhouse will be capacity crops, but are timed to be out of the way soon enough to permit a thorough cleaning out before opening for the fall.

"A single plant of Rollinson's Telegraph cucumber has borne already seven cucumbers ranging from eighteen and one-half to twenty-two inches long and of good thickness, and two more fruits are still growing. These cucumbers are of fine flavor, and sell in markets where they are known at from 25 cents to 75 cents each in winter.

"The creamery outfit has proven to be a decidedly good investment, the total of butter churned now being 2,891 pounds.

"The Agricultural club has purchased some $50 worth of reference books and has gathered several hundred bulletins which become school property. This club edits and manages 'The Gazette,' the bi-weekly school paper. Further, the Agricultural club is an invaluable medium in gaining student co-operation with the agricultural department."

WATER WORK PLAN BEING DISCUSSED

Ironwood Council Has Not Arrived at a Definite Conclusion.

Ironwood, Mich., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ironwood is considering the water problem, which was one of the issues in the recent municipal campaign.

Mayor Driscoll soon after taking office appointed a special water committee to look into the matter, and this committee in a report recommended the development of a new source of water supply from wells or springs within a reasonable distance of the city.

Favor Municipal Plant.

The committee favored a municipal owned plant, recommended that immediate steps be taken to procure one and submitted three propositions from J. S. Kennedy, each of which contemplates the development of 3,000,000 gallons of water every twenty-four hours.

Mr. Kennedy agreed to furnish a guaranteed well or spring water supply of 3,000,000 gallons per twenty-four hours, all material, machinery, labor, including engineering, development and construction work in producing the water supply, for $136,000, or undertake to produce the above, the city to furnish all labor, material, machinery, etc., at a salary of $4,000 a year, plus an extra compensation of from $10,000 to $17,500, according to the time in which the water supply was developed, or at a salary of $6,000 per year to direct and superintend the erection of a plant, the city to pay for all material, labor, machinery and supplies and other expense, and furnish a satisfactory site for the operation of the plant. The committee recommended to the council that the latter proportion be accepted.

Plan Is Turned Down.

At a special meeting of the council the question was put to a vote and fell through by a vote of 10 to 6. Alderman Best volunteered to go to Hibbing, paying his own expenses, with anyone the mayor should appoint, and inspect the water system. The mayor appointed Alderman Jennings. There will be another meeting of the council on Tuesday evening.

FIGHT AGAINST DIRT BEGINS

Fire Prevention Day Monday to Open Clean-Up Campaign.

All City Organizations Combine to Give Duluth Scrubbing.

Monday—Fire prevention.
Tuesday—Front yard.
Wednesday—Back yard.
Thursday—Paint.
Friday—Flowers and seeds.
Saturday—Vacant lot and children's day.

If you are a citizen of Duluth this is your schedule for next week.

The clean-up and paint-up campaign will be on full swing Monday, May 10, and by Saturday Daniel Greysolon Du Lhut will have a clean face. His shoes will be shined. He will have a new suit.

Policemen, firemen, school children, all civic organizations, all churches, all lodges and all large business houses will help see that you observe the above schedue. It will be the greatest fight against the common enemy dirt, ever waged at the Head of the Lakes.

On Monday, which will be "fire prevention day," special attention should be paid to cleaning up cellars and attics, and raking lawns to minimize danger from fires of all kinds.

"The fire department is vitally interested in this campaign," said H. H. Beckwith of the Kelly-How-Thomson company, who is one of the members of the national clean-up association.

"Chief Randall, with the most efficient motorized equipment in the state, cannot show the taxpayers an economical administration without their complete co-operation.

"Very little effort is required to clean up basements and attics and free them from accumulations of waste paper and rubbish. It is these accumulations which often give fires a headway and make them hard to control. Fire insurance seldom recompenses for the loss sustained and a little foresight in destroying valueless inflammable materials may save thousands of dollars."

"THAT OLD SWEETHEART OF MINE."

KINDLY HOSTS.

Chicago News: "There is no such things as hospitality any more," said Broadun to his friend Squeezikins.

"Why, I remember when the table used to remain spread for a mile on occasions, and when all the guests couldn't be fed at once they would be fed in relays."

"Yes, that's true enough," answered Squeezikins. "Will you please move over a little? Yes, people used to be very hospitable, used to have lots of guests. But nobody ever asks me to dinner any more. I wish somebody would, once in a while."

"Nobody ever asks anybody to dinner these days. Nobody ever dreams of doing such a thing. Nobody wants guests. Guests can put a man out of business mighty suddenly.

"I know a man who lives in Centerville, midway between Subbubs and Gardenton. The inhabitants of Centerville suffer from their friends living in both the other towns. A favorite automobile road between Subbubs and Gardenton runs through Centerville, and autoists find it convenient to strike Centerville about mealtime.

"The consequence is that if the Centervillians hear an auto horn they jump as if they were shot. Every time a horn honks they pull down the window shades and crawl under the bed.

"Supposing it is Saturday night, hot as blazes, and the Centervillians aren't doing any cooking, but just eating up sundae meals uptown. Honk, honk! comes the joyous sound. Happy, care free honkers! Light hearted, irresponsible honkers! A whole big automobileful of them, up in front of the house, come to visit and eat. It's awful. People are not fixed for these things. They haven't the big, old fashioned tables that would seat forty guests. And they haven't got great big ranges upon which to cook for a regiment."

"If I lived in Centerville," said Squeezikins, "I'd simply take them to the cafeteria."

"That's precisely what this friend of mine does. A man honks up to my friend's house, very gay in his duster and festive goggles. The man and his children and his wife and his aunt all alight, and they are greeted by a smiling lady with the information that were you going out? inquire the guests. 'Just going to the cafeteria for dinner. Come along!' So the gay autoists step lightly to the cafeteria and tread the light fantastic march with grub for self and six on a slippery, evasive and ill balanced tray."

"That ought to cure a fellow of dropping in at meal times."

"Yes, but all these droppers-in have been told that if ever pass through town and fail to drop in they will be shot at sunrise."

"Then I'd get out of town myself every Saturday night and let someone else put me through the cafeteria glide."

INCORRIGIBLE.

John Kendrick Bangs in Lippincott's: The Poet of Cheer sat in his library, deep in thought, while his poor wife was wrestling after the fashion of Eve with the serpents of domestic cares.

"Really, Wadsworth," the good woman said as she entered the room timidly, "I hate to disturb you, but you must do something about the coal. There isn't a scuttleful left in the cel——"

"Ah, Marla, dear," said the poet, looking up from his work, "you are just in time. Listen to this, dear:

"Now, what care I for winter's woe,
And what care I if coal be low?
I find my warmth in yonder skies,
And soothe the chill of winter's guise
By gazing into Susan's eyes,
So lustrously aglow!"

"That's very pretty, Waddy dear," said the poor woman, "but just at present there are more pressing things than poetry that must be attended to. Cook has just left us because her wages were not paid prompt——"

"That reminds me," said the poet, smiling sweetly: "I have'nt read this little thing to you that I dashed off last night:

"What though my friends have passed me by,
And left me stranded here?
What though my hearth is cold, and I
A hopeless wreck appear?
'Mid all the dread of loneliness
And all the woes that round me press
There's rare felicity.
When Polly's smile
So free from guile,
Like sunshine shines on me.

"Rather nice, eh?"

"Yes," said Mrs. Jinx; "but really, Wad, dear, I can't smile on you with the cooking to do, and the children to wash and dress——"

"Ah, the children!" cried the poet, ecstatically. "There you hit the supremest joys of life. O ye kiddies, chickabiddies, full of joyous play! Though skies be dark, and care and cark shall linger on my way, no plaint of mine, no grievous whine, shall ever come from me whilst I can hear their laughter clear up in the nursery."

There was no answer. Mrs. Jinx had disappeared, and the poet resumed his work. When two hours had passed and the pangs of hunger had begun to make themselves felt, the poet rose from his desk and called:

"Maria!"

There was no answer, and the poet repeated the call:

"Oh, Maria! I'm ready for my lu-unch!"

Still there was no reply and the poet walked out into the kitchen. There, pinned to the icy range, was a sheet of paper on which were written, in his wife's handwriting, the following lines:

Now what care I for cark and care,
And unpaid bills 'round everywhere,
And life domestic with its snare,
Or woes that courage smothers?
When dark and dreary is the sky
I shall not weep, nor shall I sigh,
Because the kids, and also I,
Have gone back home to Mother's!

"Well, I'll be jiggered!" said the poet, as he read this effusion over. "For general irresponsibility of conduct, give me a woman!"

PENS ARE GROWING RUSTY

Letter Writing Is a Lost Art, Says the Commodore.

"The Commodore" in the Kansas City Star: I have a trunk in storage here. I hardly ever open it, and the charges that I have had to pay on it since its incarceration would provide me with a motor car. Also, it's an infernal nuisance to the warehouse people, because it has a round top and you can't stack things on top of it. The round top gives a hint of its antiquity—you don't see 'em nowadays.

The trunk is full of mementos, the pathetic residue remaining after countless eliminations, crystallized memories of half a century, odds and ends, dust clothed and tarnished, each with its whisper of sojourns with a ditty box at ports which range from Salem to Sumatra.

Retrospection drove me to the old trunk yesterday. I sat on an overturned tin bathtub and snapped the rotten string which bound a packet of yellowing letters. The slight movement jarred the air in the silent room and made a spear of sunlight from the corner of the window sparkle with swirling dust motes.

The letters were all in the same hand —that of a classmate, dead many years ago—and all were headed "Marblehead, June, 1870," and addressed to me in Boston. We were both—well, rather youthful at the time. I sat for nearly an hour straining my eyes over the fine sloping lines, completely absorbed —old letters cast a spell like that—you may have noticed it. The sunbeam, which was my candle, thinned to a thread—and I put the letters in my pocket and went home.

Later I arranged them in chronological order and read them through from beginning to end. You see mighty few letters like those in days of telephones and 20-word telegrams. It's a great pity, too. They were written for the joy of writing and not to carry "news" as we understand the word today. There was much deftly worded philosophy of a verdant and dreamy sort; striking pen pictures of homely scenes and acts; flashes of quaint humor; affectionate raillery—the whole engraving the personality of the writer far more clearly and faithfully than the best of present day photographs can show the outer man. Once, in reply to a letter of mine in which I had evidently thanked him for the pleasure his thoughts gave me, and had complimented him on the facility of his pen, he quoted, rather extravagantly, "this man Lowell," whom he had met and greatly admired:

"It may be glorious to write
Thoughts that shall glad the two or three High souls like those far stars that come in sight
Once in a century."

So these musty old letters have set me thinking of the charming art of which they are graceful examples, and of the whys and wherefores of its decadence. For letter writing is now to many an enormous duty and to even more a thing almost unknown. Modern conveniences which make it possible to get things done with the minimum amount of trouble and the minimum expenditure of time have done their work in corroding a tool which was once, "beneath the rule of men entirely great," held mightier than the sword.

Time was when, desiring a friend to spend the day with you, dine with you, sup with you, ride with you, or walk with you, a letter bore your invitation. It may have been only a few lines, but the blank sheet before you lent occasion for the turning of a happy phrase, a delicate thought, a tender wish or compliment. Today you phone 'em—"yes" or "no," and the thing is over with, and little time wasted over choice of words. The result is that the faculty for self-expression is becoming flabby through lack of exercise, just as the art of conversation is suffering from the same complaint, brought on by a protracted spell of bridge fever.

Some trifler with odd facts has computed the number of words used by the average American in the daily exchange of polite conversation. I don't remember his exact figures, but they showed a very slack vocabulary—a vocabulary thumbed and smeared almost beyond recognition, its pages worn to a fragile film and its words warped through overwork away from their original meaning. True, several pages of slang have been added, but their contents, while handy, are anything but elegant. When it comes to the written word, a violent brainstorm will occasionally uproot some long buried treasure, but when not misapplied or misspelled the effort of obtaining it and the fear that it will be misconstrued place it among the undesirables.

You do not have to be a novelist to put your thoughts in writing; nor do you have to be a lover. A letter need not—in fact, it were better that it should not—"tell a story;" the bare parade of facts, the tracing and retracing of your steps from this town to that or from that party to this, dismissing the weary round with a conveniently indefinite and all-embracing adjective, such as "wonderful" or, worse, "grand"—such things are incidental to the true office of a letter; they serve merely as aids in case your whereabouts on a certain date be questioned; there are few thrills in statistics, you know. The things that weigh are your thoughts and your impressions related simply and naturally as they flash across the retina of your mind. "Look, then, into thine heart and write," said Longfellow.

There are few sadder confessions of modern times than the oft heard wail that you "have nothing to write about." There never was a time in the history of man when the granaries of thought were brought nearer the bursting point than they are today. I would not have you develop a tendency for aimless, brainless theorizing; the country is overchowded with specialists in the art of talking without saying anything. But don't make that shallowest of excuses, that you have nothing to say. Just realize that if you "wait until something happens"—the engagement of Molly and Fred, for instance, or the death of Grandmother Jones, or fire in the postoffice—your pen is likely to become as rusty and obsolete as the armor of the good knights.

ONE OF THE FAMILY.

San Francisco Star: The maid-of-all-work in the service of a provincial family, the members whereof are not on the most amicable terms, recently tendered her resignation, much to the distress of the lady of the house.

"So you are going to leave us?" asked the mistress, sadly. "What's the matter, Mary? Haven't we always treated you like one of the family?"

"Yis, mum," said Mary; "an' I've sthood it as long as I'm goin' to!"

KNEW ENOUGH TO KEEP DRY.

Pearson's Weekly: "It looks like rain!"

"I beg your pardon."

"I say it looks like rain."

"What does?"

"The weather."

"The weather, my dear sir, is a condition. Rain is water in the act of falling from the clouds. It is impossible that they should look alike."

"What I meant was that the sky looked like rain."

"Equally impossible. The sky is the blue vault above us—the seeming arch or dome that we call the heavens. It does not resemble falling water in the least."

"Well, then, if you are so thunderingly particular, it looks as if it would rain."

"As if what would rain?"

"The weather, of course."

"The weather, as before stated, being a condition, cannot rain."

"The clouds, then, confound you. I may not know as much about it as you do, but I've got enough sense to get in out of it, and you haven't," said the man, as he raised his umbrella and walked away in a huff.

THE COLONEL'S BOYS.

Lippincott's: An affable book agent approached a prominent Texan.

"Colonel," said he, "those are mighty fine boys of yours."

"The finest ever, stranger," acquiesced the colonel. "The finest in Texas."

"I reckon you buy them anything they want?"

"Why, sure, stranger; I buy them anything they need, whether they want it or not."

"Then, colonel, let me sell you a cyclopedia for them. There's nothing else that will benefit them so much."

The colonel looked at the agent in astonishment.

"Why, stranger," said he, "them boys of mine don't need no cyclopedia. They ride mules."

IN NO COMMON WAY.

Chicago News: Lady—Once, last summer, I saw some boys "treading for clams," as they called it. They were very dirty-looking boys; they were barefooted—feet unwashed, most likely—and they were walking through the mud at low tide. When they felt a clam at their feet, they pulled it out with their toes. It just made me sick. I hope your clams are not caught that way.

Waiter—Of course not, ma'am. The man who furnishes clams to this restaurant fishes for 'em with a silver spoon.

GERMANS DRIVEN OUT OF EXCHANGE

British Members in London Turn on Fellow Clerks of Teuton Origin.

London, May 8.—The feeling of resentment toward Germany over the torpedoing of the Lusitania was so strong on the stock exchange this morning that the British members united and turned all their fellow members of German origin and also all German clerks bodily out of the house.

The British members have arranged to have petitions put up in every market on Monday asking the committee to exclude all such members from the house and this in spite of the fact that the members of German origin all have naturalization papers.

ADMIRAL TIRPITZ IS CONGRATULATED

Sinking of Lusitania Answer to Destruction of German Squadron.

London, May 8.—The Exchange Telegraph company has received a dispatch from Berlin by way of Amsterdam which reads:

"Hundreds of telegrams of congratulation are being sent to Admiral Von Tirpitz, the German minister of marine on the sinking of the Lusitania, which is considered by the Germans to be an answer to the destruction off the Falkland islands of the German squadron under the command of Admiral Von Spee.

"The news of the loss of the Lusitania only became generally known to the public this morning. It was received with mixed expressions of amazement and enthusiasm. The newspapers praise the pluck and daring of the submarine crew."

STEVENS MAY BE HUMANE AGENT

A successor to R. D. McKercher as agent for the Duluth Humane society will be elected at the next meeting of the directors of the organization which will be held in the near future. Mr. McKercher will sever his connections with the humane society to take up the duties of chief of police to succeed C. H. Troyer.

Friends of Capt. D. E. Stevens, former deputy sheriff, are urging him to place himself in the field as a candidate to fill the position left vacant in the office of humane agent. It is probable that he may do so.

MAHONEY MAY HEAD BOAT CLUB

Indications are that Daniel Mahoney will be elected president of the Duluth Boat club at the annual election Tuesday evening.

Ray Higgins, president, will resign at the annual meeting, and friends of Mr. Mahoney are working hard in his behalf.

Mr. Mahoney has been club captain for several years and at one time was a member of the Duluth crew. He is one of the most popular members of the club, and if he will accept the office, is expected to make a very efficient president.

WORTH THE PRICE.

Youth's Companion: The following story, which an officer who is a member of the G. A. R. tells, appears in a Western paper:

"In a Phoenix hotel one night," he said, "a number of veterans got into a dispute about the battle of Bull Run. The veterans—all men of high rank—argued at length, but a quiet man spoke up and said:

"'Gentlemen, I happened to be there, and I think I can settle the point at issue.'

"And settle it he did. He settled it in a masterly manner. The hotel proprietor, much impressed, said to him when he got through:

"'My dear sir, what was your rank in the army?'

"'I was a private, sir; a full private,' was the calm reply.

"A short time afterward the private asked for his bill, since he was about to leave, but the proprietor said to him:

"'Not a cent, sir! Not a cent! You owe me nothing!'

"'Why, how is that?' the other demanded, in bewilderment.

"'I couldn't dream of charging you, sir,' said the proprietor, warmly. 'You are the first private I have ever met.'"

ANOTHER LIST OF SAVED EXPECTED

Cunard Offices in New York Besieged With Inquiries Concerning Lost Ones.

New York, May 8.—When the Cunard line offices opened early today, the first bulletin issued—the text of the announcement that 658 survivors had been landed—strengthened the belief that the loss of life would be great, especially among the first-cabin passengers.

This bulletin was quickly followed by a list of survivors' names, received from Liverpool. The first list contained the names of fifty-two first-cabin passengers. Among them were: D. A. Thomas of London, millionaire coal operator, his daughter, Lady Mackworth; Julien De Ayala, Cuban consul general at Liverpool, and Lady Allan of Montreal.

Telegrams in Torrents.

Although inquirers who came early to the office were few in number, telegrams by the hundred poured in over night and continued to arrive in swelling torrents during the forenoon. The telephone lines of the company were choked with calls. A large detachment of clerks was detailed to answer inquiries.

The first list of survivors, it was thought, would be followed by others during the day.

Among the early callers was Harry Niemark, a Belgian, who came to America with his father, Abraham Niemark, three months ago, leaving his mother and sisters in London. The older Niemark sailed on the Lusitania taking with him the entire fortune of the family which he had converted into diamonds in order that they might be realized on readily. His name was not in the first list of survivors.

TWENTY-NINTH SHIP SUNK SINCE MAY 1

Torpedoing of Lusitania Climax of Under Sea Warfare.

New York, May 8.—The Lusitania is the twenty-ninth vessel to be sunk or damaged in the first week of May in the German war zone about the British isle.

Most of these vessels were torpedoed by German submarines, although in some cases it has not been established whether the damage has been inflicted by mines or underwater boats.

During the last fortnight German submarines have carried on the most active campaign of any time since the war began.

Sixteen of the twenty-nine vessels were British trawlers. There were four British and one French merchantmen in the list. The others were vessels of neutral nations.

One of them was the American steamer Gulflight, which was torpedoed off Scilly islands May 1, with the loss of three lives. There were three Norwegian, two Swedish and one Danish merchant vessels in this number.

German War Zone.

Establishment of the German zone was decreed on Feb. 4 to take effect Feb. 18. The German government's decree defined the war zone as including "all the waters surrounding Great Britain and Ireland including the entire English channel," although stating specifically that shipping north of the Shetland islands in the eastern area of the North sea and in a strip thirty miles wide along the Netherlands coast would not be imperiled. The Lusitania, therefore was in the war zone when sunk.

In the war zone decree, the German government announced its intentions to "endeavor to destroy every enemy merchant ship found in this area of war," stating that this action had been made necessary by the conduct of Great Britain in carrying on "a mercantile warfare against Germany in a way that defied all the principles of international law."

New Submarines.

The German admiralty is reported to have sent newly constructed submarines of large size and high speed for the present campaign. Few details are available as to the specifications of these vessels. It is said they are able to carry supplies for three months, enabling them to remain out for that length of time without putting into a port or having recourse to a parent ship.

The U-28, one of the powerful German submarines, which sank the British steamer Falaba off St. George's channel, March 28, with the loss of lives, was equipped with four torpedo tubes, two 14-pound disappearing guns and two 1 pounders. The Lusitania, with her speed of 25 knots was probably several knots faster than the submarine which sunk her.

In the Churches

TOMORROW will be "Mother's Day," and every church in the city will devote at least one service to its observance. Some of the young people's societies will also have special services for the same purpose.

"Mother's day" is made much of by the churches in both a sentimental and religious way, for it is recognized that in the majority of instances the foundation of religious teaching and guidance of most men and women has its origin at the mother's knee; and, besides that, it is generally accepted, that so long as the most hardened sinner's heart can be touched by the memory of the mother who bore him, he has not become so flinty that the teachings of the Savior cannot be made to appeal to him.

There is so much in common between the love of the Master and the love of mothers that the church recognizes the logic of commingling them. As Christ was the holiest man,

"A mother is a mother still,
The holiest thing alive."

"OLD MAN" OF DULUTH POLICE FORCE KNOWN AS "SQUARE COP" AND ONE WHO "GOES THROUGH"

Some Interesting Cases That Have Developed in the Career of Chauncey H. Troyer Who Is Ending Twenty-Four Years of Service on the Force.

Known throughout the United States as a "square cop," who "goes through" to the finish, the "old man" of Duluth's police force is ending twenty-four years of service for the citizens of this city this week.

In making his reputation, Chauncey H. Troyer has come in contact with many of the best-known crooks in the country and his experiences read like a page from a dime novel or a chapter from the adventures of Conan Doyle's celebrated hero.

"One thing I'm mighty proud of," said Chief Troyer yesterday, "is that there never has been a successful suit for false arrest brought against an officer since I was appointed chief twelve years ago.

"It's a common thing to have a crook attempt to bluff his way out of it and some of them have almost succeeded in doing it. There was the case of our friend Mansfield—Charles H. Mansfield—whom we call the 'whites-of-eggs man,'" and the chief smiled.

"Mansfield came to Duluth in 1907 and advertised for a business partner who had $500 to invest. He established an office in the Columbia building and sent out scores of letters on expensive stationery.

"Finally a citizen named Malberg put up $500 and learned the secret of Mansfield's success; he had a patent process for manufacturing albumen. The albumen would command a high price as a substitute for eggs.

Established Factory.

"They established a factory at Fourth avenue east and Superior street and Malberg went to the office of the city water and light company to buy a gas stove. When he told the clerk what he wanted to do with the stove the man said: 'That's funny. A fellow named Robertson was in here a short while ago getting the same kind of a stove. His firm's name was Robertson and Mansfield.'

"Malberg went to Robertson's place of business and compared notes. They then went to the banks and found that Mansfield had withdrawn the money on the accounts of both firms.

"When arrested in Superior Mansfield laughed and said there was some mistake. He consented to come back to Duluth, at my request. When Malberg and Robertson heard Mansfield's explanation, they asked me to let him go, and even offered to go bonds for him.

"As soon as he discovered that he really was in jail, Mansfield was furious, and telephoned the Superior hotel repeatedly, demanding that they 'page his father' who was staying there.

"'You'll pay for this,' he said.

"At the trial he produced letters said to have been written in London, and told a long story of how he learned the process for manufacturing albumen from an old German.

"We were worried for a time, but finally discovered that the typewriter used in his Duluth office had written the London letters, on the ornamental English stationery, and the Berlin letters.

"I also found a man in St. Paul who had gone to school with Mansfield, and our Beau Brummel collapsed. Six months after his arrest he was sent to Stillwater for five years.

Clairvoyant Case.

"Another interesting case," declared the chief, "was the story of Mrs. Ross Palmer, who was robbed of $2,500 by fake clairvoyants.

"Several years ago two doctors opened an office in the Columbus block, First avenue west and Superior street, and advertised themselves as clairvoyants.

"Mrs. Palmer went to them for some advice, and they told her that she could be enlightened only in case she took $2,500 in bills, sewed them in a chamois bag, and carried the money on a chain around her neck for twenty-two hours.

"She was a wealthy woman, and complied with their request. She became suspicious soon afterwards, and opened the bag, to find a $1 bill wrapped around part of a copy of The Herald.

"Four hours later Dr. James May and his partner, Dr. Jamieson, boarded a southbound train at South Superior. One of the pair was arrested by Detective Irvine and the other one sat down beside me. When we brought them back the victim declared that she would rather have lost the money than to have had so much notoriety, and refused to make a complaint. Both men had to be released."

Persistent Search.

As an evidence of Chief Troyer's efficiency, his associates tell a story of a search for a burglar that covered six or eight states and lasted about two months before the man was landed in Stillwater.

On the night of Sept. 13, 1912, while the street car strike was in progress, Edwin L. Nicholson of International Falls broke into the Kelley Hardware company's store on Superior street near Lake avenue.

Lieut. Fritz, with Officer (now sergeant) Hunter, answered the alarm and caught Nicholson in the act. He ran through the building to the Superior street entrance, smashed the plate glass in the door with a hammer and jumped out. The officer grappled with him, but Nicholson struck him with the hammer, inflicting a bad scalp wound, and escaped, leaving Hunter on the sidewalk unconscious.

From letters in Nicholson's coat, which had been pulled off in the struggle, he was traced to International Falls. From there he went to Billings, Mont., and then Chief Troyer lost track for two or three weeks.

Through his wide acquaintance in the Northwest he finally learned that Nicholson had gone to a small town in Northern Montana, and later to Washington. After a few telegrams to chiefs of police in Washington, Nicholson was arrested on Oct. 26. On Nov. 8, 1912, he was committed to a Minnesota reformatory.

Duties After Arrest.

Chief Troyer believes that a police officer's duty does not end when he has made an arrest. He believes that the police should see that all the evidence in a case is secured for the county attorney, or the city attorney, and that the officer should do all in his power to advance the ends of justice.

A case emphasizing this characteristic came to police attention in 1910. A Russian family, unable to speak a word of English, came through Duluth en route to the Canadian Northwest. While in Berlin the father had changed his money, $500, into Canadian bills of smal denominations.

These were secure in a bag which he hung about his neck.

An Austrian wormed his way into the confidence of the Russian, through his conversational ability, and the two took a walk along West Michigan street, ostensibly going to the Austrian's room to get a trunk.

Near the Lake avenue viaduct they found a purse lying on the sidewalk, and the Austrian, picking it up, thrust it into the Russian's pocket, saying:

"Keep this. Nobody will know any better, and we may need it later on when we get to Canada."

A moment later a second Austrian ran up and demanded his purse and money. The Russian's companion permitted himself to be searched, and then helped the man who was alleged to have lost the money locate the Russian's wallet.

They tore it open, extracted the money, and separated, leaving the emigrant to find his way back to his wife and children.

An officer found him sobbing a few minutes later and the police search started.

With the plain clothes force watching the trains, Chief Troyer went to the union station in Superior and spotted two men who answered the description. He kept them both in sight and shortly afterwards proved them to be the men.

Witness Perjured Himself.

When the case came to trial the defense placed on the stand a Superior saloon keeper who swore that the men had not been in Duluth the day of the robbery. In the meantime, however, the chief had been busy, and after scouring the city for more evidence in the case, had found two clerks in a department store who had seen the men "split" the $500 a few minutes after the robbery. Through their evidence the prisoners were convicted and the Superior man was sent to prison for perjury.

Chief Troyer, who resigned to take the position of police chief at Fargo, N. D., was appointed to the local force by Mayor Davis in 1891. Five years later he became a detective under Mayor Henry Truelson, and in 1900 Mayor Hugo appointed him chief of detectives. In 1903 he became chief.

During his long term of service as chief here, Mr. Troyer has grown to be well known among police officers of the United States. He is one of the vice presidents of the national association of chiefs of police, and is considered by outside authorities as one of the best police officers in the country.

JITNEURS DRAW UP RULES FOR OPERATION OF CARS

In the event that the street railway abolishes "owl" cars and reduces its late night and early morning service, accommodations will be furnished by the jitneys. At least the Jitney Drivers' association went on record to this effect at a meeting held last evening at Kalamazoo hall.

The jitneurs will have a good sized delegation present at the council meeting Monday evening, when it is expected that the city commissioners will take some action on the jitney ordinance.

M. M. Smith, R. A. Marsh, G. Fred Wise, C. Rankin and W. F. Foust will represent the Jitney Drivers' association at the meeting and will speak for the jitney.

At the meeting last evening, a set of bylaws calling for enforcement of the law and prescribing rules for the members, was adopted by the jitneurs. They are as follows:

"All members shall familiarize themselves with the traffic ordinance and obey them.

"All drivers shall take on and discharge passengers only at the curb when possible.

"Members shall not pass or cut in ahead of each other to secure passengers.

"Members shall not allow passengers to ride on outside of their cars.

"Members having the seating capacity of their car filled will not take on more passengers unless all the passengers are of one party.

"Members will keep the top up in stormy weather, and do all possible to add comfort to their passengers.

Must Not Drink.

"Members will not use intoxicating liquors while at work and will avoid carrying intoxicated persons, if possible.

"Members will not smoke while carrying women passengers.

"Members will always carry on their car the emblem of the association, new cards to be obtained each month from the secretary.

"Members will not avoid working on stormy days and thereby decrease the efficiency of the service.

"Members will not run their car, knowing it to be out of repair and unsafe.

"Members will always bear in mind the safety of their passengers and will take no unnecessary chances. They will be polite and courteous to all, and endeavor to improve the efficiency of the service.

"The president will see that these bylaws are published in the Duluth Herald and the News Tribune, requesting the public to report to him the member of any car that carries our emblem and violates any of the rules.

Co-operation between the University of Minnesota and the state institution for defectives, delinquents and dependents is planned to afford an advanced course for the students in sociology at the university, which will include lectures by the heads of the institutions and laboratory work for the students through visits to the institutions. The suggestion for such co-operation was made this week at a meeting of the state board of control at Owatonna by Prof. A. E. Jenks, professor of sociology and anthropology at the university. The board of control sanctioned the proposed co-operation and the superintendents of the institutions voted in favor of it.

NORTH DAKOTAN IS MASTERPIECE OWNER

Lisbon Physician Believed to Possess Painting By Teniers.

Lisbon, N. D., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—A painting by David Teniers, three centuries old and supposed to be the famous missing "The Smugglers," is owned by Dr. N. O. Hellier, the Presbyterian pastor here. David Teniers was a celebrated Flemish painter of the seventeenth century, his most famous works being "The Smoker," "The Card Players," and The Smugglers." The other two are known and located but "The Smugglers" was missed years ago.

Dr. Hellier was a student in Scotland twenty years ago and was given a tip that the famous painting was in a farm house in Scotland. He investigated and became convinced of its authenticity and purchased the painting. Since he brought it to this country the doctor has kept the painting in a vault the greater part of the time for safety.

Pronounced a Teniers.

Some years ago he took it to Chicago where it was inspected by Arthur Dawson, a Teniers expert, who pronounced it genuine.

Dr. Helliers will have the painting cleaned and restored within a few months and exhibit it in some of the art galleries for a brief period. He refuses to consider an offer for it. The painting is about eight by twelve inches and bears evidence of its great antiquity.

FOUL PLAY FEARED BY RELATIVES

G. A. Lang of Saxon, Wis., Disappears After Visit to Allouez.

Foul play is feared by relatives of George A. Lang of Saxon, Wis., who disappeared April 15 after a visit in Allouez, Wis., and who has not been heard from since.

Early in April Mr. Lang, who is well known in Northern Wisconsin and Minnesota, came through Duluth en route to Cloquet, and later he returned to this city after his business in Cloquet was completed.

From Duluth Mr. Lang went to Allouez to visit a sister, Mrs. N. P. Archambeault. After a short visit at the Archambeault residence he left, planning to continue on his way home. That was the last time that he was seen. Police of Allouez, Superior, Duluth and other towns in the Upper Great Lakes region have been asked to help in the search.

PROSPERITY CAN'T BE DODGED MUCH LONGER

"Prosperity is getting such a strong grip on this country that we can't dodge it."

This is how H. B. Rosenberg, traveling representative for a large overall factory in Cincinnati, describes the present business conditions of this country. Mr. Rosenberg arrived in Duluth yesterday on his semi-annual trip through this section and is very optimistic, after a tour through the West and along the Pacific coast. He is registered at the Holland for several days.

RAW FOODS

By DR. SAMUEL G. DIXON, Commissioner of Health for Pennsylvania.

This is the season when the amateur gardener's eyes are delighted by the rows of summer vegetables that are poking their green leaves above the warm earth. The season for raw foods has already arrived.

Lettuce, water-cress, radishes, parsley, cucumbers, leeks, berries and many other toothsome growing things burden the market stalls and tempt the housewife after the winter menu of canned vegetables.

A certain percentage of raw foods is an excellent stimulant to the appetite and a wholesome change at this season of the year. Care should be exercised, however, that they are properly cleaned before being eaten. Often the laborers in the truck garden and those who handle the truck before reaching the consumer are careless in the use of dangerous fertilizers and some pick and prepare the vegetables for market who are also careless to a degree that is almost criminal.

All vegetables to be eaten raw and berries, even at the risk of slightly injuring their flavor, should be thoroughly washed before being eaten.

Gardens should be fertilized with care. No night soil should be used on truck gardens from which the produce may be served uncooked. Watercress must not be grown in polluted streams. Watercress from polluted streams often produced epidemics of typoid fever. Bananas should be thoroughly washed as soon as they come into the hands of the consumer, so that the dirt taken on during transportation will not be conveyed to other edibles.

WAR'S CROWNING HORROR.

On the afternoon of May 7, 1915, the British passenger steamer Lusitania, carrying 1,253 passengers and a crew of 907, was on the last leg of its voyage from New York to Liverpool when it was struck by two torpedoes fired by a German submarine. It sank in less than half an hour, and at this writing the indications are that not many less than 1,500 souls lost their lives. Many of these were Americans. Many were women and children. All of them were non-combatants.

It is going to be exceedingly difficult to discuss this affair with coolness and patience. All the more reason, therefore, why every possible effort should be made to treat it with coolness and patience.

It is quite possible that this is the gravest situation in which the United States has been placed in all its history. It is no time, as Former Attorney General James M. Beck said last night in paraphrasing a remark of President Wilson's, to be "rocking the boat." Hasty criticism, arising from emotion rather than from thought, is rocking the boat.

Every American will remember that at this juncture the nation's honor and security are in the hands of Woodrow Wilson, president of these United States. It is for him, upon whom the responsibility rests, to judge and to speak. It is for the rest of us to support him in whatever course he may choose to take, and in the meantime to possess our souls in what patience we can muster. The present and future of America are in safe hands—in hands guided by a wise, cool and patriotic mind.

Though the incident is almost if not quite unprecedented in civilized war records, even here there are two sides.

On the one side is the fact that the Lusitania flew the British flag, and that Germany and Britain are at war; that the Lusitania carried ammunition and other contraband of war, as well as precious human lives; that she was in waters that have been declared and demonstrated to be war territory, and that are known to be infested with submarines and mines; that the Germans had given warning of what was to come, and had taken unusual precautions to restrain Americans from sailing on the Lusitania. On the morning of the day the steamer sailed from New York warnings were published in New York and other cities, notifying Americans of the danger of embarking in vessels carrying the British flag. Many passengers aboard the boat received anonymous communications just before the boat sailed, telling them what would happen.

This is the German side.

On the other side—the side of civilization and humanity—are these facts: That the Lusitania was not a warship; that the sinking of passenger vessels carrying neutral citizens is a departure in civilized warfare; that the Lusitania was sailing the open highway of the sea, where noncombatants should be safe; that she carried nearly 200 Americans, and many other neutrals; that she carried many women and children; that the vessel was given utterly no warning; that utterly no attempt appears to have been made by the assailing craft to save the lives of doomed noncombatants.

Even if it should prove that the time for forbearance has passed, the time for patience and cool counsel never should pass. This is a time above all times for patience and coolness. Whatever steps are taken should be taken in cold, calm judgment, not in passion.

The country is blessed today with a president who will not act in passion, but who will act in cool and calm judgment. The interests of the national honor are safe in his hands. The people should not rock the boat by angrily demanding hasty action of any kind, or by stinting in any degree whatever the confidence and trust they place in him at this juncture.

Now comes the claim that Adam and Eve moved out of the garden on May 1. Then it must have been a most mighty green apple.

THE FUN OF CLEANING UP.

Now that everybody—presumably—has determined to get in line for Clean-up Week and to turn in and do a little wholesome, healthful work toward bringing Duluth into the new season spick and span and sightly, there is one other point to be remembered:

The work that is to be done isn't drudgery. It isn't work at all—it's fun.

It's fun that the whole family can share in, and the very act of sharing in it will double the fun.

Clean-up Week isn't a sentence to hard labor. It's a community festival. Make it a family festival, too.

If you haven't tried the experiment of a little active work in the open lately, try it out on the home grounds now. Shuck your down-town suit, get into the oldest you've got, take your rake and wheel-barrow and spade and a can of grass seed, and get busy.

Get the children busy, too. Give each a section of the back yard to do, and see which can finish first.

Only don't turn it all over to the children. Save some for yourself. And don't try to do it all in one day, either. An hour in the morning will give you an enormous appetite for breakfast. An hour before supper will make your supper taste like a ten-dollar-plate banquet ought to taste—but doesn't. An hour before bedtime will make your sleep sound and refreshing.

If you have in you any normal taste for the open, where man was made to live and work, Clean-up Week will revive it, and it will be a funny thing if, the necessary work of tidying up done, you don't plan flower and vegetable beds and lay out for yourself a course of back yard farming that will keep the fun of Clean-up Week going through the summer.

Blessed is the flat dweller who can tell the number of his home without hesitating.

NON-PARTISANSHIP AND THE LEGISLATURE.

Comment in the state press on the late unlamented legislature continues to be severe.

This will be a good thing if it spurs the people into taking more care hereafter in their selection of lawmakers.

But much of this comment—most of it, indeed—is predicated on the wholly mistaken notion that the failure of the 1915 legislature is due to the fact that it was selected on a non-partisan basis.

Now that idea is absurd. Moreover, to harp on it will be mischievous, because it will tend to deprive the present wholesome criticism of its chief value—which lies in the possibility that it will teach the people to be more heedful henceforth in voting for legislative candidates.

If the fault lies with a law, instead of with the people, why blame the people? And if the people are not convicted of guilt, what is the use in urging them to be more careful?

Now no law is responsible for the low state of efficiency into which the Minnesota legislature has fallen. Nothing is responsible for this except the people who elected the members of the legislature. The repeal of the non-partisan law would not bring about the election of a higher grade of lawmakers. Neither would the passage or repeal of any other kind of law. The people will get the kind of legislature they select themselves. They selected a poor kind; they should try to select a better next time.

In passing upon the charge that the non-partisan law is responsible for the shortcomings of the present legislature it should be remembered that the sins for which the legislature is being condemned were very largely, almost entirely indeed, the sins of the house.

The senate, which was also selected on a non-partisan basis, is a good senate—the best the state has had in years, and as good as it ever had. If the non-partisan law is to be given blame for an inferior house of representatives, it should be given credit for a superior senate.

The fact is that partisanship seldom has cut much figure in the Minnesota legislature. It couldn't, because the party division was always too uneven. Party consideration can cut little figure when ninety per cent of a legislative body belongs to one party, and only ten per cent to the other party.

The instinct that gives rise to the charge that the sins of the legislature should be visited upon the nonpartisan law is the same old instinct which always leads humanity to blame anything but itself for its mistakes. The blame for the 1915 house of representatives belongs to the people who picked and elected that house—and that means, under the primary election system, the people of Minnesota.

Occasionally a word strikes you as being the result of inspiration. F'rinstance, "jitneur."

CHIEF OF POLICE M'KERCHER.

Commissioner of Public Safety Bernard Silberstein has appointed Robert D. McKercher to be chief of police to succeed Chief Chauncey H. Troyer, who is about to retire from the place he has so ably filled for many years.

It looks to us like a lucky shot. Mr. McKercher, who has been agent for the Duluth Humane society for a number of years—and a good one—comes highly recommended. They say he has courage, backbone, rugged honesty, good temper—and a heart that beats in sympathy with the woes of humankind. That sounds like a fine combination of qualities for chief of police.

The Herald congratulates Commissioner Silberstein on the apparent wisdom of his choice, and hopes sincerely that it will turn out the way it promises. That would be good for Mr. Silberstein, good for Mr. McKercher and good for Duluth.

Also, The Herald bespeaks for the new chief of police the sympathy and support of the public. It isn't an easy job. It's the hardest kind of a job in the world for the man who tries to please everybody. He always fails.

It helps a chief of police a great deal to have public support when he is trying to do the right thing. We feel confident that that's the very kind of thing Mr. McKercher will try to do, and we hope he will have the fullest possible public support.

The Chicago News suggests that "while the Pullman company is raising salaries and things, it might also raise the upper berth." But please, dear sir, spell it "raze."

NIGHT STEPS.

If you live in the thicker settled portions of the city and have that reprehensible habit of lying awake at night, do you ever wonder about the people who walk past the house?

There's nothing necessarily profitable in such an occupation, but there's a lot of chance for interesting mental exercise, and sometimes you get so immersed in the thoughts conjured up that you drop off to sleep without realizing it. And if the practice brings any such development it might be said to have an almost definite value.

It's surprising, sometimes, to note the difference in footsteps. They may be fast or slow, heavy or light, regular or irregular, and you will be able to guess out a different interpretation of each of these kinds. But there will be other differences, too, and it will be those that determine your guess as to each passerby.

There may be a sound that is unmistakably made by two pairs of feet. Is it two men, or a man and woman, or two women? You get only a murmur from the voices, and you begin to wonder about the speakers. Something makes you think it must be two women, but a sudden depth of tone changes that idea, and you fancy that it is some couple out for a late stroll, or maybe just on the way to her home, and delaying the end of the evening as much as possible. Or are they married? Or is it possible that they are just a brother and sister having a quiet, confidential chat? You listen for sounds that may help solve the puzzle—and maybe they come and maybe they don't. Anyway you have had something to interest you for a few minutes.

Individuals offer even more scope for guessing than do the couples. If there is a group, especially of young people, it is likely that some words will be spoken loudly enough for you to get a clew to the nature of the party. But with the individual it is different. A cane may indicate any number of things—or isn't it a cane that makes that tapping? It may be a crutch, you know.

Quick steps, too, are most elusive. Is it somebody on the way to a car, or with a fairly long way to go and in a hurry to reach there, but determined not to ride? Or is it somebody going for help of one sort or another? If you hear him break into a run, the possibilities are multiplied by that fact.

Slow steps, too, may mean any one of many things—weariness, meditation, discouragement, quiet enjoyment or even illness. Or perhaps the walker is just lagging so somebody else may catch up with him—or with her. A signal whistled about this time, with a sound of rapid steps a few minutes afterward, would seem to indicate a delayed appointment.

There are many and many combinations that occur, and to the one who is lying awake any of them may contain the data for a whole imaginary novel. It is no pleasure to be unable to sleep. But when one is obliged to forego the sleeping privilege, it will often prove an almost fascinating diversion to wonder about those steps that pass in the night.

But if all the crooks are driven out, how will it be Chicago?

A TIMELY REMINDER.

In one way the Barnes-Roosevelt libel suit is timely and valuable, besides being interesting.

The disclosures it has been making are not of things that are new or that were unknown. But they are things of the highest importance, and just at this time this new revelation of them serves to refresh the public mind on the character of the Old Guard rule of the Republican party and the nation.

Manifestly the Republican party is returning—or being abandoned—to Old Guard control.

Moreover, there is a dawning and a growing hope in Old Guard circles that in 1916 the nation will return itself to Republican control under Old Guard auspices.

The publicity given these reminders in the Barnes-Roosevelt libel suit evidence will mean that if the nation does return itself to government by the Old Guard for Special Privilege, it will do so with its eyes open.

Dr. Sun Yat Sen evidently feels that he was robbed of the nomination.

FACT AND FANCY MEET.

One of those odd meetings of fact and fancy is recorded with the story of the recent death of Adele Hugo, youngest daughter of the famous Victor Hugo. Living in retirement so complete as to make even her existence hardly remembered, she died at the age of eighty-five with a strange secret as closely guarded as it had been throughout her earlier life.

One wonders what possible connection there could have been—if in fact any were possible—between the remarkable conceptions of her father's mind and her own experience. He gave to the world stories and incidents that are as thrilling today as they were on the day they were penned; and it is reasonable to believe that could his daughter have been induced to give up the secret she guarded throughout life, she could in her turn have thrilled men and women with her story.

When she was a girl, Adele Hugo was kidnaped while at Guernsey, and it was said an English officer was guilty of the act. At any rate her parents sought her in England and then on the continent of Europe, without success. It was not until several months later that an apparently demented girl was found wandering in the streets of New York and saying to all who questioned her, "I am the daughter of Victor Hugo."

Identification of the girl was made by her father upon her being returned to France, but she never seemed to recover her reason. Alone after the death of her father, she spent nearly all her time in her villa, and seldom broke a silence that seemed almost sullen. Only one idea—that of her parentage—seemed really to affect her actions, and occasionally she would venture into public and seek the seclusion of a darkened box at some theater when one of her father's productions was being acted.

She seemed to have no friends, and never told the story of those missing months. In her life the world of fact met the world of fancy created by her father; but who can tell to which of the two belongs the more tragic theme?

As an interesting study in human nature, compare your own feelings on first hearing the news of the Lusitania, with how you took the first report on the Titanic disaster.

WHERE INVENTION FAILS.

Somebody, writing in the Louisville Courier-Journal, recently complained of the people—"the sort of people"—who persist in talking during a theatrical or other entertainment. It was a plain, simple, straightforward denunciation, but it evidently came from the heart.

We know exactly what the man who wrote it had been through. He had been to a theater and had got interested in the play, and just at a point where the repentant crook told the leading lady, in a stage whisper, the secret that would let the hero in on the whole deal—just at that point some pestiferous human idiot sitting just behind or in front of the Courier-Journal man turned and said something to his companion; and said it loudly enough to drown out the words of the repentant crook.

Or else this C.-J. man had been at an opera or a musical entertainment of some sort and had sat near some mushy-mouthed yap-yappist who kept up a continual buzz of conversation all through the performance, varying it by humming or singing the airs that were being produced on the stage.

Or else he had been to an entertainment where one of his own kids took part, and all the while his own particular progeny had been performing (with truly remarkable genius), some other proud parent had been dilating to or near him on the versatility of certain of the other youngsters present.

What can you do with people like that? Invention fails when you try to conjure up a fitting punishment. An eternity of interruption of what they would like to hear would accomplish nothing, for after all it would be an eternity, with the ever-present chance that the same thing might be repeated after awhile. Whipping would do no good, for then they'd be so uncomfortable they couldn't sit still, and would add wriggling around to their other sins of the theater. Shooting is too quick, hanging too good, and electrocution or asphyxiation too merciful for such imbeciles.

However, let us live in hope that some day some man may live to be good enough and great enough to win from Fate the reward of being able to find some suitable way of punishing this particular kind of action. The monument mankind will erect to the memory of such a one will surpass anything the world has ever seen up to date. And it won't be any too splendid, at that.

Why doesn't THE Colonel hurry and tell us what to do regarding this Japanese-Chinese matter? Maybe because he knows it's easier to wait till it's all over and then criticize.

Mother

From the Youth's Companion: Mother was a little woman and never very strong. She had many severe illnesses and was often at death's door, but she recovered and lived on. She had sorrows, but she survived them. She saw her friends depart, and she mourned for them; but she dried her tears, sought out some comforting word in the Book, took up her duty and continued to live.

Mother became a grandmother, and then a great-grandmother; she even lived to be a great-great-grandmother. She died at the age of 96, and she had seen the blessing of God on her children's children and on their children.

She spent her years as mothers do, caring for her home and loving her children, and teaching them to pray, and day and night lifting up her own prayer to God to help her to be a good mother.

In her old age she lived in the home of her son-in-law. He was in business, but his joy in life was the cultivation of flowers. She sat in the window and watched the flowers he planted; and she saw the world go by her window, she smiled serenely as it passed. Her son came out from the city to see her every week. He was employed by a great railway, and he rose step by step to be its president.

Mother did not know how to run a railway, but she had a few simple maxims that directed her own life and constantly guided the judgment of others who had more conspicuous places to fill. "Remember this, my son," she would say in her calm, even voice, "nothing really counts but character," and "Remember that duty never calls us to be in more than one place at one time."

At last she passed away, with a verse of Scripture on her lips. Hers was a quiet funeral. The minister read from her own Bible, and paid a simple tribute to her memory. It was dignified, old-fashioned and very beautiful. And although there was no publicity, the house overflowed with friends who came to pay their tribute to the memory of mother.

Mother was little and frail; at her death she weighed only eighty pounds; but two special trains were needed to carry her and those who loved her to the cemetery, and the traffic of a great railway system kept out of their way.

In his private car the railway president sat with the minister, and said: "I have tried to carry into my business the ideals I learned of my mother. I hope I have not failed to do so."

Do Bats Eat Mosquitoes?

Commerce and Finance: Dr. Charles A. R. Campbell of San Antonio, Tex., has been experimenting fourteen years to discover if a theory he holds, that the bat is the natural enemy of the mosquito, is sound. All his investigations thus far support the theory and he has impressed the city officials of San Antonio so deeply that they have established a mammoth bat roost in the outskirts of the city and the bat is protected by law.

The mosquito unquestionably is the carrier of malaria, just as he is of yellow fever. Ordinarily the bat is not considered a desirable member of the ornithological family, and women particularly are fearful of the "winged rat," but every living thing has its enemy, and if the bat is the enemy of the mosquito it can do great service to mankind.

Of all the pests man knows the mosquito is one of the worst. William C. Whitney once offered a prize of $100,000 to the scientist who would discover a method of exterminating the mosquito, and he had a group of learned men at his country place near Sheepshead Bay one summer studying the problem, but nothing came of it. The result of the establishment of the bat colony at San Antonio will be awaited with interest, for success means not only freedom from the bites of the mosquitoes, but lessened danger from the many forms of malarial disease.

The Violet.

Down in a green and shady bed
A modest violet grew;
Its stalk was bent, it hung its head,
As if to hide from view.

And yet it was a lovely flower,
Its colors bright and fair;
It might have graced a rosy bower,
Instead of hiding there.

Yet there it was content to bloom,
In modest tints arrayed;
And there it spreads its sweet perfume,
Within the silent shade.

Then let me to the valley go,
This pretty flower to see;
That I may also learn to grow
In sweet humility.

Seeing America First

By Fred C. Kelly.

From Diary:

The one bitter disappointment of my stay in San Francisco was finding that I was too early for the flea season. All my life I had heard of San Francisco as being the greatest flea town on the continent. It is no disgrace to have fleas in the great city on the Golden Gate; it is scarcely even bad form. There are so many fleas there in season—so I was assured—that there are not enough dogs to take them up. Consequently, bejeweled dowagers and sad-eyed canine pets sit down side by side to search for fleas. If I had only postponed my visit for a few weeks I might have seen men and women in every walk of life on personally conducted flea hunts. Imagine being at a fashionable dinner surrounded by smartly-gowned society women and seeing first one and then another gayly searching for the elusive flea.

Many a tourist meets with disappointment in California when he learns that the famous big trees do not grow at random in people's front yards and along the highways. Perhaps it is just as well that the really big trees are not used for shade on town lots. If one had a sixty-foot lot containing a clup of trees each thirty or thirty-feet in diameter there might be much difficulty in deciding just where to put one's house.

The California big trees must be searched for just as you would search for any variety of big game. Most of them are in comparatively inaccessible places. The biggest ones are thirty miles off the railroad and until late spring in ten feet of anow. Traveling thirty miles through ten feet of snow would gradually become a bit monotonous.

Another group of trees are reached by a branch off a railroad running between Los Angeles and San Francisco. When you get there you find them all in one little park of a few acres that are privately owned. You pay admission just as you would to a museum.

After a tree gets beyond fifteen feet in diameter it fools you. That is, you do not realize at first how big it is. It rises out of the earth so gradually that you think it is not much bigger than trees you have seen back East. Then you notice that a horse standing beside it covers only a wee fraction of the tree's diameter. You look up and note that the tree is as high as a big city office building. Somebody tells you its age. At the time Christ was on earth it was, perhaps, even then 1,000 years old. Then it occurs to you that since you first came up to the big trees you have not wished to talk. You have stood and stared in silent veneration.

Only once in San Francisco did I hear a native make reference to the fact that there ever had been or ever could be an earthquake. Men point with pride to new buildings that have replaced those destroyed by "the fire." If you ask: "Wasn't there an earthquake, too, at the time of the fire?" they go right on talking about the fire and ignore your question.

The sole person I heard make reference to earthquakes was Mrs. Julius Kahn, wife of the congressman and one of the finest women in all San Francisco. She was talking about votes for women.

"When I go into the booth," laughed she, "I run my finger down the list of names until I find Mr. Kahn's and vote for him first, and then go back to vote for the rest—for how do I know that there mightn't be an earthquake right while I'm in the midst of voting."

One of the institutions of San Francisco is the group of seal rocks where the sea lions loll about as idly as a lot of he-society persons. I was informed that these same seals occasionally bestir themselves and wander as far away as Alaska, where one or two of them have been recognized. Anybody can do just as he sees it about believing a seal could be recognized. Still, there are men who can recognize a certain horse when they see it, aren't there? If a person can tell one horse from another, why not seals also?

Then answered Amos, and said to Amaziah, I was no prophet, neither was I a prophet's son; but I was an herdman, and a gatherer of sycamore fruit.—Amos vii, 14.

Had Amos simply denied that he was a prophet, he might on this account have been thrust away from his office of teaching, for he lacked a call. But he means that he was not a prophet who had been from his childhood instructed in God's law to be an interpreter of Scripture; and for the same reason he says that he was not the son of a prophet, for there were then, we know, colleges for prophets, instituted for this end, that there might be always some nursery for the church of God, so that it might not be destitute of good and faithful teachers. Amos says that he was not of that class. He therefore honestly confesses that he was an illiterate man; but by this he gained to himself more authority, inasmuch as the Lord had seized on him as it were by force, and set him over the people to teach them. It was a greater miracle that Christ chose rude and ignorant men as His apostles than if he had at first chosen Paul or men like him, who were skilled in the law. If Christ had at the beginning selected such disciples, their authority would have appeared less; but as He had prepared by His Spirit those who were before unlearned, it appeared more evident that they were sent from above. —"From Expositions From Calvin."

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

The Nick of Time.

There is a tide in the affairs of men,
Which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune;
Omitted, all the voyage of their life
Is bound in shallows and in miseries.

The wise head of Shakespeare formulated a truth of which every man has at least some realization. The current of life sets right at a certain hour, and the canny mariner will take it when it serves. Fleeting opportunity must be seized.

The book of Ecclesiastes emphasizes the same lesson. "To everything there is a season, and a time to every purpose under heaven." And if other sapient words are required to clinch the point, those of Pliny the Elder may be quoted: "It is a maxim universally agreed upon in agriculture that nothing must be done too late; and again, that everything must be done at its proper season; while there is a third precept which reminds us that opportunities lost can never be regained."

The peril of misjudging the main chance, of procrastination, has been dinned into the ears of succeeding generations. We have been warned of how serious a mistake it is to miss the tide at the flood. And all dawdling voyagers on life's ocean had better give heed to the warning.

This doctrine of the swift and irrevocable passing of opportunity may be preached, however, in a way merely to discourage people. It is possible to put fictitious importance on some single failure to act wisely, on some momentary indecision. A man may be made to feel that, having made a single false move, having committed a single strategic blunder, he is hopelessly out of the race. Of necessity he stands condemned to failure, penury and woe because once he missed some leading chance.

I cannot believe that life plays so sharp a game as that with us. A human being is not to make or break his career unchangeably by any single grasp or loss of opportunity. We will grant that, occasionally, a lucky guess on the stock exchange may mean financial competence and an unlucky one financial ruin. We will grant that occasionally some fortunate political alliance for a man or some social connection for a woman will raise to prominence those who might otherwise have lived in oblivion. But we will not grant that those who have let some chances slip by must henceforth resign themselves to inevitable failure.

Success in life is a bigger thing than any particular financial, political or social triumphs that may have attended it. Success is, after all, a spiritual rather than a material value. It is to be judged in terms of character and of little else. No one's life is bound in shallows or in miseries, whatever his blunders or his defeats, till he has lost his purpose to become a moral conqueror, to become great of soul.

Practically life is built up on a long series of choices rather than on a single strategic choice on which everything else depends. Character results from a daily and hourly doing of the best that one can do under the circumstances. It is a will set to make the most of each opportunity as it comes.

There is then, of course, no time like the present. The tide is always at the flood. Just now is the time to do the thing that ought to be done.

What time is it?
Time to do well, time to live better,
Give up that grudge, answer that letter,
Speak the kind word to sweeten a sorrow,
Do that kind deed you would leave till tomorrow.

Every day is doomsday. Every moment is the nick of time.

LEMUEL ELI QUIGG

By SAVOYARD

Washington, May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The cross-examination of the Colonel by Lawyer Ivins in the suit of Barnes versus Roosevelt developed the fact that it was Lemuel Eli Quigg who served as messenger when Boss Platt offered the Republican nomination for governor of New York to the Colonel. Platt did not make Roosevelt governor because he wanted to, but because he had to. The Colonel was the only Republican who could be elected and even his plurality was very uncomfortably small. There was no occasion for Theodore Roosevelt to be the Murat of the Spanish war. Victory would have been just as decisive and just as speedy if the regular army and navy had been appointed to the fighting without the reinforcement of a single volunteer. But the exigency of politics that made the war would not have it so, the blundering Democrats forced the war, some hundreds of thousands of volunteers were enlisted and thus Mark Hanna was relieved of an enormous pressure. The tens of thousands of hungry and thirsty Republicans who were snarling at his heels for places in the civil service were switched off and given positions in the military service to whip poor old bed-fast Spain.

That war elected Theodore Roosevelt governor of New York state, and that is not all it did—that war reelected William McKinley president of the United States. And the Democrats in congress fetched these things about. I acquit the late Arthur P. Gorman of the stupidity. Had the Democrats of the house and senate followed his lead there would have been no war. Without their aid the yaller newspapers could not have made the war. McKinley and Hanna were opposed to it. Wall Street was opposed to it. But the perfervid eloquence and the purblind stupidity of Democratic leadership in the Fifty-fourth congress forced the McKinley administration into the war and thus extended the lease of the Republican party on political power precisely twelve years.

But to get back to Quigg. He is a wonder. Born in Maryland, the son of an itinerant Methodist preacher, he was educated in the public schools of Wilmington, Del., and at the age of 17 he was a newspaper reporter in New York city, where he still resides at the age of 53. With an alert, acute, gymnastic mind, with enormous egotism, with the impudence of the old horned and hoofed devil himself, this young chap was bound to come to the front in such a community as the metropolis and dabble in the politics such as there prevailed.

He had the luck to be chosen an instrument in the hands of Tom Platt. He was a ready and fluent public speaker. He was exceptionally well informed touching current politics, municipal, state and national. In 1893 John R. Fellows, the dashing Tammany orator in the class of Cockran and Grady, resigned his seat in congress. There was a special election to fill the vacancy, and just for fun Platt gave the Republican nomination to Quigg. The paragraphists made fun of his name, and those of them who knew him made fun of the man. Nobody expected that he would be elected; but the agitation of the silver question made a disastrous panic, the Cleveland administration was held responsible for it, and to the surprise of everybody Quigg was returned to the Fifty-third congress as a Republican from a Tammany stronghold.

There was much curiosity to see the young statesman when he got here, and he had no intention to disappoint it. A well-built, lusty fellow of 5 feet 9 with the most pronounced flaxen hair—an abundance of it and worn long—I ever saw on the head of one of the masculine gender, he was rather good looking—at a distance. He was not a silent member. He plunged into things at once and it was suspected that he seriously contemplated a contest of the Republican leadership of Tom Reed himself. In all my time, over thirty-five years, Lemuel Eli was the most pragmatic member of congress Capitol Hill has known. His speeches—the matter of them, the manner of delivery and the voice of the man—were more provocative than any I ever heard—except Bill Chandler's. He was eternally on his legs and for a wonder the Democrats allowed him to cut a wide swath.

I recall but one rebuff he got and he minded that no more than a veteran gander an April sprinkle. One day he was making a perfervid speech against Cleveland and the Democratic party when he bethought himself of a brilliant and well worn false metaphor and spoke of gladiators, booted and spurred, riding rough shod over the people. Asher Caruth, then a member of the Louisville, Ky., district, challenged him then and there and demanded to know what tribe of gladiators it was who wore boots and spurs and rode horseback. Even the Republicans joined in the hearty laugh; but Quigg paid no attention and proceeded with his oration.

Quigg served in the two succeeding congresses, but in 1898 he was overthrown, since when he has been more or less active in politics in New York city. I think it was the year Van Wyck was the Tammany candidate for mayor and triumphantly elected that Tom Platt handed the management of the city campaign over to Quigg. Many Republicans were dissatisfied with the pragmatic young man, and he was severely criticized in the press of his own party. The day after the election a writer in the New York Tribune on the editorial page of the paper dropped into poetry like this:

"If I were Lemuel Eli Quigg,
Lem Eli Quigg, Lem Eli Quigg.
If I were Lemuel Eli Quigg,
I'll tell you what I'd do:
I'd drop into an auger hole,
A woodchuck hole, a gimlet hole,
I'd jump into a gimlet hole
And pull the hole in too."

Or lines like those. But Quigg cares not a rap for ridicule. He has the hide "Sunset" Cox declared Ben Butler had —rhinocerosian.

Quigg is now a member of the constitutional convention of New York and you may be sure that he will be heard from in that body. That shows that he can stand without the supporting arm of Tom Platt.

On the witness stand the other day Roosevelt deposed that Quigg was a very able man, and so he is so far as concerns the matter of brains.

Among the Magazines

There are very few writers who could so impressively convey to the reader the very essence, the spirit, of a place as does Edith Wharton in her article in the May Scribner on "The Look of Paris." She arrived there on the day of the beginning of mobilization, in August, 1914, and writes of the scenes of those early days. And with that time she contrasts the later days of war, February, 1915, when the city had resumed outwardly many of its customary aspects, but everywhere were present groups of bewildered-looking refugees, and day by day "the limping figures" of the wounded grew more numerous on the pavement. Very evident is a plain-spoken directness, a studied intent to deal with facts, in Gen. Goethals' own story of "The Building of the Panama Canal." He writes, evidently, with the same straightforward attention to the business in hand as he deals with the problems of administration. In this number he tells of the "Organization of the Force." The Canadian Pacific Railway now has a rival in the just completed Grand Trunk Pacific. "The New Canadian National Transcontinental Railway," about which Duncan MacPherson writes. He describes the route and gives some very interesting figures to prove the business wisdom of the enterprise. The road goes through a picturesque country. There are photographs of many scenes.

Perhaps the most important feature of the May Century is an article called "The Ounce of Prevention," in which Prof. R. M. Johnston, the authority on military history, points out the need for army reorganization in America. Just now when so much talk is in the air about the liquor question in England, James Davenport Whelpley's article on "War and Drink" is very timely and informative. It shows how despotic Russia has set tolerant England a notable example, and discusses the difficulties that block reform, despite the fact that from 20 to 40 per cent of the new army have admittedly been rendered inefficient through drink. Another timely article is Judson C. Welliver's "Poland's Story," telling in popular style the history of the unpopulist of all nations and concluding with the opinion that it has been too long divided ever to re-unite again. The article is illustrated with many charming photographs. "The Czar and His People" is the subject of the third installment of "Cabbages and Kings," in which the Infanta Eulalia of Spain tells her intimate reminiscences of rulers and their courts.

In an article in Harper's Magazine for May, describing her recent explorations in the Canadian Rockies, Miss Mary Jobe, an American girl, tells of the hard work of going over the rough country with her guide after exploring the new ice peak which she has named Mt. Kitchi. Writing of the curious survival of old English ballads among the mountaineers of Kentucky, W. A. Bradley calls attention to the strange fact that the most persistent of these songs are sea ballads. In writing of the effect of climatean civilization, Ellworth Huntington cites some interesting examples of the effect of climate on different races. He finds that in South Africa the Europeans are not holding their own, the blacks slowly pushing them out. "The problem of whites against blacks," he says, "manifest itelf in economic and political form, but fundamentally much of it seems to be the effect of climate." The fiction in this number includes: "The Conviction of Sin," by Dorothy Canfield; "On Schedule," by Louise Kennedy Mabie; "The Second Wife," by Sophie Kerr Underwood; "The Relapse," by Alice Duer Miller; "A Matter of Education," by Wilbur Daniel Steele; "Their Deferred Moment," by Edna M. Owings; "The Revolt of Youth," by Ethel M. Kelly; "The Poison Ship," by Morgan Robertson.

In the May American Magazine Jerome D. Travers, four times amateur golf champion of America, writes a highly entertaining and instructive article entitled, "The High Cost of Golfing." More money is now spent in the United States on golf than on baseball. There are 1,300 clubs and 700,000 or 800,000 players. Mr. Travers presents more interesting facts on the subject than have ever been gathered together before. Cleveland Moffett, writing under the title, "Deeds of Daring in the Movies," tells some wonderful true stories of extraordinary adventures that moving picture managers and actors have had in the preparation of films. Ida M. Tarbell writes another article in her business series entitled, "The Golden Rule in Business." Capt. Granville Fortescue tells his experiences with the Russian army. Hugh S. Fullerton, writing under the title, "The Jitneys are Coming," gives the facts about the new transportation development that is spreading over the country.

Though most of us, unfortunately, cannot attend the exposition in San Francisco this year, we are being treated to a personal account of it by Alice McGowan which will partially compensate our loss. In the May number of Woman's World she recounts the opening day of the big fair as experienced by herself and her young friend, Gladyse, in a way which brings the proceedings before us more vividly than any stereotype description can ever do. Dr. G. Stanley Hall, president of Clark university, Worcester, Mass., one of the greatest authorities on child training in the country, reveals some of the facts which have been gleaned from searching, scientific study of children, in his interesting article which should be read by every parent and everyone who comes in contact with children.

The leading article in the Atlantic Monthly for May, "Women and War," by Agnes Repplier, is well calculated to make feminists reconsider many of their opinions. "The only agreeable thing to be recorded in connection with Europe's sudden and disastrous war," says Miss Repplier, "is the fact that people stopped talking about women and began to talk about men." She ridicules unsparingly the idea that the woman movement and war cannot flourish together, and she asks the feminists to face the facts. Her conclusion is that "People who pin their faith to a catchword never feel the necessity of understanding anything." Equally original is "Peace the Aristocrat," in which Albert J. Nock complains that peace as well as war "has its perils and horrors, and gives no clear sense of what they are." "Instead of raving about war," he says, "we should try to make pence more interesting." A timely article on "The Mechanics of Revivalism," by Joseph H. Odell, contrasts Billy Sunday with religious leaders of the past, and, after pointing out the great danger which lurks behind the financial profits of a modern revival, analyzes the character and the results of Sunday's preaching fairly and convincingly.

In the May Woman's Home Companion 134 moving picture films are recommended as being thoroughly wholesome and worth while. Along with these recommendations Helen Duey writes an interesting article entitled, "Better Films for Children," full of practical suggestions to parents. This is all a part of the movement for better films which this periodical is carrying on. In the same issue Ida M. Tarbell writes a stirring and thought-provoking article entitled, "The Twenty-Cent Dinner;" William Armstrong presents a character sketch of the young woman who will some day be empress of Austria; Anna Steese Richardson contributes, "Mrs. Larry's Adventures in Thrift;" Charles E. Jefferson, pastor of Broadway tabernacle in New York city, writes a nature sermon entitled, "Behold the Birds"; Albert Lee contributes another article in his series, "Made-in-America Vacations."

The May Sports Afield presents an array of brilliant articles, illustrated by some beautiful half-tones of big fish and invitingly attractive fishing and canoeing waters, as well as characteristic pictures of buffalo hunting, antelopes and deer. Tredway Elliott gives us three splendid chapters, in "Sunset Camps and Trails," about shooting panthers, bears and other big game in the Louisiana lowlands. "On Western Ducking Waters" is a capital account of a month's actual camping experiences by a bunch of live South Dakota sportsmen. "A Trip to the Missouri" may sound somewhat tame, but in reality it's a harking back to the heroic days of the buffalo that will thrill the heart of the veriest dullard.

The April issue of the Keramic Studio is called the "Bridal" number, containing only designs of orange blossoms. There is a great variety of choice for every one, as the blossoms are worked up in conventional, semi-conventional and naturalistic studies. The designs deserving of special mention in the Studio proper are a dinner set by Josephine O'Brien, dinner set by E. A. McGaughy, dinner set by M. C. McCormick, a conventional plate and a tea-pot. The supplement contains a very pretty tea-set in naturalistic, another dinner set, bouillon cup and saucer, semi-conventional plate and a few sprays of orange blossoms. The two colored supplements are a conventional sugar bowl and naturalistic plate, both of which would be very attractive on china.

President Woodrow Wilson has a message for the boys of America in the current issue of the American Boy. "Prepare for Citizenship" is the title of his interview as reported by Clarence B. Kelland, and in it he tells the boys and young men of the United States what they should do to become good citizens, and states some thoughts on patriotism that should be read by everyone. The Decoration day story, featured in this issue, is one with an especial appeal to those who love animals.

In the National Magazine for April, Joe Mitchell Chapple's "Affairs at Washington" preserves forever certain interesting incidents of the closing scenes of the Sixty-third congress. John B. Gorgan's illustrated paper on the McKinley birthplace memorial; Mr. Chapple's kindly tribute to the late Norman B. Ream; a tentative survey of the issues and conditions affecting the next presidential election by J. Hamilton Lewis; Bennett Chapple's "Prison Reform Movement in the Smaller Cities;" an interesting sketch of Thomas Brackett Reed, "The Czar" of by-gone congresses; "The Lesson of the 1914 Elections," and the "Power of Motion Pictures to Promote Universal Peace," by the versatile Joe Mitchell Chapple and "Citizens in the Making" by Clarice Baright, attorney, will all suggest timely thoughts on debated questions.

"A Robin Family in Photographs" in the May Outing is an unusual lot of photographs telling the whole interesting story of a robin family from the building of the nest to the first flight of the young birds. The text describes in detail and in an interesting manner the experiences of this family. In "The Vanity Pool," by Nalbro Bartley, opening novelette in the May Young's Magazine, we have a dramatic story of a man and woman who drive to the institute ambition for love. "Pearls, Real and False," by E. Mandeville Rogers, tells the story of a fascinating married woman who played with fire. She accepts a string of pearls from the man who is secretly wooing her and tells her husband that they are imitations, only to be confronted by a jeweler's expert in the person of her husband's friend.

The Strand Magazine for May contains among its usual high order of fiction, a story from the Russian on "The Rules of War," and an unusually powerful tale of the great war, "In the Casualty List." Still other war stories include "Why the Gunner Went Ashore," and Richard Marsh's fourth installment of "Sam Briggs Becomes a Soldier," showing this philosophic and humorous recruit under the baptism of fire. A love story that should find favor is Ellen Ada Smith's "Alice Palmer's Choice." John Foster contributes a short story entitled, "Settled Out of Court."

Among the true-to-life adventure stories—strictly true in every detail, as are all of the stories and articles in the Wide World magazine—in the May number of this interesting periodical is a thrilling story of gold-seekers struggling through nightmare jungles, fighting fevers and hitherto unknown wild beasts, while forcing their way into the unexplored wilds of Central America in search of wealth. An amusing incident, illustrating one of the most curious and unaccountable vagaries of wild animals, will be found in "The Tale of a Tiger," by D. Davidson. Another article of strong interest has to do with the strange little town of Anso hidden away in the remote fastnesses of the Pyrenees in Spain, where life is carried on today just as it was in the middle ages.

The leading feature of the May number of the Smart Set, under the editorial direction of George Jean Nathan and H. L. Mencken, is a complete novelette by Louis Wilkinson bearing the piquing title, "The Connoisseur of Emotion," and the equally piquing subtitle, "The Tester of Thrills." The novelette is an Oscar Wilde-ish story, sparkling with epigram, and narrating the bizarre tale of a married man who plans to elope with his wife's sister—and marry her! James Joyce, whom H. G. Wells announces as the leading new feature in British letters, is introduced by the Smart Set to American readers with two admirable stories—one entitled "A Little Cloud," the other, "The Boarding House."

The Metropolitan for May leads off with the first installment of a romance of the north woods, "Then I'll Come Back to You," by Larry Evans. While Billy Sunday was in Philadelphia, the Metropolitan sent John Reed to see and hear him. What this wonderful descriptive writer saw and heard is published in this number under the title of "Back of Billy Sunday." Lincoln Steffens believed that there was more to the Mexican revolution than had been written. His article, "The Sunny Side of Mexico," throws another light on Carranza and what he is fighting for. "The Battle of Neuve Chapelle," by E. Ashmead Bartlett is an interesting account of the author's visit to the British trenches in Northern France. The number contains an interesting article on the moving pictures by George Bernard Shaw, a James Whitcomb Riley poem, and short stories by Gouverneur Morris, Leroy Scott, and W. W. Jacobs. There are the usual departments and pictorial features.

This is the the story of the Mexican adventures of two young telegraphers, and promises to be an interesting adventure tale. It will probably run through six numbers of St. Nicholas. Another new feature is a series for the very little folk, called "Mr. Dog and Mr. Bear." The "merry month of May" is the occasion for a particularly good number of Sunset Magazine. There is something in the spirit of the May pole dance even in the cover which shows a plump little Indian dancing on a brilliant Navajo rug. The frontispiece is a painting of the illuminated "Palace of Fine Arts," the most impressive structure at the Panama-Pacific exposition. Another is a charming Western landscape entitled "Foothill Lovers." The third shows a fur-wrapped Alaskan maiden entitled "The Lady of the Land Up There." Alaska is featured in a good article by John J. Underwood, profusely illustrated.

There is in this country a Triple Alliance that periodically rises and wages an unrelenting, uncivilized warfare on the lives and the property of millions of people in thirty-one states of the Union. The American Triple Alliance is composed of the Mississippi, Ohio and Missouri rivers, and the similarity between the war that they wage and the present war in Europe, as shown in George Marvin's article in the World's Work for May, "The War on the Mississippi," will shock a large part of our peace-loving citizenry that has deluded itself in the belief that our only wars of the last half century have been the Civil and Spanish wars. Joffre and the New France," James Middleton gives a pen sketch, illustrated by photographs, of the character of the French commander-in-chief, who is described as "the peasant who by three silent years' reformed the French army and made possible the great victory of the Marne." How difficult Uncle Sam is finding it to be everybody's friend and to preserve strict neutrality is shown in a remarkable series of cartoons in the May Cartoons Magazine. While England is complaining bitterly that we are trying to snatch away her trade, Germany protests against our exportation of arms to the allies. In one German cartoon Uncle Sam is seen selling implements of warfare to Death, "not because I need the money, but to bring about peace sooner." Another German cartoon depicts a wounded soldier holding an American-made shell in his hand. The caption reads: "Those sympathetic Americans," while on the shell is the inscription: "Brave Germans, we pray for you."

The May number of the Popular Mechanics' Magazine contains, all told, 251 articles and 316 illustrations. An important article on "Directing the War by Wireless," by George F. Worts, gives a vivid idea of the part played by this most modern means of communication in the great European conflict. "Hundreds of miles of roaring battle line, hostile warships roving the remotest wastes of the sea, aeroplanes and Zeppelins soaring high above the earth, and even the stealthy submarines, lurking in the depths for victims," he says, "are subservient to the invisible hand of the wireless." The May number contains sixteen consecutive pages of war views—remarkable pictures, every one. There are also the following articles relating to the war: "Firing the Fuse to Blow Up a Steamer," "How an Army 'Fires on the Clock.'" "Monitors Operating Along the Belgian Coast," "Torpedoes and Bombs Used in Aerial Raids," "Incendiary Mediums Used by the Germans in War," etc. The launching of our largest battleship, the Pennsylvania, is described in an illustrated article by J. Crosby McCarthy, who discusses the risks involved in events of this kind.

The Engineering Magazine for May comes to hand with a larger number than usual of leading articles. Whatever may be one's beliefs on the tariff question and upon the related question of selling goods in other countries at lower prices than in the United States, one may expect to read with profit the keen and forceful arguments of H. H. Campbell on the necessity and advantages of the system of foreign price cutting as applied in the steel trade. In the complexities of modern civilization, industries grow up and arrive at points of high development while attracting little or no attention from the public at large. Such a one is that of the preparation of ores for metallurgical treatment. This art of ore concentrating is described in its broad principles by Henry A. Martin, while its later developments, including the method known as "oil flotation," which is coming to be of the most vital consequence to the mining industry, are handled with more detail.

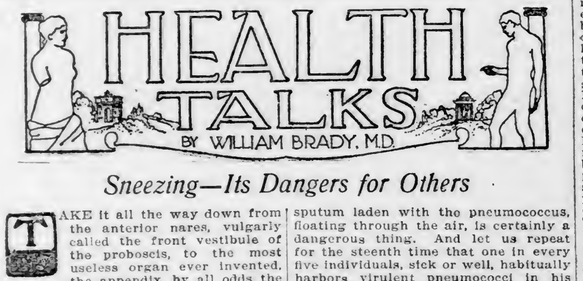
The April number of The Writer, the Boston magazine for literary workers, opens with an article, "Concerning Short Stories," by Wyndham Martyn, the literary editor of Pearson's Magazine. Margaret Widdemer writes brightly on "The Sorrows of Being An Author." Annie Balcomb Wheeler has a helpful article on "The Power of Suggestion," and Edward B. Hughes continues his series of "Common Errors in Writing Corrected." The departments are unusually interesting, with "How to Write Film Scenarios" and "Where the Photoplays Come From," among other headings.



Sneezing—Its Dangers for Others

TAKE it all the way down from the anterior nares, vulgarly called the front vestibule of the proboscis, to the most useless organ ever invented, the appendix, by all odds the most widespread and costly illnesses of civilized communities are those produced by our versatile friend, the pneumococcus, the microbe of the catching "cold."

This one ubiquitous germ easily wins the gold medal as man's untiring enemy. What the pneumococcus causes would easily keep the doctors busy even if there were no hay fever, tango dancing or political parties. A "cold" in the head is the least common particle of the household germ; pneumonia, sore throat, quinsy, pleurisy, bronchitis, middle ear abscess, meningitis, heart valve involvement, multiple arthritis, appendicitis—the repertoire is almost unlimited.

And how does old pneumococcus manage to get about so freely? How can he pursue such an active life and still retain all his pristine vigor? In a word, what puts the catch in catching cold?

It is the open face sneeze.

We can stand seeing a bully beating a defenseless creature. We can look on with sympathy while a fellow picks his neighbor's pocket. We can sympathize with a man who marries too many wives or runs away from one who is too many for him. But there is one spectacle which rouses our worst passions and makes us yearn to draw red blood, and that is the open face sneeze.

Spitting on the floor is a veritable sanitary precaution beside sneezing at one's neighbors. Sputum on the floor may not do any harm, after all, but sputum laden with the pneumococcus, floating through the air, is certainly a dangerous thing. And let us repeat for the steenth time that one in every five individuals, sick or well, habitually harbors virulent pneumococci in his mouth or nose. Hence the chance of acquiring some form of indoor plague when exposed to the open face sneeze is at least a 20 per cent risk.

A law entitling the innocent bystander to hand the offender a wallop in the face where ft wil do the most good, ought to be passed. It would be a long-lived reminder that the rights of the community deserve some consideration. We don't believe in capital punishment, but just the same the open face sneezer is none too good to hang, when you consider all the physical, mental, moral, financial and spiritual wreckage his explosions cause.

DRAMA VAUDEVILLE MOTION PICTURES

COMMENT ON PLAYS AND PLAYERS — WHAT THE PRESS AGENTS PROMISE

NEW plays produced during the week in New York included: A revival of George Bernard Shaw's "Arms and the Man" by Arnold Daly; "The Miracle of St. Anthony" a playlet by Maurice Maeterlinck, and presented with three other short plays; and "The Lost Co-respondent" by Butler Davenport.

Some of the attractions still running are: "On Trial," "It Pays to Advertise," "Under Cover," "Song of Songs," "A Celebrated Case," "Twin Beds," "The Show Show," Montgomery & Stone, "Watch Your Step" and "The Natural Law."

Some of the vaudeville headliners now in the metropolis are: Blanche Walsh in a new playlet, "The Spoils of War," Bertha Kalich, and Trixie Friganza.

NEXT week's attractions in Duluth include "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" by the Baldwin Players, and vaudeville at the Orpheum and New Grand.

The reorganized Baldwin company seems good for a summer's run, and as long as it gives such productions as the one of the current week, and offers such plays as "Fine Feathers" and "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," it is deserving of the generous patronage it has received. Both the plays mentioned are bulletined plays of the Drama league, and the company is the strongest stock organization Duluth has ever seen.

Topping next week's Orpheum bill will be Elsa Ruegger, the Belgian cellist. Twice before Miss Ruegger has been scheduled to appear at the Duluth Orpheum, and each time she has been canceled at the last moment, once on account of illness. She is looked upon as one of the three or four leading cellists of the day, and her appearance should create more than casual interest among the music lovers of Duluth. Following an artist like Mme. Jomelli, she offers a rather striking illustration of how vaudeville has invaded the musical world for its talent.

His widow, Minnie Allen, is well known to Duluth vaudeville patrons.

Now that the spring and summer stock seasons are approaching a loud protest is being registered against the unreasonable charges extorted by agents for the use of plays by stock companies all over the United States and Canada. Several of the successful playwrights are in entire sympathy with the companies and are taking their business out of the hands of agents and making their own contracts based upon royalties graduated by the receipts. The royalties asked for some of the more successful Broadway hits have ranged as high as $1,000 a week, but these are exceptions. As a result of the excessive charges exacted by agents many authors are complaining of not getting anything out of their plays, because of the small demand for high royalty plays which stagger local managers. The Actors' Equity association is co-operating with the Society of American Dramatists and Composers to secure more equitable rates for the benefit of stock managers.

The little Princess theater in New York is now the home of musical comedy. For several seasons it attracted attention as the intimate theater of the small play. The projectors designed to give New York a Grand Guignol, the Parisian hotbed of thrills and blushes. For a year the scheme worked quite well. Many an interesting playlet there thrilled and even shocked but the second season the enterprise developed a limp, and never could recover its regular gait after that.

It now goes in for musical pieces, and inaugurates its new policy with a musical comedy entitled "Nobody Home."

David Warfield claims that he has played "The Auctioneer" for the last time, and, by way of statistical information, informs the public that he has played the part of Simon Levi 1,400 times. What a good many of his friends are interested in is to discover what he is going to do next. He can't very well revive "The Music Master," so it seems probable that next year he will be seen in a new play and a new character. Warfield has always had a deep apprehension of being condemned to play "The Music Master" and "The Auctioneer" for the rest of his life. He was fairly successful in "The Return of Peter Grimm," but it wasn't the howling success of his previous characters because it lacked the element of eccentricity of type.

George Arliss, too, is to have a new play after five seasons in "Disraeli,"

A protest has been registered by prominent theatrical managers against legitimate stars appearing in motion pictures. The argument is that their value is thereby cheapened and the public which pays a dime to see them in a "movie" drama is not likely to pay $2 to see them later on in a spoken play.

There may be a grain of truth in this, but the fact remains that these actors and actresses find it difficult to resist the monetary temptation. It may also be questioned whether appearing in a moving picture drama really hurts the drawing power of a recognized star. In fact, the very opposite ought to be the result. The advertising which a player receives through an appearance in a moving picture drama, and the far greater number of people who thereby become familiar with his or her face and figure, ought to arouse interest in them which could not be called forth in any other way.

A parallel case is furnished by the talking machine. Hearing the records of prominent musical stars has familiarized thousands of people with the better grade of music who could not otherwise have been reached. This has stimulated a desire to hear these artists in person, and the victrola has actually made thousands of concertgoers.

Whether the moving picture drama will do the same thing for the legitimate drama is still too early to say, because this phase of the moving picture enterprise is now but in its infancy. The prospects are, however, that it may familiarize a public with certain players which could not have been reached in any other way.

NEW PLAYERS IN NEW PLAY

Baldwin Company Will Introduce "Rebecca" to Duluth Theater Goers.

An opportunity to see the reorganized Baldwin Players in comedy roles will be given next week at the Lyceum.

During the present week the rejuvenated company scored a most decided hit in "Fine Feathers," a drama serious in tone and with a tragic ending. The performance was freely classed as the best stock work ever seen in Duluth, and superior to the performance given here by the all-star company.

Opening Sunday afternoon and continuing all week with matinees Sunday, Wednesday and Saturday, the Baldwin Players will be seen in "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," dramatized from Kate Douglas Wiggin's book of the same name, and from "The Chronicles of Rebecca." Both of these books were drawn on by Charlotte Thompson, who prepared the stage version of the story of Rebecca.

The play has never been seen in Duluth. It was produced by Klaw & Erlanger, and had a most successful New York run. It also toured some of the larger cities of the East, but never got as far as Duluth, and after the war broke out and theatrical producers were seized with nervousness, it was released to stock companies. Mr. Baldwin was one of the first to secure the stock rights to it, so Duluth will see the play for the first time as a stock production.

The dramatization is in four acts and sets forth the adventures of Rebecca from the time of her arrival at the home of her aunts, Miranda and Jane Sawyer, to the dawn of womanhood and the birth of love in her heart. Her pranks, her charm, her adventures, her mishaps, comedies of New England life, its pathos its wholesomeness and its sternness, are shown in the progress of the comedy, the winning of the grim old New England women by the sunshiny Rebecca, form the central themes. The Baldwin Players have produced this New England idyl with a wealth of beautiful scenery and realistic effects—Rebecca's arrival on an old-fashioned stage coach, a terrific rain storm, during which she escapes from the home of her aunts as it has grown to her young mind to be a prison, and the festival in the barn being among the most notable of the stage pictures and effects.

This week's play required the services of but seven members of the company, but "Rebecca" will provide good roles for virtually every member of the organization. Miss Anne Bronaugh will be seen in the title role of Rebecca, and Harry L. Minturn, the new leading man, will have a part differing widely from the one played this week. If the new members prove as popular in lighter comedy roles as they did in such parts as those they took in "Fine Feathers," the Baldwin company will settle down to a profitable summer's run in Duluth, for the attendance during the week just closing was the best since the opening of the winter and spring engagement.

TWO HEADLINERS ON ORPHEUM BILL

Elsa Ruegger and Willard Mack Sketch Will Divide Honors.

The Orpheum bill of next week will again have two headline numbers, Elsa Ruegger, the cellist, and Jack Kennedy appearing in Willard Mack's latest production, "The Flare Back," dividing the headline honors of the program.

The fame of Elsa Ruegger, the Belgian cellist is universal, and she is generally conceded the greatest virtuose in the world. Her artistic career has been a succession of veritable triumphs. She has played both here and abroad with the leading symphony and other musical societies, and has won unequaled success on various concert tours. Her appearance in vaudeville is one of the best musical treats that could be offered to the Orpheum audiences. Miss Ruegger will be assisted by the celebrated conductor, Edmond Lichtenstein, an eminent figure in the musical world.

Jack Kennedy and company of three people, will present Willard Mack's latest comedy success, "The Flare Back." Mr. Mack, who is well known to Duluth people, having appeared here in stock for one entire season, has done his best work in modeling the little gem of a playlet in which Mr. Kennedy also does his best work in presenting. The act has been one of the best successes as a comedy playlet on the Orpheum circuit this season.

Irving Newhoff and Dode Phelps, a clever combination of youth, appearance and ability has made them one of the most popular of vaudeville teams. Their vehicle, "In Care of General Delivery," is delivered with a snap and vim that affords entertainment every second they are on the stage.

Clarence Oliver and Georgia Olp are a pair of well known musical comedy stars, who are this season appearing in a delightful little singing skit entitled "The Wall Between," which was written by Agnes Scott and fits both members to the nicety.

Brent Hayes lifts the banjo to the level of the highest stringed instrument. Hayes is indeed an artist on the instrument; his playing is not trickery, but the careful manipulation of the artist.

Mons. and Madam Alf W. Loyal present a unique troupe of canines in a remarkable act. There are only four dogs in the troupe, but the remarkable feats they perform place the act in a class by itself.

The Terada brothers are two nimble and flexible Japs who present an astonishing balancing and gymnastic act.

New scenes of foreign countries will be shown by the Orpheum Travel weekly.

BRIGHT FEATURES AT NEW GRAND

Charlie Chaplin and Good Vaudeville Bill for Next Week.

From the first to the last act this week the New Grand has a first-class bill, brimming over with fun and radiating the best there is in the realm of popular-priced vaudeville and photoplays.

Black-face comedians with wide reputation are Duncan and Holt, said to be among the cleverest on the stage in their particular line of endeavor. During their offering fun of the good, old-fashioned kind reigns king, for their act is one that will cheer the most pessimistic and dyspeptic.

The Angell Sisters, two charming girls with good voices and a seemingly endless variety of beautiful creations of the modiste's art, offer a wide variety of songs and dances in a charming manner.

Laughs by the score are furnished by Norwood and Anderson in their latest comedy skit, "What Else Could He Think?"

The Casting Lamys are aerialists of exceptional ability and accomplish many seemingly impossible feats with an ease that is remarkable and thrilling.

The Hearst-Selig News contains, as usual, many interesting views from all over the world, principal among which are scenes from the Eastern parade on the board walk at Atlantic City, races at Bowie, Md., the Fifth avenue parade and many interesting views from the war zone.

"The Reaping," in two acts, is the photoplay feature. "Strictly Neutral," a comedy, and "The Creed of the Clan," a stirring drama with star cast, complete the bill.

On Monday the new bill will have the famous Les Diodatis for a headliner. Four women, assisted by two canine actors, in reproductions of famous paintings and statuary, make the offering a sensational and artistic success.

Charles and Anna Glocker in a comedy water-juggling novelty; Morton, Wells and Norwood in a conglomeration of nonsense, and Montrose and Allen, comedy songs and talk, are other acts on the bill.

A thrilling war drama that speaks for peace is "The Powers of Mars," a three-reel photoplay feature. One of the famous "Ham" comedies, "A Melodious Mixup;" "A Double Winning," a drama, and "In the Plumber's Grip," a comedy, complete the bill.

On Thursday, Charles Chaplin will be seen in his latest success, "By the Sea," said to be the funniest yet produced. The Chaplin pictures, run by the New Grand, are the latest produced and not the reprints from old comedies with inferior casts.

ENGAGEMENT TO CLOSE.

"The House of Bondage" Will End Week's Run at the Zelda.

Tonight offers the last opportunity to all Duluth theater goers to see the white-slave production at the Zelda entitled "The House of Bondage."

Tomorrow for the one day only, Manager Mistachkin will present a three-part Pathe production entitled "The Black Heart," featuring the noted American star, Henry Rich. This production is intensely dramatic. Including on the same program will be the fourteenth episode of "The Exploits of Elaine." The fifteenth episode, which will be shown a week from tomorrow, will wind up the serial. A comedy, one of the funniest ever presented at the Zelda, will also be shown, making a six-act performance for Sunday only. Beginning Monday, and ending Wednesday night, the Zelda will play a war-feature play entitled "Through the Enemy's Lines." It is in four parts and was produced by the Great Norther company. One follows the incidents and their exciting escapades with eyes that reflect both apprehension and amazement. The military maneuvers, infantry attacks, artillery engagements and cavalry charges were under the personal supervision of an officer of high rank in the army, thus insuring the technical correctness of these scenes and giving them the realism of actual warfare. So impressive are they, that one forgets that the participants are merely actors, forgets that the entrenched infantry, the heavy guns belching fire and the bursting shrapnel are no more than parts of the settings.

In connection with this war picture will appear Charles Chaplin in a two-part feature, making a six-act performance for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

NEW FEATURES AT REX.

Many Noted Attractions Booked for Coming Week.

A different class of pictures will be tried out at the Rex Beautiful tomorrow. While these pictures show only one day, as much care and attention has been given the selection as though booked for a whole week.

Hallie Erminie Rives' widely read novel, "Satan Sanderson," will be the feature Monday and Tuesday. Special arrangements made with Miss Rives and the Bobbs-Merrill company, allow the A. B. Rolfe organization exclusive rights to arrange for the screen her most popular novels. "Satan Sanderson" is big and rings true to life. It has wonderful photography, acting and settings—all that make for the finest in a screen feature. There is also a real fight.

Farnum days occur Wednesday and Thursday. The well-beloved Dustin is superbly cast in "Captain Courtesy," Paramount-Bosworth production. Mr. Farnum says "Captain Courtesy" is HALL CAINE FILM AT LYRIC.

Remarkable Reproduction of "The Christian" All Next Week.

John Storm was a good and noble Christian minister, but he loved after the manner of the flesh.

His childhood sweetheart, Glory Quayle, had entered that "accursed life," the career of a "play-actress," and was the toast of the town and the prize for which all the fast set of gay London angled—but he loved her still—and prayed for her—while she heeded him not and he ate his heart out in bittery misery.

He begged her to give it all up, but she, though good and pure still as when he loved her as a child, could not see what he thought stood ahead of all beautiful women in her profession, and she could not make up her mind to give up gaiety and life, just yet.

John Storm's deep concern for her became an obsession, until, finally, to save her from the calamity he saw in burning hells directly before her drifting feet, he stole into her luxurious apartments one night to kill her before her soul became blackened, hoarsely crying in his madness to her: "Glory, I have come to slay your body to save your soul!"

In this moment the woman realizes the overwhelming love the desperate man bears for her and it awakens in her own heart the response due him, but his dangerous enemy, Sir Robert Ure, the vampire who would drag Glory to ruin, too, like many another of his victims, plans vengeance against John Storm and soon a mob made up of the roughs of London bears down upon him.

Glory protects her lover, and thus these two lovers are saved for each other.

The motion picture production of "The Christian" is said to be one of the greatest things of the kind ever made. It will be the attraction at the Lyric theater for one week, commencing tomorrow afternoon, at 1 o'clock.

At the Sunbeam.

"A Siren of Corsica," written by Clay M. Greene and produced in three reels by the Lubin company is the feature film offering to be shown at the Sunbeam tomorrow. Briefly the story of the play is of Carola de Lisle, a wealthy Corsican woman, who is the reigning sensation of Nice. John Selden, a rich American, arrives in Nice and, becoming acquainted, Carola at first glance sees the man she could really love. Although deeply in love with his wife at home, Selden is not adverse to a little flirtation and his name is often mingled with the fair Corsican. The affair is keenly watched by Joseph Morse, a supposed friend, who once was in love with Lenore Selden and on his return to America he reports all that he has seen and in proof shows a snapshot photo of Carola and Selden which in a spirit of jest he has been able to secure. The wife is inflamed with jealousy and her little son wires the father to come home quickly. Selden then admits that he is married and departs for America. Carola obtains his address and follows declaring she will kill Selden and probably herself. On arrival home he is charged with the reports by his wife and he sends for Morse to come to the house. Morse suspecting comes and during the interview Carola appears at the window and seeing Selden embrace his wife fires but kills Morse instead. She then takes a boat and returns to Nice. Selden is arrested for the killing of Morse and is given ten years' imprisonment. While arranging her husband's clothes, Lenore finds a note from Carola threatening his life. To clear her husband's name, Lenore and her boy hasten to Nice and with a requisition from the American government succeeds in securing the murderess.

Trentini recently had some difficulty with the United States government regarding her income tax, and was compelled to pay to the internal revenue department $2,200.90 in penalties for failure to make a proper return. The claim is being disputed in the courts.

The tour is to begin May 31.

The new play by J. Harley Manners, called "The Panorama of Youth," has just been produced in London, but has failed to register a very marked success. It was produced by Sir George Alexander, under most favorable conditions. The plot is said to be thin, without any climax, though the dialogue is clear and epigrammatic. The general verdict seems to be that it is decidedly not another "Peg."

BETTER FARM AND VILLAGE HOMES

Substitutes for "Shoe Box" Architecture—Model Plans Supplied By State Government.

By MAURICE IRWIN FLAGG,
Director, Minnesota State Art Commission.

(Exclusive Service The Survey Press Bureau.)

Farmers and village dwellers in the state of Minnesota are now being supplied with designs for modern artistic houses by the state government. This is the result of competitions held to secure plans for model farm houses, model village houses, and model landscape designs. People who dwell in houses of the "shoe box" sort may now have the service of the most skilled architects placed at their disposal practically free.

It is reasonable that a state should render such service to its people. Most states disseminate information about alfalfa, hog cholera and agricultural pursuits. Our farmers are making three blades of alfalfa grow where one grew before; they are building big and expensive barns; they are buying the latest farm machinery; they are bending effort to conserve the natural resources of the country; and they are learning how to take from the soil the greatest possible return. But their houses have been neglected.

For Rural Contentment.

More comfortable and convenient farm houses will make better contented farmers, farmers' wives, farmers' children, will lessen the desertions of old and young to the city, will make the life of the farmer's family more efficient and beautiful. This is the reasoning that led the Minnesota State Art commission to develop a real program relating art and agriculture.

Many people seem to think of an art commission as the last organization to promote such a program. The artist has long been looked upon as a dreamer and not an eminently practical sort of person, and for some unknown reason the word "art" has been interpreted by people as dealing with ideals and not with practical problems. The Minnesota State Art commission is demonstrating to the contrary.

This commission is a department of the state government. It was created by an act of the legislature thirteen years ago. It believes in stimulating appreciation of pictures, sculpture and the so-called fine arts. But the commission also believes that if art is to be of real service to all the people and if an art appreciation is to be developed on the part of the people in general it should then be the duty of the State Art commission, first, to reach out in the most tangible way and touch the life of the largest possible number of people. It must first serve their most immediate needs.

Model House and Yard Designs.

One such need was clearly for better homes. To meet it the commission instituted three competitions—for a "model farm house," a "model village house," and a "model farm yard."

The interesting part of the farm house competition is that it was not proposed by city folks; it came as an actual demand by farmers. Practical farmers stated their needs and it remained for the architects of the state to solve the problem of a $3,500 ten-room model farm house. The state art commission offered prizes. It brought together a jury composed of a practical farmer, Senator L. E. Potter of Springfield; a specialist in the department of domestic science and home management of the University of Minnesota, Mrs. Margaret L. Blair; the executive head of the agricultural college of the University of Minnesota, Dean A. F. Woods; and an architect of Minneapolis, George Chapman.

Thirty excellent and practical farm house designs resulted from this competition. The commission has distributed plans; it has circulated exhibitions of "model farm home," plans to farmers' institutes, short courses and to cities and towns throughout Minnesota; it made a small model showing the house in miniature, painted in an appropriate color scheme.

The "model farm house" competition met with such manifest approval on the part of the rural population that the commission was led to institute the competition for a "model village house" to cost $3,000. There developed some fifty very excellent plans and material is being circulated by the commission, as in the case of the model farm house. A model landscape design for a farm yard was sought through a competition. The landscape design architects submitted sixty plans for "model farm yards." This farm yard was intended to beautify the surroundings of the first prize "model farm house."

The first prize "model farm house" was designed by Hewitt & Brown, architects, the landscape award was given to Phelps Wyman, landscape architect, and the first prize for the "model village house" went to L. A. Fournier, architect. All of these successful competitors are residents of Minneapolis.

The commission sends full size working drawings and specifications of its first prize design farm house, village house and landscape design, to people living within Minnesota for the small fee of $3.50. A single set of these working drawings and specifications, if purchased from the architect, would cost in the neighborhood of $200. A replica—a full size duplicate of the original drawing—is sold to anyone living anywhere for fifty cents. To people living outside of the state the full size plans along with the specifications are sold for $5. The commission does not profit from this enterprise and the fee is charged merely to cover the cost of making the drawings.

This program in Minnesota has stimulated other states to action. Massachusetts has just completed, through the agricultural college of the state university at Amherst, a "model farm house" program. California, Kentucky, Texas, Indiana and many other states have appealed to Minnesota for assistance in formulating programs of the same character. The "model farm house" plans have gone to several foreign countries. Germany, Italy, France and Canada have published the results of the Minnesota competition for the benefit of their agricultural people.

This better housing program is supplementary to the other work of the commission. It sends to towns and cities throughout the state, exhibitions of all kinds. It brings into the state each year a collection of the best American contemporary art. It circulates exhibits of industrial art, sculpture, home furnishings, home industries and school art. It organizes home industries and handicraft classes and puts into the field specialists to teach such work. And it has been successful in finding a market for the product.

Minnesota is especially rich in old world talent. This talent has brought to the state trades people—handicraft workers. One handicraft particularly, that of lace making, has been developed into a thriving industry. The commission has found a market for this lace in Chicago, Boston and other cities. Its program is wide in scope. It is not only increasing the happiness of the people in Minnesota because of its program for better living conditions, but it is actually proving that art has a "dollar and cents value." The commission believes its work to be of economic importance to the state and what is more, the people of the state are enthusiastic in expressing this opinion.

FORTY CARS NOW ENTERED

Success of 500-Mile Race at Indianapolis Is Assured.

Ten Machines Are Foreign, Giving Contest International Importance.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 8.—Forty cars is the final count of entries for the next Indianapolis 500-mile race, May 29.

This is but four cars less than were registered in 1914, the banner year of the speedway regarding entries, and is held to insure the success of the next meet beyond question.

Ten of the machines, or a quarter of the field, are foreign, giving the event its usual famous international complexion. Foreign drivers, though comparatively few, are scheduled to be as hard to beat as ever. Dario Resta's dual victory in the recent Vanderbilt and Grand Prize alone being sufficient evidence of this fact.

The last American cars to check in were a third Duesenberg, entered by F. S. Duesenberg of Minneapolis, Minn., and a Shambaugh special, by Charles Shambaugh of Lafayette, Ind. No driver was named for the Duesenberg, but Shambaugh announced he would drive himself.

The final field for the contest is as follows:

HAVE CHARMED LIVES.

Chalmers Axle Withstands Shock of German Shell.

"Chalmers axles have charmed lives. You can bend, but you can't break them," says E. J. Filiatrault of the Mutual Auto company.

"A shell struck one of them in the course of the German bombardment of the French town of Papeete Tahiti Island. The axle was one of the Master Sixes, of Consul General G. Menuel, of the French republic, and was playing an active part in the defense of the island.

"The shell, shell-like, played more or less havoc with the vehicle, but there was enough of the car left to be shipped to San Francisco for repairs. Two large stones were found imbedded in the radiator, evidently driven in by the force of the explosion.

"But despite the enormous strain which axle and frame had undergone, and despite the fact that both were bent almost beyond recognition, there was not a crack or break to be found in the metal.

"Manager E. N. Sells of the Western Motor Car company at San Francisco, was astonished, but not surprised, when he examined the wreckage and found the bent but unbroken axle.

"For many a year he has sworn by Chalmers heat-treatment and the superlative quality of Chalmers parts."

DULUTHIANS WHO MOTOR

DR. J. D. PARK,

President of the Duluth Automobile Club, in His "Famous" Locomobile.

This car won the $5,000 trophy in the run from the Twin Cities to Glacier park two years ago and has traveled a total of 140,000 miles up to date.

Aside from being an enthusiastic motorist, Dr. Park has taken an active interest in good roads and has probably done more than any other Duluthian for a highway to the Twin Cities. He is now in touch with all county officials between here and Minneapolis and expects to have a good roadway by fall.

Late this summer Dr. Park expects to stage a Duluth-Twin Cities reliability run and in the early fall he plans to take part in the Twin Cities—San Francisco tour. He will drive his Locomobile in both runs.

FILIATRAULT TELLS OF THE TWIN ARTS

Salesman and Steering-Wheel Boon Companions, He Declares.

The twin arts of selling and of commercial service owe more to the motor car than to any other modern development, according to E. J. Filiatrault, the local Chalmers dealer, and himself a prominent exponent of the two arts.

"The salesman and the steering-wheel," asserts Mr. Filiatrault, are becoming boon companions. The wise salesman, wherever the character of his territory will permit, has motorized his job. Speed is his chief aide-de-camp. In his race with his competitors, he finds a high class, reliable, high-power motor car an imperative need.

"There are more and more concerns every year which refuse to employ city salesmen who do not drive their own cars. Others buy and assign cars to their salesmen for their use.

"Alert concerns no longer tolerate the type of salesman content to trudge from place to place or to rely upon street car transportation. The telephone has made the street cars entirely too slow for the requirements of the sales and service representatives of modern business organizations of all kinds. These demand fleet emissaries, who can jump from point to point in their respective cities in instant response to telephone summons.

"I am constantly receiving letters from salesmen who have found the key to a totally new quality of service to their customers in the possession and use of a motor car. It has enabled them to set a new and wholly unprecedented service pace.

"Enterprising business houses no longer hesitate to pay salesmen who drive their own cars for the use of the latter on a fair basis for both up-keep and depreciation. In fact, many salesmen are required to drive a car—in most cases the concern assists in its purchase or else finances the whole thing.

"A successful salesman conserves his time and energy in every way possible. The motor car is probably doing as much as anything else to help him accomplish his purpose and thus make more money."

GOOD ROADS TALK HEARD EVERYWHERE

Improvements Made When Motorist Appears, Says President Willys.

Wherever a motorist is to be found, from the rugged peaks of the Rockies to the gumbo roads of Iowa, there is talk of good roads. This is because it is impossible to regard the motor car apart from the road on which it runs.

The tremendous improvement in country highways during the past year is a silent but potent argument in favor of purchasing a motor car. While the roads of this country are still in a state which is far from ideal, the man who owns a car is no longer subjected to the fear that bog holes, mud, sand and impassable stretches will make a long tour through the country impracticable.

Recent trips over the Lincoln highway show the entire transcontinental road to be in excellent condition for the many motor tourists who will make the journey to the Pacific coast during 1915. By the agitation over this single road, hundreds of smaller branches, or feeders, have been created, and interest in better roads has been engendered in all parts of the country.

Americans already recognize the wonderful utility of the motor car both as a passenger car and a vehicle for hauling merchandise. But the country roads must become practically perfect before the public can derive the maximum of benefit from the automobile.

MUCH STEEL USED AT FORD FACTORY

Large Crew Kept Busy Unloading Raw Material at Dock.

While the public and the automobile world in particular is watching with interest the Ford Motor company's progress toward an annual output of 300,000 motor cars, little attention is paid to the great amount of raw material which arrives at the factory every day.

Steel is, quite naturally, the most important single item, and it is estimated that 125,000 tons of steel, heat-treated by Ford processes, will be used this year in the production of Ford cars. This does not include iron castings.

The dock where the steel is received presents as active a scene as almost any portion of the plant. Approximately seventy men make up the unloading crew, and they take the material out of the cars onto the trucks, whence it is carried to the big cranes, which bear it still further to the point where it is to be used.

An idea of the amount of steel each man handles may be gained from the fact that these seventy men unload an average of fifty-two cars a day, eight to ten of which are loaded with steel. The car of steel runs from 60,000 to 100,000 pounds. It is estimated by the men in charge that the crew on the steel-receiving dock alone will remove 100,000 pounds of steel from a car every hour, and keep it up all day. Recently a grand total of 1,750,000 pounds of steel and castings was unloaded in nine hours.

The plant of the Ford Motor company is now consuming spark plugs—a small but necessary mechanical tidbit—at the rate of two carloads a month. The motor car owner thinks of spark plugs in ones, twos, fours—or, he might count even a dozen. But when it comes to two carloads of these things, all used in a month, he is appalled.

Many Trucks Shipped.

Washington, May 8.—Preliminary shipments of American motor trucks abroad during February show that no fewer than 1,502 trucks, valued at $3,224,482, were shipped. The average value of the trucks was about $2,137, as compared with $1,464 for the same month last year.

The exports of pleasure cars were 2,230 valued at $1,785,33 in February of this year, against 2,837, valued it $2,389,434 in February, 1914. The average valuation per car also decreased from $838 to $800.

YELLOWSTONE PARK ROUTE FOR AUTOS

Aug. 1 Will Mark New Era for Traffic in the Northwest.

Washington, May 8.—With Yellowstone park open Aug. 1 to self-propelled vehicles, it is a certainty that road travel will greatly increase to the Northwest country. Transcontinentalists will be able to cover the Yellowstone circuit; then, continuing northwesterly, take in Glacier park and reach Seattle through the new Snoqualmie pass road. Southerly to Portland will come the opportunity to see the wonderful Columbia river highway. San Francisco is, of course, the real mecca for the large majority this summer.

In his recently issued order, Secretary of the Interior Lane has accentuated a wide-awake policy in the direction of making it possible for Americans to "See America First."

While it is true that state and local automobile clubs and commercial bodies promptly followed the suggestion of President John A. Wilson of the American Automobile association, that they make clear to the department of the interior the quite general desire for the admission of motor vehicles into Yellowstone park, it must not be forgotten that previous secretaries of the interior had been similarly petitioned with very intangible results.

But Secretary Lane took a real interest in the matter and referred it to his assistant, Stephen T. Mather, for thorough investigation and decision. Familiar with the Western country, though the owner of a farm in Connecticut, Mr. Mather promptly proceeded to the subject and decided upon the plans necessary to admit of the introduction of the modern form of roads transportation.

In the official bulletin from Secretary Lane reference is made to the necessity of new telephone lines, checking stations, and imposing regulations which will insure a safe use of park roads by motor cars as well as by horse-drawn vehicles. This extract from the official communication concisely sizes up the situation:

"Plans carefully worked out by officials of the interior department, with the co-operation of the army officers at the park, call for a schedule which will keep the automobile traffic entirely independent of the stage traffic. All the regular traffic will move in one general direction in making the circuit of the park; the automobiles leaving half an hour before the stages, both morning and evening, from the different entrances or from the intermediate stations at which they are checked in."

It is expected that the road through

On a single gallon of gasoline in a FRANKLIN Car.

Last Saturday 137 FRANKLIN dealers in as many different parts of the country, attached a separate tank, put in exactly one gallon of gasoline, started the car, and ran it until the gasoline gave out.

The highest mileage, 55, was obtained in New Haven, Conn. The lowest, 18.3, in Oil City Pa. Here the mileage was 35.2 on a single gallon.

The Grand National Average

—this remarkable record of 32.1 miles on one gallon—was obtained under AVERAGE conditions — some places cold, others warm—some fair weather, others wet weather—some places calm, others windy.

The results of every demonstration were duly sworn to before Notary Publics by two official observers.

EFFICIENCY FIRST, SAYS KISSEL AGENT

Lightness Must Be Augmented By Strength and Durability.

"If a salesman boasts that the car he offers is exceptionally light, insist that he show you just where it has been lightened," says J. T. Peacha, Jr., local agent for the KisselKar. "Then compare these light parts with the construction of heavier cars and find out where the advantage lies in terms of stability, comfort and good service. In other words, be satisfied before you buy that the reduction in weight was effected to increase efficiency and not merely to lessen the cost of production.

"Look well to the parts most subjected to strain and stress—frame, axels and springs, for instance. Remember that upon the quality of such parts depends not only the continued soundness, but also the comfort of the car.

"The highest priced cars would never be sold if light weight was a consideration with their purchasers. People buy them because they are built for wear and tear and for easy riding. Most of them, considering their dimensions, have but little weight that is not necessary to a well-balanced, harmonious and long-lived chassis.

"The KisselKar weighs what it should for its size—that is, it is built to best meet every emergency of service so that it will show uncommonly low up-keep cost. The items of that cost, in the order of their importance, are depreciation, repairs, tires and fuel and, on this basis, I believe a KisselKar is the most economical car in the world."

DEMOCRACY KEYNOTE.

All Classes Join at Big Ford Factories.

There probably never has been in the history of the world a democracy quite so purely and thoroughly democratic as the factory of the Ford Motor company.

In the Ford shops, making Ford cars, titled Europeans, sons of American millionaires, refugees from the oppression and poverty of the Old World, American college students and now American Indians. Since last winter there have been working in the Ford factory six students of the Carlisle Indian school. Their Ford experience—in practical motor car making—is a part of their college training and will last about nine months, when they return to their classroom studies at Carlisle. The most distinguished of the Carlisle boys, probably, is Peter Colac, a full-blooded Menominee, who was captain and fullback of the famous Carlisle football team in 1914.

Another proof of Ford democracy is the presence in the Ford plant of another distinguished young American. He is Clifford V. Herbert, son of Victor Herbert, the famous American composer. It may be a far cry from music to motor car making, but young Mr. Herbert is "making good" almost as impressively as his celebrated father has made good. Mr. Herbert is a Cornell graduate and is learning the motor car industry "from the inside—out." His college training, of course, included higher mathematics, such as algebra, geometry, etc., and so earnest is he in his work, that he has been teaching higher mathematics at night to his shop foreman. As a result of this, Mr. Herbert is a very popular young man, and whenever he is shifted from one department to another, there is sure to be "a holler" from the bereft foreman.

HOTCHKISS DRIVE HELP TO DRIVERS

Facilitates Starting and Stopping Car, Says Haynes Agent.

"In starting or stopping a car, when the power is applied or the brakes used, there is a tendency of the rear axle to turn with the wheels," declares M. W. Turner, local distributer of the Haynes light six. "As was customary with the older designers, instead of using parts already at hand, an additional part was added to the car in the form of a long heavy bar. This bar extended from the axle to the frame and prevented the turning of the axle.

"In the latest designs, the Hotchkiss drive is used. This term is applied to the driving system where the rear springs take both the drive and torque of the rear axle. In other words, there is no torque bar extending between the rear axle and the frame of the car.

"The two rear springs keep the axle from turning. Greater simplicity and flexibility are obtained. The axle is subjected to no sudden shock because the construction is slightly yielding.

"A baseball catcher extends his hands out as far as possible to catch the ball and then allows his hands to come back to stop the ball gradually. It would be too much of a shock to stop the ball without moving the hands. In other words his hands yield to absorb the shock, the same as the springs take up the jerks on the axle.

"An attempt is made in the torque bar construction to obtain a yielding action by carrying the forward end between two short coil springs, but the construction is clumsy and heavy at best and the rear axle must bear greater jerks and shocks than can be given it with the Hotchkiss drive system, which consists of nothing more than two long flexible arms in place of the one rigid bar."

JENSEN CAPTURES PRIZE.

Receives $500 Offered By Ajax-Grieb Rubber Company.

The first prize of $500 in the annual tire mileage contest conducted by the Ajax-Grieb Rubber company, has just been awarded to Garth C. Jensen. He drove the same tire casing on a Cadillac car a distance of 21,985 miles in a year. The car is owned by John N. Welsby of Stevens Point, Wis.

The second prize of $200 was awarded Frank Gray of Chicago, driver of a Peerless for Carl N. Gottfried, on a mileage of 21,483 miles.

A Cadillac owned by Oliver Smith, livery, Springfield, Mass, and driven by Alfred C. Smith, was awarded third prize of $200 on 21,039 miles.

Among the fifty-eight prize winners of $25 and more there were nine Cadillacs, showing an aggregate of 135,037 miles, or an average of 15,004 miles.

FINE WEATHER BOOSTS TRADE

Kissel Agent Declares That He Is Swamped With Business.

"The beautiful spring weather that has prevailed in most sections of the country has automatically set a majority of people thinking automobile," said J. T. Peacha, Jr., local agent for the KisselKar. "The consequence is that we are swamped with much business that cannot be taken care of, for the reason that everybody asks the impossible—that is, immediate delivery. More people are realizing every year that March or even February is none too early to order a car, but there are still a great many who wait until 'the call of the open' is irresistable and consequently lose some fine days of motoring."

NEWS ABOUT JITNEYS FROM OTHER CITIES

As there are nearly 1,000 signatures to the petition asking for a bus line connecting Chicago's aristocratic North and South sides, prospects for the establishment of the line are rosy. For some time it was feared that the residents of Lake Shore drive and Sheridan road, used to traveling in their own limousines, would object to having buses running on their streets, but this seems to be unfounded. Most of the signatures are those of residents on the two—streets. The buses would operate for 10-cent fares, and thus could not strictly be called "jitneys."

Women in the jitney bus business seems to be the growing fad in Baltimore. Several have entered the field and plan to give transfers between their lines. Hardly a day passes that the putting into operation of new lines is not witnessed. All seem to be doing a thriving business.

Any man wanting to start a jitney in Fort Worth, Texas, must have $72.50 in his pocket, besides owning a car. Of this amount, $60 is for indemnity insurance, $10 for a special city tax, 50 cents for a license plate, $1 for a city number and $1 for a driver's license.

Consul General Mansfield, at Vancouver, in a report on jitney operation in that city says about 350 cars are being operated. Average daily receipts of each jitney are reported at $8, and the traffic of the British Columbia electric railway has been severely affected.

It is stated that in St. Louis the jitneys have been carrying passengers at the rate of 24,000 a week, and the jitney association is in good shape. In fact, it is so powerful that it now is assessing a fine of 50 cents against each driver who is late on his route save through illness or accident.

Buses have made their appearance in Akron, Ohio, with a large number of private owners. Service has been inaugurated from the downtown district to the suburbs. Many of the workers in the rubber plants are patrons.

All jitneys in St. Louis must be inspected every two weeks by the police, to be sure that they are in fit condition for operation. At the last inspection three cars were condemned until repairs had been made.

The Rhode Island branch of the American Federation of Labor has put its official seal of disapproval on the jitney, and called on its members to refrain from riding in the machines that are "robbing" the traction companies of nickels.

Every Minneapolis jitney driver who violates the traffic or automobile laws in the future will be deprived of the use of his machine for a full year, according to an edict issued by Police Judge Smith.

The "Houston," the "Texas" and the "Chronicle" are the three jitneys de luxe in operation in Houston, Texas. The "Houston" is an electric-lighted, steam-heated bus carrying twenty-seven passengers.

SPEED KINGS "PEEVED."

Indianapolis, Ind., May 8.—American racing stars are in arms as the result of criticism leveled against their ability as drivers by Dario Resta, the British winner of the recent Vanderbilt and Grand Prize races at San Francisco not long ago.

Wait until the next Indianapolis 500-mile race, they say, and it will be seen whether the Englishman really has anything on them or not. To date, they claim, they have competed at a disadvantage, their cars having been inferior to the highly specialized foreign mounts. In the next Hoosier contest they expect to compete on even terms in this respect, and show their true form.

WINS OKLAHOMA TITLE.

A stock Overland roadster won the racing championship of Oklahoma, decided by a 99-mile contest held under the auspices of the newly formed Southwest Race association. A large field of fifteen entries competed for the coveted title.

Large stands which had been erected at several points around the two and one-half-mile course were crowded with spectators. Hundreds had made the trip from Northern Oklahoma and Kansas to attend the two-day meet, the first of its kind ever held in the state.

There was a great local rivalry over the championship event, as all of the cars were owned in Oklahoma and the drivers were Oklahoma men. Several of the cars, however, had been specially constructed for racing. Others were practically rebuilt for speed.

In making recommendations for the better policing of Chicago, Chief of Police Gleason has suggested that two motorcycle officers be placed at each police station in the city.

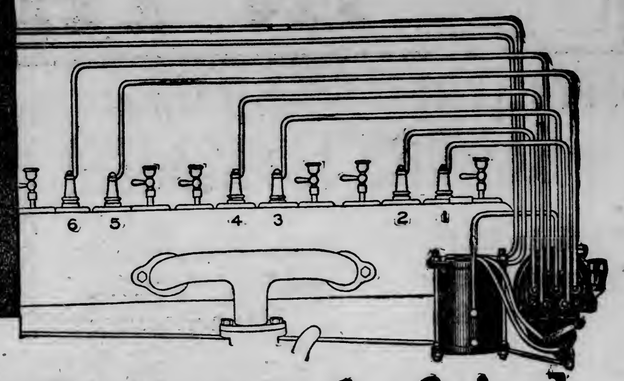
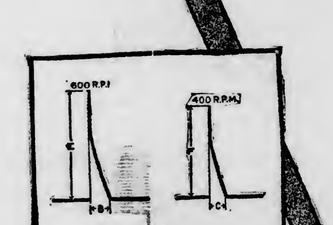
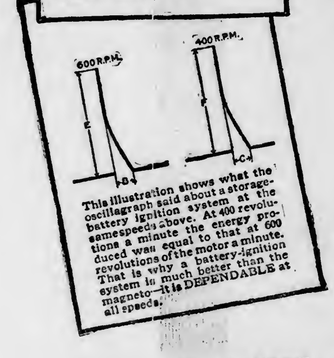
How Studebaker cars are built—
Ignition





The oscillagraph shows the energy that is developed by a magneto or other firing system and how it varies when the speed of the motor varies. This illustration is a record showing the variation in the energy of a magneto when the motor was turning 600 times a minute and 400 times a minute.



This illustration shows what the oscillagraph said about a storage-battery ignition system at the same speeds above. At 400 revolutions a minute the energy produced was equal to that at 600 revolutions of the motor a minute. That is why a battery-ignition system is much better than the magneto—it is DEPENDABLE at all speeds.

SURE steady firing at any speed

Magneto? No, sir! Better than that—the Studebaker-Wagner Electric System that's built to order for Studebaker Cars. Lots of cars, of course, are still using magnetos. But study of the leading cars at the Auto Shows disclosed that more than 52% of the high-grade cars are using a battery-ignition system.

And the reason is simply that electric-system ignition is better than the magneto. When the motor is turning fast, the magneto is satisfactory. But the minute you slow up on a grade or in city traffic the energy developed by the magneto weakens—and that is just when you need ignition energy most.

For when the motor is running at low speeds and the charge is highly compressed, it takes a hotter spark to fire it. And that's why Studebaker is using this battery-ignition system, which is not only simpler but MORE RELIABLE, because it insures maximum voltage at low speeds as well as at high speeds.

It guarantees SURE, steady firing. For the storage battery is ready to deliver the maximum voltage at all times. The motor doesn't skip or miss at low speed. And it PULLS steadily and tenaciously ALL the time the car is moving. Guarantees the CERTAINTY of operation that a man looks for in this car

—because it's a Studebaker

But why not come in and look over this Studebaker ignition system on the car itself. Like to show you the simple wiring system and all the details. Like to have you see the car, too, and know the convenience and the COMFORT and the safety that's built into it. And we'll gladly arrange for any kind of tests you like—hills, roughest roads, anything. Will you phone us? Or if you can't come in, write for our booklet on the Studebaker Electric System.

SOME FAST AMATEUR BASEBALL IS PROMISED

Duluth Amateur League and Duluth Grade School League Should Have a Great Year—What About the Duluth Senior Eight? Welsh a Great Boxer—Jess Willard Should Fight.

BY BRUCE.

WITH two amateur baseball leagues in the field—one making its bid for the favor of the fans today—Duluth promises to be more than usually well supplied with the simon pure brand of diamond sport this season. The Duluth Amateur league is off on its 1915 voyage today, barring the vagaries of the weather, and the game little grade school league has been prospering for some two weeks now.

The Duluth Amateur Baseball league should have a fine season. It has been organized on a sound basis and has practically the best amateur players of the city enrolled on the rosters of the eight teams. As for the grade school league, all of the school kids of the city are solidly behind it, the principals are with it heart and soul, and the fathers and mothers of the kiddos are lending their share of enthusiasm to make the league a real success.

What other cities have been able to do in amateur baseball, Duluth should also be able to accomplish. Properly conducted amateur baseball should vie in interest with the professional sport. Cleveland and St. Paul offer conspicuous examples of the correctness of this stsatement. Both the Duluth Amateur Baseball league and the Duluth Grade School league have started right—now for the best season in the history of the city.

The games of the amateur league will be played at Athletic park when the White Sox are on the road, while the final games for the grade school league will also be staged at Athletic park—and when that date arrives, just watch for the crowd and some real rooting.

The Rise and Fall of Everything.

WHEN Old Man Gibbons amassed copious facts and penned that epic picture of the rise and fall of the Roman empire, he gave to thinking men and women something to speculate deeply upon. Rome achieved to the very pinnacle of civilization, only to degenerate to the very essence of historic decay.

There is always the highest point—the climax—and then there comes the recession.

We wonder if Jimmy Ten Eyck has already turned out the greatest eight that is going to represent Duluth. The boat club had some eight last year—some two eights, to be correct. Can James turn out another as good?

Winnipeg was at its high water mark along about 1912. The senior eight the Peg put forth that season was some eight! Then came the rise of Duluth. The genius of Ten Eyck has kept his eights in the very front rank of American rowing since that time. In 1913 at St. Paul and at Boston, and in 1914 at Kenora and Philadelphia, local eight oared crews defeated the pick of the rowing club crews of the land. What about this year?

In 1913 it was a toss up between the junior and senior eights. The rivalry was so intense that at times it broke out in raw red spots of bitterness. That's the way to speed and determination. Again last year we had some senior eight. That brings us down to this season.

If Jim and the rowing boys equal the senior eight of last year they will be busily engaged in moving some—until the national date, and at the national.

All institutions rise and decline, all nations, all individuals and all athletic clubs. We don't think Jim is fairly well started as yet—but—can he turn out an eight this year equal to that swell one of last year and the couple of grand ones of the year before last?

Just How Good Is Welsh?

MIKE COLLINS is one of the keen followers of boxing who believes that Freddy Welsh is one of the greatest of all glovemen. To a Duluthian who was recently in St. Paul, the Hudson promoter came through with this:

"Welsh has all that Mike Gibbons has—and that's enough. He seems to know a glove is coming before it starts. Freddy would step back out of the way of one of Red Watson's swings and then laugh at the red-head—and if one of those haymakers had connected it might have knocked Welsh's head off.

"Welsh for me; he's one of the greatest of them all. Watson is a fine little fighter, but he had no show with Welsh. What other lightweight is there in the ring who can beat the little Welshman?"

When you come to think of it, Welsh has made a wonderful campaign. The Pontypridd cit has fought them all. While the bouts have without one single exception been limited round encounters, still Welsh has refused no contender.

In a finish match it might prove different; in the short route canters it looks like Welsh is quite safe for the time being.

An Error of Judgment.

WHETHER it was Tom Jones or Jack Curley or Harry Frazee or Lawrence Webber who was responsible for the statement that Champion Willard would not fight for a year, the person making the statement pulled a fine bone.

The American people are chary of this exhibition stuff. No nation in the world will pay more money for real sport, but exhibitions, well they sort of pall. When those behind Willard announced right off the bat that the big cowboy would not fight for a year, a derisive grunt of disgust arose. Why is a champion? That's just it. The old conception was that he was to fight. It would have been a great deal better if those behind Willard had stated that Jess was ready at all times to defend his title. That's the kind of a champion the dear people want. Not fight for a year—get out—why all the rest?

Marty Forkins Again.

WORD comes that Marty Forkins, one of the finest little fellows in the sport game, has caught on big with some moving picture concern and has a lot of real money behind his venture.

Forkins was at one time the manager of Eddie McGoorty and got the Oshkosh Whale more real money than he ever made before going under Marty's wing. Marty spent part of a week last winter fanning with Doc McNulty. Some rare old ring reminiscences were dug up from the archives of the past.

Kentucky Derby On.

Louisville, Ky., May 8.—Fourteen starters, the cream of American thoroughbreds, as judged by their 2-two-old form, probably will face the barrier at Churchill Downs this afternoon when the forty-first annual renewals of the Kentucky derby will be run. The field is the largest in recent years. The race is over a mile and a quarter course and is for 3-year-olds. Its value is approximately $15,000.

WEATHER IS SPOIL SPORT

All Northern League Games Are Again Called Off.

Finances of the Duluth Club Are Dealt Hard Blow.

Old Man Weather, generous at times, has so far frowned upon the efforts of the magnates of the Northern league to start their little old season. Twice eight managers have attempted to send their teams away from the barrier, and twice their efforts have been splashed all over by the bitter enmity of J. Pluvius.

Few realize what a blow rain upon two successive days means to the coffers of the Duluth club—when the two successive days of rain are encountered at Winnipeg.

With four-game series the rule this season in the Northern league, arranged in the effort to cut down traveling expenses, the Sox are scheduled for but two trips to the banner baseball town of the league this year.

There are two games on the schedule of today, Sunday baseball being strictly taboo at the Peg. If rain or cold weather prevents the contests on today's schedule, it will mean that four games will have been knocked out of the schedule and a large slice of lucre kept away from the ready hands of Treasurer Frank Lohr of Herr Blume's outfit.

Should adverse weather conditions compel the cancelling of the games down for today, Winnipeg will not see the Sox again until July 28, when a series of five games is carded.

As Horace Webb, president of the Winnipeg Baseball association; John Burmeister, president of the league, and Harry Blume of the White Sox had counted on three record-breaking gates at the three first games of the season, it will be seen that the bad weather has indeed acted in a mean, low down and inconsiderate manner.

There is a guarantee that travels along with the rain, but it will not begin to reimburse Herr Blume for his expense in getting his players to the Peg and feeding the mob at a first-class hotel.

Winnipeg the Big Stand.

In the days of the past Winnipeg has always been the big stand of the Northern league; the town where sheckles were generously gathered. With the opening series of the season, generally a big money-maker, two-thirds shot to pieces because of rain, President Blume has good and just cause to cuss and use picturesque and vivid adjectives.

It's hard luck—nothing less—for two of the big games to be squelched right off the reel. With a brand new baseball park to be opened and a hot sketch to be put on in the way of inauguration ceremonies, some crowd should have rattled the turnstile count in the game scheduled for yesterday and the day previous. Therefore the wet stuff is to be deplored.

From Winnipeg the Sox troop across the Red river to St. Boniface for a series of four games. Fargo and Grand Forks come next in the order named. After battling with the Flickers the Dooks hit the home trail.

Duluth and Superior will open up at Athletic park on May 21 for a series of six games. At the conclusion of the first at home series of the 1915 season the Sox will hike over to Superior and resume the battle with the Curtis clan, five games being carded at Hislop park.

STRONG TEAM AT BRAINERD

Star Baseball Players Are Secured for Northern Town Team.

Little Minnesota City Nine Is Out for State Honors.

Brainerd, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the strongest aggregations of diamond stars ever assembled to start a season will be the team that will represent Brainerd, Minn., this year in its effort to win the state championship. An athletic association has been formed with a membership of more than 100, while the funds raised are ample to guarantee a good baseball team. A number of the recruits who were picked up at the close of last season by eastern scouts, and who have been trying out at the spring camps, have returned and as a result will give the team a stronger lineup than ever. Richard Bush, a brother of the famous "Bullet" Bush, it is predicted, will this year blossom out as a star. His pitching delivery has been somewhat changed while his experience with some of the majors has meant much to him.

John Gavin, who was drafted by Connie Mack early this spring, has also returned and shows great improvement over last year's work. Al Victor, the old University of Minnesota pitcher, will again do the major part of the pitching while Fred Cook, the old Twin City star, will coach the team.

Last season but one game was lost by the team while the series of games played at Hibbing at the close of the season was won by the locals, giving them first call on the title of Northern Minnesota champions. This year an effort is being made to take on as many Twin City teams as possible while many traveling aggregations are being contracted with.

The opening game, which will be played on May 15 with Verndale, is to be a gala affair. The mayor has declared a half holiday and will pitch the first ball while Father O'Mahoney, an ardent fan, will make the opening speech. Prior to the game a baseball parade will be arranged in which the fans will march, while the different commercial and fraternal organizations in the city have been invited to participate.

AMATEUR BASEBALL AND ROWING ON SPORT CARD

Duluth Amateurs Scheduled to Open Season—Crack Oarsmen Will Compete Over the Duluth Boat Club Course.

With the opening of the Duluth Amateur Baseball league today, and the rowing of the second of the series of spring regattas of the Duluth Boat club, devotees of sports will have a wide range of choice in the amusement line. Mayor W. I. Prince is down to pitch the first ball in the Board of Trade-Patrick game at Athletic park. In addition, the mayor is expected to say some nice things about the grand old game of baseball. As Mayor Prince is a regular dyed-in-the-wool fan, the little talk is expected to be one extremely fitting to the occasion.

In addition to the contest at Athletic park, there is also a game scheduled for the Thirty-second avenue west grounds.

The Canadian Northerns and Duluth Edison teams will clash.

Big Doings at Boat Club.

Jimmy Ten Eyck has lined up a lot of fine material for the regatta that is set down for late this afternoon. Weather permitting, the lovers of the rowing game will have the opportunity of witnessing the best series of races arranged during the season to date.

Sculling is as yet a comparative novelty in Duluth. It is only during the last year that Jim has finally succeeded in getting some real scullers out.

In big Roy Kent, called the best all-around oarsman in North America by several competent judges of form and ability; Walter Hoover, the Northwestern International junior and senior sculling champion, and Dave Horak and Gus Grant entered in the singles, some real racing, in fact sculling of the class that is witnessed at the big regattas, should result. The races between the two picked junior eights will give some of the club members their first opportunity to size up the new candidates for the eight. The bantams are also on the program.

If the weather will only come out of it and forget its grouch, today should furnish some real sport.

This looks like a great year for the amateur league, and it looks like a great year for rowing. Followers of the two sports will have the opportunity to have their fill.

GOLF TO GET EARLY START

Special Event Is Planned at Northland for Next Saturday.

John Mullin, chairman of the games committee of the Northland Golf club, today stated that plans were being made for the holding of some special golf contest over the country club links next Saturday.

It is expected that the regular schedule of the season will begin on Decoration day, but a number of golfers have been out on the links for the past six weeks and the event planned for next week is in the nature of an introduction for the formal schedule opening.

If the enthusiasm shown thus early in the season by the old crowd of players and some of the newcomers in the game, is a criterion as to the approaching season, this is going to be one of the best years in the history of the Northland club.

TENNIS MEN IN TOURNEY

About Forty Entries Made Including a Few Stars of Last Year.

Gopher Nine Beats Macalester; All Classes Will Join in Track Meet.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first round of the university tennis tournament is well under way. About forty entries are competing. Prof. E. T. Dana, the winner of last fall's tournament has already won his first match against Rumph. E. B. Pierce, finalist of last year, has also entered, but as yet has done no tournament playing. W. B. Pan, the Chinese expert, was defeated in the first round. His brother W. H. Pan is yet unbeaten. Two of the three members of the varsity team have already been selected, Sully Smith and Roger Kennedy. The third player will be picked from the showing in the tournament. Stellwagen, last year's captain, will not play this spring. Although possessing an inexperienced team, Minnesota ought to make a good showing in the Western Intercollegiate contest. The loss of Stellwagen will be keenly felt, but many of the other colleges have also lost their last year's stars.

Test for "Trot" Men.

Sigma Delta Psi, the honorary athletic fraternity of the university, has put its candidates to three more tests. Seventeen men tried the low hurdles and only two failed. Twelve men made the senior division at 31 seconds for the 120 yards. Three qualified for the junior division at 33 seconds. The distance for punting the football was: Junior 30 yards; senior, 40 yards. Six qualified for the senior, four for the junior and three failed. Throwing the baseball, 200 yards for the junior, and 250 for the senior was easy; six made the senior mark, four the junior, and none failed. By making the senior division in each tryout Taylor has almost won his membership. For junior membership he needs only to qualify in the two-mile run; for senior, only the tumbling, high jump and the two-mile. Three chapters have recently been added to Sigma Delta Psi, which was found at Indiana university in 1912. The new chapters were established at Yale university, Miami university, and the Colorado School of Mines, making the total number of chapters 18. Minnesota was second in establishing a chapter of this fraternity. The purpose of which is the encouragement of comprehensive physical development and training among college students.

Laws Make Good Showing.

The law school baseball team sent a scare into Coach Thomas' varsity squad Wednesday afternoon, when Howard Lambert, former Minnesota hurler, held the regulars to no runs in five innings and struck out eight men during his stay in the box. Neither side scored, and the game will be finished some time next week. Jones, a late addition to the Gopher pitching staff, took up the mound duty at the beginning of the game, but retired in the third inning in favor of Henry. Jones worked well and may develop into a strong addition to the staff. The Gophers are being sent through a stiff workout on Northrop field in preparation for the two games with Iowa on Friday and Saturday. Young and Capt. Pennington will do the mound duty for the Gophers. Northwestern's victory over Illinois on Tuesday, has aroused the Gophers, and a battle royal is expected when the leaders of the conference race appear here next Monday afternoon.

"Bee" Lawler, a member of the athletic Lawler family, and at present second baseman on the varsity team, has accepted terms from the St. Joseph Western league club and will report to the professional club immediately after he has been graduated from Minnesota this spring. Frosty Thomas, Minnesota's baseball coach and former Minneapolis hurler, is responsible for obtaining Lawler for the St. Joseph team. Lawler has played splendid ball for the Gophers at second sack, working with Haedge and Dietrich, making the fastest infield Minnesota has had in years. He is also ranked as a sterling hitter. Bee has also won praise for his performance in football and basket ball. Like his brothers, Earl and Frank, he was placed among the West's best basket ball men.

Hit and Run Play.

Minnesota used the hit and run play so effectively Tuesday afternoon that Macalester was defeated, 7 to 2. The Gopher team worked in mid-season form and held their opponents at a safe distance throughout the game. Coach Thomas improved the opportunity offered by allowing Grawert to try his skill against the Macalester batsmen. The youngster pitched good ball and held the Methodists to two hits in four innings, when he was replaced by Cy Young, who finished the game. Minnesota scored twice in the opening round. Dietrich started it with a single; Lawler grounded to Anderson, who did a small juggling act with the ball and both runners were safe. Thomas' double steal was successful, and Dietrich scored and Haedge was safe on a fielder's choice. Haedge attempted to steal second, and Lawler scored when he was caught out. Three runs were scored in the second on hits by Mundy and Quist, a base on balls and an error. Macalester scored its two runs in the fourth inning on a base on balls, an error and two hits, a single and double. The Gopher infield did itself proud, and established a record by making four double plays in the course of the game. Dietrich had a large day. He drove out three hits, made an error, four assists and two putouts. The Minnesota line-up as it was Tuesday, and which will probably remain the same throughout the year, was as follows: Longley, cf; Dietrich, ss; Lawler, 2b; Haedge, 3b; Pennington, lf; Quist, 1b; Mundy, rf; Solon, catcher; Grawert and Young, pitchers.

Freshmen Track Meet.

On next Saturday afternoon there will be a freshmen track meet between all the colleges of the university on Northrop Field. The personel of the freshman team will be determined by the showing of the entries. The scheme will obviate the monotony of tryouts. The freshman team thus chosen will enter into competition with the sophomores on May 28. Spirit is running high among the freshmen, especially in the academic and engineering colleges. The amount of good material is very pleasing to the freshman hopefuls, and they fully expect to humble the sophomores. Most of the athletes who expect to enter the meet are already in trim and are out practicing daily. Committees are to be appointed the part of each college in the meet, and to look after the records made on Saturday. The men who make the best showing will be given the best places on the team.

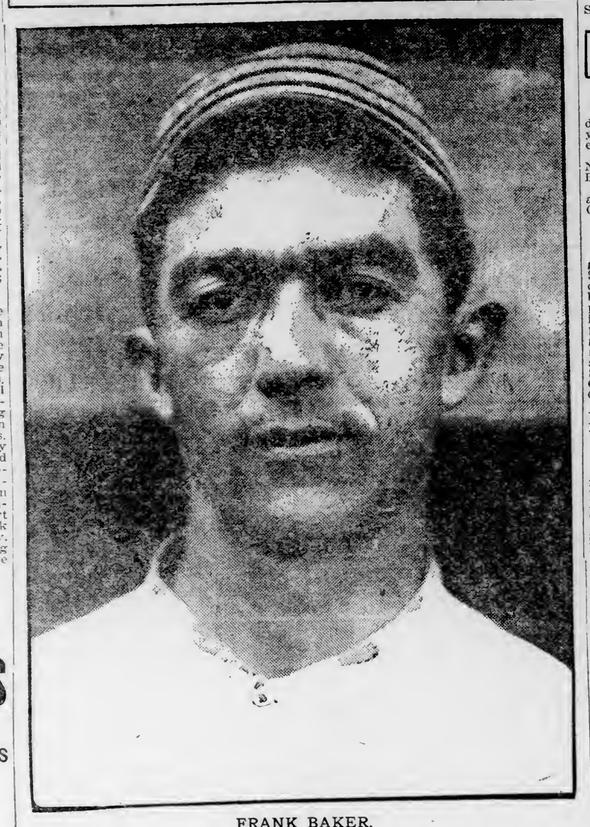
In the Eastern division of the Grade School league the Salters defeated the Lakesides yesterday by the score of 12 to 9. Little Ward pitched real baseball for the losing team, and had he been accorded high class support might have won his game.

The Irvings administered a decisive trimming to the Monroes in the Western division, the score being 12 to 1. Fisher was on the knoll for the winning team and held the enemy safe all the way.

Yesterday's games were postponed ones. Play in the second lap of the schedule will start Monday.

The Jeffersons hold the lead in the Eastern and the Adams in the Western division. The work of Willis and Swanson, the crack battery of the Adams school, has been one of the features of the league season to date.

IS BAKER OUT FOR GOOD?



FRANK BAKER.

The great question in Philadelphia and one of the great questions in the American league, is whether Frank Baker is going to play baseball this year. The Athletics need him and baseball needs him. Great stars are scarce—especially stars of the bright luster of the Trappe slugger. The place of Baker can be filled—but they need J. Franklin right enough.

FAIR AUTO RACES.

Largest Sum Ever Spent for That Purpose Voted.

Hamline, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—A budget of $12,000 for the two-day auto race program at the Minneapolis State fair, Wednesday, Sept. 8, and Saturday, Sept. 11, was voted by the state fair board. It is the largest sum ever spent at Hamline for an auto race program. The big budget insures liberal purses for the 150-mile or 200-mile race that is being planned. A committee is now at work on this program.

Charles Patterson and James R. Hickey, both of St. Paul, supervisor and superintendent of auto race department, were instructed to attend the Indianapolis Speedway race, Memorial day, and induce as many drivers as possible to enter the Hamline races.

THE GOOD JUDGE MEETS THE FOREMAN

JIM, DON'T TELL HIM THE KIND OF STUFF WE USED TO CHEW
JUDGE, EVERY MAN IN THIS BOILER SHOP USES THE REAL TOBACCO CHEW. THE SALT FLAVOR CERTAINLY BRINGS OUT THE GOOD TOBACCO TASTE.
BOILER WORKERS GENERALLY USE THE BEST OF EVERYTHING.

IT'S a double-riveted cinch to get tobacco satisfaction from the Real Tobacco Chew. All the good of the rich tobacco—and a small chew satisfies.

Next to getting it themselves the thing men like best is to tell a friend about the Real Tobacco Chew.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough—cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

THE REAL TOBACCO CHEW IS NOW CUT TWO WAYS!! W-B CUT IS LONG SHRED. RIGHT-CUT IS SHORT SHRED.

Take less than one-quarter the old size chew. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just take a nibble of it until you find the strength chew that suits you, then see how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end. The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up. An excess of licorice and sweetening makes you spit too much.

"Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste."

HIGH SCHOOL TRACK ATHLETES PREPARING FOR SPRING MEETS

ANDERSON TAKING A HURDLE.

While the Central high school track athletes have been hampered by rain during the last week, the men have not been idle. The squad has been put through some indoor work and they have kept in condition. Although the hurdles have not been figuring much in the Central meets of former years, this part of the work is receiving especial attention this year. Coach Glyer is drilling some of the men and he expects to be able to make a good showing in this event in the meets in which the team enters this season. Captain Hrutiford and Anderson appear best of the hurdle men so far. They have made good time and are getting the event off in good form. The interclass meet will be held next Friday afternoon.

Is it possible for the manager of a big league baseball club to play every day and direct his team successfully? When the question was asked five years ago and more it developed a rapid-fire argument. There were Connie Mack, John McGraw and Hughey Jennings as ammunition for the bench manager adherents; the debaters on the side of the playing boss had Frank Chance and Fred Clarke as notable examples of success.

Ask the question today, and what is the result? Only one playing manager in the American league and three in the National. One of the latter trio, Roger Bresnahan of the Chicago Cubs, probably will not catch fifty games in the course of the coming season, while it is not at all certain that Bill Carrigan, who bosses the Boston Americans, will go behind the bat in more than forty battles. Therefore, the tendency seems to be toward the man who does not take an active part in the pastiming.

If the managerial type were selected from the result of the 1914 major league campaigns, the bench manager would win easily. George Stallings, who drove the Boston Braves to the National league pennant and then to victory over the Athletics in the world's series, never leaves the dugout reserved for the players. He does not wear a uniform. Neither does Connie Mack appear on the field in the course of a game and, yet he has won more honors than any other baseball boss in modern times. His team captured the American league pennant last year—if you require that information.

Therefore, any way you choose to take it, the 1914 campaign in the big show was a triumph for the bench manager—indeed, for the citizens'-clothes manager.

It always has appeared best for the manager of a team to confine any work he may choose to do to coaching when his team is on the attack. For how in the world can Charley Herzog of the Reds, for example, know what is going on in the outfield when his attention has to be riveted to a possible play at second base? Or how can Roger Bresnahan, wearing the mask and chest protector for the Cubs, decide what the infield shall do in case of a double steal when Sherwood Magee is at bat and Rajah has to devote his attention to preventing the slugger from knocking a home run? Again, what chance has Miller Huggins to plan inside attacking for the Cards when he is at the plate trying to rap out a single and send in the tying run?

Baseball today is a game of brains, and it usually is up to the manager to exercise the mental powers. The players—and there are few exceptions—are mechanical to the extreme. They expect to be told when to bunt and when to hit it out; when to come in for a play at the plate and when to stay out for a double killing.

It is well known that Connie Mack and George Stallings are supreme in the course of a game. They may permit certain players to use their own judgment on hitting, or bunting, or stealing. But the bosses have an elaborate system of signs, and flash them for almost every important move which comes up in the battle. And because they sit on the bench, with the whole battle before their eyes, and no individual efforts to distract their attention, they are in a position to know what is best to do; in their judgment, at least.

Fred Clarke, when he was a playing manager, was a .300 batsman and one of the best left fielders in the big leagues. He could say to his players, "Do as I do and we'll win." Furthermore, when the Pirates were supreme, baseball was largely a game of "slug and field." Frank Chance, too, was a thoroughly capable first baseman, as well as a first-class batsman, but he had as his aides such brainy players as Evers, Tinker, Kling and Mordecai Brown. Clarke and Chance both found that they could not continue to play and direct their teams. And neither of them was in need of crutches when he quit active work.

In spite of the fact that Mack and Stallings do not wear a uniform and depend upon their respective lieutenants, Davis and Mitchell, for the coaching and other field duties, it would appear that the manager who gets out with his men once in a while should get the best results. Especially has this been true of John McGraw and Hughey Jennings, who inspire their batsmen and baserunners on the attack by their spirited coaching.

The dangers of trying to combine the managership with active playing are illustrated by two men—Charley Dooin and Joe Tinker. Dooin, when he was made manager of the Phillies, was regarded as one of the very best backstops in the big leagues. He soon discovered that he could not attend to both jobs and the experts began to say that "a good catcher had been turned into a mediocre manager." It matters not what sort of a boss Charley was, the fact remains that in the final games of the 1914 season, when he knew that he was rid of the worries of directing the team, Dooin went hehing the bat and, in the words of Pat Moran and others who saw it, "no better exhibition of catching ever has been seen." Judging from the reports from the Cincinnati camp, Charley is proving that he still is a first-class maskman when he does not have to combine that labor with the piloting of the machine.

Joe Tinker, several years ago, was rated as one of the best all-round shortstops the game had known. But he went to Cincinnati to boss the Reds and lost his cunning. Last season, as manager of the Chicago Feds, he took frequent vacations from his infield post and since has admitted that a man cannot do two things and do them both well.

On the other hand, is it not strange that the first choice in many circles for the American league pennant in 1915 should be the Boston Red Sox, directed by Bill Carrigan, a playing manager? And in the National league, St. Louis, with Second Baseman Miller Huggins at the helm, and Chicago, led by Roger Bresnahan, catcher, are by no means relegated to the rear end of the procession by the experts. In fact, Cincinnati, with Shortstop Charley Herzog in charge, is expected to raise some fuss.

But the fact still remains that in recent years the bench manager has been most successful, and soon the playing boss will be a thing of the past, unless we are greatly mistaken.

FORMER PRESIDENT GROWS PROPHETIC

W. H. Taft Tells Badger Stalwart Republicans G. O. P. Will Win.

Madison, Wis., May 8.—"I believe there is a favorable prospect of Republican success at the polls in 1916. I believe it because the business men throughout the country are roused to a necessity of staying statutory action opposed to the continued investment of capital.

"The past eighteen months of stagnation in business—of factories closed, of thousands on thousands of toilers idle—has had a good effect on the people. It has awakened them—opened their eyes. I believe that under these circumstances we can see the noses of the people pointed in a Republican direction."

This was the climax of the first public political utterance by William Howard Taft since the close of the 1912 campaign. The speech was delivered here before a meeting of the Stalwart Republicans.

DULUTH GIRL PROBABLY PERISHED WHEN STEAMER LUSITANIA WENT TO BOTTOM

List of Survivors Makes No Mention of Miss Millie Baker.

Sailed From New York to Continue Musical Studies Abroad.

Mother Overcome By News; Daughter Sent Will Before Leaving.

Miss Millie Baker, well-known Duluth singer, who was a passenger on the ill-fated Lusitania, the big Cunard liner that was sent to the bottom of the sea off the coast of Ireland by a German torpedo yesterday afternoon, was, in all probability, among the thousand or more who perished with the sinking of the steamer.

Late dispatches carried by the Associated Press fail to show that Miss Baker was on the small list of survivors reported. Relatives and friends of the young woman are hopeful, however, and are anxiously awaiting news that she has been saved.

Overcome with grief, Mrs. A. Baker, her mother, lies prostrated at her home, 2209 Minnesota avenue. Since she was informed of the sinking of the boat yesterday afternoon she has been constantly under the care of two physicians, Drs. H. S. Davis and E. Z. Shapiro. She was reported to be seriously ill today.

"Miss Baker was very prompt in writing or communicating with her mother," said one of the family physicians this morning. "Mrs. Baker felt sure that if her daughter had been saved, she would have received a cablegram from her before this time."

Miss Baker was carried on the first cabin list of the Lusitania as "Miss M. A. Baker of New York." Her mother, as well as a number of Duluth friends received letters from her written on Friday last week, the day before the Lusitania sailed.

In the letter which she wrote to her mother on the eve of her departure for Europe was enclosed her last will and testament, in which she bequeathed all to her mother. Her friends here, however, do not believe that she had a premonition of death.

Visited Mother at Christmas.

The young woman visited her mother in this city during the Christmas holiday season, leaving Duluth for New York on Jan. 3 last. In New York since the first of the year, Miss Baker has been studying vocal culture with Madame Giulia Valda. She was sailing from New York for Spain, where she expected to resume her lessons with her former teacher, Prof. Trabadello.

Miss Baker would have made her debut in grand opera at Madrid last fall if the war had not broken out. She did not leave Europe for America, however, until it became imperative. Her present trip to Europe had been planned to complete her studies and arrange for her debut in the operatic world.

Miss Baker is well known to a great many Duluth people, having lived in this city for a number of years with her mother. As a child she attended the local schools. Her many friends in this city are eagerly awaiting any news that she is safe.

MISS MILLIE BAKER.

Ogden H. Hammond, formerly of Superior, who was a passenger on the Lusitania, is reported to have been saved. The name of Mrs. Hammond, his wife, who was also a passenger, is not included on the list. The Hammonds resided in New York city. Mr. Hammond was the son of the late Gen. John Henry Hammond, one of the founders of the city of Superior.

P. George Hanson, local general agent for the Cunard line for Duluth and vicinity, stated this morning that he had not ascertained as yet as to whether there were any other passengers on the Lusitania from Duluth or vicinity booked as second or third cabin passengers. This information will probably be available early this afternoon.

RESCUE STEAMERS

of Queenstown are rendering every assistance possible in the removal of the dead and assisting the injured to hospitals. The manager of the Cunard line has taken ample hotel accommodations as well as roms in lodging houses, and here the survivors are being sent.

Never Witnessed Such a Scene.

Queenstown has never witnessed such a scene before. The dead are being conveyed to morgues and undertaking establishments and numbers of motorcars have been brought into service to take the injured to hospitals. The less seriously injured are being helped ashore by sailors and soldiers.

Both men and women rescued, if they are able to walk, refuse to remain in their hotels. They haunt the docks, waiting and watching for friends and relatives.

Many of the survivors are still bewildered from their terrible experiences and their accounts of the sinking of the Lusitania are not entirely clear. It is to be noted, however, that one and all unite in eulogizing the manner in which the ship's officers behaved.

Ship Listed Rapidly.

Five minutes after the Lusitania was hit with the second torpedo amidships, she listed to such an extent that the lifeboats on one side could not be launched at all. The work of getting as many people as possible, for the most part women and children, into the only boats that could be got clear was at once undertaken by the captain and officers and men of the Lusitania and performed efficiently and with heroism.

The scene as the big liner went down is described by the survivors as heartrending beyond words. Battling for life, the passengers called to relatives and friends or bade each other good-by.

Picked Up Survivors.

The small boats which had gotten away from the side of the liner picked up a good many survivors who, with life belts or clinging to wreckage, were floating on the surface of the water. But soon the boats all were crowded. These boats were in turn picked up by rescuing steamers coming at full speed from shore points, but in many cases four and more hours elapsed before the rescuers reached the scene. In many cases the only work left for the rescue workers to do was to collect from the water the floating bodies of the dead. Several passengers were taken aboard trawlers severely injured, only to die before they could be transferred ashore.

WASHINGTON OFFICIALS FACE THE GRAVEST COMPLICATIONS

Stone pointed out that qualifying circumstances must be taken into consideration, because the Lusitania was a belligerent vessel, but he considered the attack on the American neutral steamer Gulflight a much more serious offense against neutral rights.

The American consuls at Queenstown and vicinity were ordered to render every assistance to the injured and survivors and take testimony.

Visibly Depressed.

The president, Secretary Bryan and other members of the cabinet were visibly depressed. Persons who talked with them found them sick at heart and grieved at the horror of the catastrophe. Notwithstanding that warnings had been given, it had been regarded as inconceivable by high officials that the threatened sinking of the vessel would actually be carried into effect. The fact that the Lusitania was a British ship, flying the British flag and even had contraband of war aboard did not remove from their minds the ever-recurrent thought that a hostile submarine deliberately destroyed the ship with the knowledge that hundreds of defenseless neutrals and women and children were aboard.

Everywhere that aspect overshadowed the legal phases of the case, for, while there is said to be no precedent in international law for the attack without warning on a belligerent merchantman, it was realized that defense might be made on the charge that guns were mounted on the dock. That, however, the British government has denied.

May Cover all Cases.

In many quarters it was thought probable representations to Germany will be general, covering all the cases of attack on American vessels. It was pointed out that the case of the Gulflight, where torpedoed without warning, with a loss of three American lives, might be made the basis for action by the United States, but that the Lusitania incident, the death of Leon C. Thresher, an American on the British steamer Falaba, and the attack by German airmen on the American steamer Cushing might be grouped as an indictment by the American government against Germany for failure to observe the rules of international law with respect to the lives of non-combatants.

In official quarters and among diplomatists, there was apprehension that the American people might not consider representations sufficient. A special session of congress has been talked of but there has been no intimation of it as yet from any official quarter.

Sparing of Comment.

Officials everywhere, sparing in their comment, realized that a word from the high officials of the government might have weight with public opinion before the facts had been received and digested.

"We are informing ourselves as rapidly as possible of the facts and doing what we can for those injured," was the only statement Secretary Bryan would make.

Other international developments were completely overshadowed. The annexation of Belgium by Germany was hardly commented upon. The Far Eastern crisis, now averted, was almost totally eclipsed.

In naval quarters while the torpedoing of the Lusitania was deplored, there was much speculation as to why the swift liner had slowed down in the path of submarines. Officers said it was very difficult for a torpedo to strike a big ocean liner going at full speed and did not understand where the British destroyers that would ordinarily control the course of the vessel, could have been when the Lusitania was struck in broad daylight.

The president returned to the White House at noon and resumed reading dispatches. He continued to refuse to make any comment.

Statement By Stone.

Chairman Stone of the senate foreign relations committee made this statement:

"The tragedy is, of course, profoundly regretted. If the reports as to the loss of life are true, the sympathies of the civilized world will be deeply stirred. But for us, it seems to me that good sense dictates that we keep our heads until we get our bearings. It is a bad time to get rattled and act impulsively. Don't 'rock the boat.'

"Without expressing an opinion as to our relations to this event or as to our duty in the premises, there are some facts we cannot overlook and are bound to consider. We cannot overlook the fact that the Lusitania was a British ship flying the British flag and subject at any time to be put into the actual naval service of the government. Indeed, it is stated that at the time she was attacked she was carrying military reservists to England for service in the British army. True, there were American citizens aboard, but it must not be forgotten that they went aboard a belligerent ship with full knowledge of the risk and after official warning by the German government. When on board a British vessel they were on British soil. Was not their position substantially equivalent to being within the walls of a fortified city? If American citizens stay within a city besieged or threatened and the enemy attacks, what should our government do if our citizens should be injured? I express no opinion at this time. I am merely suggesting reasons why we should maintain our equilibrium and not 'rock the boat,' until we know what we are about.

Where We Come In.

"Aside from the loss of American lives, let us ask ourselves just where we come in. At the present moment, and with the light now before me, I confess that it appears to me that from our standpoint as a neutral nation the Gulflight case presents a more delicate and serious complication than the case of the Lusitania."

Senator Lodge, ranking Republican member of the foreign relations committee, said he was not prepared to discuss the sinking of the Lusitania. The sinking of a passenger ship, even of a belligerent, without giving passengers an opportunity to leave, the senator thought a new thing in warfare.

Among senators at the capital there was a general feeling of alarm, but all refrained from entering into public discussion while awaiting developments. The opinion prevailed that loss of American lives and the manner in which the Lusitania was destroyed would arouse public opinion tremendously.

Confers With Lansing.

Secretary Bryan reached his office early and immediately went into conference with Counsellor Robert Lansing and Assistant Secretary Phillips. The consular bureau was flooded with inquiries from relatives of Americans.

Officials showed by their demeanor they realized they were facing a grave situation fraught with many possibilities, but were giving their immediate attention to using every available agency to get facts.

Secretary Garrison conferred with his assistants and Secretary Daniels his aides. Everywhere the attitude of President Wilson was the subject of grave consideration. Secretary Garrison canceled arrangements for a week's tour of river and harbor improvement in the South, of his own volition, he said, because he thought it necessary to be in touch with his department.

Most officials seemed to agree that it might be several days before the policy of the United States could be formulated because of the scarcity of information of an official character as to the circumstances under which the Lusitania was sunk. During that time, it was hoped the opinion of the people of the United States would crystallize and aid the administration in reaching a decision.

out yesterday. Our advance forces crossed the river Wisloka, near Krosno yesterday evening. The total number of prisoners taken in the Galician arena since the end of April should, considering the cutting off of many scattered forces, so far have been increased to about 70,000 men. Thirty-eight cannon, including nine of heavy caliber, have been taken from the Russians."

French Statement.

Paris, May 8, 2:30 p. m.—The French war office this afternoon gave out a report on the progress of hostilities which reads:

"In Belgium yesterday at daybreak the Germans delivered a violent attack against the British lines near St. Julien. This attack was repulsed and the enemy suffered heavy losses.

"To the south of Ypres, at Hill No. 60, the British troops yesterday recaptured a further section of the trenches lost by them three days ago.

"There is nothing to report on the remainder of the front."

gation of the war and was accompanied by Mrs. Hubbard.

Charles Frohman, theatrical manager and producer, whose name had not been included among the survivors, was another passenger. He was accompanied by Justus Forman, playwright and author.

Charles Klein, one of the best known American playwrights, also accompanied Mr. Frohman.

Among others whose names had not been included in the list of survivors were:

Commander J. Foster Stackhouse, the British explorer and head of the proposed British Antarctic oceanographical expedition, which contemplated a seven-year trip to chart the Southern seas. The fruition of the expedition had been delayed by the war.

Dr. Pearson, a well known American engineer, also one of the Lusitania's passengers, was associated with Commander Stackhouse, also one of the backers of the expedition. Dr. Pearson, who was accompanied by his wife, was well known in New York as a financial factor in Mexican railroad and electrical power enterprises.

A. L. Hopkins, president of the Newport News Shipbuilding Drydock company, who was said to have gone abroad on a business trip in connection with ship building.

C. Chever Hardwick of East Orange, N. J., of the firm of Burr & Hardwick, importers.

Gerald A. Letts, an importer and dealer in antiques.

Herman A. Myers, head of the feather importing house of H. & E. & S. Myers.

Herbert Stuart Stone, elder son of the general manager of the Associated Press, is another American passenger not accounted for. Young Mr. Stone was well known as the one time head of the book publishing firm of H. S. Stone & Co. and the founder and editor of the Chap Book and the House Beautiful, two successful magazines.

LUSITANIA DEATH LIST IS 1,216

two fishing boats had picked up 100 others.

Compiling Lists.

The work of compiling lists of those saved is progressing slowly because of the indescribable confusion at Queenstown, but apparently few first cabin passengers are among the survivors. The United States consul at that port can account for only fifty-one Americans saved out of 188 who were aboard. This roll does not include the names of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, Charles Frohman, Elbert Hubbard, Justus Miles Forman, the author, or Charles Klein, the playwright. Of the Americans aboard 106 were in the first cabin; sixty-five in the second and seventeen in the steerage.

The heavy loss of life among the first cabin passengers is believed to have been due to the calmness and self-possession they displayed in face of danger. Most of them were at luncheon when the steamer received her death blow and declined to join the rush for the boats and life belts. They believed the Cunarder would remain afloat until assistance could arrive.

Many of Crew Saved.

A considerable proportion of those at Queenstown are members of the crew, including Capt. Turner, with the first and second officers. All the other officers are believed to have perished.

There is no evidence, however, that the time-honored rule of the sea—"Women and children first"—was violated. At least one of the survivors, a Toronto newspaper man, gives evidence that there was no panic among the crew and that the sailors acted promptly in getting the passengers into the ship's boats.

Apparently every precaution had been taken against a surprise attack by a submarine. Lookouts were on the alert constantly as the giant steamship speeded toward the Irish coast. Difficulty was experienced in launching the boats because of the heavy list of the Lusitania almost immediately after she was torpedoed. Several of the frail craft evidently capsized as they were launched, or soon afterwards.

Life Belts Saved Many.

Many of the passengers owed their rescue to life belts, which kept them afloat until they were picked up by boats. Among this number was Lady Mackworth, daughter of David A. Thomas, the Welsh "coal king," and Julian De Ayala, Cuban consul-general at Liverpool.

Investigation has failed to reveal that the steamer was given warning of the proposed attack by the submarine, which appears to have been lurking off the Irish coast bent upon destroying the largest and fastest ship engaged in trans-Atlantic traffic.

The lookouts sighted the periscope of a submarine 1,000 yards away and the next instant they saw the trail left by a torpedo as it flashed on its course. Then came a terrific crash as the missile pieced the liner's side, followed almost immediately by another, which littered the decks with wreckage. The course of the liner was at once turned toward shore. Four torpedoes apparently were fired at the Lusitania, but only two of them found their mark.

Killed By Torpedoes.

The loss of life caused by the torpedoes themselves and the explosions they caused must have been terribly heavy. The tragic freight of bodies taken to Queenstown bears evidence of the havoc wrought. Many of those taken ashore were seriously injured and more than a score died after they were removed to Cork and Queenstown hospitals. A long line of stretcher bearers marched from the piers as tugs and trawlers arrived. The people of the Irish city opened their homes to those who had been saved and everything possible is being done for their comfort.

Probably no event of the war has caused such intense excitement in London as the sinking of the Lusitania. Enormous crowds surrounded offices of the Cunard line all night, scanning anxiously the bulletins received from Queenstown. The company announced that an accurate list of survivors would be compiled as speedily as possible, but that the immediate needs of those saved were being given first attention.

The press of London expresses intense indignation at the tragedy.

PASSENGERS WERE WARNED

Advertisement of German Embassy Printed Before Lusitania Sailed.

New York, May 8.—The Lusitania, with a total of 1,251 passengers on board, of whom 188 were Americans, with a crew of 816, sailed from here last Saturday in the face of a warning published on the day of her departure by the German embassy, which stated that travelers intending to embark on British ships did so at their risk of the ship being destroyed in accordance with the German zone decree.

This warning, published in the form of an advertisement, did not result in the cancellation of a single passage, nor did anonymous notes of warning, said to have been received by some passengers just before the big liner left her pier, deter anyone from sailing.

Reports from Washington that it was privately known in official quarters that the Lusitania was to be torpedoed at the first opportunity, gave color to the opinion expressed in shipping circles last night that the embassy's warning was intended to apply particularly to the Lusitania.

"Travelers intending to embark on the Atlantic voyage," read the advertisement, "are reminded that a state of war exists between Germany and her allies and Great Britain and her allies, and that the zone of war includes the waters adjacent to the British Isles, that, in accordance with a formal notice given by the imperial government, vessels flying the flag of Great Britain or any of her allies are liable to destruction in those waters, and that travelers sailing in the war zone on the ships of Great Britain or her allies do so at their own risk.

Recalls Titanic.

Yesterday afternoon and last night anxious friends and relatives of the Lusitania's passengers besieged the offices of the Cunard line, and the scene recalled those at the offices of the White Star line when the Titanic sank three years ago.

Mr. Vanderbilt was among those credited with receiving anonymous letters of warning. All deprecated the possibility of danger to the ship, and Charles P. Sumner, general agent of the line, announced at the time that the Lusitania's speed of twenty-five knots made her immune from submarine attack. In addition to those on her passenger list, the Lusitania carried thirty-six who were to have sailed the same day on the Anchor liner Cameronian, which at the last moment was held in port by orders of the British admiralty, presumably to be sent to Halifax.

War Supplies on Board.

The Lusitania's cargo was valued at about $750,000 and contained a large quantity of war supplies. Her manifest included 280,000 pounds of brass and copper wire, $66,000 worth of military goods and 5,471 cases of ammunition valued at $200,024, all of which was contraband of war. The ship itself, Cunard officials said today, was covered by $5,000,000 war risk insurance.

The news created perhaps the greatest consternation in exporting circles, where the question arose as to the probable course of the steamship companies in maintaining their schedules in future. There were no cancellations announced and despite the fate of the Lusitania, the Anchor line Transylvania sailed for Liverpool last evening. Out of her 879 passengers only 12 canceled their passage.

Among those for whom anxious inquiries were made at the Cunard line's offices last night was Dr. T. Houghton of Troy, N. Y., said by officials of the company to be the son of a former New York state supreme justice. Dr. Houghton was on his way to Belgium to take charge of the war hospital at La Panna. He went as the representative of Mme. Adepage, head of the Belgian relief in this country. Dr. Houghton had a premonition of disaster and persuaded her to allow him to go in her stead. Before embarking, he made his will.

The Passengers.

A revised list of the passengers, made public by the line tonight, showed there were 1,251 passengers in all on board. The crew numbered between 700 and 800, making a total of more than 2,000 on the steamer. The list showed the various nationalities of the passengers as follows:

First cabin—Great Britain, 179; United States, 106; Greece, 3; Sweden, 1; Mexico, 1; Switzerland, 1.

Second cabin—Great Britain, 521; United States, 65; Russia, 3; Belgium, 1; Holland, 3; France, 5; Italy, 1; unknown, 2.

Third class—Great Britain, England, 204; Ireland, 39; Scotland, 13; Russia, 59; United States, 17; Persia, 18; Greece, 3; Finland, 1; Scandinavia, 4; Mexico, 1.

There were many inquiries from the theatrical district tonight in regard to Charles Frohman, another of the prominent Americans aboard.

The Lusitania is the third big transatlantic liner lost since the war started. The two others were the White Star liner Oceanic, and the North German Lloyd steamer Kaiser Wilhelm Der Grosse.

A fourth big steamer, the mammoth Cunarder Aquitania, was severely damaged in a collision with the Leyland liner Canadian off the Irish coast in the latter part of last August.

Calumet Man Saved.

Calumet, Mich., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thomas Matthews, a miner employed here by the Centennial Mining company, who was numbered among the passengers on the steamship Lusitania, has cabled from Queenstown, Ireland, that he is among the rescued.

It is feared that Fred J. Millard of Hancock, who was on his way to Cornwall to visit his sick father, was lost, as no word has been received from him.

The ceremony was followed by a wedding breakfast in the rose garden of the St. Louis hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Walton left in the afternoon for East Shore Park, White Bear, Minn., where they will spend the summer.

Miss Lillian Carlston of Ashland, Wis., and Rev. John E. Stone, pastor of the Swedish Methodist church at Trade Lake, Wis., were married in Duluth Wednesday evening by Rev. Gustaf Tapper at his home, 2602 West Third street. Mr. and Mrs. Stone left Thursday afternoon for Trade Lake, where they will make their home.

Invitations have been received in Duluth to the wedding of Miss Hazlett Dudgeon of Minneapolis, and R. H. Fryberger, former Duluthian, now of Ironwood, Mich., which will take place at the home of the bride's mother in Minneapolis, June 5. The bridegroom-elect is the nephew of H. B. Fryberger, 2001 Columbus avenue, this city.

Many Duluth School Children Will Attend Orchestra Concerts

ALMA BECK, CONTRALTO.

OF THE four vocal artists accompanying the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra on its 1915 spring tour three are making the trip for the first time, while one, Miss Alma Beck, contralto, is booked for what may rightly be termed a "return engagement." Miss Beck was one of the soloists last year and her success during the entire tour of eight weeks was such that she was re-engaged for this season, even before the tour was quite finished.

Miss Beck will be one of the soloists to appear with the Minneapolis symphony at the June festival here under the auspices of the Duluth Curling club on June 4 and 5.

She is a Cincinnati girl and her first appearance was made with the symphony orchestra of her home city. The prophesies of a brilliant career, made by the critics at that time, have every prospect of a rapid fulfillment.

The enthusiasm which the coming of the Minneapolis Symphony has created is evidenced in the manner in which students of the various schools of Duluth are planning attendance. Pupils from the Central high school, under the leadership of Miss Taylor, Mrs. Anne Dixon and A. F. M. Custance, have reserved more than 200 seats for Saturday night, June 5. One hundred seats for Friday night have been taken for students of the Denfeld high school. S. A. Foster and Dwight Hiestand are making the arrangements for the Denfeld school students.

Miss Melba Danielson will chaperone a party of eighty normal school girls. Miss Katherine King, principal of the Bryant school, and her teachers will chaperone 160 grade pupils from that school at the Friday night concert, and the pupils of the Endion will also attend Friday night, under the direction of Miss Eleanor Torrey, and the Jefferson school students, Miss Calverly, chaperone, will attend Friday night.

One of the schools to send the largest attendance Friday night will be the Washington school in which Miss Mary L. Olds has been arousing interest in the concerts.

Other grade schools which are making arrangements to attend Saturday night are the Ely, Longfellow, Merritt and Ensign schools, while a number of others have not as yet completed their plans.

The parochial schools are also taking an active interest and will send big delegations.

It had been the original intention of the Curling club directors to decorate the rink with evergreens, but this would take from the seating capacity to a large extent, and it was planned this week to make a low price to all school children of the city, giving them the advantage of hearing good music at a nominal sum, and thereby decorating the great auditorium with childish faces.

May 21 the subscription lists for the music festival will close, and the usual prices for symphony concerts will be charged after that date.

DANCE COMMITTEE.

Danish Violinist Has Genuine "Strad"

AXEL SKOVGAARD.

AXEL SKOVGAARD, the celebrated Danish violinist, who will give a recital Monday, May 24, at Our Savior's Norwegian Lutheran church, plays on a Stradivarius that he obtained as the result of a chance meeting with a London dealer in musical instruments. The man had a fine collection of Italian violins, real antiques, cracked scratched, and scraped through more or less rough life for several centuries. He also had in his collection a violin that he kept in a fire-proof vault, apparently just as it came from the maker's shop but it was lettered, "Antonius Stradivarius, Anno 1712." The thought of owning this wonderful instrument took such a powerful hold upon Skovgaard that he did not rest until it was his. The price paid was $13,000. The violinist concludes "The Story of My Violin" with these words: "My joy would be complete if I could once play for Stradivarius, who loved this violin so deeply. He should hear it and see it once again; although nearly 200 years old it is still entirely new."

Peggy Peabody's Observations

Teach Children to Love Birds.

If the humane men and women who are interested in preserving the birds and preventing the torture of these tiny creatures would have their good intentions and efforts bear fruit they must, to a very great extent, tolerate what exists and devote their energies in this direction to the school children. It is the coming generations who can make the killing and torturing of all birds and animals an impossibility, and it is training at home and in school that will bring about the change if it is to be accomplished.

There is no better way to impress the lesson of kindness and consideration to birds upon children than by instruction that takes them into the fields and woods where many winged creatures may be studied and viewed at close range. Particularly at this season can an interest and an understanding that the birds are not unlike human beings, and entitled to the same measure of consideration, be cultivated. For the birds are building their nests now, and their cunning, thrifty habits are a lesson in themselves and very entertaining to the average child.

It is said that most of the damage that is done to birds outside the field of commercial gain is done through ignorance. The little boy who spys a delicately constructed nest does not know of the hard work that it represents to two little birds, the purpose for which it was built, and the consternation and suffering its loss will cause. He does not realize that if the nest he carries away contains eggs it is quite as though some great giant came along and carried him and his little sisters and brothers off under the eyes of his mother.

He doesn't know, but he can be taught and perhaps some day, if this system of teaching children to be considerate of all things that live and breathe is persisted in, we shall ultimately produce a race of women who will not wear the breasts and wings of birds upon their hats or the aigrette either upon headpieces or in the hair for decorative purposes, no matter how strongly fashion urges it.

The practice of wearing the aigrette is most cruel. The herons from which these beautiful plumes are taken are killed during the nesting time in order to procure them at their fullest beauty. The young are thus left in the nest to starve, having no one to supply them with food. Let a woman stop and consider whence they come and they will undoubtedly instantly lose favor with any woman whose heart is in the right place and who has any desire to do as she would be done by.

MISS ESTHER SLETTEN, THE PRINCESS.

The faculty of the Duluth normal school entertained the students at a delightful May day party last evening.

The party was given in the gymnasium, each class taking part. The freshmen and sophomores, carrying lighted joss sticks, gave an elaborate dance in the dimly-lighted gymnasium. The juniors, in green jerkins and yellow caps, gave a fancy dance, and the seniors gave a dramatization of the "Sleeping Beauty." Esther Sletten was the princess; Esther Engelbretson, the prince, and Mabel Molin the fairy. Other members of the senior class were courtiers and attendants.

Two dances, a Maypole dance, by the kindergarten girls, and the "Dance of the Spring Flowers," by Rowna Hansen, Dorothy Pierce, Lester Roberts and Ruth Taylor, who were dressed in Greek costumes with festoons of flowers, formed the second part of the program.

The May queen, Esther Sletten, and her procession then entered and after a May day dance by Rowna Hansen and Ruth Taylor, the crowning of the queen took place.

A grand march, in which everyone took part, concluded the evening's program.

dents in the senior class this year, of whom 219 will receive the required sixteen credits for graduation.

The individual reports for the month of April were completed and issued during the last week, and the report cards given out. This is the last week before the close of school, and the students are settling into the final grind to determine their standing. The fate of many of them for the entire semester will rest upon the work done in the next month. No more reports will be issued between now and the close of school.

April Honor Role.

The April honor roles for all of the classes were announced yesterday by Principal Young. The results show that an unusually large number of pupils were successful in making one or the other of the two lists. A student must get 90 or above in at least four subjects to attain consideration in the "A" honor role, and 90 or above in at least three studies gained classification for him in the "B" list. The April lists show that 162 pupils were especially successful in their studies. As usual, owing to their greater enrollment the freshmen were the most prominent on both lists. Considering the size of classes, however, the seniors led by a good margin. Of the total, 100 made the "B" list and 62 were classed in the "A" role. The complete lists follow:

The Lambs dramatic club held one of its most important meetings of the year following the close of school yesterday. Nearly 150 were present, it being the first meeting at which the girls were admitted. The election of officers was the most important accomplishment of the day. Harry Haines resigned his position as president. He was really the founder of the organization, being the one who worked hardest for its establishment. The members all regretted his resignation. Donald Alexander, who this year held the position of secretary-treasurer, was elected for the position of president next year. The girls received consideration in the election for vice president. Out of several nominations, Helen Wannebo was given the honor. She will prevail in the absence of Mr. Alexander. Sarah Weinberg was chosen secretary, giving the girls two representatives in the list of officers. Marshall Haines, a brother of Harry, the former president, was elected to the office of treasurer. Jacob Garon received the unanimous vote of the members for the position of advertising manager.

The meeting yesterday was the first one at which the girls were admitted. Nearly 100 names were received asking for admission. It was decided to allow all of the girls to become charter members. The initiation fee is 10 cents and if a member is absent from any meeting without an excuse he is expelled from the club.

At present the members are concerned chiefly with the benefit performance to be given at the Lyceum theater Monday evening. The students will present a short sketch as a curtain raiser to the main attraction of the Baldwin Players. It will be a courtroom scene, known as "The Great Pumpkin Case of Guff vs. Muff." The cast is being coached by Mr. Rasey, well known in local dramatic circles as one of the best coaches that ever attempted the drilling of amateurs at Central. The cast of important characters is as follows: Judge Fobb, Russell Duncan; Clerk Fizz, Norman McKiver; Lawyer Foozle, Irving Grover; Lawyer Squibbs, Jacob Garon; Whipsaw, a bailiff, Sam Gofon; Hi Guff, plaintiff, Sam Litman; Ab Muff, defendant, Donald Alexander; Pike Whiffles, Robert Kerr; Sam Gump, a witness, Monick Altman; Abe Snooks, a witness, Lawrence Moore; Doc Peddle, a witness, Edward Gould; jury foreman, Stanley Laskey; Noisy Loafer, John Moore.

Benefit for Lambs.

The Baldwin play for this event will be "Rebecca of Sunny Brook Farm." All money taken in over a certain amount Monday evening will go to the Lambs' club. The money will be used either to establish a dramatic library in the high school or to make some much-needed improvements on the school stage.

The second and final open dance of the school society season will be given in the corridors of the school this evening. This dance is participated in by all classes, two of them being given during the year.

With the exception of the annual junior-senior ball, which will be given this year on the evening of Thursday, June 17, the affair of this evening is the last dance of the season. The committee in charge of the event tonight is the same as the one that had charge of the first open dance, Dec. 18.

Efforts are being made this year to have the junior-senior ball lees of a formal affair than has been customary in years before. Heretofore it has been customary to make it an occasion of extraordinary extravagance in dress and ornament, and a decidedly formal affair. In that this practice seems quite ridiculous to the sane-minded, and that it is decidedly undemocratic, because Central is a public high school, the affair this year will probably be more in the nature of a good friendly dance, although taking away none of its honor of being the finest social affair of the year.

A delightful comedy of college romance will be presented by the seniors on class night, in connection with the other activities of that evening. The cast has already been selected and rehearsals commenced. Mr. Rasey has charge of the play, which alone assures something especially good. Many of the persons who made such splendid showing in the senior play, will appear in the class-night play. The cast as selected by Mr. Rasey is as follows: Robert Preston, a lawyer; Reginald Reed; Dauglas Brown, a football hero; Robert Kerr; Dick Preston, Ralph McCarthy; Stanley Palmer, Russell Duncan; Ted Whitney, Horace Craig; Jack Austin, Philip Seymore; Marion Dayton, Muriel Smith; Nellie Preston, Dorothy Segog; Louise Ross, Dolly Middlecoff; Phyllis Lane, Ruth Saxinet, Kathleen Knox, Bertha Blair; the Imp, Venita Mason; Emily Eliot, Mary McGonagle; Jane, Mildred Turner; Mrs. Brown, Louise Wasley; Polly Price, May Wielde; Elsa Ernest, Sylvia Schlesser; Marjorie Arnold, Edith Whitmore; Marie Swift, Agatha Carey; Molly Bruce, Hazel Burnside.

The Gazette made its appearance yesterday. One of the features of the issue was the page devoted to German. It was taken up with German stories and poems written by pupils in the several German classes, also a little article written by "Herr Remleux." Because of the rush at the printing department in getting out the Zenith, the Gazette was not printed at the school printery. The Zenith work has been keeping Editor Coe and his board busy during the week. The first 100 pages of 1,000 copies have been printed and made ready for the binders. There is a little more material to go in yet, and the final work will be finished so that the book will be out in due time. The final Zenith slip sale was put on last week and several more sold.

The members of the senior class met in the assembly hall Wednesday and practiced for the commencement singing. This was under the supervision of Mrs. Dixon, head of the school music department, and Miss Taylor, who has charge of the senior commencement exercises. There will be several more rehearsals for the singing during the next few weeks.

Next Friday evening in the Central high school assembly hall will be held the sixth of the ten contests for the permanent possession of the Wallace cup. The schools entered in competition are Superior Central, Nelson-Dewey high of Superior, Denfeld high of West Duluth and Duluth Central.

At present this score of wins stands three to two in favor of Superior Central, the Duluth and Superior Centrals being the only schools to have won any of the contests thus far. Although all of the other schools are expecting to win, Central should make an excellent showing. Irving Grover in oratory, and Roberta Ritchie will represent Central in the contest. The former is a veteran of several Wallace cup contests, but the latter named is a new comer in Central literary fame. The excellence of the other contestants over whom she won the decision in the final tryouts, assures the school students that she will make a very strong bid for premier honors in the contest of next Friday.

As a result of a special price being offered the students, several of them secured the tickets for the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra that were offered to the student body. A section will be reserved for the Central students who wish to go. Only members of the school will be allowed to get tickets at this special offer, and no one else will be allowed to use them. A mass meeting of the students was held Monday morning to get the opinion regarding their desire to go to the concerts. They were addressed by Mrs. Jones, who urged them to get tickets and make a good showing for Central. The tickets will be at the school very soon, it is expected.

MANY CENTRAL SENIORS GET PLACE ON COVETED HONOR LIST

George Altman Attains the Highest Standing for Four Years' Course.

Preparations Being Made for Commencement; Lambs Benefit.

Yesterday marked the culmination of a long struggle among several members of the senior class of Central high school to gain distinction and places in the much coveted four-year average honor role. Distinction in this list is one of the greatest honors that a student can attain throughout the entire school period.

The annual determination of the names of the list is looked forward to with much interest and enthusiasm by the whole student body. Many of the students fell only a very small fraction short of classification, and their names were placed on a list of honorable mention pupils. The official four-year role contains the names of four seniors, and several other students were placed in the 90-per-cent list. The list contains the names only of pupils who have attended the school during the entire four years. Another list was compiled which contained the names of pupils who came to Central from some other school, and who had done especially creditable work.

Honor List.

The following list is the complete one as issued yesterday by Principal Young, the first five names composing what is known as the official role and the twelve names after that are 90-per-cent pupils:

George Altman, 95.531; Valborg Rudd, 95.156; William Willner, 93.906; Lucile Elder, 93.716; Emma Lieske, 93.697; Charles Remieux, 93.667; Robert Zuger, 93.667; Agnes Macdonald, 92.375; Ralph Brown, 92.094; Edith Whitmore, 92.063; Lillian Sahlberg, 91.375; Fred Bates, 91.375; Ruth Persgard, 90.971; Gordon Hegardt, 90.781; Harold Coe, 90.594; Mary McGonagle, 90.438; Spencer Sahlberg, 90.406. The following students who have not been attending Central for four years, did especially good work: Helen Strachan, 94.906; Dorothy Miller, 93; Bertha Anderson, 91.794; Allene Greene, 91.093; Marie Kallie, 90.906; Lillian Hagland, 90.937.

The averages for all of the subjects for all four years are taken together to form the final role. The mark attained by George Altman was one of the highest ever made by a school pupil. Carrying five subjects, he was perhaps the most consistent student in school. He was equally proficient in all of his studies, and as a result gained one of the highest honors that a high school student can reach. The other members of the list were so close behind that the final decision was in doubt for a long time. There are nearly 250 stu-

Thief River Falls, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Pennington county board appropriated the sum of $4,000 in two annual payments of $2,000 each to aid the new Physicians and Surgeons hospital, now under course of construction here. A request for $5,000, the full amount allowed by law, was made, but the board decided to cut the amount $1,000. The board declined to make an appropriation to the agricultural association, towards defraying the expenses of the 1915 fair.

The county option petition was filed this week, and County Auditor T. P. Anderson called the election of Monday, June 14, "Flag Day." The petition contained the signatures of about 840 legal voters of the county and was circulated by Attorney O. A. Naplin, Editor T. H. Smith of the Thief River Falls Times and Nels Berg. There are fourteen saloons in the county, all located in the only city in the county, Thief River Falls. The only other incorporated municipality is the village of St. Hilaire. There were about 2,200 votes cast for governor at the last election.

District court was in extra session here the first of this week, and the session was an extremely busy one.

WILD GEESE PROTECTED

About 25,000 Find Sanctuary in Big North Dakota Slough.

Buffalo, N. D., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Whether they know this is a sanctuary because of the Federal and state game laws prohibiting spring shooting, or whether they believe climatic conditions have changed, there are about 25,000 wild geese that have made headquarters for a month in a slough ten miles south of here. Ordinarily they come through this section the latter part of March and early in April and go to the breeding grounds to the north. This year they have fed in the fields and remained in one large flock instead of pairing off.

Some farmers claimed they have damaged the wheat fields by cutting off the fresh grain shoots and sprouts. This is not regarded as serious, however, for it is usually considered that grain which is eaten down in this manner is benefited rather than damaged.

Some farmers and hunters are of the opinion that the geese went north and probably drifted back because of a lack of water in their usual breeding places.

SEVERE DECLINES IN ALL AMERICAN GRAIN MARKETS

Break Follows Heavy Selling on War News and Crop Reports.

Flaxseed Strong, With Crushers Buying on Prospects of Small Acreage.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 8.—Severe liquidation was precipitated in the wheat market today through the Lusitaina incident, the bearish government crop report, and advices of more rains through the Southwest and Middle states. Closing quotations were slightly above the low of the day, due to renewed buying by exporters at the seaboard and short covering over the holiday.

May wheat opened 1¾c off at $1.57¼, declined to $1.56¼, where it rested for a time. A fresh wave of selling precipitated by the rumor that Italy had decided to enter the war, carried the market down to $1.54, and it closed 4¾c off at $1.54½ bid. July opened ⅞c off at $1.54, and closed 4⅜c off at $1.50⅛ bid. September closed 2¾c off at $1.21 asked.

Special weakness developed in durum with no support in it appearing at any point through the session. May durum opened 1c off at $1.64 and closed 6c off at $1.59. July closed 8c off at $1.58 asked, and September 5c off at $1.17 nominal.

The break in the markets was helped along through fears that shipments from this country might be interfered with through German's submarine activities. That England is not greatly disturbed on that score was shown, however, in the steadiness at Liverpool, spot wheat there closing unchanged.

Good buying by millers was reported at Minneapolis, cash wheat there selling at 4@6½c over May, with extra choice going at 7c over.

Flaxseed Firmly Held.

Flaxseed showed moderate strength in the face of the demoralization elsewhere, the situation in it being affected by steady inquiry by crushers, induced through more alarming reports coming in regarding a heavy reduction in the acreage seeded to it through the Northwest.

May flax opened unchanged at $2.02, closed ¼c up at $2.02¼, July opened unchanged at $2.04, and closed ½c up at $2.04½ bid. September opened ½c up at $2.07, and closed at that figure. Up at $2.07, and closed at that figure.

At Winnipeg, May flax closed ¾c off at $1.82 asked and July ⅝c off at $1.84¾.

Oats closed locally ¼c off at 51⅞@52⅝c for on the track; rye 1c off at $1.13@1.14; barley unchanged at from 67 to 76c, and corn ⅞c off at 72⅝c.

At Winnipeg, May oats closed ¼c off at 62⅝c, and July ½@⅝c off at 63¾c.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Prices Decline on Rush Selling But Not Demoralized.

Chicago, May 8.—Rushes to sell wheat today resulted in sharp declines. Prices, however, did not become demoralized. Fear as to disturbing effects on export trade as a result of the sinking of the Lusitania was a leading influence. Opening quotations were 1 to 3 cents lower, but the market gradually steadied.

After stop-loss selling caused a fresh break to a point nearly 6 cents under last night, rumors of new export business on a large scale tended later to force a rally closing prices were unsettled, 2¾ to 4⅛c lower compared with the night before.

Corn weakened with wheat. The opening, which varied from ½ to 1c down, was followed by a slight general rally.

Later the market sagged again but showed relative strength in view of the tumble in wheat. The close was fairly steady at ⅝@¾c to ⅞c net decline.

Oats took the same course as other grain, though not so decidedly.

Provisions suffered from liquidating sales by holders.

TRADE REVIEW

New York, May 8.—Bradstreets says: "Under currents run in a favorable direction, though trends in certain lines and some sections, affected either by weather conditions, or marked dependence on a particular commodity, still lag. But the outstanding factors indicate that industry has made further progress; steel mills are operating at close to 75 per cent of capacity; buying of pig iron, helped by speculative purchases, had spread; plants, making war supplies, are pushed to the utmost; additional export orders of magnitude are pending; unemployment is decreasing; scarcity of labor exists in the machine tool and automobile trades; the railways seem to be more hopeful; distribution of essential commodities, though checked here and there by vagaries of the weather, is growing; there is a stronger disposition to order ahead; buying of drygoods is probably larger than at this time last year; lumber shows irregular improvement; cereals crop prospects are excellent; travelling salesmen report that wheat-growers are in fine financial shape; collections are better and this week's bank clearings of record proportions, are reported at $4,196,715,000, an increase of 29.4 per cent over last week, and 21.8 last year. Money easy."

PRICES HOLD VERY WELL

Soundness of Stock Market in Face of Adverse Conditions.

Declines Attend Early Trading But the Tide Turns Soon.

New York, May 8.—Prices broke 2 to 10 points in today's early dealings on the stock exchange, the sinking of the Lusitania provoking general liquidation. United States Steel was the center of a heavy selling movement, 15,000 shares being offered at a maximum concession of 2½ points. A block of 6,000 Westinghouse changed hands at a loss of 7 to 10 points. What looked like concerted support was seen soon after the opening, full recoveries being scored by Amalgamated Copper, American Smelting and Mexican Petroleum. Transactions in the first half hour were estimated at between 400,000 and 500,000 shares.

Unmistakable proof of its underlying soundness in the face of adverse conditions was offered by the stock market during today's two-hour session. Declines of 3 to 10 points attended the early trading, but the tide turned as soon as it became manifest that substantial financial interests were not only supporting the market but buying for investment as well. Prices shaded a point or more from their best in the final dealings. The closing was irregular. Bonds were heavy.

NORTH BUTTE'S BONANZA DAYS MAY BE REPEATED

Matters of Great Benefit to Company Are Under Consideration.

Sale of Alice Company to the Anaconda Declared Illegal.

Butte, Mont., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the exception of the Mountain View mine, which will resume operations within a week, all the mines of the Anaconda company are working again. The East Butte is under normal operations, but the North Butte will not be working full capacity until the new electric hoist at the Granite Mountain shaft has been throughly broken in. Since its installation the company and the electrical company have been subjecting the hoist to tests to determine the cost and economy of operations under all and varying conditions. So far all tests have brought the big machinery within the guarantee of the electrical company, and the promises are that it will do the work expected of it and at a cost far below the guarantee. The 3,000-foot level, which was opened from the Granite Mountain shaft by the North Butte company, penetrated and cut through the Edith May vein last week, and the results have been more than satisfactory to the management. Althought the cross-cut opening is but 4½ feet wide, it cut the vein at a good point and disclosed a width of 16 feet of vein, 3½ feet of which was of the high grade which the company opened a distance of 500 feet on the 2,800-foot level, just above the 3,000-foot cross-cut. Most of this 3½ feet is copper glance, and in addition to that the vein contains more than 4 feet of a lower grade of commercial ore. This body of ore, of course, extends up to the 2,800 level, and necessarily goes to unknown depth below the 3,000. Drifting has been started on the vein and the indications are that within a short distance the entire vein will be found filled with high class ore.

The North Butte has "come back" and it looks as if the history of the bonanza days would be repeated. The North Butte has under consideration several important matters which will benefit the company and stockholders, but with characteristic reticence the officers decline to speak of these matters for publication. The same policy has been observed regarding underground developments in the mine, prompted by an evident intention to announce even better results later. It is likely that plans will be announced before long regarding developments on the vast east side mineral holdings of the company. Next to the Anaconda company, the North Butte is owner of the largest mineral acreage in the Butte district.

Sabulite a Failure.

Sabulite, the new explosive which was expected to revolutionize mining in the Butte district, has failed after numerous and exhaustive tests by the Anaconda company. It is a wonderful explosive when used under favorable conditions. It is an explosive of great strength, perfect safety and is insensible to shock, friction, fire or frost, while the fumes are absolutely harmless; but in the wet mines of Butte the cartridge enclosing the powder becomes broken and water-soaked and the explosive loses its strength and effect. In dry mines sabulite gives a performance in all respects what the inventor and manufacturers claim for it, but under other conditions it has proven absolutely ineffective. The manufacturers are now experimenting to invent a pliant and elastic cartridge, waterproof, to meet the requirements of wet mines like those of Butte. Some preliminary tests by the Anaconda company were so successful and satisfactory that the manufacturers made plans for the erection of a manufacturing plant in Butte, but later and more exacting tests disclosed the deficiency and weakness of sabulite so far as it could be applied to mining in Butte. The company manufacturing the new explosive has a plant in British Columbia, near Vancouver, the managing agents for it being the Royal Financial Corporation of Vancouver, B. C.

Anaconda Meeting.

The special meeting of the Anaconda Copper Mining company, called for the purpose of doubling the par value of the stock and decreasing the shares of authorized stock one-half, will be held at 1 o'clock on May 19 at the Washoe smelter, and the annual meeting of the company will be held at 10 o'clock on the morning of the same day. There will probably be no opposition to the plans of the directors by which the Amalgamated Copper company is to be dissolved and its stock exchanged for stock in the Anaconda company, share for share, as intimated in interviews with Amalgamated and Anaconda officers. Minority shareholders of the Anaconda, who had some experience with Anaconda exchange through Butte Coalition ownership, are somewhat anxious about the Anaconda-Amalgamated deal and the probable value of Anaconda stock after the par value is doubled and the number of shares cut in half.

Alice Sale Illegal.

The sale of the Alice Gold & Silver Mining company to the Anaconda Copper Mining company, at the time the assets of the Butte Coalition company were turned over to the Anaconda company on a stock exchange basis, was illegal, according to a decision given the plaintiffs by Judge George M. Bourquin of the Federal court at Butte in the suit of Peter Geddes and nineteen other minority Alice shareholders, who sued to set aside the sale to the Anaconda company on the grounds that the price paid was inadequate and that the deal generally was unlawful, as the Anaconda was a copper combine opposed to the Sherman anti-trust law. Judge Bourquin ordered a re-sale of the Alice property and that money be paid to the shareholders insteed of Anaconda stock. The minority shareholders will have an opportunity to bid for the property, and if no more is paid that has been paid by the Anaconda company the sale to the latter company will stand, provided money is paid instead of Anaconda stock, the market price of the latter at the time of the sale to govern the amount paid shareholders.

The court refused to determine whether on not the Anaconda company is a part of an unlawful copper combine under the anti-trust act, because it is not necessary to the determination of the case, in that on other grounds all relief due the plaintiffs was granted, and because, in the opinion of the court, it was doubtful that a private litigant could raise that issue. In view of the fact that in the sale the vendor and vendee had common directors, the burden was on the defendants to satisfy the court that the sale was in all respects to the Alice stockholders. This involved the question of adequacy of the price paid to the Alice, which was 30,000 shares of Anaconda stock, then of the value of $1,500,000 on the market, and the payment of the Alice company's debts. The plaintiffs and the defendants agreed that prices paid for such properties as the Alice are arbitrary.

In view of the wide divergence as to the value of the Alice, together with all the facts, circumstances and the history of the mine and the district, the court was not satisfied that a higher price might not have been secured, and so held that the defendant had not sustained the burden of proof, and that the price paid was substantially inadequate. This of itself demanded relief, said the court, even though the common directors did not consciously act to the prejudice of the Alice. The court said nothing appeared to inspire the belief that the common directors aimed at anything but fair bargaining. Another ground for relief was that the transaction was not a sale, but a swap, and stockholders are entitled to a sale for money. Because of these matters, the court ordered a re-sale of the Alice property. But to the end that no Alice stockholder suffers loss, if no more than the Anaconda paid is bid on the re-sale, and if upon that contingency the defendants will pay the plaintiffs in money their proportionate share of the Anaconda stock at its market value at the time of the sale, and also of dividends the Alice has received thereon, no re-sale will be made and the present sale will stand.

A practically similar situation exists in the case of the Parrot company, where several Boston shareholders have brought suit to set aside the sale of that company to the Anaconda company, and the decision in the Alice case may have a bearing on the Parrot suit.

Butte-Duluth.

The officers of the Butte-Duluth Mining company are making every effort to prevent the company from being forced into bankruptcy hearing in the United States court until May 25, by which time it is hoped the company will have made some refinancing arrangement. As the continuance was granted at the request of attorneys for some of the creditors it indicates a desire to help the company out of its financial troubles.

PRODUCTION BY THE ANACONDA

Big Increase in Output for Month of April Shown.

The output of the Anaconda Mining company for the month of April was 21,800,000 pounds of copper, or an increase of 2,800,000 pounds over the month of March and 6,700,000 pounds more than in February.

The increase is especially significant in view of the higher price of the metal, as this means a big addition to the profits of the company.

During the month several additional mines were put in operation and from the present indications the May productions will show a gain over April and March, bringing the company's output of copper up to normal or close to it.

The output of the company by months has been as follows:

1914.	Pounds.
January	24,400,000

OLD KENDALL MINE TO START

Developments at the North Moccasin Stir Up Its Neighbors.

Butte, Mont., May 8.—The development work done by the Barnes-King Development company at its North Moccasin property with the opening of splendid bodies of ore at its lowest level has attracted particular attention from the owners of the old Kendall mining property, which adjoins the North Moccasin, and the owners of it are now making arrangements to resume operations at their property, sink their old shaft 200 feet further and find out what they have there.

The Lewistown Democrat says: "That there is a possibility that the famous Kendall Gold Mining company may resume operations in the mine at Kendall is the news brought to this city yesterday by a well-known mining man from the North Moccasin camp. It appears from his story that the development work which has been prosecuted for several months by the Barnes-King company on the North Moccasin property, which joins the old Kendall property, has opened up a large body of fine ore, which has been explored right up to the Kendall line. This body lies at a depth of 700 feet and to get at this body the Kendall people would have to sink 200 feet, that company having ceased operations after exhausting their ore on the 500-foot level."

ORE RUNS VERY HIGH IN ZINC

Interstate-Callahan's Output Is About 325 Tons of Ore Daily.

Butte, Mont., May 8.—Charles W. Newton, who was formerly in charge of the Butte-Ballaklava properties in this city and is now general manager of the Interstate-Callahan properties in the Coeur d'Alene district, states that from all present indications the Interstate-Callahan will continue to pay quarterly dividends of 25 cents a share regularly. The first dividend was paid on April 1 and another will be paid July 1.

"The Interstate-Callahan," said he, "is a zinc proposition. We are taking out about 325 tons of ore per day there now with some 200 men employed. The ore is running very high in zinc, the mill feed averaging 30 per cent. Last month there were milled out 5,500 tons of concentrates. I cannot state what the recoveries are, but we hope to have them above 90 per cent.

"At present we are remodeling the mill and also constructing a tramway from the mill to the railroad, a distance of two and a quarter miles, which when completed will greatly reduce the transportation costs.

"The Interstate-Callahan owns 1,200 acres of land and it has very flattering prospects under the existing conditions.

"The mining is done from a tunnel. The concentrates are sent to different places for handling. Some go to Oklahomn and some to Cleveland. The price of spelter is very high of course, but we think it will remain at a price that will mean good, steady profits for a long time to come."

TO OPEN UP SIX LODES

South Lake Is Expected to Begin Paying Expenses Soon.

North Lake Has Good Display of Commercial Values.

Houghton, Mich., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—South Lake has given an order for a 15-drill compressor and will soon be opening up its six lodes that have been proved to be of very good commercial values as far as they have been followed by the drifts. It is therefore quite likely that the shipments will in a short time be paying expenses and soon thereafter a gradually increasing sum into the treasury. The four lodes, the second and third of the south lodes, and the first and third of the north lodes, which are being opened by employing two drills, each being used in an opening and then taken to another, are all developing very good ground. Some day some work will be done on the second of the north lodes, which did not reveal a very good showing here, either as to contents or width, but which was twenty feet wide at the mass with a good disclosure of the metal, and it is possible that South Lake will have seven good lodes where it now has six.

North Lake.

North Lake on the fifth level in the third lode, passed through by the 800-foot long croscut from the shaft, has a good display of commercial values with a width of 14 to 16 feet. One drill is opening up each drift. The lode is one of the Evergreen lodes, but a conclusive identification cannot be made until some well known formation is reached.

Algomah.

Algomah is taking out some ore, the blackoxids of copper tenorite, about 40 feet from the surface in the shaft. The draining of the workings by the means of large tanks used in the place of the regular skips will soon be begun.

Mass.

Mass has encountered as high grades of copper in the two drifts it is now extending in the third of the north lodes of the South Lake as it did in the croscut, where in its width of 8 feet there was a fine disclosure of heavy copper. This lode, judging from its present showing, is the best lode now opened at this property. The tonnage is running about the same, between 1,100 and 1,200 tons daily.

Lake.

Lake will start to unwater its openings by substituting tanks for skips. It has not yet been determined what the first work will be, whether a continuation of the old workings, or exploration, or both. The latter course would seem the more likely so as to get out all the copper available and to increase production as soon as possible, on account of the present high price.

New Arcadian.

New Arcadian has shipped the rock for the mill test to the Franklin mill and the mineral is being weighed up. About forty-one carloads, or 1,845 tons, had been forwarded up to the 6th inst. The estimate of over 40 pounds of mineral a ton will hold good of the whole shipment. The men who have been loading the cars are going back to the drills. It is likely that sinking will be started anew in a very short time.

New Baltic.

New Baltic will have a meeting of the board of directors in about two weeks and will then lay out the exploration work and perhaps take some action in order to raise some money.

Allouez.

Allouez is hoisting a daily tonnage for this week of over 1,700 tons. This rate of daily shipment would give a yearly production of 9,669,600 pounds, which with a yield of 18 pounds, a cost of 10 cents, and an 18-cent market earn $6.75 a share, and on an 18-cent market $7.79. Trammers of whom the mine was short are being taken on from time to time when the right men appear. It is thought here by the best informed that the directors of this mine will soon declare a dividend of $1, as this month is the regular time of declaring the quarterly dividends.

Winona.

Winona is now making preparation to resume mining operations about the first of the month. A good deal has to be done as when the mine was shut down it was thought according to the prospects of that time, just at the beginning of the war, it could not be reopened for a long period and preparations were made accordingly. The pumps were withdrawn, the pipes and tracks, except those in the shaft, were taken out, and all the machinery put in the best condition to resist rust. All the old men are being sent for. The pumping will not be so very long as the water is only up to the ninth level. Some changes will be adopted including a closer selection of the good rock, the mining will be limited to the better grades, and some rock will be drawn from the King Philip, No. 1 shaft. The management have for some time desired to stope at the King Philip, but it has an utterly inadequate rockhouse. The rock from that part of the mine will at first be taken out through the levels to No. 4 Winona shaft and if the good market continues a rockhouse that can be enlarged and made permanent later can be hastily constructed. The King Philip shaft, as is well known, has some of the best rock, and the mine has a great deal of rock that can be drawn upon at this price of the metal, in its great extent of openings at Nos. 3 and 4 Winona. The Slater, or ferric chloride process of leaching, will be given a trial here by its own company to determine if it is adapted to this rock. The experiments that were made by that company at their laboratory on the Pacific coast on Winona tailings were quite satisfactory. The force of men employed in the mining will be gradually increased to the limit so as to get out as large a production as possible.

Calumet & Hecla.

Calumet & Hecla, owing to the fire at the Isle Royale mill, the increase of production of its subsidiaries, and the resumption of mining at the Tamarack has found the production of its subsidiaries to temporarily exceed their milling facilities and it has had to have recourse to the Franklin mill for one head for its Isle Royale rock. However the Centennial-Allouez mill is equipping its sixth and last stamp to be modernized, with the latest machines the Isle Royale mill will soon after the first of the month be going into commission, and the Ahmeek mill will after it starts the fifth and sixth stamps for its immediate necessities will, it is likely, set up the other two with their wash so as to be ready for emergencies for their own rock and that of other mines. The steel for the leaching plant at Hubbell for the Calumet & Hecla sands or tailings will be forwarded by the Riter-Conley Manufacturing company of Pittsburgh about July 1 and the building erected about the last of August.

Copper Range.

Copper Range Consolidated is getting a still better recovery of copper at the Champion for the last two or three weeks than that attained during the three months previous. The yield of the other mines is remaining the same, and the production of all three is standing at the same figure, 5,000 tons daily. It would seem that with its great area and its remarkable richness the Champion is destined for a great future.

Onondaga.

Onondaga has a force making a rough road so that the drills can be taken into a northern portion of its large holdings that carries the Nonesuch-White Pine formations and the drill will soon be set up by the Cole & MacDonald of Virginia, Minn.

Isle Royale.

Isle Royale is going to take a long step towards General Manager MacNaughton's goal, the greatest production possible for the territory and resources of this rather low grade mine by recommencing its No. 7 shaft. This shaft is located 2,400 feet south of No. 6 and the management intends in a reasonable time to sink two more shafts still further south, so that ultimately there will be eight shafts in all, which at the rate of 1,000 tons a shaft, a moderate figure, would give a daily tonnage of 8,000, a yearly production of 37,000,000 pounds with a yield of fifteen pounds a ton, and on a 16-cent copper market at a cost of 11 cents the earnings would be $9.98 a share, at 10 cents $12.41, at 9 cents $14.30. The overburden is at No. 7 about ninety feet deep, and considerable quicksand has been met with so far so that the sinking to the ledge will probably be somewhat difficult, but the management very successfully coped with a deeper overburden at No. 5 and will master the similar difficulties here. A large pit has been opened to the depth of 35 to 40 feet before the strike. As soon as the ledge is reached, raises will be made and the shaft holed up from the fourth and fifth levels, whose drifts have been driven over from No. 6.

Mayflower and Old Colony.

Mayflower and Old Colony have lately been meeting shattered ground with all three of their drills and at times have had all three idle. At the present time No. 35 Old Colony is making fair progress, but No. 34 on the same property and No. 41 Mayflower are waiting for some difficulties to be overcome. The latter is the westernmost of all of the holes so far drilled and is now at the depth of 2,000 feet. About 400 feet above the Mayflower lode is a solid trap about 200 feet thick called the Great Trap, which acts as a great arch for the formations above, where they are undisturbed, but below this there has been in places much disturbance and faulting. In every hole the Great Trap has been found and no erosion has ever reached it. The occurrence of faulting is now believed to be understood and this will hasten the solution of the problem as to where and how many shafts shall be sunk.

Franklin.

Franklin is running the mill with three stamps on such time that they do the same work in the day that two would do day and night. It has treated its own rock that was contained in the bins at the mine and mills and is waiting for the former to fill again. The New Arcadian stockpile to the extent of more than 2,000 tons was finished on the 5th and the Hancock is sending daily 200 tons and the Isle Royale 400 to 500 tons. In a short time it will have cut all the loading stations of its twenty-one levels and will be forwarding, gradually increasing shipments. In about three weeks Houghton Copper will begin to send its stockpile. All of these openings, that are being cut out for a short distance into the levels so that drifting can be begin at any time without danger to working in the shaft below, are disclosing a very good average of grades. After passing through the Calumet conglomerate, which was 20 to 24 feet wide with conglomerate on the hanging-wall side and the remainder sandstone buiren of copper, trap has been encountered by the long crosscut. The next lode of note will be the Osceola amygdaloid, 730 feet from the Calumet conglomerate and about 1,820 feet from the Allouez conglomerate.

NORTH BUTTE'S QUARTERLY OUT

Report Far More Flattering Than Recently Issued Annual Statement.

The quarterly report of the North Butte company for three months ending March 31, 1915, was issued this week. It shows a surplus at the end of the quarter of $3,820,124. Accounts payable amounted to $98,348 and advances on metals were $346,799.

In the assets of the company the valuation of the Granite Mountain shaft equipment and construction is given as $243,362. Copper and silver on hand is estimated at $1,056,787. The cash on hand is $52,063 and the valuation of the mining property is placed at $8,923,113.

The development work done during the quarter consisted of 1,131 feet of cross-cuts, 810 feet of drifts 717 feet of raises, 17 feet of stations or a total of 2,675 feet. Skip chutes amounted to 11,200 cubic feet.

During the quarter the most important developments were the continued development of high-grade ore on the 2,800-foot level of the Edith May vein and the finding of high-grade ore in the Snowball vein on the 2,600 level. The report says:

During the month of January the mine was operated at 50 per cent, and during the months of February and March it operated at 60 per cent of normal production.

During the quarter there were mined and shipped 55,683 wet tons of ore, and 24 1-3 wet tons of precipitates, and there were treated 54,570 dry tons of ore and 15½ dry tons, or 22 per cent were first-class and 42,591 dry tons or 78 per cent were second-class. This produced 3,358,325 pounds of copper, 178,568.81 ounces of silver and 180,568 ounces of gold.

The installation of the new equipment at the Granite Mountain shaft will be finished and ready for the trial test of the machinery within a short time. Development work has been carried on vigorously during the past quarter and the results have been most satisfactory, for notable tonnages of high-grade ore have been developed in the lower levels of the mine. The policy of extensive development work will be continued.

In consideration of the expenditures necessary to complete the new Granite Mountain shaft and its equipment, also the expenditures made in the prosecution of the extensive development work, the board deemed it for the best interests of the company to pass the dividend for the quarter in order to strengthen the financial resources of the company.

Dividend Forecasted.

With the continuation of the present improved condition in the copper metal market during the next quarter it is probable the company will later be in position to consider resumption of dividend disbursements.

At the Granite Mountain shaft during the quarter the skip chutes were finished on the 2,600 and 2,800-foot levels and an additional 17 feet were cut on the 3,000-foot station to provide room for crosscutting to the Edith May vein. A crosscut was started south from the station on the 3,000-foot level and has advanced .00 feet toward the Edith May vein.

The work of installing the hoisting engine proper is completed and the auxiliary engines have been tested and found to be satisfactory, but there has been delay on some of the electrical work. It is expected to have this plant in full working order within the next two weeks and it will be thoroughly tested during the present month.

The Edith May vein. Drifting was done on this vein on the 2,600 and 2,800-foot levels.

On the 2,600-foot level the drift east from the Granite Mountain crosscut advanced 164 feet, of which 75 feet was in ore which averaged 3 feet wide, assaying 5 per cent, copper and 2.5 ounces silver per ton. The last 90 feet of this drift has been in broken ground and the values appear to be scattered through a great width of vein granite.

High Grade Ore.

On the 2,800-foot level drifting has been continued both east and west from the Granite Mountain crosscut and has now developed continuous ore in these drifts for a total length of 540 feet with an average width of 5½ feet and assaying 10.5 per cent copper and 3.5 ounces silver per ton. In the west drift the vein has been cut off by a fault and crosscutting is being done west of the fault to pick up the vein. The ore in the west drift continued of high grade up to the point where it was cut off. The east drift has been in high grade ore to within 30 feet of the present face, but the ore has since become lower grade and it appears that the end of the high-grade ore has been reached in this direction.

An uprise was started on the South Gem vein from the 2,200-foot level to develop the ore known to exist below the 2,000-foot level. This raise developed ore near the 2,200-foot level for a height of 70 feet, but has not yet reached the ore shown on the level above.

On the 2,400-foot level the east drift on the Snowball vein has advanced 121 feet and appears to have reached the eastern limit of the ore on this level.

The east drift on the 2,600-foot level was advanced 143 feet in ore which averaged 3 feet wide, assaying 5.5 per cent copper and 7.8 ounces of silver per ton. The present face in this drift shows a width of 6 feet assaying 10 per cent copper and 20 ounces silver per ton, which is the best showing to date in the Snowball vein on this level.

PROPERTIES ON CUYUNA

Hill Crest Mine Has One Hydraulic Unit at Work.

Armour No. 2 and Kennedy Busily Engaged in Shipping Ore.

Brainerd, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Hill Crest pit mine property has one hydraulic unit at work. Roger R. Hill of New York, president of the Hill Mines company, a subsidiary of the C. M. Hill Lumber company, visited the property owned by his company and was pleased with the extent of the development work. This is the first mining operation carried on by the new company. No ore will be shipped this year. It is expected to remove 1,000,000 yards of overburden by hydraulic method. The overburden will be dumped in a swamp at the south end of sections 9 and 10. One of the forties filled in will be used as a townsite. Mr. Hill was optimistic regarding the business situation in general throughout the country.

The Armour No. 2 mine is shipping ore being hoisted from shaft to cars. The Kennedy mine of the Rogers, Brown Ore company at Cuyuna is also hoisting from shaft to cars. The stockpiles will soon be shipped.

Pioneer Elects Officers.

The Pioneer Development company of St. Paul, at its annual meeting, elected the following officers: President, George Urquhart of St. Paul; vice president, Wilson Bradley of Deerwood; secretary, O. B. Walters of Manning, Iowa; treasurer, Joseph J. Hennes of St. Paul; director, M. M. Reynolds of Penora, Iowa. These officers, with L. Winnie, J. G. Winnie, S. A. Ensign of St. Paul, Roy W. Murray of Storm Lake, Iowa; Christ Enabnit of Swaledale, Iowa; G. Gunderson of St. Paul and Elmer Abrahamson of Houston, visited the range properties of the company this week. The company has a drill operating in the Rice river country near Aitkin. The company buys interests in proven properties and also explores for fee interests.

The Iron Mountain mine is hoisting ore and accumulating a stockpile. The property was visited by C. W. Hart, James Deuhs, William Hoeppner, C. F. Miller, A. D. Day and L. M. Davis of Long Prairie, accompanying Mr. O'Brien. The shafthouse is about completed. The company expects to ship 30,000 tons of manganiferous ore. With the completion of the new engine house the work of sinking the shaft to the drift level will be pushed rapidly.

Cuyuna-Mille Lacs.

Large quantities of lagging and mining timber have been received at the Cuyuna-Mille Lacs mine, and it is expected that the hoisting of ore will soon be resumed. This mine and the Cuyuna-Duluth are in position to mine promptly. The pumps have continued to keep the workings clear.

Visiting the Inland Steel company's mines, which include the Armour No. 1 pit, and the Thompson pit, were A. W. Thompson, president of the Inland Steel company; P. D. Block, vice president of the company; D. P. Thompson, the assistant general superintendent; C. A. Stillman, president of the Rogers, Brown Ore company; J. S. Lutes, superintendent of the Pennington mine, and William Wearne, a superintendent of the Inland Steel company's mines.

The Brainerd-Cuyuna mine in Brainerd has its shaft down 154 feet and has drifted over thirty feet. A pump station is being cut in. John R. Harrington, who is drilling the Holland lands bequeathed to the city of Brainerd, has asked the county commissioners for an option to drill the county poor farm, with the privilege of a mining lease at 26 cents a ton royalty. In the city land drilling Harrington is on the second hole. Ore has been found, but so far is of a low grade.

WAGES RAISED IN WARREN DISTRICT

Calumet & Arizona, Shattuck and Copper Queen Take Action.

Bisbee, Ariz., May 8.—Simultaneously, at the mines of the three leading producers of the Warren district, the Calumet & Arizona company, the Shattuck-Arizona company, and the Copper Queen company, another wage advance has been announced. At the same time a like advance was announced at the smelters of the Calumet & Arizona and Copper Queen at Douglas. The new schedule becomes effective May 1.

Wages, maintained before the war broke out on the European continent, will be had again and until further advances in the red metal, according to the schedule, warrant the payment of higher wages. This again places the Warren district producers as the payers of the highest wages, for the same work, in the country.

The statement of the Calumet & Arizona company follows:

"The price of copper upon which wages are figured will be the average quotation of copper for the proceeding calendar month, based on figures published in the Engineering and Mining Journal.

"Any employe quitting the service of the company, for any reason, before the end of the month, will be settled with on the basis of figures of the preceding month.

"It gives the management pleasure to be able to make this statement as it is believed the employes of the company will receive with satisfaction the knowledge that will permit them to ascertain, in advance, what their wages will be (given a certain selling price for copper) and thereby avoid the uncertainty that now exists as to the time and amount of wage changes.

"General Manager."

WORK RESUMED AT BUTTE-BALLAKLAVA

Butte, Mont., May 8.—Another mine was put into active operation in Butte last Saturday when the Butte-Ballaklava, which since February has only been operating through leasers in a small way, resumed operations under the direct management of the company.

Supt. Mainwaring put fifty men to work taking out ore on all the levels between the 800 and 1,600-foot levels. ing will be increased steadily until about 125 are employed.

The output of the mine now will run about 150 tons of ore per day, and this will be increased as additional men are put to work, until the output reaches approximately 360 tons of ore per day.

The ore is being sent to the Washoe smelter. It is running very well and that from the 1,600-foot level is especially good, averaging above 5 per cent copper.

The average of all the ore being mined will run between 4½ and 5 per cent copper.

Charles W. Newton of the advisory staff of engineers came to Butte to consult with Mr. Mainwaring regarding the plans for resuming operations under the direct supervision of the company. In speaking of the Butte-Ballaklava he said:

"The arrangement of the company with the leasers was that whenever the company saw fit to take over the direct management of the mining of the ore, it could do so on short notice. The leasers have been mining on several levels and taking out ore that ran probably 4 to 5 per cent copper. They took the ore on the mine run basis.

"With the high price of copper we thought it would be wise to resume operations by the company, as a much larger tonnage can be secured in this way.

"So beginning with May 1 the change was made. The prospect is good at the mine to take out first-class ore in large quantities, and with copper up I believe the company will make good money."

STEADY GROWTH IN REALTY TRANSACTIONS CONTINUES

Good Inquiry From Eastern Investors—Easy Money Conditions.

Big Acreage Deal Closed—Dock Property Will Be Improved.

Easy money conditions and growing confidence in the business and industrial situation are responsible for a gratifying extension in interest in local real estate propositions, and in the opinion of leading operators, a substantial increase in the number of transactions put through will come about from now on during the summer months.

Realty men have been in receipt lately of good inquiry from prominent Eastern investors. Some of the number already have holdings here and are contemplating adding to them if anything attractive offers, while others are inclined to make their initial ventures in this market.

The carrying through of some extended improvements is under contemplation by some outside owners of Duluth properties. In that connection The Herald is in receipt of the following letter from an Eastern investor: "We had planned some time ago, together with our associates, to improve our dock property in Duluth in a substantial manner, but financial conditions held the matter up for the time being. However, the subject is now being considered, and we hope to have our plans well under way in the near future."

Big Acreage Deal.

An interesting transaction in acreage property was closed up yesterday in the purchase by the Central Acres Land company of a 160-acre parcel at the head of Lake avenue between Duluth Heights and the poor farm. The buyer is arranging to plat the northerly half in acre tracts immediately and place it on the market. It is regarded as perhaps the most favorable acre-tract proposition yet taken up by reason of its accessibility, a two-mile circle drawn from the downtown business center passing through the northwest corner of the tract and it is within easy reach of the Ninth street car line. It is within a quarter of a mile of the city sewer and water mains, and extensions of them up to the property can be readily arranged for when the necessity arises. Richardson, Day & Cheadle represented the purchaser, and E. P. Alexander the sellers in the transaction.

A broad inquiry for house property was reported by the N. J. Upham company. A house and lot was sold in the West end and deals are in prospect for a number of lots in Waverly Park.

A. W. Kuehnow, president of the Gary Land company, advised the sale of four lots in Gary Central division to outside investors. He is sanguine that the announcement regarding the resumption of construction work at the Portland Cement company's plant here will result in increasing the interest of capitalists in Duluth realties.

W. M. Prindle & Co. sold two lots at Crescent View Park yesterday. That office also has some sales in high-class residence property under negotiation.

The Ebert, Walker company sold to John Olson of this city a forty-acre tract near Knife River. The purchaser will settle upon the property at once.

Charles P. Craig & Co. sold for the Lakeside Land company a house and lot on Pitt street and three lots at Kenilworth Park for improvement in the building of homes this season.

Though the week was unfavorable from a weather standpoint, the Alliance Real Estate company reported a growing interest in its Exeter Farms proposition. The location was examined by a number of prospective buyers during the week.

Richardson, Day & Cheadle averred that the present week was the most active with them in a considerable period back. Transactions put through by the office included forty acres in section 29, 50-14, three miles from the end of the Woodland car line; a 67-acre tract on Schulze lake, being sections 8 and 9 in 52-14; a five-acre parcel within the city limits at the West end; a lot on Forty-first avenue west; a lot on Halifax street; a tract in Norton's Acre Outlots, and a lot on Eighth avenue east, between Twelfth and Thirteenth strets.

The Field-Frey company sold for C. B. Gilbert of Proctor to G. A. Norell a two-story frame house at 1828 London road.

The Benjamin F. Schweiger company sold this week to A. C. Thompson for Hector DeCaigny, a six-room dwelling and lot at 2224 West Sixth street, at a consideration of $3,400. It also sold to Patrick J. Averbook for Andrew Morten, a seven-room dwelling and lot at 1119 East Fifth street, at a consideration of $2,350.

BEGIN WORK NEXT WEEK

First Crew Will Be Put to Work Monday Morning.

At Least Six Months of Active Building in Prospect.

From twenty-five to fifty men will be put to work Monday, and this number will be increased as rapidly as it conveniently can be until about 150 men are given employment at the Universal Portland Cement plant at Gary. Fred Robinson, superintendent of construction of the plant, announced this morning that the work will be rushed with all possible haste until the entire plant is completed.

"We have at least six months of very hard work before us," said Mr. Robinson. "After that time we will be work all winter for a good sized crew to clean up and get things into running shape. Only three men have been put to work so far, but we expect to put on between twenty-five and fifty men on Monday, and this crew will be increased as rapidly as possible."

The company has only just commenced the construction work, according to Fred Robinson. The shells of four of the main buildings have so far been erected. In addition to these, three other monster buildings are still to be started soon, as well as a number of small buildings that will be necessary for the plant.

One of the smaller buildings to be erected this summer will be a handsome office. This building when compared with those about the city will be of good size, but whencompared with the mammoth buildings being erected at the plant is but a pigmy. It will be 40 by 75 feet.

R. S. Huey of Chicago, who will be superintendent of the plant after its construction, has been over the place with the other officials. He will return to Chicago this evening and expects to return to Duluth within a short time. Mr. Robinson will become assistant superintendent of the plant on its commencing operation.

B. F. Affleck, president of the Universal Portland Cement company of Chicago, and A. G. Carlson, the company's chief mechanical engineer, left yesterday afternoon for Chicago.

Last evening, Mr. Huey and Mr. and Mrs. Robinson were entertained at dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elliott J. Aman, 626 North Fifty-sixth avenue west. Mr. Aman is chief clerk and accountant for the company in Duluth.

CLUB OPPOSES SUB-COUNCIL

Believes Proposed Intermediary Body Is Not Needed.

Members of the West Duluth Commercial club, at its meeting last night, showed little sympathy with the movement recently started by the Rotary club to create an advisory board or intermediery council for the city commissioners. Those who spoke on the subject were of the opinion that the proposed advisory board would prove a handicap and be a loophole for the commissioners to evade censure for their acts.

"The Duluth Herald strikes the proper chord in its editorial this evening and places the matter before the public in the right light," said David Sang. "I am of the opinion that the appointing of such a commission would be a detriment. The commissioners are being paid $4,000 a year for doing the work and why should the various clubs appoint another commission to do the work free of charge for them?"

"There are now more than a dozen clubs in the city and each would want to be represented on the commission," said M. M. Forbes. "Every district would at once organize an improvement club and every clique of citizens will want representation. They could not be blamed. The result would probably be that there would be hundreds who would seek membership and would be justified in doing so. The movement is absurd, in my opinion."

The club also discussed the Proctor road on Bay View Heights. James Medland said that it was impossible to take any kind of a load over the road. It was stated that the residents of the district just within the city limits of Duluth want sewer connections with the Proctor sewer and that after this has been secured they are willing to sign petitions for paving the street from the power house to the village.

HOUSEWARMING IN BOYS' NEW CLUBROOMS

Boys of the junior department of the Y. M. C. A. had a housewarming at their new clubrooms in the main building last evening.

This afternoon the boys are on a Saturday afternoon "hike."

Tomorrow afternoon, Rev. John W. Hoffman will address them on "Mother's Day."

On Tuesday evening the boys in the employ of the Marshall-Wells Hardware company will be guests of the department.

On Wednesday night, the regular monthly cabinet meeting will be held.

ATTRACTED BY JITNEY CRAZE

Auto Owners From Nearby Towns Bring Cars to Duluth.

Owners of automobiles residing in nearby towns and cities are being attracted to Duluth by the possibility of earning something in the jitney business.

Out of the 300 or more automobiles that have been in the jitney service since the craze began, the records show that forty-two were owned by residents of other towns or cities. Many have come from the range towns, and others from Ashland and from villages along the line between Duluth and the Twin Cities.

BLUFFS HIGHWAYMEN.

George Norberg Scares Them Off With Umbrella Handle.

A shiny umbrella handle, which resembled a revolver in the darkness, saved George Norberg, 23 West Ninth street, $30 and a watch late last night as he was walking through Cascade park on his way home.

Shortly after he entered the park two men stepped out across the path with a command to "Come through."

Instead of throwing up his hands, Norberg thrust his hand into a side pocket of his coat and pulled out an umbrella handle, which he happened to have with him.

It saved the day, for the would-be hold-up artists fled as soon as they saw the glint of the metal. Norberg was unable to furnish police with anything but a partial description of the pair.

Farewell to Troyer.

Duluth Odd Fellows will give a farewell entertainment in their lodge rooms next Thursday evening in honor of Chief C. H. Troyer, who will retire the following day to become chief at Fargo, N. D.

T. W. Hugo, former mayor, will be the principal speaker of the evening, and a program of addresses and musical numbers is now being arranged.

ASSUMES NEW OFFICE.

Martin Meldahl Will Take Advanced Position at Postoffice.

Martin M. Meldahl, clerk in the West Duluth postoffice for more than sixteen years is leaving that office this evening and on Monday assumes his new duties as postal cashier, and acting superintendent of finance at the Duluth postoffice. The new position carries with it an increase in salary from $1,200 a year to $1,700.

Mr. Meldahl was appointed clerk at the West Duluth postoffice in April, 1899. At that time the office was in the Silvey block. In recent years he has been in charge of the money order department, the registry, box rent, and at the time of instituting the postal savings department, was placed at the head of that department also.

Mr. Meldahl is 36 years old. He resides with his family at 909 North Central avenue. He said this morning that he intends to remain living in West Duluth although his duties will be entirely uptown.

Will Be Delegate.

Nels Willner, mail carrier from the West Duluth station, was one of the four delegates elected last night to represent Zenith branch, No. 114, at the biennial national convention of the Letter Carriers' association, to be held in Omaha, Neb., next September. The election was held last evening at the meeting of the local branch. The other three delegates are Thomas G. Thompson, Joseph Wilde and Julius Nelson.

WILL PAVE WITH BRICK

Gary Will Get Desired Improvement for Commonwealth Avenue.

Farrell Announces Plans After Meeting With Suburb's Business Men.

Gary will be improved this summer with a brick pavement on both sides of Commonwealth avenue.

Commissioner Farrell, head of the works division, made this announcement last night, after a conference with Gary business men, who had been opposed to a brick pavement at this time, and who wanted a concrete roadway through the steel plant village. The commissioner has been against such a paving program, declaring two weeks ago that Commonwealth avenue will have to be paved with some standard material, or not at all. At the meeting last night all objections to a brick pavement were withdrawn and work is expected to begin by the latter part of this month.

According to the present plans, eighteen and one-half feet on each side of the street will be paved with a concrete base and brick surface, with nineteen feet in the center left unimproved. This is done to allow the sewer under that part of the avenue to settle and to leave space for the proposed New Duluth street car extension.

A. W. Kuehnow of the Gary Land company, and Theodore H. Jones of the A. C. Volk company who protested against a brick pavement, confirmed the report last night that they had withdrawn their objections and that they favor the improvement of both sides of the thoroughfare.

Commissioner Farrell has ordered City Engineer Ayres to prepare estimates on the cost of the pavement. He said last night that assessment for the pavement will amount to about $550 for each 50-feet benefited by the improvement.

Thomas Heinedry of Deer River will take the place of Father Begley. Rev. Mr. Begley has been connected with the local church for the last six years. He assumed charge of the New Duluth church two years ago.

CITY WILL TEAR DOWN AD BOXES

Within a few days Duluthians will no longer see the advertising boxes on the important street corners of the city.

City Attorney Greene yesterday handed down an opinion that the permit granted the Spindler Brothers, allowing them to place these paper receptacles about the city, virtually amounts to a franchise and that such a contract can only be made in an ordinance. As a result the agreement included in the resolution passed last month is null and void, he states.

JITNEY ORDINANCE WILL COME UP MONDAY

Duluth's jitney ordinance, which will come up for second reading at the regular council meeting next Monday evening, will probably be amended so that jitney owners will have to post only a $5,000 bond instead of $15,000 according to Commissioner Silberstein. In addition several contracts will be awarded and other important matters taken up by the commissioners.

Ordinances will be passed appropriating $30,000 for sidewalks, $7,000 for storm sewers, $5,000 for lumber and $2,500 for beautifying the exterior of the new armory. The contract for paving Woodland avenue will be awarded to A. N. Nelson on his bid of $17,793.20, while Commissioner Farrell will introduce a resolution awarding the contract for the paving of West Sixth street to D. H. Clough & Co. The S. R. Okes Construction company will be awarded the contract for the paving of Minnesota avenue, while Kiltin & Co., will be given the contract for laying plank sidewalks throughout the city and E. F. Hilliard will be awarded the contract for laying cement walks east of Twelfth avenue west on his bid of $9,594.

MARINE

BOAT RAMMED BY THE IONIC

Nipissing Struck By Canadian Steamer; No Lives Lost.

Had Eleven Passengers and Crew of Two; Craft Rescued.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., May 8.—The big gasoline launch Nipissing, owned by the Bartlett Lumber company of Sheildrake, Mich., was rammed by the Canadian steamer Ionic early this morning and beached to prevent sinking. The Nipissing plys between the Soo and Sheildrake, Mich., for the transportation of passengers and supplies to Sheildrake and intermediate points and was on her way with eleven passengers and crew of two and a cargo of hay. The Ionic was downbound, headed for the Canadian channel, about five miles above the Soo, when she ran into the Nipissing. The little craft was struck on the starboard side midship. Signals of distress were heard by the Bursh Point signal station and the government patrol boat quickly answered them. The tug Illinois, which was also in the vicinity waiting for a tow of downbound steamers, was also quickly rushed to the scene.

The hay on board the launch kept her afloat and the Illinois and the patrol boat picked up eight persons from the sinking boat. Boats were also lowered from the Ionic and the remaining five were taken on board that vessel.

By this time the Canadian patrol boat Batchewaning arrived on the scene and, taking the Nipissing in tow, beached her at Point Aux Pins.

Great credit is given the captain of the Ionic for promptly lowering her boats, and, coupled with the close proximity of the government patrol boat and tug of Illinois, a loss of life was avoided.

The weather was thick and hazy and the cause of the accident is not known. Capt. Botting of the Nipissing claims the Ionic was crowding in towards shore and, on account of his load of hay, he was afraid of going on the rocks when he tried to get his boat past the downbound steamer.

ORE STOCKS START EVEN

Practically Same Amount at Lake Erie This Year as Last.

The May 1 balance on Lake Erie ore docks was approximately the same this year as it was a year ago. The docks opened this season, with 5,886,412 tons of ore as compared with 5,919,717 tons May 1, 1914.

Shipments of ore from upper lake ports in April totaled 503,832 tons as compared with 269,686 tons in April, 1914. Of the total, Lake Erie docks received 168,640 tons and shipped 129,836 tons. There were 7,309 tons of ore placed on dock in April, but this does not show in the May 1 dock balance as the balance is figured for ore delivered during the 1914 season. The difference between receipts at Lake Erie docks and shipments from upper lake ports does not represent receipts at other than Lake Erie ports. Part of the ore that was shipped in April was not delivered at the docks until this month.

The balance on dock was distributed as follows:

	1914.	1915.
Buffalo and Tonawanda	270,619	173,329
Erie	461,750	412,186
Conneaut	495,154	557,471
Ashtabula	2,187,621	1,955,733
Fairport	246,038	283,591
Cleveland	1,487,128	1,411,529
Lorain	235,058	377,545
Huron	308,479	465,608
Sandusky	2,471	2,471
Toledo	216,399	256,919
Totals	5,919,717	5,886,412

Receipts and shipments at Lake Erie docks were as follows:

	Recepts.	Shipts.
Buffalo	19,039	10,662
Conneaut	31,539	32,826
Ashtabula	36,665	32,870
Fairport	11,066	11,069
Cleveland	37,654	37,640
Huron	8,578	1,269
Detroit	18,038	....
Totals	168,640	129,836

The difference between the amount placed on dock and the amount that apparently was left at the Lake Erie docks is the amount delivered at Lake front furnaces plus the amount that was not ready for shipment May 1.

April shipments to interior furnaces aggregated 828,475 tons as compared with 1,216,521 tons. Total shipments to furnaces, old and new ore, were 958,311 tons.

MORE INSPECTORS FOR GREAT LAKES

Secretary of Commerce Promises Vessel Interests Fifteen Additional Men.

Washington, May 8.—Efforts will be made by Secretary of Commerce Redfield to supply fifteen additional supervising inspectors of steam boats for the Great Lakes. This announcement was made by President William Livingstone of the Lake Carriers' association, following a long conference with the secretary.

"The secretary agrees with our association," said Mr. Livingstone, "that at least fifteen more inspectors are needed on the lakes. Probably ten or twelve additional are needed on the Atlantic coast. Inspectors have been taken from Atlantic coast ports to Lake Erie ports for temporary duty.

"There are four inspectors from Norfolk at Buffalo now. I was in Norfolk the other day, and they are asking that the inspectors be returned. Because congress has not provided enough inspectors vessel operators suffer diminished returns. Frequently they have to wait several days for inspection. Last week there were forty-six vessels in the port of Buffalo awaiting inspection."

IGNORANT OF HIS CRIME

Thomas Miller, Facing Long Prison Term, Thinks Arrest a Joke.

"Hello captain. My name's Miller. Did you want me for something?"

Ignorant of the fact that he was facing a long prison term if arrested, Thomas J. Miller, 26, a delivery wagon driver, presented himself at Capt. A. G. Fiskett's desk last night.

"I certainly do want to see you," replied the captain. "The entire force has been looking for you for two days."

On April 28 Mrs. Elizabeth Vogel, left her home at 1011 West Fifth street, deserting her husband and children, according to the story told the police by Edward A. Vogel, the husband.

Following a raid on Miller's rooms, May 6, by Detectives Toewe and J. L. Bradley, Mrs. Vogel was arrested but Miller, who was away at the time, was not apprehended. A charge of adultery was preferred against the woman by her husband and she was held over to await grand jury action under $250 bail.

Since that time police have been combing the city for Miller, and last night he ended the search by presenting himself at headquarters. He waived examination in municipal court this morning and was held over for the grand jury under $500 bail, facing the same charge as that against the woman.

Miller, still seemingly ignorant of the seriousness of the charge against him, was inclined to take it as a joke or a mistake this morning until Judge Smallwood placed his bail at $500.

MOURN DEATH OF CHARLES FROHMAN

Miss Billie Burke Anxiously Awaiting News of Manager's Fate.

The belief that Charles Frohman, perhaps the foremost theatrical producer in America, went down with the Lusitania, caused a deep feeling of awe and genuine regret among members of the theatrical profession playing in Duluth.

Victor Kiraly, manager of the company Miss Billie Burke is the star of, spent part of the day endeavoring to ascertain from the Frohman office in New York whether any more news had been secured. Mr. Viraly was loath to believe that Mr. Frohman was numbered among the long list of those lost.

Nat M. Wills, the well-know comedian, stated that a pathetic coincidence existed in the death of Charles Klein, the famous playwright, who sailed on the Lusitania. Henry B. Harris, the well-known theatrical producer, was among the victims of the Titanic. Mr. Harris was a great friend of Charles Klein, produced his first play, and, like Mr. Klein, was the victim of one of the most terrible catastrophies in the history of ocean travel.

Charles Frohman was the manager of Miss Billie Burke. The actress is intimately acquainted with the great producer. However, Miss Burke, refused to make any statement regarding her business relations with Mr. Frohman or express an opinion regarding the accident until convinced beyond any shade of doubt that Mr. Frohman was not with the survivors.

ASKS TREBLE DAMAGES FOR FLOODED LAND

Joachin Bohnsack started suit against the Duluth, Missabe & Northern Railway company in district court this morning to recover $2,400, as treble damages for the overflowing of his land caused by the building of a culvert on the company's right-of-way.

The culvert was built over a water course which crosses his land and which has its origin in Grand Lake. After the culvert was built, some time in the summer of 1913, the water backed over the land, causing $800 damages. In accordance with law, Bohnsak is demanding treble damages.

Commissioner Silberstein this morning announced the new poundmasters for the ten districts in Duluth.

The poundmasters, who will serve after May 15, follow: First district, Thomas Bergeson; second, D. Kall; third, William Zuck; fourth, Joseph Frankowski; fifth, M. Erickson; sixth, N. C. Haugen; seventh and eighth, Jacob Mann; ninth, John M. Carlson, and tenth, Patrolman Harwood.

The appointments will be confirmed at the council meeting Monday.

NO REPLY YET FROM CHINA

Japanese Have Received No Information as to Nature.

Japs Outline Program to Be Followed in Case of Rupture.

Tokio, May 8.—The Japanese foreign office announced this morning that it had received no confirmation as to the nature of China's reply to Japan's ultimatum.

The semi-official press publishes today an outline of a program said to have been decided upon by the government in the event, now regarded as unlikely, that an open rupture should occur. The program provides for the occupation by Japanese forces of the centers of wealth and political power of China.

Japan's aim in these operations would be to avoid bloodshed if possible. Chinese troops would be captured and disarmed, and not fired upon unless they offered active resistance.

Crisis Averted.

Washington, May 8.—Official advices received here late yesterday were to the effect that a crisis in the Far East has been averted, that Japan has modified her demands and that China will accept them.

Before the terms of the agreement are finally concluded, however, an expression of opinion is expected by the United States from Great Britain, France and Russia, as the allies of Japan as to whether the interests which the leading powers have had in the maintenance of the territorial integrity of China or the "open door" policy have been in any way affected.

The American ambassadors at London, Paris and Petrograd have been instructed to learn the attitude of the powers which, like the United States, are pledged to maintain the territorial status quo in China and the freedom of commercial opportunity. Inasmuch as Japan and Germany are at war, the latter country was not consulted at this time, but may be included in the American government's ocrrespondence on the question.

Officials were silent as to the communications that had been sent abroad, but it is known that it was desired before the negotiations were ended to consult the other powers in view of the peculiar relationship existing between them and the United States in connection with Chinese affairs.

TWO VICTIMS FROM DULUTH

T. J. Baker Probably Lost on Lusitania; Not Related to Miss Baker.

Among those who perished in the Lusitania disaster was Thomas J. Baker of this city. He was a third-class passenger on the Cunard liner which sailed last Saturday from New York and which was sunk by a German torpedo off the coast of Ireland yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Baker's name is not listed in the city directory. F. George Hanson & Co., local agents for the Cunard line, stated today that Baker had purchased a passage on the Lusitania for Liverpool. He bought the ticket in Duluth on April 17.

Mr. Baker is no relative of Miss Millie Baker, the young Duluth woman who is believed to have drowned when the sea swallowed up the big ocean vessel.

ON THE IRON RANGES

ORE SHIPPING QUITE LARGE

Hibbing District Sending More to Docks Than Any Day Last Year.

Demand for Laborers on the Mesaba Range Getting Quite Marked.

Hibbing, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—More ore is now being shipped daily from the Hibbing district over the Missabe railroad than was shipped during any day last year, and it is declared that it is probable even that there will be a material increase in shipments before the middle of the summer.

This ore can now be handled considerably more easily than any previous time due to the completion of a new modern ore dock at Duluth, which was greatly added to the loading facilities.

With the exception of the starting of two shovels at the Burt mine, Great Northern property here, no new properties have been opened this week. The Burt mine will not begin shipping ore until next week, it is said.

Iron Range Also Busy.

The Great Northern and Missabe railroads are not the only ones carrying large quantities of ore to Lake Superior docks this summer. Officials of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, shipping to Two Harbors, also declare that the season promises to be an unusually brisk one.

This road is taking ore from mines in the vicinity of Gilbert, Biwabik and Aurora and expects to fully reach last year's shipments, if not exceeding them. At Biwabik the shipments have especially started at a rapid rate. Among the mines here that are shipping large quantities of ore are the Biwabik, Bangor, Belgrade and Monica. It is expected that several extra trains will be run from these mines before the end of this month. A report from Two Harbors says that twenty crews operating trains between Two Harbors and the Iron Range district here is an insufficient number to handle the output.

Mining operations over the entire range have done much to relieve the labor situation here which early this spring promised to prove troublesome. Now, however, most of the miners are at work and in some cases difficulty is encountered getting men. Municipalities have cut down their pay roll nearly 55 per cent since mining interests began demanding laborers and in many instances needed civic improvements are postponed until the laborers can be hired without interfering with mine operations.

Besides the crews working in the mines, the opening of the ore season has given employment to more than 100 train crews as well as dock hands and crews on lake carriers.

Big Shipping Contract.

One interesting development feature is the letting of a contract to the A. Guthrie & Co., of St. Paul, to strip approximately 8,500,000 yards of surface material from the Hill-Annex mine. This will make available about 4,300,000 tons of ore which may be mined next year.

The announcement of the time of stripping the Scranton mine at Hibbing has not been made, although officials says that this will depend much upon conditions in the East, declared to be favorable. The Scranton mine is one of the most valuable state properties on the range. The stripping, it is estimated, will entail the removal of nearly 14,000,000 yards of surface material.

WAR ON RODENTS IN DEER RIVER

Deer River, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The boys of Deer River are in glee over the announcement by the women of the Civic league that they will pay 5 cents per rat bounty for all rats killed in the village, beginning today.

Thursday was set for general clean-up day in the village, but the work has been going on all week and an inspection to be made as soon as the weather clears is expected to show no delinquents.

FAVOR SCATTERING COST OVER YEARS

Two Harbors Property Owners Consider Plan at Mass Meeting.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—On the solicitation of the city council the property owners living in the Fourth ward held a massmeeting this week, at which the council offered suggestions for the improvement of streets, avenues and alleys in that section of the city. The council suggested having all the streets and avenues in that section of the city improved in one job and in this way hopes to equalize the cost. The council advised the property owners that it was not the city's intention to do all this work this summer, but expected to extend it over a period of two years' time.

The sentiment of the property owners at the meeting, however, was strongly against any improvements being made this year on account of money conditions, which they claimed would cause a burden on them to pay for the work. A number at the meeting suggested to the council that the payments for making public improvements be extended over a period of time at a reasonable rate of interest, instead of compelling the people to pay for the work within sixty days after the completion of the job, as is now done. The property owners present were almost unanimous in their vote to have the city improving done provided they were given an extended period of time in which to pay for the work and it is probable that unless the city council can make some arrangements of this kind that there will be no work done in this section of the city this year.

Improvements Proposed.

The streets and avenues which the council proposed improving are Poplar, Pine, Maple and Cedar from Fifth avenue north; and Eighth, Ninth and Tenth avenues. The improving of Eighth avenue was commenced two years ago when the city suspended it and then discontinued the work and at the present time during wet weather this avenue is virtually a mudhole and impassable to heavy teams. Some of the property owners at the meeting suggested that the city finish what they had already started before they attempted to start a three-year job on several streets. Thus far nothing definite toward the completing of the avenue has been done and the probabilities are that there will be no steps taken this year to complete the job.

J. McPartlin, whom Nielson wants to act in his behalf.

PETITION FOR DAM.

Tower People Want County to Build One at Vermilion Falls.

Tower, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—G. A. Carlson and Gunder Peterson went to Duluth Wednesday to meet with the county commissioners in reference to the building of a dam at Vermilion Falls in order that the level of the lake might be maintained. The Commercial club has been instrumental in investigating the matter, and appointed these men as a committee to interview the land holders along the lake, securing their signatures to a petition which was presented to the county board.

Since the old dam at the falls has gone out, the outflow is so great that the water has become so low in places, it is not safe for the large boats to travel, on account of the prevalence of rock formations.

FAIR

The weather prediction yesterday, made for today, did not go by contraries. Cold weather was promised, and cold weather was on the job. Comforters felt pretty good on the beds last night, and wraps are very much the thing today. The sun really burst through the clouds for a few minutes, but in general the prospect is dreary.

A year ago today was cool. The sun rose this morning at 4:40 and will set this evening at 7:27, giving fourteen hours and forty-seven minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The barometric depression centered over Lake Superior caused fresh to strong westerly winds in the lake region, and copious to heavy rains to the eastward of the Mississippi valley, and light rains in Minnesota, Eastern North Dakota and Manitoba. Light to killing frosts occurred last night in the Dakotas, Wyoming and Nebraska. The highest wind velocity at Duluth last night was at the rate of forty-six miles per hour from the west."

AMUSEMENTS

MISS BILLIE BURKE AT THE LYCEUM

"If You Like Billie, You Will Also Like Jerry."

"Cunning" is the adjective which best describes Miss Billie Burke, comedienne, who opened a two days' engagement at the Lyceum last evening in "Jerry."

The word may be applied in either of its accepted meanings, cut or calculating. With her shock of reddish hair, and her dynamic personality, she is undeniably piquant, and her little tricks and mannerisms are irresistibly fascinating.

That she is also cunning in the sense of being shrewd, is proven by the fact that she, with the able assistance of Charles Frohman, has capitalized this personality, and by skillfully sticking to the roles suited to her, has become a popular theatrical star with drawing powers equaled by few. Her career has been successful in the extreme, but to date it has left behind it no permanent picture of any character save Billie Burke. "Sufficient unto the day is the amusement thereof" is apparently her motto, and probably few grey hairs have been added to the pretty red ones because she has failed to make any permanent contributions to the field of dramatic art. If popularity is an excuse for such a career, Miss Burke is certainly abundantly vindicated. The audience which filled the Lyceum last evening and enthusiastically laughed and applauded is sufficient evidence of this.

"Jerry," which is used to exploit the fetching mannerisms and charming tricks of Miss Burke, is like a beautiful bit of empty space against a background of nothing at all.

It is a dressmaker's—pardon, no mere dressmaker ever accomplished such creations—a designer's dream touched with emotion.

It is a sartorially perfect comedy drama which has achieved the absolute—the absolute maximum of comedy that can be based on the absolute minimum of mental exertion.

It is a Paquinesque fantasy where the heroine flits from pantalettes to pantaloons, from old satin wedding gowns to wonderfully fitting bits of filmy perfections that reveal pink breeches to pink crepe de chine pajamas. And those delicious and perfectly proper pajamas. How they could ever have caused a furore along that wicked Broadway is a mystery. Now if she had followed the example of the heroine of the familiar ditty:

"I wear my pink pajamas in the summer when its hot;
I wear my flannel nightie in the winter when its not.
And sometimes in the summer and
sometimes in the fall,
I just jump in between the sheets with nothing on at all."

But it was always summer in the third act at least, and those the pink pajamas were as eminently proper as the new minister's wife. The woman who lifted "L'Enfant terrible" from life, dramatized her and clothed her in this riot of customs house plunder is Catherine Chisholm Cushing, who has done better work, but the name of the man or the woman who designed the confections that will agitate feminine Duluth for weeks to come, is not mentioned. Thus is another flower "born to blush unseen and waste its sweetness on the desert air."

The play opens with a beautifully cut white skirt just showing a pair of very dainty black slippers, and progresses without a hitch to the old satin wedding gown, followed by the pantalettes. All of this transpires in the first act. The second act introduces a flimsy, transparent white or pink silk kimono closely followed by a very fetching pair of riding breeches. The big climax of the third act introduces a complete set of bedroom slippers and the pink pajamas, followed by another confection and the wedding. In the last act, amid the wilds of Arizona, and a riot of beautiful cretonne and Maxfield Parrish prints, the heroine flits in a maddeningly smart house gown of flowered—well, muslin of chintz would be a tyro's guess, subject to correction.

The supporting company is faultless, for as distinctive a picture as Billie Burke must have an adequate frame. Alice John makes an irreproachable society matron. Selene Johnson is satisfactory as her more temperamental sister. Shelley Hull is a distinguished "Monty" and H. Lawrence Leyton does some excellent comedy work as Peter Flagg. Thomas Reynolds has a splendidly done minor role as Briggs, the house clerk for the Oliver Iron Mining company, was elected his successor at a salary of $75 per month. William Vuotl was also a candidate. The mayor appointed Arvid L. Lindholm, Andrew Harri and William Vuotl a committee to audit the city books.

Mrs. Lena Seraphine was given the contract for feeding city prisoners at 35 cents per meal. Peter Kosonitch was given the contract for street sprinkling at 50 cents an hour.

J. A. Rothmak was given the contract for hauling coal to the light and water plant at 19½ cents per ton.

INSTRUCTORS IN FARMING

Demand for Trained Men Large at Excellent Salaries.

Summer Course for Teachers Will Be Given at "U" Farm School.

Demand for farm-reared men who have taken an agricultural course is very large, and men who are so prepared, even if they have had no teaching experience, can secure places at salaries of from $1,200 to $1,500 a year. Men similarly equipped, who have had teaching experience, can secure places at salaries of from $1,500 to $3,000.

In part to meet the demand for such men, the agricultural department of the University of Minnesota will hold a summer session this year. The school will be conducted under the direction of A. V. Storm. It will open Monday, June 14 and end July 24. Students must register Friday and Saturday, June 11 and 12.

The courses offered are as follows:

Agronomy and farm management—Farm crops, farm management, and grain and corn judging.

Agricultural chemistry — Chemistry of plant and animal life.

Agricultural education — Methods, teaching, and organization and management.

Dairy and animal husbandry—Breeds and types of livestock, feeding and management of market stock, poultry, elements of dairy husbandry, and incubating and brooding.

Entomology—Economic entomology.

Home economics—Textiles, garment making, dressmaking, foods and cookery, food economics, methods in home economics, and drawing and design.

Horticulture—Landscape gardening, and general horticulture.

Bulletins giving further particulars can be secured from J. M. Drew, registrar, university farm, St. Paul.

BEE MEN SUSTAIN HEAVY LOSSES

State Farm School Urges Better Care of Apiaries.

Bee keepers of Minnesota last year suffered a loss of nearly $200,000, according to Francis Jager, chief of the division of bee keeping, University farm, St. Paul. In a bulletin published by the agricultural department of the university, Mr. Jager ascribes various causes for this loss.

"The emphasis," he says, "is on the need of careful wintering, and the secret of successful wintering lies in strong colonies of good strains of bees, a sufficient supply of pure honey, and a liberal amount of good luck."

The artificial feeding of bees was necessary last fall. Most bee keepers used almost any sweetened medium. Mr. Jager at university farm used the best grade of sugar mixed with an equal amount of water. He stored his bees in a dry cellar which was kept at an even temperature of about 42 degrees. Whereas the loss to some beekeepers of the state was something like 60 per cent, there was no loss at all at University farm.

For winterling, no strain of bees can be compared with the Carniolans. They lie practically dormant and eat little or no honey through the winter.

GOOD INQUIRY FOR FARM LAND

Land Seekers Here From Several Middle West States.

Marked activity in the inquiry for land is advised by Duluth operators. Numbers of transactions are reported to have been put through during the last two weeks and some large deals are understood to be pending.

D. M. Cole, sales manager of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad's land department, said this morning that sales effected in his office during the last month have been in gratifying proportions. Land seekers have been here from Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota and Kansas, and sales were made to a large proportion of the number.

"The outlook is splendid in all our settlements," said Mr. Cole. "Settlers got their small grains in the ground early this spring and their farming operations are farther ahead than perhaps in any other year at this time. The majority of the newcomers are taking up dairying."

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE ORCHARD AND GARDEN

Do not plant out tender vegetables or bedding plants until about May 25.

To get white cauliflower tie the leaves over the head as soon as the head is formed.

Strawberries may be set out at this time. The Senator Dunlap is a good variety.

Plant a few lima beans. The dwarf varieties ripen a little ahead of the pole sorts and are as good.

Set out a strawberry and a raspberry bed.

Make another sowing of peas, spinach and radishes.

See that a bird bath is built, out of reach of the cat.

There is still time to sew grass seed and establish a good lawn.

Every garden should have an herb border. Many of the herbs are ornamental as well as useful.

Roses should have been pruned before this, but may be gone over now. All weak or injured wood should be cut out.

Plant a few gladiolus bulbs, and follow this with other plantings for several weeks. This will give a longer season of flowers.

A good hand cultivator makes gardening easier. With proper attachments, furrows may be opened, seed covered and weeds killed.

Plant a few pots or berry boxes of cucumbers, melons, or other vegetables for early use. Keep in cold frame or hotbed until the latter part of May when all danger of frost is over, and then plant out.

Set out shade trees and shrubs if it has not been attended to. Spread the roots well and fill in with fine rich soil. Always make this soil firm about the roots. Leave the top soil loose.—Le Roy Cady, associate horticulturist, University farm, St. Paul, Minn.

WILL CONDUCT SPUD CONTEST

Many Prizes Will Be Given for Boys of Northern Minnesota.

Record of Work and 500-Word Essay Required.

A potato contest will be carried on in the northern half of Minnesota as a club project for 1915. The contest will be conducted along the same lines as the acre-yield corn contest. The work will be supervised by the agricultural extension division of the university in co-operation with the United States department of agriculture.

Any boy or girl 10 years of age and not more than 18, on July 1, 1915, living in the territory north of the south line of Wilkin, Grant, Douglas, Todd, Morrison, Mille Lacs, Kanabec and Pine counties may enter. Every club member taking part in this contest must enroll with the agricultural extension division, universary farm, St. Paul.

Each contestant must agree to the following provisions:

1. He must grow at least one-eighth of an acre of potatoes.

2. He must agree to secure the seed at his own expense unless provided for by the local club. He should select either the Green Mountain (sometimes called Carman No. 1) or Rural New Yorker (often known as Carman No. 3). Either may be chosen but no other type may compete for state prizes.

3. He must do all the work himself except that very young members may secure help in plowing or other heavy work.

4. He must keep a complete record of all operations on blanks furnished him and must send in his reports promptly.

5. He must write a story of not over 500 words telling how he grew his crop.

6. He must show fifteen pounds of potatoes grown on his plot at some general crop exhibition, the time and place to be announced later.

There will be a splendid list of prizes for individual winners as well as for the clubs making the highest average record. Clubs competing must have at least five members and must report officers to the Agricultural Extension Division before July 1, 1915. A list of prizes will be sent out a little later. Every boy or girl who finishes all parts of the contest—making the exhibit of potatoes, writing the story of his plot, and sending complete reports—will be given the 4H club pin.

As soon as the potatoes are ripe, each contestant should harvest every sixth row and fraction of a row of his plot and weigh the potatoes accurately. Multiply this result by six to get the total number of pounds. The superintendent of schools, county agricultural agent, high school agriculturist or some neighbor, must assist in checking the yield, measure the plot and sign the contestant's report, certifying to its accuracy.

SUMMER COURSE IN AGRICULTURE

Session Opens June 14 at the Minnesota Agricultural College.

Opportunity knocks all the time in Minnesota. The demand for farm-reared men who have taken an agricultural college course is very large. Men who are so prepared, even if they have no teaching experience, can secure places at salaries of from $1,200 to $1,500 a year. Men similarly equipped, who have had teaching experience, can secure places at salaries of from $1,500 to $3,000.

It is in part to meet the demand for such men, to keep open the doors of opportunity, that the department of agriculture of the University of Minnesota holds a summer session. The summer session this year, under the direction of A. V. Strom, will open Monday, June 14 and end July 24. Students must register Friday and Saturday, June 11 and 12.

The courses offered are:

Agronomy and Farm Management—Farm crops, farm management, and grain and corn judging.

Horticulture—Landscape gardening, and general horticulture.

Soils—Soil physics and management.

Vegetable Pathology and Botany—Plant pathology, and agricultural botany.

Veterinary Science—Veterinary medicine.

Bulletins giving further particulars can be secured from J. M. Drew, registrar, University Farm, St. Paul.

WILL MAKE NO CHANGE JUST NOW

No all-time health director will be appointed until the health department is completely organized and operating smoothly, was the announcement made this morning by Commissioner Silberstein, head of the public safety division. Mr. Silberstein declared that the present officials are capable and that he will make no changes at this time.

"So far I have been ucable to find a good man for the office," said Mr. Silberstein this morning, "and I will not bring an outsider into the city until the department is in such shape to receive him."

SETTLE WILL REPORT.

Will Urge Permanent Playgrounds for Children and Adults.

Elated over the success of the resolution asking support for the playgrounds and recreation movement, which the directors of the board of education passed at a meeting last night, members of the Citizen's committee in charge of the campaign will attend a meeting in the council chamber at the city hall Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

T. S. Settle, field secretary of the Playgrounds and Recretation Association of New York, who made a survey of Duluth, will present his complete report.

The sub-committee, which has been pushing the campaign to raise the $3,000 required to give the plan a trial, also will make its report.

WOULD ALTER MEDICAL PLAN

Supt. Denfeld Asks for Whole-Time Physician and More Nurses.

Present Plan Unsatisfactory; Greeley Criticizes Three-Doctor Plan.

"Part time" school physicians are not a success, and are being paid for time that they do not work, declared Director L. Q. Greeley of the board of education at the monthly board meeting last night.

Following a recommendation by R. E. Denfeld, superintendent of schools, that a full-time physician be employed, replacing the three part-time ones who now carry on the work, Director Greeley said he was satisfied that considerable time was lost under the present plan.

"I have learned that physicians who now inspect the pupils do not follow their schedules, and that the board is paying for services never rendered," declared Director Greeley, who is a doctor.

Supt. Denfeld admitted that there was no way in which to check the time spent by the examining board, and that other appointments of the three physicians sometimes interfered with their school work. With his request for a full-time physician, the schools' head asked for an increase in the staff of nurses.

Would Check Salary Advances.

Designed to end large increases in expenditures for maintenance, because of large increases in teachers' salaries, Director C. F. Colman introduced a resolution providing for a closer check on the totals, from year to year.

"I was surprised to learn recently," he said, "after voting increases in salaries which I was told would amount to about $20,000, that the increase was nearer $40,000."

His resolution was passed after a discussion, with the provision that a report would be prepared, showing as nearly as possible, the yearly increase, before any more raises in salary was voted.

Bills for unpaid school assessments amounting to $19,279.23 were received and action deferred pending an opinion from attorneys as to whether the board is liable for street improvements adjoining school land. Henry F. Greene, city attorney, in a communication, expressed the opinion that the board owed the money, but C. F. Colman, director, stated that legal representatives of the board differed from this ruling. A friendly suit may be instituted to determine the board's liability, he said.

Hires New Teachers.

Twenty-four new teachers for Duluth schools beginning in September, 1915, were recommended by directors of the board of education at the monthly meeting last night.

Director D. E. Seashore, as chairman of the committee on schools, presented the names of the new instructors. The resignation of Miss Rose B. Weidner, to take effect at the end of the present term, was accepted.

May 31 was set aside to be observed as Memorial day, following the request of a committee of the G. A. R. and Citizens' staff. The schools will be closed on that date.

The new teachers are Birdie B. Auten, Agnes V. Anderson, Ida L. Blair, Amanda Backon, Florence E. Bernhardt, Evalyn Clay, Ruth M. Dockem, Rose S. Guinn, Margaret V. Grannis, Harriett Gemmell, Frances Herald, Rora Henderson, Harriet Keeney, Effie Lindahl, Mabel Melin, Esther Mork, Wilhelmina Nelson, Jennie E. Olson, Maude Purdy, Zetta Plantz, Eva M. Potter, Katherine H. Robertson, Mabel Wright and Bessie Wright.

A list including fifty-four janitors or engineers, to serve in the various buildings during the ensuing school year, was presented for the approval of the board by W. B. Getchell as chairman of the committee on buildings and grounds. With the exception of three minor changes, the list was the same as during the year ending in June.

ROB POSTOFFICE AT EMERADO, N. D.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Emerado, N. D., postoffice, eighteen miles west of here, was dynamited by robbers early today and they escaped with $880 worth of stamps and $30 in currency. The interior of the postoffice, which is located in A. A. Hood's general store, was badly damaged by the explosion. There was no knowledge of the affair until the store was opened this morning.

Following the raid the robbers broke into two garages in an effort to find an automobile to carry them from the scene, but these were not available and the method of escape is not known.

SUPERIOR

RECALL LIST MAY BE INSUFFICIENT.

City Clerk McKeague announced this morning that 132 names of signers to the recall petition against Mayor Konkel may be stricken from the roll. These names are of men that are not contained on the regular poll list. In case these names are taken off, the petition will be found to be incomplete and may be rejected. Men back of the recall petition say that every name on the list is legal, although there may be some who are not on the regular list, having probably moved in recent months.

Police Promotions.

Sergt. Louis Osborne was appointed captain of police yesterday to succeed Capt. O. T. Olson, who recently retired on a pension. The appointment of Patrolman William Miller to a sergeancy was also made. Chief of Police McKinnon also announced the appointment of Ole Peterson to become a patrolman.

LAST CLOQUET PROGRAM

Mothers' Club Will Give Its Final Entertainment of Season.

Cloquet, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The regular and final meeting of the Mothers' club will be held in the Lincoln high school tonight.

The following program will be rendered: Flag drill, Miss Helgeson's pupils; "The Spiritual Development of the Child," Rev. W. E. Williams; vocal solo, Miss Lyda Hoyt; madonna pictures, Mrs. J. T. Sheean; "School Gardens," G. M. Harner; song, Jefferson school. Refreshments will be served.

Are you making it "pay"—this occupation of keeping boarders? Perhaps a better way to put the question would be: "Are you advertising in The Herald the fact that you keep boarders?"

RECALLS LOSS OF TITANIC

Lusitania Sinking May Have Caused Almost as Great a Loss of Life.

Former Was Largest Liner; Latter Was Second Fastest Vessel.

The sinking of the Cunard liner Lusitania yesterday by a torpedo off the coast of Ireland, recalls the sinking of the White Star liner Titanic, which occurred April 15, 1912. According to incomplete reports, the loss of life on the Lusitania may almost equal that of the Titanic wreck.

The sinking of the Titanic was the most noted shipwreck in history up to that time, both in number of lives lost and in the prominence of the persons lost. Many distinguished men went down. Since that time, so many disasters of world-wide importance have taken place, that the news of the Lusitania disaster will not excite so much comment except for the relations it may bear on the already troublesome situation affecting the United States and Germany in regard to naval rights during the war.

The Titanic was the largest ocean liner afloat and was on her maiden trip across the Atlantic. She came to a sudden end in midocean when she struck an iceberg. Of her crew and passengers 1,635 were lost, and 725 were saved. More might have been saved if more life boats had been available.

The Lusitania was the second fastest liner in the world, the Mauretania, a sister ship, having a slight advantage in speed. The Lusitania had 2,160 persons on board, and as far as is now known, only about 600 have been accounted for. It is not known if all the remainder were drowned. If such be the case, then the sinking of the Lusitania caused the loss of almost as many lives as the wreck of the Titanic.

Cloquet Club Program.

Cloquet, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Woman's Friday club met yesterday at the home of Mrs. C. L. McNair. The members of the Matinee Musicale gave a program. The soloists were Mrs. Ethel Oswald Adams, soprano; Miss Elizabeth Maddox, violinist; Miss Julia Hunter, pianist, and Mrs. John A. Stephenson, accompanist.

FOR SALE—REAL ESTATE

HOMESITES
IN GLEN AVON.

We have some of the finest lots in Duluth located in Glen Avon and Hunter's Park, overlooking Waverly Park, Crescent View Park, and within two blocks of Congdon Park. Superb view of the lake and the Wisconsin shore in the distance. These lots are the most beautiful and sightly in Duluth. They are surrounded by splendid homes, close to church and school and street car. Many of these lots have gas, water and sewer. When you buy here you are not buying a new boom addition, where you are a pioneer, as it were, but the improvements are there and the type of houses surrounding you is assured. Think of this: Eleven of these lots have the finest paved street in the city of Duluth, which cost $240 for 50 feet. This is fully paid for and does not add a cent to the price of the lots for you. If you were thinking of building a home, you can make a 20 per cent larger loan on a house built here than on a house built in a new suburb. We can place the loans for you on houses built here.

These lots lie between Victoria street and Hardy street and between Wallace avenue and Vermilion road, one of the choicest locations in Duluth. The lots are 50 by 100 and 50 by 200 feet. Prices vary from $800 to $1,700 per lot on five years' time.

Call us up and make appointments to see these lots. Look them over and compare them with any other lots in the city, and then you will be convinced of our low prices and desirability of purchasing here. Investigate these.

GERMAN AIRMEN DROP MANY BOMBS NEAR CITY OF LONDON

SOUTH END AND LEIGH SUFFERERS

Scores of Missiles Hurled From Aircraft Appearing Early in Morning.

Various Houses Struck But No Deaths Have Been Reported.

Of Sixty Bombs Dropped at South End Many Hit Beach.

London, May 10.—Two Zeppelin airships are reported to have dropped bombs on Westcliff-on-Sea, near South End, but no fatalities have been reported.

Warning of the approach of hostile aircraft was given South End at 2:52 o'clock this morning. Several machines took part in the raid but whether they were Zeppelins or aeroplanes the residents were unable to state as the weather was cloudy.

Bombs struck houses in various parts of the town, but no deaths have been reported. One man and his wife were badly burned in a fire started by an incendiary bomb. One resident told of three bombs dropping near his home, none of which caused damage.

Shops Burned.

It is reported that several shops

PASSED MANY BODIES FLOATING ON OCEAN

Captain of St. Paul Reports Seeing Many Twenty Miles Off Kinsale.

Steamship St. Paul, via wireless to London, May 10.—Many floating bodies were passed at 11 o'clock yesterday morning twenty miles west of Kinsale.

Cables Consul.

Washington, May 10.—The state department today cabled Consul Frost to get in touch, if possible, with the captain of the American liner St. Paul and ask about the report that the St. Paul passed floating bodies.

T. P. Littlepage of New York, attorney for the Pearson interests, conferred at the White House and at the state department today to ask if the United States could not send some ships to co-operate in a search for the bodies. He was told that the nearest government vessel was in the Mediterranean, but Consul Frost was asked if the use of private craft seemed warranted.

ALLIES ARE ADVANCING

Important Movement By British and French in Western Area.

British Have Thrown Great Reinforcements in the Field.

London, May 10.—Since the battle of Neuve Chapelle, France, and the German reply to it on the Ypres canal, there has been no such important movement by the British and French armies in the western arena of the war as now is in progress and according to the official communications of both Gen. Joffre and the field marshal, Sir John French, the allies are meeting with success.

Obviously the British have been able to throw great reinforcements into the field since the time when, with the use of asphyxiating gas, the Germans forced them to recoil a fortnight ago.

The substantial advance already recorded by the British is taken by military experts here as promising that the present operations will be pushed home. The British and French are attacking along a front of twenty-six miles and the fighting which commenced Sunday morning continues, according to today's official communication issued in Paris, in favor of the allies.

DEEP REGRET EXPRESSED BY AMBASSADOR

Count Bernstorff of German Embassy Calls on Secretary Bryan.

Deplores Loss of Life of Americans on Sunken Ship.

Washington, May 10.—Count Bernstorff, the German ambassador, called on Secretary Bryan today and expressed "deep regret that the events of the war had led to the loss of so many American lives."

After a half hour's conference between the ambassador and Secretary Bryan the following statement was, by mutual agreement, given out by the secretary:

"The German ambassador called at the state department and expressed his deep regret that the events of the war had led to the loss of so many American lives."

While neither the ambassador nor Secretary Bryan's statement mentioned the Lusitania disaster by name, it was known that the two officials talked of it specifically.. It was the ambas-

HAS CONFIDENCE IN CAPTAIN OF STEAMER

Chairman of Cunard Line Will Wait Until He Hears From Him.

Liverpool, May 10.—Charles Booth, chairman of the Cunard Steamship company, today gave the following signed statement to The Associated Press:

"With reference to reported statements by Lusitania passengers, I shall not attempt to draw any conclusions until all the facts are known, and I therefore deprecate criticism which can be based only on assumption.

"In the meanwhile I can only state that I have complete confidence in Capt. Turner's judgment.

VICTORIOUS AUSTRO-GERMANS REFORM FOR NEW OFFENSIVE

FIRST STAGE OF FIGHTING CONCLUDED

Armies Bringing Up Supplies Left Behind in Rapid Advance.

Seventy Thousand Russ Prisoners Have Already Been Brought in.

Press Headquarters of the Austrian Army, Western Galicia, May 10, via London.—The first stage of the battle of West Galicia has been virtually concluded. The victorious troops under the lead of the German general, August von Mackensen, after successfully breaking through all three fortified lines of the Russian front, are assembling and reforming for a new offensive. They are bringing forward supplies left behind in their rapid advance and also are using the interval to gather the captured Russians behind their present front and seek for abandoned guns and other spoils of war in the mountain forests.

70,000 Prisoners.

Seventy thousand prisoners already have been brought in. The number of prisoners in this part of the battle in Galicia will be increased, it is believed here, by 30,000. Between 60 and 70 guns have been captured, but as was

GERMANS CHARGED WITH WILFUL MURDER BY JURY.

Kinsdale, Ireland, May 10.—The coroner's jury which has been investigating the deaths attendant upon the loss of the Lusitania returned the following verdict today:

"The jury find that this appalling crime was contrary to international law and the conventions of all civilized nations and we therefore charge the officers of the submarine and the German empire and the government of Germany, under whose orders they acted, with the crime of wilful and wholesale murder."

LEO M. FRANK RESENTENCED TO BE HANGED

Murderer of Mary Phagan Must Pay Penalty for Crime June 22.

Prisoner Again Declares He Is Innocent of Killing Girl.

Atlanta, Ga., May 10. — Leo M. Frank today was resentenced to be hanged on Tuesday, June 22, for the murder of Mary Phagan.

Frank, when brought before Judge Hill to be resentenced, made this statement:

"Again I stand before you. Again I can but reiterate that I am innocent of the murder of Mary Phagan. I have absolutely no guilty knowledge of that tragic occurrence.

"I am innocent of this charge and I assert that the record of the evidence conclusively proves this. No appellate tribunal has ever passed upon this evidence. The only judge who has ever heard it stated that he had the most serious doubts as to my guilt.

"My execution will not avenge Mary

SUCH STEP NOW UNDER DISCUSSION

Believed President Will First Denounce Act of Sinking Lusitania.

Will Hold It Inexcusable Under Laws of Nations and Humanity.

Executive Is Considering the Case in Seclusion of the White House.

Washington, May 10.—Speculation as to what the United States probably would do as a protest against the torpedoing of the Lusitania with the loss of more than 100 American lives developed among officials and diplomatists today the general opinion that President Wilson would express in the policy he pursues a denunciation of the act as inexcusable under the laws of nations and humanity.

Close observers of the trend of official thought believed the president first would take steps to express the horror of the American people over the killing of neutrals on the Lusitania. The step most discussed was the breaking off of diplomatic relations and the sending of representations recording the opinion of the American government on the Lusitania, Falaba, Gulflight and Cushing incidents.

In Seclusion of White House.

President Wilson continued his consideration of the Lusitania disaster in seclusion at the White House, but it was indicated that before many days have passed he will let the country know what steps he has decided upon. While officials reiterated that the president would not allow himself to be

WILL BE GIVEN A MILITARY FUNERAL

Lusitania Victims, Excepting Americans, to Be Honored at Burial.

Washington, May 10.—Consul Frost cabled the state department that the funeral of Lusitania victims, other than Americans, would be held this afternoon with military and naval escort. American diplomatic officials, he said, would attend.

Bodies of American dead, he said, where immediate embalming was not necessary, would be photographed and sealed in leaden caskets for return to the United States.

Secretary Bryan would not comment on the disaster. The official German statements on the case, received in news reports, had not reached the department. Ambassador Gerard has been asked to forward the results of his inquiries at the Berlin foreign office, but so far the secretary said the ambassador had not replied to a message asking for a similar report on the torpedoing of the American steamer Gulflight.

THE "CLEAN-UPS" WILL GET YOU IF YOU DON'T WATCH OUT.

GERMAN ESTABLISHMENTS AT VICTORIA DESTROYED

British Columbia City Placed Under Martial Law Due to Mob Action.

Troops From Vancouver Expected to Reinforce Local Garrison.

Victoria, B. C., May 10.—Victoria is under martial law today, as a result of renewed attacks upon German establishments by mobs bent upn revenging the sinking of the Lusitania.

After a mob of several thousand men and boys had smashed windows last night in the Phoenix brewery, the New England hotel, Kilberger's jewelry store, Hermann's cleaning establishment and Geiger's plumbing shop, the mayor read the riot act at a downtown street corner and 800 soldiers began policing the city.

A detachment of troops is expected today from Vancouver to reinforce the local garrison, as further trouble is feared. The Phoenix brewery virtually was wrecked, the mob doing its work before soldiers reached the scene. So far as known, no one was injured.

PUBLISHER TELLS OF EXPERIENCES

Found Collapsible Lifeboat After He Jumped From Lusitania.

Boston, Mass., May 10.—A cablegram from Charles E. Lauriat, Jr., a publisher of this city, who was a passenger on the Lusitania, describing his experiences, was received by Mrs. Lauriat at her home in Cambridge today. The message, which was sent from London at 9:55 p. m. yesterday, says:

"I arrived from Queenstown yesterday safe and sound and am suffering from no after-shock, only muscular lameness.

"We were struck at 2:08. After doing all I could on the ship, I jumped and swam at 2:25. I found and got upon a collapsible lifeboat. I opeend her up and took charge. We got in thirty-two in all. Then we rowed for shore. We were picked up in about two hours and reached Queenstown at 9:30 p. m.

"The town was wide open with hospitality. We brought through four slightly injured. The women showed wonderful courage.

"I saved the baby's pictures. They were my mascot. I also saved my passport and all drafts."

SUMMARY OF THE WAR NEWS

A further victory for the Austro-German forces in Galicia was reported today in a dispatch from the Austrian press headquarters. Having completed the first stage of the battle by breaking the Russian lines in western Galicia, the Teutonic allies were said to have driven back the Russians further east between Lupkow and Uzsok passes. It was estimated that the number of Russian prisoners taken in Western Galicia would be increased to 100,000.

The German advance in the Baltic provinces of Russia was reported at Copenhagen to have been checked. Strong Russian forces operating from Mitau were credited with having compelled the retrent of Germans who penetrated 100 miles or more into Russian territory.

Except for the assertion that a small amount of territory near St. Georges was won yesterday, the official French statement indicated no changes along the western front.

The situation in Flanders and the Carpathians, where the critical battles of the present phase of the war are being fought, is still obscure. On the western front both the Germans and their opponents claim considerable gains. In the Carpathians a similar situation exists, for though the Russians admit reverses at the hands of the Austrians and Germans, they concede no such serious defeats as are indicated by the statements from Berlin and Vienna, and assert that the Teutonic allies are now being checked.

An aerial raid within forty miles of London was made early today. Various conflicting reports were received from the Essex coast, one of which said serious damage to property and some loss of life had been caused by bombs dropped by the raiders. It was reported also that four Zeppelins took part in the raid. Another dispatch, however, said that while several aircraft took part it has not been established whether they were Zeppelin or aeroplanes. The towns of South End, Westcliff-on-Sea and Leigh appear to have been attacked.

The Italian government now is expected to reach shortly its decision for or against war. In this connection Rome regards as of significance the visit to the capital of Signor Giolitti, former premier and a member of the neutralist group. It is reported in Rome that if Italy decides to enter the war she will do so by declaring war on Turkey.

SAYS FAMILY IS STARVING

Pitiful Appeal From Settler Near Taft Received By County.

Ill, and Wife and Nine Children Without Food or Shelter.

"For God's sake! Help us!"

This was the last line of a pitiful plea which reached the office of County Attorney Warren E. Greene in a letter this morning from the town of New Independence written by N. A. Guymon, a sick and penniless farmer who declares that his landlord double-crossed him and left him with a wife and nine half-starved children on his hands.

"We have nothing to eat," he wrote. "All I have left is six cents. This morning (Saturday) we ate up the last. It was a quart of corn meal. It was the last mouthful. The babies are crying. In the name of Christ, help us out."

County Attorney Greene this morning referred the letter to R. D. McKercher, humane agent, and A. P. Cook, clerk of the board of poor commissioners. Mr. Cook will leave this afternoon for Taft, Minn., the nearest railroad station. The Guymons are located three and one-half miles southwest of Taft.

Guymon, in his letter to the county attorney relates in detail how he came to fall into such destitute circumstances. He blames his present condition to the owner of the land on which he and his family are located.

Guymon came to Taft at the owner's request last April from Park Rapids, Minn. Two of his children, boys, accompanied him. The owner, according to Guymon's story, hired him to take charge of the land and improve the property.

Guymon writes that the landlord and his wife came to the place shortly afterwards and that a house was built for them on the land. The landlord, he claims, promised that he would build another house for Guymon and his family and on the strength of this promise Guymon sent for his wife and his other seven children. They arrived last Thursday.

On Saturday the landlord and his wife left the premises and returned to their home, leaving Guymon and his family with nothing on the land except the shack. Guymon declares that he asked his landlord for some money to get started with and that he was refused and told that he and his family could starve or get off the place.

Guymon also claims that he has been sleeping on the ground under some boards propped up against a pole and that he has contracted a cold which may prove serious. Neighbors in the town of New Independence have come to the assistance of the stranded family and are affording them temporary relief. It is possible that the county will return them to Park Rapids.

ELECTRIC SIGNS FOR JITNEY BUSES

Electric-lighted jitney signs like those in use on street cars are the latest.

This morning Ralph Ward of Thirty-ninth avenue west brought one of his new signs to Commissioner Silberstein's office for the purpose of learning whether it comes under the rules of the new jitney ordinance, which prohibits signs that obstruct the view of the driver. The commissioner passed on the sample sign.

Mr. Ward said that at least 100 of the drivers plan to buy these new signs from him and that he expects to have them all in operation by the middle of the month. The signs are of wood, containing a double roll, with the various destinations that might be adopted by jitney drivers, and electric lights on the inside.

NOISY CHRISTENING.

Day-Old Baby Is Cause of Call Being Sent for Officer.

FEW babies figure in police court, directly or indirectly, when they are a day old, but the infant son of Mike Burek, 22 caused his father to be jailed by Lieut. Holmstrom and Officer Mahlen of the West end station last night, for fighting.

The Burek family had a christening to welcome properly the new-born heir, and they invited Johnson Manchulonsko to their home, 110 South Eighteenth avenue west.

After the revelers had enjoyed themselves thoroughly for some time, and the wee sma' hours were at hand, Manchulonsko, angered at something, declared it his intention to kill Burek.

Burek objected, strange to say, and in the melee that followed some member of the party sent in a call for an officer.

The two pleaded not guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct before Judge W. H. Smallwood this morning and will be given a hearing this afternoon.

NOT HORRIBLE CRIME.

But Charge of "Mittimus" Created Excitement at Police Headquarters.

Visions of an unmentionable crime were suggested to the uninitiated at police headquarters this morning and saw the charge "mittimus" placed opposite the name of John Donovan, 59.

Even Assistant City Attorney Walter Gonska didn't know what it meant, and he sought out Fred Johnson, assistant secretary to the chief, to have it explained.

"Mittimus?" said Secretary Johnson, "Why don't you know what mittimus is? 'Mitto' you know—from the Latin, meaning, 'to send.'"

Mr. Webster—Daniel Webster—next was called into consultation and he declared that "mittimus" was a warrant for committment to prison.

It developed that the charge was one used in years past when a man violated his parole and was arrested and taken direct to jail to serve the sentence hanging over his head, without the formality of again going to court.

J. Donovan, 59, cause of all the trouble, was merely a ninth offense drunk, who was given a chance when last before the judge, and who had failed to make good. He was given sixty days at the work farm.

BLOT ON ESCUTCHEON.

Two Veteran Knights of the Road Pinched for Trespass.

Two old cronies, Lars Peterson, 53, and John Adolfson, 54, fellow knights of the road and gentlemen errant, fell from their pinacles of superiority last night and were arrested, spoiling a long record of law evasion.

"Can you beat it?" said Lars sighing, for Lars, although born in the old country, is thoroughly Americanized.

To be arrested for trespass was heart breaking.

They were sleeping in a warehouse owned by the Zenith Telephone company between Sixth and Seventh avenues west and First street.

Judge Smallwood imposed a fine of $4 and costs or four days at the workfarm. They chose not to pay the fine.

"AT HOME" AT LAST.

Thaddeus Galerneau "Receives" Police Officer After Many Calls.

Thaddeus Joseph Galerneau, 24, has received calls from the police for six months, but each time the "maid" returned the officer's card with the message that Mr. Galerneau was out.

Thaddeus returned yesterday after spending the winter in the woods for his health, and Sergt. John Roberg paid another call, this time being received. Thaddeus was arrested, charged with petty larceny.

On Nov. 4, last, Thaddeus is alleged to have stolen two $10 bills and one $5 bill from a friend, Hugo Nelson. He pleaded guilty before Judge Smallwood in municipal court and was sentenced to pay a fine of $27.50 or serve thirty days at the work farm.

HAD TOO MUCH "BRASS."

Meaning the Metal, Not Nerve, and Possessors Are Arrested.

"Talk about brass!" exclaimed Lieut. Herman Toewe this morning as he entered police headquarters with John Skot, 22, and Mike Spalaric, 23.

It was literally a case of considerable brass, as the men had stolen a large quantity of that metal.

A municipal rock crusher at Twelfth avenue west and Superior street, used in work at the Point of Rocks, was stripped of its brass fittings by the two men and incidentally put out of commission.

Detective Toewe caught them as they were leaving the engine, carrying the metal pawnshopward. No charge was placed against them, although they probably will be tried for malicious destruction of property, which may entail a more severe penalty than petty larceny.

HAD FIVE CHICKENS.

Pullets Still Warm But Police Could Not Find Owner.

"The Mystery of the Lifeless Pullets" or "Who Did the Deed?" might be the title of a story of police court which was revealed this morning when Frank Draska, 46, faced a charge of petty larceny.

Draska was arrested by Officer O. Olson early Sunday morning, as he was hurrying along Superior street near Eighth avenue west with five chickens under his arm. The chickens were still warm, but a canvas of the neighborhood failed to show any desolate henroops.

After Draska was brought into court the charge against him was changed to vagrancy, as the erstwhile owner of the hens did not appear, and the offender was sentenced to thirty days at the work farm.

ROWDYISM IN STREET CAR

Six Drunken Toughs Beat Passenger While Wife Looks On.

A free-for-all fight on a Duluth-Superior car early Sunday morning brought a severe beating to an unidentified citizen while his wife looked on, screaming.

Near the Interstate bridge viaduct the conductor alighted to flag a crossing and while he was away, a group of six men in the rear of the car began using profane language.

The man, who was a passenger, left his seat to remonstrate, and was attacked, being knocked into a window by the blow of an assailant who came up from behind. He was rendered unconscious. By the time the conductor returned the car was in an uproar, one of the sailors had pulled the trolley off, leaving it in darkness.

After several windows had been broken the conductor regained his place and the car proceeded, the disturbers leaving at Garfield avenue. So far police have been unsuccessful in their efforts to locate them.

HAS NO RIGHT TO CLOSE SANATORIUM

The Natural sanatorium at Fifty-fourth avenue east and Superior street will not be closed by Commissioner Silberstein, as long as Gustav Lee, the owner, treats his patients with baths and avoids the use of medicines.

Objection to the sanatorium was raised at a recent meeting of the Lester Park Improvement club and after a visit to the institution Saturday, the commissioner announced that he has no right to close the place.

The letters are written by all classes of citizens and among the communications are a number from prominent women of the city.

"I am very glad to see public sentiment is with me," the commissioner said, "and with such co-operation I am sure the police regime during the next four years will be satisfactory."

CLUBS MUST NOT SELL LIQUOR

Silberstein Turns Down Request of Delegation of Colored Men.

No liquor sales will be permitted in any private clubs operated in Duluth.

This is the answer given by Commissioner Silberstein this morning to a delegation of colored men, who sought permission to open a private club on West Michigan street.

"You can operate all the clubs you want," said the commissioner, "but no liquor must be sold. The police will watch for any violations and any club that arouses suspicion of the authorities will be raided."

CONTEMPLATES THE DEED WITH PRIDE

Amsterdam, May 10, via London.—The Cologne Volkszeitung says:

"The sinking of the Lusitania is a success of our submarines which must be placed beside the greatest achievements of this war. The sinking of the giant English steamer is a success of moral significance which is still greater than material success.

"With joyful pride we contemplate this latest deed of our navy. It will not be the last.

"The English wish to abandon the German people to death by starvation. We are more humane. We simply sank an English ship with passengers who at their own risk and responsibility entered the zone of operations."

FIRST CREW IS EMPLOYED

About Fifty Men Put to Work at Cement Plant.

Construction work at the Universal Portland Cement company's plant at Gary is now again under way. About fifty laborers were put to work this morning to prepare for skilled laborers who will be put to work later on the structural part.

A large force of men gathered at the entrance to the plant to seek work. Many of the men who were put to work formerly were employed by the company prior to closing down last fall.

The labor situation in the suburb has been greatly relieved. The number of idle men in the pace is greatly reduced and practically every family man in the suburb has now been provided with employment.

A few men have been put on daily at the steel plant. It is estimated that nearly 600 are now working at that place.

WANT CHANGE IN TRAIN SERVICE

The railroad committee of the West Duluth Commercial club will meet at 5 o'clock this afternoon with Mayor W. I. Prince and three of the local judges and officials of the Northern Pacific railroad for the purpose of discussing changes in train service to the western suburbs of the city. The change is advocated to enable the workmen at the steel plant to get to West Duluth on a train earlier than at present.

More than 100 employes of the steel plant reside in West Duluth. These men are taken to the plant in the morning, but in the evening they either walk, take a bus or are compelled to wait until 7:20 o'clock for a train.

Since operations were resumed at the steel plant the Northern Pacific officials have refused to replace the special train to the plant on account of the claim that the service does not pay. The meeting this afternoon is for the purpose of attempting to get permission to have the former train service restored, which would cause the present train leaving Duluth at 6:10 p. m. to leave about forty minutes earlier and return about an hour earlier from the suburb. Many city employes residing at Fond du Lac are said to have been instrumental in getting the later service for the suburb.

PALMER TAKES BERTH WITH ROYAL LEAGUE

Charles S. Palmer, newly appointed district deputy for the Royal league will be the principal speaker at the meeting of West Duluth and Pocahontas councils tomorrow evening at the West Duluth Commercial clubrooms. Mr. Piper was due in the city a week ago to close the contract with Mr. Palmer, but he was delayed on account of attending the funeral of Union B. Hunt, one of the prominent leaders of the Knights of Pythias, who died at Indianapolis. Mr. Piper, along with Former Vice President Fairbanks and other nationally known men were pallbearers at the funeral.

Mr. Palmer and H. H. Stone, organizer for the Royal league in Northern Minnesota and Northern Wisconsin, will work together among the various lodges.

A special entertainment is being planned for the meeting at West Duluth tomorrow night. The entertainment will be under the charge of a committee from the Pocahontas lodge. The members of the committee are Mrs. E. W. F. Boerner, Mrs. S. Lavick, Miss Beauleau and Miss Mabel Winton.

NO BASIS FOR WILD REPORTS

Rumor That President Wilson Had Been Assassinated Not True.

There is no truth in the persistent rumor that President Woodrow Wilson has been assassinated.

Verification of this statement was secured by The Herald at 10 o'clock today from Washington.

Fully 300 telephone calls were received at The Herald office this morning from Duluthians asking if there was any truth in the rumor.

That the rumor was widespread was evidenced by the fact that the Associated Press issued at 1 o'clock an official bulletin saying that there was no foundation to the story.

DR. DERNBURG DEFENDS SINKING OF STEAMER

New York, May 10.—Dr. Bernard Dernburg, former colonial secretary of the German empire, in a talk with representatives of the press here last night, reiterated and emphasized statements he made in Cleveland Saturday, holding that the German government was justified in its action of sinking the Cunard liner Lusitania. He said that the act merely showed the determination of Germany in carrying out its announced policy of preventing any ships carrying munitions of war and supplies to reach British ports.

"I am sure," Dr. Dernburg said, "that Germany regrets the loss of life of Americans through the sinking of the Lusitania, but sufficient warning was given.

"The desire of the German government is to keep peace and continue her friendly relations with America," added Dr. Dernburg.

Humane Sunday, May 23.

The 558 active anti-cruelty societies in the United States, which cared for 243,937 children and 2,844,721 animals, during 1914, have asked clergymen generally throughout the country to devote a special sermon or service, to observance of works of humanity on May 23 next. Special committees have been organized in forty-two states of the union, with sub-committees formed in many sections of various states for the purpose of promoting this observance.

Humane Sunday has been set for May 23 this year, as this will avoid conflicting with any dates set apart for other observances. The American Humane association, with headquarters at Albany, N. Y., has charge of this movement throughout the United States, and is sending large quantities of literature in response to requests from the different state committees. Among the well known vice presidents of the American Human association are ex-President Taft, Cardinal Gibbons, Mrs. Russell Sage, Vice President Marshall, Mrs. Phoebe Hearst, Mrs. Ella Wheeler Wilcox, Rev. Floyd W. Tomkins, Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske and others equally well known.

STREET RAILWAY EXTENSIONS

Chapter 8.

In the preceding chapters it was stated that the company desired the people of the Twin Ports to be as well satisfied with its policy regarding extensions as they appear to be with its service. The policy of the company regarding extensions was stated and some facts were given bearing upon the matter.

We give below a chart showing street railway track and population in Duluth from 1882 to 1914. We think that this chart will be clear to anyone who will give a few minutes study to its arrangement. From the chart it will be seen that up to the year 1900 street railway track was built in Duluth faster than the population increased. It will be seen that in 1900, at which time the company was re-organized after having gone through a receivership, there was as much street railway track in Duluth as in the average city of 90,000 inhabitants, although the population was then only about 53,000.

It will be seen that while it may have been thought that extensions were being built very slowly the street railway track in the city has been increasing almost as rapidly as the population and that today there is as much street railway track in Duluth as in the average American city of 111,000 population. We have no record of track building in Superior previous to the year 1900, and therefore cannot show a similar chart for that city, but will say that at the time of the 1910 census, which gave Superior about 40,384 population there was 23.53 miles of street railway track in that city, or very nearly six-tenths of a mile of track per thousand of population to a city with a population density of only about 900 per square mile of area.

Referring again to density of population which was mentioned in a preceding chapter and which has an important bearing on street railway operation, we will call the reader's attention to the fact that the city of Minneapolis, which is not considered congested by any means and with which city most of our readers are familiar, has a population density within its limits of something over 6,000 per square mile, while Duluth has less than 1,200 per square mile, and Superior only about 950 per square mile.

NOTE: Figures obtained from United States Census Reports show that there was in 1912 an average of 6 miles of street railway track to every 10,000 inhabitants within limits of all cities in the U. S. having street railways. The scales on this chart are so arranged that the curves will run together when track is in above proportion to population. The track shown includes 42 miles of track owned and operated by the Park Point Traction Co. and 14 miles owned and operated by the Duluth Belt Line Ry. Co. as well as 56.95 miles owned and operated by the Duluth Street Railway Company.

MOTHER'S DAY PERFECT ONE

No Clouds Mar and Atmosphere Remains Ideal All Day.

Thousands Observe Day in Parks and on Driveways.

Mother's day—a perfect day.

With thousands of girls and women and boys and men wearing flowers in memory of their mother, all Duluth spent most of Sunday after the morning church hours in the parks, or on the boulevards. About 15,000 persons visited Lincoln, Chester, Fairmont and Congdon parks during the day, and as many more motored or "jitneyed" along the main streets and highways.

It was one of the most nearly perfect spring days enjoyed by the city this year, and citizens availed themselves of this relief from cold and rain to the utmost.

At 7 o'clock in the morning the temperature was 39 deg. and at 7 o'clock last night it had risen to 59 deg. The mean temperature for the day was 47 deg.

A cloudless sky and a twelve-mile breeze from the southwest, just strong enough to offset the sun's rays, made conditions ideal and resulted in many impromptu picnics and outing trips.

Thirty thousand nickles was the harvest estimated to have been reaped by jitneuers during the day. From early morning until nearly midnight Superior street, the boulevard, the lake shore drive and streets to the parks were crowded with the 5-cent buses.

The jitneys were crowded "to the guards" with summer-clad girls and boys and men and women, all enjoying the day after nearly a week of rain and cloudiness. Park refectories reported a good business, with the old-time favorites, the ice cream cone and pop-corn ball, rapidly coming back into their own with the nearer approach of warm weather.

NO NEWS FROM DULUTHIANS

Mother of Millie Baker Suffering From Nervous Breakdown.

No word has reached Duluth concerning Miss Millie Baker, well known Duluth singer, who was a passenger on board the ill-fated Lusitania which was sunk by a German torpedo off the coast of Ireland Friday afternoon.

Her mother, Mrs. A. Baker, 2209 Minnesota avenue, is suffering from a nervous collapse. Attending physicians declare that she is seriously ill as a result of the news of her daughter's probable death.

"Nothing definite—We will keep you advised." This was the telegram which Mrs. Baker received yesterday from New York friends of the Baker family.

It is also believed that Fred J. Baker, no realtive of Miss Baker, who was also booked for Liverpool from Duluth on the Lusitania, was a part of the human cargo that sank to a watery grave. Baker was a third-class passenger.

UNITED STATES MAY BREAK OFF DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS WITH GERMAN GOVERNMENT

hurried into a hasty decision, he realizes that public sentiment favors a prompt indication of what the United States will do.

Messages from all parts of the country continued to pour into the White House counseling various courses. Some advocated war, but a majority of them counseled peace, although expressing horror over the great loss of life.

Chairman Stone of the senate foreign relations committee was at the White House today and saw Secretary Tumulty but did not see the president. Explaining that he expressed his own views and not those of any officials, Senator Stone said he questioned whether there was any reason for calling an extra session of congress at present. He said he did not know what the president was planning to do.

The president had no engagements for today before his departure at 4 o'clock for Philadelphia.

While White House officials would not deny specifically that an extra session of congress might be called for the reason that the question depends entirely upon what the president may decide to do, they said there was no indication whatever that the president has any such intention at present.

Saved by Jacket.

London, May 10.—Charles T. Jeffery, who was on the passenger list of the Lusitania as coming from Chicago, but whose home is Kenosha, Wis., ascribed his escape to an inflatable life jacket he was wearing. Mr. Jeffery said he went down with the ship, and that when he came up, he was surrounded by hundreds of persons making desperate efforts in the water to grab something which would keep them afloat.

An additional survivor of the Lusitania disaster made known last evening, is Arthur Dixon of New York, a second class passenger.

The body of Mrs. R. D. Shymock of Chicago and New York was identified at Queenstown Sunday.

Captain Criticized.

"Captain Turner, after the first torpedo was fired and following an examination, declared that the lifeboats had not been lowered as the ship was in a condition to make the Irish coast."

This statement was made by James J. Leary, Brooklyn, who declares he was standing near the ladder leading to the bridges and heard the captain say that his ship was not mortally hurt.

"I was standing with T. D. King, a director of my firm——Brokaw Bros.—whose body I have just identified," said Mr. Leary, "when I felt the shock from the first torpedo. The captain ordered an examination. On receiving the report, he said in our hearing that he had closed certain bulkheads which would render the ship seaworthy long enough to reach an Irish port and that consequently he would not order the lowering of the boats.

"Capt. Turner had barely finished speaking when a second explosion was heard. Within five minutes I was in the sea, fighting to keep my head above the water.

"Two things I fail to understand—why the order for a general lowering of the boats was not given, and why ships are not provided with a convoy when so close to the Irish coast."

Submarine Sighted.

A dispatch to the Central News from Holy Head says:

"Ernest Cowper, a Toronto newspaper man asserts emphatically that about an hour and a quarter before the Lusitania was struck, a submarine was sighted.

"'I was standing with James H. Rogers on the starboard side,' said Cowper, 'when all at once the vessel appeared to swerve. We ran to the other side and then clearly saw, on the horizon the conning tower of a submarine.

"'She was evidently bent on heading us off, and sent us right into another one. I have not the slightest doubt that a cleverly laid scheme had been planned and that it was successfully carried out. The torpedoes struck us at right angles.'"

Survivors Leaving.

Queenstown, May 10.—Captains Miller and Cassel, attaches of the American embassy in London, arrived here this afternoon and conferred with consular officers. Most of the survivors were leaving Queenstown yesterday. There is little hope here that additional survivors will be found. A tender cruising about the scene of the disaster all Saturday night reported that no bodies had been found. The search, however, will be continued. Representatives of the Pearson family claimed the body of Dr. F. S. Pearson. They also visited the morgues searching for the body of Mrs. Pearson, who is missing.

Dr. Howard L. Fisher of New York and Miss Dorothy Conner of Medford, Or., proceeded for London.

Marine Superintendent Dodd of the Cunard line declared that he had little hope that any survivors would turn up at isolated ports along the coast. He believed that the death list would remain about the same as has been estimated.

The only problem now is the identification of some of the dead in morgues. The body of J. C. Broderick has been falsely tagged in the morgue as that of the purser of the Lusitania (No J. C. Broderick) appears on the passenger list, although a C. T. Brodrick of Boston was in the first cabin of the Lusitania.

Those Not Listed Dead.

Washington, May 10.—American Consul Frost, at Cork, sent the following cable to the state department last night:

"Please assume that persons not listed as either survivors or identified dead, are missing and almost certainly dead. No news of Vanderbilt, Stone, Chields, Meyer, Klein, Hubbard, nor of their bodies."

Body of Canon Identified.

Winnipeg, Man., May 10.—The body of Canon Phair of St. Johns cathedral, this city, has been identified among the dead of the lost Lusitania, according to a cable message received last night by L. Kenrick, a friend here. Canon Phair was on his way to England to bring back his wife and two children, who were visiting there.

LORD MERSEY.

London, May 10.—It is officially announced that the British board of trade, with the concurrence of the admiralty has ordered an inquiry into the circumstances attending the loss of the Lusitania. Lord Mersey has consented to conduct the inquiry.

Lord Mersey conducted the investigations into the sinking of the steamers Titanic and the Empress of Ireland.

GERMAN AIRMEN DROP MANY BOMBS

were burned at Leigh, a town near South End. Four Zeppelins are said to have dropped forty or fifty bombs there.

Sixty bombs were dropped by the aircraft at South End, but most of them fell on the beach or in other places where they exploded harmlessly. One bomb dropped near a ship on which were 1,200 German civilians who had been interned.

A British aeroplane went in pursuit and drove the hostile aircraft out to sea.

A report was received from Romford that a Zeppelin had been seen in that neighborhood, apparently in difficulties, but whether in consequence of an unfavorable wind or of having been hit was unknown.

the case in the battle of the Mazurian lakes in February. It is believed it is only a small part of the guns left behind in concealed places.

The second stage of the operations is beginning further to the east, the second Austro-Hungarian army having stormed the crest of the Carpathians and the northern slopes between Lupkow and Uzsko passes and driven before it with the bayonet the eighth Russian army under Gen. Brussiloff.

Every advance of the Austro-German forces shortens the battle front, thus liberating troops for use elsewhere and at the same time increasing the confusion along the Russian lines of retreat.

French Statement.

Paris, May 10, 7:30 p. m.—The French war office this afternoon gave out the following statement on the progress of hostilities:

"Three new German attacks to the north of Lombaertzyde were repulsed yesterday.

"To the east of St. Georges our marine fusilleers took possession of the Union farm, very strongly fortified by the Germans, and also of a position further to the east. They made about thirty prisoners.

"Dunkirk was again bombarded this morning at about 6 o'clock, two shells being thrown.

"In the region to the north of Arras we have maintained all the important gains reported in the communication of yesterday evening.

"Along the rest of the front, particularly in the Argonne and in Alsace at Sillakerwasen there was a continuation of the artillery fighting."

sador's first visit to the department since the disaster. The secretary received him immediately and greeted him cordially.

When Ambassador Bernstorff came from Secretary Bryan's office he parried all questions by saying he could not talk, being under a promise to Secretary Bryan that anything should be said by the secretary. His only reel response was that he had made no appointment with President Wilson.

Both Secretary Bryan and Count Bernstorff steadfastly refused to comment upon or interpret the state department's announcement, but it was interpreted as meaning that the ambassador had, for his government, expressed deep regret not only for the loss of life on the Lusitania, but for the Americans lost in the torpedoing of the American steamer Gulflight and for the one American lost on the Falaba.

LEO M. FRANK RESENTENCED TO BE HANGED

Phagan's death. A life will have been taken for a life, but the real culprit will not have paid the penalty. I will suffer for another's crime.

His Trust in God.

"My trust is in God, who knows that my protestations of innocence are the truth. At some future date, the whole mortal world will realize it. It is the knowledge that God knows it now and that the world will know it some day, that inspires me as I stand before your honor and as I face the future.

"Anything else I might say at this time would be but an elaboration of my words to the court. Yet I am fully alive to the fact that my position is most precarious. It is a situation which is far removed from anything that my life and mental attitude have bespoken. It is hideous but at the same time so unreal, so incongruous.

"It is fundamental in human life to want to live. This desire to exist is ingrained in all of us—it is the basic morality of all who live. To those who have the proper ideals of living, life without honor is insufferable. This is the message of theology and ethics.

"In the light of the whole truth I know—and the Almighty knows—that the morality of my position in this case is unassailable. This being so, my complete exoneration of this terrible charge lies in the future. When that day arrives, I shall be vindicated—and if I am alive I will be enabled to enjoy freedom and honor.

Truth Will be Known.

"The full truth and all of the facts in the case, when they come to light, as some day they will, will prove to the world that my assertion of innocence is the truth.

"The legal arena is closed to me. The bar is placed forever against further legal process. Yet the issue of guilt or innocence has been before but one court, that in which the jury sat. All subsequent appeals were made upon alleged legal and juridical errors, not upon the facts or the evidence. Since the jury heard the case no court of inquiry or review has sifted the evidence. No decision of any appeal court undertook to predicate an opinion on the record of the testimony and evidence. The doubt of the trial judge as to my guilt still remains."

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Are a Harmless Substitute.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets.

These pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does but have no bad after-effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids.

It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Most headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "logey" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" clouded brain and how they "perk up" the spirits. At 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, Ohio.

HOTEL CLERK GIVEN NINE MONTHS IN JAIL

New York, May 10.—Frank D. Safford, the 60-year-old hotel clerk who was convicted of perjury because of testimony given in connection with the $50,000 breach of promise case of Miss Rae Tanzer against James W. Osborne, a well-known lawyer, was sentenced by Federal Judge Hough today to nine months' imprisonment in the New York county penitentiary. He was also fined $1.

WANTED TO SEE SON; LOST ON LUSITANIA

Chicago, May 10.—Desire to see her son before he left to join the Belgian colors at the front led Mme. Marie Depage, wife of the surgeon-general of the Belgian army, to take passage on the Lusitania, her friends said here today.

Mme. Depage came to the United States in February to seek financial aid in equipping field hospitals for the Belgian army. Most of her time was spent in Chicago, and among members of the committee formed here to assist her it was suggested today that a fund of possibly $20,000 be raised to equip a memorial field hospital bearing her name.

News that she had perished touched her Chicago friends deeply.

CHARLES FROHMAN DID NOT FEAR DEATH

American Actress Tells of Last Words of Theatrical Manager.

London, May 10.—"Why fear death? It is the most beautiful adventure in life," were the last words of Charles Frohman before he went down with the Lusitania, according to Miss Rita Jolivet, an American actress, with whom he was talking calmly just before the end came.

Miss Jolivet, who was among the survivors taken to Queenstown, said she and Mr. Frohman were standing on deck as the Lusitania heeled over. They decided not to trust themselves to lifeboats, although Mr. Frohman believed the ship was doomed. It was after reaching this decision that he had no fear of death.

SEES PROMISE OF WONDERFUL CROPS

George Crosby Classes Duluth Among Fortunate Cities of Country.

George H. Crosby has returned after a sojourn of several months in his Southern California winter home, and coincides with the opinion of other travelers to the effect that Duluth is one of the fortunate cities of the country, in so far as its financial condition compares with that of other cities.

Mr. Crosby declared that the business and industrial situation on the Pacific coast was not to be compared with present conditions here. "And the best part of it," said Mr. Crosby, "is that Duluth is in a position to feel quickly the effects of the up-climb in the financial condition of the country."

From Southern California to the northern boundary of the United States, Mr. Crosby kept an eye on the crop conditions. Today he expressed the emphatic opinion that never in his life had he been so impressed with early crop conditions.

"The early conditions lead me to predict one of the greatest crops this country has ever had," said Mr. Crosby. "I was particularly interested in looking out for a line on the coming crop, and what I saw gave me renewed confidence. Conditions are wonderful; that about expresses it.

"We are on the upturn in business. Should the war end now the business revival, in my opinion, would be remarkable and immediate; as it is, if the war drags on a year or perhaps more, I am still of the opinion that business conditions will show a steady improvement. Business is gradually adjusting itself."

A. C. Volk, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Merschon, J. H. McLean, Mrs. G. D. Cutler and son, and other Duluthians were in California at the time Mr. and Mrs. Crosby were there.

WAS DROWNED WHEN LIFEBOAT CAPSIZED

Ogden H. Hammond Picked Up But Wife Was Among Lost.

After leaving the Lusitania with a load of survivors one of the lifeboats capsized, according to a cable which relatives in Superior have received from O. H. Hammond of New York. Mr. and Mrs. Hammond were together in the lifeboat. When it capsized they became separated. Mr. Hammond was picked up but his wife was lost and the last message says there is no hope that she is among the survivors. The "Mrs. Hammond" in the list of rescued is probably Mrs. Fred Hamnond of Toronto.

Hanged to a Tree.

Norman, Okla., May 10.—Dr. B. E. Ward of Noble, alleged wife-slayer, was taken from the Cleveland county jail early yesterday morning by masked men and hanged to a tree two miles south of this town. The body was found two hours later by Sheriff Claud Pickard. Dr. Ward was charged with having stabbed his wife to death last Tuesday at their home in Noble.

Try to Kill Garza.

Washington, May 10.—An attempt to assassinate Roque Gonzales Garza, the convention provisional president of Mexico, was made early yesterday by troops, led by General Barona, former military commander of Mexico City, according to dispatches reaching here late last night from the capital. Barona's troops were repulsed after severe fighting, with losses on both sides.

Five Burned to Death.

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 10.—Five persons were burned to death, two were seriously injured and a number were saved by jumping from third-story windows into a life net when fire early today destroyed an Italian tenement house. The fire started in a barber shop on the first floor.

O'LEARY OPPOSES CHARTER.

East Grand Forks Mayor Now Against Proposition.

East Grand Forks, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Efforts to adopt a home rule charter, which will come to a climax in the special election of next Tuesday, have taken a rather interesting turn, Mayor John O'Leary, who recommended the adoption of such charter, now being opposed to the plan.

The mayor declares his unwillingness to support the charter, maintaining several features were injected into it by the charter commission that are not to his liking.

LAKE-AND-RAIL LINES TO BE DIVORCED SOON

Washington, D. C., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Great Lakes are to be free. Railroad ownership and control of shipping on these important bodies of water are to cease. The road is to open for the various cities on the lakes, to establish free and independent terminal facilities by means of which the people of the great and populous Central West will secure complete and effective competition with the railroads.

From an authority in a position to know, it is learned today that the interstate commerce commission has agreed upon its decision in the case of the Great Lakes, under the Panama act, and hopes to be able to promulgate the decision this week. Under this act it is provided that no railroad shall maintain a vessel line which, if independent, would compete with the railroad, either directly or indirectly.

The act, as it is learned today, is interpreted by the commission to mean that all of the present ownership and control of Great Lakes vessels by railroads is illegal and must cease.

READY FOR INSPECTORS

Commissioner Merritt Gets Into Clean-Up Campaign Early.

Silberstein Gives Police and Health Officers List of Eyesores.

"My backyard can be inspected any time now," said Commissioner Leonidas Merritt of the public utilities division this morning.

Although he has a reputation for punctuality, the commissioner was nearly half an hour late this morning, because it was the first day of the clean-up and paint-up campaign and the Merritt premises had to be in apple pie order. He is today seeing that all the city property in his department is spotlessly clean.

Other city officers also are taking an active part in the greatest fight against rubbage and dirt in Duluth's history. Commissioner Silberstein, as head of the division of public safety and the health department, being interested in an official way.

Members of the clean-up committee conferred with Mr. Silberstein this morning and gave him a list of objectionable places in the city, where rubbish and dirt had been allowed to accumulate.

"This list will be copied, and go to the police department and the health department," he said. "The police will make a call upon the owner of each site and ask him to have it cleaned. At the end of the week we will make a second tour of inspection and if the city's requests are not observed, we will take steps to have the work done for them, or compel them to do it."

Suggestions for fire-prevention work today were made by Chief Joseph Randall for the guidance of citizens who are following the schedule outlined by the citizens' committee.

"The thing to do," he said, "is to watch for any accumulation of rubbish or old clothes and furniture. Basements, attics and sheds often are used as storehouses for cast off articles of no value, that become a menace in time. All such rubbish should be cleaned out and carted away."

John J. Schinlaub, fire warden, has been hard at work inspecting buildings during the last three weeks and has impressed upon property owners the advisibility of observing fire prevention day. Particular attention has been paid to chimneys and electric wiring, defects in which are the cause of a majority of fires. Three extra inspectors also have been at work in the business and wholesale districts.

Bentley P. Neff of the clean-up committee, after a trip through several residence districts this morning, declared that the work was proceeding very satisfactorily.

"I find that many families have cleaned up their property, but have a large pile of rubbish on hand and don't know what to do with it. They might consult The Herald want ads if they wish to learn the name and location of any of a number of rubbish dealers," he said.

Front yards will be in the spotlight tomorrow, as Tuesday has been named "Front yard" day.

NOT WARFARE, BUT MURDER MOST FOUL

So Says Andrew Bonar Law on Sinking of Lusitania.

London, May 10.—"Our enemies have reached a degree of infamy, culminating in the destruction of the Lusitania, which it is simply hopeless to attempt to describe," said Andrew Bonar Law, leader of the opposition in the house of commons, in a speech today. Mr. Bonar Law's remarks were delivered on the occasion of the presentation of a medal to Captain Bell of the British steamship Thordis, which rammed a German submarine off Beachy Head in February.

"This is not an act of warfare," Mr. Bonar Law continued. "It is simply murder, most foul, most unnatural."

Saying that up to the present no "effective protest" had been made by any neutral country, he added:

"What will happen now? The great proud nation—the United States—is the neutral country most affected by the latest outrage. The simple fact is that citizens of that great country have been barbarously murdered. It is not for me to say what their action ought to be, but I feel sure the United States will be guided not merely by the monetary interests of the country, but by feelings as to what is due to a great nation among other nations of the world."

Mr. Bonar Law said that if the sinking of the Lusitania had the effect he believed it would, upon the feelings, not only on British soldiers, but of the whole nation, "then we can thank the Germans for this latest instance of their barbarous methods."

NEW CHIEF MUST WEAR UNIFORM

Officers Must Present Neat Appearance and Enforce Laws Rigidly.

Instructions issued Saturday by Commissioner Silberstein to R. D. McKercher, the newly appointed chief of police, order the latter to wear a uniform and call for neatness on the part of all the members of the department, enforcement of the law at all times and places and a constant attention to the duties of the office.

The instructions to Mr. McKercher are included in a communication and state that the head of the safety division especially wants the patrolmen to dress neatly and to march with military style. The new chief is also instructed to obtain a uniform, which he shall always wear while on duty.

The commissioner also states that the policemen will be under the supervision of Capt. Fiskett and that the chief will have direct charge of the detectives. The chief will act at all times as an executive and the one who shall be directly responsible for the entire department.

Mr. McKercher will assume the duties of chief next Saturday morning.

Hoosier Kitchen Cabinets

For a single dollar right now you can have "White Beauty," the famous Hoosier Cabinet, put into your home at $2.50 less than even the low cash price fixed by the Hoosier Company; balance in small weekly dues of $1.00.

You can search the whole world and find nothing that save so much labor in your kitchen. All the old features that have made the Hoosier famous in 800,000 kitchens are retained, but the new features alone that are added, without extra cost to you, are equal in themselves to the entire convenience of the average kitchen cabinet.

Here Are Some Exclusive Hoosier Conveniences. They Will Save You, Records Show, Millions of Steps.

The Remarkable Flour Bin

You can judge the whole cabinet by the remarkable flour bin alone. This bin, all high-grade metal, is so smooth inside no flour can stick. Dust can't get in. The top is low—easy to fill. Entire top slides off for filling. The big sliding glass panel in front keeps contents visible—makes cleaning easy.

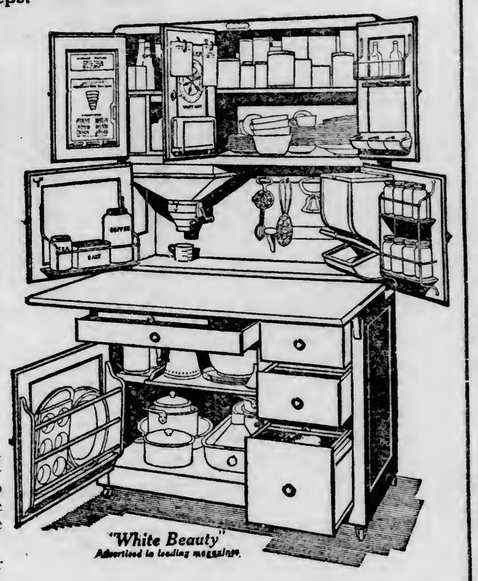
The new shaker sifter — a Hoosier patent—is a wonder. New principle entirely. Shakes flour through; doesn't grind it. Can't wear out. Can't grind grit through. Cleans the flour it sifts. Makes it fluffy and light.

Like the rest of the cabinet, every detail of this bin is perfected.

What Shall You Cook?

Mrs. Christine Frederick's Food Guide answers this eternal problem. Simply turn the dial to meat you like. A choice of simple menus is before you that balance perfectly with that meat.

Don't fail to see the forty other features—seventeen of them new.



This may be your last chance to buy at this saving of $2.50. Our allotment is strictly limited by The Hoosier Company. Price goes up again when these are sold. Come in right away and decide.

WITNESS FINED $10 FOR BEING LATE

Failure to be prompt in court attendance when subpoenaed as a witness this morning cost Knute Peterson $10.

Peterson was to be a witness for the plaintiff in a suit brought by Nels Almquist, Midway farmer, who has a suit for $50 damages pending against the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific Railway company.

When the case was called for trial this morning, Peterson was not on hand, and Almquist was obliged to dismiss the case. It will be started again at another term of court.

Peterson was subpoenaed for 9:30 o'clock. He did not show up until 10 o'clock. When he did put in an appearance he was arrested on a bench warrant and was brought before Judge Dancer.

Peterson explained that he had been out late last night and had overslept this morning. Judge Dancer found him guilty of contempt of court and gave him $10 or ten days. Peterson paid the fine.

PRICES SHOW AN INCREASE

Experts who have made a canvas of conditions in the iron and steel centers say that general improvement is under way, and that as the mills are now receiving higher prices for most of their products, fair profits are being earned.

Exports for the present month are expected to show a big increase and domestic inquiry is showing improvement. It is estimated that the United States Steel corporation will earn sufficient to cover its preferred dividend this quarter and to leave a surplus of from $2,000,000 to $5,000,000.

The Carnegie Steel company is said to have thirty-nine blast furnaces now active out of a total of fifty-eight. That company has announced improvements at its Duquesne works, where the merchant bar mill capacity will be increased. Other improvements now under way include a steel railroad tie plant at Homestead, a metal mixer at New Castle, and benzol plant and by-product coke ovens at Farrell, Pa.

A feature favorably commented upon is that the harvester machinery companies are coming into the market on a large scale for bars and other materials indicating that the output of implements this season will be nearly normal, despite export trade having been interfered with through the war.

Commenting upon current conditions the Iron Trade Review says: "The confidence of business men in approaching prosperity has been shown by the purchase of from 75,000 to 100,000 tons of pig iron by New York capitalists who are in no way connected with the iron and steel trade, and are buying entirely to hold iron with anticipation of substantial advances.

"Both northern and southern foundry and steel making grades are involved. Advances by Virginia and Alabama furnaces in prices of pig iron have caused more cheerful feeling in the Southern states. Buying at Chicago in April was far ahead of that in March. There is a fair activity in pig iron in the Central West.

"Export demand for machine tools has again assumed tremendous proportions. While exaggerations and denials as to orders for war materials make it difficult to state definitely what business is bona fide, orders actually placed or soon to be entered are unquestionably of great volume. The building of numerous additions to plants engaged in the manufacture of war materials is a visible evidence of the large amount of business taken during the past few weeks.

"Several pig iron makers have advanced their price to $10, Birmingham, for last half delivery but spot iron can be had at $9.50.

"Eastern ship yards have hooked three more ocean vessels, bringing total to thirty-one. Eastern steel and pig iron markets show steady improvements."

AKOZ QUICKLY RELIEVES DULUTH MAN CRIPPLED BY RHEUMATISM

William La Tour Is Promptly Freed of Pains of Long Standing.

William La Tour of R. F. D., 3, Duluth, who was formerly a sawyer with the Duluth Box factory before he became so badly crippled with sciatica and inflammatory rheumatism that he could not walk, says he was freed of all pain and felt more like himself than he had in years as a result of taking Akoz, the new California mineral rival of radium.

"I am well pleased with the results I obtained from Akoz," said Mr. La Tour. "Before taking the wonderful mineral I was so crippled up that I could not walk and had very severe pains in the feet, back and hands. I am free from all the pains now and am sleeping better than I have for years. I also notice that my stomach and kidneys are greatly improved. I can and will recommend Akoz to all suffering as I have because I have obtained wonderful results."

Akoz is a natural mineral and not a patent medicine. It has proven very effective in the treatment of rheumatism, stomach, kidney and bladder trouble, catarrh, eczema, piles and other ailments.

Akoz is now being introduced in Duluth at the Lyceum pharmacy at Fifth avenue west and Superior street. Visit, phone or write this store for further information regarding this advertisement.

MISS CHRISTINE SHUART of Springfield, Mass., who is known in Duluth where she has been the guest of Miss Frances Swift, was married to Karl Raymond Hammond of Nashua, N. H., Thursday at Springfield. Miss Frances Swift was one of the bridesmaids and Miss Helen Congdon, who is now in the West, was to have been another member of the bridal party, but was unable to attend on account of illness.

The ceremony took place at 4 o'clock in the afternoon at Christ church. The vested choir of twenty voices entered from the rear vestibule singing "The Voice That Breathed o'er Eden," the music merging into the "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin" as the bridal party entered. The six ushers were followed by Miss Pauline Crocker of Springfield. Next came Miss Frances Swift and Miss Laura Robbins of Rochester, N. Y. Mrs. George Shaw Sabin of Portland, Me., was the matron of honor and Miss Katharine Barrett Shuart, the bride's younger sister, was the maid of honor.

The bride wore a white satin gown combined with tulle and lace. Her veil was hung from an up-standing ruff and a band of pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

The matron of honor and the three bridesmaids wore pink faille taffeta with touches of green and bolero jackets of cream lace with cordings of pink. Their black Gainsborough hats were faced with leghorn and trimmed with narrow streamers of black velvet. Each hat was trimmed with a single pink rose. The matron of honor and the bridesmaids carried white enameled French walking staves tied with Dresden bouquets which combined violets, lilies of the valley, roses and marguerites and were tied with gauze ribbons. The maid of honor wore pale green taffeta dotted with sprays of pink flowers. Her white leghorn hat was trimmed with frills of lace over pink and her staff was tied with pink Killarney roses.

A reception for 350 guests followed at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride is a graduate of Smith college. The bridegroom was graduated from Dartmouth and is a member of the Chi Phi fraternity.

Mrs. Loyhead and Senator Jones Address Duluth Suffrage Meeting

The program for national suffrage day that was postponed from May 1 was given Saturday evening by the Duluth Woman's Suffrage association in the library clubroom.

Mrs. W. W. Lawrence, the president, presided, and Mrs. W. S. Woodbridge, the second vice president, introduced Mrs. Edgar Loyhead of Faribault, who made the principal address of the evening. Senator Richard Jones gave a short talk on the suffrage bill at the last meeting of the legislature. The program was followed by an informal reception for Mrs. Loyhead. Dr. Mary McCoy, who presided at the punch bowl, was assisted by Miss Nannie Turrish, Miss Marie d'Autremont and Miss Clara Fider.

Mrs. Loyhead said in part:

"The feminist movement will not abolish wifehood and motherhood, as so many of the alarmists seem to believe.

"Students of heredity tell us that a subnormal mother cannot give normal children to the world. We are asking for conditions which raise the mentality of women, through wider interests and broader sympathies in the movements which make for world progress.

"We are not idealists, nor do we believe that the ballot in the hands of women will be a panacea for all the ills which affect the body politic or the body social, but we do believe that it will be an instrument to assist in bettering conditions generally."

Progress Elsewhere.

Mrs. Loyhead spoke of the states and countries that have extended the ballot to women, mentioning particularly Denmark, which recently enfranchised women, and France, that has given women guardian rights since the beginning of the war.

Senator Jones said it is not the voters of Minnesota who are blocking equal suffrage, but the special interests that are afraid of it and fight it at every opportunity.

"Every public service corporation in the state was lined up against the equal suffrage bill," he said, "and the night before the measure came up I was approached by a delegation that wanted me to trade my vote for suffrage for another measure in which they were interested."

Paintings of F. Hopkinson Smith Are Shown

The exhibit of water colors by F. Hopkinson Smith that was opened at Engels' art store April 19 will continue tomorrow and Wednesday. Mr. Smith, who was artist, novelist and engineer, died suddenly in New York April 7, while the exhibit was on the way. The pictures will be sent from Duluth to New York to the estate of the painter.

Beauty and cheerfulness characterize the paintings in the collection. Most of them are scenes from English gardens and English inns and represent some of the most recent work of the artist. The present war drove him from the continent to England, where he gave himself up entirely to his immediate surroundings. Among the paintings shown here are: "English Weather," "Where the Town Constable Lived," "Old Foot Bridge," "Old Bull Tavern," "The Rose Garden," "An Englishman's Garden" and "Inn of William the Conquerer."

The exhibit is a free one, and Duluth will probably never again have such an opportunity to see so many of the paintings of this famous artist.

Miss Willcuts Tells A. C. A. of Minnesota Birds.

Miss Indianola Willcuts gave a talk on birds to the members of the Association of Collegiate Alumnae who met at Ye English inn for tea Saturday afternoon. Miss Willcuts based her talk on about 100 Minnesota birds, showed pictures of them and told how to know them by their plumage and songs or whistles. She showed nests, explaining the manner of building and the materials used. Cattails of golden-rod where the chickadees have picked out the larvae, and charts showing the value of birds as insect destroyers.

She told of her feeding tree where white-breasted nut-hatches, woodpeckers, chickadees and blue jays fed last winter and where white-breasted sparrows, white crowned sparrows and juncos now feed.

"Put up bird houses of the right kind," said Miss Willcuts. "Use Farmers' Bulletin 609, 'Bird Houses and How to Build Them,' or purchase correctly made ones from one of the many concerns which make them. Plant trees and shrubs to encourage birds to come. Discourage the killing of hawks and owls, or of any bird. Learn Longfellow's 'Bird of Killingworth.'"

Peggy Peabody's Observations

Most Children Too Slangy.

With whom does your child associate during the hours when he is at school and at play, and, therefore, for a goodly part of his time out of your sight and hearing? I have a friend who has a little boy whom you would think associated with ragamuffins and street arabs were you to judge solely by the language which he uses at the most unexpected and inopportune moments.

This young man is not old enough to attend school and seldom wanders far from home. His playmates congregate in his back yard and are children of respected families in every instance. Yet the little boy steadily increases his vocabulary of slang and worse, and steadily grows rougher and more like a street gamin in his actions.

His mother knows not what course to pursue. She corrects him at every opportunity, but she cannot at this stage do anything to remove the cause unless she forbids his association with every one of the little folks who call him friend. This would be an injustice to some of these children at least, and a hardship for the little fellow himself, but it is the only way that the mother sees clear.

The mother would accuse no child of being slangy or profane until she had positive proof, although in lieu of it she may be forced to withdraw her son from the association of every one of these children until what is now a mystery to her is solved. She hopes to be able to decide upon the desirability of his playmates without resorting to such harsh measures, and it seems to me with a little patience she can readily determine who is suitable and who unsuitable.

There is by far too much of a tendency to let children associate with whom they will, irrespective of what the influence of the stranger child may be. Children are sent to school at an early age and allowed to play away from home from almost the same moment. When they begin to act rough and overbearing and use language that is slangy and otherwise objectionable it is high time to investigate their associates, if their home surroundings are all that they should be.

I have known mothers to wonder at their children using profanity, or at least to simulate wonder. But when a child's father uses it in his presence it is not so much his schoolmates who need investigation as his male parent who needs reproof.

"REBECCA" AT LYCEUM.

Baldwin Players Present Kate Douglas Wiggins' Charming Story.

Again this week Manager Walter Baldwin of the local stock company is to be congratulated—this time for four reasons: "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm;" Anna Bronaugh, the new feminine lead; Harry Minturn, the new leading man, and the excellence of the work of the balance of the cast. Sunday's first audience, a large one, saw a show worth seeing, and the two new stars of the company, Miss Bronaugh and Mr. Minturn, further won the affections of Lyceum patrons.

"Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" is wholly pastoral; it brims with characterizations of the homely, good, bad, affectionate or austere denizens of "Riverboro, Maine." There is much dialogue—and all of it is salient to a plot that is enjoyable, if a bit commonplace, and strikes sympathetic chords, especially within those who have lived a share of their lives "back on the farm." Yet the play stays away from the usual "Way Down East" version; there are the farm characters, the bus that "makes" the different small-town route, and the bus in Manager Baldwin's production is an honest-to-goodness one, drawn by two very much alive horses and piloted by Jeremiah Cobb (William A. Mortimer). The outfit received a merited "hand," although the effect was slightly nullified by the shadow of the horses' heads, "champing at the bit," behind the scenes for some time before Mortimer's cue came to drive on to the stage.

The scenery is carefully good, with the Baldwinian successful attention to details that add luster to all their productions.

The story of the play deals with a poor family, with the poor man's burden—too many children—which, after years of mortgage-fighting, sends their somewhat incorrigible, wholly lovable daughter, Rebecca, to live with her two maiden aunts, Miranda and Jane—Miranda the stern, Jane the sweet. Rebecca's reputation for mischievousness has preceded her, with the result that she is met by the elder of the maiden women, Miranda, with a tirade; is driven to bed supperless—and runs away during the night. In a storm, to the home of her friend, Jeremiah Cobb, stage driver. He feeds her—she is but 15 years of age—and through suggestion and advice gets her to return to her aunts' home.

Three years elapse. Rebecca now is 18; graduates with high honors at school. Adam Ladd, the wealthy young bachelor of the village, loves her, and she, calling him "Mr. Aladdin," because of the wonders he has worked among her poor friends, loves him. The final scene is a pretty one. Ladd comes to the girl and tells her of his love, and her request that he "wait but a little while" satisfies the audience.

Miss Anne Bronaugh takes the title role with fine success. She does not overdo the young girl part with gush, but just naturally is a young, frank, level-eyed miss with pranks where they can be accepted because they are natural. Her line-reading, for a first production Sunday, was a revelation.

Harry L. Minturn plays Adam Ladd—"Mr. Aladdin"—with a true touch of sympathy, and it readily can be seen that this fine-spoken, good-looking young actor will this week go deeper into the good graces of Duluth theatergoers. He is this week the rich city man thrown among a host of country people, from among whom he chooses his future wife, does much good morally and financially, and at the final curtain has made his audience glad that he is certain of the love of lovable Rebecca.

Miss Pearl Melville is back in the company, taking with her usual success the part of grouchy-flinty Miss Mirandy Sawyer. Marie Campbell plays sweet Sister Jane; Maude Melville is Mrs. Perkins; Meta Eyferth, Duluth, plays poor Mrs. Simpson; Margaret Lotus is a most likable Emma Jane Perkins; Geraldine Blaire is cute as Clara Simpson; Jessie French plays Minnie Smellie; Jeanette Roy is Alice Robinson; George Fox rounds out the cast as Obljag Flagg, "choir boy."

"Billie" Burke's show did not get away from the Lyceum in time for the Baldwin people to set up their play Sunday matinee, with the result that the matinee let out at about 6:45 o'clock. Manager Baldwin came before the curtains and apologized for the delay, explaining that the play is a heavy production, and promising a first-class performance. The audience applauded his remarks, and ate a lot more candy.

Next week's production will be "Mam'zelle." Monday, May 17, will be anniversary night for the Baldwins, with a promise of a gala night and added attractions.

GOOD BILL AT ORPHEUM.

Elsa Ruegger and Willard Mack Sketch Divide Honors.

Although far above the average, the bill which opened at the Orpheum theater yesterday afternoon played to a slim audience.

The fine weather apparently kept theatergoers out of doors and the attendance was but one-third what it should have been. Such a bill deserves a capacity audience.

Two strong headliners feature the list of variety acts. Elsa Ruegger, the Belgian cellist, and Jack Kennedy in "The Flare Back," divide honors. Duluthians will take more than passing interest in the sketch, because of the fact that it is the work of Willard Mack, former stock actor of this city.

"The Flare Back" is a story of how Jack Farrell, newspaperman, makes Michael Sweeny, boss of the town, get down on his knees for mercy. It is a gripping little yarn and told in a charming manner. Miss Helene Warde and W. T. Clarke ably support Mr. Kennedy.

Miss Ruegger's appearance at the Orpheum this week is a treat to musical lovers, as was the presence of Mme. Jomelli last week. Miss Ruegger is undoubtedly the most famed cellist who has played in this city in recent years. She has been a member of the world's most famous symphony orchestra in recent years. Miss Ruegger is assisted by Edmond Lichtenstein, violinist, who directs the orchestra during the former's number. Their program included a Chopin "Nocturne," "Ave Maria" and Popper's "Spinnlied."

Irving Newhoff and Dode Phelps have the knack of "putting their act across" and they scored a hit at the opening performance yesterday afternoon. The pair appear in a little comedy skit entitled "In Care of General Delivery," which is full of new jokes and sayings. They both possess pleasing voices and the song numbers, nearly all of them entirely new to Duluthians, were well rendered.

The Terada Brothers open the bill with a novel acrobatic and balancing act.

The Brent Hayes, the banjoist, comes back to Duluth this week for the 'steenth time and he is just as popular as ever. He is an artist on the instrument. He plays "The Barcarolle" from "The Tales of Hoffman" and several ragtime numbers, and he was unable to get away after he had completed his act yesterday afternoon. The audience insisted on three encores before it was satisfied.

A real novelty is "The Wall Between," presented by Clarence Oliver and Georgia Olp. The plot is quaint, dealing with the lives of a boy and girl who live in two yards, separated by a high wall. One day, however, the boy climbs over the wall and he learns that the maiden is alone in the world, living with an aged grandfather. He proposes and later is accepted. During the act, Mr. Oliver sings several snatches of famous melodies.

Mons. and Mme. Alf W. Loyal present four dogs in a novel animal act, the feats of the canines stamping the number in a class by itself.

The travel pictures show a number of scenes in Sumatra. The bill will continune until Saturday, with daily matinees.

Theater Gossip.

Heading the new bill at the popular New Grand are the famous Les Diodattis, presenting a NEW BILL AT THE GRAND. posing turn with special electrical effects and cart loads of scenery. Four beautiful women, assisted by two wonderful canine actors offer reproductions of famous paintings and statuary, both in colors and marble.

Charles and Anna Glocker offer a novelty of the sensational variety in comedy water juggling.

Comedy songs and talk are the offering of Montrose and Allen. Some new songs, a lot of airy nonsense and some clever dance numbers go to make the act a pleasing and diverting one.

Morton, Wells and Norworth, billed as "those crazy vaudevillians" offer a conglomeration of nonsense, including a little bit of everything in the vaudeville line from acrobatics to grand opera.

A thrilling war drama that speaks for peace is "The Pawns of Mars" in three reels. "A Double Winning," a drama; "In the Plumber's Grip," a comedy, and "A Melodious Mixup," one of the clever "Ham" comedies, complete the bill.

Orrin Johnson as Satan Sanderson will be the star at the Rex Monday and Tuesday. Mr. "SATAN SANDERSON" AT THE REX. Johnson's work on the American stage is too well known to need comment, while the novel of "Satan Sanderson" has been widely read. Irene Warfield, playing opposite Mr. Johnson, is a new screen beauty, but best of all she is a real actress and her work is excellent.

Special mention has been made throughout the trade papers in praise of the beautiful lighting and camera work. Few people realize the value of the camera man in big screen productions—he can make or break the best screen story ever built. "Satan Sanderson" is bound to please for the story is clear, concise and interesting.

The big picture production, "The Christian," began its engagement at the Lyric yesterday and "THE CHRISTIAN" AT THE LYRIC. attracted large crowds, both afternoon and evening. The makers of this film have certainly spared no pains or expense, apparently, either in the matter of fine acting talent, in direction of the great cast, or in the production itself, to render the photoplay version of Hall Caine's greatest creation worthy the book and the elaborate play—and they seem to have succeeded well.

The Derby scenes were spirited, the mob scenes striking and well executed. Earle Williams is a forceful and dignified John Storm and Edith Storey, a wholesome Glory Quayle. All the characters were in good hands. The photography and many pictorial effects were very fine.

The picture was splendidly received yesterday and should pack the house the remainder of the week.

STORE YOUR FURS IN COLD DRY AIR

Cold, dry air storage for furs and fabrics is far superior to any other method known, as garments kept in low temperatures avoid frequent beating and combing which is necessary in common fur storage vaults. This combing and beating wears out the fiber of the fur, and the high temperature tends to dry out the oil in the pelt. Cold, dry air storage avoids all these conditions.

As we use no chemicals to keep out moths, your furs will be returned to you without a disagreeable odor clinging to them. We have the only cold, dry air fur storage plant in Duluth.

CLEANING UP AS AN INVESTMENT.

Do you know that your property will be worth actual, tangible dollars more when you get through with Clean-up Week than it is now?

Your property is worth what somebody will be willing to pay for it.

Anybody would be willing to pay more for a tidy, sightly place than for a rundown, unkempt place.

So your work of Clean-up Week will be a dividend-paying investment.

Moreover, it will increase the value of your block, your neighborhood, your city.

Your home, your block, your neighborhood and your city will be more sightly, more inviting, more livable, after Clean-up Week than they were before.

Duluth will be a better place to live in—cleaner, handsomer, more wholesome—after Clean-up Week; and so will your own home.

And this betterment has value not only in satisfaction, in increased joy of living, but in cold, hard cash as well.

"Th' inconstant moon" has nothing on the thermometer at this season.

SOMEBODY'S AT FAULT.

Once more the country has been treated to the spectacle of an overindulged individual interpreting personal privileges in the terms of positive necessities. This time it was a woman in Chicago who declared she could not live on less than three hundred dollars a month. This was followed closely by the announcement of three Philadelphia young people that it would be impossible for them to get along on so small a sum as thirty thousand dollars a year.

Of course it is easy to see what such incomes as these stand for. They mean more or less pretentious establishments, clothes of many different sorts, and servants and automobiles and fads of one kind or another, sometimes vicious ones. They mean, usually in such cases as these, leisure, freedom from the necessity for effort of any kind not positively desired, and opportunity to play while others are doing the world's work.

In some cases, of course, they mean actual vice—but not by any means in all cases. At the same time the possessors of such incomes, when the money comes to them without definite personal effort on their part, are exposed to the temptations that come naturally with idleness, and our fathers transmitted to us the experience-born doctrine that "Satan finds some mischief still for idle hands to do."

Now all these things are most decidedly not necessary to any human being, and when any man, woman or child announces the impossibility of living on less than three hundred dollars a month or ten thousand a year or any other such sum, the announcement is complete and ample notice that somebody or other is seriously at fault, or no such notion would have been bred in the mind of the person making the announcement. The idea of the "spoiled" child is common, but it is no more a fact than is that of the "spoiled" grown-up. In fact the former is the more easily dealt with, because of the possibility and readiness of certain forms of sometimes needed and generally effective punishment that cannot conveniently be administered to the grown-up.

In Germany it has been the custom to compel every child in the royal family to become adept at some trade, and to spend a certain portion of life in surroundings and, as nearly as possible, under conditions obtaining among those who follow that trade.

The custom could be advantageously applied among some of the rich families of our own country. It would be a means of ensuring capability of an honest livelihood in case of dissipation of the family fortune, but even beyond that it would go a long way toward remedying this notion of "cannot live on" less than some large amount.

Somebody's at fault, or there would be no such foolish statements. The probability is that in most cases the fault lies with parents, though indulgent but unwise relatives of various degrees may be to blame in individual cases. Sometime, perhaps, that idea will be entirely killed off. When that time comes it will be harder to stir up social unrest than it is today.

"See America" is a good vacation slogan, but the rest of the country shouldn't be allowed to forget that it includes the motto, "See Duluth."

THE LUSITANIA AND THE GULFLIGHT.

The horror of the Lusitania's destruction has paled into insignificance the sinking of the American tank steamer Gulflight; yet that is an incident which is not yet closed, and one that techically might give greater occasion for a rupture with Germany than the killing of American neutrals on the Lusitania.

All that is definitely known about the Gulflight is that she was an American vessel, that she was flying the American flag, that she was sunk, and that three American lives were lost.

Much more is suspected, but it is not known definitely even that the Gulflight was sunk by a German submarine. If the sinking was done by a German submarine, it is not known under what circumstances the sinking took place. The deadly work may possibly have been wrought by a mine. If it was a submarine, the commander might possibly have exceeded his instructions, though that would not relieve Germany of her responsibility in any degree.

But it was of such tragedies as the sinking of the Gulflight that President Wilson was speaking in his famous reply to the German war-zone proclamation of February 4. Reference has been made to this reply as though it was directed specifically to such cases as the destruction of American lives through the sinking of the British passenger vessel Lusitania. Here is what the president said:

> If the commanders of German vessels of war should act upon the presumption that the flag of the United States was not being used in good faith and should destroy on the high seas an American vessel or the lives of American citizens, it would be difficult for the government of the United States to view the act in other light than as an indefensible violation of neutral right which it would be very hard indeed to reconcile with the friendly relations now so happily existing between the two governments.
> If such a deplorable situation should arise, the Imperial German government can readily appreciate that the government of the United States would be constrained to hold the Imperial German government to a STRICT ACCOUNTABILITY of such acts of their naval authorities, and take any steps it might be necessary to take to safeguard American lives and property and to secure to American citizens the full enjoyment of their acknowledged rights on the high seas.

The reference here is to the possibility that the German naval authorities, suspecting misuse of the American flag by the vessel of a belligerent, might take a chance and fire upon such vessel.

The destruction of precious American lives by the assault upon a British passenger vessel by a German submarine creates an entirely different situation, but there is no reason to believe that if the president considers that the national honor requires action, his words and acts will be any less firm and positive.

Also it is an interesting diversion to imagine the president of the United States talking to his infant grandchildren.

THE BOAT CLUB.

The Duluth Boat club, which will hold its annual meeting tomorrow evening and begin a new year of activity and usefulness, is far more than a mere social and sporting organization.

It is a pleasant social gathering place, but it is more. It is a lesson in democracy; it is a universal panacea for the ills that spring from idle hours wrongly or foolishly spent; it is the patron of every summer sport from lawn tennis to motor boating and aviation; it is the prize advertiser of Duluth, second only perhaps to the city's energetic traffic commission; it is the ever ready aid to every civic enterprise that involves the entertainment of citizens, tourists or guests.

It is as many sided as the man to whom it owes its unparalleled success: as democratic and as useful as a cotton shirt.

It has grown so insidiously into the lives of the men, women and children of Duluth, that probably many of them do not realize how they would miss it unless it were suddenly closed. It is a big, friendly, homelike club, whose doors are open to anybody who feels able to afford the modest fees and whose reputation for mere honesty and decency passes the censorship of the directors. If there is one institution that is the property of the entire city, it is the boat club. No institution, unless it be the Young Men's Christian association, has done as much for the young men of the city. It is putting Duluth in her place as the leading center of summer sport in America. It provides exercise and entertainment to a very big percentage of the residents of Duluth. It is the pride of the citizens, and the admiration of visitors and tourists. It takes the stranger and gives him an opportunity to make friendships. It takes the young Duluthian and teaches him to swim, row, canoe, sail a boat, play tennis, dance, or run a motor boat.

The boat club will always be a monument to the man who was its president for so long, and who gave so generously of his time, energy and money to its upbuilding, but now that he has been compelled by pressure of other work to turn it over to other hands, the members owe it to him and to themselves to carry on the work on a bigger and broader scale than ever.

Huerta has bought some New York city flats and intends to depend on them for income. Once a czar, always a czar.

The Lusitania

Comments by the Newspapers of Many Cities.

Milwaukee Free Press: The act of the Cunard company, together with the acquiescence of the British government, in soliciting and accepting neutral American passengers for the Lusitania when it was stocked with an almost exclusively contraband cargo, including munitions and military goods, and in the fact of the most explicit official German warnings, is an offense so arrogant and regardless that it demands the condemnation of civilized humanity. • • •

If Americans, in their over-weening confidence in the representations of the Cunard line and the all-mightiness of all things British, scoffed at these warnings, the German government is not to blame.

These passengers, in their own words, gambled upon the speed of the Lusitania against the torpedoes of the submarines; gambled, in fact, on the very inability of the submarines to give warning. They took the chance, and, deplorable as is the result of their risk, it must be viewed like every other consquence where men take their lives in their own hands.

But whatever the responsibility of the passengers, it cannot absolve the Cunard line and the British government from the offense of stocking this passenger boat with war materials and thus contemptuously inviting the fate which has overtaken it.

New York Herald: This cold-blooded, premeditated outrage on colossal scale will cause such a blinding white light of indignation throughout the neutral portion of the world, unhappily growing smaller and smaller, that there cannot conceivably be in Washington any thought of turning back from the note to Germany, sent Feb. 10.

Kansas City Star: The destruction of the Lusitania shows the world choatic; its normal human sentiments twisted by passion and by fatal, or fateful, influences. War is hell. It is organized murder. It is the frowning Providence, made the deliberate choice of man.

New York Journal of Commerce: The attack on the Lusitania was not war, it was simply attempted murder on a scale deliberately intended to inspire general consternation and fear; it was not the work of the naval force of a power bound by the conventions of law and humanity, it was plain and unqualified piracy.

Baltimore Sun: It will increase British ardor and stimulate British recruiting a hundred fold, and it will show the people of the allied countries that they have nothing to hope from German generosity or mercy in case of German success. The effect on the sentiment of the neutral countries will be to still further intensify anti-German feeling.

New York Press: Aside and apart from the question of the legal right of the von Tirpitz admiralty to destroy the Lusitania or any British vessel that is hauled down but cannot be carried off as a prize, it is well worth considering whether such a shock to the world, as well as provocation to the allies, will in the end work more to the advantage of the Germans or of their foes.

New York Times: It will stir the American people as they have not been stirred since the destruction of the Maine in the harbor of Havana, and government and people will be united in the resolve that Germany must be called upon to bring her practices into conformity with the usages of civilized warfare.

New York Tribune: For this murder there is no justification outside of that law of necessity paraded by the German chancellor in the opening hours, when the first German regiments rushed through Belgium to consecrate at Louvain the work of German kultur. The passengers, the American citizens, who embarked upon the Lusitania were protected by every rule and precedent of international law. They journeyed to an unblockaded port, and, thus journeying, were entitled to the protection supplied by the rules of civilized warfare.

Chicago Tribune: The United States and Germany have reached a point at which alternative courses appear for this nation's choice. One is to accept in fact, with whatever protest in form, the new sea law which Germany has made and to adjust ourselves to it. The other is to decline to accept it and, if Germany will not modify it, to fight to the best of our power.

Chicago Herald: What steps shall oe taken to obtain redress from Germany for her killing of American citizens need not here be discussed. Let there be, however, among Americans no waste of time in talk about the "right" of Germany to do this murderer's deed. For that is what it was, and the fact that a nation heretofore deemed civilized has "authorized" it and "warned" that it was going to be done makes it none the less plain murder—deliberately planned, deliberately carried out, with full knowledge of the possible consquences of this bit of primeval savagery and madness.

"Whom the gods would destroy they first make mad."

San Francisco Chronicle: The question as to whether there were American citizens on board the Lusitania does not call for discussion in this connection. Our people have had ample warning and should know that when they step aboard a British ship they are consigning themselves to the protection of a nation which at present can offer very little security for those at sea.

St. Paul Dispatch: Never since the war began has the time called so impressively upon Americans for judicial poise of mind. Whatever may be the opinion of the individual, there is nothing to be lost and everything to be gained by the preservation of the national self-control. There can be no more splendid American achievement at a time that may be critical than that cool self-containment that is the first essential of clear vision and unerring judgment.

Portland Oregonian: One would suppose that Germany had enemies enough to satisfy her, but she seems not to care how many are added in striking at those she already has.

Philadelphia Public Ledger: Only one word characterizes adequately the policy of Germany in this matter. That word is piracy. There is no shadow of excuse for it in military necessity.

Illinois Staats-Zeitung: The Lusitania was not an American steamer, and even it be true that American lives were lost with the ship, we cannot possibly see how that deplorable fact would or should endanger the relations between the United States and Germany since Germany implored Americans not to use ships belonging to the enemy.

If Americans did not avail themselves of these repeated warnings it would seem that they tried, by their presence on British ships, to protect them against German attacks. It would create the impression that they identified themselves with the British interests against the Germans.

We are not afraid of any grave complications between this republic and Germany because our government has pursued since the war started a policy of cowardice.

Minneapolis Journal: Once remove the bounds of restraint upon the beast in man that the race has spent thousands of years in conquering, and one act like the sinking of the Lusitania opens a long vista of satanic methods of warfare.

Why show any heart at all? Why feed prisoners? Why suffer any form of life to stand in the path of conquest? There is an ideal of ruthless cruelty, as much as there is an ideal of humanity and Christianity, and perhaps we are yet to witness savagery carried to its ultimate perfection.

Just a Visitor

Atlantic Monthly: There persists much of the harem in well-regulated homes. In every house arranged to make a real man really happy, the man remains always a visitor, welcomed, honored, but perpetually a guest. He steps in from the great outside for rest and refreshment, but he never belongs. For him the click and hum of the home machinery stops, giving way to love and laughter, but there is always feminine relief when the master departs and the household hum goes on again.

Keep a man at home during the working hours of the day, and there is a blight on that house, not obvious, but subtle, touching the mood and the manner of maid-servant and man-servant, cat, dog and mistress, and affecting even the behavior of inanimate objects, so that there is a constraint about the sewing machine, a palsy on the vacuum cleaner, and a gaucherie in the stove lid. Over the whole household spreads a feeling of the unnaturalness and a resultant sense of ineffectuality.

The most devoted wives are often those frankest in their abhorrence of a man in the house. It is because they do not like to keep their hearts working at high pressure too long at a time; they prefer the healthy relief of a glorious day of sorting or shopping between the master's breakfast and his dinner.

A woman whose males have their place of business neither on the great waters nor in the great streets, but in their own house, is of all women the most perpetually pitied by other women, and the most pathetically patient. She never looks quite like other women this doctor's, minister's, professor's, writer's wife. Her eyes have a harassed patience and her lips a protesting sweetness, for she does not belong to her house and so she does not belong to herself.

How Pins Are Made.

Indianapolis News: To make a pin is an intricate process, but is all done by machinery. A spool of brass wire running on steel posts is fed into jaws which bite off the length of the pin. A small length is left to make the head, which is formed by three rapid blows of a hammer which moves forward one-twentieth of an inch at each blow. The pin then drops to an incline in which are grooves deep enough to admit the shank but not the head. As the pin moves down its point comes in contact with a cylinder with a file-like surface, which causes the pin to turn round so that it is sharpened on all sides. It next drops into a receptacle where a layer of pins is placed, and then a layer of finely ground tin until the pan is filled. Heat and a chemical solution coat the pins with tin. They are then polished in a barrel revolving rapidly. They are placed in the papers by a machine, which seizes the paper and crimps it into divisions as wide as the length of the pins. The bottom of the box is made of square steel bars, which allow the shanks but not the heads of the pins to pass through. The bars are in motion, thus shaking down the pins until a row is formed, when they are clamped in place by the bars. A fold of paper is pushed up against them and pressed into place. This is repeated until the paper is full, when another takes its place. It all sounds intricate, but being done by machinery it is rapid and cheap, else we could not have the billions of pins that we waste.

Lullaby.

Sweet and low, sweet and low,
Wind of the western sea,
Low, low, breathe and blow,
Wind of the western sea;
Over the rolling waters go,
Come from the dying moon, and blow,
Blow him again to me;
While my little one, while my pretty one, sleeps.

Sleep and rest, sleep and rest,
Father will come to thee soon;
Rest, rest, on mother's breast,
Father will come to his babe in the nest,
Silver sails all out of the west
Under the silver moon;
Sleep, my little one, sleep, my pretty one, sleep.

—From Tennyson's "Princess."

Took a Chance.

Answers: "Walter Jones," said the teacher sternly, "you are not attending to the lesson. Did you hear Jessie Smith's description of the American product, hominy?"

"Yes'm," replied the small boy glibly.

"All right, then. Give me a sentence in which you bring in the word correctly."

With the courage of despair Walter replied: "Hominy marbles have you?"

Warning Note.

Philadelphia Public Ledger: About now watch out for the man who is afflicted with golf, elbow, obtained through beating carpets in connection with the spring cleaning.

Seeing America First

By Fred C. Kelly.

Out of Diary:

Denver has an odd form of sightseeing. When a Denver person wants to be truly hospitable to the stranger within his gates he takes him over to the state capitol—provided the legislature is in session—and lets him have a look at the two women legislators, one in the house and the other in the senate.

A woman senator is, of course, a novelty, but somehow the sight of a woman mingling with men folk in the tobacco-laden air of a legislative chamber is not a thing that produces the same glow of enthusiasm that some other conceivable sights might. At least that was the way it impressed me. It seemed to me that I would rather have had my father a state senator than my mother.

A little while ago the wives of the Colorado state senators arranged to have a group photograph taken of themselves. It was to be a picture, you understand, of the other halves of the state senators. Mrs. Helen Ring Robinson, the woman senator, however, fell into a natural error, in thinking that the picture was to be of all women connected with the senate, and she therefore was on hand with the others to be photographed. Whereupon the rest of the women set up a polite, but vehement protest.

"Nuh, nuh," said they. "We simply cannot permit you to be in this picture. This is to be a group of the other halves of the senators. The person we want with us is Mr. Robinson."

Having a woman senator brings up several questions of the niceties of usage. Should a newspaper say: "Among those present were Senator and Mr. Robinson," or "Senatrix and Mr. Robinson"?

Denver makes one think of the town where the people made their living by doing one another's washing. People in Denver either have money, or else get it by selling things to one another. There are plenty of elegant stores, but few factories. Denver must have a smaller factory payroll than any place of its size in the country.

Yet the place is metropolitan enough. For example, it is one of the boasts of Denver that it has an expensive apartment house where one is not permitted to cook onions.

Imagine paying a high price for the privilege of living in a place where you couldn't have beefsteak smothered in onions now and again!

On the way to Denver from Salt Lake City one sees a lot of the most elaborate scenery that our continent provides. In the course of that journey I saw a man spend practically his entire day engrossed in a railroad book of time tables such as are found on a little shelf in sleeping cars. Rarely if ever did he look up at the scenery. Instead he wrinkled his brow and traced trains across dotted lines with his index finger. While others in his party were admiring huge cliffs or mountain peaks he interested himself in looking at the names of the stations, then at the guide book, and then at his watch. He was plotting to prove the train late at each station, but the crew fooled him.

And that was not all he was doing, as we later learned. He was laying plans for still more trips across the continent. Toward evening he looked out of the window for the first time in several hours and remarked to his wife:

"The next time we come out west we'll take the Canadian Pacific. I've just been figuring it out here and I find we can make just about as good time and we have only two hours in Chicago."

"And why do you want to go that way?" she inquired.

"Why?" sternly inquired the man who had spent the day gazing at the splendors of the time schedules in his lap. "Why? For the scenery, of course."

• • •

"Just think," I heard a tourist remark in the Denver station, "here we are away out here in Denver, Colo., and people are still civilized."

Only First-Class Power

St. Louis Republic: When Senator Shafroth said that after the war the United States would be the only first-class power in the world, he may have been thinking particularly of the world of commerce and finance in which this country, by the admission of European experts, is already in the lead. New York at this moment is the financial capital of the world, but there is reason for taking the senator's statement in a broader sense. The weight of debt which is the war is piling upon the people of Europe cannot be continued over a very extended period without bringing them within sight of exhaustion.

Japan fought a winning war with Russia. The contest was not of extraordinary duration, but last year, out of ordinary revenues amounting to 422,000,000 yen, Japan paid 185,000,000 in interest and other charges arising from this debt. This is about 45 per cent of the ordinary revenue still going largely to pay for a war that was won ten years ago. The nations of Europe are more wealthy than Japan, but for that very reason they are fighting a war that is enormously more costly. They, too, will have their hands full when the war is done, paying the military expense of a dead past. The United States, on the other hand, pays only about 3 per cent of its ordinary revenue in interest, and that proportion is not likely to increase.

Bulls and Blunders.

Contributed to London Spectator: Many years ago I heard the following notice read out in a Catholic church in England: "There will be a procession next Sunday afternoon in the grounds of the monastery, but if it rains in the afternoon the procession will take place in the morning."

Among mixed metaphors the most delightful I think I have ever heard was the statement of a town councillor in a Hampshire town some years ago during a discussion on projected expenditure on town improvements. "Gentlemen," he said, "we will have nothing to do with it; it is but the thin end of a white elephant."

A distinguished leader of the Ulster party, writing to me some time back, said: "Before the home rule bill is enforced, Asquith will have to walk over many dead bodies—his own included."

What the Telephone Is For.

Houston Post: North Carolina stands at the bottom of the list in the number of telephone calls per capita. We fancy that the thrifty Tar Heels are laboring under the impression that the telephone is a convenience to be used for necessary conversation and not a device to enable idle people to gab away the hours that ought to be devoted to service.

Keeping Up With Minnesota Editors

Press Comments on Current Events.

Knows His Place.

Red Wing Eagle: It is not probable that any Democratic leaders are wigwagging President Wilson to drop all business at Washington and make a tour of the country to "save the Democratic party." If the party is in dire need of salvation—which is not the case—every man fit to be a leader knows that the president cannot save it except by attending to his official duties. Woodrow Wilson is not a man who neglects his duties.

Governor Shows His Real Size.

Ada Herald: In reappointing Charles Vasaly a member of the board of control, Governor Hammond proved to the people of the state that he is "right." Considerable opposition had developed to Mr. Vasaly from certain politicians, but the governor turned a deaf ear to these "knocks" and rewarded a faithful servant and competent official with another term. The reappointment of Vasaly is one of the best things the governor has done since he took the oath of office.

That Was Then; This Is Now.

Cambridge North Star: Roosevelt says that the peace movement is "silly." And he once earned the $50,000 Nobel peace prize!

Can't Make the Hurdles.

Grand Rapids Herald-Review: The general admission that a period of prosperity is at hand the country over is so unanimous that Republican politicians are unable to check the tide of good times.

Taking the Joy Out of Life.

Albert Lea Tribune: An exchange says the American can feel relief that no aviator is going to drop a bomb into his newly-made garden. But there's the neghbor's hens.

Good Idea.

Madison Independent Press: It may not be out of order to suggest that Senator Clapp ought to re-establish a residence in Minnesota before asking a re-election to the United States senate from this state.

From a Republican Paper, Too.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: While there has been no marked improvement in business conditions throughout the country, there is a very hopeful outlook, and there has been some advancement, particularly in the steel industry. The railroads are still conservative and there are no visible signs of any extended developments this season.

The biggest factor in the revival of business is the prospect of good crops, and the conditions in the Northwest, especially, are most promising.

Our exports are much ahead of the imports, which is a boost for better business.

There is no great boom in business, but labor will probably be reasonably well employed, and certainly there is a greater degree of prosperity in America than in any other country. Possibly the certainty of big crops in a month or two may stimulate business to a livelier tune.

A Subject for Continuous Praise.

Albert Lea Standard: Roosevelt and a few of his ilk are still desperately at work trying "to rock the boat," but Woodrow Wilson keeps right on in the even tenor of his way, guiding the ship of state in a straight track and by good sense and strict neutrality keeping his country out of trouble. Again, thank God for Wilson!

Daily Strength and Cheer.

Giving thanks unto the Father, which hath made us meet to be partakers of the inheritance of the saints in light.—Col. i, 12.

Entering upon my 90th year, let me adopt as my motto these words of Paul. How many things we have to be thankful for, to God, the infinite Father! Life itself, with all its comforts and privileges, is His gift. Above all, let us think of our spiritual blessings—all included in the great gift of eternal life through our Lord Jesus Christ; and especially that we should be made partakers of that greatest of all gifts. If we are thus favored and honored, let us remember that it is for no worthiness nor merit of ours. It is not of nature, but of grace—divine grace. The Father Himself has 'made us meet" for it. What joy to think of this, and what cause for thankfulness, and eager hope, and earnest aspiration and striving, from day to day, that we may walk more "worthy of God who hath called us to His kingdom and glory."

"Oh, by Thy love and anguish, Lord,
And by Thy life laid down,
Grant that we fall not from Thy Grace,
Nor fail to reach our crown."

—Robert Crawford.

How blest is he whose tranquil mind,
When life declines, recalls again
The years that time has cast behind,
And reaps delight from toil and pain.

So, when the transient storm is past,
The sudden gloom and driving shower,
The sweetest sunshine is the last;
The loveliest is the evening hour.

Economy.

London Answers: It is very queer. A young chap will pay no heed to economy in any form, while the elderly gentleman will take elaborate care with every single half-penny, knowing full well that he will never reap the benefit. This was the case with old Tweezer. When he was entertaining some guests one evening the supply of wine ran out, and he therefore made an excursion to the cellars beneath. For the sake of economy he took no light, but trusted to his familiarity with the place.

In due course he arrived safely upstairs with five glasses of wine.

"It must be quite a work of art to fill those glases so accurately in the dark," said one, who was aware of the old chap's habit of not using a light for the sake of economy.

"Bless yer heart and soul, no," replied Tweezer, as he grudgingly distributed the five glasses. "Taint no work of art. You see, when I feel the wine reach the first joint of my thumb I just stop."

•••A lumberman's bateau containing three men was struck by lightning yesterday and two of the men were killed while the third escaped without injury. Charles Emory, William Helm and George Barshaw were working on the Inman boom sticks a short distance out from Park Point, when a storm came up. They proposed to go ashore for shelter and had just climbed into the boat when the bolt struck it. Barshaw and Emory were killed almost instantly, while Helm escaped. Emory came here ten days ago from Bay City, Mich., where he has a wife and several children. Barshaw was about 30 years of age and unmarried. His mother, Mrs. Lucy E. Barshaw, runs the Lake Front hotel on Railroad street and Archibald Barshaw of Barshaw & Campbell is his brother.

"Percy Mitchell."

Wall Street Journal: A Wall Street man just returned from London has contributed a new method of pronouncing "Przemsyl," the word which has given us all so much trouble. This man says that London had just as difficult a time with the name until an attache who had spent several years in Petrograd came to the front.

On the authority, so he said, of Grand Duke Nicholas himself, he asserted that the correct pronunciation is "Purr-tse-mysh-el," or as the attache said he was told, "just think of Percy Mitchell and you have it almost exactly."

Domestic Economy.

Warroad, Minn., Pioneer: A box of fresh strawberries today will not produce as much satisfaction as a package of dried prunes did forty years ago, and in that lies one of the reasons for the high cost of living.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

THE LUSITANIA.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Behold the spectacle of a government civilized and professing Christianity taking the lives of more than 1,000 innocent men, women and children in cold blood. It is an act unparalleled in the history of the universe. The whole world stands aghast and is shocked. It is an act that has staggered humanity and an act which can never be retrieved or condoned. There is an excuse for Nero burning Rome, inasmuch as he was pagan and lived in pagan times. The excuse that is put forth that the passengers on the Lusitania were warned is not worth the purchase of a moment's thought. War is war and murder is murder. Brave men don't kill women and babies. To look at the whole sordid business, at no matter what angle, the mind reels in contemplation of what may yet happen. If the lives of peaceful Americans are to be thus wantonly destroyed to gratify a military clique of tyrannical despots of Berlin, one can easily and readily believe the tales of cruelty perpetrated upon the helpless women and children of Belgium.

Think of it, you who have your mothers, sisters and babies, and let your conscience dictate to you and enable you to judge honorably and without bias the results such an atrocious act of cowardice can but have upon the minds of all right-thinking people. I wonder if, when his imperial majesty, Kaiser Wilhelm II, prays to Almighty God, he will bestow a thought upon the innocent victims whose lives both he and his imperial government must be held responsible for both to God and Man.

"God give us men, a time like this demands,
Strong minds, great hearts, true faith and ready hands;
Men whom the lust of office does not kill;
Men whom the spoil of office does not buy;
Men who possess opinions and a will;
Men who have honor, men who will not lie;
Men who can stand before a demagogue
And damn his treacherous flatteries without winking.
Great men sun-crowned who live above the fog
In public duty and in private thinking."

Yours faithfully,
CECIL ARTHUR BURNABY,
St. Luke's Hospital.

SUGGESTIONS TO JITNEY DRIVERS

To the Editor of The Herald:

I should like to make a suggestion for improving our much talked of jitney service. I have noticed when one stands on a corner up town waiting for a car, from one to three drivers get their eye on you and some even slow up ready to take you in their cars. Also a jitney will be loading at the same time and place as a street car, making it necessary for those who take the car to go around in front of the jitney. For mothers with young children especially this is very unpleasant. Quite often too, it is not easy to stop your car because of jitneys either passing or slowing up to take on passengers. Now, why could it not be a generally accepted rule, that those who want jitneys stand on the first corner of the crossing instead of the last.

The jitneys would then know who wanted their services, could take them on and pass behind and to the other side of the car (if conditions permit) and those who want a car would not be inconvenienced by the jitney. I am in entire sympathy with the jitneys and glad to see working men sharing in the profits that have too long gone to a few, and it seems to me this simple rule, would help them as well as the "riding public."

TRUE AMERICANS.

To the Edtor of The Herald:

It really makes one laugh to read the letter to the News Tribune editor, Friday, May 7, written by Mr. Hatfield of Brook Park. Speaking of an un-American—it is difficult to believe this gentleman is an American. His statement, or "knock" of President Wilison at one time being a school professor shows how much true American he has in him. I doubt very much his bravery to look a Boy Scout in the face, and still he would have this country invade Canada, Mexico, and send our fleet over in European waters to see that none of the warring nations holst our flag. That President Wilson has used excellent judgment in the handling of the most difficult problems that has faced a president in the last fifty years—yes, one might say since George Washington's term—is the voice of any true American. Furthermore, I believe this gentleman from Brook Park is one of the kind that would not even answer a call to the colors should such an incident arise. I presume this gentleman voted for President Taft, and if he has been such a good follower of all the good items in The Herald, perhaps he will have noticed that Mr. Taft is an American, and at the present time has voiced his sentiments with, and congratulated President Wilson in his excellent handling of critical situations, both at home and abroad. If this gentleman wants to talk war let him go to Holland, where the rest of the windmills are, as he has clearly shown—what he terms "unworthiness and un-Americanism" by one of the poorest items ever presented to a paper.

A TRUE AMERICAN.

LOSING A SQUARE MAN.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Being a subscriber to your paper, I wish to announce these few words in regard to the tribute the Elks paid to Chief Troyer.

I for one, will say you are losing a good, square, upright man, one who has done justice to your city, one, who would always give you a hearing if he thought you were deserving of one. I know what I am saying for I have been in a position to know what I am talking about. He has my best wishes when he goes to his new field. Respectfully, J. W.

Hibbing, Minn., May 9.

JITNEY DRIVER REPLIES.

To the Editor of The Herald:

It begins to look as if some people think that nobody has a right to run a business that affects somebody else's business or pocket. Mr. Warren says that some of the cars will have to be cut off, if the jitneys are not regulated, by which I suppose he means enough regulations so as to make it impossible to run a jitney. The street car company gets its power cheaper now from the Great Northern Power company than it did before, but we got no reduction in the price of fares.

It seems to me that during the street car strike here the street railway company thought nothing about its employes or how much they suffered; but when something touches the company's pocket, then it tells about the poor employes and how they will have to suffer and lose their jobs. In my opinion, the street railway company is getting just what it deserves, only not enough of it.

EXPOSITION BAGGAGE

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

This department does not pretend to be infallible. It will endeavor, however, to answer questions sent to it by readers of The Herald to the best of its ability, reserving the right to ignore all that are trifling of or concern only to the questioner, or that ask for advice on legal or medical questions.

To receive attention, every inquiry must bear the name and address of the person sending it. This is not wanted for publication, but as an evidence of good faith.

Louis D. Kovach, Aurora—Kindly answer the following through the Open Court. Who is the greatest baseball player in the world, and also who is the greatest manager, piloting a team today? I would also like to know who started baseball and when it was started?—There are many opinions both as to the greatest player and the greatest manager. Your guess is as good as the Editor's for there is no way of proving it. Baseball developed from the old game of town ball played in the New England states. The first club to use the present diamond shaped field was the old Washington club of New York. Many men have claimed they invented the game, but the truth probably is it just developed.

Subscriber, Ironwood — Did the Southwick bill, providing a eugenic law and prohibiting the marriage of first cousins, etc., in Minnesota, pass?—The Southwick bill did not pass. The marriage of first cousins in Minnesota is prohibited under a law passed in 1911.

H. A., Duluth—Can you inform me in your columns of the Hinckley copper mine, known as the Keweenaw Western Development association. Is the mine still a prospect and what are the shares worth.—The Keweenaw Copper company fell into oblivion years ago. The concern was organized on the strength of an alleged find of copper bearing rock in the vicinity of Hinckley, Minn., which later turned out to be without any basis. The shares are of course valueless.

P. F., Ironwood—Would you please inform me through the Open Court of your paper which is the largest lake in the United States?—Superior.

S. R., Duluth—Will you kindly publish in your Open Court of what nationality is John D. Rockefeller and oblige.—He was born in Richford, N. Y., and is therefore an American.

R. M. G., Grand Rapids—I noted your answer to my inquiry, concerning the 100-yard dash held in connection with the big athletic meet of the University of Pennsylvania, for which I desire to thank you. Now could you likewise inform me, in connection with this same race, as to whether an electric start and finish was employed? If you can, it will greatly oblige.—The news dispatches did not say. The only way to find out would be to write the secretary of the athletic association at the University of Pennsylvania.

W. L., Ewen, Mich.—Would you please inform me as to where I could get the music to the song printed in your paper, April 9, "You've Been a Friend to Me." Would like to get the words and music together.—Ask the music dealer in your own town. If he does not have it, write to the music department of one of the stores advertising in The Herald.

A. A. P., Duluth—I have a bet made with a party. A says that there are some states in the Union where first cousins can marry. B says there are not. If so please name some.—First cousins may marry in many states. Among them Florida, Georgia and New York.

W. R., Chisholm—Kindly inform me through the columns of the Open Court what steps are necessary to take to have a state militia company organized? Who is the party to see regarding the matter.—Write to Col. F. E. Resche, courthouse, Duluth, and he will be glad to give you all the information you need.

I. W., Duluth—What is the thickness of a newspaper. A says 2-1000 of an inch.—A piece torn from The Herald measured 2-1000 of an inch when placed in a micrometer. The thickness would probably vary from 2-1000 to 4-1000 according to the grade of the paper.

MRS. CARMAN ACQUITTED OF MURDER AT SECOND TRIAL

Mineola, L. I., May 10.—A verdict of acquittal was returned after a short deliberation Saturday by the jury trying Mrs. Florence C. Carman on the charge of murdering Mrs. Louise Bailey at Freeport on the night of June 30, last.

The jury was agreed on the first ballot, and the verdict was returned one hour and twelve minutes after the jury had retired. Mrs. Carman, who had been depressed and apparently extremely anxious all day, brightened as Justice Blackmar delivered his charge and beamed with happiness when the verdict was announced. She shook hands with all the jurors and left after a few minutes with her husband for their home in Freeport.

In his charge to the jury, Justice Blackmar said that the state's case centered on the testimony of Celia Coleman, a negro maid in the Carman household, who testified that Mrs. Carman had darted into the kitchen the night of the murder with a revolver in her hand and announced: "I killed her." The Coleman woman also testified that Mrs. Carman had come to her room early the next morning and expressed repentance for having "killed that poor woman."

In his charge Justice Blackmar said: "It has been obviously shown that she (Celia Coleman) was careless of the truth, but that is not conclusive. It is for you to decide, after considering all the circumstances, whether the primary question in this case is whether you believe Celia Coleman."

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Conjunctivitis and "Pink Eye"

PHYSICIANS call the covering of the eyeball and the lining of the lids the conjunctiva. It is a mucous membrane, like that lining the nose or mouth, and subject to similar inflammations. The ending "itis" always signifies inflammation; thus, appendicitis, gastritis, dermatitis, neuritis and tonsilitis mean respectively inflammation of the appendix, the stomach, the skin, a nerve and a tonsil. Conjunctivitis means inflammation of the covering membrane of the eyeball and the lining of the lids.

This may be due to an infectious disease which passes from person to person, called "pink eye." Or it may occur from simple bacterial invasion when the local resistance is lowered by injury, foreign bodies, dust, bright light or tobacco smoke.

There is redness, itching or smarting, sensitiveness to light, increased secretion of tears, stickiness of the edges of lids, mucous or muco-pus collecting in the inner corner of eyeball.

This condition must be distinguished from the irritation produced by a foreign body in the eye, from corneal ulcer and from iritis, the latter two being serious enough to demand the services of an oculist.

What to Do and Not to Do.

At the beginning of an attack of conjunctivitis or any other acute eye inflammation cold compresses may be applied to the eyes, cloths wet and kept on a piece of ice until cold.

Protect the eyes from bright light, and do not read or use the eyes in any way.

An eye-wash of sterile normal salt solution (teaspoonful table-salt dissolved in a pint of freshly boiled water—never stronger) makes an ideal cleansing solution, non-irritating in effect. This should be dropped in the eye freely and frequently, at about body heat, from a medicine dropper which is sterilized by boiling.

If an antiseptic solution is desired, use boric or boracic acid powder instead of salt. This is but slightly more irritating than normal salt solution.

Do not bandage the eyes. Smoked glasses may be worn for protection. Do not poultice the eyes nor apply hot compresses except under medical advice. Do not drop "eye-drops" of unknown formula in the eyes. Never use strong salt water eye wash. Avoid lead water, alum, zinc and other astringents. Eye inflammation which is not relieved in a few days by the simple measures mentioned demands expert medical attention.

Questions and Answers.

Goiter and Rapid Pulse: I am a woman of 26 and for five years I have been nervous, weak, tremulous, with a pulse usually 20 to 30 beats too fast. I sleep poorly and have much nightmare. Can do but little of my former work. Doctor says I have a goiter which must be operated on. Is there no medical cure?

REPLY.

The symptoms are those of oversecretion on the part of the thyroid gland. "Exophthamic goiter"—meaning goiter with prominent eyes. Possibly the rest cure would help. Nonsurgical treatment requires a long time.

Danger of Bunch in Breast: Is a small hard lump in the breast an indication of serious trouble to follow?

Any woman at any age who discovers such a lump should have medical advice at once. It may mean cancer.

Does Your Baby Weigh As Much As He Should?

Are his little legs and arms as plump as they should be? Are his cheeks rosy and his eyes sparkling with health?

When your baby is six months old he should weigh twice as much as he did when born. At the end of his first year he should weigh three times his weight at birth.

If your baby is getting proper nourishment, the right amount of sleep, exercise and fresh air, yet does not weigh as much as he should, there is probably something wrong with his food.

The best food for baby is mother's milk. But when that seems not enough, add one feeding a day of then make it two feedings a day; then three until the baby is entirely weaned on Nestlé's. Nestlé's Food is the nearest thing there is to mother's milk. The basis of Nestlé's is pure cow's milk from sanitary dairies. The indigestible curd—meant for the calf's four stomachs—is made soft and fleecy as in mother's milk, and the special baby needs, not in cow's milk, are added. To prepare, just add cold water and boil one minute.

Send the coupon for a free box of Nestle's—enough for twelve feedings—and our book on the Care of Babies—both free.

Unusual Honesty of Duluthians Dumbfounds Assessor's Employes.

Diogenes might end his quest for an honest man in Duluth, and the city assessor is becoming convinced that there is no need of Billy Sunday here.

Within the last few days scores of Duluthians have voluntarily come into City Assessor Scott's office and presented their personal property statements, even increasing their valuations over last year. This has happened so often lately that the employes in the assessor's office are dumbfounded.

"This is certainly gratifying," said Mr. Scott this morning. "The liberal response of the public to help us out in making the city's valuation shows that civic spirit is prevalent, and that there are many honest people in Duluth."

Assessor Scott reports that the deputies are all making fair progress and that indications point to a $14,000,000 valuation of real and personal property in Duluth. The assessors will work for twenty more days.

How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Carried Her Safely Through Change of Life.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa.—"At the Change of Life the doctor said I would have to give up my work and take my bed for some time as there was no help for me but to lie still. I took Lydia E. PRICES NOT AFFECTED

Tobacco Trust's Dissolution Results in Competition and Cuts Profits.

No Important Changes in Prices to Jobbers or Consumers.

Washington, May 10.—The supreme court's dissolution of the tobacco trust has resulted in competition between the successor companies, in most branches of the industry, but has not affected wholesale or retail prices, and in general such competition has reduced the profits of the other companies.

That is the conclusion of the old bureau of corporations, now merged with the Federal trade commission, in the third portion of its report on the tobacco industry laid before President Wilson.

Extensive, and largely technical, the report deals with the prices, costs and profits of the seven companies into which the Federal courts divided the American Tobacco company in 1911 after the celebrated dissolution decree.

The extent regarding prices, costs and profits and changes in volume and division of business tend to show it, but not with regard to other important factors because the courts retained jurisdiction of the case and the department of justice is making its own investigations into the manner in which the dissolution decree is being observed. It points out, however, that the seven companies thus created, were in their respective branches, much larger than any companies not connected with the "combination."

No Price Cutting.

"For particular brands," says the report, "neither the prices to jobbers nor to consumers show important changes following the dissolution of the combination. Such competition as has developed among the successor companies did not result in price cutting."

Costs of manufacture since the dissolution were found distinctly higher because of duplication of effort, and chiefly to advertising. Where the advertising bill for the big combination was about $11,000,000 in 1911, the seven successor companies spent more than $23,500,000 in 1913. While there was an increase in the volume of business, the ratio of advertising expense to sales doubled between 1910 and 1913. The aggregate profits of the successor companies in 1913 were $29,735,958 or about $1,230,000 less than the profits of the combination in 1910, on the basis of an investment of approximately $250,000,000.

"In view of such a high rate of profit," says the report, "the question naturally arises: Why has there been no competition in prices? The answer to this question is partly found in the peculiar price-making conditions in the tobacco trade."

Sizes of Tobacco.

Sizes of tobacco packages, the report points out, are affected by law and it suggests that price competition might be facilitated by amending the law to establish a larger number of sizes of tobacco packages with smaller difference between them or providing that all kinds of tobacco may be packed and stamped in wholesale quantities.

Of the so-called independent companies, operating apart from the seven successors to the trust, the report says few of them have shown increased prosperity since the dissolution.

"Compared with either the combination or the successor companies," it says, "they have, on the whole, made an exceedingly poor showing of profits and since the dissolution this has been especially marked in navy plug and Turkish cigarettes. On the other hand in long cut smoking they have done much better since the dissolution. In scrap tobacco alone their profits have been greater than the combination or successor companies. One of the principal causes of this unfavorable profit showing of smaller companies has been a much higher ratio of manufacturing costs to sales. The chief explanation is apparently found in their small scale operations and loss efficient organization. The smaller companies have been at a marked disadvantage with respect to the cost of distribution."

Increasing in Costs.

The decreasing rate of profit of the independents is ascribed to increases in selling and advertising costs since the dissolution. The general conclusions of the investigation are thus stated in the bureau's report:

"In conclusion it may be stated that the study of prices, costs and profits in the tobacco industry, without taking into consideration other factors in the competitive situation, indicates that the decree of dissolution has resulted in the successor companies' competing with each other for business in most branches of the industry, but has not affected wholesale or retail prices. The successor companies have also competed with the smaller tobacco concerns and, collectively, have won business from them in some branches and lost to them in others. As a consequence of competition the rate of profit of the successor companies has been reduced although their rate of profit is still high. In general, this competition has seriously reduced the profits of the other companies.

"This reduction in profits has not been caused by increased cost of manufacture, but by increased expenses of distribution, and principally by the increase in expenditures for advertising. As the sale of tobacco products depends largely on the advertisement of brands, competition in the tobacco business necessarily increases advertising expenditure. In other words, for tobacco products, and it may be true also for other brand articles, the social cost of the system of competition is largely found in extraordinary advertising expense, and this would seem to be inevitable for brand articles so long as they have a proprietary character."

RUSSELL IS POOR PROPHET

"Swedish Billy Sunday" Picks Flaws in Propagandist's Predictions.

Compares Deuteronomy and Prophecy to Prove "Fall Down."

Pastor Russell of "Millennial Dawn" fame, is a poor prophet, according to Rev. Gust F. Johnson of Minneapolis, the "Swedish Billy Sunday," who lectured last night at the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street. Mr. Johnson spoke to one of the largest audiences that has gathered in the church in many months. He took his text from Deut. xviii, 22: "When a prophet speaketh in the name of the Lord, if a thing follow not or does not come to pass, it is not the thing the Lord has spoken, but the prophet has spoken it presumptuously."

"Pastor Russell, according to his prophecy as set forth in his publication in 1888, says that the governments of the earth shall cease to exist and that a millennium shall be established prior to the year 1914," asserted the speaker. "Now he claims that it was this European war that he prophesied. His teachings and his books are only for the purpose of enriching himself and it is a well known fact that his teachings have enabled him to become enormously rich.

"Pastor Russell predicted the absolute rule of Christ on earth in 1914. It is now 1915. If Christ were ruling alone, the Lusitania would not have been sunk.

"Pastor Russell denied the resurrection of Christ in the flesh. When it was suggested to him that the doubters would have gone to the grave to see whether in reality Christ had 'risen,' he hedged by saying that the body had evidently been consumed, to which I reply that, were this true, the Lord had played a trick on the world and that a man who would worship a God who would cheat, would cheat himself.

"Russell has denounced the collections taken up in churches of the country. His annual income from the sale of his books is more than the collection taken up in the churches."

Will Hold Revivals.

Rev. Paul W. Rood of Minneapolis arrived in the city today and will assist in the conducting of a series of revival meetings this week at the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street. OBSERVANCE IS GENERAL

Thousands of Flowers Purchased By Duluthians for Mother's Day.

Duluth yesterday showed its appreciation of "the best mother who ever lived."

Throughout the day thousands of men and women wore flowers emblematic of the day and the beautiful weather aided the observance of Mother's day in churches, homes and parks.

Local florists reported one of the greatest days in the history of their business, orders having been received weeks in advance for large bouquets and baskets of flowers to be delivered yesterday in Duluth homes. In addition, the florists sent hundreds of packages of flowers to mothers in many parts of the country—gifts from sons and daughters living in Duluth.

Special Program at "Y."

There was a special Mother's day programm at the Y. M. C. A. building yesterday afternoon. Dr. U. S. Villars delivered an appropriate address on "The Mothers in the Home." Vocal solos were rendered by Dr. J. G. Anhand and Miss Esther Tischer. During the afternoon carnations were sold to persons in the audience.

Mother's day is observed annually on the second Sunday in May. A white flower is worn for a mother who is dead and a red or bright flower for a mother who is living.

Is National Day.

Mother's day was first observed in 1913, when, at the instance of Miss Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia, founder of the institution, congress passed a resolution commending such a day of observance. Last year congress passed another resolution authorizing the president to designate Mother's day each year by a special proclamation.

In addition, governors of many states in the union issue special proclamations, announcing Mother's day and urging its observance everywhere. Governor Colquitt made it a practice to pardon a number of prisoners on Mother's day while he was governor of Texas.

SOCIABILITY RUN PLANNED

Twin City Motorists Will Visit Duluth During Summer.

A sociability run from the Twin Cities to Duluth this coming summer is planned by the Duluth Automobile club.

At a meeting of the directors of the organization held at the Commercial club last Saturday evening, tentative plans for the run were made and next Saturday Dr. J. D. Park, president of the club, will leave for the Twin Cities to take the proposition up with the officials of the two clubs.

The run will be staged on the roadway from the Twin Cities to Duluth, by way of Sandstone and Hinkley, and will be open to all the motorists of the state. An entertainment for the visitors will be arranged on their arrival in Duluth.

In addition to the run, the directors of the club plan to conduct an extensive advertising campaign throughout the country, urging motorists to visit the Head of the Lakes on their tours of the nation.

Dr. Park complimented Commissioner Farrell on his plan to standardize Duluth pavements and to keep all outlying roads in repair. He also indorsed the commissioner's proposition to purchase a portable rock crusher, so that bad holes in local highways can be always kept in good condition.

The members of the board are: Dr. Park, W. E. Magner, Henry Bridgeman, N. F. Russell, James L. Crawford and Henry Mullin, secretary.

LODGES WILL ENTERTAIN NEW AND OLD CHIEFS

Duluth Council, No. 3, Modern Samaritans at a meeting this evening at the old Masonic temple will entertain in honor of R. D. McKercher, newly appointed chief of police. A program of speeches and music has been arranged. Mr. McKercher is a charter member of the council.

The Odd Fellows of the city will give a farewell banquet in honor of Chauncey H. Troyer, retiring chief of police at a meeting to be held Thursday evening. T. W. Hugo, former mayor of Duluth, under whose administration Mr. Troyer was appointed chief of police, will be one of the principal speakers. Among other speakers will be R. D. McKercher, R. McFarlane, T. J. St. Germaine and John Gillis.

The committee in charge of the arrangements consists of H. W. Toewe, James Bradley, John Roeberg and John C. Hunter.

IN DULUTH PULPITS

MOTHERHOOD HIS THEME

Rev. G. R. Gebauer Says Women Supply Ideals for the Race.

"Mother," was the subject of the sermon by Rev. George R. Gebauer at the First Unitarian church yesterday.

"From a hundred thousand pulpits will gush forth today praise for the mothers of men," he said. "Indeed, does not every man feel that much of the best in him has come to him through his mother? When we feel deeply about life, it seems as if the womanly, the motherly were speaking in us. And no matter what men may have attained in material civilization, the thoughtful man recalizes, that if that culture be without the womanly ideals of life, it is a barren thing. Indeed woman's contribution to the education of the race can not be easily overestimated. Napoleon was right, when he considered the greatest need of France, mothers, who would know how to educate their children.

"But while we need the gentle hand of woman in the training of children, there is something of more importance to the bringing up of a healthy, moral and spiritual race. The deeper and truer thought of motherhood takes us beyond the nursery and the cradle into the very soul of woman. Here is woman's power and her noblest opportunity. That is why the world has ever expected greater things from woman than from man as a moral and spiritual being. No greater mistake can possibly be made, than to level down woman's ideal of life to that of the average man. The woman is 'the keeper of the light, it will be a sad day for the world,' when man no longer sees in the other sex 'the ever-womanly' that draws him upward. And this element the mother may impart through hidden channels to new life to be.

"The mother is the child's nearest and closest environment, bodily, mentally, spiritually. In that environment it grows into a personality, a living soul. Indeed, we have as yet but a faint conception how the mother's thought may mould the soul of her unborn child. When it appears at birth it comes perhaps laden with the inmost longings of the mother that bore it. It is the mother's soul, which above all influences the child's soul for future weal or woe. That is why so many great men have worshiped their mothers; they recalized that the highest good in them, the noblest inspirations had been quickened by their mothers. That is why Mary plays such an important role in the life of Jesus. He was truly Mary's son and right was the woman, who in admiration said to Him the significant words 'Blessed is the womb that bare Thee.'"

ETERNAL LIFE

Is Gift of God Through Christ, Says Pastor White.

"Soul Sense vs. Solely Nonsense" was the subject of Pastor Stemple White's sermon last night at the Seventh Day Adventist church, Sixth street and Tenth avenue east.

Taking for his text John iii, 16, "For God so loved the world that He gave His only-begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life," he said in part:

"As certain as words can convey any sense whatever, this oft-repeated verse, in harmony with the whole Bible teaching, declares that eternal life is a gift of God through Jesus Christ on gospel conditions. It is written, 'all have sinned,' and again, 'the soul that sinneth, it shall die,' and yet again, 'it is appointed unto men once to die,' so man's only hope of a future life is through the power of the Life Giver at the resurrection. The believer who becomes an overcomer through Christ will receive immortality at the second coming of Christ, while later the unrepentant sinner goes down in the second death to that eternal grave which knows no resurrection.

"The word soul is used 873 times in the Bible, and not once is it called immortal, while many times it plainly speaks of the soul going to the grave. Man is always spoken of as being 'mortal,' and the very scriptural expresion 'mortal bodies' and 'mortal flesh' agree with all human experience. In all Bible versions, including the Doway, the Scriptures clearly teach that the whole living man is the living soul. Gen. ii, 7, reads, 'God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and man became a living soul.' The living man is the living soul. Adam himself was not unmortal, but was created on probation subject to immortality on condition of obedience. After sinning, he was driven from Eden, lest he partake of the tree of life and live forever in sin. There is no such thing as an immortal sinner, hence there cannot be such an unthinkable, nonsensical thing as eternal torment, for the lost souls are to 'perish.'"

NO SUBSTITUTE FOR REAL MOTHERS

Children's Craving for Love Not Satisfied By Institutions, Says Pastor.

In his sermon on "A Good Mother" at the First M. E. church yesterday, Rev. John W. Hoffman declared that institutional methods of rearing children were not the most successful.

"We are persons with impulses, aspirations and cravings for love—not machines," he said. "The child is human and hungers for the lap of the real mother. Technical training, essential as it is, does not build a beautiful soul and zeal for human service. The abdication on the part of some parents and the unfitness of others does not justify the expedient of the 'professional mother.' While these failures at the fireside are costly to the individual and to the community, one must not get the idea that the need of the mother-heart to child-life is a prejudice to live down and a bit of ignorance to be educated out of the race.

"Foolish indeed is the conceited lad who believes that he is wiser than his devoted and prayerful parents. They know the risks of vagrant impulses and the menace of trifling indulgences. The Scriptures are experimentally correct—prosperity and progress comes to those who honor father and mother while wreck and tragedy follows in the wake of the disobedient.

"While no parent can select the vocation or craft for his child, the right motive and the proper ideal determining the pursuit of the practical is very largely a matter of home training."

What's In the Cup?

The flavour may be agreeable, but appetite isn't the only thing to be considered.

The average cup of coffee contains about 2½ grains of caffeine, a powerful drug which is a frequent cause of indigestion, constipation, nervousness, heart trouble and other ills.

Some persons are strong enough to use coffee for a time without apparent harm, but repeated doses of its subtle, cumulative drug, caffeine, sooner or later affects even the strong man or woman.

Any coffee drinker will benefit from a change to

INSTANT POSTUM

This pure food-drink has a snappy tang, very like the Old Gov't Javas, but it contains no caffeine, nor any other harmful ingredient. It is made of selected wheat, a little wholesome molasses and is pure, invigorating and delicious.

And Instant Postum is so easy to make. Put a level teaspoonful in a cup, add hot water, and sugar and cream to taste.

The convenience of Instant Postum is seen at a glance. Sold in 30c and 50c tins. Some prefer Postum Cereal—the original form—which must be well boiled, 15c and 25c pkgs.

Grocers sell both kinds, the flavour is equally delicious and the cost per cup is about the same.

"There's a Reason" for POSTUM

La Touraine, New York and St. Louis Reach End of Voyage.

New York, May 10.—The steamer La Touraine of the French line, which left this port April 27, arrived at Bordeaux on Saturday afternoon, according to a cablegram received by the local officers of the line.

The steamship St. Louis of the American line arrived yesterday from Liverpool with 310 cabin and 112 steerage passengers. The voyage was without incident.

EXPANSION OF SERVICE

Every Petition for Rural Delivery Service Has Been Granted.

Facilities Are to Be Extended Without Waiting for Petitions.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, May 10.—Every petition pending in the postoffice department for the establishment of rural delivery service has now been approved by the postmaster general. Orders have been issued which will put all this new service into operation during the present fiscal year.

As the next step towards the expansion of the postal service on terms of equality throughout the United States, the postmaster general has directed his fourth assistant, who has charge of rural delivery service, to provide for the extension of delivery to all patrons reasonably entitled to it, regardless of whether or not a petition for the service is on file in the department.

New Policy.

This introduces a new policy in the administration of postal affairs. The department, therefore, will move for the extension of postal facilities and not wait for requests therefor. Investigation will be made to ascertain the localities where necessity justifies the establishment of new routes or the extension of old ones.

To this end postmasters in localities where it appears that present service is not adequate will be instructed to make detailed reports to the postmaster general as to whether the establishment of new rural routes in their vicinity would not be desirable. In fine, these postmasters will be expected to furnish the department with information as to how the existing service can be enlarged to meet the requirements of all prospective patrons.

Expenses Reduced.

During the period from April 1 to May 5, 1915, readjustment of the rural service reduced operating expenses $292,052. This sum has been utilized in the establishment of 439 new routes, serving approximately 254,435 additional persons. From May 1 to May 5, a reduction in operating expenses of $120,408 resulted. This sum was utilized to establish 176 new routes, serving approximately 99,230 additional persons. New routes were ordered in Minnesota at Greenbush (2), Karlstad and Park Rapids.

A Sure Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.—Advertisement.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

STRANGLES WIFE TO DEATH KILLS BOY, THEN HANGS SELF

Farmer Living Near Devils Lake, N. D., Spares Only Infant Child.

Triple Crime Is Discovered By Senator Hyland, Owner of Farm.

Devils Lake, N. D., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Alex Herman, aged 30, strangled his wife, and Roy Hinley, aged 11, to death, and then hanged himself, leaving his 7-months-old baby the only living person on his farm three and a half miles from Devils Lake.

Sunday morning. State Senator Frank Hyland of Devils Lake, owner of the land, discovered the crime—with the infant child sitting on the floor beside his mother's body, crying pitifully and attempting vainly to arouse his dead mother.

Herman probably took most of the night in accomplishing his work, the motive for which is not known to authorities.

The man left the city about 10 o'clock Saturday evening, and when he arrived home, Mrs. Herman evidently had retired, her body only being clothed in her nightgown.

That they quarreled is the belief of officials, Herman evidently hitting his wife a terrific blow back of the ear, knocking her unconscious.

How Woman Was Killed.

Then Herman tied her hands behind her back, forming a noose from pieces of clothing, and tying the woman's head in the noose, suspending her about eighteen inches from the floor, the other end of the noose tied to the bedstead.

Young Hinley, an orphan, who was employed by Herman, evidently also had been in bed, but during Herman's attack upon his wife, the lad had put on his overalls, taking refuge in the barn.

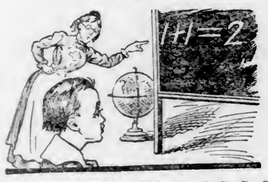
Herman, after murdering his wife, went to the barn, finding the boy. The lad also had been knocked unconscious, and a strap was then drawn about his neck, strangling him as well. The body probably had been hanged, but was cut down before Herman finished his own life.

The night's work was made complete when Herman, placing the noose about his own neck, tying the other end over the rafters, strangled himself to death, his knees almost touching the floor of the stable when discovered by Hyland this morning.

Mrs. Herman's parents live near Aberdeen, S. D., while Herman, a Russian German, came here several years ago from near Mankato, Minn.

Curing Catarrh is A Simple Method

Go to its Source and the Cure Is Then Accomplished.



Only those who have used S. S. S. for the blood know that catarrh is simply a blood trouble.

Most people, uninstructed in this membraneous disease, treat their nose and throat as if catarrh was a local trouble. It is not so. To treat catarrh it is necessary to go into the stomach, the liver, the lungs, the kidneys and all the vital organs of the body. And it is S. S. S. that at once enters the entire blood circulation, all the organs of the body, all the mucous surfaces and becomes a dominant factor for renewed health. It is a simple method when you figure it out. Catarrh is plainly an inflammation of the mucous membranes.

And there is in S. S. S. certain ingredients which cause these mucous surfaces to change or convert their secretions into a substance for easy elimination. A special book on this subject will be mailed to all who write to The Swift Specific Co., 110 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

Catarrh is very often the result of some other blood trouble, some germ that gets into the blood and multiplies beyond the control of nature.

S. S. S. is the remdy. Do not accept a substitute for this matchless remedy. Read the circular wrapped around the bottle. It is important.

NORTH DAKOTA CROP CONDITIONS FINE

Despite Cool Temperature, Recent Rains Are Big Benefit.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—North Dakota's crops have had another exceptionally favorable week.

With rain and snow over the entire northern half of the state during three to five days of the week, storing up a supply of moisture that will work wonders for the crops during the hotter days of June and July, the grain is getting an excellent start.

Growth last week was retarded to some extent because of prevailing low temperatures, but experienced grain growers declare the condition entirely satisfactory. They regard the additional supply of moisture received during the past few days as exceptionally beneficial.

To Plant Corn.

Ground is now being prepared for corn, and that grain will be sown during the latter part of this week, and next week.

Very little flax is being sown in the state this year, as compared with previous seasons. The farmers, on the whole, seem to have gone in for wheat on a basis of about 25 per cent greater than last year, and flax has been one of the grains most seriously affected, so far as acreage is concerned.

RED RIVER FARMER HAS SOWN 2,700 ACRES TO GRAIN.

Crookston, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph Malone, one of the prominent farmers residing near Stephen, reports that he has sown 2,700 acres of land. He is not only a farmer but also a lumberman and owns lumbering camps near Baudette and spends the cold months in that territory.

RICE LAKE MAN FREED BY JURY

Twelve Men Find Edward Norton Did Not Kill Wife.

Barron, Wis., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The jury that tried the case against Edward Norton of Rice Lake, charged with choking his wife to death, returned a verdict of not guilty yesterday.

Public sentiment appears to be somewhat divided as to the jury's finding. The state had made out a case, and the verdict of acquittal was not generally looked for, although the state's attorney had not been able to establish a motive for the act charged.

JAW IS SHOT AWAY.

Farmer Near Williston Wounds Self Accidentally or Intentionally.

Williston, N. D., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—His jaw torn away, and his face so terribly lacerated by a charge of shot, fired at close range, either accidentally or with suicidal intent, Arthur Clay is in a local hospital, and may die.

Clay procured the shotgun and, going to the barn, made no explanation for taking the gun. Later an explosion was heard, and when Mrs. Clay reached the barn, she found her husband lying on the floor, half his face shot away.

ADVOCATE LICENSE IN CLAY COUNTY

Three Lines of Argument Advanced Against Making County Dry.

Fargo, N. D., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Three lines of argument are being used by the license interests here to prevent a "dry" victory at the Clay county option election to be held Monday, May 17. One of these is to the residents of the dry belt in Clay county outside of Moorhead to the effect that many of the residents of the dry parts of the county, while they don't want saloons in their own home villages and vicinity, still like a drink occasionally and are accommodated by a place being nearby where they can secure a supply. It is pointed out that counties on each side may go dry and those wanting a shipment of liquor will then be compelled to send to the Twin Cities or Duluth and pay considerably more than they would locally.

Revenue Question.

To the local taxpayers the argument is made that no provision has been made for the expenses of Moorhead's government after July 1, depending on the liquor licenses, and that the whole matter should be allowed to go over at least another year until a levy could be made, otherwise the town would be bankrupt between July 1 and next spring when taxes came due. To the merchants of Moorhend the argument is made that the newery agencies and saloons are closed hundreds of people drawing good wages will be out of employment and not have the funds to purchase goods as at present.

The concensus of opinion here and largely in Moorhead is that the drys will win, but that the majority will be much less than it would have been two months ago.

ENERGETIC WIDOW.

Adams, N. D., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Left twenty years ago widowed and with a number of children, Mrs. Ritchie B. Doherty assumed the responsibility of raising the large family and continuing the publication of the paper at Michigan City which her husband had edited. She later removed the plant here. The children have grown up, some of them were given university educations, some are married, one daughter is postmistress here and two sons are editors of newspapers. Her plant has been shipped to the western part of the state, where a new paper will be established by her youngest son, as Mrs. Doherty has permanently abandoned the newspaper business.

GOVERNOR WILL SPEAK

At the Annual Meeting of Railway Development Association.

St. Paul, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the annual meeting of the Railway Development association, which will open here tomorrow and conclude Thursday these subjects will be considered:

The cultivation of irrigated lands, growing of various farm crops, sufficient marketing of foodstuffs, immigration and colonization with respect to the activities of the industrial department of the railways are among the subjects which will be discussed on the opening day of the convention by recognized authorities, and proper care of live stock and other phases of profitable farming.

At the annual dinner of the organization the guest of honor will be Governor W. S. Hammond of Minnesota, who will tell of the methods employed in the development of this commonwealth. Other speakers include former Governor A. O. Eberhart, Allen D. Albert "Publicity," and Prof. A. F. Woods, president of the Minnesota State Agricultural college, "Agricultural Education Work."

L. J. Bricker, general immigration agent, Northern Pacific railway, is chairman of the committee of local railroad men which has charge of the convention and reception of delegates in St. Paul. F. H. La Baume of the Norfolk & Western railway, Roanoke, Va., is president of the association.

ATTORNEY GENERAL COMMENDS Y. M. C. A.

Cloquet, Minn., May 10.—Special to The Herald.) — Lyndon A. Smith, attorney general of Minnesota, speaking at the local Y. M. C. A. yesterday on the work of the organization, praised it as of inestimable benefit to humanity, its influence, he said, being felt all over the world. The Y. M. C. A., he said, made up for what the state failed to do in the way of religious training as the state was not permitted to mingle in religion. The speaker said in general terms that the Y. M. C. A. takes from and leads from the worst toward the better. He recited how the state of Minnesota each year endeavors to do more for the individual than in the year preceding, "for," said he, "the welfare of the individual is the ultimate end of the state." It was a carrying out of the law "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." He referred to the state's wards—the deaf, the dumb, the blind and mentally defective. The care of these, he said, was as well conducted as by any state in the union. He said it was to be regretted that there is such a demand for the institutions taking care of those who need correctional methods. For the indeterminate sentence and the parole law the speaker had high praise.

"Cloquet is peculiarly adapted to the work of the Y. M. C. A.," concluded the speaker. "There is great need here for watching the young men to ascertain what there is in them—what is best in them—what is best for them.

"Those influenced most strongly by the Y. M. C. A. will be among the leaders of your community. There is no more valuable asset than the young man."

HANNA IS SILENT AS TO SPECIAL SESSION

Fargo, N. D., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Hanna has returned after a vacation trip in Florida.

The governor declined to make any statement as to whether he would call a special session of the legislature. He said a month's absence from the state had put him out of touch with local conditions and it would require a few days for him to gather up the ends of things.

During his absence referendum petitions have been circulated against fourteen of the bills passed by the legislature. Those behind the circulation of these petitions claim to have a sufficient number of signatures and there appears to be little doubt about that.

Muffins

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine.

When muffins are on the breakfast table, nobody cares for meat or eggs and they would be served more often if this meal were not prepared so hurriedly that there is no time to make them. If K C, the double-raise baking powder is used, the batter may be stirred up the night before, put in the pan ready for baking and nothing to do in the morning but bake them.

One-Egg Muffins

2 cups flour; 2 slightly rounded teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; 1 teaspoonful salt; ½ cup sugar; ¼ cup melted butter or lard; 1 egg; 1 cup water or milk.

Sift dry ingredients together three times. Add to this the unbeaten egg, melted shortening and water or milk. Then beat all together until perfectly smooth. Oil muffin or gem pans and have oven slow until the muffins come to the top of the pan, then increase the heat to bake and brown the muffins. This recipe makes 12 large muffins. Raisins or currants may be added if desired.

Graham Muffins

1 cup graham flour; 1 cup pastry flour; 2 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; 1 to 2 level tablespoonfuls sugar; ½ teaspoonful salt; 1 egg; 1¼ cups milk or water; 2 to 3 tablespoonfuls melted butter; mix and bake as One-Egg Muffins.

Graham batter should always be quite soft to insure light and moist muffins.

To get 88 other recipes as good as these, send us the certificate packed in every 25-cent can of K C Baking Powder, and we will send you "The Cook's Book" by Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill. Handsomely illustrated. Jaques Mfg. Co., Chicago.

Jamestown, N. D., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Indications are that S. G. Syvertson, state bank examiner of North Dakota, will be one of the principal witnesses at the trial of H. H. Wheelock, A. W. Schroeder and C. S. Barber, when their cases come before the Stutsman county district court.

The trial of the three men will take place at the term which opens in Jamestown about June 15. They are all charged with accpeting deposits in the Medina State bank when they knew the bank to be insolvent.

Boosts Larimore Tubers.

Larimore, N. D., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Larimore, as a result of the "baked potato" day at the San Francisco exposition, is in line to greatly increase the market for its tubers, according to Edgar L. Richter, editor of the Larimore Pioneer, who represented Larimore at the big potato festival.

GREAT SEASON IN SIGHT FOR DULUTH BOAT CLUB

Success of the Park Point Organization Has Been Phenomenal—Has Always Stood for the Best in Sport and Progressive Citizenship—1915 Season at Hand—Jack Kennedy Crack All-Round Athlete.

BY BRUCE.

THE Duluth Boat club's athletic activities for the 1915 sporting season are about to open. Among the fervid list can be included rowing, sailing, canoeing, tennis, water polo and that rough and violent game, volley ball.

Of all the clubs and institutions of this city, there is none that represents more fully or in a more typical sense the city of Duluth and its citizens than the Duluth Boat club. Democratic, progressive, animated by the highest motives and inspired by the real ideals, the boat club stands for clean sport, a progressive spirit of citizenship and a better and greater Duluth.

Starting its existence in the old frame building at the foot of Sixth avenue west, the membership of the club increased magically from a few men interested in rowing to a huge membership list that embraces the best and most prominent citizens—men who are interested in every phase of the commercial and industrial life of the city.

In tracing the phenomenal growth of the Duluth Boat club, credit must be given to the energetic spirit of its original members and to Julius H. Barnes. No more enthusiastic band of boosters ever worked for any club than those who organized the boat club and then stood loyally behind it and promoted its growth.

Mr. Barnes early conceived the idea of a greater club than some of his associates dreamed of. With characteristic energy and foresight he planned and builded well. Today the city of Duluth has the largest fresh water rowing club in the United States, and again, thanks to Julius H. Barnes, the greatest club crews in the country.

The annual elecion of the club will be held tomorrow evening at the main house. The election will start off the 1915 season. Both officials and members of the club are of the belief that the season about to start will be the most prosperous in the history of the boat club.

Additions are being made to the tennis courts, new boats have been secured for the crews, additions are to be made to the sailing fleet, while the financial affairs of the club have been placed in very good condition. The Duluth Boat club should start the 1915 season in excellent shape and the progress of the season should be marked by the greatest success that has ever been achieved by the Park Point organization.

It is the members of the club that in the end dictates its success—every member of the boat club, an organization not of the few but of the many, should figuratively gird up his loins and go forth and boost.

The club needs new members and it wants all of its old members—get out and get under.

An Actor Athlete.

JACK KENNEDY, a vaudeville headliner at one of the local theaters this week, is one of the most remarkable all-round athletes in his profession.

Years ago Mr. Kennedy was a crack amateur boxer: he was so good, in fact, that he was prevailed upon to enter the professional ranks and fought for several years as a lightweight.

To prove his versatility, or perhaps responding to a love for the same, young Kennedy started playing baseball. Kennedy's start was made in a small town in Wisconsin. Connie Mack came to the Milwaukee club of the old Western league as manager about this time, and he secured the services of Kennedy along with "Ginger" Beaumont and a host of other youngsters, including Claude Elliott, who has umpired in the Northern league for several seasons.

Kennedy pitched, played first base and occasionally the outfield. From baseball Kennedy leaped to the stage and after becoming an actor took up golf.

As a professional golf player—for he is listed with the professionals—Kennedy ranks well along. Only recently, while on his present vaudeville tour, the actor athlete defeated the professional instructor of the Denver Country club, turning in a card of 41 going out and 35 coming home. As the par of the Denver club is 40, it will be seen that Kennedy played some game coming home.

While in Duluth Mr. Kennedy will take some turns over the Northland links. Richard Clarkson has agreed to take the visiting actor-golfist over the Northland course several times.

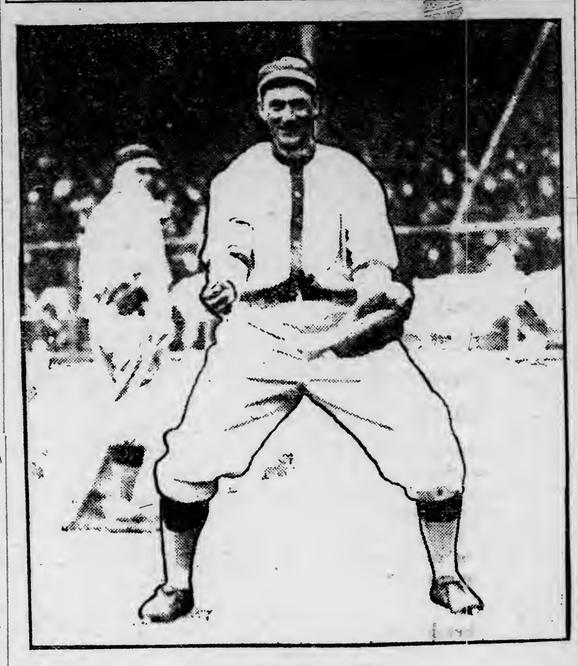
In discussing Connie Mack yesterday, Kennedy declared that his experience under the present leader of the Athletics was enough to convince him that the lank Irishman was one of the mental giants of baseball.

"Mack plays the bame like a great chess player works out the problems on the board," declared Mr. Kennedy. "A great chess player talks but little; that goes for Mack. The greatest hitter in the world might start for the bat when the fans in the bleachers would be expecting him to hit her out. Mack might say, 'Lay it down,' and if the man failed to obey Mack he would be withered by a certain something, mentality or whatever it is, that Make possesses.

"Connie Mack is one of the closest managers in baseball. He pays his players little money. He gets them when they are young for the most part and some way keeps them, although it is a fact that the Athletics were one of the poorest paid teams in the majors.

"As a manager there is no doubt in the world of the class of Connie Mack. He is a wonder man, a remarkably close student of the game, and one of the greatest tacticians the game has as yet produced."

PROMISING YOUNG BACKSTOP



GEORGE WILLIAMS.

Williams has been doing some nice work behind the bat for Washington this season and has also been clouting the pill. Griffith thinks well of the youngster. The Old Fox is depending somewhat on young ball players, and of these Williams looks like one of the most promising.

Louisville, Ky., May 10.—Harry Payne Whitney's chestnut filly, Regret, ridden by Jockey J. Notter, won the Kentucky derby, valued at approximately $15,000, at Churchill Downs here Saturday.

Winnipeg, Man., May 10.—Winnipeg pried open the baseball season here Saturday by staging an eighth inning rally, and by scoring six runs defeated Duluth 7 to 6. More than 6,000 people filled the mammoth new stand. After a street parade, Mayor Waugh tossed over the first ball. Poor support put Roy Patterson in the hole at the start, but hard hitting beat Boley in the eighth. Score:

MAYOR PRINCE PITCHES AT AMATEUR LEAGUE OPENER

Board of Trades Defeat Patricks and Street Railway Team Humbles Canadian Northerns—Moose Defeated in Sunday's Game.

While the weather had a lowering aspect and a hoarse wind howled and wailed about Athletic park, nevertheless the grand opening of the Duluth Baseball league was observed Saturday.

Mayor Prince hurled the first ball and made a wild pitch. His honor has had little opportunity to warm up this spring, he not being running for office, and his wild heave can be excused.

The Board of Trade team defeated the F. A. Patricks by the count of 3 to 1. The game was a corker, all the more credit belonging to the members of the teams when it is taken into consideration that it was the first game of the season and that it was played under unfavorable weather conditions.

Young Forziach of the grain traders pitched a remarkable game, holding the woolen weavers to three hits.

Lovell Miller, the colored boy who was formerly the mascot of the Pittsburgh Pirates, umpired the game and made a hit with the fans. The kid is there, both as to uniform and manner of running the game. Score:

Another Duluth Amateur league game was played yesterday, the Duluth Edisons defeating the Moose team by the one-sided score of 9 to 1. Alder held the Moose hitters to two weeney little blows and but for errors behind him would have blanked the opposition. Hansen was found for a total of eight hits, while the support of his mates was not all that it might have been.

REAL RACES AT REGATTA

Ten Eyck's Men Show Form in Spite of Bad Sea.

Senior Eight Is Picked That May Row Through Season.

Cold weather and a choppy sea somewhat interfered with the work of the Duluth Boat club oarsmen in the weekly regatta, held over the St. Louis bay course Saturday afternoon.

There was a cross wind blowing over the course and the oarsmen found it extremely hard to keep their shells out of the trough of the waves. Some excellent work was done when the earliness of the season and the bad going were taken into consideration.

Roy Kent won rather easily from Gus Grant in the single sculls. The heavy going was against Grant, as he has had less experience than big Roy.

Kent handled his blades well and went along in nice fashion. The big fellow is being groomed for the national championship sculls along with Walter Hoover, and his work thus early in the season is gratifying to Ten Eyck.

McQuade's junior eight defeated the boat stroked by Nelson by a length. At the end of the first minute and a half of rowing Nelson's eight led by a length and a half. At this point the boat ran into a plank. The board rode the bow of the boat for quite a distance, retarding the progress and placing Nelson's crew back.

The bantam race was a real contest all the way. There was not more than half a length between the two boats all the way down the mile and a quarter course. The crew stroked by Swanson finished ahead by the scant margin of three feet. The bantam race was one of the best races of the day.

Max Rheinberger stroked a mixed eight to victory over "Fat" Hall's crew, the margin of victory being but a length. Three men in the bow of Hall's eight were somewhat handicapped by limited experience. Despite this Hall's men made a great race of it all the way down the course and made a valiant spurt in front of the long stand.

The New Senior Eight.

With Forrestal at bow, Forsell, 2; B. Hagberg, 3; Hall, 4; Hoover, 5; Kent, 6; D. Moore, 7, and Horak, stroke, Jimmy Ten Eyck yesterday started a crew that may row throughout the present season as the senior eight.

"This crew should be fully as good as the senior eight of last season," said James today. "Whiteside will be back and we also expect Osman. But just as this eight stands now it looks like a winner."

P. Moore and Max Rheinberger start-

REVIEW OF LAST WEEK'S PLAYS IN BIG LEAGUES, CLOSE CONTESTS

New York, May 10.—Major league baseball enters a new phase for the season with the week just beginning. The opening battles of East against East and West are over and the intersectional contests are beginning. The real test of mettle is due and the next fortnight of play is likely to give a remarkably accurate idea of the relative strength of the sections of each league, as well as show far more conclusively than at present what the chances of the individual teams are for pennant honors.

In contrast with the storm and stress of the preceding seven days, last week was comparatively barren of features.

In the National league, Chicago supplied the chief interest, taking a fairly firm hold on second place and working to within one game of Philadelphia, who, though still leading, have slumped badly.

Champions Showing Form.

Meanwhile the Boston Braves are making much better progress than last year at this stage, and they, too, are compelling early season attention. Cincinnati is managing to stick in the first division, despite reverses. Pittsburgh and New York did the best work of the season, the Giants showing something liko their old form for the first time this season.

In the American league, Detroit gained the leadership, renewing its spurt of the season's first ten days, but the New Yorkers, whom Jennings' men displaced, are playing fine ball and are still close behind the Tigers, and the Chicago White Sox were let down somewhat, barely holding their own. Boston is about half way in games won and lost, the team going somewhat faster than previously.

The Washingtons are having a hard time of it, losing four out of five games last week and losing Sunday to Detroit. Cleveland has been doing better than expected, while the Athletics have been picking up.

Milwaukee Coming Up.

Milwaukee's great spurt was a feature of the week in the American association. The champions climbed from seventh place to third, winning their seventh straight game on Saturday.

To no one thing can the winning streak which started a week ago yesterday be attributed. Tight pitching by Dougherty and Shakelford stopped St. Paul Sunday and Monday; after a day's rest, the Brewers downed the Saints Wednesday; and Young's pitching gave Milwaukee an easy victory over Kansas City on Thursday; Shakelford held the Blues on Friday, while the champions profited by Delhi's wildness to run their count up to an even half dozen. Slapnicka outpitched Delhi on Saturday and made it seven straight, while Kansas City stopped the spurt yesterday.

Leaders Meet.

In the meantime Indianapolis and Louisville, after taking a majority of the series from Columbus and Cleveland, respectively, began an exciting set. Again Northrop showed to advantage and the Colonels took the opening game. Indianapolis turned the tables in the second game. A ninth inning batting rally gave Indianapolis the third on Saturday, and Louisville evened it up yesterday.

The race in the Federal league continues close with frequent changes in the leadership. Last week Pittsburgh forged ahead, working into the lead while the other rivals for the position were killing off each other's chances.

A notable incident of the week was the return of Benny Kauff, chief figure in the complications of the week before, to active duty with the Brooklyns. It was on the Brooklyn field also that the first by-play of the season was executed by St. Louis.

QUAIL IN CAVALIER.

Game Birds Appear to Thrive in North Dakota County.

Milton, N. D., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Quail are being found in Cavalier county in considerable numbers. They are supposed to be some that were turned loose near Walhalla in Pembina county some years ago and thought to have been entirely exterminated. They have evidently survived and worked their way into the rough and brushy sections of the county. The farmers are so elated over their presence they will make an effort to protect and feed them this winter. There is no open season for shooting quail in this state and the birds will have plenty of opportunity to propagate as the sportsmen and game wardens will endeavor to protect them for the next few years.

NEW RECORD SET IN ONE-GALLON TEST

Peacha Makes 35.2 This Year Against 32.7 Last Spring.

Beating his 1914 record and easily exceeding the national average, Joseph T. Peacha, Jr., local Franklin agent, went 35.2 miles in the one-gallon national efficiency test conducted by 137 Franklin dealers in all parts of the country.

The final results of the nation-wide test show that the general average was 22.1 miles on one gallon of gasoline. Last year the average was 32.8, while Mr. Peacha's mark last year was 32.7. In addition to making a much better run than last year, the local agent deserves considerable credit for reaching such a high mark in a drizzling rain and wind that were especially unfavorable for the test.

Louis Heuschneider drove the car and the test was officially observed by A. B. Kapplin of The Herald automobile department, and Henry J. Mullin, secretary of the Duluth Auto club. Mr. Peacha, Jr., ran a pilot car to keep Fourth street, on which the run was made, free from cars and teams, as the Franklin did not stop once during the entire afternoon.

An analysis of the reports proves that it is possible for a six-cylinder car to travel 155 miles on one single gallon of fuel. This is the high record of the demonstration, secured at New Haven, Conn., under the official supervision of Professors Lockwood and Prentice of Yale university. The lowest record came from Oil City, Pa., where the cold weather and heavy road conditions were extremely unfavorable.

The details show that a wide variance of road and weather conditions were met with on the various tests. In 15 per cent of the territories there was rainfall, in thirty localities a high wind before the single gallon was exhausted. At Walla Walla, Wash., and Ishpeming, Mich., where good roads are conspicuous by their absence, mileages of 34.2 and 27.9, respectively, were obtained.

Widespread general interest has been created by the Franklin test because of what it shows motorists from the standpoint of efficiency. Engineers have always recognized the fact that anything that affects the proper running of a car eventually shows up in greater consumption of gasoline than necessary, and a test like that promoted by the Franklin throws additional light on the subject in a practical way. This demonstration brings into prominence the effect on gasoline consumption of such factors as the type of motor, the questions of design, workmanship and material, weight, tires; in fact, the efficiency of the automobile as a complete unit.

ONE COPPER CENT ALL ROBBERS GOT

Highwaymen Strike West Duluthian With Butt of Revolver.

One red copper cent of 1892 vintage was the net proceeds of a holdup at Sixty-second avenue and Grand early Sunday morning.

Fred Sutherland and C. J. Wicks, 128 South Sixty-second avenue west, were the two victims, the latter being deprived of the cent, all he happened to have in his pockets. The holdups escaped.

In the report made to police by Sutherland, it was stated that the men carried guns, and that one of them struck him with the butt of his revolver, knocking him into the street. In the melee which followed he made his escape, but Wicks was held.

They were unable to give police a complete description of the thugs.

BROTHERS REUNITED AFTER THIRTY-FIVE YEARS

Separated in Kiev, Russia, thirty-five years ago, Matt Shenowsky and his brother Joseph, now prosperous grocers of Duluth and Chicago, respectively, are visiting one another for the first time.

Although each knew of the other's whereabouts, they did not see each other until Saturday, when the Chicago man paid a visit to Duluth as the result of a two months' correspondence.

Joseph left Kiev in 1880 and came to America, establishing himself in the grocery business at Marinette, Wis. Later he moved to Chicago. In 1890 his brother, Matt, left Russia, came to Duluth, and finally also went into the grocery business.

The Shenowsky family will have a celebration in honor of the long-absent Chicago brother.

MOTORCYCLIST STRIKES AUTO

Two Harbors Man Seriously Injured as Result of Collision.

While driving along the Duluth-Two Harbors road at a high rate of speed early Sunday morning Edward Freeman of Two Harbors lost control of his motorcycle and plunged into an automobile driven by F. A. Gross, 5808 London road.

Because of the speed of the motorcycle Mr. Gross turned to the right, giving Freeman almost a clear road, but the smaller vehicle jumped clear across the road, striking the right side of the automobile and damaging it considerably. The accident happened a short distance this side of French River.

Dr. Peter Kraft, 412 Eleventh avenue east, who was in the auto with Mr. Gross, cared for the motorcyclist's injuries, and took him to St. Luke's hospital. He sustained a fracture of the right knee cap and several severe bruises.

"It was a miracle that he was not hurt more than he was," declared Dr. Kraft, "as he was going fast enough to have been killed or at least seriously injured, if he had hit our machine more squarely."

HIBBING WOMAN COMMITS SUICIDE

Uses Revolver After Son Shows Her How to Cock It.

Hibbing, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—After learning to manipulate a revolver from her 12-year-old son, Mrs. Hannah Carlson, age 35, put the gun in her mouth and pulled the trigger yesterday afternoon at 6 o'clock. She fired twice. Death was instantaneous.

The reports of the revolver were heard by M. Eldred, who occupies the flat above Mrs. Carlson's at 414 Center street. He found the body laying on the floor, one hand still holding the smoking revolver. Deputy Coroner F. W. Bullen declared it was a clear case of suicide, and that no inquest was necessary. The body was removed to Barrett's undertaking rooms.

The motive for the act is supposed to be despondency. Mrs. Carlson had been separated from her husband, Earnest Carlson, an employe of the Winston-Dear Stripping company, for the last year and one half. She had instituted proceedings for divorce in district court here, charging him with cruelty. This, Mr. Carlson, in an answer had denied and alleged that she had had illicit relations with other men. He had tried to prove his allegations with the sworn statements of local policemen. The case was to come up in the June term of district court here, and this fact, it is believed, caused her to act as she did.

Recently Met Husband.

Earnest Carlson said that he had not seen his wife for more than three weeks. Then, he said, he met her accidentally on the street and they conversed for some time. She has been keeping house at 414 Center street and doing odd jobs about town for the support of herself and her two children. Louis Jensen, who saw her shortly before the shooting, declared that she complained of having severe pains about the shoulder and neck.

Earnest, her 12-year-old son, had showed her how to cock and discharge the 32-caliber revolver which she kept in the house, presumably for burglars. He had left the house and was about a block down the street when he heard the first shot. He hastened back, but when he arrived, his mother was dead. Two boys, one age 12, the other 8, survive.

CHISHOLM NINE BEATS HIBBING

Brady's Colts Shut Out in Game Resulting 1 to 0.

Hibbing, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A free pass to first by Withers, a two-base hit by Benrud and loose umpiring by W. E. Lyman yesterday afternoon won the game for Chisholm from Brady's Colts by a score of 1 to 0. Despite decisions, which were in some cases quite questionable, the contest was worth watching, both teams playing wonderful ball and both Dahlgren and Withers pitching superbly. The day was ideal for this time of the year. About 1,000 fans attended.

Up to the fifth inning no scores had been made, although in the second and fourth both Hibbing and Chisholm had men on bases and only for sight playing was tallying prevented. Every time local players reached base and threatened to score, a close play and unfortunate decision would throttle this prospect in its embryo.

Chisholm made its lone run in the fifth, when Sharhfer, heading the batting list, was given a free pass to first. Withers had previously to this struck out Dahlgren. Cullis, next hitter, also fanned the air thrice. In the meanwhile, Sharhfer had managed to steal second base. With two gone, Benrud, last year backstop for the Superior Northern league team, clouted the ball for two bases and Sharhfer crossed the plate.

HIBBING MOURNING BIG-HEARTED CHIEF

Passing of Chief of Police McFayden Is Deeply Regretted.

Hibbing, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Commonly known as the "biggest-hearted man on the range," Archie McFayden, chief of police here for the last two years, died Saturday evening at 6:20 o'clock at the Rood hospital, following an illness of tuberculosis for more than a year. The chief lost consciousness at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and his death was expected.

He returned last week from Tucson, Ariz., where he went in the futile hope of regaining his health, which has been ailing for the last two years. Funeral arrangements are being arranged by the Elks lodge here, of which the chief was a decidedly popular member.

Native of Canada.

The chief was born forty-seven years ago in Canada. He came to the range twenty years ago from Marshall, Minn., where he was operating a livery stable. He was connected with the Itasca Bazar at Grand Rapids and when that firm nineteen years ago extended its activities to Hibbing, McFayden had charge of the men's furnishing department. Later he managed a clothing store for D. D. McEachin, formerly village treasurer here, at Chisholm. He was employed off and on by Mr. McEachin until four years ago when he took over the management of the Oliver hotel. He was manager of this hostelry until April, 1913, when he was appointed chief of police by Mayor V. L. Power. When the chief first came to Hibbing he played ball several years on the Hibbing nine and still has friends in many cities and villages in the state which he made during the old baseball trips. Several times during the last twenty years he has made trips to the Pacific coast for his health. Not until the last few months, however, was the seriousness of his condition realized.

Mayor Lauds Chief.

Mayor V. L. Power, speaking of Chief McFayden, characterized him as giving everything away that he ever had. "He was liberal to a fault," Mr. Power said.

Since he was appointed chief of police he gave dinners every Thanksgiving or Christmas for the prisoners and lodgers at the police station.

Surviving the chief is a cousin, J. C. McIntyre, Bank of Commerce building, Minneapolis. He has a cousin living in the West end, Duluth, and two in Winnipeg.

WANTS $35,000 FROM VIRGINIA

Large Damage Suit Started By Farmer Comes Up Tuesday.

Virginia, Minn., May 10.(Special to The Herald.)—One of the largest damage suits tried here in months will be called in district court before Judge Hughes tomorrow and will probably occupy a good share of the balance of the week.

A farmer named Grochau, living on the shores of Three Mile lake, situated about three miles from the city, wants $25,000 damages from the city of Virginia for alleged pollution of the waters of the lake by the city sewage. Attorney McMahon of this city represents the plaintiff, while City Attorney Montague appears for the city.

PEERS HAS APPEALED TO HIGHER COURT

Virginia Meat Dealer to Test City Council's Authority.

Virginia, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Notice has been served upon City Attorney R. J. Montague that an appeal will be taken in the contempt case brought by the city of Virginia against Robert Peers, a local meat dealer, to the supreme court, through his attorney, George F. Shea.

Mr. Peers, who is one of the proprietors of the Virginia Meat company, and an alleged member of the supposed meat trust, was ordered placed under arrest by the city council for contempt in refusing to produce certain invoices regarding the prices he had been paying for meats, which was brought out during the investigation of so-called meat trust.

Peers appealed to Judge Martin Hughes of the district court on a writ of habens corpus to dissolve proceedings against him and on April 3 the court ordered that Peers be remanded back to the municipal court officer of Virginia. Peers was never locked up, but was allowed his liberty on his own recognizance. He did, however, enter jail, but was not allowed to remain there by the court officials.

In the meantime the meat investigation will be continued by a call of the president, Alderman Fred Mollan.

ELY BUTCHER HAS FINGERS CUT OFF

Attempts to Remove Bone From Electrical Meat Grinder.

Ely, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph Slogar of the firm of Slogar Bros. had four fingers on his left hand cut off last evening in an electrical meat grinder. A piece of bone became lodged in the machinery and Mr. Slogar was trying to remove the bone, and when he accidentally switched on the electrical current while his hand was in the machine his hand became caught. Slogar is working today, but is very weak from loss of blood. Slogar was married about two years ago and has one child.

BAJARA LOSES CASE.

Jury Finds No Cause for Action in Damage Suit.

Virginia, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Christian Bajari, who threw a fit when papers in a damage suit was served on him by Edward Anderson, and who charged the former with having started a forest fire which spread and did considerable damage to his property, was not given a verdict in his action to recover $5,000 from Anderson. The jury in district court found no cause for action. Bajara claimed that he had been subject to epileptic fits and that when Anderson served papers upon him, he went at it in such a rough manner as to cause him to throw another one, the effects of which resulted in his being seriously ill for some time.

The case of the Remington Typewriter company against H. L. Shephard of Hibbing, which was started Friday afternoon, was continued until this morning. The compnay is seeking to recover from Shephard the value of a machine which it sold to him.

GILBERT TEAM BEATEN.

Lose Opening Game of Season to Virginia Team.

Gilbert, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The opening game of the season was played Sunday afternoon between the local team and the Daily Virginians of Virginia and the locals were defeated 12 to 6. The game was full of errors from start to finish and showed that neither team had had enough practice. A very large number of rooters were present.

The Gilbert Commercial band furnished the music during the game and both teams marched to the grounds, headed by the band. The Virginia battery was Swanson, Rolaff, Schrader and Johnson; battery for Gilbert, James and Roberts.

New Chisholm School Opened.

Chisholm, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Despite disagreeable weather the attendance at the informal opening of the new high school Friday evening was large and the exhibition of domestic science, manual training, millinery, drawing and general school work enjoyed by almost 1,000 parents and friends of the pupils. The school board members and Supt. Vaughan, assisted by members of the teaching corps received the guests.

EVELETH PEOPLE GET INJUNCTION

Stop Gilbert From Taking Water From Ely Lake.

Gilbert, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Work on the new water supply from Ely lake was brought to a sudden halt Saturday afternoon when a temporary restraining order issued by Judge Hughes on the petition of Mike Kronin and other Eveleth people was served on Frank Barret, village president, and other village officials. The order is returnable before Judge Hughes, June 5, at Hibbing. Meanwhile all work on the proposed system is halted.

Kronin and his associates allege that if Gilbert is permitted to use the waters of Ely lake for municipal purposes, it will materially lower the lake level and destroy the value of the lake as an amusement resort.

Kronin has expended several thousand dollars in the last few months improving his summer resort at the lake and declares that his property would be seriously damaged.

He was drowned in the Little Fork river Saturday morning while crossing the stream in a canoe, to work for a farmer living across the stream. The canoe capsized in midstream and the sole occupant was unable to reach the shore. The body was recovered late yesterday and brought to a local morgue. As Pillika leaves a family in destitute circumstances, the county may have to conduct the funeral.

Mr. Pertula has a wife, one daughter and two sons, also a widowed mother, Mrs. Jacob Pertula. All are pioneer residents of this city. Pertula's children have grown to manhood and womanhood in this city. Pertula, who is about 45 years of age, is in a critical condition at the Shipman hospital.

Most Old People Are Constipated

The wear of years impairs the action of the bowels. With advancing age people are disposed to restricted activity and exercise, which is responsible for the constipated conditions of most old folks. The digestive organs are more sensitive to the demands made upon them and rebel more quickly.

A mild, effective remedy for constipation, and one that is especially suited to the needs of elderly people, women and children, is the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin that is sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. A free trial bottle can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 452 Washington St., Monticello, Ills.

EATING BETWEEN MEALS

Do you know that the stomach needs rest regularly and that eating between meals is a common cause of indigestion?

Do you know what happens when you eat more than you can digest? What relation billiousness has to overeating?

Do you know that when the blood gets thin the digestion becomes weak, that good digestion is impossible unless the blood is rich and red, such blood as comes from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills?

These tonic pills and proper care in the diet will change dyspeptic, despondent, dragged-out people into energetic, hungry, cheerful men and women because Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build up the blood, making the stomach able to secrete the needed digestive fluids, and strengthen the nerves that control the delicate processes of digestion.

After you begin taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the first sign of returning health is usually an increased appetite. Then you find that what you eat causes no distress and if you exercise a reasonable amount of care in the selection of your food you will have no more trouble.

Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and a diet book called "What to Eat and How to Eat" will be sent free on request by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

PASTOR TO FACE SLAVERY CHARGE

James Darnell to Be Tried for Violating Mann Act.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 10.—The trial of James Morrison Darnell, former pastor of a Kenosha, Wis., church, charged with having transported Miss Ruth Soper from her home in Owatonna, Minn., to Chicago, thence to Kenosha, in violation of the Mann white slave act, was slated to begin in Federal court this afternoon, being advanced a day from the time originally set.

The government, it is said, expects to present twenty witnesses from points in New Jersey, Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

Among those who will appear at the trial will be Miss Ethel Spurgeon of Avon, Ill., whom Darnell is alleged to have introduced as his wife in Owatonna, Minn., three years ago, when he assumed a pastorate there; Miss Ruth Soper, whom he is alleged to have called his wife while in Kenosha, Wis., and Miss Doris Vaughn, Chicago, to whom he was married and subsequently divorced. Clergymen, newspapermen, lawyers, county officials and boarding house keepers are among those who have been cited to appear.

It is expected that the afternoon and perhaps part of Tuesday will be taken up in securing a jury.

Following an indictment by a Federal grand jury in Chicago on eight counts he was brought here and upon arraignment pleaded not guilty.

He was remanded to the county jail in default of $5,000 bail.

TWO NASHWAUK MEN DISAPPEAR

Came to Duluth With $600 to Buy an Automobile.

Since Saturday Duluth and Superior police have been searching for Anton Holman, 26, and John Waara, 19, two Nashwauk young men, who disappeared with $600, the Holman family savings, on Wednesday.

Foul play is feared by police, who have made every effort to locate the missing men following the receipt of a letter from Mrs. Holman imploring Chief Troyer to help her find her son.

According to Mrs. Holman Anton took the $600 and left Nashwauk to come to Duluth, where he intended to buy an automobile. He was to drive back to Nashwauk upon purchasing the car. That was the last that was heard of them.

The older man is described as fair complexioned, of medium height, with light hair and blue eyes. When last seen he wore a blue suit, dark brown woolen shirt, tan-colored raincoat and a soft black hat. The Waara boy's height is 5 feet, 4 inches. He has dark brown hair, blue eyes, light complexion. He wore a black suit, dark brown mackinaw and soft black hat.

Recipes for Wrinkles and Bad Complexions

Of all the beauty recipes that have been published, here are two that have successfully stood the test of time:

Wrinkle Remover—One ounce powdered saxolite, dissolved in ½ pint witch hazel. Use as a wash lotion. It brings instantaneous results.

Face Peeler—Pure mercolized wax, applied at night like cold cream, only not rubbed in; wash off in the morning. It causes the wornout scarf skin to come off in tiny, almost invisible flakes, a little each day, until the fresh young under-skin is wholly in evidence. The beautiful rose-tinted complexion thus obtained is not to be compared with one made over with cosmetics. If the old skin is marred with freckles, pimples or other blemishes, these defects are, of course, discarded with the skin itself. An ounce of the wax is sufficient in any case.

The ingredients named are inexpensive and can be found in any drug store.—Advertisement.

Hamilton Wright Mabie, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, Hamilton Holt and S. Parkes Cadman are among those who will speak at summer meetings on peace.

Specialists from Harvard, Yale, Columbia, Princeton and other large institutions of learning have been engaged to lecture in nearly seventy universities, colleges and normal schools on international law and relations, South American affairs and Spanish conditions.

ANOTHER AMERICAN ARRESTED; SEARCHING FOR BODY

Lindall T. Bates Taken on Charge of Espionage But Soon Released.

Queenstown, May 10.—Lindell T. Bates, son of Lindon W. Bates of New York, vice chairman of the American commission for the relief of Belgium, was arrested at Kinsale yesterday on a charge of espionage while searching for the body of his brother, Lindon W. Bates, Jr., who is believed to have perished on the Lusitania. Newton B. Knox, an American mining engineer, who was with Mr. Bates, was taken into custody at the same time.

The sergeant who made the arrests accused them of being officers of a German submarine. After being taken before a captain they were detained at the barracks a half hour until United States Consul Frost at Queenstown vouched for their innocence. Their search of the coast revealed no trace of the body of L. W. Bates, Jr.

The body of Mrs. Anthony Watson of New York has been added to the list of identified American dead, while the name of John Williams, 9 years old, has been included in the list of survivors.

William Webb, the representative of Alfred G. Vanderbilt, wanted to send out a tug last night to continue the search for Mr. Vanderbilt's body, but the admiralty and Cunard line officials discouraged the plan which was abandoned. There is no indication when the search for bodies will be resumed.

Duluth Boys Missing.

"They've gone on a trip, I think," said Mrs. Charles Eden, 4721 Robertson street, this morning, when she reported to police that her son, Charles, 10, with Robert Bonner, had not been seen since Sunday morning. The Bonner boy is the son of C. J. Bonner of the Duluth Directory company, 2536 Cheyselon road.

After waiting for the lads to come home until early this morning, the frantic mother telephoned for police assistance. Charles is light complexioned, with blue eyes and light hair. He wore a mixed brown suit with a blue cap and white waist.

Mrs. Eden did not know the nature of the boys' proposed trip.

WHOOPING COUGH AND MUMPS CAUSED DULUTH TO ACQUIRE BIG COLONY OF HOMELESS CHILDREN

THESE CHILDREN ARE WARDS OF THE STATE.

An epidemic of whooping cough and a siege of mumps have been indirectly responsible for the size of Duluth's colony of homeless babies who have been made wards of the state. At the Children's home little waifs, ranging in age from 1 to 13 years, have been kept for months awaiting an opportunity to be taken to the state public school at Owatonna.

When the chance to remove the youngsters finally came, the colony consisted of twenty-three children. This morning Mrs. H. J. Forgy, deputy probation officer of the juvenile court, and two attendants left for Owatonna with fifteen of them. The others will be taken there later. All have been made wards of the state by the juvenile court and have been committed to the state institution.

Several months ago an epdemic of whooping cough broke out in the state school and orders were sent out that no children would be received there until the epidemic had run its course. When the ban was finally lifted, however, it was discovered that the Duluth youngsters could not be taken there because they were in the midst of a siege of mumps.

When the attack of mumps subsided at the Children's home in this city, the juvenile court officers learned from the state school authorities that the coast was clear and that no epidemics were on at either institution which would prevent the children from being transferred.

Seven of the fifteen children in Mrs. Forgy's party this morning were of the family of Gideon Olnenen, an Ely miner who was killed by a cave-in at the Sibley mine last November. At the time of their father's death their mother was in a hospital for the insane at Fergus Falls, where she is still confined. The death of Olnenen threw his children upon the charity of the world. The Humane society cared for them temporarily and later had them made wards of the state. Since the death of their father they have been kept at the children's home. The children range in age from 13 to 3.

Six of the children who are awaiting to be taken to Owatonna are from another family. Their father and mother are both dead.

CHANGES AT POSTOFFICE

Employes Will Be Freely Shifted During Rush Hours.

Improvements Ordered By Efficiency Commission Take Effect.

Radical changes in the conduct of the business of the Duluth postoffice took effect today, as a result of the visit of the efficiency commission which made its inspection of the local office in February.

"Efficiency and economy" which are spreading watchwords, have hit the postoffice with a loud rap, and the result is conservation of time, which will take many leisure hours away from some of the employes, but which will, it is believed, result in far better service to the public.

The efficiency commission found that in the old style of conducting the postoffice twenty hours time per day was lost in the mailing department—or division, as all departments are now called—and that, consequently, there was much monetary loss to the government through the employing of otherwise unnecessary help. The chief idle time was found in the out-going mail, and some was found in the in-coming mail distribution section. To remedy this, between 4 and 6 o'clock each afternoon one employe in the money order division and one in the registration division will be used in the out-going mail work, and one employe from the stamp division will be used in the out-going mail work between 4 and 8 each afternoon and evening. Also employes of these divisions will be shifted around as it is found there is slack time in their own divisions and a surplus of work in others.

That, in fact, will be the general policy, shifting employes about to meet emergencies in divisions other than those to which they are assigned.

Shifting Policy.

This shifting policy will affect the letter carriers as well. Under the rules a letter carrier who works more than eight hours a day is paid for overtime, and under the new regulations a lot of that overtime pay will be done away with, it is expected. Heretofore a carrier took care of his own mapped-out route and no other. If he got through early, that was his own affair; if he got through late, working more than eight hours, he got overtime. Under the new regulations a carrier having a light run will be required to relieve a carrier having a heavy run of part of his burden, thus equalizing the routes each day by the shifting of unusual work to those having lighter work. It is believed that, aside from the economy which is expected as a result of these changes, the routes will be better taken care of and patrons of the office will find that their incoming mail is delivered more promptly and at an earlier hour, and that their outgoing mail is collected better.

The efficiency commission found that on the days they were here 55,000 outgoing letters were stamped at the local postoffice per day, of which 35,000 or thereabouts were sent out between 3:30 and 7:30 p. m., and that between 5:15 and 7:45 p. m. 61 per cent of the total outgoing mail leaves the office. These are the rush hours when the most shifting of employes will take place.

Change in Hours.

Another important change will affect the hours when stamps may be purchased. Before today the stamp windows were open from 7 o'clock in the morning until 8 o'clock at night. The new regulations will give an hour longer in the evening, but not at the expense of the stamp clerks. The stamp windows will be open an hour and a half less, from 7:30 a. m. to 7 p. m., after which later hour stamps may be purchased at the general delivery windows, which are open until 9 o'clock in the evening.

An important change has also been made in parcel post deliveries. A four-year contract has been entered into with John Regan, who will have charge of all vehicle service. Hereafter screen wagons, instead of being available for outgoing and incoming mail alone, will be used between times for parcel post deliveries, thus increasing that service materially.

Martin M. Meldahl, who has been in the West Duluth postoffice for sixteen years, today took his new position at the Duluth postoffice, as acting supervisor of finance.

An innovation has also been established at the postoffice in the matter of handling mail for large concerns that get mail in large quantities. Heretofore it has been thrown in a general case and from that sorted out by the carriers. Hereafter this mail would be handled only once and placed in the carriers' hands in bundle form. It is expected that each carrier on whose route such places are will save from twenty minutes to half an hour each morning on this mail alone.

BANNER CROP OF HISTORY

Prospects Indicate Tremendous Wheat Yield and High Prices.

Last Year's High Mark Put in Shade By Coming Production.

That United States farmers will probably have a surplus of 400,000,000 bu of wheat to export to Europe this year is forecasted in the department of agriculture's crop estimates as made up to May 1.

The report shows a promise of 693,000,000 bu of winter wheat as against a final estimate of production in 1914 of 634,990,000 bu. Experts estimate the products of the acreage sown to spring wheat this year at about 20,000,000 bu, an increase of 10 per cent over last season. This with an average yield per acre, would bring the production up to approximately 360,000,000 bu., making a total wheat yield for the season of 1,000,000,000 bu., or the largest in the history of the country. As high prices for the crop appear to be certain, it is believed that the farmers of this country should experience an unexampled era of prosperity.

Outlook Most Promising.

Grain men who have made inspection trips over Minnesota and North and South Dakota are of the opinion that the early outlook was never more promising than at present. They are banking a great deal upon the exceptionally good preparation the soil received this season in the way of plowing and other cultivation.

Farmers in Kansas and other Southwestern states are reported to be jubilant over the season's agricultural outlook. Kansas has a prospect for 142,000,000 bu., as compared with 176,000,000 bu. last year, but it is claimed that the acreage sown to other grains has been substantially increased.

Other leading states show a better wheat prospect than a year ago, particularly the Pcific Northwest.

Abandoned Acreage Small.

The abandoned acreage this season was unusually small, being placed at only 1,094,000 acres, or just 2.7 per cent.

According to the government report, the crop this year, on the basis of the present condition, indicates a yield of 33.2 per cent more than two years ago, and 1.2 per cent more than last year's high record. The average price of wheat on the farms throughout the country as a whole on May 1 was $1.39 6-10 compared with 83.9c a bu a year ago.

GUST VOIGHT IS HELD ON POISONING CHARGE

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Gust Voight, arrested last week on the charge of attempting to poison his stepmother, a widow, by sending her poisoned cake, was held to the grand jury after a hearing. Judge Wright will open district court here tomorrow and it is expected an effort will then be made to have Wright released on bail.

SUPERIOR

Will Build Creamery.

Farmers of the town of Superior have about completed plans for the building of a co-operative creamery for their district that will cost them about $5,000. The contract for the building will be let within a short time. Shares for the creamery will be sold among the farmers. More than $3,000 worth of shares have already been pledged among them. The site for the creamery has been selected in South Superior.

Jitney Driver Arrested.

Frank Olson, a jitney bus driver, was arrested Saturday evening on a charge of violating the traffic ordinance in Superior. He was alleged to have run into the gates of a standing street car at Belknap and Tower avenue. In police court he was placed under a suspended sentence. Olson claimed that the brakes on his machine did not work properly and he was unable to bring the machine to a stop before hitting the gates.

Fire Prevention Day.

Fire prevention day is being observed in Superior with a general clean-up of rubbish and other inflammable material about the homes and business blocks of Superior. Fire Chief Johnson has issued a bulletin in which stress is being laid on keeping cleaner surroundings which will greatly prevent the spread of fires.

TO TRACE RUMORS TO THEIR SOURCE

Sending Out of False Stories on Brokers' Wires Severely Condemned.

Chicago, May 10.—President C. H. Canby of the Chicago Board of Trade posted the following notice today:

"The office of the Board of Trade will hold to strict accountability any member found guilty of originating or disseminating false rumors.

"All those operating leased wires are notified that they will be held responsible for any false news circulated by their aid or assistance over said wires."

The notice was inspired by rumors, first spread among brokers that President Wilson had been assassinated. Scores of persons who called up the newspapers gave the board as the source of the rumors which included, as they spread, other prominent men.

A police investigation was started to trace the report, which, while promptly denied, accelerated a decline in the wheat market.

Start Investigation.

New York, May 10.—The governing committee and members of the New York Stock exchange started an investigation today to determine the source of a persistent rumor that President Wilson had been assassinated. The false report caused a violent selling movement which resulted in one of the most severe declines in prices within several days. The decline lasted until an official denial of the rumor was received from Washington shortly after 1 o'clock.

MORAL SUASION.

Motherhood: "Bless me!" said Tommy's great uncle. "Do you mean to say that your teachers never thrash you?"

"Never!" replied Tommy. "We have moral suasion in our school."

"What's that?"

"Oh, we get kep' in, and stood up in corners and locked out and locked in, and made to write one word a thousand times, and scowled at and jawed at; and that's all."

GERMAN ARMY MEETS WITH SEVERE CHECK

London, May 10.—The Exchange Telegraph company publishes a dispatch from its Copenhagen correspondent declaring that the Germans have met a severe check to the westward of Mitau, capital of the Russian province of Courland. Numerous forces of Russians in strong positions compelled them to retreat.

SEVERE BREAKS UPON ALL GRAIN MARKETS

Wheat Rallies Sharply in Late Trading With Exporters' Buying.

Durum Off on Lack of Support—Premium Over Spring Lost.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 10.—The market rallied sharply around the close on buying attributed to exporters and short covering. May wheat closed 1½c off, July 1⅝c off and September ⅝c up. May durum closed 8¾c off, July 9¼c off and September unchanged. Oats closed 1⅝c off at 50⅛@50⅜c for on the track; rye, 3c off at $1.10@1.11, and corn, ⅝c up at 73¼c. There was no market in barley.

At Winnipeg, May oats closed ⅜c off at 61⅝c, and July ⅝c off at 63⅝c. Puts on Minneapolis July wheat closed at $1.30½, and calls at $1.48⅜.

All the props were pulled from under the wheat market today, and general unsettlement ensued. That led to breaks extending to nearly 5c a bu in the near spring wheat futures, and for the first time since Oct. 22 last, durum sold at a discount under spring wheat, its quotation was forced down 10c in both May and July futures. The special weakness in durum was attributed to the fact that May contracts are assumed to have been largely filled or settlements reached.

After showing some spasmodic strength at the start, the market in all grades developed weakness, and it increased as trading proceeded. Toward the close a number of factors contributed. There was general unsettlement over possible political complications through the Lusitania incident, and to accentuate that a rumor was spread that President Wilson had been assassinated.

The American visible supply showed a much smaller decrease than had been expected, 1,109,000 bu in the week. Corn stocks decreased 1,502,000 bu and oats 3,127,000 bu.

All the Southwestern markets were off substantially, cash wheat at Kansas City showing declines of 1@3c, as Minneapolis was relatively as weak as Duluth, the May future there declining 6c, and Chicago May dropped 3½@6c, and Winnipeg did not break as rapidly, the decline there extending to 2½c during the first three hours' trading. Fair export inquiry was reported both there and at the seaboard, foreigners showing an inclination to come in on the low spots.

Grain men are not for a moment overlooking the light old wheat situation, with stocks of only 9,491,000 bu being held in Duluth and Minneapolis elevators as against 24,666,000 bu a year ago.

Wheat opened unchanged at $1.54½, gained ½c, and then broke 5¼c at the noon hour. July opened ⅛c off at $1.50, and broke to $1.46¾. September opened ½c up at $1.21½, and declined 1¾c.

May durum broke 9c to $1.50, after opening unchanged at $1.59. July opened ⅛c off at $1.67½, and declined 9¼c more.

Break in Flaxseed.

Flaxseed was firmly held at the start, advancing fractionally over Saturday's close on good crushers' inquiry. It later turned easy and sold off in sympathy with the other grain markets.

Buenos Aires flax was off ½c, closing at $1.31¾, but London was firm, selling up ¾c to $1.97.

May flax opened unchanged at $2.02¼, and closed 1¾c off at $2.00½, July opened unchanged at $2.04½, and closed 1¾c off at $2.03¾ asked. September opened unchanged at $2.07, and closed 1⅝c off at $2.05½ bid.

At Winnipeg, May flax closed ⅝c off at $1.81⅜ bid, and July ⅝c off at $1.81⅛ asked.

The Tenney company has received the following from Lemmon, S. D.: "We have had plenty of moisture and grain that was sown early came up very quickly. Have had about ten days of cool rains with storms, mostly snow and the later grain has not come as fast. However, I consider our prospects so far ideal and everything is very good. Wheat is about 75 per cent sown. Very little oats or barley in as yet. Rye looks very fine and have a large acreage, at least an increase of 15 per cent over last year. There is fully 25 per cent increase in spring wheat in acreage. This does not take off from the oats and barley, but takes in new ground that was not in last year.

"There is very little ground laying idle this spring. There would have been still more, but farmers had to do much plowing this spring. Of course we are a long way from a crop. We had just as good prospects last year, as we have now, and could not have had better indications of a bumper crop than we had the first of July last year and in three days it was cut down to a 10 bu crop. Nothing counts here until grain is cut."

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Weakness in America Saturday and continued American favorable crop advices, helped to create bearishness here although sentiment is greatly mixed. Spot market was easy, ½@1½d lower with the cargo market nervous, nominally new winter 9d lower and Manitobas and La Platas is lower. American shipments are lighter, but the quota to the United Kingdom was satisfactory. It is believed that recent purchases will assure fair arrivals, and that America will continue to market new crop freely.

"Corn was firm with light La Plata offers, moderate world's shipments and strength in spot."

Le Count wired from Bradley, S. D.: "Spring crops are very early. Soil has all the moisture it can hold. Wheat is looking generally good, plant is fine with stand good. Crops in this territory are decidedly above the average. Condition of wheat in this territory is uniformly good and crop accounts in general are good. Weather is favorable."

C. E. Lewis & Co. had the following closing letter from Chicago: "After a steady period around the opening, the market became demoralized on the acute situation abroad and disquieting rumors at home which were later denied. Liverpool cables came sharply lower. This with the weakness displayed in the Northwest markets stimulated the early selling. Statistical news was mainly bearish. Crop advices from the spring wheat country were flattering while the winter wheat condition is perfect except for small scattered areas which are infected with chinch bugs and hessian fly. Export demand caused a sharp upturn near the close. We advise waiting a more settled feeling in shipping circles before making new commitments on the long side."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Unusual Nervousness and Rapid Changes in Prices of Wheat.

Chicago, May 10.—Unusual nervousness and rapid changes in price today characterized the wheat market. Chances of government and trade complications owing to the sinking of the Lusitania continued to overshadow all other influences, with the tendency mostly toward a lowering of values, despite sharp rallying power evident in the pit. Trading was decidedly active. After opening 1¾c lower to ⅝c higher prices advanced well above last night's level all around, but later suffered a material general break.

Talk of breaking off of relations with Germany added to the bearish sentiment and so also did reports of an ultimatum from Italy to Austria. False rumors of the death of President Wilson were also effective in causing a pronounced temporary drop in quotations. The close was unsettled at ⅜c to 1¼c net decline.

Corn swayed with wheat. Fluctuations however, were comparatively narrow. After opening ⅛c off to ⅛@⅜c up, a moderate advance was scored and then a sag ensued.

Heaviness increased afterward when wheat turned for a time decisively downward. The close nevertheless was fairly steady at ⅛c off to ⅛@¼c up, compared with Saturday night.

Oats like corn had no independent action. Trade, though, was of larger volume than has been the rule of late.

Provisions showed firmness. The chief sustaining influence was the strength of the hog market.

INACTIVITY IN FLAXSEED

Crushers Buy Little Until Domestic Prospects Assume Definite Shape.

The condition of stagnation in the flax market, reported in various forms for several weeks, is still on the job. Crushers continue to enter the market for brief spurts, buying to fill shortages, and then dodge out again.

Until something more definite has been developed concerning the probable American crop, and the chances for the Argentina invasion, there will not be much sprout up in the way of activity here. Estimates as to the probable amount of seeding that will be done in flax in this country are beginning to come in, but not enough to get a very accurate line on general conditions, and there will still be a wait before crushers will know to any degree of certainty just where they are at.

The strength shown in the local flax market is the result of the increasing strength in Buenos Aires, where the seed has had a material advance in the last ten days. Local conditions have had nothing to do with it except in so far as the boost each of the few small purchases made by crushers has on the price. It does not take much to fluctuate the market.

LIQUIDATION OF STOCKS

Alarming Reports Regarding Situation at Washington Affect Market.

Severe Declines, With Substantial Rallies Near End; Closing Heavy.

New York, May 10.—Taking its cue from London, where Americans showed a firm tone, the local stock market opened with no traces of the excitement which attended the latter sessions of last week. There were gains of 1@1½ points in prominent issues, including the international list and a number of specialties of mixed character. Bethlehem Steel was the only war stock to record a severe decline, falling over 4 points. Initial advances were lost soon after the opening, but the setback was orderly. Trading was moderate, with an underlying note of caution.

Alarming but unconfirmed reports dealing with the situation at Washington and abroad today contributed in large measure to the liquidation which ruled the stock market in the first hour and to a great extent toward noon. Leading stocks almost without exception were then under last week's lowest quotations and the list as a whole showed general weakness. The decline was checked for a time by announcement of the sale of practically all the new $65,000,000 Pennsylvania railroad bond issue, but fresh selling forced prices lower than before. Bonds were weak.

Steel's unfavorable April tonnage statement, coupled with highly sensational rumors, provoked fresh liquidation and short selling in the early afternoon. Steel lost a total of 5½ points and war shares 8 to 15. Moderate rallies followed.

Liquidation and short selling provoked further severe declines today, with substantial rallies at the end.

Prices fell away again in the later dealings, but recoveries of 2 to 5 points followed renewed support. The closing was heavy.

WILL END HIS WORK HERE

Settle Will Present Final Report on Playgrounds to Committee.

Public Golf Links and Tennis Courts Will Be Recommended.

Public golf links and tennis courts, a children's motion picture theater to operate two or three times a week, shower baths in all school buildings, the purchase of the entire block of property adjoining the Washington manual training school, and the acquisition of more property near every schoolhouse in the city, are among the recommendations to be made by Thomas S. Settle, field secretary for the Playground and Recreation Association of America, in his final report to the Citizens' committee to be made at the city hall this afternoon. The meeting was scheduled to take place at 4 o'clock.

Several weeks ago Mr. Settle made a report on the property and equipment now owned by the city, showing how an all-year playground and recreational system could be operated at an expense of $12,500 a year. His plan was to have the city officials and the board of education divide this cost and to begin operations on June 1 next.

The plan met with the favor of Mayor Prince, head of the public affairs division, who arranged to appropriate $1,500 from the park fund to pay for one-half of the cost of the recreation system from June 1 to Sept. 1. Last Friday night the board of education agreed to appropriate $800 toward this program and $700 early this coming fall if the plan is successful. The city officials and the board may then include the expense for 1916 in the budgets to be made up next fall.

With the acceptance of the preliminary plan, Mr. Settle arranged for the meeting this afternoon to present his final report, including recommendations for the future.

Mr. Settle will leave tomorrow for the East, and during the summer he will return to Duluth for the purpose of inspecting the work under way. Mrs. Settle will accompany him.

The Citizens' committee, of which Mayor Prince is chairman, consists of a number of men and women, who donated $1,500 to pay for the survey just completed by Mr. Settle.

CANNOT AMEND HICKEN CODE

Council Has No Power to Forbid Gift of "Eye Openers."

Legislation affecting the donation of "eye-openers" by saloon keepers during the early morning hours cannot be enacted by the city council, according to an opinion handed down this morning by City Attorney Greene.

In a communication to Commissioner Silberstein, the city attorney states that the council has no authority to amend the liquor ordinance, because the Hicken liquor code was adopted by the people and according to the charter, no ordinance adopted by the voters can be repealed or amended unless by a popular vote.

As a result, the ordinance introduced last week by Commissioner Silberstein will have to be withdrawn and no legislation can be enacted at this time forbidding the donation of "eye-openers" from 5 a. m. to 7 a. m. It is probable that several amendments to the Hicken code will come up at the next municipal election.

The ordinance introduced last Monday evening by Commissioner Silberstein proposes to amend Section 10 of the Hicken code, passed July 1, 1913, prohibiting the treating or giving away of intoxicating liquors during the early morning hours. The amendment was presented as the result of charges made to the police department that many saloon keepers gave away free drinks around 6 o'clock in the morning and that as a result many workmen started out by getting drunk, instead of continuing to their labors.

KILDAHL WILL BE SPEAKER

Two Celebrations Planned for Norway's Day of Freedom.

Prof. I. N. Kildahl, former president of St. Olaf's college of Northfield, Minn., will be the principal speaker at the celebration being planned by the Sons of Norway lodges on Sunday afternoon, May 16. The celebration is in honor of the one hundred and first anniversary of Norway's freedom of rule. It will be held at the Armory.

The program will be featured by a choir of eighty voices from four of the leading Norewegian churches in the city. Special musical numbers will also be given by Flaaten's orchestra and Mrs. Valborg Gunderson Finkelson.

Prof. Kildahl will speak on the early history of Norway and the subsequent leading up to the giving of the constitution to the country. He will also talk on present-day conditions in the country.

This celebration will be distinct from the one planned by the Normanna chorus.

PICKETS MUST BE ORDERLY

But Council Will Not Attempt to Bar Them From Streets.

There will be no special legislation at this time regulating union pickets, but the police have been instructed to watch for any violations of present laws governing them, according to announcement made this morning by Commissioner Silberstein, head of the safety division.

The commissioner said this morning that the officials of the local union have agreed to have the pickets in front of the Rex and Lyric theaters conduct themselves in an orderly manner and that special legislation is not necessary. He also intimated that the present strike is expected to end satisfactorily within a very short time.

About two weeks ago forty prominent business men appealed to Commissioner Silberstein for regulation of some kind. They protested strongly against pickets, claiming that they were a nuisance and disgrace to the city. Resolutions were adopted favoring the passage of an ordinance regulating pickets on Duluth streets.

The city attorney has ruled, however, that legitimate picketing is the right of any union.

The picketing of the unions is the result of a controversy between the unions and Thomas Furniss, owner of the Rex and Lyric theaters.

COE BELIEVED TO BE UNBALANCED

Young Bostonian Reported to Have Been Found in Alaska.

Detectives who have been searching for Henry Clark Coe, Jr., oil salesman of Boston, Mass., believe that they have found him in Fairbanks, Alaska. At the time of the disappearance, Jan. 30, Coe's father-in-law, Allan Ainslee, was manager of the St. Louis hotel in Duluth, and immediately left for Boston to be with his daughter in her trouble, and to aid in the search. A dispatch from Boston, concerning the reported finding, says:

"Now that the long missing Henry Clark Coe, Jr., of Allston has been discovered on the outskirts of Fairbanks, Alaska, according to reports he is to be examined by an insanity expert to determine his mental condition. This also should throw some eagerly awaited light on the reasons for his mysterious disappearance from his Allston home three months ago.

"The announcement of the location of the former oil salesman was made by a Boston detective agency which has been searching for him.

"In spite of the reports, however, Mrs. Coe, the young wife, is loath to place too much confidence in them.

"According to the meager news received in Boston, Coe has been filling a clerical position with a mining company in Fairbanks.

"The head of a private detective bureau which has been at work on the case is certain that the man found in Fairbanks is Coe, despite Mrs. Coe's doubts.

"When he was confronted by the detective bureau's representative Coe did not deny his identity, but talked of his movements in an incoherent manner. He is reported to have said that he could not understand why he left his young bride of less than a year. For nineteen feet and to Jan. 30 he was seen several months previous to Jan. 30 that he had been possessed of an unexplainable desire to run away to the far north.

"Dr. Henry Clark Coe of New York, father of the missing man, with the fear that young Coe's mind is or has been deranged, has arranged to have his son examined as to his mental condition.

"According to a Boston detective agency, whose operative in Alaska was the author of the message telling of the identification, Coe was traced to the North station and to a Montreal train. From Montreal he was traced across the continent to Vancouver, where he took an Alaskan steamer.

"Coe dropped out of sight Jan. 30 after leaving home to go to work."

MIXING HOUSE RAZED.

Part of Winthrop Powder Plant Near Ishpeming Blows Up.

Ishpeming, Mich., May 10.—The mixing house of the Pluto Powder company's plant at the Winthrop near here, was blown up Saturday when a fire of unknown origin exploded about 500 pounds of powder in the mixing vat. The fire was discovered in sufficient time for the two men who worked in the building to get out of danger. The building was old and about to be abandoned and it took only a little while for the fire to reach the mixing room. The damage to the other buildings from the effect of the explosion amounted to between $300 and $400, all the windows having been blown out. The nearest building was 300 feet away. A residence about one-half a mile away was not affected by the explosion.

The company has erected a more modern mixing house which was soon to be occupied.

CEREMONY RE-ENACTED AFTER FIFTY YEARS

Rogers, N. D., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the golden wedding celebration of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Stearns of this place the original ceremony was re-enacted in the local church. Six little granddaughters of the couple acted as ribbon bearers and the ceremony was under a gold and white arch in front of the altar. A large number of the residents of this section, including some of the former Civil war comrades of Mr. Stearns, were present. A number of addresses were delivered and many interesting presents were given the couple.

Pingree Elevator Burns.

Pingree, N. D., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire of unknown origin, starting in the top of the building, burned the Equity elevator here. There were about 1,800 bushels of grain in the house. The building, valued at $9,000, and the machinery were a total loss.

Gull River Home Burns.

Brainerd, Minn., May 10.—The home of Joseph Dade on his farm at Gull river was destroyed by fire, house and contents being a total loss. Catching fire near the roof, the flames spread rapidly before assistance could reach them, and the inmates barely escaped with their lives.

NOT A TRUE INDICATOR.

Philadelphia Telegraph: Smith, who lived in the West, left his home town early in his youth. Returning after several years he was met by an elderly acquaintance whom he had not seen in the intervening time.

"Glad to see you, my boy," greeted the elderly one, "but you look as if you had not stuck to grape juice and soda water as closely as you should."

"You mustn't judge by appearance, uncle," smiled Smith. "I have never taken more than two or three glasses a day in all my life."

"Um, I see," responded the other. "Probably your face is like some gas meters; it registers more than you consume."

MARINE

LOW WATER IS SERIOUS

Ships Lose Money Because of Necessitated Lighter Loading.

Damage to Vessel Property Another Result; Future Uncertain.

Officers and members of the Lake Carriers' association are doing all in their power to overcome the handicap and damage resulting from the extremely low stage of water in the Great Lakes this year.

The recommended draft for boats going through the canals at the Sault for Lake Michigan has been reduced six inches because ships that have been bound for Lake Michigan had touched at Vidal shoals. No good reason except the low stage of water can be assigned for the groundings, and the shallower loading draft was recommended to avoid trouble, while an investigation is being made.

Capt. W. C. Richardson has received a telegram from J. W. Corey, dock agent at Ashland, in which it was stated that the water in Ashland is three feet lower than usual. The H. M. Hanna, Jr., loaded to nineteen feet the last trip at the dock there, but the L. B. Miller to eighteen feet ten inches Friday. The usual depth of water at the docks at Ashland is twenty-two feet, but the conditions are such that nineteen feet is not safe.

Capt. William Smith of the steamer Harvester reported that he was loaded to nineteen feet and touched three times in the St. Mary's river on the last trip. The depth of water in the channels is in some instances lower than mean lake level for the last ten years.

Barring the decreased carrying capacity of ships the danger to property is causing considerable worry. The vessels are all suffering as did the Miller, which left with a cargo 500 tons short of a full load at nineteen feet.

The troubles of low water have been increasing rather than decreasing as the season goes on. Whether it will be possible to load deeper later in the season is a problem. Usually as the season advances the depth of water increases until about midsummer, but the protracted dry weather of this spring probably has caused the shallower water.

FIVE MISSING; TWO MORE MAY DIE

Sandsucker Hits Cleveland Breakwater in Dark With Disastrous Results.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 10.—Five men are missing and six were rescued after drifting about four hours when the sandsucker, the Junior, struck the breakwater in an attempt to negotiate the entrance off East Seventieth street last midnight.

Two of those rescued may die of exposure.

The Junior, unaided by lights, was feeling for the entrance when she struck. She was on her way from Fairport to Cleveland.

Failure of workmen to place proper warning lights at the harbor entrance last night was blamed today for the sinking of the sandsucker.

The Junior collided with a submerged object and a great hole was torn in her side, resulting in her sinking before a lifeboat could be launched.

The drowned are:

MATE JAMES BURKE, Conneaut, Ohio.

FIRST ENGINEER AUSTIN WILLIAMS.

RICHARD CONROY.

RICHARD HOPKINS.

EDDIE COWAN and

SCOTTY MANSON, all of Cleveland.

MARINE DIRECTORY MAN IS TOURING THE LAKES

Harvey C. Beeson of Chicago, publisher of Beeson's Marine Directory, was in the city yesterday and part of today, leaving for Two Harbors this morning, from which port he will go to the Sault. Mr. Beeson is making his annual round of the Great Lakes, and has been doing this for twenty-nine years. The Marine Directory, which is known as the bible of the lake men, will be issued next month.

Mr. Beeson expresses the belief that the present season's shipping will average fully as high as most years.

As to the sinking of the Lusitania, Mr. Beeson declared that President Wilson is fully capable of handling the situation, and joins in the admonition, "don't rock the boat."

WAR BETWEEN ITALY AND THE CENTRAL EMPIRES IS REGARDED AS NOW ALMOST UNAVOIDABLE

SAID TEUTONS HAVE ALREADY DECLARED WAR

Rumored That Germany and Austria-Hungary Have Taken Initiative.

Said to Be Slender Chance That Agreement Will Be Reached.

Rumored Territorial Concession By Austria Is Not Satisfactory.

ONLY QUESTION OF HOURS.

On the Italian Frontier, May 11, via Paris.—The opinion prevails in Rome that Italy's participation in the war is only a question of days. Along the Austrian frontier, where the correspondent of the Associated Press has been from one end of the line to the other, it is universally felt that war is a question only of hours.

War between Italy and the central empires is now regarded in Rome as almost unavoidable. There is said to be only a slender chance that an agreement will be reached. Military preparations are being pushed vigorously and political opposition to war apparently has largely died away.

In Paris it is rumored Germany and Austria-Hungary have declared war on Italy, but so far as is known there is no basis for such reports. A Milan dispatch gives what purports to be an offer of territorial concessions from Austria, described as unacceptable to Italy inasmuch as it excludes Triest and Istria.

HEAVY FIGHTING AT STRAITS.

Heavy fighting has been in progress on the Gallipoli peninsula during the last few days, although accounts of the results are in complete contradiction. An official statement issued at Constantinople says the British and French troops made four attacks near Ari Burnu on Sunday but were driven back with heavy losses. It is asserted three battalions or about 3,000 men

CANCELLATIONS OF SAILINGS ARE FEW

Increase in Popularity of Vessels Flying Neutral Flags.

New York, May 11.—No general cancellation of the sailings of steamers, or of passages from New York to European ports has followed the sinking of the Lusitania, according to agents of steamship lines here. They say, however, that there has been an increase in the popularity of vessels flying neutral flags.

It was estimated that 2,350 passengers are on board the various steamships from American ports bound for destinations that will take them within range of German submarine activity.

GERMANS DROP BOMBS ON SUBURB OF PARIS

Paris, May 11.—A German aeroplane passed over St. Denis, a suburb of Paris, shortly after 7 o'clock this morning and dropped five bombs.

One bomb fell through the roof of an apartment occupied by Mme. Bolleker, bounced from the bed where her 9-year-old son Andre was sleeping and then struck the floor, where it exploded. Fragments from the bomb slightly wounded the boy.

Another missile, on exploding, wounded five men who were sleeping in a shed. Two other bombs damaged an apartment house.

BODIES ARE PILED HIGH

Heaps of Dead Interfere With Fire From the Trenches.

Russians Inflict Heavy Losses on Enemy at Uzsok Pass.

Petrograd, via London, May 11.—An official statement issued last night by general headquarters said:

"In the region of Uzsok pass the enemy made a fruitless attack on Saturday. Serried enemy columns attacked impetuously a position held by two of our companies in a sector of the Javorina mountain chain on the slopes above Lomnitza. The enemy's losses were so heavy heaps of bodies interfered with the fire from our trenches. Our troops, in spite of the enemy's machine gun fire, left their trenches and swept the enemy from the whole region.

"The same day, after a desperate fight the enemy forced a Russian detachment near the village of Zalevcki to retire to the left bank of the Dniester.

"Sunday night, our vanguards having crossed the Dniester, attacked the enemy on the Chaborukt front to the mouth of the Stry. We took 1,300 prisoners, one gun and many machine guns."

AUSTRIANS SAY SHIP VIRTUALLY CRUISER

Venice, via London, May 11.—The newspapers of Vienna justify the sinking of the Lusitania on the ground that she was "virtually an auxiliary cruiser."

The Neus Weiner Tagblatt says:

"The Lusitania was really exactly the same as an English battleship."

The Neue Freie Presse says:

"The sinking of the liner is equivalent to a naval defeat, and perhaps one result of the incident will be the collapse in America of faith in England and great regard for the German empire."

Opera Company Bankrupt.

Boston, May 11.—The Boston Opera company which produced grand opera in this city for six seasons, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy today. The schedule shows liabilities of $216,000 and assets of $79,000.

WELL-KNOWN STORY WRITER ONE OF LUSITANIA'S VICTIMS

—Copyright by Charles Frohman.

JUSTUS MILES FORMAN.

Mr. Forman received a warning the morning he sailed. His valet says he received a telephone message from someone having a strong German accent, telling him not to sail as the ship would be blown up. He treated the matter lightly as he had the assurance of the steamship people that the Lusitania was too fast to be torpedoed by a submarine and he believed also that the ship would be safely convoyed by British warships.

River Steamer Sinks.

Keokuk, Iowa, May 11.—The steamboat Dixie, towing a barge, struck a snag in the Mississippi river today opposite Montrose, Iowa, and sank in three minutes. The twenty persons on the boat were saved by a quick passage to the barge.

LUSITANIA'S CAPTAIN TELLS OF SCENES AT TORPEDOING

Commander Turner Gives Evidence Before Coroner's Jury at Kinsale.

No Panic Aboard Ship Which Went Down in 18 Minutes.

Kinsale, Ireland, May 11.—Capt. Turner of the Lusitania, appeared before the coroner yesterday and was questioned. The coroner asked him whether he had received a message concerning the sinking of a ship off Kinsale by a submarine. Capt. Turner replied that he had not.

"Did you receive any special instructions as to the voyage?"

"Yes, sir."

"Are you at liberty to tell us what they were?"

"No, sir."

"Did you carry them out?"

"Yes, to the best of my ability."

Tell us, in your words, what happened after passing Fastnet."

ALLIES CONTINUE TO ADVANCE AT STRAITS

Said to Have Occupied Important Points After Fierce Fighting.

London, May 11.—The allied troops on the Gallipoli peninsula continued their advance Friday and Saturday, according to an Athens dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company. They are reported to have occupied important positions in spite of the desperate resistance offered by the Turks, whose total losses are estimated at 45,000 men. The hospitals in Constantinople are said to be so crowded that wounded are being sent to Konieh in Asia Minor.

Turkish Statement.

Constantinople, May 10, via Amsterdam and London, May 11.—The following statement was issued today by the Turkish war office:

"On the Dardanelles front the enemy made four desperate attacks near Ari Burnu Sunday night, but was repulsed by bayonet attacks and suffered heavy losses. Three enemy battalions were annihilated.

"Monday afternoon the enemy constantly carried away wounded to their boats.

"In the south near Seddul Bahr the enemy attacked under the protection of naval guns, but owing to our counter-attacks his assault was unsuccessful."

STREET CAR EMPLOYES SEEK RETRACTION AND APOLOGY FROM MERRITT

Resent His Accusation That They Are "Knocking Down" Fares.

Allege That Commissioner Has Two Jitneys in Operation.

Reading of Merritt's Statement Only Increases Their Ire.

Following an indignation meeting at the car barns this morning, about twenty employes of the Duluth Street Railway company called in a body upon Commissioner Merritt today, demanding a retraction of his alleged statement that he recommended "pay as you enter cars" to eliminate delay and save the company money by stopping "knocking down" of fares.

"Jake" Johnson, street car conductor, headed the delegation and made a heated speech, declaring that Merritt had called the conductors "thieves," according to the morning paper, and demanding an apology if the published statement was true. Mr. Merritt was also charged with being unduly active for the jitneys and with having two jitneys in service at the present time.

After the delegation had filed into the office of the public utilities head, Mr. Johnson said:

"We have come here to get an explanation as to what you said at the council meeting last night. It is the first time we have ever been called 'thieves,' and we demand that the statement either be proved or retract-

FRANCE INTERESTED IN PRESIDENT'S DECISION

Paris, May 11.—While the press continues to display intense interest in the sinking of the Lusitania the discussion in its editorial columns is now turning more toward the political side of the tragedy and the probable attitude of President Wilson. Much curiosity is displayed regarding the decision of the Washington government. The Matin believes the least the United States could do would be to expel the German ambassador.

NIGHT ATTACK IS REPULSED

Attempt of Germans to Recapture Positions Foiled By French.

Allies Continue Their Progress to the North of Arras.

Paris, May 11, 2:30 p. m.—The French war office this afternoon issued the following statement on the progress of hostilities:

"In Belgium near St. Georges the enemy endeavored by a night attack to recapture the positions taken by us the day before yesterday. They were, however, repulsed.

"To the north of Arras our progress has continued. Monday evening we took possession first of the cemetery and then of the eastern part of the village of Carency, and also of the road from Carency to Sauchez. Carency, where we took 230 more prisoners, including three officers, and captured several machine guns, is invested by our troops on three sides and is reduced to precarious communication with the German lines.

"The forces brought by the enemy from Lens and from Douai in automobiles were not successful at any place in getting the advantage. Four strong counter attacks broke down under our fire during the afternoon of Monday, at the same time suffering very heavy losses.

Gained Territory.

"These attacks took place in front of Loos, at Notre Dame de Lorette at Sauchez and at Neuville Saint Vaast. At this last mentioned place we gained territory at the same time making about 100 prisoners. The number of officers taken by us up to yesterday evening is more than fifty.

RUTH SOPER AS WITNESS

Woman Who Claims to Be Wife of Darnell Gives Testimony.

Says She Went to Kenosha of Her Own Free Will.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 11.—Ruth Soper of Owatonna, Minn., who claims to be the wife of James Morrison Darnell, on trial, charged with violating the Mann act in that he is alleged to have transported Ruth Soper from the Minnesota city to Chicago and thence to Kenosha, Wis., was expected to continue her testimony when the trial of the former Kenosha pastor was resumed in Federal court this afternoon. She testified last evening that her name was "Ruth Soper Darnell," and that she went to Kenosha with the defendant of her own free will and paid her own railway fare.

Other witnesses who are expected to appear on behalf of the government included Doris Vaughn, Chicago, divorced wife, and Ethel Spurgeon of Avon, Ill., who claims Darnell as common law husband.

"Marion Darnell" Lost in Fire.

W. T. Marlatt, a Kenosha newspaper man, testified regarding a letter sent to Doris Vaughn in Chicago from a posthouse in Kenosha. The letter was signed "David C. Martin," and stated that "Marion Darnell" was killed in a fire; that on account of a quarantine it was impossible to send checks or money to her.

The question of the parentage of the baby was not recollected by Marlatt.

Darnell is alleged to have told Marlatt that the father of Ruth Soper insisted that Darnell came to Owatonna and acknowledged her as his wife and that notices of a marriage said to have taken place in Hammond, Ind., were published in newspapers.

"Marion Darnell," it is said, was a

GERMANY'S FORMAL REGRETS PRESENTED

Count Bernstorff Takes Documents to State Department; Says Nothing.

Washington, May 11.—Count Bernstorff, the German ambassador, today, accepting as authentic the text of Germany's formal expression of regret for the loss of Americans on the Lusitania, which was received in last night's news dispatches, formally presented the statement today to the state department. The official text has not yet reached the embassy because of difficulties of wireless commmunication.

When the ambassador left Secretary Bryan's office he said he had delivered the message forwarded from Berlin.

"That is all I can say," he added. "For anything else, I respectfully refer you to the secretary of state."

While the ambassador was talking, Secretary Bryan came out of his office with an armful of documents.

"The ambassador has just delivered to me a note from his government which was carried in the press dispatches last night," said the secretary, pointing to a document in his hands which he took with him to the cabinet meeting.

Secretary Bryan was asked if there was any discussion with the German ambassador concerning the note or the Lusitania matter.

"Nothing that I can talk about," replied the secretary.

DANISH STEAMER IS HELD UP AT KIRKWALL

PHILADELPHIA SPEECH NOT A DECLARATION

Remarks Intended to Cover Entire Subject of Foreign Relations.

No Decision on Lusitania Until Fully Informed in Case.

Cabinet Holds Three-Hour Session But Gives Out Nothing.

Washington, May 11.—President Wilson said today that his speech in Philadelphia last night was not a declaration of policy in reference to the Lusitania disaster; that he was not thinking of any special matter but of the newly naturalized Americans in his audience.

The president used the expression that he was thinking of the Cain some people were trying to raise.

The president said he would make a decision on the policy to be followed in the Lusitania case as soon as he had all the elements in mind. For the present he had nothing to add, he said, to his statement of last Saturday night, which was that he was considering "very earnestly but very calmly the right course of action to pursue," and that he knew the country expected him "to act with deliberation as well as with firmness."

Personal Attitude.

The president made it clear that he was expressing a personal attitude and not referring to any specific case. That led to the belief in many quarters that the president had not reached a decision in the Lusitania case and was speaking his personal feelings as to the ideal the United States should have in this situation, as well as other phases of the world-wide war. It was taken that he was endeavoring to explain broadly that the United States should seek to serve the cause of humanity by using its influence to secure an adherence to the rules and principles of international law, wherever they have been contravened.

Some Surprise.

Although the general trend of comment was one of surprise at the limitation which the president placed today on the interpretation of his speech, those who have followed his speeches closely pointed out that Mr. Wilson has frequently spoken implicitly rather than explicitly.

While his Philadelphia audience was impressed with the belief that the president was referring specifically to the Lusitania tragedy, the president indicated by his remarks today that he meant his speech to be broader than a single incident and to cover the entire subject of foreign relations as well as the subject of domestic solidarity with reference to the aliens who have become naturalized in America.

Cabinet Gathers.

At the usual hour the cabinet began arriving for the first conference with the president since last Friday. Whether the president would take up the

WILD RUSH BY SHORTS

Buoyancy in Stock Market and Large Gains Are Recorded.

Most Reassuring Feature Is the Strength of Standard Shares.

New York, May 11.—Positive buoyancy prevailed at the opening of today's stock market, the list making gains of 2 to 6 points and provoking another wild rush of short covering. President Wilson's Philadelphia address was undoubtedly a factor in over night change in sentiment which found its first reflection in the higher range of American stocks in London.

There were several "wide" openings here, notably in United States Steel and Westinghouse Electric. Steel's initial contribution of 5,000 shares recorded a gain of 3½ points, while the first offering of 3,000 shares of Westinghouse showed a maximum advance of 5¾. Bethlehem Steel and other war specialties, as well as coppers and numerous unclassified issues, rose 3 to 6 points.

The most reassuring feature was the strength of standard shares. Reading, the Pacifics and Atchison rising 2 to 4½. Profit-taking reduced some of these gains soon after the opening, but the undertone continued strong.

Recessions of a point or more in speculative stocks and as much as 4 in specialties followed the early outburst of bullish enthusiasm. Foreign news was a restraining influence, particularly Italy's uncertain attitude. Reported cancellation of the sailing of the Mauretania from Liverpool also helped to give the market pause.

Sales of stocks to noon amounted to 340,000 shares as against 570,000 shares yesterday.

TRAFFIC TO WEST BETTER

Railroads Optimistic Over Outlook for Heavy Fall Business.

Rail Shipments Normal Despite the Opening of Navigation.

Duluth railroad men say that the movement of traffic from the Head of the Lakes to points in the West is on the increase and that the promise is bright for a record business in the fall. Freight departments of all the roads report that Duluth wholesale establishments are shipping out more miscellaneous merchandise over the territory from which it is judged that country merchants are inclined to be optimistic. It is predicted that if nothing arises to disturb the present satisfactory plant growth within the next weeks, a disposition in general business circles to anticipate the future somewhat is to be expected.

Traffic Running Normal.

"Our traffic is running at about normal for the season, and our people are banking upon a good spring and fall business," said a Great Northern official today. "An enormous acreage has been seeded along our lines and reports being received from all points as regards the germination and growth set by the wheat plant are encouraging."

"Our people are not doing any kicking. While the opening of navigation cut off the rail movement of copper from the Lake Superior mines and shipments of westbound merchandise very largely, traffic returns from day to day show that our traffic is panning out at about the same volume as last year," said S. G. Bigelow, commercial agent of the New York Central lines. He averred that some inquiry is now being received by Michigan timber operators for lumber and other forest products. That is regarded as an encouraging development in view of the fact that the timber and lumber trade has up to the present been almost at a standstill.

Looking For Better Times.

That the railroads are looking forward to better times is shown in an improving inquiry reported for rails and equipment. The Pennsylvania road is said to be about to place an order for approximately 138,000 tons of rails, of which 65,000 tons will be for use on its Western lines. Eastern and Western railroads are said to be putting out equipment inquiries in thousand car lots, and a Russian inquiry for 20,000 cars is in the market.

NICKEL IS MAXIMUM

City Attorney Holds Traction Company Cannot Charge More.

Is Operating in Duluth Under Five Separate Franchises.

Five franchises, under which the Duluth Street Railway company is operating, prohibit any increase over the 5-cent fare now being charged, according to an opinion handed down yesterday by City Attorney Greene. The company had not made any move to increase its fares, but the commissioners asked for the opinion.

In a lengthy communication to Mayor Prince and Commissioner Silberstein, the city attorney states that he has examined the various acts constituting the franchise of the street car company, and that he has found five different franchises in force. These place the 5-cent fare as the maximum for different sections of the city, so that altogether no increase could ever be established without violation of one of the franchises.

The first franchise is the act of 1881, which was recently the subject of litigation between the city and the company. It provides for a 5-cent fare on a line three miles long, so that under this proviso a charge of 10 cents could be made to Lakeside or West Duluth. However, with subsequent franchises granted, only 5 cents can be charged from the center of the city to West Duluth or to Lakeside.

Later an ordinance affecting the village of West Duluth was passed, prohibiting a charge of more than 5 cents from the center of the city to the western suburb. In addition, the company is operated under the franchise of the Lakeside Railway company, as that section of the city was not part of Duluth when the rails were extended. Section 5 of that ordinance places a maximum charge of 5 cents from the center of the city to Lakeside. The city attorney is in doubt about Woodland and Duluth Heights, as the company is in possession of the papers affecting these two districts.

"THE KID THAT'S GOT THAT LITHOGRAPH, 'COME THROUGH'"

Youthful Exponent of Honesty Demands That Playmate Live Up to Strict Moral Code.

"Having loaned my lithograph 'The Horse's Prayer,' to the 'Band of Mercy,' will the boy who promised to return it do so at once. Mrs. W. E. Barker, 18 First avenue west."—Herald Want Ad.

"One of you kids has that lithograph," declared Master Walter Johnson, "and you ought to be ashamed of yourself. Now come through with it."

The boy "came" and Master Walter proudly bore away the much desired copy of "The Horse's Prayer" and returned it to Mrs. Barker. The boys at the Jackson school, where Walter attends, were lined up by the indignant self-appointed detective yesterday afternoon and there was no way out of it except to give up the picture.

Master Johnson, the son of Martin Johnson, 516 West Fifth street, acquired a reputation as a paragon among boys recently when, after finding a purse containing $15, he returned it to the owner and refused all offers of reward.

"It isn't my money," he said, "and I don't see why I should be rewarded for returning it."

Mrs. Barker was astounded yesterday for Walter again refused a reward, when she suggested that he take his friends and go to a moving picture show as her guests.

"Movies aren't good for the eyes," Walter replied naively, "and anyway I'm glad enough that you got your picture back."

WALTER JOHNSON.

When Walter saw Mrs. Barker's advertisement in The Herald, he knew that one of his schoolmates had the lithograph, and of his own accord, decided that it should be returned at once.

Although every boy will be president of the United States some day, in his mother's opinion, Walter has a very good opportunity, in the belief of more than one Duluth matron.

"There's the makings of an exceptional man in a boy like Walter," declared Mrs. Barker as she placed "The Horse's Prayer" in its accustomed niche in the Barker stable where it hangs as a lesson in the kind treatment of horses.

CARLSON MAY OPEN SALOON

Silberstein Reverses Hicken Stand; Renewal of License Granted.

Korugo Application for Transfer Held Up for Week's Investigation.

Commissioner Silberstein, head of the safety division, reversed Former Commissioner Hicken's stand on the Carlson saloon license and at the council meeting last evening introduced a resolution renewing the license at 513 West Superior street. It was adopted by a unanimous vote of the commission and Charles and John Carlson may now reopen their saloon, which has been closed for several months.

When the Carlson license came up before Mr. Hicken the latter refused to renew it. When Commissioner Silberstein took office, the Carlson brothers again asked for a renewal of their license and after an investigation of two weeks, the commissioner last evening made his recommendation.

The application of George Korugo for the transfer of A. L. Brewer's license at 5701 Raleigh street was held up another week for the purpose of investigation.

Saloon licenses were granted yesterday to J. J. Hughes, 514 West Superior street; N. L. Forsgren, 101 East Superior street; A. Anderson company, 1601 West Superior street; W. G. Holmes, 123 West Michigan street, and J. J. Wall, 310 West Superior street.

Other licenses granted last evening follow: Pool—Fred Wilson, 420 North Fifty-second avenue west; Antanos Kopchoff, 913 West Michigan street; A. J. Boushala, 640 Garfield avenue. Pawnbrokers—William Goldstein, 501 West Michigan street; E. S. Rose, 516 West Superior street. Second-hand stores—G. Carlno, 607 West Superior street; R. Lats, 721 West Superior street; J. H. Altman, 515½ West Michigan street. Plumbers—F. D. Sturm and E. G. Sturm, 410½ East Superior street; O. Sund, 117 East Michigan street; A. J. Harker, 407 East Fourth street; American Heating company, 228 West Michigan street. Cigarettes—Oscar Christenson, 703 East Fourth street; Eden Cigar store, 310 West Superior street; Stone-Ordean-Wells company, 201 South Fifth avenue west; Grathwol Cigar company, 216 West Superior street; Charles Jacobson, 2031 West Superior street. Dance halls—L. Hammel, 302 East First street. Employment office—Peter Meagher, 409 West Michigan street.

DO YOU KNOW?

Do you know that before the city pays a bill, it must be countersigned by each department head, passed on by the city auditor, approved by the council and an official receipt signed by the creditor?

As an example, suppose that the park department purchased some tools for some improvement work.

Henry Cleveland, park manager, would first sign the bill and it would then come before Mayor Prince, head of public affairs. The latter would have to countersign it before the bill would receive the o. k. of City Auditor Campbell.

Then the bill would be presented to the city council and if approved, it would go back to the auditor, who draws an order for the amount.

This order or check is held by the auditor until the creditor calls for the same and receives payment for the tools. He must sign an official receipt before the order is paid out.

ASKS ONLY FOR "SQUARE DEAL"

Discharged Health Inspector Presents Complaint to City Council.

Says Hearing Was Delayed for Purpose of "Tiring Him Out."

R. N. Metcalfe, former health inspector, who was discharged by Dr. E. W. Fahey, director of public health, on April 20, and who has since appealed to the civil service commission, presented a statement to the council last evening, claiming that his hearing has been postponed three times and that the health department is trying to tire him out by long and continued delays.

In the statement, which was prepared by H. W. Gurnee, attorney for Mr. Metcalfe, the latter declares that he was discharged without any cause and that under the civil service regulations he is entitled to his position. He claims that he reported for duty for a week after April 20, but that Dr. Fahey refused to give him any work. He declares that Dr. Fahey has admitted his work was above reproach.

Motive in Delays.

"There seems to be a disposition on the part of the health department," the communication states, "to tire me out by long and continued delays. I am only asking for a square deal."

The commissioners decided to investigate the matter and the communication was laid over until next Monday.

The ordinance by Commissioner Silberstein prohibiting free "eye-openers" in saloons from 5 a. m. until 7 a. m. was withdrawn, in view of the fact that the council has no authority to pass it. It was an amendment to the Hicken liquor code and according to the city attorney, only the public can vote on an ordinance adopted by the people, such as was the case with the present liquor ordinance.

Mayor Prince introduced an ordinance prohibiting the removal of electric wires in the moving of houses and places a fine of $100 or eighty-five days for violation of the ordinance. The ordinance, however, permits the removal of wires with the authority of the electric or telephone companies.

Gas Lamps to Remain.

The resolution ordering electric lights on Kent road was rescinded and the present gas standards will be permitted to remain, in accordance with a wish of the property owners along the thoroughfare. They have agreed to pay the difference of about $150 that will be charged against the city.

The Highland street vacations were laid over another week.

Commissioner Silberstein formally announced the appointment of R. D. McKercher as chief of police and the poundmasters in the various city districts.

New York, May 11.—Peterus Schoone, with his wife and fifteen children, arrived on the steamship Potsdam from Holland to take up life anew in the West. His children range from the baby, 7 months old, to 18 years. They all looked healthy.

Schoone, who has been a farmer in Friesland, decided that greater opportunities were offered to him in Minnesota. He had saved up money despite the fact that he has a large family. He has bought a farm in the West and he started there after having passed the examination at Ellis Island.

WRECK SURVIVORS LEAVE FOR LONDON

Lady Allan and Others From Lusitania Depart From Queenstown.

Queenstown, May 11.—Lady Allan, wife of Sir Montague Allan of Montreal, left on a special train today for London. Lady Allan's back was injured but she was well enough to travel under the care of several doctors and nurses. A number of survivors went to London with her. Probably the most unconcerned of the survivors is the 8-months-old son of Mrs. H. Booth. The mother lost her life, but the father has been located at a hotel in Ottawa. The baby was picked up from the water but apparently is suffering no ill effects and an aunt in England will take charge of him.

A pathetic case is that of Mollie Mainman, aged 16, and the 7-year-old twins, Elizabeth and Edwin Mainman, who lost their father, A. R. Mainman; their mother, and two brothers. The family was on the way to Chester, England, to take possession of an estate which had been bequeathed to them. The children were taken in charge by a lawyer.

AUTOS MUST CHECK IN PASSING SCHOOLS

Public Safety Commissioner Preparing Ordinance to Protect Children.

Because of lack of playground space at the various public schools of the city, Commissioner Silberstein of the division of public safety, is planning a "slow-down" ordinance for automobilists.

"At many schools," said Supt. R. E. Denfeld this morning, "children have no place to play, and during the recess hour crowd the sidewalk and boulevard in front of the building, often going out into the street.

"Until the board of education can complete arrangements to add to the playgrounds of schools where this is the case, I consider an ordinance requiring motorists and drivers of all kinds of vehicles to slow down when passing schoolhouses, as imperative."

The Merritt school, Fortieth avenue west and Sixth street, is one of the few schools where ample play space is provided, according to board members, the Franklin school at Seventh street and Fifth avenue east being an example of the other extreme.

TESTIMONY TO STAY IN

Judge Refuses to Expunge Evidence Presented By Roosevelt.

Two Days Will Be Required to Examine Further Witnesses.

Syracuse, N. Y., May 11.—Justice William S. Andrews, presiding in the trial of William Barnes' suit for libel against Theodore Roosevelt, remarked, in refusing to strike from the record testimony concerning Mr. Barnes' connection with direct primaries legislation, race track legislation, the franchise tax and his opposition to Governor Hughes, that such evidence did not show any corruption of impropriety on the part of Mr. Barnes and was allowed to remain in the record simply to show the plaintiff's position in the Republican party.

Justice Andrews added that he considered that some of the evidence might bear upon the election in 1911 of a United States senator to succeed Chauncey M. Depew and that it should remain in for that reason also.

The court struck out a stipulation to the effect that there was "rottenness in many departments of the state government." The court held that no evidence had been produced which in any way connected Mr. Barnes with the matter.

Irwin Testimony Stands.

The court refused to strike out the testimony of Roscoe Irwin, a collector of internal revenue who told of seeing Charles F. Murphy of Tammany Hall about appointments. The court held that Mr. Irwin's testimony should remain in simply to show the position of Mr. Murphy in the Democratic party.

In a discussion with William M. Ivins, chief counsel for Mr. Barnes, Justice Andrews remarked that he considered the article upon which the suit was based libel per se because it charged a corrupt alliance between Mr. Barnes and Mr. Murphy. He added that one of the reasons he had allowed evidence upon the printing situation in Albany was to give the defense an edequate opportunity to prove if it could a corrupt alliance between "crooked business and crooked politics."

Counsel for Col. Roosevelt then began to marshal the evidence regarding printing.

Among the witnesses ready to testify is William F. Sheehan, Democratic candidate for United States senator in 1911, when a deadlock in the state senate finally resulted in the selection of James A. O'Gorman.

In all, twelve witnesses have been summoned to appear today. The counsel for Mr. Barnes said that two days at least would be needed for the direct examination of their witnesses.

TESTIMONY TO STAY IN

Judge Refuses to Expunge Evidence Presented By Roosevelt.

Two Days Will Be Required to Examine Further Witnesses.

Syracuse, N. Y., May 11.—Justice William S. Andrews, presiding in the trial of William Barnes' suit for libel against Theodore Roosevelt, remarked, in refusing to strike from the record testimony concerning Mr. Barnes' connection with direct primaries legislation, race track legislation, the franchise tax and his opposition to Governor Hughes, that such evidence did not show any corruption of impropriety on the part of Mr. Barnes and was allowed to remain in the record simply to show the plaintiff's position in the Republican party.

Justice Andrews added that he considered that some of the evidence might bear upon the election in 1911 of a United States senator to succeed Chauncey M. Depew and that it should remain in for that reason also.

The court struck out a stipulation to the effect that there was "rottenness in many departments of the state government." The court held that no evidence had been produced which in any way connected Mr. Barnes with the matter.

Irwin Testimony Stands.

The court refused to strike out the testimony of Roscoe Irwin, a collector of internal revenue who told of seeing Charles F. Murphy of Tammany Hall about appointments. The court held that Mr. Irwin's testimony should remain in simply to show the position of Mr. Murphy in the Democratic party.

In a discussion with William M. Ivins, chief counsel for Mr. Barnes, Justice Andrews remarked that he considered the article upon which the suit was based libel per se because it charged a corrupt alliance between Mr. Barnes and Mr. Murphy. He added that one of the reasons he had allowed evidence upon the printing situation in Albany was to give the defense an adequate opportunity to prove if it could a corrupt alliance between "crooked business and crooked politics."

Counsel for Col. Roosevelt then began to marshal the evidence regarding printing.

Among the witnesses ready to testify is William F. Sheehan, Democratic candidate for United States senator in 1911, when a deadlock in the state senate finally resulted in the selection of James A. O'Gorman.

In all, twelve witnesses have been summoned to appear today. The counsel for Mr. Barnes said that two days at least would be needed for the direct examination of their witnesses.

Searles of Carlton, representative from this district, addressed the club on the work of the legislature just adjourned. TRAFFIC TO WEST BETTER

Railroads Optimistic Over Outlook for Heavy Fall Business.

Rail Shipments Normal Despite the Opening of Navigation.

Duluth railroad men say that the movement of traffic from the Head of the Lakes to points in the West is on the increase and that the promise is bright for a record business in the fall. Freight departments of all the roads report that Duluth wholesale establishments are shipping out more miscellaneous merchandise over the territory from which it is judged that country merchants are inclined to be optimistic. It is predicted that if nothing arises to disturb the present satisfactory plant growth within the next weeks, a disposition in general business circles to anticipate the future somewhat is to be expected.

Traffic Running Normal.

"Our traffic is running at about normal for the season, and our people are banking upon a good spring and fall business," said a Great Northern official today. "An enormous acreage has been seeded along our lines and reports being received from all points as regards the germination and growth set by the wheat plant are encouraging."

"Our people are not doing any kicking. While the opening of navigation cut off the rail movement of copper from the Lake Superior mines and shipments of westbound merchandise very largely, traffic returns from day to day show that our traffic is panning out at about the same volume as last year," said S. G. Bigelow, commercial agent of the New York Central lines. He averred that some inquiry is now being received by Michigan timber operators for lumber and other forest products. That is regarded as an encouraging development in view of the fact that the timber and lumber trade has up to the present been almost at a standstill.

Looking For Better Times.

That the railroads are looking forward to better times is shown in an improving inquiry reported for rails and equipment. The Pennsylvania road is said to be about to place an order for approximately 138,000 tons of rails, of which 65,000 tons will be for use on its Western lines. Eastern and Western railroads are said to be putting out equipment inquiries in thousand car lots, and a Russian inquiry for 20,000 cars is in the market.

NICKEL IS MAXIMUM

City Attorney Holds Traction Company Cannot Charge More.

Is Operating in Duluth Under Five Separate Franchises.

Five franchises, under which the Duluth Street Railway company is operating, prohibit any increase over the 5-cent fare now being charged, according to an opinion handed down yesterday by City Attorney Greene. The company had not made any move to increase its fares, but the commissioners asked for the opinion.

In a lengthy communication to Mayor Prince and Commissioner Silberstein, the city attorney states that he has examined the various acts constituting the franchise of the street car company, and that he has found five different franchises in force. These place the 5-cent fare as the maximum for different sections of the city, so that altogether no increase could ever be established without violation of one of the franchises.

The first franchise is the act of 1881, which was recently the subject of litigation between the city and the company. It provides for a 5-cent fare on a line three miles long, so that under this provision a charge of 10 cents could be made to Lakeside or West Duluth. However, with subsequent franchises granted, only 5 cents can be charged from the center of the city to West Duluth or to Lakeside.

Later an ordinance affecting the village of West Duluth was passed, prohibiting a charge of more than 5 cents from the center of the city to the western suburb. In addition, the company is operated under the franchise of the Lakeside Railway company, as that section of the city was not part of Duluth when the rails were extended. Section 5 of that ordinance places a maximum charge of 5 cents from the center of the city to Lakeside. The city attorney is in doubt about Woodland and Duluth Heights, as the company is in possession of the papers affecting these two districts.

"THE KID THAT'S GOT THAT LITHOGRAPH, 'COME THROUGH'"

Youthful Exponent of Honesty Demands That Playmate Live Up to Strict Moral Code.

"Having loaned my lithograph 'The Horse's Prayer,' to the 'Band of Mercy,' will the boy who promised to return it do so at once. Mrs. W. E. Barker, 18 First avenue west."—Herald Want Ad.

"One of you kids has that lithograph," declared Master Walter Johnson, "and you ought to be ashamed of yourself. Now come through with it."

The boy "came" and Master Walter proudly bore away the much desired copy of "The Horse's Prayer" and returned it to Mrs. Barker. The boys at the Jackson school, where Walter attends, were lined up by the indignant self-appointed detective yesterday afternoon and there was no way out of it except to give up the picture.

Master Johnson, the son of Martin Johnson, 516 West Fifth street, acquired a reputation as a paragon among boys recently when, after finding a purse containing $15, he returned it to the owner and refused all offers of reward.

"It isn't my money," he said, "and I don't see why I should be rewarded for returning it."

Mrs. Barker was astounded yesterday for Walter again refused a reward, when she suggested that he take his friends and go to a moving picture show as her guests.

"Movies aren't good for the eyes," Walter replied naively, "and anyway I'm glad enough that you got your picture back."

WALTER JOHNSON.

When Walter saw Mrs. Barker's advertisement in The Herald, he knew that one of his schoolmates had the lithograph, and of his own accord, decided that it should be returned at once.

Although every boy will be president of the United States, some day, in his mother's opinion, Walter has a very good opportunity, in the belief of more than one Duluth matron.

"There's the makings of an exceptional man in a boy like Walter," declared Mrs Barker as she placed "The Horse's Prayer" in its accustomed niche in the Barker stable where it hangs as a lesson in the kind treatment of horses.

CARLSON MAY OPEN SALOON

Silberstein Reverses Hicken Stand; Renewal of License Granted.

Korugo Application for Transfer Held Up for Week's Investigation.

Commissioner Silberstein, head of the safety division, reversed Former Commissioner Hicken's stand on the Carlson saloon license and at the council meeting last evening introduced a resolution renewing the license at 513 West Superior street. It was adopted by a unanimous vote of the commission and Charles and John Carlson may now reopen their saloon, which has been closed for several months.

When the Carlson license came up before Mr. Hicken the latter refused to renew it. When Commissioner Silberstein took office, the Carlson brothers again asked for a renewal of their license and after an investigation of two weeks, the commissioner last evening made his recommendation.

The application of George Korugo for the transfer of A. L. Brewer's license at 5701 Raleigh street was held up another week for the purpose of investigation.

Saloon licenses were granted yesterday to J. J. Hughes, 514 West Superior street; N. L. Forsgren, 101 East Superior street; A. Anderson company, 1601 West Superior street; W. G. Holmes, 123 West Michigan street, and J. J. Wall, 310 West Superior street.

DO YOU KNOW?

Do you know that before the city pays a bill, it must be countersigned by each department head, passed on by the city auditor, approved by the council and an official receipt signed by the creditor?

As an example, suppose that the park department purchased some tools for some improvement work.

Henry Cleveland, park manager, would first sign the bill and it would then come before Mayor Prince, head of public affairs. The latter would have to countersign it before the bill would receive the o. k. of City Auditor Campbell.

Then the bill would be presented to the city council and if approved, it would go back to the auditor, who draws an order for the amount.

This order or check is held by the auditor until the creditor calls for the same and receives payment for the tools. He must sign an official receipt before the order is paid out.

ASKS ONLY FOR "SQUARE DEAL"

Discharged Health Inspector Presents Complaint to City Council.

Says Hearing Was Delayed for Purpose of "Tiring Him Out."

R. N. Metcalfe, former health inspector, who was discharged by Dr. E. W. Fahey, director of public health, on April 20, and who has since appealed to the civil service commission, presented a statement to the council last evening, claiming that his hearing has been postponed three times and that the health department is trying to tire him out by long and continued delays.

In the statement, which was prepared by R. W. Gurnee, attorney for Mr. Metcalfe, the latter declares that he was discharged without any cause and that under the civil service regulations he is entitled to his position. He claims that he reported for duty for a week after April 20, but that Dr. Fahey refused to give him any work. He declares that Dr. Fahey has admitted his work was above reproach.

Motive in Delays.

"There seems to be a disposition on the part of the health department," the communication states, "to tire me out by long and continued delays. I am only asking for a square deal."

The commissioners decided to investigate the matter and the communication was laid over until next Monday.

The ordinance by Commissioner Silberstein prohibiting free "eye-openers" in saloons from 5 a. m. until 7 a. m., was withdrawn, in view of the fact that the council has no authority to pass it. It was an amendment to the Hicken liquor code and according to the city attorney, only the public can vote on an ordinance adopted by the people, such as was the case with the present liquor ordinance.

Mayor Prince introduced an ordinance prohibiting the removal of electric wires in the moving of houses and places a fine of $100 or eighty-five days for violation of the ordinance. The ordinance, however, permits the removal of wires with the authority of the electric or telephone companies.

Gas Lamps to Remain.

The resolution ordering electric lights on Kent road was rescinded and the present gas standards will be permitted to remain, in accordance with a wish of the property owners along the thoroughfare. They have agreed to pay the difference of about $150 that will be charged against the city.

The Highland street vacations were laid over another week.

Commissioner Silberstein formally announced the appointment of R. D. McKercher as chief of police and the poundmasters in the various city districts.

WITH WIFE AND FIFTEEN CHILDREN

Immigrants From Holland on Way to Farm in Minnesota.

New York, May 11.—Peterus Schoone, with his wife and fifteen children, arrived on the steamship Potsdam from Holland to take up life anew in the West. His children range from the baby, 7 months old, to 18 years. They all looked healthy.

Schoone, who has been a farmer in Friesland, decided that greater opportunities were offered to him in Minnesota. He had saved up money despite the fact that he has a large family. He has bought a farm in the West and he started there after having passed the examination at Ellis Island.

WRECK SURVIVORS LEAVE FOR LONDON

Lady Allan and Others From Lusitania Depart From Queenstown.

Queenstown, May 11.—Lady Allan, wife of Sir Montague Allan of Montreal, left on a special train today for London. Lady Allan's back was injured but she was well enough to travel under the care of several doctors and nurses. A number of survivors went to London with her. Probably the most unconcerned of the survivors is the 8-months-old son of Mrs. H. Booth. The mother lost her life, but the father has been located at a hotel in Ottawa. The baby was picked up from the water but apparently is suffering no ill effects and an aunt in England will take charge of him.

A pathetic case is that of Mollie Mainman, aged 16, and the 7-year-old twins, Elizabeth and Edwin Mainman, who lost their father, A. R. Mainman; their mother, and two brothers. The family was on the way to Chester, England, to take possession of an estate which had been bequeathed to them. The children were taken in charge by a lawyer.

AUTOS MUST CHECK IN PASSING SCHOOLS

Public Safety Commissioner Preparing Ordinance to Protect Children.

Because of lack of playground space at the various public schools of the city, Commissioner Silberstein of the division of public safety, is planning a "slow-down" ordinance for automobilists.

"At many schools," said Supt. R. E. Denfeld this morning, "children have no place to play, and during the recess hour crowd the sidewalk and boulevard in front of the building, often going out into the street.

"Until the board of education can complete arrangements to add to the playgrounds of schools where this is the case, I consider an ordinance requiring motorists and drivers of all kinds of vehicles to slow down when passing schoolhouses, as imperative."

The Merritt school, Fortieth avenue west and Sixth street, is one of the few schools where ample play space is provided, according to board members, the Franklin school at Seventh street and Fifth avenue east being an example of the other extreme.

DECLARES BUSINESS GOOD IN NORWAY

Shipping Operations Better Because of War, Says Duluthian.

"Business conditions in Norway are good, particularly in shipping circles," declared A. H. Tesdahl, member of the Normanna Male chorus, who has returned to Duluth after a long visit abroad.

"They are rebuilding all old boats and putting them into service," he said, "and the marine traffic is larger than ever before because of the war.

"Citizens are tired of the struggle, however, and are praying for it to end. The Norwegian army is mobilized, but the government is taking great care to remain strictly neutral.

"Coming home on the steamer Bergensford from Bergen to New York direct, we sailed north of Scotland, instead of going through the North sea. We were stopped once by a British vessel and searched, but we sighted no German craft, nor had any trouble with mine-sown areas."

Mr. Tesdahl was for several years proprietor of a barber shop in the Lenox hotel building, and intends to locate in Duluth again.

"Am convinced Hopkins is lost."

This news would appear to settle the fate of Mr. Hopkins.

This Photograph Shows a Landing Party From the British War Fleet at the Entrance of the Dardanelles Coming Ashore at Kum Kaleh on the Asiatic Side of the Dardanelles Entrance.

ANOTHER LONG STEP TOWARD TRIUMPH OF "DULUTH IDEA"

Divorcing Lake and Rail Lines Victory for the Northwest.

Will Give Shippers Full Benefit of Great Water Route.

That the divorcement of the lake-and-rail lines, for which Duluth has been devoutly wishing for a long time, and toward which it has been lending its efforts, will be one of the greatest things for this city and for the whole Northwest that could happen, is the opinion expressed by Traffic Commissioner G. Roy Hall of the Commercial club this morning.

A forecast of the coming decision of the interstate commerce commission in this matter was given in a Washington dispatch, published in The Herald last evening, and the expectation is that the decision, which will be handed down before very long, will probably order that the railroads and the lake lines be forever divorced, and that all interlocking stock holdings be disposed of. In discussing the prospect today, Mr. Hall said:

Real Divorce Great Benefit.

"If it is true that the interstate commerce commission will order the divorcement of the ownership of the railroads and the package freight boat lines operating on the Great Lakes, the probabilities are that the resulting independence of the boat lines, if it is real and they are uncontrolled by railroad influence, will be of great benefit to the people of the Northwest.

"Railroad ownership of the boat lines on the Great Lakes was prompted by the desire of the railways to do away with the water competition. As early as 1890 railroads reaching from Buffalo to Chicago were complaining to their Eastern rail connections that something must be done to reduce the difference between the all-rail rates and the rail-and-lake rates, which differences—representing the cheaper cost of carriage by lake than by rail, were attracting a large tarffic to the lakes—or the business of the railways would be swamped. Efforts were made at different times to advance the rates but the interests of the carriers were not the same in all cases, and they were not very successful.

Community of Interest.

"In 1889 and 1900 the community of interests plan of the Eastern railroads began to make itself felt. The New York Central bought the Lake Shore, the Michigan Central, the Big Four, the Cincinnati & Northern, and the Nickel Plate. The Pennsylvania and the New York Central acquired large interests in Baltimore & Ohio, Norfolk & Western and Chesapeake & Ohio. The Pennsylvania railroad bought the Anchor line. The New York Central, Lehigh Valley, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western and Erie railroads bought the Northern Steamship company, formerly owned by the Great Northern railway, and immediately after these deals had been closed, the rail-and-lake rates were advanced without any change in the all-rail rates. In 1907 the Mutual Transit company bought the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Buffalo Steamship company from the Soo Line railroad and immediately thereafter there was another advance in the rail-and-lake rates without any change in the all-rail rates.

Rates Continue to Advance.

"Since that time there have been other advances in the rail-and-lake rates without any change in the all-rail rates. Prior to 1901 the first class rate from New York to Chicago was 54 cents, via rail-and-lake. The routes by ocean-and-rail, of which the route from New York to Norfolk by ocean, thence by rail to Chicago, is a fair example, maintained a rate of 65 cents, first class, while the all-rail rate from New York to Chicago was 75 cents. The several advances in the rail-and-lake rates brought them up to 62 cents, first class, from New York to Chicago, which was only 3 cents under the rates maintained by ocean-and-rail lines. The ocean-and-rail lines promptly dropped their rates during the season of navigation on the lakes to meet the rail-and-lake figure and a large part of the Chicago traffic was diverted from the lake lines.

Policy Works Well.

"Thus we see the policy of the Eastern railroads working out very nicely. The rail-and-lake rates were advanced to a point where the ocean-and-rail and the all-rail lines could handle a large part of the business. This business was taken away from the lake lines. Naturally, the lake lines' earnings began to fall off and this condition was made an excuse for urging further advances in the rail-and-lake rates in order to bolster up the failing earnings of the boat lines, which, of course, only resulted in the further narrowing of the differentials between the lake routes and the all-rail routes and the further loss of business on the part of the boat lines to their all-rail owners and competitors.

Shipper Has No Choice.

"Another feature of this control of the boats by the railroads was the fact that each railroad had a boat line of its own. Through routes and joint rates were maintained only between a railroad and its particular boat line. A shipper had no choice of what boat line he would use. If a shipment left New York destined to Duluth over the Pennsylvania railroad it could only be carried by the Anchor line. If it started over the New York Central railroad it could only be carried by the Western Transit company and, although the railroads maintained more boats in service than were necessary to carry the tonnage, the shipper could not take advantage of the first sailing from Buffalo, but must wait until a boat owned by the particular railroad which brought the shipment into Buffalo was ready to sail. This duplication of service naturally was very expensive and the boats were sailing with a very small percentage of their carrying capacities filled. The cost of carrying these light cargoes was very high and this was urged as the reason why rates should be advanced. Thus it is shown clearly that advances in rates did not, by any manner of means, cause an increase in revenue to the boat lines.

Fighting Advance.

"In the '5 per cent rate advance case' Duluth and Chicago resisted the efforts of the railways to raise the rail-and-lake rates the same amount as the all-rail rates were raised and the interstate commerce commission unanimously refused, both in the original decision in the '5 per cent case' and in the supplemental decision to permit the rail-and-lake advances. Now the railroads have again advanced the rail-and-lake rates and with no other reason than to maintain the differences between those rates and the all-rail rates, which will result in very little of the business moving over the lake routes. Duluth and Chicago are again opposing these advances. The divorcement of the boat lines from the railroads, it is hoped, will do away with a great many of these ills which the railroad influence has brought upon the lakes.

Other Rates Reduced.

"During all this period, when the rail-and-lake rates were being advanced on package freight carried in boats owned by the railways, the rates on bulk freight carried in independent boats, such as ore, grain and coal, have been materially reduced. In 1901 the ore rate was 80 cents per gross ton; in 1914 60 cents per gross ton. In other words, while the ore rate was being reduced 25 per cent per gross ton through the increase in the size of the boats engaged in carrying ore, the deepening of the channels and general improvements in the conditions of navigation and the aids thereto, the package freight rates, although the boats engaged in that business were very much improved and were given the free use of the splendid government waterways on the Great Lakes, were constantly advanced.

"The reduction in the rate on package freight from Eastern points to Duluth, ordered by the interstate commerce commission in the Duluth rail-and-lake case, brought the first class rate from Duluth down from 68 to 62 cents, but this latter rate is still 2 cents per 100 pounds higher than the rate which was maintained in Duluth prior to the advance in 1901 and 8 cents per 100 pounds higher than the rate which was then carried between New York and Chicago, which rate members of the traffic commission insist is a reasonable rate and which should be established in place of the present rate of 62 cents.

Will Be Great Benefit.

"It is hoped that the divorcement of the railroads from the boat lines, if it can be made effective, will have a tendency, at least, to change the situation so that the people will be given the full benefit of the cheapest possible rates to be made over the wonderful Great Lakes highway.

"The traffic commission has always tried to deal fairly with the shippers of Duluth and with the carriers which serve them, but the traffic commission has never been, is not now and probably never will be willing to see the Great Lakes in any way hampered, restricted or entangled so as to prevent their fullest possible use, in order that the people of the great Northwest may enjoy the benefits resulting from their ability to reach the markets of the world, with their products, at the lowest possible cost and to receive from the great manufacturing centers of the East those articles which they must have for their comfort and happiness at the lowest possible cost to them. The divorcement of the railroads from the boat lines should be a long step in the right direction towards the triumph of the 'Duluth idea.'"

MRS. DONALD S. ANDREWS.

(Sometimes Mrs. Hayne and "Baroness Vecsera.")

Donald Shields Andrews, a senior at Yale and a son of Matthew Andrews, a prominent citizen of Cleveland, has married Mrs. Alma V. Hayne who sometimes calls herself the "Baroness Vecsera." Her first husband was an English army officer. He is said to be now at the front. He sued her some years ago for divorce, naming as co-respondent another rich youth who had followed her from place to place in spite of the efforts of his parents to stop him. This suit was discontinued, and Capt. Hayne and his wife were reunited for a time. Then he disappeared and she sued him for a divorce which she obtained last August. Young Andrews has been pursuing her with ardor and his parents, hearing that he planned an elopement, had detectives get after him and at one time they kept him a prisoner in a New York hotel by taking away his clothing. His mother went on and took him to college. He eluded her and it is now announced that he married Mrs. Hayne. Mrs. Andrews has claimed that she is a daughter of the late Crown Prince Rudolph of Austria and Marie Vecsera, the young woman with whom he was infatuated and for whom he is supposed to have died.

ON LAST LAP OF GLOBE TOUR

"Pittsie" Ryan in Duluth After Traveling 45,000 Miles.

Newsboy Tells Remarkable Experiences While on Prize Jaunt.

"Pittsie" Ryan, one of the best known newsboys in the world, is in Duluth today on the last lap of a trip around the world. He has traveled 45,000 miles, taking in many places of interest. His trip was begun four years and nine months ago at Alberta, Can., and he has three months still before him to complete the tour and share with seven other newsboys a prize offered by a number of Alberta newspapers.

"Pittsie" looked a little road worn this morning as he came into The Herald office, but he said a shave and a little rest would put him all to the good again. Of all the scenes he has witnessed so far, he declares that the Lake Superior region "has 'em all skinned."

Naturally he has had many strange adventures. He was in Germany when war was declared, and got out of the Kaiser's realms after being arrested four times. He got to Belgium just in time to see the great battles around Liege. From there he traveled on to London and back to the U. S. A.

In every country where he has traveled, "Pittsie" has sold papers. Most of the long distance trips overland have been on foot.

Has Saved $500.

Already he has saved up more than $500, the amount stipulated by the donors of the prize, who require that each boy pay his own expenses and save up that amount on the trip.

One of the longest walking stunts done by "Pittsie" during his trip was from Cape Town to Cairo, a distance of 4,700 miles, through Rhodesia and Belgian Congo. While on this lap of the journey, he took the black water fever, caused from the sting of a poisonous African fly.

One of the interesting parts of the great souvenir collection acquired on his trip, is about 1,000 autographs, including the names of many of the most noted persons in the world. Members of parliament, crown princes, generals and public officials from all parts of the world are in this rare collection. The Boer generals de Wet and Botha were persuaded to sign their names in this book.

Mayor Prince, members of the city council and other prominent men of Duluth will be visited by "Pittsie," and their autographs will be secured if possible for the autograph book.

He will probably stay in Duluth two or three days before starting for Canada.

SMALLWOOD DOG NAMED "JUDGE"

Canine Takes Master's Title as Cognomen; Few Take Out Licenses.

"Judge" is the name of Judge W. H. Smallwood's dog and city hall employes are trying to figure out whether the animal was named before or after election.

The judge purchased a dog license yesterday and announced that the animal's name is "Judge." And that's how it is recorded in the city treasurer's office.

Dog owners are slow in purchasing their licenses and from now on animals without the 1915 tag may be picked up by the police or dog catchers. So far 257 licenses have been taken out since May 1.

Some of the odd names recorded during the last few days follow: Nuisance, Tough, Colonel, Battler, Jeff, Pinkie, Clyde, Kurach, Bullet, Scoop, Romeo, Keedak and Ginger.

MAY MODIFY ORDINANCE

Jitney Men Ask Changes in Measure to Aid "Infant Industry."

Would Provide for Surety Bond in Place of $15,000 Insurance.

Duluth's jitney ordinance was sharply criticized at the council meeting last night by Capt. C. C. Teare, attorney for the Duluth Jitney association, and as a result several amendments will be added before it comes for a final vote at the meeting next Monday evening. The council chamber was crowded with drivers of jitneys and citizens interested in the new legislation.

In addition, communications from E. J. Filiatrault and Commissioner Merritt were read by City Clerk Borgen. The letters, both lengthy, exhorted the council to pass fair legislation and to see that an infant industry is not throttled by unfair laws. They both appealed in behalf of the jitney drivers and urged the commissioners to see that the jitneys will not be driven off Duluth streets by too stringent rulings.

Favors Recommendations.

Virtually every recommendation made by Capt. Teare was agreed upon by the councilmen, and during this week Commissioner Silberstein, author of the ordinance, will hold a conference with the former for the purpose of preparing several amendments. The ordinance will receive its third reading next Monday evening, when it will come up for passage.

Among some of the changes proposed by Capt. Teare are the following:

That the section relating to liability insurance amounting to $15,000 be stricken out and the filing of a surety bond be inserted in its stead.

That vehicles be permitted to carry more passengers than there are seats, if the passengers are all of one party and it is done with the consent of all the members.

That vehicles be permitted to receive or discharge passengers at the curb, or "as near thereto as the vehicle can approach."

That vehicles receive or discharge passengers only from the sidewalk, or "as near thereto as possible."

That no vehicle travel more than ten miles an hour, within a specified district, to include Third avenue east and Eighth avenue west.

That vehicles be permitted to receive or discharge passengers in public parks or boulevards.

That vehicles must stop within fifty feet of a crossing to receive or discharge passengers.

That no light be required in the rear portion of the vehicle.

That the license fee of $20 be reduced to at least $5 a year.

Provide for Surety Bond.

When Capt. Teare objected to the liability insurance required, he was told that an amendment had already been prepared, allowing for the filing of a surety bond instead. He agreed to this change and it will be incorporated in the amendments.

Regarding the carrying of passengers, Capt. Teare explained that a family might want to take a ride and because of the ordinance the driver could accommodate only as many as there are seats in his car. The fact that automobiles might be lined up alongside a curb would prohibit a driver from driving to the sidewalk and Capt. Teare recommended that "as near thereto as possible" be added. In order that there will be no mistakes in defining the business and residence districts of Duluth he recommended that the speed limit of ten miles an hour be permitted between Third avenue east and Eighth avenue west.

No Lights in Car.

In view of the fact that jitneys will be allowed to go through the parks, Capt. Teare suggested that they be permitted to receive or discharge passengers. It would be impossible, he explained, to keep the rear part of the car lit at night, as the light would interfere with the driver. He must have darkness back of him, Capt. Teare explained, as does a street car motorman or an engineer on a train.

Capt. Teare opposed a $20 license, claiming that it would cease to be a license, but a burdensome tax. He declared that it should not be over $5 a year, and if possible, $2.50 a year.

Most of the suggestions made by Capt. Teare apparently appealed to the commissioners and after the ordinance was given its second reading, it was decided to prepare a set of amendments.

REED SPEAKS AT CONVENTION

Tells Water Plant Managers of Duluth's Extension Methods.

How Property Owners Are Made to Pay the Cost.

D. A. Reed, manager of the water and light department, delivered an address on "Assessing Costs of Extension in a Municipally Owned Plant" at the thirty-fifth annual convention of the American Water Works association in session at Cincinnati. Mr. Reed left last Friday to attend the convention.

In his address Mr. Reed explained in full the system of charging for extensions made in Duluth. It is the only plan of its kind in operation in this country, a feature of it being the fact that vacant property is also assessed and that the department makes a charge of 8 per cent on all money it advances to conduct the work.

There are about 1,600 water and light managers of the country, who belong to the association.

Special Benefits.

Mr. Reed's address this morning follows in part:

"It has been generally conceded that certain civic improvements or conveniences constructed or furnished by a municipality may not be wholly paid for by general taxation, but may be assessed as special benefits against abutting property. This assessment may cover the cost in whole, or in part, but the principle is recognized that a local improvement of any nature must of necessity carry with it some direct benefit to the abutting property. It is also true that no improvement can be made without some benefit to the municipality at large. With improvements of this nature we may properly class sewers, street improvements of all kinds, water works, gas plants, and possibly other utilities.

"An improvement of any kind which is largely local in nature, that is, which from the nature of its construction is largely an accommodation to the abutting property only, is found in lateral sewers and water mains of minimum capacities supplying or serving local properties only, and which do not provide capacities in excess of local requirements, and which are not indispensable for serving more distant territory.

"The logical method for assessing the cost of any improvement, the product of any utility, or the benefits from any service rendered, is upon the interests directly benefited. In private business where one interest often benefits largely from the enterprise of another, there is no practicable method of applying this rule unless they are a customer or a purchaser of the products of that utility, and even then the costs are often disproportionate to the service rendered on account of the escape of such interests from the contribution as do not purchase directly the products of that enterprise.

"In the case of a municipal water supply, these matters seem to be much easier of solution, and it seems quite practicable to assess costs of construction directly upon the property susceptible of being served, and to assess the operating cost, directly upon the customers or patrons of the utility, in proportion to the quantity of water consumed. This condition, it must be observed, is not met entirely by a rate charged upon a demand and output basis such as is in effect in New Orleans, for the reason that the demand charge does not extend to vacant property.

Vacant Property.

"To those who believe that vacant property should not escape taxation for any improvement that directly enhances its value, this fact will appeal. It would also seem to be a fair check or restraint upon interests that invest in idle property with a view of gain which results largely from the activities of others and in which its existence directly increases the cost of every utility that passes the premises.

"It is assumed that a municipal water plant should be self-sustaining in every sense of the word. It should neither give nor receive any benefit or consideration of any kind from the taxpayer, the city or the individual.

"It is also quite possible an extension may be made where there is no consumption for the first year. In this case all the property pays the percentage assessment with no credits, and the utility receives the exact amount necessary to pay interest and sinking fund charges.

"The principles and results involved in the methods as outlined above seem to be as follows:

"1. All charges, whether of installation or of operation against property or a customer, is based upon actual cost.

2. Costs of distributing systems are ordinarily borne by abutting property except when the consumption is sufficiently large to assume the whole or part of this expense when the charge is gradually transferred to the customer.

"3. The customer bears operating costs and such installation charges as cover reservoirs, pumping machinery, stations, intakes and the larger distributing mains.

"4. As the municipal plant increased in size and in the amount of its revenues, its percentages of indebtedness will gradually decrease, the proportion of interest and sinking fund in the rates charged for water, will decrease until eventually, when no indebtedness exists, this factor will become zero and there will be no credits against the assessments. They will have to be met in full cash payments or the consumer may discount the entire amount of his individual assessment by paying cash, taking advantage of the 26 per cent.

"5. The percentage plan enables the small property owner who is a consumer to obtain extensions on very easy terms, with practically no additional expense over and above the regular water rates.

"6. It seems to be a practicable way for real estate owners to secure extensions of gas and water service in newly platted additions without throwing any of the burden upon the utility or its customers.

"7. It furnishes a profitable investment at 8 per cent net for the sinking funds of the department until the time arrives when it will be needed to retire bonds, at which time, if the money, or any portion of it cannot be withdrawn, refunding bonds or new bonds in whole or in part may be issued. Eventually, if the rates for service have been correctly established, the time will be reached when its entire indebtedness will be retired. This will be true if depreciation and maintenance has been provided for in the operating expenses as well as interest and sinking fund on the indebtedness."

GOVERNMENT ASKS DISMISSAL OF SUIT

Claims Lack of Jurisdiction in Case of Riggs National Bank.

Washington, May 11.—Counsel for the government yesterday filed motions in the district supreme court, asking for dismissal for lack of jurisdiction of the suit of the Riggs National bank against Secretary McAdoo, Comptroller Williams and United States Treasurer Burke, who were charged in the bank's complaint, with conspiring to wreck that institution.

The motion marked the first step that the government has formally taken to defend its officers against the suit. Today or Wednesday, counsel will present to the court affidavits and exhibits designed to justify the course taken by the officials in instances which formed the basis for the bank's charge and its petition for injunctions.

Wednesday the case is scheduled to come up in open court.

Three motions were made by the government, one for each official sued. It is declared in each that the complaint of the bank is directed at Messrs. McAdoo, Williams and Burke, not as individuals but as officers of the United States government, that the government alone would be affected by any decree entered in the case, and that the suit, is therefore one against the United States and beyond the jurisdiction of the court and the government cannot be made a party to such a suit without its consent. The court also is asked to dismiss the suit on the ground that the bank has an adequate remedy at law, and not by seeking injunctions in an equity court.

The bill is signed by Louis D. Brandeis, Samuel Untermeyer, Jesse C. Adkins, special government counsel.

PLACES BLAME UPON BRITAIN

Germany Expresses Sympathy for Loss of Lives on the Lusitania.

Berlin, May 11, via London.—The following dispatch has been sent by the German foreign office to the German embassy at Washington:

"Please communicate the following to the state department: The German government desires to express its deepest sympathy at the loss of lives on board the Lusitania. The responsibility rests, however, with the British government, which, through its plan of starving the civilian population of Germany, has forced Germany to resort to retaliatory measures.

"In spite of the German offer to stop the submarine war in case the starvation plan was given up, British merchant vessels are being generally armed with guns and have repeatedly tried to ram submarines, so that a previous search was impossible.

"They cannot, therefore, be treated as ordinary merchant vessels. A recent declaration made to the British parliament by the parliamentary secretary in answer to a question by Lord Charles Beresford said that at the present, practically all British merchant vessels were armed and provided with hand grenades.

Carried War Material.

"Besides, it has been openly admitted by the English press that the Lusitania on previous voyages repeatedly carried large quantities of war material. On the present voyage the Lusitania carried 5,400 cases of ammunition, while the rest of the cargo also consisted chiefly of contraband.

"If England, after repeated official and unofficial warnings, considered herself able to declare that that boat ran no risk, and thus lightheartedly assumed responsibility for the human life on board a steamer which, owing to its armament and cargo was liable to destruction, the German government, in spite of its heartfelt sympathy for the loss of American lives, cannot but regret that Americans felt more inclined to trust to English promises rather than to pay attention to the warnings from the German side.

Another Report Untrue.

Philadelphia, May 11.—Secretary Daniels of the navy department branded as untrue the report originating in New York that President Wilson had ordered canceled the naval demonstration at that point. "There is absolutely nothing to the rumor," declared the secretary on his arrival here last night to attend the reception at which President Wilson addressed 4,000 newly naturalized citizens and their families.

CODE CHANGES MEET PROTEST

Charities Head Would Hold Up Requirements in Housing Measure.

Gives Council Reasons for Dissenting From Report of Committee.

Many changes in the housing code as proposed by a general committee of several Duluth organizations are opposed by E. A. Silberstein, president of the Associated Charities, who filed a letter of protest with the city council yesterday afternoon. The communication was read at the commission meeting last evening.

As the Associated Charities was instrumental in preparing the present housing code and the organization did not participate in the discussions or findings of the general committee, Mr. Silberstein states that it is his duty to comment on some of the proposed changes. The general committee included representatives from the Commercial club, the Builders' Exchange, the Real Estate Exchange and the Duluth Association of Building Owners and Managers.

Health Chief Aim.

"The Associated Charities did not participate in the discussion or findings of the general committee," states the letter. "We therefore feel free and consider it a duty to comment on the proposed changes in the housing code.

"In approaching the problems that change in the present code give rise to, the Associated Charities occupies a slightly different position than any of the organizations represented on the general committee. We are interested primarily in the health, morals and social environment of the people. It is but natural that each organization should seek to favor such changes as would make the code as nearly unobjectionable as possible to its particular organization."

Following are the more important objections made by Mr. Silberstein against the amendments to the housing code:

That it would be unwise to raise the limits of percentage of lot area, which may be occupied.

That the minimum depth of yards for dwellings should not be reduced from 10 to 8 feet, but that minimum depth for tenements should be increased from 10 to 12 feet.

That the reduction of the minimum width of courts from 5 to 4 feet would leave little space for light or air and would be unwise.

Stricter Regulation.

That there should be no change in the section relating to the sizes of rooms, as one room should be at least 150 feet square and not 140 feet as proposed, but that 88 square feet might be a minimum for all other rooms, instead of 100 feet now in force.

That the height of non-fireproof tenements should not be increased.

That the minimum width of rear stairways should not be decreased from 3 feet, 6 inches to 3 feet, 3 inches in buildings over two stories high.

That there should be no change in the height of wooden tenements.

That there should be no change in the code allowing any overcrowding of rooms.

That the authority should not be transferred from the health department to the building inspector.

Three of the suggestions made by the general committee are favored by Mr. Silberstein, these relating to the changes permitting bath room windows to open on smaller courts than other windows, the partitioning of closets in tenements and that septic tanks should be installed in all tenement buildings.

DYSPEPSIA OVERCOME

Tone Up the Stomach With Hood's Sarsaparilla.

When you have dyspepsia your life is miserable. You have a bad taste in your mouth, a tenderness at the pit of your stomach, a feeling of puffy fullness, headache, heartburn, and sometimes nausea.

Dyspepsia is difficult digestion—that is what the word means—and the only way to get rid of it is to give vigor and tone to the stomach and the whole digestive system. Hood's Sarsaparilla, sold by all druggists, is the one medicine which acts on the stomach through the blood and also directly. Its beneficial effects are felt at once. Improvement begins immediately.

Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, makes the rich red blood that is needed for perfect digestion, and builds up the whole system. No other medicine can take its place.

SMILES AS HE STABS GUEST

Emil Vikkurt Takes Quick Revenge for Being Denied Treat.

Desperate Struggle Occurs When Bystanders Capture Assailant.

After being knocked down by Andrew Dahl in a saloon row at 601 Garfield avenue last night, Emil Vikkurt, 30, laborer, arose smiling, placed his arm around his assailant's neck, and then stabbed him in the abdomen with a knife.

Dahl was taken to St. Luke's hospital in the police emergency, and although badly cut, will recover, according to Police Surgeon Klein, who attended him.

After a desperate attempt to escape, during which Vikkurt was badly cut about the face and arms, he was knocked down by Frank Kohner, proprietor of the place, who held him prisoner until the police arrived.

"Vikkurt had been asking almost everyone in the place for some tobacco," said the proprietor, in telling of the incident. "He finally came to Dahl, and when refused, grew abusive. Dahl pushed him back with his arm and sent him sprawling.

"Thereupon Vikkurt arose smiling as if it were a joke, and after chatting with a companion for a moment, threw his arm around Dahl and stabbed him.

"Some bystanders blocked Vikkurt's way when he tried to escape, and he fell, cutting himself on some beer bottles. He fought so hard that I finally struck him over the head, to keep him quiet until the officers arrived."

Vikkurt is charged with first degree assault.

speed of eighteen knots. I was on the port side and heard Second Officer Hefford call out, 'Here's a torpedo!'

Was Wake of Torpedo.

"I ran to the other side and saw clearly the wake of a torpedo. Smoke and steam came up between the last two funnels. There was a slight shock. Immediately after the first explosion there was another report, but that may possibly have been internal.

"I at once gave the order to lower the boats down to rails and I directed that women and children should get into them."

"I also had all the bulkheads closed," Captain Turner continued. "Between the time of passing Fastnet at about 11 o'clock and of the torpedoing I saw no sign whatever of any submarines. There was some haze along the Irish coast, and when we were near Fastnet I slowed down to 15 knots. I was in wireless communication with shore all the way across."

Heard of Submarines.

Captain Turner was asked whether he had received any message in regard to the presence of submarines off the Irish coast. He replied in the affirmative. Questioned regarding the nature of the message, he said:

"I respectfully refer you to the admiralty for an answer."

"I also gave orders to stop the ship," Captain Turner continued. "But we could not stop. We found that the engines were out of commission. It was not safe to lower boats until the speed was off the vessel. As a matter of fact, there was a perceptible headway on her up to the time she went down.

"She floated eighteen minutes after the torpedo struck her. My watch stopped at 2:36. I was picked up from among the wreckage and afterwards was brought aboard a trawler.

"No warship was convoying us. I saw no warship and none was reported to me as having been seen. At the time I was picked up, I noticed bodies floating on the surface, but saw no living persons."

"Eighteen knots was not the normal speed of the Lusitania, was it?

Speed Reduced.

"At ordinary times," answered Captain Turner, "she could make twenty-five knots, but in war times her speed was reduced to twenty-one knots. My reason for going eighteen knots was that I wanted to arrive at Liverpool bar without stopping and within two or three hours of high water."

"Was there a lookout kept for submarines, having regard to previous warning?"

"Yes, we had double lookouts."

"Were you going a zig-zag course at the time the torpedoing took place?"

"No, it was bright weather and land was clearly visible."

"Was it possible for a submarine to approach without having been seen?"

"Oh yes, quite possible."

Boats on Port Side Useless.

"Something has been said regarding the impossibility of launching the boats on the port side."

"Yes," said Capt. Turner, "owing to the listing of the ship."

"How many boats were launched safely?"

"I cannot say."

"Were any launched safely?"

"Yes, and one or two on the port side."

"Were your orders promptly carried out?"

"Yes."

"Was there any panic on board?"

"No, there was no panic at all; it was almost calm."

"How many persons were on board?"

"There were 1,500 passengers and about 600 crew."

By the foreman of the jury:

"In the face of the warnings at New York that the Lusitania would be torpedoed, did you make any application to the admiralty for an escort?"

"No, I left that to them. It is their business, not mine. I had to carry out my orders to go, and I would do it again."

Capt. Turner uttered the last words of this reply with great emphasis.

Capt. Turner, answering another question, said he received no warning from the lookout until the torpedo struck. After physicians had testified that the victims had met their death through prolonged immersion and exhaustion, the coroner summed up the case and the jury brought in its verdict.

WAR BETWEEN ITALY AND CENTRAL EMPIRES IS REGARDED AS NOW ALMOST UNAVOIDABLE

were annihilated. A press dispatch from Athens to London says that the allies made important advances on Friday and Saturday and that the Turkish losses in the fighting were estimated at 45,000 men.

RUSS REPORT VICTORY.

Victory in several engagements along the Carpathian front is reported in an official Russian statement. Dispatches to Switzerland say the Russians have begun a strong offensive at Tarnow, reported to have been captured last week by the Austrians, as well as in the Baltic provinces to the north. German and Austrian accounts of important successes in these regions, however, have not been qualified.

A German aeroplane flew over St. Denis, a suburb of Paris, today and dropped two bombs. Five persons were wounded.

GENERAL ENGAGEMENT.

The newly inaugurated offensive movement of the allies over a long section of the front in Belgium and Northwestern France has developed a general engagement of considerable intensity. The official statement from Berlin today conceded that the allies have won ground between Carency and Neuville, but attacks elsewhere are said to have been repelled. The Germans announce the capture of French trenches over a width of nearly one-fourth of a mile in the vicinity of Berry-au-Bac.

The Paris war office states that the allies made gains yesterday in Belgium near Arras, France, and also at several other points and that German attacks were beaten back.

RUSSIAN CLAIMS.

Russians' claims to victories in the Carpathians are offset by the German war office report that further striking gains have been made. It is said that attempts of the Russians to halt the pursuit of the Austro-German forces were defeated with heavy losses to the Russians.

Italian officers and men in Switzerland to the age of 34 were ordered yesterday to rejoin their regiments immediately. Austrian and Bavarian forces are concentrating in the Tyrol.

War Declared, Is Rumor.

Paris, May 11.—It is being persistently rumored in Paris that Germany and Austria-Hungary have already declared or are about to declare war on Italy in anticipation of such action on her part directed against themselves. This report, however, has received no confirmation of any kind.

Another rumor current on the bourse today was that the Italian government has signed an agreement with the allies, Great Britain, France and Russia, to take part in the war not later than May 26. This rumor also is without confirmation.

All Parties United.

French observers of the political situation in Italy infer from the audience yesterday between King Victor Emmanuel and Former Prime Minister Giolitti that the non-intervention party in Italy has determined to withdraw all opposition to the war.

Consequently the Italian parties would be united in support of a war policy, in the judgment of French observers, based upon two fundamental considerations, namely, that wrongs have been done to Serbia and Belgium, and that the racial aspirations of the Italians on the eastern shore of the Adriatic and in the Mediterranean now can be satisfied.

Military writers are presenting the argument that war for Germany and Austria on a third frontier undoubtedly will make the resistance of the central empires on their other fronts more feeble, so much that with the advent of Italy, victory over Germany is set for the middle of the summer.

Conflict Unavoidable.

Rome, May 10, via Paris, May 11.—Although negotiations with the central empires still are pending and there is a bare possibility the influence of Former Premier Giolitti may avert war, military preparations pointing to Austria as an inevitable antagonist are so thorough and vigorous that a conflict seems unavoidable.

German Statement.

Berlin, May 11, via London, 3:30 p. m.—The German general headquarters staff today gave out the following statement:

"Yesterday morning an English ship was driven away from Westende by our fire.

"We made further progress east of Ypres and captured five machine guns. The French continued their attacks southwest of the Lorette hills and at the villages of Ablayn and Carency. All their attacks were repulsed. The number of prisoners made here by us was increased to 800.

"Between Carency and Neuville the French still remain in possession of the trenches taken by them. The battle continues.

"An English flying machine was shot down at a point southwest of Lille.

"Southwest of Berry-au-Bac and in the wood south of Longville-au-Bois our troops yesterday took by storm a position of two lines of trenches situated behind each other and stretching over a width of 400 meters. We also took a number of unwounded prisoners and captured two mine throwers with much ammunition.

"Enemy infantry attacks north of Flirey and in the forest of La Petre failed with considerable losses to our opponents.

"In the eastern theater yesterday the situation was unchanged. The Russians attempted to arrest the pursuit of our army under General Mackensen on the Brzoko-Brzosowa line on the branch of the Strodnika-Brzeznaka and at Ropozya, northeast of Ebeca, and Szernzyn on the Vistula. Their object failed completely. By night the Russian lines were pierced in many places, especially at Brzosko and between Brzosko and Lutora, after a desperate attack by several Russian divisions from Sanok in the direction of Bezko had failed in the morning with very heavy losses for the enemy. The pursuit continues."

ed. We are married men, and it means something to us to have our reputations kept clean.

Usually Incorrect.

Mr. Merritt said the morning paper was usually incorrect in its statements and had lied in this instance if it had accused him of saying conductors "knocked down" fares. He then took out his typewritten statement, which he said was the exact statement read before the council, and asked the street car men to read it and then come to him with their grievances if they had any.

What He Did Say.

After reading over Mr. Merritt's copy of his statement, the street car men were more indignant than ever. Following is one of the statements in Mr. Merritt's paper:

"From my own observation, I know that the 'pay as you enter car' would save the company much revenue in the way of missed fares and 'knock downs', which would to some extent make up the deficit caused by jitney competition."

Upon reading this statement, the street car men said that they would call upon Mr. Merritt again late this afternoon, and demand a retraction. If this was not forthcoming, they said, they would take legal steps to force him to do so.

Denies Running Jitneys.

Mr. Merritt was highly indignant when accused by the street car men of operating two jitneys. He said the statement was a lie.

"I did say I had two automobiles," said Mr. Merritt, "but I did not say they were jitneys. I often carry passengers, but charge nothing for the rides. I use the cars for my own use and am going to get another."

Mr. Johnson said he could not prove that Mr. Merritt was running his cars as jitneys, and would apologize if he found he was in error.

The street car men are expected to call on Mr. Merritt this afternoon and definite action will probably be decided upon if he refuses to retract.

a further check. The counter-attacks to the north of Neuville Saint Vaast, preceded by a violent bombardment, were completely repulsed and we retained all the ground gained by us, at the same time inflicting very heavy losses on our assailants. On the remainder of the front from Loos to Arras there was no counter-attack yesterday.

"Following the bombardment of Dunkirk, reported yesterday morning during which three shells fell but without hurting anybody, or inflicting any damage, the Germans threw eleven shells on the town of Berguez, five miles southeast of Dunkirk. Twelve persons were killed and eleven were wounded. Our batteries at once opened fire and they put a stop to the shelling of the enemy, which was not resumed during the day.

"On the rest of the front there has been nothing to report.

Bombarded Hangar.

"One of our aviators yesterday bombarded a hangar for dirigible balloons at Maubeuge and started a fire. An aviator of the enemy threw bombs on the railroad station at Doullens, twenty miles north of Amiens, but without doing any damage. Another aviator of the enemy, pursued between the Argonne and the Meuse by a French airman, was compelled to come down within the German lines where his machine took fire.

"On the other hand the Germans brought down yesterday a British aviator and British soldiers were successful in bringing down two German airmen."

PRESIDENT WILSON NOT YET READY TO ANNOUNCE POLICY

Lusitania tragedy or wait until he had gathered further facts was something which none of the secretaries themselves seemed to know.

Chairman Stone of the senate foreign relations committee discussed the Lusitania disaster with the president before the cabinet meeting began, and later said he had no expectation that an extra session of congress would be called.

"I am for peace with honor," said Senator Stone. "I do not know what the president plans to do about the Lusitania. It is his problem, and it is useless for others to attempt to advise him."

Senator Stone declared he favored passage of the government ship purchase bill which failed in the last congress. Such a step, he said, would provide American ships to carry American passengers and goods. He added that he took it for granted that the United States would find means to protect its own ships.

La Follette For Peace.

Senator La Follette, another White House caller today, opposed the suggestion that diplomatic relations with Germany be broken off. "I am for peace," said Senator La Follette. "I want the United States to take a firm stand, but I am opposed to war."

The Philadelphia speech was interpreted by official Washington nevertheless as meaning that whatever course is pursued the United States probably would endeavor to serve the cause of humanity by appealing to Germany to end her submarine warfare against unarmed merchant ships carrying noncombatants.

Message to Kaiser.

In some quarters the suggestion was made that the president might forego the usual means of diplomatic correspondence and address a message to Emperor William. It was pointed out by persons hitherto in the president's confidence that he might first try to prevent a recurrence of such an attack as was made on the Lusitania, taking up subsequently the question of reparation for the loss of American lives.

Germany's disavowal of any intention to destroy American lives was looked upon by many officials as significant of Germany's desire to maintain friendly relations with the United States and that her main purpose was to terrorize Great Britain and paralyze trans-Atlantic travel.

In Session Three Hours.

The cabinet was in session nearly three hours, the longest meeting held in several months. None of the members would deny that the Lusitania had been discussed, but all refused absolutely to comment. The demeanor generally of the cabinet members was grave and reserved.

Secretary Bryan, pressed with questions, declared:

"We must not discuss what occurs at cabinet meetings."

Secretary Daniels, asked whether the Atlantic fleet would pass through the Panama canal in July in accordance with previously announced plans, replied:

"I cannot answer that or any other question now."

Mr. Daniels was asked whether the review of the Atlantic fleet planned for next week in New York would be held. Yesterday in Philadelphia he denied that plans for the review would be changed. Today he answered the question by replying: "I cannot discuss that."

At the White House no intimation was forthcoming as to whether the president had decided on a course, but there was every indication that he had decided not to allow any intimation of his plans to leak out until he is all ready to make an announcement. White House officials declared there was nothing to be said at present to elaborate the statement made public Saturday.

The President's Speech.

Philadelphia, May 11.—While President Wilson made no allusion to the Lusitania tragedy in his speech to a gathering of 4,000 naturalized Americans here last night, his hearers interpreted his remarks to mean that, while the United States would remain at peace, it would seek to convince Germany of the injustice to mankind of the sinking of the liner with loss of the lives of many non-combatants.

"America," said the president, "must have the consciousness that on all sides it touches elbows and touches heart with all nations of mankind. The example of America must be a special example, and must be an example, not merely of peace, because it will not fight, but because peace is a healing and elevating influence of the world and strife is not.

"There is such a thing as a man being too proud to fight. There is such a thing as being so right that it does not need to convince others by force that it is right."

These remarks precipitated a tumult of applause and patriotic enthusiasm attended by a waving of thousands of small American flags. The president made no direct reference to the Lusitania tragedy, but the audience did not hesitate to read the application of his statement.

Humanity First.

The sentiment expressed in the president's speech, was epitomized later by one of his closest advisers as "humanity first." While it had not been determined, he said, exactly what steps would be taken by the United States in the present crisis, the idea uppermost in the president's mind was to show that whatever course is adopted —no matter how vigorous, it will have as its objective the good of humanity.

Introduced by Mayor Blankenburg, who spoke in distinctly German accent a welcome and an appeal for a single allegiance to the United States, the president carried forward the idea of the welding of foreign blood in the makeup of America by pointing out the true goal of right American citizenship to be a loyalty not to the country of one's birth, but to the land of one's adoption.

"While you bring," he said, "all countries with you, you come with a purpose of leaving all other countries behind you—bringing what is best of their spirit, but not looking over your shoulder or seeking to perpetuate what you leave in them. I would not certainly be one who suggested that a man cease to love the place of his origin. It is one thing to love the place where you were born, and another thing to dedicate yourself to the place where you go. You can't be an American if you think of yourself in groups. America does not consist of groups. A man who considers himself as belonging to a national group, is not yet an American * * *."

America and Humanity.

"My advice to you is to think first, not only of America, but to think first of humanity, and you do not love humanity if you seek to divide humanity in jealous camps."

The president was constantly interrupted by spontaneous outbursts of applause. He spoke clearly and so quiet was his audience of 15,000 that he could be heard distinctly in all parts of the great hall. Everywhere the red, white and blue bunting was displayed and a band, during the evening played patriotic airs. Some of the passages in his speech which the crowd applauded most loudly were these:

"I am sorry for the man who seeks to make personal capital out of the passions of his fellow man. He has lost the touch and ideal of America, for America was created to unite mankind by the passions that lift and unite, and not by the passions that separate and debase mankind.

"The man who seeks to divide man from man, group from group, interest from interest, in the United States, is striking at its very heart.

"I was born in America. You dreamed of what America was to be, and I hope you brought the dreams with you. No man who does not see visions, will ever realize any high hopes or undertake any great enterprise."

Arouses Enthusiasm.

In his peroration, the president aroused much enthusiasm when he said he had felt that he ought not to be away from Washington and after coming, he found that the gathering renewed his "spirit as an American."

"In Washington," he said, "men tell you so many things every day, that are not so, and I like to come and stand in the presence of my fellow citizens and drink out of the common fountain with them, feeling the sense of their support."

There was a tremendous ovation as the president finished his speech. Afterward he returned to the station, and entered his private car.

Because of the present status of international affairs, extraordinary precautions had been taken to guard the president during his stay in Philadelphia. Seven hundred and fifty policemen had been detailed for this duty. Seven detectives acted as a personal body guard and rode directly behind him through the streets. In addition hundreds of policemen led the procession and brought up the rear. The city troop acted as a guard of honor. This was the forty-fifth time the troop has escorted a president.

On his return trip from the hall the president proceeded for three miles along streets almost solidly lined with cheering people. Frequently he raised his hat and bowed. Automobile horns sounded a steady chorus. In the Broad street station of the Pennsylvania railroad, several thousand people cheered as the president stepped aboard his private car. He smiled and waved his hat to them. Soon afterward, the president retired.

Station Crowded.

The station was densely crowded when the president arrived. As he passed along lines of police, cheers went up from the assembled crowd. Mr. Wilson acknowledged them with smiles. He was escorted up Broad street by the mounted city troop of Philadelphia. The street was lined with automobile loads of people who shouted a noisy welcome. Thousands of people lined the walks. The handclapping and cheering was almost constant. He bowed, raised his hat and smiled gratefully.

When the president reached the convention hall, he was escorted to a seat by Mayor Rudolph Blankenburg. He found Secretaries Wilson and Daniels on the platform. The hall was densely packed. Little American flags were held by thousands who stood and waved and cheered as the president entered. The hall was decorated profusely with red, white and blue.

"Let us unite in singing America," were the words with which Mayor Blankenburg opened the meeting. The president stood with the crowd and joined in the singing. Everywhere there was enthusiasm.

The Rev. Henry M. Couden offered prayer, after which the speeches were begun.

In his prayer, Dr. Couden prayed that "peace be made stronger than war, and love stronger than hate," and also that the people of the United States might "stand behind their president in his righteous endeavor to lead the nation rightly."

Came From Abroad.

Mayor Blankenburg called attention to the fact that, like the other aliens, he had "come from foreign shores to find in the United States a home." He said that a "great responsibility" went with taking out citizenship papers in the United States, adding that new citizens must do more than swear allegiance to their adopted country. "Let me beseech you" he said, "to be Americans first, last and all the time, no matter what may happen in the world at large.

"No matter what our personal feelings for the country we left may be, our first allegiance is to the country of our adoption. I cannot impress this too strongly on account of the occurrences of the last eight months. Thank God we have a man in the White House who knows, who is just a man who knows what to do."

The crowd interrupted with a tumult of cheers, arose en masse from the balconies and floor and waved the stars and stripes. It was a remarkable demonstration of applause.

"I am perfectly willing" he went on "to leave the conduct of the great problem now confronting us in the hands of our great president."

When the mayor concluded, he was warmly applauded. He then introduced United States Judge Joseph Buffington and Secretary Wilson of the department of labor.

Secretary Wilson declared that new citizens must do more than simply obey the laws of the United States.

Outburst of Applause.

A sudden, spontaneous outburst of applause greeted the president when he arose to speak. Every one present leaped up, waving American flags. Waves of cheers broke over the hall, rising and falling. He bowed time and again, smiling his acknowledgment of his reception. The band played the "Star Spangled Banner."

In introducing the president, Mayor Blankenburg said:

"I present to you—God bless him—the president."

Mr. Wilson said in part:

"It warms my heart that you should give me such a reception; but it is not of myself that I wish to think tonight, but of those who have just become citizens of the United States. This is the only country in the world which experiences this constant and repeated rebirth. Other countries depend upon the multiplication of their own native people. This country is constantly drinking strength out of new sources by the voluntary association with it of great bodies of strong men and forward-looking women. And so, by the gift of the free will of independent people, it is constantly being renewed from generation to generation by the same process by which it was originally created.

"It is as if humanity had determined to see to it that this great nation, founded for the benefit of humanity, should not lack for the allegiance of the people of the world.

Allegiance to Great Ideals.

"You have just taken an oath of allegiance to the United States. Of allegiance to whom? Of allegiance to no one, unless it be God. Certainly not of allegiance to those who temporarily represent this great government. You have taken an oath of allegiance to a great ideal, to a great body of principles, to a great principle of the human race. * * * You cannot dedicate yourself to America unless you become in every respect and with every purpose of your will thorough Americans. You cannot become thorough Americans if you think of yourselves in groups.

"America does not consist of groups. A man who thinks of himself as belonging to a particular national group in America has not yet become an American; and the man who goes among you to trade upon your nationality is no worthy son to live under the Stars and Stripes.

"My urgent advice to you would be to always to think first of America and always to think first of humanity. You do not love humanity if you seek to divide humanity into jealous camps. Humanity can be welded together only by love, by sympathy, by justice, not by jealousy and hatred. * * *

The United States.

"It was but an historical accident, no doubt, that this great country was called 'the United States,' and yet I am very thankful that it has the word 'united' in its title; and the man who seeks to divide, man from man, group from group, interest from interest, in the United States, is striking at its very heart.

"You dreamed dreams of what America was to be, and I hope you brought the dreams with you. No man who does not see visions, will ever realize any high hope or undertake any high enterprise. Just because you brought dreams with you, America is more likely to realize the dreams such as you brought. You are enriching us if you came expecting us to be better than we are.

"See my friends, what that means; it means that Americans must have a consciousness different from the consciousness of every other nation in the world. I am not saying this with even the slightest thought of criticism of other nations. You know how it is with a family. A family gets centered on itself if it is not careful, and is less interested in the neighbors than it is in its own members.

Special Example.

"So a nation that is not constantly renewed out of new forces, is apt to have a narrowness and prejudice of family; whereas, America must have this consciousness, on all sides of how it touches elbows and hearts with all the nations of mankind. The example of America must be a special example. The example of America must be the example, not merely of peace because it will not fight, but of peace, because peace is a healing and elevating influence of the world, and strife is not. There is such a thing as a man being too proud too fight. There is such a thing as nations being so right that it does not need to convince others by force that it is right.

"I ought not to be away from Washington and yet I feel that it has renewed my spirit as an American. In Washington men sit down to many things every day that are not so, and I like to stand in the presence of a great body of my fellow citizens whether they have been my fellow citizens for a long or a short time, and drink, as it were, out of the common fountain with them and then go back feeling that you have so generously given me the sense of your support and of the living vitality in your hearts, of its great ideals which made America the hope of the world."

fictitious name, supposed to be a cousin of Darnell and with whom Darnell had been living in Kenosha, the defendant is alleged to have stated in a letter to Doris Vaughn.

Ruth Soper, the first witness called yesterday and who proved a favorable witness for the defense, did not resume the stand for re-direct examination today.

Introduced as Wife.

Mrs. Mary Bradford, Kenosha, superintendent of the schools when Darnell was a candidate for a Kenosha pulpit, testified that Darnell introduced Ruth Soper as his wife, and said the baby they had was an adopted infant.

Mrs. Bradford stated that after some rumors had been heard, Darnell was asked for an explanation by the trustees of the church and that he admitted an alliance with Ethel Spurgeon in Minnesota. The defendant also admitted, according to the witness, that he had married but one woman, Dorie Vaughn, and that through fear of exposure he had been forced to bring Ruth Soper to Kenosha from Owatonna. Mrs. Bradford also testified that at another time Darnell introduced Ruth Soper as his wife in a hotel lobby.

Prosecutor's Claim.

Prosecuting Attorney Goff, in addressing the jury yesterday said the government would attempt to show, among other things, that, while Darnell was living in Kenosha with Miss Ruth Soper, who he introduced as his wife in January last, he was at that time the husband of Doris Vaughn of Chicago. The government also claims to have evidence to the effect that Darnell, prior to that time and while he was making arrangements to take charge of a church at Owatonna, he introduced Miss Ethel Spurgeon of Avon, Ill., as his wife, and lived with her as such, while he was pastor of a church in the Minnesota town.

MORE BODIES FROM WRECK PICKED UP

Twelve More Will Be Taken to Queenstown From Baltimore.

Queenstown, May 11.—The number of bodies of victims of the torpedoing of the Cunard liner Lusitania at Baltimore, a small seaport on the southern Irish coast, was increased this morning to ten. Two other bodies have been brought ashore at Castle Townsend, near Baltimore. Of the bodies at Baltimore, six are of men and four of women.

The Cunard line today dispatched a tug to Baltimore to bring all twelve bodies to Queenstown. Relatives of survivors who had planned to leave today are going to remain over in the hope of the possibility of making further identifications. It is reported here that one of the bodies at Baltimore had on it papers bearing the name Harrison, Main street, Bridgeport, Conn., and that on another there was found the circular of a firm called Florence & Co., toothbrush manufacturers, in Connecticut. The tug dispatched yesterday afternoon by the Cunard company to the scene of the disaster to look for bodies had not returned to Queenstown up to noon today.

RECEIVER APPOINTED FOR FROHMAN ESTATE

London, May 11.—Westlock Woolridge, legal representative in this country of Charles Frohman, was appointed receiver and manager of Mr. Frohman's estate by the chancery court today on an application made by Dion Boucicault, who is a creditor to the extent of $2,500.

This appointment is made to cover only the period until a personal representative can take charge of the estate, Mr. Frohman having died intestate, according to a statement made to the court.

FACE BROKE OUT WITH LARGE PIMPLES

Also Blackheads, Itched, Scratched Till Burned Like Fire. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Not a Pimple or Blackhead on Face Now.

Armour, S. Dakota.—"About a year ago pimples and blackheads began to break out on my face. The pimples were large and red and would fester over night. Sometimes my face would itch so that I would scratch it till it burned like fire. Then the pimples would irritate and be sore. Many times during the night I would wake and my face would burn. Then I would have to get up and cool it off.

"I tried different tonics for my blood but nothing helped me. I tried cold creams, soaps and salves but everything was in vain. I then began to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment and my face improved in two days. First I washed my face in hot water with Cuticura Soap and then I would apply the Ointment. There is not a pimple or blackhead to be seen on my face now." (Signed) Miss Matilda Kotrous, June 6, '14.

Keep your face young by daily use of Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment.

What Causes Sore Feet?

Aching, burning, and sweaty feet; corns, callouses, and sore bunions all originate from injured tissues. But there is no necessity to endure foot torture a single moment. Any of these troubles can be instantly relieved and permanently cured by using the following scientific treatment that acts through the pores and removes the cause: "Two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in warm foot bath; soak the feet fifteen minutes, gently rubbing sore parts." You can get Calocide from any drug store. A twenty-five-cent package is usually enough to cure the worst feet. Medical Formula, Dayton, Ohio.

Poslam Soap, medicated with Poslam, for toilet and bath; 25 cents and 15 cents.

When You Wash Your Hair Don't Use Soap

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.—Advertisement.

PUTS BLAME WHERE DUE

Representative Boyd of Crookston Defends Non-Partisan of House.

Declares Speaker Flowers' Attitude Caused Inefficiency in Work.

According to John H. Boyd of Crookston, state representative from the Sixty-sixth district, it is unfair to charge the disorganization of the recently djourned house of representatives to the fact that it is non-partisan. Mr. Boyd is not alone in this opinion, for many believe that the fault could be charged a good deal to Speaker Flowers and the fight for the speakership at the beginning of the session. However, Mr. Boyd is one of the few who have the temerity to come out in the open and speak his mind. In a letter to The Herald, Representative Boyd says:

"There has been much criticism in the state press about non-partisanship and the legislature of 1915, especially, the house of representatives. This law was not at all responsible for the condition that existed in the house. The new members elected under the non-partisan law should not be held responsible for the little good accomplished in this session. The disorganization commenced in the fight for the speakership between the 'wets' and 'drys.' The 'wets' elected a speaker that was 'dry' most of the time and defeated a 'dry' candidate that was 'wet' part of the time, no other qualifications considered.

Speaker's Inconsistency.

"The fault lies, in my opinion, with the speaker, H. H. Flowers, who had a high ambition to reward his enemies and punish his friends. The speaker was absolutely unfair and partial. Some of his pets could be recognized fifteen times a day and others it took fifteen days to get recognition. Most of the time-killing came from a few of the old members and not at all from the new ones. He appointed committees to investigate certain institutions and never received their report, which was unfair to the committee and also to the state. He asked for the attorney general's opinion and then ruled against it. When he appointed a chairman on the efficiency and economy bill, he should have appointed a chairman whom the citizens of the state of Minnesota had confidence in.

"L. C. Spooner, the chairman of the efficiency and economy bill, used a great deal of the time of the house in discussing this bill and never, to my mind, was able to show wherein it would be economy to the state to pass such a bill. Another grave mistake was made by the speaker when he placed Spooner at the head of the appropriation committee. He clearly demonstrated that he was incompetent to fill either of these positions successfully. I think it is due to the newly elected members of the 1915 house to have the people of the state of Minnesota understand where the blame should rest and I believe I have not made a statement but what would be corroborated by any fair-minded member of that house. The efficiency was lacking in the one or the few who attempted to control the entire house, regardless of results."

SHIELD CITY FROM FAKERS

Commercial Club Committee Appointed to Pass on Charity Solicitations.

Cards Will Be Issued to Worthy Projects After Investigation.

A committee to pass upon soliciting for charitable purposes, and to separate, as it were, the wheat from the chaff, is an innovation which Joseph B. Cotton, newly elected president of the Duluth Commercial club, has introduced. It is a decidied departure from the time-honored plan of the club, but it is believed that it will develop into one of the most important committees of the organization.

The committee consists of F. W. Paine, chairman; B. C. Wade, vice chairman; G. H. Bate, Elmer F. Blu, Judge W. A. Cant, Dr. A. N. Collins, L. S. Loeb, F. D. Harlow, W. B. Patton, B. Murray Peyton, George D. Swift, Clyde W. Stilson and J. F. McCarthy.

Will Protect Duluthians.

While, under the by-laws of the club, the committee becomes, automatically, a part of the public affairs committee, its work will be special. Its chief mission will be to protect Duluthians from "fake" or unworthy charity solicitations, and, on the other hand, to give to charity which, upon investigation, is found worthy, thorough indorsement and help. It will aim to become the clearing house for charitable soliciting and will not thoughtlessly or without investigation give its indorsement or disapproval.

It is felt that such an organization has been needed in Duluth for a long time. Up to this time Duluthians have been solicited indiscriminately to help this, that and the other charity or alleged charity, and not infrequently, it is pointed out, soliciting has been done by the rankest fakers, who had nothing to solicit for except for their own pockets, naming some institution or other which they claimed needed help.

Much Money Wasted.

Duluthians have been mulcted of many dollars by such affairs, notably the "infants' home" trick, which has been worked successfully times without number. Some of these fakers have been arrested and prosecuted, but the majority of them, after getting a "stake" through their soliciting, have managed to "make their getaway" before the police have found them.

This faking, in turn, it has been shown, has injured the results in cases where worthy and truly needy charities have been solicited for. To balance matters, stop the faking and help the worthy, this committee, it is believed, will fill the bill.

Ask for Indorsement Card.

Hereafter, with the co-operation of Duluthians as a whole—for it is for all Duluth and not solely for members of the club—a check can be obtained on solicitors. Duluthians are asked to demand, when solicited, a card showing that the club's committee has investigated and indorsed the charity solicited for, and also has indorsed the solicitor. Unless such card can be shown, Duluthians are asked to refuse to consider the matter.

In this way, it is believed, a complete stop can be brought about of the soliciting for unworthy charities. People paying money to solicitors who do not display such a card will then be separating themselves from their money at their own risk.

NO TRUTH IN FABRICATION

British Admiralty Explodes German Story of North Sea Fight.

According to It British Ships Fought Among Themselves.

London, May 11.—The British official press bureau today issued this announcement:

"The following statement dated Berlin, May 9, has been officially circulated throughout the German wireless stations and received by the Marconi company:

"'The main headquarters reported some weeks ago that a large number of reports were current which originated in Norway to the efect that near Bergen, on the Norwegian coast, during the night from the 5th to the 6th of April heavy sea fighting between English and German ships had taken place. Ships coming from that direction also reported that they had seen squadrons of warships. On the night in question gunfire by the aid of illuminating rockets had been noticed.

"'With regard to these reports, some light now has been thrown on the matter by the commander of the submarine A. E. 2, which was destroyed in the Dardanelles. According to a letter which came into our possession regarding the North sea fight, which is said to have taken place, the British battleship Superb is said to have been sunk and the cruiser Warrior is said to have been sinking without the German navy having suffered any loss. On Friday, the 9th of April, a number of cruisers are said to have arrived in a badly damaged condition. The Lion was very badly damaged. Official reports say nothing at all of this.

Ships Badly Damaged.

"'Similar reports have come to hand from reliable neutral sources to the effect that a number of badly damaged and slightly damaged ships had reached English ports for repairs. The manner in which they had been damaged has been left unexplained.

"'An especially large number of damaged ships ran into the Tyne. A damaged cruiser was towed into the Tyne. A ship of the Lion class with a starboard list and with her aft funnel missing, was towed into the Firth of Forth.

"'The silence of the admiralty on all this is easily to be understood. As the German navy took no part in any fighting on the night in question, as a fight with neutral vessels is out of the question a battle can only have taken place between ships of the British fleet which did not recognize each other in the darkness.'

"The secretary of the British admiralty states that there is not a word of truth in this fabrication. It is, however, interesting, as a mark of the anxiety of Germany at the present moment to make an impression on neutral states."

HATTERS TRYING TO RAISE $300,000

Members of Union Have to Secure Money to Release Their Homes.

New York, May 11.—How to satisfy the $258,000 judgment obtained by Loewe & Co. of Danbury, Conn., in a suit against the Danbury union, was the chief business before the convention of United Hatters of America, in session here today. The judgment with interest now amounts to about $300,000. The homes of 250 members of the union was pledged as security during litigation. Loewe & Co. have given warning that the judgment must be met, but the organization is said to have no funds for that purpose.

John W. Sculley, national president, told the delegates that he did not intend to give them any advice as to how to save the homes of the Danbury men. "That is a matter for this convention," said he. "Our members are practically held as hostages under the ruling of the courts and it is for you to devise ways and means to relieve them if we can. While moral support and sympathy are encouraging they do not help."

You now eat a pomelo for breakfast. That is not a fancy kind of olive or a cousin to oleomargarine, but what has been known as grapefruit.

Pickle Princess Is Now Just "Mrs. Murphy"

MRS. J. J. MURPHY.

The "Princess" Auersperg, long known as "the pickle princess," has married John J. Murphy, son of ex-Senator Edward Murphy of New York. She was Florence Hazard, daughter of a well-known maker of pickles when she met Auersperg, who belonged to a noble Austrian family. He never used a title. She called herself the Princess Auersperg and took great joy in her title. Recently the husband returned to Austria and he is said to be at the front. She obtained a divorce from him and now she has found another husband with a name less distinguished.

"Short Cake"

By Mary Jane McClure.

Short Cake—May and June and strawberry shortcake are synonymous and the one somehow suggests the other. The question of what to have for dessert that will be acceptable to all is one that is easily solved in strawberry month. There are several ways of making strawberry shortcake, the difference being in the crust. Some like a plain biscuit crust best, while others like a richer pastry, and there are some who prefer a sweet cake which resembles layer cake. In making shortcakes, first of all prepare the berries, crush them, saving whole some of the largest, sprinkle with sugar and set in a cool place until wanted. You have your choice of fruit as the season advances—but to have the choicest pastry you must use strictly pure leaf lard for the shortening.

Biscuit Shortcake—Required: Two cups flour, four teaspoonfuls baking powder, one teaspoonful salt, two tablespoons pure leaf lard, three-quarters cup milk. Sift the flour, baking powder and salt; work in the lard with the tips of the fingers, add gradually the milk and mix to a soft dough. (Flour varies so much that it is impossible to tell the exact amount of milk necessary). Turn the dough out on a floured board, knead quickly and lightly. Divide the dough into two equal parts. Take one piece and roll out to one-half inch in thickness. Place in a well-greased tin and brush over lightly with melted lard. Roll out the second piece, place it on top of the first and brush with milk. Bake in a hot oven for about twenty minutes. When baked, separate the layers, cover the bottom one thickly with the berries; place over this the second layer, cover the top with whole berries, dust lightly with powdered sugar and serve with cream. This recipe may be varied by baking the dough in individual biscuits. Two boxes of strawberries will be required for a cake of the above proportions. A richer crust is made with one and a half cups flour, three-quarters cup (about) milk, one-half cup corn starch, four teaspoonfuls baking powder, one teaspoonful salt, one tablespoonful sugar, five tablespoonfuls lard; proceed as in the first recipe, mixing the dry ingredients first. This recipe may be varied by adding an egg well beaten in the milk before mixing with the other ingredients.

About the House.

To Cut Angel Cake.

To cut angel food or sponge cake, hold two forks with the backs of the tines together and gently separate the cake into sections, the cake will be more feathery than when cut and pressed down with a knife.

To Peel Tomatoes.

A quick and easy way to peel tomatoes is to hold them over a gas burner, with a fork through the stem and turning it around until you hear it "pop," then remove from the fire and you will find the skin loosened and ready to peel and the tomato is not heated through.

To Chop Raisins.

Measure the raisins needed and put them in luke warm water, allow them to soak for fifteen minutes, then squeeze them gently and put them through the grinder, they will be fine, even particles of fruit, and the grinder will be easy to clean.

Camphor for Brass.

To clean a brass bed wipe it off with a cloth dipped in camphor, allow it to dry and then polish.

Frying Liver.

When frying liver, if each piece is dipped in milk it will fry a rich brown, and will not get hard.

For Hanging Baskets.

When planting hanging baskets place a good layer of sawdust under the top layer of soil. It retains the moisture better and as they dry out so rapidly keeps the plants from drying up before the next watering.

AT THE NEW GRAND.

Posing Act Heads Popular New Program of Vaudeville.

A posing act, including four attractive women and two canine actors, heads the new bill at the Grand theater, which opened yesterday. Les Diodattis, as the act is called, is done artistically and the effects are greatly enhanced by elaborate scenery and electrical effects. Famous paintings and statues are reproduced by living models.

Water juggling that is clever and entertaining is the offering of Charles and Anna Glocker. Montrose and Allen do some clever dancing and put over a number of popular songs in a pleasing manner.

Morton, Wells and Norworth, billed as "those crazy vaudevillians," offer a conglomeration of nonsense, including bits of acrobatics and many other forms of entertainment.

"The Pawn of Mars" is a thrilling war drama in three reels. A number of other good photoplays round out the bill.

On Thursday, Charles Chaplin will be seen in his latest success, "By the Sea," said to be the funniest yet produced. The Chaplin pictures, run by the New Grand, are the latest produced and not the reprints from old comedies with inferior casts.

Theater Gossip.

Several additions have had to be made to the Baldwin Players for the engagement in "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm." The cast calls for more women than the regular company has available, but Manager Baldwin was fortunate in being able to find recruits among actresses who are in Duluth for the summer. The regular members of the company, including Miss Bronaugh, Miss Lotus, Miss Blair, and Miss Maud Melville all appear. In addition there are Miss Pearl Melville, Miss Marie Campbell, Miss Jessie French, Miss Jeanette Roy, and Miss Meta Eyferth. The latter has returned to her home in Duluth but recently, after a season on the road.

ADDITIONS TO BALDWIN COMPANY.

Next Monday evening will be the anniversary of the Baldwin company in Duluth. It will have been at the Lyceum just a year, then. The company will present "Mam'zelle" next week, and in connection with it some surprises in the way of "specialties," for which an opening is provided in the play.

"Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" will continue all this week, with the usual matinees on Wednesday and Saturday.

NOTED CELLIST AT ORPHEUM

The fame of Elsa Ruegger, the Belgian cellist, is extensive, and she is generally conceded one of the greatest virtuosos in the world. Her artistic career has been a succession of triumphs. She has played both here and abroad with leading symphony and other musical organizations and has won unequalled success on various concert tours. Her appearance in vaudeville is one of the many noteworthy achievements of the Orpheum circuit. Miss Ruegger has been crowned with the flattering plaudits of the most exacting European and American critics. The young artist has in addition to the compelling force of her art, a magnetic personality and a manner that is at once unassuming and free from affectation. Elegance, warmth of feeling, intelligence, a leaning toward what is best, and technique that is sure and well rounded, are among her most strongly marked qualities. On her present tour, Miss Ruegger is assisted by Conductor Edmund Lichtenstein, an eminent figure in the musical world.

SATAN SANDERSON A REAL DRAMA

Jack Noble, Orrin Johnson and the B. A. Rolfe organization can be very proud of "Satan Sanderson," showing at the Rex. It is an interesting story, very well told with some of the finest bits of acting. Orrin Johnson does some double-exposure work that is so truly wonderful that the critics have called it uncanny. This is Mr. Johnson's first work in the films, and he has certainly registered a success that will mark him as one of the big stars from now on. There is a fight, and a real one at that. This film is well done, it is human, and it is entertaining.

Praise of the superb picture achievement, "The Christian," based on the notable book and play by Hall Caine, is the general thing heard about the Lyric theater this week. The Vitagraph-Liebler company has carried out its high conception of the piece well and has put a fine aggregation of stars in the many strong parts.

HALL CAINE PLAY POPULAR

Miss Edith Story, as Story Quayle, and Earle Williams, as John Storm, head the cast and they are splendidly supported by such well known artists as Harry Northrope, Carlotta de Felice, James Lackaye, Donald Hall, James Morrison and others.

"The Christian" carries the strongest indorsement of press, pulpit and critics in every city where it has been shown.

It will be shown every afternoon and evening this week at the Lyric.

Music in Emporia, Kansas

Oberhoffer and Damrosch Compared to Lilies of the Valley and Roast Beef.

Within two weeks Emporia, Kan., heard the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra and the New York Symphony orchestra. The results are a stimulation of popular musical enthusiasm and Oberhoffer and Damrosch factions that hold as heated discussions as if they were political parties. A contract has been signed to bring Damrosch and the New York Symphony orchestra back next spring and now there is a clamor for a return engagement of Oberhoffer and the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, as the continuation in artistic contrasts is considered by the Jayhawkers to be a musical education in itself.

The Emporia Gazette, William Allen White's paper, says the question as to which is the better conductor is like asking which has the more merit, lilies of the valley or roast beef, Oberhoffer representing the flowers and Damrosch the food, and that Oberhoffer's orchestration of MacDonald's Indian suites was "injun" translated through Schopenhauer, whereas Damrosch's orchestration of the same songs would doubtless show the "injun" without paints, in a plug hat, carrying a heavy load of domestic and imported wines, liquors and cigars, and all in a playfully homicidal mood.

Two Distinct Types.

"Mr. Oberhoffer represents very definitely and splendidly one type of musician," the Gazette says. "His programs were intellectual; he gave no Wagner; he seemed to love embroidery patterns in music, elaborate figures, dazzling edifices of counter-point—the mathematics of harmony, and those tapestries of melody that move the mind, and stimulate mild reminiscence. If he played Tschaikowsky he would give the savage rhythms a certain sweet, meditative flavor—pleasing enough, and certainly properly interpretative—but always graceful and beautiful. Oberhoffer ran to Schubert and the rich melodists. He put a quality of gay, bright persiflage into everything he touched—always making it beautiful and ever translating music into an intellectual diversion. The tone he made was a sweet, clear, vibrent, singing one—big enough—but round and exquisitely formed. He seemed to lead, rather than to direct; his hold upon his players was sympathetic, rather than compelling and hypnotic, and his orchestra was filled with men of a gentle Teutonic caste of face. To have asked for 'Tipperary' as an encore from Oberhoffer would have started a riot.

"Damrosch would have given 'Tipperary,' translating it into a raw, savage, lusty war tune that would have curdled the nerves. For Damrosch's whole effect was that of musical bull strength. He played Wagner—blood raw, with the little man in the tinshop sweating like a dog. Damrosch, when he played Tschaikowsky, let the juice run. He uncorked the gorgeous barbaric yawp of it, and gave it a musical setting that left little to the imagination. He directed. He demanded. He had a cosmopolitan crew that was gathered from the four corners of the musical world, but they played Damrosch, and nothing but Damrosch. The tone he made was a pyramidal thing, big at the base, strong in the middle, and flaring in keen, thin, sharp flambeaux at the top: When he chose a melody for an encore, he chose 'The Beautiful Blue Danube,' and Strauss put no shred of emotion in that old tune that Damrosch didn't find out, and, being in the mood for it, Damrosch added a few kicks to show he had it in him."

Peggy Peabody's Observations

Don't Neglect Letter Writing.

The habit of neglecting the writing and the answering of letters is one that is steadily growing upon the populace, and it is a shame that it is so, for it is a custom that cements friendships that would otherwise be forgotten. School-day associations that have been very enjoyable may be kept alive by means of a correspondence which, while regular, need not become too frequent to become in any sense a tax upon one's time.

Writing letters is, in truth, about the only way that one can keep in touch with those who have been your good friends at certain periods in your life and are now residing in cities and towns far away. It is really a matter of regret that the friendships of youth are allowed to slip out of our existences simply because we are too indolent or too indifferent to maintain our share of the correspondence.

Nine persons out of ten will tell you frankly that they do not like to write letters and do not find time to do so with any regularity. Most of us neglect the answering of these letters which will bear neglect until we are too ashamed to answer them, and then unless the friend is one who cares particularly for us and knows of our failings, the communication is broken off and a friend, while not wholly lost to us always, drifts further from our lives, because there is no connecting bond of association between us.

The telephone and the quick means of transportation from one point to another have had an influence to decrease letter writing. A woman whose family lives forty miles from her home told me that she usually communicated with her mother by means of the telephone and that she would sooner think of taking a trip to her mother's home to consult the members of her family on important matters than to write a letter.

To disregard letters which we receive is a source of keen disappointment to those who think enough of us to write us. We should answer them out of courtesy if for no other reason. After we have made the effort on this account several times the chances are that we will continue the correspondence for the pleasure it gives us, for there is no denying that it can become almost as much of a pleasure to write them as everyone owns it is to receive a bright, breezy letter.

PUTTING DULUTH'S BEST FOOT FORWARD.

"Clean-up Week" is on now, and there are many evidences that the movement has taken hold of the community.

Many did not wait for the official cleaning-up period, but took advantage of the mild weather on both sides of last week's chill northeaster to tidy up their premises for the new season.

There are still four days of "Clean-up Week" for those who have not yet started, and that's plenty of time if you get at it and get down to business.

Aside from the fact that every citizen of Duluth wants his home place to look as well as his neighbor's, there is a reason why this year of all years Duluth should put its best foot forward, and presents its best possible appearance to visitors.

Clean-up and Paint-up Week immediately precedes the opening of the tourist season, and this is bound to be the biggest tourist season Duluth ever saw. There are two reasons for this: First, the war in Europe has given a tremendous impetus to the "See-America First" movement; second, the San Francisco and San Diego expositions are drawing thousands upon thousands of visitors westward, and many of them will be wise enough or lucky enough to make their trip by way of the cool lake route through Duluth.

It would not be at all surprising if Duluth has thrice as many visitors this summer as usual—indeed, it would be rather surprising if it did not.

Now Duluth wants these guests to see her at her best. That's one big object of Clean-up and Paint-up Week. To make the good old town sightly and livable for the sake of those who live in it is the other big object, and it's big enough to satisfy anybody. But on top of that is the other big object of showing Duluth to these visitors at her very best.

If every house is spick-and-span with paint and repairs; if every yard is spick-and-span and clean with lawns and flower beds; if every block and every street is at its cleanest and sightliest, then these summer visitors are going away with the very vivid impression that here is a good town to live in, a town with self-respect and ginger and push, a town that is bound to get ahead.

The actual money value of having that impression scattered abroad through the country is far beyond calculation.

For some part of the work necessary to make this effect, even if it is only the window boxes in your flat, YOU are personally responsible.

How is it with YOUR home grounds, now that Clean-up Week is in full swing?

FREEING THE LAKE ROUTE.

A special dispatch from Washington to The Herald last evening gives an intimation that the interstate commerce commission is about to decree a divorce between the railroads and the lake lines which are owned and operated by railroads.

That, of course, is precisely what it ought to do. While the Duluth traffic commission took no active part in this case, its investigations have proved overwhelmingly that it is wrong to let railroads carrying freight in competition with the lake route dictate the terms on which freight shall be carried on the lakes. The mere comparison between package freights, which have been dictated by railroads, and bulk freights, which have been permitted to seek their natural level, shows that so far as general merchandise is concerned the people of the United States have been robbed of the advantage of cheap water transportation for which they have worked and paid.

Where rail lines compete for business with lake lines, ownership of lake lines by rail lines is an unthinkable anomaly that should not be permitted for a moment.

If, as indicated in last night's dispatch from Washington, the interstate commerce commission is going to compel a divorce between competing lake and rail routes, it will do more to free the lake highway from a monstrous condition than any other imaginable step that could be taken.

How can the war survive the outpouring of commencement wisdom?

RIGHT OR WRONG, OUR COUNTRY!

Except that it illustrated again his aversion to war, an aversion that is shared by all but a handful of his fellow citizens, few of whom would shoulder a gun if there should be war, probably there was little in President Wilson's Philadelphia speech bearing significantly on the delicate situation existing between this country and one of the belligerent nations of Europe.

The president was speaking to four thousand newly naturalized citizens, and his talk was a splendid and timely appeal for a livelier manifestation of a broader and more wholehearted Americanism.

"America," he said, "does not consist of groups. A man who thinks of himself as belonging to a particular national group in America has not yet become an American, and the man who goes among you to trade upon your nationality is no worthy son to live under the Stars and Stripes."

This is a hint that many may well profit by; and those to whom it is directed should beware lest they allow themselves to apply it to the other fellow and thus miss its application to themselves. The president is undoubtedly aware, and unpleasantly aware, that in more than one national group in this country there have been those who have taken the part of the governments of belligerent foreign nations against the government of the nation of their adoption, to which they owe their first—and last—allegiance.

The president's address to these new-fledged citizens was an appeal for more of the spirit in which Stephen Decatur spoke when he uttered these historic words:

> Our country! In her intercourse with foreign nations may she always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong!

That, despite repeated provocation, the president's heart is not belligerently inclined, was made evident by these timely words:

> The example of America must be the example, not merely of peace because it will not fight, but of peace because peace is the healing and elevating influence, and strife is not. There is such a thing as a man being too proud to fight. There is such a thing as a nation being so right that it does not need to fight to convince others by force that it is right.

A man who is right in his conduct and in his relationships with his fellow man does not need to fight to prove that he is right. No more need a nation that is right resort to arms to prove its righteousness.

Maybe it will be as well to amend the motto so as to read merely "See America."

THE ANTI-ROADHOUSE LAW.

Ramsey county is going to have a legal test of the law forbidding county boards to issue liquor licenses outside of incorporated cities or villages. On the advice of the county attorney that the law was illegally enacted, the Ramsey county board has issued a license to a keeper of a rural saloon. In a few days he will be arrested for running a saloon without a license, and then the courts will determine whether or not the legislature really passed an anti-roadhouse law.

This law has a queer history. Two years ago it passed both branches of the legislature, but was cleverly juggled to defeat between the two. This year it passed the senate with little opposition, and then retired to a pigeon hole in the congested house of representatives. A desperate effort to save it from neglect was made one Saturday by its friends, and it got by through a fluke. The speaker, ill served by the incompetent "wet" organization of the house, was forced to rule that the rules could be suspended by two-thirds of those present, when both the Constitution and the rules themselves undoubtedly require two-thirds of the whole house. The motion to suspend received the votes of more than two-thirds of those present, but less than two-thirds of the whole house. The speaker having ruled—improperly, as everybody admits—that the rules were suspended, the bill was passed by a vote considerably in excess of two-thirds of the whole house.

The question now is how far behind the returns the courts are likely to go—how closely they will scrutinize legislative processes. With the legislative machinery in its present condition, it will be a dangerous precedent if the courts are too technical in their insistence upon exact compliance with the rules. In point of fact it hardly ever happens that a bill becomes a law without the rules being technically violated, not once but many times, during the process. The courts will therefore be very cautious about analyzing the legislative processes that end in the enactment of bills into laws.

On the other hand, the rules of legislation are laid down for a specific and important purpose—to insure the orderly action of legislative bodies. Lacking such orderly action, almost anything could happen. It would be michievous to have the courts hold that rules intended to insure the full and fair consideration by the legislature of every pending measure can be suspended by a mere majority vote. This danger, however, could perhaps be averted if the courts hold that the fact that many more than two-thirds of the whole house voted for the bill on final passage is enough to protect the measure.

The anti-roadhouse law is needed. There should be no saloons outside incorporated cities and villages, for that means outside the reach of police protection. Moreover, the law is popular. There is virtually no disinterested opposition to it, and the courts do not ignore public need and public demand. Though the point is delicate, and the court will have to steer carefully away from the peril of establishing a dangerous precedent in slipshod legislation, it would not be at all surprising if the law were upheld. And it should be upheld if it can be done without destroying constitutional safeguards against ill-considered legislative action.

Every little development emphasizes the advantages of confining war experience to a correspondence system.

"Stand By the President"

Good Press Advice to Americans.

The Test of the Melting Pot.

Kansas City Star: "The melting pot" has got now to prove that it has fused a nation. It is up to this nation to stand by it as president, by its national leaders, with the same unity any kingly government commands from its people.

Individuals not in official place cannot know all the facts. They are not in position to form completely intelligent or informed judgment. They may, if they will, indulge in impulsive sentiments and possibly unjust expressions of opinion. The president may not do that. On him rests the responsibility for 100,000,000 people. He must speak with calmness and deliberation. On him Fate and the voice of the people have cast the burden of history. It is but just, it is only safe, that the voice of the people shall choose him as its oracle.

The fact that a fateful incident has arisen should all the more serve to bind the country into one homogeneous whole—that the president may have his fullest opportunity to deal justly with all nations and guide the American people in the way that historic dispassionate opinion will approve.

Shoulder to Shoulder.

Pittsburgh Dispatch: For the crimes that have been committed against humanity in this war the world restored to reason will demand reparation and justice. But what has been done cannot be undone by adding fuel to the fire. Today, more than at any moment since that fateful August day, it is the duty of Americans to grip tight and stand shoulder to shoulder behind the president. Let there be no fires built in his rear to distract his attention from the situation before him. Let us prove ourselves worthy fellow citizens of the calm, clear-eyed statesman in the White House, whose single aim and one prayer in this moment is the welfare of his countrymen.

Confidence in the President.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: Seldom has the American people stood in greater need of calmness and deliberation. The sinking of the Lusitania, a liner carrying many scores of American citizens, was a deliberate act. * * * The people of the United States repose implicit confidence in the Washington government. There is an assured feeling that President Wilson and his advisers will act for the best, will act with moderation, and will do their utmost to guard the United States from entanglement in the European war. The loss of the Lusitania is stunning, but when it is fully considered there will, doubtless, be an almost unanimous disposition to follow the administration's lead and to refrain from making the administration's position more difficult. The people have been sane till now. The sinking of the Lusitania should not alter the national frame of mind.

Steady!

Indianapolis News: In the light of this fresh disaster, the government must be depended on to act for the American people, and every citizen should continue to show that admirable self-restraint which has been so characteristic ever since the beginning of the war. As one newspaper says, Germany could better have afforded to lose a battle. It is not the function of a self-respecting newspaper to stir up feeling at such a time as this.

Trust the President.

Washington Star: The obligation of maintaining the national dignity and honor rests upon the official head of the nation—its president.

We may be sure that President Wilson with calm and informed judgment will adopt measures that will enable the people of the United States to retain their self-respect in this emergency.

In the meantime individual opinion should be confined to the inevitable horror and detestation of the act and its awful consequences, leaving to a calmer moment consideration of the question of whether its perpetrator may still be regarded as rightfully belonging to the family of civilized nations.

Safe in the President's Hands.

Baltimore Sun: We cannot allow American lives to be endangered in a species of warfare without precedent among civilized nations, and which is a distinct return to the most brutal practices of barbarism. Our government will know how to deal with this case, and it will not need any urging from the press to do its full duty. We can safely leave it in the hands of a president who fears God but does not fear man, and who will preserve the peace as long as it is humanly possible to do so.

"Don't Rock the Boat."

St. Louis Times: There are many phases of the question which must be known and considered before public opinion should be molded, included among them the question as to whether England gave ample protection to the vessel, in its own waters, by convoys and the like, and whether there was a justification in American passengers being allowed to board a vessel bearing contraband of war.

Until all these facts are known Americans should accept President Wilson's advice and refrain from "rocking the boat."

Government Can Be Relied Upon.

Nebraska State Journal: It is perhaps fortunate that language is incapable of expressing the indignation which the average American feels at this act. Theodore Roosevelt attempts to describe it as "piracy, but piracy on a vaster scale of murder than any old-time pirate ever practiced." That is neither here nor there. Names are unnecessary. The less we try to express ourselves on this point the better, for it is still the part of all good citizens to keep their feelings under control. * * * While this act is the crowning infamy of a war of infamies, it remains the supreme duty of the American public to keep its temper. Nothing is to be gained by any other course. The American government can be relied upon to speak for the American people in this matter. The act is certain to recoil, regardless of any move of ours, upon its perpetrators. Americans can afford to be and must be calm.

Prayers for the President.

Dayton News: The ocean tragedy is an appalling thing. The hearts of Americans are sorely tried. Composite as we are, of the people of all the world, our citizens in their individual views are naturally bent by the promptings of blood ties, and of tradition. Every one abhors the slaughter of innocent men, women and children, and there is a disposition in outraged feeling to fix responsibility. The Germans are bitterly denounced on the one hand, while others criticize England for shipping war munitions on a ship loaded with humanity. It is a time for calm reflection—men can afford to submit the first impulse to the tempering process of sleep and meditation. Above all, America wants to keep out of war, and every one worthy of the name of countryman owes his prayers in support of our president, whose life seems dedicated to the cause of peace, but it must be peace without dishonor.

The Spade

New York Mail: The emblem of the day, outside this congested center, where there is no earth but what is held down by buildings, is the spade—the homely, useful tool that stirs in its corner in the cellar and is restless for the eager hand of the suburbanite.

Many there are, men of various occupations, running through the whole gamut of likes and dislikes in their estimation of pleasure, but in complete unison in these days of the opening of spring, their minds set upon their gardens, hurrying home from work these April days to snatch the spade from exile and thrust it into the earth.

It is this that marks the real new year for the man who is fortunate enough to have a home with a garden plot. It is the turning of the soil, after the winter of freezing and thawing, that marks the beginning of things of lettuce, radishes, peas and beans, of the flowers that gladden the senses and the vegetables that delight the palate.

Happy the man whose hand grasps the spade these days, whose back bends over the freshly broken earth, whose pockets bulge with packets of seeds, and whose wife and children talk delightfully of the coming crops of the home garden, be it an acre or a 10x20 patch.

An Exuberant Kansan.

Springfield Republican: Jay E. House, an editorial writer on the Topeka (Kan.) Capital, which is owned by Gov. Capper, was recently elected mayor of that city. He was opposed by all the newspapers, including the one on which he had worked for thirteen years, the churches and the women's organizations. Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, formerly of Topeka, brought a flying squadron of temperance workers to oppose him at the primary election. In spite of all this the breezy Mr. House ran a thousand votes ahead of a field of four candidates. What the mayor-elect thinks his election means is put forth in print as follows:

"For years we have watched the trimming and sidestepping, the salve spreading and the boot licking of various aspirants for office with a feeling akin to disgust. We have long wondered if it were absolutely necessary for a man to abuse himself in order to be elected to office. We have wondered if the flap-doodle, the fol de rol, the "bunk" and piffle which are the distinguishing characteristics of every political campaign were essential to success. We had an idea that a man might be elected to office without smearing himself with his own slobber and we put the idea to the test. Future aspirants for office may take our word for it that it works first rate."

When Mr. House testifies that throughout the campaign he "held pretty close to the idea that the really important thing was to preserve our self-respect," one can better understand the above outbreak.

Nature's Baseball Game.

Collier's Weekly: The American Geographical society has discovered that the Yukon river is fifth among North American streams. Geographical fans had predicted that the Yukon would not long remain in the second division of its league, and now they are hoping that the June rise will place the Alaskan river in first place. If it should win the pennant, a host of good wishers will root for it in the world's championship series.

Of course this game is not quite so fast as baseball, but it thrills with divine enthusiasm all Nature fans of the John Muir type who think in terms of geological epochs. To them a river that goes on a bat once in three centuries is keeping its batting average up to .300; a mountain range that sags two inches off its base is a daredevil base stealer and a glacier that travels two feet in a couple of thousand years is tycobbing a home run on smoking shoe leather! So, you see, we cannot laugh at the geographical and geological fans. They are watching the biggest game of all. Old Christy Gravity, their pitcher, totes a curve that he can hurl around the sun and back, and when he swings the bat he knocks sizzling comets clean across the sky.

Seeing America First

By Fred C. Kelly.

More snatches from Diary:

A man got off the train at Lincoln, Neb., began to stroll up and down the platform, and presently inquired of a bystander.

"Where does Bryan live?"

"Which one?" promptly asked the native.

You see there are two of the Bryan boys, William and Charlie. One works in the state department at Washington; the other runs the Commoner and local politics at Lincoln. The home folks think so well of Charlie that they are quite likely to ask, when you speak of Bryan: "Which Bryan?"

Still, I believe William Jennings Bryan is still regarded by Lincolnites as about their greatest sight, else why would the chauffeur who drove me about have lied to me so pleasantly about the secretary of state being in town.

"When was Secretary Bryan home last?" I inquired, by way of making conversation.

"Oh, he's here now — out at his farm," replied the driver. "Yes, I saw him on the street yesterday. And I never saw him look more natural. He had a big felt hat on and was riding horseback."

Now, I had seen nothing in the papers about the secretary of state being away from Washington just then, if he was spending a few days on his farm I intended to stay over a train and go out to the farm for a look at him in his native habitat. It is not an everyday sight to see a secretary of state following the plow or milking a kind-faced cow.

So after I left the chaffeur I made inquiries. These brought the information that Secretary Bryan was not in Lincoln and had not been in many days. Neither was he expected. There was nobody in Lincoln who even looked like him.

As nearly as I could figure the thing out, the chauffeur had acted on the assumption that without William Jennings Bryan in the city, the place would hold little if any charm for the visitor. He thought I would by all means carry away a much gayer, a much more exalted impression of Lincoln if I had the satisfaction of knowing that I shared it for an hour with Mr. Bryan.

Next to telling me lies about the presence in Lincoln of Secretary Bryan, my guide seemed to take greatest pride in showing the site of a recent automobile accident.

He had already pointed out Mr. Bryan's square mile of farm off in the distance.

"Now," I suggested, "show me something really worth while—the most interesting thing you've got."

As if suddenly struck with an inspiration, he speeded up his machine and drove to a place where a fountain or monument, I forget now which, stands in the middle of one of the main streets.

"Right there," he said, speaking with the quiet assurance of one who has a message, "is where our automobile accident took place. There were four people in the auto and they hit that thing going forty miles an hour."

"And were they all killed."

"No," he replied apologetically, "only one."

Mr. Bryan's city gives the impression of having been built to about its present size a great many years ago, and let pretty much alone ever since. I did not notice a single home or office building that looked new.

I asked the chauffeur why they didn't clean the streets.

"They ARE talking about it," he replied.

One traveler, after taking a last look at Lincoln, declared he was going to send a souvenir post card to Secretary Bryan, saying: "I have just visited your city. You are welcome to your city."

In Nebraska any elevation of more than four feet is called a hill. As a matter of fact, one could stand up on a chair and get a good unobstructed view of nearly the entire state of Nebraska.

Mr. Wilson and His Party

New York World: To date, at least, Senator Borah is mistaken in his assertion that President Wilson is greater than his party. The president owes as much to his party as his party owes to him. Without the loyal support of his party it would have been a failure. Without his leadership his party might be today, as it was for many years, a futile and faction-ridden affair.

In a republic there can be few doctrines more dangerous than that which ascribes solely to an individual the merits that he shares with the people. There was an American democracy long before there was a Woodrow Wilson. If he has made that great force effective in behalf of good government, it must be said that in his faithfulness it has shown a devotional equal to his own. No man is greater than his party unless in a supreme test of principle his party abandons him.

What Senator Borah probably means is that President Wilson's following is stronger than his party, and that, no doubt, is true. To a great extent the popular confidence that the president enjoys has been due to his own character and ability, but even his preeminence in these respects would not be conclusive if it were not known that he had behind him a political organization pledged to every idea and policy that he personifies.

Men may be great without a party, but in self-governing countries it is usually necessary for great men and great parties to co-operate. There is time enough to balance the books as to the greatness of leaders and parties when by dissensions they invite confusion and disaster.

The Voice of God.

I bent again unto the ground,
And I heard the quiet sound
Which the grasses make when they Come up laughing from the clay.

"We are the voice of God," they said;
Thereupon I bent my head
Down again that I might see
If they truly spoke to me.

But around me everywhere
Grass and tree and mountain were Thundering in mighty glee,
"We are the voice of Deity."

And I leapt from where I lay,
I danced upon the laughing clay;
And, to the rock that sang beside,
"We are the voice of God," I cried.
—James Stephens in "Songs From the Clay" (Macmillan).

Duluth and The Herald

Bouquets and Brickbats from the State Press.

Libelous! Outrageous!

Fergus Falls Journal: Duluth reports one heat prostration recently. Duluth has always been famous as the hottest place on earth in summer and the coldest in winter.

No Deterioration Here.

Little Falls Transcript: Judge Josiah D. Ensign of Duluth, senior member of the St. Louis county bench and bar, has begun his twenty-seventh year as judge of the district court. As he is now at the ripened age of 82, those people who are so firmly convinced that a man's faculties must necessarily begin to deteriorate when what is commonly termed middle life is reached are urged to sit up and take notice once more.

Discourage Hero Worship.

Le Sueur News: A man named Fitzpatrick, in The Duluth Herald, advocates the writing of histories of nations in a manner that will place the art of peace above the art of war. The News has always advocated this, and as soon as we teach the children to live for peace, rather than for war, we will be building on the right foundation.

Maybe!

Pine River Sentinel: That baseball is more important than war is evidenced by The Duluth Herald, which again has its codumn on the front page. Some day it'll get its news mixed, which will then read thusly, maybe: 2,000 Austrians die on bases; Mathewson hurls bombs at Germans; the Giants capture the field and the French battery is destroyed.

True With Any Form of Government.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: The Duluth Herald pays an earnest tribute to the first commission of that city for its really remarkably efficient administration of two years. They had the honor of introducing modern methods and "nobody will even try to dispute the statement that these officials have given the city the best service they could." The commission form is a great improvement on the old mayor-council plan—but to obtain the highest efficiency the right men must be elected as commissioners. No plan of government will run itself—it is the men back of the charter that do the business.

One Can Get Something If They Try.

Mankato Free Press: The Duluth Herald says the spring fever is a delight. Yes, it is for those who can afford to indulge in it to their heart's content. However, there are some of us who cannot always respond to the call of the wildwood, take up with the pleasures of long and health-giving tramps into the brush and go hence where the fish nibble and swallow the bait that is dropped to them. To the fellow who is forced by circumstances to keep his nose to the grindstone, spring fever is an awful disease that is most difficult to throw off. It becomes like a fiery furnace, tormenting in its intensity, and there is no medicine except that which can be found in the life out of doors and away from the cares and worries of business that will effect a cure. Lucky is the man who cures the affliction by taking the remedy which nature alone can offer. Nature is a most skillful practioner. She prescribes neither pills nor knife. She would throw physic to the dogs and bury the surgeon's instruments in the vitals of mother earth, where they can do no harm. Nature gives freely of her own, but there are many people so unfortunately situated that they cannot accept of her bounty.

That's Nice of You.

Just a Moment

Daily Strength and Cheer.

Compiled by John G. Quintius, the Sunshine Man.

We are conscious of our own weakness and of the strength of evil; but not of the third force, stronger than either ourselves or the power of evil, which is at our disposal if we will draw upon it. What is needed is a deliberate and whole-hearted realization that we are in Christ, and Christ is in us by His Spirit; an unconditional surrender of faith to Him; a practice, which grows more natural by exercise, of remembering and deliberately drawing by faith upon His strength in the moments of temptation and not merely upon our own resources. "In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth I will do thus and thus." So we, too, may form, like St. Paul, the habit of victory.—Charles Gore.

Thou canst o'ercome this heart of mine,
Thou wilt victorious prove;
For everlasting strength is thine,
And everlasting love.

College Girls Would Smoke.

London Daily Mail: Should Newnham girls smoke? Cambridge has concentrated its conversation upon the burning question.

Some time ago, one understands, some of the students who are accustomed to smoke at home wished to smoke in college. It was decided to take a referendum—not of pupils, but of parents—and the principal has sent a circular letter to them inviting their views. Undergraduates await the time when the Newnham smoking concert will be a feature of May week, senior members of the university are inclined to frown. "If you let the girls smoke you will have to give them degrees." The referendum is, happily, being taken during vacation, and doubtless the students will regard the conversion of their parents as a sort of holiday task. In some cases they will be preaching to the converted. As a mother said recently: "The girls take the same examinations as men—and men work better when they are smoking. Why should the girls be handicapped?"

"Why shouldn't we smoke?" said a girl to me. "Of course we shall be met by the old argumentum ad feminiam of the days when Greek and trigonometry were thought to be rather improper. A cigarette is as ladylike as a tripos. Have you got a match?"

Twenty Years Ago

From The Herald of this date, 1895.

During a heavy fog yesterday the steamer Cayuga ran into the steamer Joseph L. Hurd near Mackinaw City and both sank. The Hurd four or five years ago was in the passenger and freight business between Duluth and Chicago. She was owned by S. F. Leopold and formed one of the Leopold & Austrian line. She was remodeled later for a freight carrier.

William McGinty, said to be from Duluth, had a leg crushed at Glendive, Mont., yesterday while stealing a ride on the car trucks.

Nicholas S. Murphy of Duluth expects to leave in about two weeks to join the forces of Fred C. Whitney, the operatic manager. He is to sing with the "Rob Roy" company, which will open in Boston about June 15.

Mrs. Gen. Tom Thumb and a company of equally famous little folks will give an entertainment at the Temple opera house tonight.

Sheriff Butchart has returned from the Franklin mine near Virginia. He says the trouble has ended. There were 330 men out on strike, and when an attempt was made to load from the stock pile with the steam shovel they took possession of it. It was then decided to shut down and pay off the men. They have a month's pay coming and say that when they are paid they will leave the mine and not interfere with new men going in.

F. W. Wiley of Port Arthur writes to Duluth people that the Canadian government has given a bonus for the Ontario & Rainy Lake railway for a distance of eighty miles. This will take the road to Seine river, joining the Duluth, Port Arthur & Western railway.

Duluth temperature at 7 a. m. today, 38; maximum yesterday, 54; minimum yesterday, 40.

Alex Bates says he has closed a deal with Cleveland parties to explore the D. W. Bell property in the Seine river gold region.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Armstrong arrived in the city today. They were married at Fargo, N. D., about a month ago.

Horace Williston returned yesterday from Pass Christian, Miss., where he has been during the last two months.

Frank M. Zeller left last evening for Grand Rapids, Mich., and Philadelphia, where he has been called on business.

Owen McLaughlin has returned from Montana. He will probably remain in West Duluth this summer and play with the ball team.

Rev. Mr. Jackson of New Duluth has gone to Washington to meet his brother. They will start soon for a European trip of about three months' duration.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

JINGOES AND JINGOISM.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In these trying times, when I hear flannel mouthed jingoes talking about Uncle Sam getting "too fat and prosperous" to fight, and about us being afraid of other nations, I have found it a good plan to go out in my garden and dig for a while. It relieves your nerves. One day these jingoes tell us that the Democrats have brought on hard times, and the next they tell us that the United States is too prosperous to dare fight. Now, Mr. Editor, there is nothing to prevent these pugnacious ones going to Belgium if they want to. What we need is an emigration department as well as an immigration department. Let the government ship all those who are spoiling for a fight to Poland or Belgium or the trenches of France, and they can get all the fighting they want there. When we see the mad dogs of Europe running amuck, the thing to do is to get out of the way and keep out of the way. The only other alternative is to run amuck also and scramble in the gutter with the mad animals to see who can first get a death grip on the others throat. There is nothing to keep the jingoes of this country from getting into a war if they want to. There is war enough to go around, surely, and give everybody a good healthy fight. The trouble with the jingo is that he doesn't want to fight himself, but he always wants the other fellow to fight—our "brave boys in the navy and the army."

T. A. Y., Duluth—By a set of curious chances I have become acquainted with a ouija board, in the last week. Are you in a position to give any idea as to the cause of the antics of this animal?—The fact that the other fellow who has his hands on it, and what might be called subconscious muscular activity.

Curious, Duluth—Can you tell me the origin of the expression, "What the governor of North Carolina said to the governor of South Carolina?"—The story goes that, nearly a century ago, in the days of rum and toddy, the governors of the two states had a sharp difference over a North Carolina politician who had settled in South Carolina, committed a crime there and then fled back over the border to his old home. The governor of South Carolina issued a requisition on the governor of North Carolina for the return of the fugitive, but influential friends interceded with the governor of North Carolina until he refused to honor the requisition. The governor of the Palmetto state, with a party of friends, went to Raleigh for a conference with the governor of North Carolina. The visitors were entertained with a good dinner at the governor's mansion and after ample liquid refreshments had been served, the governor of South Carolina stated the object of his visit and demanded the surrender of the fugitive. There followed a heated legal discussion, which culminated in the statement by the governor of South Carolina that the dignity of the state had been affronted, and that unless there was immediate surrender of the prisoner he should return to his capital, call out the militia, return with his army and take the fugitive by force of arms. He concluded with the direct question:

"Governor, what do you say?"

At this crisis the governor of North Carolina arose slowly and beckoned to a servant.

"What do you say?" again demanded the governor of South Carolina.

"I say, governor," was the slow reply, "that it is a long time between drinks."

The unexpected reply eased the situation, there was an immediate circulation of glasses; and thereafter, whenever reference was made to the object of the conference, it was cut short by the remark that it was "a long time between drinks." In due course the governor of South Carolina made ready to depart, was escorted to the state line in the friendliest manner possible, and there the vexatious matter was dropped never to be revived.

E. M. J.—Will some one tell me, through the Open Court, the names and locations of a few schools where one might study for the profession of a lawyer.—All of the big universities have law schools. WEST END

DELAY OF PAVING STIRS RESIDENTS

Statement That First Street Is "Good Enough" Arouses Them.

Residents of First street between Twentieth and Thirtieth avenues west, who for four years have been active in getting the city to pave the thoroughfare, and who two years ago caused a petition containing the legal number of property owners asking such an improvement to be filed with the city authorities, are much aroused because of the postponement of the work this year. The expression that the street is "good enough" is the cause of their ire.

"'Good enough' is an expression that has been used quite promiscuously in referring to the improvement on West First street," said George M. Jensen, 2117 West First street, yesterday. 'Good enough' is what the absent owners said, so they could keep on collecting rents without contributing to the upbuilding of the neighborhood. 'Good enough' is what the owners of property facing on the avenues said. They were willing to put off the evil day when they would have to pay assessments for benefits that did not directly benefit them. 'Good enough' said Commissioner Farrell when owners remonstrated with him for postponing the paving. 'Good enough' is a hateful expression that throws a slight on the progressive residents who have labored long and faithfully to have the street improved.

"But is the street 'good enough?' If the weather always was dry, then it might not be so bad. But it is not. Now it is a veritable mud puddle. The recent rains have softened the roadbed, and ponds of water are standing everywhere. Recently several wagons and autos had to be pulled out of the clay bed near Twenty-ninth avenue west, and this street was absolutely impassable. One humorous individual remarked that he was going to apply to Commissioner Farrell for permission to use the street between Twentieth and Twenty-first avenues for a potato patch, the soil was so nice and soft and richly manured.

"Many of the owners cannot understand how it was possible for owners representing only 30 per cent of the property to override the wishes of a large majority living on the street or doing business thereon. It seems a case where the tail is wagging the dog, and where a small noisy minority has fooled the commissioner into taking such action."

WILL ASK ESTIMATE.

Club Would Have City Lower Piedmont Avenue Grade.

Members of the West End Hillside Improvement club will request Commissioner J. A. Farrell to provide an estimate on the cost of lowering the grade on Piedmont avenue above Tenth street. The commissioner is expected to be present at the meeting of the club at the Ensign school on Friday evening.

The lowering of the grade is wanted by residents of the hillside in order that the Duluth Street Railway company may extend its tracks to Sixteenth street. The extension will remove the danger of the "Y" in front of the Ensign school.

Trinity Notes.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Trinity English Lutheran church, Twenty-seventh avenue west and Third street, will meet in the church tomorrow afternoon. Mrs. J. B. McCulloch and Mrs. O. F. Wennerlund will be hostesses.

The confirmation class of the church will meet in the church tomorrow evening. Parents of members of the class will also be present.

On Friday evening the ladies' aid society will hold its annual May festival. A program of music and other features is being arranged.

WILL WEAR NATIVE DRESS ON PARADE

"Gay" Attire Will Feature the Midsummer Day Parade.

The costumes of men and women as worn in Sweden on gala days will feature the dress of those who march in the parade to be held on Midsummer day under the auspices of the Swedish-American National league on June 24. Many of the women of Swedish organizations will turn out and march with the men's lodges.

The announcement was made last evening at the meeting of the league. Communications were received from the women's lodges, stating that many of the women would turn out as requested. The national dress of Sweden is what might be termed "gay," having in it practically all of the colors of the rainbow.

In addition to this feature all of the men's organizations of uniform rank will turn out in uniform. The committee has arranged for two bands to furnish the music, and in addition to this, the Orpheus Singing society will sing some marching numbers.

The committee is arranging for a speaker for the day. Communications received from Lieut.-Gov. J. A. A. Burnquist and Dr. Frank Nelson recently were to the effect that neither could be present on that day. A prominent Swedish orator is to be secured for the day.

Bethany Notes.

The Luther League of Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street, will meet this evening in the church. A social program is planned.

The Martha Aid society will meet in the church tomorrow afternoon.

Rev. C. A. Eckstrom will conduct mid-week services in the church tomorrow evening.

The confirmation class will meet at 5 o'clock this afternoon and Thursday afternoon. The confirmation will take place next Sunday.

Funeral for Miss Paulson.

The funeral services for Miss Hannah Paulson, age 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marinus Paulson, 2131 West Eleventh street, who died Sunday, will be held from the St. Paul's Lutheran church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street, Thursday afternoon. Rev. E. Wulfsberg will officiate.

West End Briefs.

Rev. Paul W. Rood of Minneapolis spoke last evening at the first of a series of revival meetings being held this week at the Swedish Mission church. The meetings will be continued until next Sunday evening.

Mrs. Adolph Olson, 416 North Twenty-sixth avenue west, will entertain Thursday afternoon for the Rebekah guild of St. Peter's Episcopal church.

A. E. Sporquist of Minneapolis, who has been visiting friends in this end of the city, left for his home last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. K. C. Braman of Milwaukee is spending a few days visiting at the home of the latter's relatives in the West end.

A debate will feature a social meeting arranged by the adult Bible classes of the Second Presbyterian church, 1515 West Superior street, this evening.

WEST END BUILDERS

VICTOR JUTEN.

One of the boosters of the West end and an active member of the hustling committee that looks after the welfare of the community is Victor Juten. Mr. Juten has been in business in the West end for the last ten years.

"The Hend of the Lakes has always looked good to me," said Mr. Juten this morning. "I came here directly from Sweden and I have as yet to hear of a better place to live in."

Mr. Juten has taken a prominent part in the work of the West End Commercial club. He is this year a member of the club's library committee and the transportation committee. Since the merchants have inaugurated the monthly noon meetings he has been a regular attendant there.

She Knows What She Wants

The well informed housekeeper objects to the use of alum in food. She might read in an advertisement or be told that it was all right in the quantities used, but in the end she would merely ask, "Do you mean to say that these baking powders contain alum?"

If the answer, however qualified, were in the affirmative, that would be enough. She would not buy it. Why?

Because she knows that cream of tartar has always been accepted as the most wholesome product for raising cake and biscuit, and she wants a baking powder made of cream of tartar, like Royal.

This conclusion is the result of unconscious absorption, either her own or her mother's, of the opinions of the highest authorities on hygiene and home cooking.

The prudent housekeeper looks at the ingredients printed on the label. She knows what she wants.

NO NEWS REGARDING MILLIE BAKER

Mother Ill, Having Almost Abandoned Hope; Mrs. O. H. Hammond, Formerly of Superior, Lost; Husband in Hospital at Queenstown Helps Another "Mrs. Hammond" to Reach Home.

Mrs. A. Baker, 2209 Minnesota avenue, has virtually abandoned all hope for news that her daughter, Miss Millie A. Baker, was among the passengers who were rescued from the sinking Lusitania Friday.

Mrs. Baker has been ill since she received news of the disaster. Her condition was reported as improved today by her physicians.

Press dispatches today seem to indicate that Mrs. O. H. Hammond, former Superior woman, was among those who lost their lives when the sea swallowed up the big Cunard liner.

O. H. Hammond of Bernardsville, N. J., formerly of Superior, who was among the survivors, states that he was lunching with Herbert S. Stone and Lindon Bates, Jr., of New York when the ship was struck.

He was taken to a hospital on his arrival at Queenstown with other survivors. He made inquiries for his wife and was told there was a Mrs. Hammond in the building. The woman, however, proved to be a steerage passenger, who had lost her husband. Mr. Hammond gave her money to buy clothing and reach her home.

WHAT THIN FOLKS SHOULD DO TO GAIN WEIGHT

Physician's Advice for Thin, Undeveloped Men and Women.

Thousands of people suffer from excessive thinness, weak nerves and feeble stomachs who, having tried advertised flesh-makers, food-fads, physical culture stunts and rub-on creams, resign themselves to life-long skinniness and think nothing will make them fat. Yet their case is not hopeless. A recently discovered regenerative force makes fat grow after years of thinness, and is also unequalled for repairing the waste of sickness or faulty digestion and for strengthening the nerves. This remarkable discovery is called Sargol. Six strength-giving, fat-producing elements of acknowledged merit have been combined in this peerless preparation, which is indorsed by eminent physicians and used by prominent people everywhere. It is absolutely harmless, inexpensive and efficient.

A month's systematic use of Sargol should produce flesh and strength by correcting faults of digestion and by supplying highly concentrated fats to the blood. Increased nourishment is obtained from the food eaten, and the additional fats that thin people need are provided. Boyce drug store and other leading druggists supply Sargol and say there is a large demand for it.

While this new preparation has given splendid results as a nerve tonic and vitalizer, it should not be used by nervous people unless they wish to gain at least ten pounds of flesh.

TO PREVENT FOREST FIRES

Co-operation of the Public Is Sought By Forest Service.

Ten "Don'ts" Which Are to Be Observed in the Woods.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, May 11.—To obtain the co-operation of the public in preventing forest fires, which are doing a great deal of damage in the East this spring, the United States forest service has prepared ten "don'ts" to be observed in the woods. It is hoped that these rules may have a beneficial effect during the fire season of the Southern Appalachians, which is not yet over, and that of the north woods, which is just beginning, and which, from present indications, promises to be unusually severe.

The "don'ts" follow:

1. Don't throw your match away until you are sure it is out.
2. Don't drop cigarette or cigar butts until the glow is extinguished.
3. Don't knock out your pipe ashes while hot or where they will fall into dry leaves or other inflammable material.
4. Don't build a camp fire any larger than is absolutely necessary.
5. Don't build a fire against a tree, a log, or a stump, or anywhere but on bare soil.
6. Don't leave a fire until you are sure it is out; if necessary, smother it with earth or water.

Brush and Refuse.

7. Don't burn brush or refuse in or near the woods, if there is any chance that the fire may spread beyond your control, or that the wind may carry sparks where they would start a new fire.
8. Don't be any more careless with fire in the woods than you are with fire in your own home.
9. Don't be idle when you discover a fire in the woods; if you can't put it out yourself, get help. Where a forest guard, ranger or state fire warden can be reached, call him up on the nearest telephone you can find.
10. Don't forget that human thoughtlessness and negligence are the causes of more than half of the forest fires in this country, and that the smallest spark may start a conflagration that will result in loss of life and destruction of timber and young growth valuable not only for lumber but for their influence in helping to prevent flood, erosion and drought.

Fires This Spring.

Many thousands of acres of forest and suburban woodland from Maine to Florida, and from the Atlantic coast as far west as Arkansas, have been burned over already this spring by fires which started for the most part from preventable causes. On the national forest purchase areas alone, 49 fires occurred in March, burning over more than 6,500 acres, while 44 fires started on private land near or within government boundaries damaged nearly 5,500 acres. Fires in April were even more numerous and severe, but rains in the latter part of the month helped the situation somewhat. Fire statistics for April are not yet available.

HINTS TO VACATIONISTS

By DR. SAMUEL G. DIXON, Commissioner of Health for Pennsylvania.

Nature's siren song is calling the city dweller. It lures to mountain, meadow, lake or camp. The call is universal, and all who are free hasten to answer.

In selecting a place for a summer home or a brief vacation, it is well to observe a few basic precautions and so avoid incurring illness which may result seriously.

There are thousands of resorts, cottages and camps where the defects in sanitation present a genuine menace. Certain things should be carefully observed:

The water supply;

The disposal of sewage and garbage;

The milk supply, particularly if there are infants or young children.

If the water supply comes from a well, be sure that it is not located where it will receive underground or surface drainage from a barnyard or outhouse. It is essential to boil water taken from surface streams. Clearness is no guarantee or purity.

If springs are the source of supply, care should be taken that they are not surrounded by habitations or other sources of pollution. In small villages or shore places, if the water supplies are public, diligent inquiry should be made as to whether the source is free from sewage contamination. If the disposal of sewage and garbage is careless, flies are certain to breed, and unless kitchens and dining rooms are carefully screened, there is the possibility of typhoid or diarrhoeal infection from this source.

With young children, particularly infants, the question of a clean milk supply is one of vital importance. Fresh milk is little or no advantage unless it be clean milk.

Mosquitoes also may prove a pestiferous nuisance. There is the possibility of malarial infection in regions where they abound.

Failure to give attention to these essential points of sanitation may result in poignant regrets instead of delightful holiday memories.

Lambs' Club of Central High Presents Playlet at Lyceum.

Presenting "The Great Pumpkin Case," a farce comedy playlet, the Lambs' Dramatic club of Central high school scored a success at the Lyceum theater last evening. The play was coached by L. C. Nasey of the high school English department, and was presented before a crowded house, as a curtain raiser to the regular performance of the Baldwin Players.

The playlet deals with the troubles of Guff and Muff. A pumpkin owned by the former grows through a fence on the latter's land and then mysteriously disappears. A trial is had, at which the jury finds a witness guilty of the theft.

The cast last night was:

"Judge Fobb," Russell Duncan; "Clerk Fizz," Norman McIver; "Lawyer Foozle," Irving Grover; "Lawyer Squibbs," Jacob Garon; "Whipsaw," Sam Gofen; "Hi Guff," Sam Litman; "Ab Muff," Donald Alexander; "Pike Whiffles," Robert Kerr; "Sam Gumlp," Monick Altman; "Ab Snooks," Laurence Moore; "Doc Poddle," Edward Gould; "jury foreman," Stanley Laskey; "loafer," John Moore.

Insurance Advanced.

New York, May 11.—Marine insurance rates have advanced from 75 to 100 points since the Lusitania was sunk. A rate of 2½ per cent on cargoes for London, 2 per cent for Liverpool and 1¾ per cent for Glasgow prevailed today. It was said the upward tendency had been checked and that policies were being freely offered at these rates.

Thieving Farmer to Pen.

Schafer, N. D., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Despite the fact that he has spent several hundreds of dollars in defending his suit and is a prominent farmer of this county, Ira Gray must soon begin to serve a three-year term in the state pen for stealing 100 bushels of flax from the shack of a homesteader in 1911.

PIG LOSES WEIGHT DURING MAD CHASE

Runaway Porker Causes Riot Call From Business District.

Twenty dollars worth of pig was chased through the business section of the city this morning by Officer Krawczyk and after a half-mile run in which the porker depreciated in value about 25 cents, was captured.

His white skin was somewhat soiled by contact with Duluth's streets, his majesty, the shoat, went back to his crate in the Union station express office, snorting indignantly at the temerity of his captor.

About 10 o'clock a small-sized riot call from the station brought the officer to the scene with his club ready for action. He found a crowd of men and boys chasing a somewhat bewildered pig.

Up to Sixth avenue west and then back along Michigan street to Fourth avenue west the porker ran, dodging among trucks and squealing as if his life depended upon it.

A cordon was drawn across the street at Fourth avenue and the $20 worth of pork went back to continue its journey.

KILLED WHEN "HOOKING" RIDE

D. F. Williams, Transient Laborer, Meets Death Under Car Wheels.

Body Found on D., M. & N. Tracks Shortly After Midnight.

David F. Williams, between 35 and 40 years old, was killed by a Duluth, Missabe & Northern train some time before 12:30 o'clock this morning. The accident happened at a point about 165 feet west of the whistling post for Central avenue.

Williams was evidently "beating" a ride on an ore train, and in attempting to get off the train slipped or fell under the cars. His left leg was severed, his left arm put out of joint, and he was badly bruised about the face.

His body was not discovered until 3:40 o'clock, when Engineer Emsley was pulling a "drag" from the ore docks up the hill. The man had evidently died an hour or two before that time from the loss of blood.

From letters found in the man's pocket, he was identified as David F. Williams. He had evidently been to Hibbing, seeking work as a steam shovel engineer. A letter in his pocket from E. W. Riller, 2423 Fairmont avenue, Baltimore, Md., stated that business was picking up in Baltimore and that he would be able to find employment there as steam shovel engineer provided he came back. The letter was received by Williams at Hibbing recently, and it is evident that he intended returning east in hope of getting a job.

It is believed that the accident took place at some time before 12:30 o'clock because of the condition of the ground on which he was lying. Shortly after 12:30 there was a heavy rain storm, but the ground under the body as well as the clothes not exposed, were still dry. An ore train came down the hillside shortly before midnight, and it is believed that he was riding on this train. His clothes indicated that he had been sitting on one of the ore cars.

Williams is married and leaves a widow, residing at 603 "I" street, northwest, Washington, D. C., according to an address found on his body. Officials of the D., M. & N. have wired Mrs. Williams, and the disposition of the body will wait until word is received from the relatives. The body was taken to Pillatrault's undertaking rooms.

TRAIN TIME NOT CHANGED JUST YET

Suburbs Must Get Along With Present Service for a Time.

There will be no change in the train service between West Duluth and the western suburbs for some time to come, according to announcement made this morning by officials of the Northern Pacific railroad. The change reported this morning is misleading, according to the officials.

The proposed change may take place within another week or two, they say, if the permission to make it can be obtained from the state railroad and warehouse commission.

In the meantime men employed at the steel plant and living in West Duluth will have to walk or wait until the 7:20 p. m. train as they have been doing during the last month.

The proposed change was indorsed at a conference between members of the West Duluth Commercial club, Mayor Prince and railroad officials, held yesterday afternoon. It will cause the train now leaving the Duluth union depot at 6:10 to leave at 5:25 p. m. and on the return, leaves Fond du Lac at about 6:10 p. m.

SUES ROAD FOR DAMAGES

Former Locomotive Engineer, Hurt in Collision, Blames Company.

Four Killed in Accident in Which Injury Occurred.

A head-on collision between two trains of the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad company on July 29, 1913, near Allen Junction, in which four trainmen were killed and others injured, is the basis of a personal injury action which was brought to trial before Judge Dancer and a district court jury yesterday afternoon. Ira W. Foote, locomotive engineer, is seeking to recover $25,000 damages from the railroad company, his former employer.

Foote claims that his train was negligently switched upon the wrong track. He left Allen Junction with a train of ore empties. When he pulled from the station, he alleges, he supposed that he had been switched on the right track. About 3 o'clock in the morning, while a severe storm was in progress, his train collided with another coming from the opposite direction. The other train was on the right track, but because of the darkness and the storm the mistake of the crew of Foote's train was not discovered until after the collision.

Four Killed.

Four trainmen were killed outright. Foote claims that he was severely scalded and that his left leg and shoulder were badly injured. The company denies any liability, claiming that Foote was responsible for the accident because he ran his train over the wrong track. The collision took place between Allen Junction and Colby.

Samuel A. Anderson and Warner E. Whipple are attorneys for Foote and Howard T. Abbott of Abbott, MacPherran, Lewis & Gilbert appears as counsel for the defendant railroad company.

JUST WANTED AN ADVENTURE

Runaway Boys Found Well Established in Small Tent.

"They just wanted an adventure," explained Mrs. C. J. Bonner, 2536 Greysolon road, this morning, when describing the disappearance of her son, Robert, and Charles Eden, 10.

Robert spent Saturday with Charles, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eden, 4721 Robertson street, Lakeside, and Sunday morning the boys were not to be found.

Frantic with worry, Mrs. Eden telephoned police headquarters, asking that the officers help find her son.

Monday morning a search near the Eden home revealed a camp where the two boys had established themselves, intending to stay indefinitely. Their small tent was set up in true campers' style and they were enjoying "the simple life."

"Robert," said Mrs. Bonner, and Robert needed no further instructions. He came forward reluctantly and was taken home.

'CYCLE COP TAKES TWO AUTO SPEEDERS

Metropolitan Police Methods Effective in Zenith City.

Metropolitan police methods caused the downfall of two automobilists yesterday when Officer L. A. Root began work as a motorcycle squad of one.

David H. Cargill, 1217 East Third street, traveling salesman, was driving along West Superior street at too high a rate of speed, according to the officer's speedometer, and while en route to police headquarters, he stopped long enough to chase and capture Ollie Dignes, 27 North Sixty-sixth avenue west, a jitneur.

With a load of passengers, Dignes was "hitting the high spots" and paid a $7 fine in municipal court this morning for speeding. Cargill forfeited $10 bail by non-appearance.

Although Officer Root received his motorcycle several days ago and was assigned to his new duties, yesterday was the first day that he began watching the automobiles in earnest.

RUBBISH RECEPTACLES HAVE NO RIGHTS ON CITY STREETS

Commissioner Farrell, head of the public works division, notified Commissioner Silberstein this afternoon that the paper receptacles are on the street corners without any authority and that the police should be instructed to remove them at once. Mr. Silberstein is expected to issue such an order later in the day.

City Attorney Greene has ruled that the resolution passed by the old council last March giving Spindler Brothers permission to place the paper boxes on all the important street corners of the city is null and void, in view of the fact that an ordinance is necessary before such a contract can be made. The council has refused to pass an ordinance authorizing such an agreement and as a result the boxes will have to be removed.

AUTO OWNER AND "HITTEE" SETTLE

Oscar Lee Gets Cash From Charles Shogran for Damages.

For injuries sustained in a collision between an automobile and a wood wagon at Tenth avenue west and Michigan street on Oct. 20 last, Oscar Lee will receive $135. In district court yesterday afternoon, Lee settled a cause of action pending against Charles Shogran and his son, Rudolph Shogran, for this amount.

Lee brought suit to recover $5,160 for personal injuries and damages to his wagon. He alleged that an automobile jointly owned by the two defendants ran into him. The younger Shogran was driving the car. The case was called for trial yesterday afternoon in Judge Ensign's division, but before a jury was drawn a settlement was reached.

Judgment against the Shograns for $135 was entered today.

Farrell Favors Measure to Increase Amount for Walk Maintenance.

In order to protect property owners, Commissioner Farrell will recommend that 10 per cent of the cost of a side-walk improvement be kept for one year and that 5 per cent be retained for four years for maintenance work.

At present the city keeps 8 per cent the first year and 3 per cent the following four years, but Mr. Farrell is of the opinion that it is not enough.

City Engineer Ayres has just completed an investigation of the matter and he recommends that the amounts be increased this year. Mr. Farrell plans to take the matter up with the council at an early date.

Are you making it "pay"—this occupation of keeping boarders? Perhaps a better way to put the question would be: "Are you advertising in The Herald the fact that you keep boarders?"

GEN. VILLA CLAIMS ANOTHER VICTORY

Stomach Troubles Due to Acidity

SO SAYS EMINENT SPECIALIST.

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, wind and stomach-ache are in probably nine cases out of ten simply evidence that fermentation is taking place in the food contents of the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acids. Wind distends the stomach, and causes that full, oppressive feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the fermenting food. Such fermentation is unnatural, and acid formation is not only unnatural, but may involve most serious consequences if not corrected. To stop or prevent fermentation of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid, and render it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia, probably the best and most effective corrector of acid stomach known, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water immediately after eating, or whenever wind or acidity is felt. This stops the fermentation, and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments. Fermentation, wind and acidity are dangerous and unnecessary. Stop or prevent them by the use of a proper antacid, such as bisurated magnesia, which can be obtained from Boyce Drug Store, 331 West Superior street, or any druggist, and thus enable the stomach to do its work properly without being hindered by poisonous gas and dangerous acids.—M. F. P.

Crookston Will Royally Entertain State Senators and Others.

Visitors to Attend Red River Development Meeting at Hallock.

Crookston, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—An event of the greatest importance to the Minnesota Red River valley will be the visit to this section in June of the delegation of state senators and others who will make a tour of the entire northern part of the state. The stops at various places will necessarily be very short, but splendid entertainment will be provided at each place, and the visitors will be given ample opportunity to see the many interesting sights of this section.

Starting on June 8 from St. Paul, the party will spend until June 13 in the Iron Range country, thence going to Fort Frances, Ont., from where a boat trip will be enjoyed to Warroad. The party will make the trip down the Warroad line June 16, stopping at Roseau, Thief River Falls and intervening points, arriving at Crookston about 3 p. m., where an auto tour, a visit to the Crookston School of Agriculture and a ball in the evening will be included in the entertainment. The night of June 16 the special train will leave for a trip up the St. Vincent line to attend the June convention of the Minnesota Red River Valley Development association at Hallock, and will make a trip to the Hill farm at Northcote, a few miles north of there.

At Development Meeting.

At the development meeting the visiting senators will be given a good idea of the constructive work being done by the development association and a number of them will contribute to the program. In addition to the senators making the tour, invitations have been issued to Governor Hammond, Secretary of State Schmahl, State Treasurer Smith, State Auditor Preus, Attorney General Smith, Supreme Court Clerk Caswell, Public Examiner Fritz, Superintendent of Banks Turritten, Insurance Commissioner Works, Dairy and Food Commissioner Yearrell, Charles E. Vassaly of the state board of control, M. F. Moriarity of the state dairy and food department, Secretary Simpson of the state fair board, State Superintendent of Schools Schulz, Commissioner of Immigration Sherman, State Forester Cox, Speaker Flowers, and Charles G. Roth, George W. Peachy, L. S. Duxbury and J. A. A. Burnquist.

Without any question a great many of those invited outside of the senators will attend, which will make a list of prominent visitors such as was never before assembled in Northern Minnesota. Without a doubt a most hearty welcome will be everywhere extended to the distinguished visitors and the trip will be one of pleasure and profit to them, as well as gratification to the people of Northern Minnesota whose guests they will be.

The trip will serve to bring the people of the state closer together and will be of immense benefit to the Minnesota Red River valley. The development association meeting at Hallock, June 16 and 17, will be planned with special reference to this visit of distinguished Minnesotans.

BEMIDJI MAY BUY SOME PINE LANDS

Tract of Virgin Pine Along Lake Shore May Be Acquired.

Bemidji, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—If plans carry, Bemidji will purchase the tract of virgin pine on the east shore of Lake Bemidji, which covers a tract more than a mile long along the lake shore.

The matter was first brought up at the meeting of the city council Monday evening by Frank S. Lycan, president of the council and plans to obtain the tract were discussed, among which was that the city should apply to the state aid in the matter and make the park a state park.

Consider Another Tract.

Another tract of pine at the northwest corner of Lake Bemidji is also being considered. Either tract would make an ideal park as they are both located on the lake shore and consist of tall straight pines with no undergrowth.

A committee, consisting of Frank S. Lycan as chairman and two members of the city council as members, who will be named later are to meet with the Merchants' association and Commercial club as soon as possible and decide a way in which the matter may be disposed of.

RING ROMANCE IS OFTEN CHUCKED UP BY WOMEN

Willie Ritchie's Sister Says He Is "Just Horrid," While Other Women Have Come in With Her Dethroning Scandal—Don Marion Shows Form—Are Great Hitters the Best Baseball Managers?

BY BRUCE.

A TITLED Englishman once despairingly declared that no man was a hero to his valet. Now it appears that one prizefighter at least is emphatically not a hero to his little sister.

Willie Ritchie, one of the greatest money grabbers the ring as yet produced—and we are not forgetting Freddy Welsh—did a vaudeville dancing act with his sister. Sister quit Willie in a fit of deep blue peeve and then started to pull a lot of family stuff.

"Willie," harps little sister, "is so stuck on himself that he can't see any other person. Gee! I feel sorry for the girl that marries Willie. Brother wants to get into society; say, he'll have to use some of that coin to break in—no girl would ever take him for his dancing.

"Willie don't know where to put his feet—most of the time he put his feet on my feet. Then he'd nearly crack my ribs. As a dancer he's so awful that he's good."

That is only part of it. Willie's sister says Willie is so close to himself that he told her dancing with him should be quite enough compensation for little sister.

Let us remark in passing that it is sisters and wives of pugilists that have taken most of the alleged romance of the fighting game and heaved it out on the ash heap.

Johnny Dundee's wife alleged that her husband beat her up as a sort of barbaric diversion. Not being a reading man, perhaps, Johnny demanded some relaxation.

It was Mrs. James J. Corbett and the then Mrs. Norman Selby (Kid McCoy)—there have been quite a few Mrs. McCoys, who exposed the fake bout between Gentleman Jim and the Kid.

Jim Corbett was a hero to a horde of followers until the first Mrs. Corbett filed her evidence in her suit for divorce. Mrs. Bob Fitzsimmons—the former one—took the public into her confidence and declared that Robert the red was a brute, the horrid thing.

It's a great life, but we must be brave.

Don Marion Shows Form.

WHEN big Don Marion was flinging in these parts the majority of the rail birds predicted a great future for the big boy. Don was secured by the St. Louis Nationls and somehow failed to make good. Later he went to Milwaukee and his record in the foam city was not exactly what might be included in the vivid colors of golden success.

Keeping step with the progress of events the former White Sox mound star climbed on the Federal van. He is now with the Brooklyn Feds and just the other day the Brooklyn papers loudly acclaimed that our Donald pitched one of the greatest games that has been hurled in years in the city of churches.

Don is a fickle youth—erratic and unstable—but he has pitched one masterly game up in the "third major," and that is something in the way of achievement.

Get Together, Gentlemen.

FROM some obscure or mysterious corner of the national gossip circle comes lilting to life the rumor that Ban Johnson told Johnny McGraw to grab Kauff and face the thing out. Now comes a statement rumbling from the lips of the white czar of baseball, which deposes that he said or intimated or indicated nothing of the sort.

Who has crossed the current—who has set the tangle in the inner working of the machine of organized baseball?

They ought to get this thing fixed up—Charley Murphy isn't there to place the blame on. Think of all the trouble that Benny Kauff went to.

Lo the Fence Busters.

CLUSTERED on the old Philadelphia team were some of the greatest hitters in baseball. Roy Thomas, Elmer Flick, the late Ed Delehanty and Nap Lajoie, then in the very youth and pristine strength of his prime.

Jimmy Callahan was always a nervy ball player. Jim, too, was some pitcher in his day. In those early days in the career of the big Frenchman Lajoie was being touted as one of the greatest hitters in the game.

"Let me go in and pitch the opening game against the Phillies and spoil the Frenchman as a drawing card," begged Callahan on the first western trip of the Philadelphia team.

Thomas led off with a single on the firts ball pitched. Flick tripled down the left foul line. Ed Delehanty busted one into the bleachers. Just as Lajoie was walking to the plate, bat in hand, Callahan walked from the box.

Someone asked Jimmy if he stopped the big Frenchman.

"Nope," replied Callahan. "I met his advance agents and refused to stay and look at his specialty."

Who Is the Greatest Manager?

FRANK CHANCE was rated as a great manager when he was at the head of the old Cub machine. While not called the Napoleon of baseball, there was a certain Bismarckian iron will and bravery about Chance that caught the multitude.

Now Chance is rated as one of the modern failures of the game.

Connie Mack has for years occupied one of the niches in the exclusive hall of fame. He is listed with the baseball immortals.

This year his team may finish in the ruck—and then wait and listen to the heavy diapason of the anvil chorus.

Hughey Jennings likewise came in for wide and enthusiastic acclaim. Hughey is no longer clustered with Mack and McGraw and the latest inhabitant of brilliant circle avenue, George Stallings.

There was also Fred Clark, with three straight flag winners and another winner after the elapse of a year. The wiseacres of the game are already saying that Clarke was over rated.

If McGraw falls down this year—as his team did last—the thumbs in the bleachers will be turned down.

And if Stallings fails to repeat his performance of last year—there will be the incessant murmurs of the mob.

Germany Schaefer has come to the front with the declaration that the greatest manager in the world is a couple of batters of the glowing stripe of Cobb and Crawford or of the fence busting proclivities of Baker and Collins.

Maybe the comedian of the game is right.

"Give me the hitters and the great managers can sit on the bench and read a novel," says Schaefer.

If not precisely correct, the Dutchman has a scent on the trail at least.

Hudson Promoter Says Eastern Critics Think Well of Willard.

Mike Collins, the well known Hudson promoter, who, this last season, promoted some of the biggest boxing bouts staged in Wisconsin, is in the city today.

Mike declares that he intends to promote bouts at Hudson despite the fact that Minnesota will shortly have a number of boxing clubs. Collins talked with some Chicago promoters who returned from the Coffey-Reich fight, and the consensus of opinion is that the big Irishman has real class and that he will give Jess Willard a real battle. Nate Lewis, manager of Charley White, witnessed the battle between Coffey and Reich, and told Collins that Coffey is one of the best big men he has seen in action for some time.

Wolfe furnished the feature of the visitors' play, getting four hits and driving in three of the hostile runs.

So intense was the rivalry in yesterday's grade school league baseball game between the Adams and Lincolns that several incidents crept into a league game that have no place in the grade school game or any other game for that matter. The Lincolns defeated the Adams by the score of 9 to 8 and climbed into first place in the Western division race.

In the Western portion of the city the rivalry between the different schools is very keen. Especially is this so in the case of the Lincolns and the Adams. This intense desire to win resulted in some unsportsmanlike actions on the field of play.

The Emersons were easy victims for the Bryants, being beaten by the score of 36 to 9. The Lowells also fell easy victims to the Irvings, the score being 19 to 0.

There was one good game during the afternoon, that being the contest between the Jacksons and Monroes. The count was 9 to 6 in favor of the Jacksons. Some real baseball was witnessed in this encounter. Some sharp fielding plays were pulled off in the pinches and the pitching on both sides was far above the average seen in kid games.

An unfortunate incident in the game between the Jeffersons and Lakesides marred the game. The game went ten rounds and, with the score 12 to 10 in favor of the Jeffersons, their captain sent three men to bat out of their regular turn. Umpire Lovell Miller promptly forfeited the contest to the Lakesides.

A fast and well-played game was that between the Salters and Endlons, the former winning by the count of 11 to 9. The Washingtons, who are traveling at a fast clip at the present time, defeated the Washburns by the count of 19 to 2.

Clean Ball Must Be Played.

Lawrence Duby stated today that, in making a selection of an all-star team to take to St. Paul, clean playing and gentlemanly conduct on the baseball field would be factors counting in the choosing of the players.

Those behind the grade league are resolved to make it a model league in every detail. No rough work will be tolerated, and no unsportsmanlike conduct will be condoned. Fairness, honesty and gentlemanly conduct are three of the cardinal virtues required from the players. The leaders of the various teams had better have this fact impressed upon them early in the race.

The Jefferson team lost a game yesterday because of unsportsmanlike conduct, and incidents such as those occurring in the Adams-Lincoln game will not be tolerated, according to Director Duby.

It would be a shame to let any player or any set of players injure a league that has made so fine a start and promises to fill so large a place in amateur athletics. It is up to every kid player to work for the success of the league.

JESS WILLARD WILL FIGHT IF SHOWN SOME REAL COIN

World's Heavyweight Champion Makes a Statement to This Effect in Minneapolis; Wants Only $30,000 to Enter the Ring.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 11.—Jess Willard, world's heavyweight champion, arrived in Minneapolis yesterday to join the 101 Wild West show. Time and experience have wrought a wondrous change in Willard since he last visited Minneapolis. When here before he was a tall, ungainly, awkward specimen, undergoing the first real training at the hands of Charley Cutler. Today, Willard is even bigger, appears to be in much finer physical trim, and has acquired an altogether new air. The new champion is not at all cocky, nor has he seemingly allowed his victory over Johnson to swell his head. He is the same frank, good-natured giant he was in the days when the experts were scouting his chances to ever get anywhere in the fighting game.

Willing to Fight.

"They are doing a lot of talking about my fighting and what they call my refusal to fight," said Willard during the day. "But you can say, and as emphatically as you please, that I am ready and willing to fight any time. I will cancel the show contracts any day. But get it right. I am not paying any attention to the fighter talk. By that I mean the reckless challenges thrown at me by a lot of fighters and managers who haven't a cent in sight and nothing but a desire to pick up change. The situation is right here: Any time any reputable and responsible promoter offers me a fight, I will meet him and take him on so fast that it will surprise some of these chaps. Any time any promoter offers me $30,000 or even $35,000, for my end, and that is the price the champs have set since the time of Burns, I am willing and ready to talk business.

"On the other hand, I think that I am entitled to a rest and a chance to make some money, if I can, in a legitimate way. I worked hard, got in condition and whipped Johnson when a majority of the fight experts thought I had no chance. I took the short end to get the chance, and I did what a lot of others failed to do. I have hardly slept in a bed since the battle at Havana. I have been traveling most of the time and doing what I could for myself and family in a financial way. I don't know where they got the idea about not fighting in a year. I will fight any time if the promoters show me the real cash, but this talk of a lot of fighters couldn't be cashed at a cent on the dollar. That is the situation in a nutshell."

Tour Satisfactory.

Manager Tom Jones, bearing the famous kohinoor, was along and looks prosperous and content. He agrees with Willard that any time there is a clicking of real dollars it will not be hard to provoke a fuss. "Contrary to report, our tour was a satisfactory one," said Jones. "We did well financially, but the show offer of the Wild West people was a good one and relieved us of a lot of expense and long jumps in the traveling. We can close that any time to fight, and, as Jess says, all they have to show us is a promoter willing to put up the cash. Personally, I don't think there is a candidate in sight who has the slightest chance with Jess, and from a financial standpoint I'm sorry to say it. But we'll battle any time any fighter can get some promoter interested to the point of putting up the proper purse."

Willard, Jones and the show managers were busy arranging Willard's act. It was decided at noon that he should make his entrance in cowboy togs and later give a demonstration of his stock blows. Manager Jones announced that, as he regarded Jess as a valuable bit of furniture just now, he would not do any broncho busting or any rough riding.

BOAT CLUB ELECTION

Annual Meeting of Club Members Is on Schedule.

The annual election of the Duluth Boat club will be held in the rooms of the Duluth Commercial club this evening. There are four retiring directors, A. C. Le Duc, B. E. Baker, Watson S. Moore and Dr. Frank Lynam. It is believed that four new directors will be chosen to fill their places.

It is generally believed that Capt. Dan Mahoney, who for years has unselfishly given his time and efforts to the club, will be chosen as president to succeed Ray W. Higgins.

Walker Jamar, the present secretary, will, it is generally believed, be chosen to succeed himself, and it is also believed that Arthur Barnes will again be chosen as club treasurer.

John Killorin and John G. Williams have been mentioned as possibilities for vice president.

Moving pictures of the national races at Philadelphia and also pictures of the Syracuse rowing candidates at work in their tank, will be shown. It is especially desired that there be a large attendance of members on hand.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Chronic Dyspepsia

ONLY a few, but still too many of our correspondents ask us to suggest something good for chronic dyspepsia. It seems to be the general idea, fostered and transmuted into hard cash by the nostrum makers, that chronic dyspepsia, or as it is often termed, "stomach trouble," or "catarrh of the stomach"—a more diagnostic joke on the sufferer—is a disease due to poor digestion. Therefore the cure-alls make a great to-do about "digesting your food," or "restoring the natural secretions so that you will digest and assimilate your food properly." This is very pleasant sounding bunk, but the dyspeptic who "falls" for it is destined to suffer a cruel awakening soon—at 3 o'clock tomorrow morning, mayhap.

When young and callow—and we freely admit we were both when we entered practice—we did prescribe sundry kinds of pepsin, pancreatin, papaya and other good digestive ferments, confidently expecting the patients to recover and go forth to sing our praises ever afterward. The contrary was what those ungrateful patients did. Our treatment, they averred and kept averring for an interminable time, was strictly N. G. Some of them went so far as to intimate that now they knew us they wouldn't have us administer medical services for a sick cat—a thing no good doctor would do and no poor doctor is permitted to do.

Don't Convict on Circumstantial Evidence.

Pain or soreness felt in the region of the stomach, belching of gas or sour liquid, vomiting, heaviness and distress and fulness after eating are symptoms, not of stomach trouble, but of trouble elsewhere, in nine out of ten cases. Flatulent and nervous dyspepsia, so-called, gastralgia and neuralgia of the stomach, gastric catarrh, hyperchlorhydria, these are names for symptoms of trouble which is usually not in the stomach itself.

Ptosis, or sagging of the stomach, a diseased appendix, gallstones or chronic inflammation of the gall-sac, duodenal ulcer, unsuspected kidney disease, arteriosclerosis, incipient tuberculosis, anemia from one cause or another, locomotor ataxia, curvature or Pott's disease (tuberculosis) of the spine, these are some of the conditions which masquerade as "chronic dyspepsia." Pain in the stomach is no more indicative of stomach trouble than is pain in the back indicative of kidney trouble—both delusions are perpetuated for what there is in it by the quacks and medicine fakers.

Acute indigestion is never fatal. Or to be Hibernian, if it is fatal it is a great mistake. One frequent error of this kind is angina pectoris, a fatal heart disease which is accompanied by seizures of extreme pain and the pain sometimes seems to be in the pit of the stomach.

McKERCHER HONOR GUEST

Duluth Council Modern Samaritans Entertains for Police Chief-Elect.

Speakers Laud Outgoing and Incoming Chiefs—McKercher Speaks.

Duluth council, No. 3, Modern Samaritans, entertained last evening in honor of R. D. McKercher, successor to C. H. Troyer as chief of police. The affair was held at the old Masonic temple.

"I have held public office for the last four years," said Mr. McKercher. "The path I have covered has not been rosy and many perplexing questions have come before me. I know just what I am entering into, but whatever occasion happens to come up, my aim will be to use a cool and level head in disposing of it. I feel certain in saying that when I step out of office at the end of a four-year period, I will be able to say that my record is clear."

William E. McEwen, postmaster; Thomas J. McKeon, a local attorney, and John Christie were also speakers. Postmaster McEwen and Attorney McKeon paid a tribute to the efficient work which had been done by Chief Troyer as head of the police department. Mr. Christie, in his address, paid particular attention to the record of Mr. McKercher as humane agent.

TO CONVENTION OF GOSPEL MISSIONS

Head of Duluth Bethel Will Go to Norfolk, Va., Gathering.

Rev. R. E. Ramseyer of the Duluth Bethel mission will attend the second annual convention of the International Union of Gospel Missions at Norfolk, Va., May 16 to 20.

"Others" is the motto of this convention, which will be the second one of its kind to be held in the United States. The first annual meeting was held last year at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and was designed to permit interchange of ideas to help "the other fellow."

Some of the subjects to be considered at the convention are: "Ruin, Rescue and Recovery, the Three R's of Mission Work;" "The Relation of Rescue Missioners to the Police Court," and "Temporal Aid as an Adjunct to the Spiritual Work of the Mission."

SEVERAL WOULD BE HUMANE AGENT

Among other candidates are: Capt. Darwin E. Stevens, former deputy sheriff; Edward Totman, John Doran, Kenneth McDonald, Joseph Shartell and Roy Bartlett.

INTEREST IN ERIE CANAL

New York State Must Raise $27,000,000 to Complete Water Route.

Duluth Would Secure Much Lower Rate on Grain.

Next November the state of New York will hold a referendum election to get the sanction or disapproval of the state on the matter of raising $27,000,000 on a bond issue for the completion of the new and enlarged Erie canal.

Duluth and the Northwest are, or should be, greatly interested in the matter, and it is a fact that those in the grain shipping business here are intensely interested. It means a great deal to the Head of the Lakes, for, should the bonds be defeated and the canal improvement be delayed—which will be the result if the bond issue is not sanctioned—a complete change of plans will be necessary here.

Effect On Duluth.

The opening of the new Erie canal—improved as planned—would mean better, quicker and more economical service in making shipments from the Great Lakes to the seaboard. The Erie canal has always cut a large figure in keeping down railroad rates, and the larger and better one would have a correspondingly important effect, for, it is claimed, steam units are already being designed with a view of taking loads of grain and other products from any point on the Great Lakes clear through to New York and possibly crossing the ocean with them. In such an event, Duluth would become one of the leading ocean ports of the world.

Greater New York is becoming alarmed, for it is recognized there that if the bonds are not allowed, almost all of the shipping that goes from Buffalo to New York by way of the Erie canal, will, within three years be diverted to the Canadian route. With the building of the new Welland canal, which will accommodate ships up to 800 feet in length, and the proposed improvement of the St. Lawrence river so that ships of considerable size may carry grain to Montreal, there to be reloaded on ocean steamers, New York must look to her laurels, is the warning sounded. The same steam units mentioned herein, would be just as effective through the St. Lawrence canals as they would through the Erie.

New York City Active.

It is generally believed that New York city has need of being uneasy. When the original bond issue for the enlarging of the canal was submitted in 1903, had it not been for the substantial majority that the city gave the proposition, it would have been defeated by 143,759 votes, for the state voted against it. With still more millions asked to complete the job, it is likely that the smaller cities and the farmers of the state will be against the project more and more, and already New York city is starting a campaign for it.

New York is up against it at present as compared with Canadian competition. The average grain rate to Montreal from the Head of the Lakes is 3½ cents a bushel; from Buffalo to New York it is 6 cents, almost double the Canadian rate. An effort has been made to get the railroads to grant a grain rate between Buffalo and New York of 4 cents, to equal the Canadian rate from Georgian bay to Montreal, but they have refused to do so. Therefore it is pointed out that it behooves the village on Manhattan island to get this canal bond issue passed or lose an immense amount of prestige as a port. Montreal holds the cards at the present time.

FORMER JUDGE DIES.

Lloyd Barber, Pioneer Jurist of Minnesota, Is Called.

Winona, Minn., May 11.—Judge Lloyd Barber, 89 years old, one of the oldest jurists in the Northwest, died at his home here. Death followed a recent stroke of paralysis.

Judge Barber came to Minnesota in 1852. He located first at St. Paul and began the study of law. He went to Rochester where, in 1870, he was named to the district bench for Wabasha, Winona, Houston, Fillmore and Olmsted counties by Governor Miller. He was the second judge of the district. He also had served Olmsted as county attorney. He practiced law here for thirty years before he retired. Only his wife survives.

EUGENE SANDOW

He could support with his body a heavy horse and rider, or 20 big men on a plank bridge, and could lift with a harness, 4,800 pounds.

Diet of Sandow Includes Beer

WORLD'S STRONGEST MAN GREAT EXAMPLE OF TEMPERANCE

Eugene Sandow is positive proof that the temperate use of pure beer builds the body. During the years he was touring the world performing feats of strength that astounded and stunned the senses of his audiences, beer formed part of his daily diet.

Respect must be paid to the efficacy of the diet that fed and built strength so colossal.

Note:—By analysis, one quart of beer contains from 46 to 124 grains of albumen, nutritious salts, including phosphate, and a large proportion of extract of malt. English physicians generally, accepting the formula of Anstie, make a moderate quantity of beer per diem about 4 glasses, or one quart.

THAT DELICIOUS TASTE OF BEER DRAWN FROM THE WOOD

Fitger Natural Beer, filtered by the Kieselguhr filter, has the wonderful natural taste and aroma of the finest beer as drawn from the wood.

The Fitger Kieselguhr Filter (first of its kind in America) takes the place of pasteurization, the process used by other brewers for "keeping" bottled beer.

Pasteurization does not preserve the natural taste of beer. Kieselguhr filtration is the only known way to "keep" beer in bottles and preserve its natural taste. For this reason all brewers will in time use Kieselguhr filtration.

Kieselguhr filtration makes Fitger Natural Beer the clearest, most brilliant beer in America.

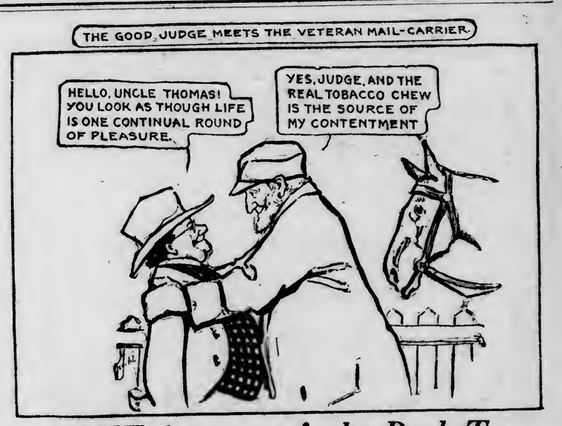
THE GOOD JUDGE MEETS THE VETERAN MAIL-CARRIER.



HELLO, UNCLE THOMAS! YOU LOOK AS THOUGH LIFE IS ONE CONTINUAL ROUND OF PLEASURE.
YES, JUDGE, AND THE REAL TOBACCO CHEW IS THE SOURCE OF MY CONTENTMENT

THE beauty of the Real Tobacco Chew is that the longer you use it the better you like it.

Result is that men keep using it steady—and count it a pleasure to be able to pass the tip along to friends.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough—cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

Take less than one-quarter the old size chew. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just take a nibble of it until you find the strength chew that suits you, then see how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end. The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up. An excess of licorice and sweetening makes you spit too much.

"Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste."

Eveleth Man Tells Why He Got Injunction Against Gilbert.

Virginia, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Claiming that if the village of Gilbert is permitted to use water from Ely lake for municipal purposes that the lake will become contaminated and thus unfit for a pleasure resort and that it will so lower the level of the lake as to cause a material depreciation in the value of the lake shore property, Mike Kronin, Eveleth, who secured a restraining order from Judge Hughes stopping the village from using the water from the lake until the matter has been heard on its merits, June 5, at Hibbing, stated today that he would fight the matter to the limit as it is of considerable consequence to him.

"The filtration plant will purify the water to be used by the village of Gilbert," he said, "but will so contaminate the water in the remainder of the lake that it will be unfit for drinking purposes. As a result the lake, which is the only beauty spot on the Messaba range, which can be used as a summer resort, will be stripped of its attractiveness. I have been working for several years and have spent considrable money to make my summer resort on the lake shore attractive and therefore this matter means a great deal to me. I will let nothing undone to prevent the use of water from this lake for municipal purposes at Gilbert."

Denies Corporation Rumor.

He denied the rumor that the steel corporation was behind the move and that it is merely a means of dealing out punishment to the E. W. Coons Contracting company of Hibbing, which has the contract for construction work on the filtration plant and which will be the only party which will be inconvenienced by a temporary restraining order. He says that this is only his fight to protect his rights as a holder of property along the lake shore.

He stated that he had been told by mining company engineers that the wells at the mines, the present source of water supply for the village of Gilbert, are inexhaustible and as pure as it is possible to secure water.

Dr. Barrett Talks.

"So little consequence has been attached to the matter that we of Gilbert have given it but little thought," Dr. Barrett, president of the village council, said. "Citizens of Gilbert refuse to take the matter seriously," he said.

"Is there any truth in the rumor that the village will start condemnation proceedings in case the injunction is made permanent?" he was asked.

"I do not give much credence to that as no one is taking the matter seriously here in Gilbert," he said.

In answer to the question, "Do you give credence to the rumor that the steel corporation is back of this matter and doing it merely to punish the E. W. Coons Contracting company?" he said, "I do not believe there is anything to that."

ROOSEVELT SCHOOL WILL BE REPAIRED

Board of Education of Virginia Engages Duluth Architect.

Virginia, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—After hearing reports last night from Architect Nystrom of Duluth and an engineer, as to the safety of the auditorium in the Roosevelt school, the board of education directed the architect to prepare plans to strengthen the structure and make it safe. The school was built twelve years ago and has always furnished the largest auditorium in the city, but has not been used for large gatherings since it was recently condemned as unsafe.

The architect and engineer, although they made separate reports practically agreed that the building is unsafe and needs repairing. They found that it never had been safe for large crowds and is no worse today than ever. Steel girders were not used in its construction, they say, while they find the east wall an inch out of plumb. They agreed that with certain repairs the structure will be made safe, and Architect Nystrom is ordered to prepare these.

TWO HARBORS CONCERTS

City Council Decides Where Marine Band Shall Play.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council last night discussed the concerts to be given during the summer by the Marine band as to where and when they should be given. The city has appropriated funds for the band and, according to agreement, the band is to give six free open-air concerts at such times during the summer as the council shall see fit to designate. After considerable discussion it appeared to be the sentiment of the council to have four of the concerts in the city park on Sunday afternoons and several shorter ones in the evenings in some central part of the city. This arrangement will be taken up with the band boys and it is believed it will be much more satisfactory to them as well as the general public rather than having the concerts in the park Sunday afternoons.

Mr. Gardener, Now Is the Time to ——

Mr. Gardener, now is the time—to do almost everything in the line of making a garden.

Get your sweet peas in at once, if you have not already done so. Many already have them above ground.

Now is the time to get after dandelions. Don't let them blossom. Keep them cut, and dig out as many of the roots as possible. Just after a rain when the ground is soft, is the time to tackle them.

Now is the time to prepare the soil. In spading, take out all grass roots and weed roots, and spade in a generous quantity of well rotted stable manure, and some wood ashes, if the soil is heavy clay.

The first planting of radishes, lettuce and peas should be in by this time. They should be planted every two or three weeks, so that the yield will be continuous.

It is a little early for nasturtiums, popples and beans.

And finally, now is the time to clean up.

What the Child Is Learning

The First Grade.

When, for the first time, your boy or girl starts off for school in the morning, ready to plunge into the sea of knowledge, readin', ritin', and rithmetic no longer are a bugaboo.

In the first grade of Duluth's public schools the child is taught:

To be patriotic.

To respect the better things in life.

To keep his hands and nails clean.

To sit in his seat properly.

Since the boy or girl's mother and father were in school the curriculum has been enlarged to include many subjects in addition to the three "Rs."

Rhymes, songs and stories, including "Jack and Jill," "Little Jack Horner," "The House That Jack Built," "Little Miss Muffet," and others are used to familiarize the six-year-olds with words of one syllable.

Dramatization plays an important part in first grade work, for by acting out the story of "The Three Bears," "Red Riding Hood," "The Three Pigs," and so on, the pupil is introduced to many new words.

When a boy first attempts to solve the mysteries of writing, he is liable to notice nothing more than that the "t"s go up and the "p"s and "y"s go down, but this is the first step towards reading, and results in mastery of the first "R" of the three.

At the end of the B First term, children should be able to make new words containing the vowels and b, c, d, f, g, h, k, l, m, n, p, r, s, t.

Poems Memorized.

Later on, poems must be memorized, and the child learns to recite the story of "Wynken, Blynken and Nod," "In Winter I Get Up at Night," and "The Children's Hour."

In the A First grade the work is a continuation of the B First studies, as nearly as possible. Oral and written spelling lessons form an important part of the day's lessons. Words of not more than six letters are learned, as are the days of the week and months of the year.

Typical words assigned for oral spelling are: succeeded, difficulty, petticoat, despaired, pleasant, strawberry, goldenrod, culprit, nobleman.

Games of blindfolding are used to develop sense training, the senses of smell, sight, taste and touch also being used to broaden powers of observation.

Geography is taught in the first grade, for the child learns about rain, snow, night and day, and the seasons of the year. Under history comes the story of Columbus, stories of the Pilgrims, Washington, Lincoln, Memorial day and the Civil war.

Drawing and music also play an important part in the elementary work.

YOU CAN'T RUB IT OUT

The pain of rheumatism is something that you cannot rub out. Every sufferer from rheumatism has been advised to rub this or that on the affected part but after all the rubbing the pain remained.

Thin blood and rheumatism come together and if they are properly treated they will go together. One prominent medical writer says that "there is no acute febrile disease in which an anemia occurs with greater rapidity." Anemia means thin blood and thin blood is something that can be corrected so why not build up the blood until the rheumatic poisons are driven out?

This is exactly what is done in the treatment of rheumatism with Dr. Williams 'Pink Pills. Acute, muscular and articular rheumatism all show improvement as the thin blood is built up and when the poisons in the blood are burned up and driven out the rheumatism does not return as long as the blood is kept rich and red.

Care in the diet is important during the treatment and every rheumatic sufferer should have two booklets published by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., called "Building Up the Blood" and "What to Eat and How to Eat." They are free on request. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

WOULD CONNECT HEADS OF THE LAKES

Canadians Eager to Finish Auto Road Now Partially Made.

Residents in Port Arthur and Fort William are interesting themselves in bringing to completion the automobile road between the Canadian and American Head of the Lakes.

According to the Port Arthur Chronicle, four members of their board of trade have just returned from an inspection trip over the northern end of the route, and a series of photographs taken at various points is being displayed by them. The party went by boat from Duluth to Chicago Bay, Minn., and from that point the route was covered thoroughly.

It is claimed that except for a gap of ten miles on each side of the international boundary, a passable road now exists, and hopes are expressed that the project will be carried through to completion this year. It is predicted that the opening of the highway will give a great impetus to tourist travel between Duluth and the Canadian Twin Cities.

Eveleth Man Tells Why He Got Injunction Against Gilbert.

Virginia, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Claiming that if the village of Gilbert is permitted to use water from Ely lake for municipal purposes that the lake will become contaminated and thus unfit for a pleasure resort and that it will so lower the level of the lake as to cause a material depreciation in the value of the lake shore property, Mike Kronin, Eveleth, who secured a restraining order from Judge Hughes stopping the village from using the water from the lake until the matter has been heard on its merits, June 5, at Hibbing, stated today that he would fight the matter to the limit as it is of considerable consequence to him.

"The filtration plant will purify the water to be used by the village of Gilbert," he said, "but will so contaminate the water in the remainder of the lake that it will be unfit for drinking purposes. As a result the lake, which is the only beauty spot on the Mesaba range, which can be used as a summer resort, will be stripped of its attractiveness. I have been working for several years and have spent considrable money to make my summer resort on the lake shore attractive and therefore this matter means a great deal to me. I will let nothing undone to prevent the use of water from this lake for municipal purposes at Gilbert."

Denies Corporation Rumor.

He denied the rumor that the steel corporation was behind the move and that it is merely a means of dealing out punishment to the E. W. Coons Contracting company of Hibbing, which has the contract for construction work on the filtration plant and which will be the only party which will be inconvenienced by a temporary restraining order. He says that this is only his fight to protect his rights as a holder of property along the lake shore.

He stated that he had been told by mining company engineers that the wells at the mines, the present source of water supply for the village of Gilbert, are inexhaustible and as pure as it is possible to secure water.

Dr. Barrett Talks.

"So little consequence has been attached to the matter that we of Gilbert have given it but little thought," Dr. Barrett, president of the village council, said. "Citizens of Gilbert refuse to take the matter seriously," he said.

"Is there any truth in the rumor that the village will start condemnation proceedings in case the injunction is made permanent?" he was asked.

"I do not give much credence to that as no one is taking the matter seriously here in Gilbert," he said.

In answer to the question, "Do you give credence to the rumor that the steel corporation is back of this matter and doing it merely to punish the E. W. Coons Contracting company?" he said, "I do not believe there is anything to that."

Nothing Done About Hibbing Plant Till Superintendent Is Named.

Hibbing, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Action is still pending on the survey and appraisal of the power plant here by Burns & McDonnell with recommendations for changes calculated to reduce the cost of generating and distributing electricity to consumers one-third. Virginia, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—After hearing reports last night from Architect Nystrom of Duluth and an engineer, as to the safety of the auditorium in the Roosevelt school, the board of education directed the architect to prepare plans to strengthen the structure and make it safe. The school was built twelve years ago and has always furnished the largest auditorium in the city, but has not been used for large gatherings since it was recently condemned as unsafe.

The architect and engineer, although they made separate reports practically agreed that the building is unsafe and needs repairing. They found that it never had been safe for large crowds and is no worse today than ever. Steel girders were not used in its construction, they say, while they find the east wall an inch out of plumb. They agreed that with certain repairs the structure will be made safe, and Architect Nystrom is ordered to prepare these.

RAIN

With a kind of filmy effect, the day started brightly, and, while cloudy weather was predicted, it is ardently hoped in Duluth that the weather prognosticator has missed his guess. He has been painfully correct of late. Warm, pleasant air greeted the pedestrian on his way to work this morning and the prospects semed to be good for another of Duluth's famous perfect days.

A year ago today was cold. The sun rose this morning at 4:36 and will set this evening at 7:31, giving fourteen hours and fifty-five minutes of sunlight. The fifteen-hour day will begin on Thursday.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The temperature has risen over the greater portion of the lake region, Central valley states and the Northwest, and has fallen over Montana, the Western Dakotas and Wyoming. Light rain fell during Monday or last night over California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Northwestern Wyoming, North Dakota, Minnesota, Northern Wisconsin, Upper Michigan, Quebec, South Carolina, Alabama, Southeastern Louisiana and Florida."

TWO HARBORS CONCERTS

City Council Decides Where Marine Band Shall Play.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council last night discussed the concerts to be given during the summer by the Marine band as to where and when they should be given. The city has appropriated funds for the band and, according to agreement, the band is to give six free open-air concerts at such times during the summer as the council shall see fit to designate. After considerable discussion it appeared to be the sentiment of the council to have four of the concerts in the city park on Sunday afternoons and several shorter ones in the evenings in some central part of the city. This arrangement will be satisfactory with the band and it is believed it will be much more satisfactory to them as well as the general public rather than having all the concerts in the park Sunday afternoons.

The council adjourned until Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock, when a special meeting will be held for the purpose of considering certain alley and street improvements.

Mr. Gardener, Now Is the Time to ——

Mr. Gardener, now is the time—to do almost everything in the line of making a garden.

Get your sweet peas in at once, if you have not already done so. Many already have them above ground.

Now is the time to get after dandelions. Don't let them blossom. Keep them cut, and dig out as many of the roots as possible. Just after a rain when the ground is soft, is the time to tackle them.

Now is the time to prepare the soil. In spading, take out all grass roots and weed roots, and spade in a generous quantity of well rotted stable manure, and some wood ashes, if the soil is heavy clay.

The first planting of radishes, lettuce and peas should be in by this time. They should be planted every two or three weeks, so that the yield will be continuous.

It is a little early for nasturtiums, popples and beans.

And finally, now is the time to clean up.

What the Child Is Learning

The First Grade.

When, for the first time, your boy or girl starts off for school in the morning, ready to plunge into the sea of knowledge, readin', 'ritin', and 'rithmetic no longer are a bugaboo.

In the first grade of Duluth's public schools the child is taught:

To be patriotic.

To respect the better things in life.

To keep his hands and nails clean.

To sit in his seat properly.

Since the boy or girl's mother and father were in school the curriculum has been enlarged to include many subjects in addition to the three "Rs."

Rhymes, songs and stories, including "Jack and Jill," "Little Jack Horner," "The House That Jack Built," "Little Miss Muffet," and others are used to familiarize the six-year-olds with words of one syllable.

Dramatization plays an important part in first grade work, for by acting out the story of "The Three Bears," "Red Riding Hood," "The Three Pigs," and so on, the pupil is introduced to many new words.

When a boy first attempts to solve the mysteries of writing, he is liable to notice nothing more than that the "l"s go up and the "p"s and "y"s go down, but this is the first step towards reading, and results in mastery of the first "R" of the three.

At the end of the B First term, children should be able to make new words containing the vowels and b, c, d, f, g, h, k, l, m, n, p, r, s, t.

Poems Memorized.

Later on, poems must be memorized, and the child learns to recite the story of "Wynken, Blynken and Nod," "In Winter I Get Up at Night," and "The Children's --our."

In the A First grade the work is a continuation of the B First studies, as nearly as possible. Oral and written spelling lessons form an important part of the day's lessons. Words of not more than six letters are learned, as are the days of the week and months of the year.

Typical words assigned for oral spelling are: succeeded, difficulty, petticoat, despaired, pleasant, strawberry, goldenrod culprit, nobleman.

Games of blindfolding are used to develop sense training, the senses of smell, sight, taste and touch also being used to broaden powers of observation.

Geography is taught in the first grade, for the child learns about rain, snow, night and day, and the seasons of the year. Under history comes the story of Columbus, stories of the Pilgrims, Washington, Lincoln, Memorial day and the Civil war.

Drawing and music also play an important part in the elementary work.

WOULD CONNECT HEADS OF THE LAKES

Canadians Eager to Finish Auto Road Now Partially Made.

Residents in Port Arthur and Fort William are interesting themselves in bringing to completion the automobile road between the Canadian and American Head of the Lakes.

According to the Port Arthur Chronicle, four members of their board of trade have just returned from an inspection trip over the northern end of the route, and a series of photographs taken at various points is being displayed by them. The party went by boat from Duluth to Chicago Bay, Minn., and from that point the route was covered thoroughly.

It is claimed that except for a gap of ten miles on each side of the international boundary, a passable road now exists, and hopes are expressed that the project will be carried through to completion this year. It is predicted that the opening of the highway will give a great impetus to tourist travel between Duluth and the Canadian Twin Cities.

Hog Cholera in Meeker.

Litchfield, Minn., May 11.—Hog cholera is getting a start in this county. Four farmers report the disease in their herds. The Meeker County Swine Breeders' association has been formed to combat the ailment.

YOU CAN'T RUB IT OUT

The pain of rheumatism is something that you cannot rub out. Every sufferer from rheumatism has been advised to rub this or that on the affected part but after all the rubbing the pain remained.

Thin blood and rheumatism come together and if they are properly treated they will go together. One prominent medical writer says that "there is no acute febrile disease in which an anemia occurs with greater rapidity." Anemia means thin blood and thin blood is something that can be corrected so why not build up the blood until the rheumatic poisons are driven out?

This is exactly what is done in the treatment of rheumatism with Dr. Williams 'Pink Pills. Acute, muscular and articular rheumatism all show improvement as the thin blood is built up and when the poisons in the blood are burned up and driven out the rheumatism does not return as long as the blood is kept rich and red.

Care in the diet is important during the treatment and every rheumatic sufferer should have two booklets published by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., called "Building Up the Blood" and "What to Eat and How to Eat." They are free on request. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Cars must be electric lighted at night to prevent flirting.

Each driver must pass a satisfactory examination as to ability to handle cars. The ordinance also prohibits the driving of jitneys on the Billings Park boulevard.

COUSIN ON LUSITANIA

Miss Alice Robson, Known in Duluth, Lost With Vessel.

An additional list of identified dead recovered from the Lusitania, issued late yesterday, told George E. Robson, 1217 East Second street, Duluth, that his cousin, Miss Alice Robson of Chicago, who has visited in Duluth, was lost when the Cunard steamer was sunk by a German submarine.

"We have been hoping against hope that she had been saved," said Mr. Robson this afternoon, "but we now have no reason to believe that the Miss A. Robson mentioned is anyone else, although the Chicago address is not mentioned.

"My cousin has made frequent trips to Europe during the last few years, and spends a great deal of her time in Switzerland. She had been at home for some time recently and was on her way back to her European residence.

"We did not learn until some time after the disaster that she sailed on the Lusitania, but knew she intended to leave about that time. We have been unable to secure any more complete report than the one given in the Associated Press reports of the calamity."

STATE SENATE LEADER VISITOR IN DULUTH

State Senator F. A. Duxbury of Caledonia and his son, the latter a young attorney of that city, are in Duluth today, the guests of C. P. Craik. Senator Duxbury is regarded as one of the ablest members of the state senate in the last three sessions and was one of the leaders in the recent session. He was an influential committee member and was chairman of the civil administration committee.

This body would have had charge of the economy and efficiency bill had it reached the senate and the senator was most friendly to the measure as presented by the commission that drew it, of which Mr. Craig was chairman.

"SEERESS" FAILS TO FORESEE CORRECTLY

MME. DE THEBES.

Mme. de Thebes is the famous "seeress" of Paris, whose predictions concerning coming public events, are regarded by Parisians as wonderful. All that she has had to say about the war so far has turned out incorrect. She had the kaiser killed off several months ago and the war ended before Jan. 1. Every time anything important happens in the world, however, someone is pretty sure to bring up some prophecy attributed to Mme. de Thebes and dated back several months foretelling the event.

FIFTEEN INDICTMENTS BY MAY GRAND JURY

Fifteen indictments and three no true bills were returned by the May grand jury, which made a partial report of its work to Judge Dancer in district court about 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Of the fifteen true bills found by the inquisitorial body, eight are secret indictments, having been returned against persons not in custody.

The grand jury exonerated Anton Hinttala and Frank Maki from the charge of first degree robbery by returning no true bills in their favor. They were accused of having robbed Mason A. Close of $16 on April 3.

The indictments made public were returned against the following persons:

James Hagaganes for grand larceny in the second degree. Hagaganes is accused in two counts of having stolen a suit of clothes from R. H. Hanson and a rifle from R. J. Gorman at 128 West Third street on March 13, last.

John Milton Branch for burglary in the third degree. Branch is accused of having broken into the jewelry store of J. M. Weiner, 413½ West Superior street, with the intention of committing the crime of larceny on April 26.

Nels Berkeland for grand larceny in the second degree. Berkeland is charged with the theft of $95 from Pat Madden at Fairbanks on April 8.

Oscar Lehtinen for grand larceny in the second degree. Lehtinen is indicted for the theft of $40 from Charles Maki on April 22.

Nels Nelson for arson in the second degree. Nelson is charged with having set fire to a farm house owned by Emil Bjorlin at Adolph last month.

Eugene C. Ferguson for grand larceny in the second degree. Ferguson, it is claimed, stole $80 from A. A. Palmer on March 15.

Z. D. SCOTT CAUGHT IN CONVEYOR CHAIN WHILE INSPECTING MILL

While making a tour of inspection through the sawmill at the Scott-Graff Lumber company's plant at Twenty-fourth avenue west and Michigan street this morning, Zar D. Scott, treasurer and general manager of the company, was caught in a conveyor chain and dragged several feet before the machine was stopped.

Mr. Scott's left foot was lacerated and he sustained severe bruises. In response to a hurry-up call, the police emergency made a trip to the Scott-Graff plant, but the injured man had been taken to St. Luke's hospital in another automobile before it arrived.

Dr. C. E. Prudden, who is in charge of the case, stated that Mr. Scott would be confined for a week or two, but that he would recover the use of his foot. Mr. Scott lives at 2125 East First street and is one of the most prominent lumbermen in this part of the state.

IS HELD FOR USING OBSCENE LANGUAGE

Wheelsman on the Griffith Arrested By Federal Authorities.

Fred A. Smith, a wheelman on the steamer Griffith of the Helm company, Duluth, was arrested by Deputy United States Marshal Mallory yesterday afternoon on a charge of sending an obscene letter through the mails. The prisoner was arraigned before United States Commissioner Thomas H. Prescell and his hearing set for next Friday. He was put under a $2,000 bond, but, being unable to furnish the amount, was remanded to jail.

The complaint was made by Postoffice Inspector Thomas G. Rowan and charges that Smith mailed a letter at Toledo, Ohio, in which he used obscene language regarding a certain vessel captain, whose name is not mentioned. The letter was addressed to the Helm company of Duluth.

WOULD COLLECT $70,000 CLAIM

Mining Suit Involving Fortune Being Heard in District Court.

In Judge Fesler's division of the district court this morning a jury was drawn to hear the case of Swallow & Hopkins against the Iroquois Mining company, the plaintiff company claiming $70,000 for violation of a contract made on Dec. 24, 1912.

The complaint states that an agreement was made with the defendant company to deliver 100,000 tons of ore from Helmer mine No. 1 at the Allouez docks and that after 14,000 tons were delivered, the mining company broke its contract. The mining company was to pay $2.82 a ton for the ore, the complaint states.

In its answer the mining company claims that the ore did not contain 50 per cent iron and that in repudiating the contract, it was exercising an option contained in the agreement.

Former Police Surgeon Will Do Work in New York.

Dr. I. J. Murphy, police surgeon from April 1, 1911, up to the time the Silberstein regime was inaugurated, left Duluth this morning for New York city, where he will take a post-graduate course in medical work.

Bluecoats who have come to be very familiar with the doctor during his four years as surgeon handling police cases said good-by this morning when he appeared at headquarters for a final round of hand-shaking.

He intends to remain in the East for about six months and then will return to Duluth to resume his practice.

MORE BODIES BROUGHT INTO QUEENSTOWN

Queenstown, May 11.—Sixteen bodies were brought into Queenstown this afternoon by a tug chartered by the Cunard line. None of the bodies has yet been identified.

THEY WANT TO KNOW.

Chicago News: "There ought to be some way to snubbing people who take too much interest in your affairs," said Mrs. Swusher to Mrs. Twitchings. "That Mrs. Longnecker is awful. She makes me furious every time she comes here.

"The first time she was over in the house, right in the midst of a discussion of civic purity and the dog pound evil, she jumped up and said, 'I have never seen your bathroom!' and she went and viewed it from various angles."

"Terrible!" said Mrs. Twitchings, sympathetically. "They hang and shoot people for rubbering around over in Europe, I understand. They won't stand any spying around in those rough European countries. Console yourself with thinking of what would happen to Mrs. Longnecker if she were in Europe!"

"It is too bad she isn't in Europe!" sighed Mrs. Swusher. "The last time she was here it was the sleeping porch that was inspected."

"Did she make diagrams or draw maps?"

"No, but she made lots of mental notes. She went right out on the porch and poked her nose all around."

"She ought to be a seamstress, only seamstresses usually apologize for their rudeness, and think that makes it all right."

"Well, Mrs. Longnecker has a seamstress who is a mate for her when it comes to curiosity. I happened to be talking to the seamstress the other day, and she said, 'I am going to ask a question now,' and she did. I answered her, but I have hated the sight of her ever since."

"Why didn't you say, 'You sure have asked a question,' and let it go at that? I don't see how people can be so curious."

"They acquire the habit gradually," said Mrs. Swusher. "Mrs. Longnecker and her seamstress were once normal human beings like you and me. But one day they happened to ask a question out of pure idleness. The person of whom they asked the question happened to be deaf or something and made no answer. That whetted their curiosity, and they asked again. Then they simply had to know.

"From this one step in the wrong direction they went from bad to worse until they have now reached a point where they can't stop. They seem to have lost all self-respect. When they see a chance to ask a question or pry behind a screen they simply cannot resist it.

"I think we had better shun the society of those who have the habit. We should give Mrs. Longnecker a wide berth, lest through evil association we contract the habit before we know it."

BIG FAMILIES.

Chicago News: "A big family is a fine thing when troubles come," said Mrs. Gosham to her husband. "When Mrs. Gigum got hurt all her children came back home and took charge of things and that consoled Mr. Gigum very much. They were a mutual support to each other."

"Big families have gone out of style, just the same," replied Gigum. "A big family has come to be a joke. It is funny to see a man walking down the street with his wife and two children nowadays, not to mention three. Four is a huge joke and five is the height of absurdity. I don't know what you would call six!"

"Why, I don't see anything funny about a man walking down the street with a wife and six children.'

"Then why do you laugh every time the Bazoots pass here?"

"Oh, well, who could help laughing at the Bazoots! They are all so sway backed and so fat. It looks as if they had to lean back hard to support the weight in front. I always want to cut a slice off them in front and put it on the back of them to give them a better balanced appearance. And every boy looks like the pa and every girl looks like the ma, and they all walk alike! Who could help laughing?"

"There is your Uncle Tubber, too. What could be funnier than that bunch? There were forty children in his family, weren't there? Every time he and his wife went down the street people took them for a Sunday school picnic. The parents ran out of names and began calling them numbers. There was eleven and twelve——"

"No, you are mistaken! There were no numbers given to my Uncle Tubber's children! Nothing of the sort! Leaven' was short for Leavenworth. Nothing funny about that. A very nice name for a boy."

"Yes, and I remember that when a burglar got into your uncle's house one night he got his gun, but before he could use it he had to call out: 'Mary, Barbara, John, Pendleton, Irma, Worthington, John, Throckmorton, Ebenezer, Anderson—look out! Papa's going to shoot!' And by that time the burglar was gone.

"However, that prevented bloodshed. And, moreover, there was no occasion to shoot, anyway; for when the burglar heard the family enumerated in that fashion he probably decided that there was no chance for him where the population was so numerous.'

"But to come down to dollars and cents Mrs. Gosham, a big family costs a lot more than a small one."

"I don't know that it costs much more. You have five pairs of shoes that you have worn but once because they hurt your feet. If there were graded sizes of brothers in your family those shoes could be handed around until somebody got the benefit of them. There is economy there, surely."

"I give it up," said Gosham. "You are perfectly right. Good night."

Hundreds of people are "almost persuaded" to buy real estate. They would read YOUR ad.

CO-OPERATION NECESSARY.

Louisville Times: Co-operation, apparently is not only essential to progress, but a test of humanity. At least that seems to be the contention of S. B. Moxley, a Shelbyville fire-insurance man, who attended a recent conference of local agents in Louisville.

A visitor at an insane asylum, he said, wanted to know of a husky guard if he were not afraid of being attacked by some of the more violent inmates.

"I should say not," answered the self-confident individual. "I can handle any man in the institution with ease."

"But suppose they should co-operate?" suggested the visitor.

"If they could co-operate," airily answered the guard, "they would not be here."

MIGHT HELP SOME.

Philadelphia Telegraph: They were speaking of the thoughtlessness of some travelers in the disposal of their suitcases, the other evening, when Congressman Frederick H. Gillett of Massachusetts was reminded of an incident along that line.

One night a man boarded a crowded street car, the congressman said, and no sooner had he entered the door than he went stumbling over a large heap of something on the floor.

"Pardon me, sir," he politely remarked to the man seated in front of him, "but would you mind removing your grips a little. I can hardly find room to stand."

"I have no grips, sir" responded the other a trifle peevishly. "What you are walking on are my feet!"

"Is that so?" returned the first party, showing symptoms of surprise. "Well, then, perhaps you would be kind enough to pile them one on top of the other."

BUSINESS IS GETTING BETTER

You see the signs on all sides. It is written in the trade balance, in the bank deposits, in the more cheerful attitude of workers.

These are not boom times to be sure—but they are good times to go after business, to try harder to push harder, to be more optimistic.

And above all else they are times to advertise.

For as prosperity increases the returns from newspaper advertising will be greater and greater.

A HAT FOR EVERYONE

If mllady cannot make a satisfactory selection from the hats now being shown in the millinery shops about town, the fault, we fear, will be hers and not the builders of hats.

There is the large, "floppy" hat of the garden species; the small, winged and quilled hat for suit and street wear. There is the high, severe hat of military design; the medium-sized ribboned and ruffled hat that suggests the old Charlotte Corday style. There is the brilliant flowered hat that breathes of Spring, and the never-quite-passe feathered hat for more dressy wear.

In a word, it will be a season which has for its keynote Variety of Choice.

The advertising columns of The Herald contain daily announcements of new millinery. Consult them before you go out to buy.

RUSSIANS ARE FALLING BACK

Germans Have Now Crossed Upper Reaches of Wisloka River.

Admitted By Russ Leader Who Does Not Seem to Worry.

London, May 11.—The Russians continue to fall back in Western Galicia before the Austro-German thrust, and the Germanic allies now have crossed the upper reaches of the Wisloka river and are within fifty miles of the fortress of Przemysl.

This much is admitted in the official communication from the staff of Grand Duke Nicholas, but it is spoken of in a matter of fact way which does not show much perturbation and couples with the reverse claims of having recommenced a successful offensive against the Austro-Germans at various points.

It is expected in London that the allied advance on the western front will help to reduce the pressure on the Russians. A new and significant development in the western theater is that despite the German concentration in Flanders and France, the British and French forces find themselves strong enough to attack on such a wide front.

Confirmation of yesterday's statement that heavy reinforcements had reached the allied front is found in the Berlin official communication which estimates the number "to be at least four fresh army corps."

The recruiting fervor aroused in Great Britain by the sinking of the Cunard liner Lusitania continues.

BRITISH HAVE LOST 201 SHIPS THUS FAR

Loss of Life 1,556; These Figures Do Not Include Warships.

London, May 11.—The cost of the war in British ships not including warships, thus far has been 201 vessels. The loss of life has been 1,556. Dr. Thomas J. MacNamara, parliamentary secretary of the admiralty, gave these figures in the house of commons today in response to a question from Lord Charles Beresford.

The total of ships, Dr. MacNamara said, included merchant vessels, yachts, trawlers and drifters sunk from the opening of the war up to noon today.

LONDON COMMENT ON WILSON'S SPEECH

Words "Too Proud to Fight" Featured By the English Dailies.

London, May 11.—The words "too proud to fight" cover in huge letters most of the placards displayed on the streets of London today to advertise the evening papers of the city.

The text of President Wilson's speech at Philadelphia last night, printed here today, reached London too late for general comment as yet. The Evening Standard, however, in an editorial remarks:

"President Wilson is a high minded man, and we can understand what he meant by this rather unpolitical remark. Unfortunately Germany does not understand this kind of righteousness. If America could only, as the president says, convince Germany of her injustice to mankind, how dignified and useful would be her position as a neutral."

Most of the merchant's REAL anxieties grow out of his absurd anxiety not to spend too much in advertising.

A WORD TO MOTHERS:

If you're doing some furniture "replacing" this spring—picking out a chair, couch or rug here and there, that you have no further use for—DON'T THROW THEM AWAY. You're wasting money if you do.

Just because they are not quite good enough to go with the rest of YOUR furniture, don't think that they haven't any CASH value—because they have!

Plenty of families are scanning the "For Sale Miscellaneous column" in the Want Ads each day, just waiting for people of YOUR class to advertise such articles as bargain prices.

Let The Herald Want Ad sell the next piece of furniture that you discard! The quick results will overwhelm you!

MINNESOTA MEN ARE WITNESSES

Give Testimony at Railroad Freight Hearing in Chicago.

Chicago, May 11.—Valuation figures covering various railroads were introduced today in the Western freight rate hearing. D. F. Jurgens, engineer for the Minnesota state railroad and warehouse commission, as a witness for the railroads, though originally called by the state railroad commissions which object to rate advances, submitted the results of various state valuations which were higher than the railroad values arrived at in his own exhibits.

H. B. Warren, statistician for the Minnesota state railroad and warehouse commission, basing his contention on the value reached by Jurgensen, declared that the railroads earned 7.27 on their investment.

W. H. Gleason, an expert accountant, in reduced tabulations showing the valuation of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad exclusive of the Puget Sound division giving the operation income for 1914 as 6.44 per cent of the property investment on 7,321 miles of road.

FAITHFUL GUEST.

Chicago News: "John," said Mrs. Stung, "if they send me a newspaper that I haven't subscribed to, do I have to pay for it?"

"Certainly," replied Stung, "if you bring it into the house and read it."

"Well, suppose somebody comes and leaves cakes and pies on the premises and I eat them, do I have to pay for them?"

"Sure. If anybody brings lawn mowers and leaves them and you use them you have to pay for them, too."

"Suppose I start to buy an encyclopedia for $860, and pop 10 cents on it, does that bind me to buy the whole encyclopedia."

"It does. What have you been doing now?"

"It is like this. Mrs. Gadsby's boy came over to our house and played with Angeline one afternoon some time ago. Then he came again, another time the afternoon and stayed longer. Since that time he has been coming every day and sometimes he stays all day long.

"He comes early and stays late and he comes often and he quarrels and fights with Angeline something frightful. They have invented a lot of noisy games and now I am very tired of that Gadsby boy.

"It has reached a point where Mrs. Gadsby just sends him over to play with Angeline and goes off for the day and has a lovely time, free from childish sports and noises and sham battles and real ones. I was wondering whether, by letting the boy play here for one afternoon, I had let myself in for life. Did I bind myself to the care of that young one every day all day until he reaches his maturity just because I took him in once, like the newspaper or the first dime on the encyclopedia?"

"Well, that is a delicate point," said Stung. "I couldn't say offhand just how liable you are. A woman who has formed the habit of letting you have her son has to a certain extent begun to depend upon you and it would, no doubt, upset her plans materially if you were to betray her and violate your treaty obligations. However, the situation may be relieved, although it is very tense at present. In order to prevent the outbreak of hostilities you might pack up and go away for the rest of the year——"

"No! This thing began before we went away for the summer. That child was the first thing my eyes rested upon when we got back. He was sitting on the porch when we returned.

"If we went up into the mountains like Rip Van Winkle and stayed fifty years, an old gentleman would be standing on our steps when we got back. It would be the Gadsby boy. He would say that his mother had gone to heaven and had directed him to play with Angeline until doomsday."

"Then," said Stung, "we'll move into a different town."

SUCH A COMPACT.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: "'Ullo, Mrs. Murphy'" cried Mrs. Pinker to her neighbor at Bolton's Court. "Why, you looks quite festive today. Wot's up?"

"Wot! 'Aven't you 'eard " exclaimed the excited Mrs. Murphy. "My son comes out today."

"Today? I though the judge gave 'im seven years?"

"Yes, but they're lettin' 'im out two years earlier 'cos he's be'aved hisself so well."

Mrs. Pinker held up her hands in pious approbation.

"Well!" she gasped. "And what a comfort it must be to you, Mrs. Murphy, to 'ave such a splendid son!"

AN EYE TO BUSINESS.

Lippincott's Magazine: When she returned from her long stay at a resort hotel, she received him with an icy demeanor.

"I'm going to give you back our engagement ring," she said. "I love another."

"Will you give me his name and address?" he inquired, as he took the ring.

"His address!" she exclaimed, in surprise. "What are you going to do? Kill him?"

"No, indeed," was the reply. "I want to sell him this ring."

PRINCE GEORGE OF GREECE AND WIFE

This snapshot of Prince George of Greece and his wife was made when he was on his way to Berlin to visit the kaiser. He is not concerned directly in the position of Greece in relation to the war but he is supposed to have seen the kaiser on behalf of his brother, the king. Prince George was born in 1869. He was high commissioner in Crete from 1898 to 1906. His wife who is one of the most beautiful women in Europe was Princess Marie only daughter of Prince Roland Bonaparte.

THE GERENUK: AN ODD GAZELLE

Washington, May 11.—The National Museum has just put a mounted gerenuk on exhibition in the section of mammals in the new building. This animal was secured in British East Africa by the Smithsonian African expedition of 1909-1910, under the direction of Col. Theodore Roosevelt, and is the first specimen of this odd gazelle to be exhibited in the collection of the museum.

In appearance, the gerenuk is a peculiar mammal, resembling an antelope, and yet having such a long neck and such long thin legs as to cause the layman to believe it must be related to the giraffe. This, however, is not the case; it is a gazelle scientifically termed the lithocranius walleri, or Waller's gazelle. The body and head are like the gazelle, but the legs and neck are greatly elongated. Its natural habitat is in British East Africa from Somaliland and Southern Abyssinia southward throughout the coast and Lake Rudolf drainage area to the Kilimanjaro district and the Rift valley of German East Africa as far south as the mouth of the Pangani river.

In the book, "Life Histories of African Game Animals," just issued by Col. Theodore Roosevelt and Edmund Heller, it is said that this animal is universally distributed in the region north of the Tana river and throughout Somaliland, where it is well known to every traveler.

The authors state that this long-legged and long-necked antelope, called by the Swahilis "little camel," probably because this animal lies down and trots in the same manner as the camel, was commonly found in the dry, thorn-scrub-covered country along the Northern Guaso Nyiro, and was as wild and wary as the gazelle of that neighborhood was tame. They travel in small parties or alone and are sometimes found near a river, though usually in the driest country; those of the arid regions not drinking at all, but browsing on the twigs and withered leaves of the bushes and low thorn trees. By stretching their long necks they are able to reach fairly high shrubs, but when they wish to get at something still higher they rise on their hind legs to snatch the desired bit of forage. Although only about four feet long and standing about five feet, they can reach at least seven feet in the manner described. In this they are assisted by a peculiarly shaped prehensile upper lip, which is covered with a rough membrane, enabling them to reach, with the aid of the tongue, an inch or two farther and seize what would be actually beyond the grasp of other animals of their size. All their attitudes are characteristic and unlike those of other antelopes. When disturbed they sneak off at an awkward trot through the bushes with their heads and necks stretched out straight in front of them.

Quite indifferent to heat, they have been seen feeding at noon as often as in the morning or evening. The Smithsonian party encountered them in the barren and open plants, crossing from one patch of scrub to another, when, if surprised, they broke into a gallop. More often they were found in rather thinly bushed tracts where they preferred to skulk and hide.

These animals have uniformly cinnamon or reddish brown backs, giving them the appearance of being covered with a short blanket; along their sides they are of a lighter color, buff-pink, and beneath white, the legs being like the sides of the body except the knees which are usually black. Just below the horns is a noticeable white streak, and there are also white markings beneath the eye, on the lips, and chin, the last running part way down the front of the throat.

LATE ADDITION TO NEW YORK SOCIETY

MRS. K. VASARDAKIS.

Mrs. Kleanthe Vasardakis is one of the interesting newcomers in New York society. She has been living at the Waldorf-Astoria with her husband, who is consul general at San Francisco, but who has been on a special commercial mission to New York this year.

AGE OF THE EARTH.

Science: In order to estimate the age of the earth different phenomena may be used. First, the separation of the moon, secondly, the solidification of the earth's crust, then the condensation of the aqueous vapor and the formation of oceans. The quantity of salt dissolved in these oceans and the thickness of the gelogical layers, especially those of a calcareous nature, afford further arguments.

According to George Darwin the moon was separated from our globe about 56,000,0000 of years ago. The age of the solid crust has been calculated by Lord Kelvin from the increase of the temperature in deep mines. In some regions the temperature is seen to increase about 1 deg. for every fifty meters; in others, however, 1 deg. for 100 meters. On the average the considerations of Lord Kelvin gave an age of 20,000,000 to 40,000,000 of years in the solid crust of the earth.

The quantity of salt obviously increases in the oceans on account of the salt added by the rivers and of the evaporation of the water. The total quantity of this salt has been calculated and the quantities of the yearly supply of water are known for all the larger streams, as well as their percentage of salt. From these data we may calculate the annual increase of salt in the oceans and find how many years would be required for our present rivers to accumulate all the salt now found in the seas. According to Jolly, about 90,000,000 of years would be necessary. But obviously the rivers must exhaust the grounds which they drain, and formerly these must therefore have been much richer in salts. This consideration must lead us to diminish the number of years required in a very sensible manner.

The age of the geological strata has been deduced from their thickness and the velocity of the process of sedimentation. Sollas estimates the total thickness at about eighty kilometers and the average rate of deposition of the layers at thirty cm. per century. From these numbers we may find an age of 26,000,000 of years for the collective deposition of all the geological layers. Calcareous rocks have been built by organisms and mainly by corals and molluscs. These have made use of the lime added to the sea by the rivers. Dubois has calculated on the one hand the whole thickness of these rocks and on the other the yearly supply of lime from the rivers. He concludes that 26,000,000 to 45,000,000 of years would be required to produce the whole of this system.

All these data have been subjected to criticism by Sollas and compared with one another. Obviously the highest estimates are only limits, and in considering this, Sollas arrives at the general average of about 20,000,000 to 40,000,000 of years. He points out that the epochs which have served as starting points are not very far distant from one another, considered in a geological way, and that therefore they may be taken together to delineate the duration of organic life on this earth.

TIDAL IRREGULARITIES.

Washington Star: Most people possess very vague notions of the tides. We know that the tides rise and fall twice in twenty-four hours, and that this depends in some curious way upon the attraction of the moon. There, for the most part, our knowledge ceases. Nothing is more perplexing to the landsman when he encounters a spot along the shore where there is no tide at all.

To be quite precise there is only one ocean in the world where the tides follow the moon with absolute regularity, and that is the great Antarctic basin. The reason is that there, and there only, is to be found a sweep of water entirely uninterrupted by land. The entirely unobstructed wave raised by the moon's attraction courses round the world south of Cape Horn and the Cape of Good Hope, with nothing at all to break it. In the northern hemisphere great masses of land interrupt the tidal waves and, combined with the shallowness of inland seas, cause them to perform most queerly.

Depth of water has a great deal to do with tidal irregularities. Out in the open ocean, when the tide is abysmal—that is to say, about 5,000 fathoms—the speed of the waves is astonishing. Where the depth decreases to five fathoms the tide proceeds at a comparatively slow rate.

In England, for example, which is surrounded by narrow, land-broken seas, the result is that the islands get some of the most terrible and dangerous tidal races and currents. The most formidable of these is the whirlpool between the islands of Jura and Scarba, on the west coast of Scotland. This is called the "Cauldron of the Spotted Seas." Here is a race running at a speed comparable to a mountain torrent. The force of a heavy tidal current pushing up a wide-mouthed river causes what is termed a "bore," the most striking example of which is encountered in the Amazon, a moving wall of water thirty feet high reaching from bank to bank and rushing inland from the ocean.

CAUSE FOR TEARS.

Kansas City Star:. "What on earth are you crying about, little boy?" asked the neighbor who was strolling by a West side dooryard the other afternoon.

"Because I'm so mean an' selfish!" sobbed the little one.

"Oh, I guess you are not very mean and selfish if it affects you this way," commented the passer-by. "What makes you think you are?"

"See this bread an' jelly? Well, I'm so mean an' selfish that I ain't a-goin' to give Willie none of it. Boo-oh-hoo!"

COULDN'T BE TRUSTED.

Lippincott's: There is a certain Ohio judge whose wit has enlivened many a dull case. On one occasion counsel made in his court this statement on behalf of a plaintiff of somewhat bibulous appearance:

"My client, your honor, is a most remarkable man and holds a very responsible position; he is manager of a waterworks."

After a survey of the client, his honor replied:

"Yes, he looks like a man who could be trusted with any amount of water."

DRY SOUTHWEST WEATHER BULGES WHEAT MARKETS

Market Strong Through Session and Close Is at the Top.

Flaxseed Gains Moderately on Good Inquiry From Crushers' Interests.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 11.—Wheat was increasingly strong at the close on heavy general buying.

May wheat closed 6½c up; July 7½c up; and September 4¾c up. May durum closed 6¾c up; July 6¼c up and September 3c up.

Oats closed 2¾c up for on the track; rye 1c up at $1.11@1.112; corn 1¾c up at 75c, and barley 4c off at from 63c to 71c.

At Winnipeg, May oats closed ⅞c up at 62⅜c bid and July ¾@⅞c up at 63¾@64c bid.

Puts on Minneapolis, July wheat closed at $1.47, and calls at $1.56¾.

A sharp reversal in form was shown in the wheat market today. Good general inquiry was in evidence at the outset, and at the noon hour quotations showed bulges of 3⅝c in May and 4⅞c in July from yesterday's close.

May wheat opened ¾c up at $1.53¾ and sold up to $1.56⅝. July opened ⅛c up at $1.49 and advanced 4⅜c more, after recording two moderate recessions in the interval. September also showed market strength, advancing 3⅛c to $1.24½.

The market situation in durum revealed a lightning change of face. On the appearance of urgent inquiry the May figure opened ⅛c up at $1.50½, moved up to $1.56, and then eased down ⅛c. July opened unchanged at $1.43¾ and bulged 4⅜c.

Factors in the market's upturn were furnished in the better political situation and the springing up of damage reports from Kansas, Missouri and a few other sections of the Southwest. Operators, however, expressed themselves as exceedingly skeptical regarding these rumors, drawing attention to the point that they had sprung up overnight, so that the chinch bugs and other pests to which the wheat plant is heir must have been working industriously in the interval. The government crop report as of the first of the month told of exceptionally favorable conditions. Good milling inquiry was reported on today's market, and some interest was shown by exporters. The advance had, however, been too rapid, so that bids were out of line. Duluth grain men advised the working of a substantial volume of Eastern business yesterday afternoon on the slump.

Bradstreet's world's visible supply report today showed a much smaller attrition in stocks than had been expected, the decrease of wheat in the week amounting to only 710,000 bu, compared with 7,977,000 bu last year.

Liverpool was weak, being affected by yesterday's break in the American markets and quiet milling inquiry.

Flaxseed Strong.

Trading in flaxseed was featureless, but the market in it was strong. Offerings were light and business put through was in small lots. Crushers are still reported to be sitting tight, pending a final lineup of the acreage sown to the seed in the Northwest this spring. The situation is recognized as becoming increasingly bullish.

May flax opened ¼c up at $2.00¾, and closed ½c up at $1.01 asked. July opened unchanged at $2.02¼, and closed ½c up at $2.03¾ asked. September ½c up at $2.05¾, and closed ½c up at $2.06 asked.

At Buenos Aires, flax closed 1c up at $1.32¾, and London 1⅝c off at $1.95⅝.

At Winnipeg, May flax closed 1¼c up at $1.82½ asked, and July 1½c up at $1.55¼ bid.

Duluth millers came into the market more freely for wheat today than had been the case during the past two weeks.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool—"The market was affected by the easy American cables yesterday and favorable crop advices with winters freely offered for distant shipment. Spot market easy was ½@1d decline and the cargo market irregular with winters unchanged and Plates 3d decline. There is a quiet millers' demand and merchants here are still nervous. Indian offers are free and inclined lower and a better American market feeling served to keep the trade conservative."

"Corn—There is a quiet consumptive demand with weather mild, while the demand for forward shipment is good and supplies are more firmly held. Argentine advices are bullish."

European visible—Wheat, 100,588,000 bu, increase, 928,000 bu.

In India arrivals at ports are increasing and prices are easing. It is the belief that the government will fix the price for the remainder of the May, which, with the present rate of tonnage, would equal 61 shillings per quarter.

Bradstreet's world's visible report showed wheat decreased 710,000 bu last year, decrease was 7,977,000 bu; corn decrease, 1,543,000 bu last year, decrease was 2,123,000 bu; oats, decrease, 4,178,000 bu last year, decrease was 719,000 bu.

Totals—Wheat, 147,198,000 bu, against 146,487,000 bu last year; corn, 21,008,000 bu, against 9,677,000 bu last year; oats, 27,709,000 bu, against 24,967,000 bu last year.

John Inglis wired to Logan & Bryan from Wellington, Kan.: "Wheat is not maintaining its early promise. This applies to the entire state. Through Kingman and Harper, many very promising fields are about 25 per cent weak, thin and grassy, fly is serious and damaging in Sumner. Southern Sedgwick and Cowley counties ravishes will be more manifest in ten days."

C. E. Lewis & Co., had the following from Kansas City: "Feel very strong on Kansas City July wheat. About million and half acreas are more or less affected. They are plowing up some now. That news accompanied by buying orders looks like a big market here."

Chicago & Northwestern railroad's crop report says: "During past week we have had many rains with cloudy cool weather prevailing throughout the entire territory. Grain has made very little progress and all farm work has been delayed, however, with clear warm weather from now on these conditions will be overcome. Corn planting of course has been delayed. Conditions as a whole are very favorable."

Winnipeg Free Press in its first fortnightly crop report for 1915 has the following: "Seeding is fully two weeks ahead of last year. Soil is in excellent condition, but need of rain is general. Damage from soil drifting is comparatively light. There is an increase of 25 to 30 per cent in wheat acreage. Outlook generally satisfactory."

C. E. Lewis & Co. had the following closing letter from Chicago: "Sensational reports of crop damages found the market in an oversold condition, the result being that substantial gains were recorded which were maintained up to the close. July at the close, showing an advance of 6½c from last night. Damage reports were followed by buying orders, the Southwest leading. Shorts covered freely, while at all times offerings were extremely small. The advance shut off all export business, but seaboard advices indicated that there were orders in on the basis of last night's close. Political news has been lost sight of for the time being. Statistical news was a minor importance. Cash markets very strong in all centers. Any great damage resulting from present conditions should result in higher prices."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Shows Decided Strength as Result of General Buying.

Chicago, May 11.—Wheat today showed decided strength, the result of general buying on the part of commission houses. Signs of renewed export demand tended to favor the bulls, and so also did the fact that pit offerings were light. There appeared to be considerable lessening of tension in regard to possible consequences of the sinking of the Lusitania. After opening at the same as last night to 1c higher, the market scored a material advance all around.

Increasing crop damage reports from Hessian fly in Oklahoma, Southern Kansas, Central Missouri and Southern Indiana acted later as a stimulus to buyers and caused a further sharp advance. The close was strong at 5¼@6½c above last night.

Corn took the same course as wheat. Speculators who sold early were soon forced to cover. The opening, which varied from unchanged figures to ¼c higher, was followed by a moderate general upturn.

Subsequently the market hardened still more as a result of enlarged shipping sales. The close was strong at 1¾c to 2@2⅛c net advance.

Improved domestic call gave independent firmness to oats. Sellers were scarce.

Provisions went up-grade from the start. The best demand, though, was from shorts.

BULLISH ON THE COPPERS

Market Strong Despite Handicap of the Lusitania Catastrophe.

Production Expected to Set New Records in Near Future.

Despite the demoralization in mining that set in last Friday as a result of the Lusitania disaster, leading copper market authorities express themselves as bullish over the situation.

Copper metal is being firmly held at 19c a pound for electrolytic, considerable buying at that figure being reported yesterday.

An official of a leading metal selling agency is quoted as saying: "Any effect which the sinking of the Lusitania will have on the copper market will, I think, be purely sentimental. The incident should tend to increase the consumption of the metal, since it is to be expected that the allies will carry on the war with greater vigor than ever. Large buyers will doubtless hold off for a time to await developments, but there are no signs that the market has been shaken."

Operations Near Capacity.

Copper mines in the Lake Superior territory are now estimated to be running close to capacity due to the pressing demand from the munition makers. Munitum their output commands for the purpose of making war munitions, and the properties in the Butte and other districts are also rapidly working their productions up to a high basis.

The production of the Anaconda Copper company in March was reported at 21,800,000 pounds as compared with the low record of 11,800,000 pounds last December and 23,000,000 pounds in April, 1914. It is estimated that if the present price of copper is maintained the output of the refineries within the next few months will be in excess of 1,800,000,000 pounds annually, which would mean a new high record.

Records May Be Broken.

With the high-cost producing mines again coming into operation, it is thought by experts that a higher production than ever reached in the past will be recorded. As, however, it takes from two to four months for the copper metal to reach the refiners, the full effect of the increased mine ouput will not be felt immediately.

The question now agitating producers is whether the domestic and foreign demand will be sufficient to take care of the additional copper destined to come upon the market.

Dividends Raised.

Favorable reports were presented yesterday at the annual meeting of the Merchants' Mercantile company of Duluth. A dividend of 12½ per cent was declared for the fiscal year ended May 10, as compared with 10 per cent paid in the preceding year. This company is a local concern, its stockholders being largely retail merchants.

Officers and directors for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, J. A. Sutton; vice president, F. W. Erickson; secretary, G. M. Peterson; treasurer, J. C. Rogers; directors, Herman Olson, H. L. Smith and J. O. Johnson.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Rise Buoyantly at Opening, Recede But Turn Strong Again.

Best Prices of Session Recorded in the Final Dealings.

New York, May 11.—The stock market gave every indication at today's opening of its intention to shake off the depression caused by the sinking of the Lusitania. Active stocks registered gains of 2@6 points, with not so much as a single initial decline in any quarter. United States Steel began with 5,000 shares at 53¼@54¼, compared with yesterday's close of 50¾. Westinghouse, on sales of 3,000 shares, was quoted at 88@89½, a maximum rise of 5¾, and Bethlehem Steel rose 4¼. Coppers, motors and the miscellaneous group gained 3@5. Reading and Canadian Pacific were the features of the standard railways, gaining 3¼@4½.

Prices yielded 1 to 2 points after the first hour, a logical result of heavy realizing for profits. Trading diminished perceptibly the output of the first hour being relatively light and falling into absolute dullness before midday. Such satisfaction as was derived from the attitude of Washington towards impending events was nullified by latest foreign advices, which pointed to greater tension respecting Italy's next move. Railroad bonds were strong, but government issues were inexplicably heavy, losing ½ to a full point.

Dullness continued as the chief feature of the market in the early afternoon. Following the usual course in such instances, Maxwell motor issues reacted sharply on declaration of an initial dividend on the first preferred stock.

Stocks rose buoyantly at today's opening, receded moderately during the dull session, but turned strong again in the final trading.

The market again became animated in the later dealings, some stocks making best prices of the day. The closing was strong.

NEW LOADING RECORD MADE

Missabe Ore Docks Give Ten Cargoes to Vessel in Ten Hours.

Ten boats loaded in ten hours is the new record set at the Missabe ore docks yesterday. This established a new mark, and is a remarkable one. The fast loading may be due, to some extent, to the fact that boats just now have to be loaded lighter than in former years because of the prevailing low water, but even at that, with the total of 71,400 tons loaded in the time given, involving the warping of the boats to the docks, the manipulation of the spouts and the getting away of the vessels, the record is a remarkable one.

Of course the fact that the new ore dock is in commission helps matters, and with raising of the lake levels, which is expected as the season develops, some still more remarkable loading records may be made later.

The first loading started at 7:30 yesterday morning and the work ended at 5:18 yesterday afternoon. The boats loaded were the following: W. J. Olcott, Saxon, Manda, Filbert, Calumet, Yale, W. L. Smith, O. M. Poe, Malleton, and Perseus.

A week ago last Saturday the former "best record" was made, at which time eight boats were loaded in eleven hours.

POTTER WILL GO TO PORTLAND IN JUNE

United States Engineer Formerly in Charge Here Gets Promotion.

Col. Charles L. Potter, formerly United States engineer in charge of the Duluth district, and now in charge at St. Paul, will be transferred to Portland, Or., about June 24. This is in the nature of a promotion, and came about through a request to the war department from Portland, asking his transfer. Col. Potter's successor at St. Paul has not been announced.

At Portland, Col. Potter will have charge of the two engineering districts at Portland and the one at Seattle.

COAL SLOW AT FORT WILLIAM

Movement Retarded Both Ways—Active Grain Shipments Continue.

Conditions in the coal and grain stocks, and in regard to receipts and shipments at Fort William, are explained in the weekly letter of F. & W. Jones of Fort William, a copy of which follows:

"The coal movement continues slow and with no immediate prospects of improvement in activity. Seven cargoes have arrived during the week. Four of the cargoes were bituminous coal and three anthracite; four were carried in American bottoms and three in Canadian. At the time of writing there are advices of only one cargo being en route, and that for the Canadian Northern coal dock. Coal stocks are still very heavy and Western car shipments having shown considerable decline, in fact the Western coal dealers are feeling the effect of the past trade depression equally with all other industries. The people of the western provinces have undoubtedly utilized wood fuel wherever it could be secured, and in many instances have fallen back on the coal products of the West, although it is unquestionable that the Western coal is very much inferior in quality to the Eastern coal.

"Shipment in grain has been fairly active. During the week there have been thirty-two vessels loaded and cleared with grain for Eastern points, bringing up the total to ninety-six since the opening of navigation, twenty of which were billed to Buffalo. Stocks in elevators now stand at 10,220,478 bushels of all grades, showing a reduction on last week's stocks of 2,500,000 bushels, after allowing for car arrivals from the West. Seeding in the Western provinces has made great headway and it is now estimated that at least 85 per cent of the seeding has been done. It is difficult to ascertain the exact amount of additional acreage put under cultivation, but it is certainly questionable whether it will reach previous estimates; it will probably not be 20 per cent over the amount under cultivation in the season of 1914. The greater bulk of seeding now done is in wheat acreage and the prospects are that the acreage of oats, barley and flax, which will be ultimately laid down, will be less, rather than more, than last season's acreage. The weather outlook at present is certainly good, and taking into consideration the fine conditions of the land on account of the fall plowing, etc., should the present favorable conditions continue, there is every prospect for a large and good grade crop.

"Stocks on hand at date, and receipts and shipments during the week:

MATE OF MARSALA ILL; HALTS TRIP

The steamer Siemens and her tow, the barge Marsala, were halted for about an hour just off Fifteenth avenue east this morning due to the severe illness of the first mate of the barge. Just after the steamer and the barge had passed the piers the mate took violently ill and a doctor was sent for. W. A. Bourke, commissioner of lake carriers, sent Dr. C. F. McComb out on the tug Harvey D. Goulder.

Dr. McComb pronounced the case as a severe one of colic. He administered to the man and gave him medicine for the trip to the Sault. The doctor said that there was nothing serious tho matter with the mate.

THE BEST SERVANT You Could Possibly Secure Is Probably Reading the HERALD WANT ADS These Days

TO GET A GOOD ROOM

In hunting for a room you want one as near as possible—like home. There are many such in Duluth. But they don't have signs in the window and make a bid for all classes. The refined, cultured people who have rooms for rent, use little want ads on our classified page and don't disfigure their houses with ugly signs. Read our "Rooms for Rent" column for a nice room in a good neighborhood. Nearly all the vacant rooms in Duluth will be found in the "Rooms for Rent" columns of The Herald.

STRICT ACCOUNTING FOR LOSS OF AMERICAN LIVES IS DEMANDED OF GERMAN GOVERNMENT

OUTRAGES BY GERMAN TROOPS DURING SWEEP ACROSS BELGIUM TOLD

Viscount Bryce Submits Most Severe Arraignment Thus Far Made.

Claims Evidence Shows Atrocities Were Ordered By German Officers.

Murder, Lust and Pillage on Scale Unparalleled in Any War.

London, May 12.—Viscount Bryce, former British ambassador at Washington, and now chairman of a special government committee appointed to investigate and report on "outrages alleged to have been committed by German troops during the present war," has submitted the report of the committee to Premier Asquith.

The document is considered as probably the most severe arraignment thus far made of the German military sweep across Belgium, mainly because of the position of Viscount Bryce as a historian, and also because of the care with which the investigation was made, the great number of witnesses whose testimony was examined, and the mass of evidence now submitted with the report of the committee.

Associated with Lord Bryce on the committee were Sir Frederick Pollock, Sir Edward Clarke, Sir Alfred Hopkinson, H. A. L. Fisher, vice chancellor of the University of Sheffield, Harold Cox, and Kenelm E. Digby. The committee was appointed by Premier Asquith on Jan. 22, last, and was given broad instructions to investigate "alleged outrages, the maltreatment of civilians, and breaches of law and established usages of war."

Important Findings.

The most important findings of the committee are summed up in the fol-

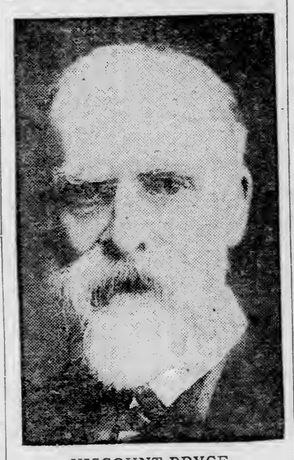
CONDUCTED INVESTIGATION OF ATROCITIES DURING WAR



VISCOUNT BRYCE, Formerly British Ambassador at Washington.

TO TEST SALE OF LIQUOR TO INDIANS

Friendly Suit Brought in Green Bay to Determine Right.

Green Bay, Wis., May 12.—In order to test the constitutionality of the law which prohibits the sale of liquor to Indians, a friendly case was instituted in the municipal court this morning. A local saloon keeper is charged with having sold liquor to Cornelius Wheelock, an Oneida Indian.

The case is started at the request of Supt. J. C. Hart of the government school on the Oneida reservation, who was notified several months ago by the bureau of Indian affairs at Washington to prosecute saloon keepers who sold liquor to the Oneidas. The liquor dealers say the law does not prohibit them from selling liquor to a civilized Indian or an Indian not a member of a tribe. They claim practically all of the Oneidas are civilized and that tribal features have disappeared.

ROOSEVELT THE LEADER

Witness Considered Colonel Head of Republicans in N. Y. in 1906-1910.

Tells of Barnes' Willingness to Send Democrat to U. S. Senate.

Syracuse, N. Y., May 12.—Elon R. Brown, Republican leader in the state senate, swore on the witness stand in the supreme court here today that he considered Theodore Roosevelt the leader of the party in this state from 1906 until 1910. Col. Roosevelt was president of the United States during a part of that period.

The senator also swore that in 1911 when the state senate was deadlocked over the selection of a United States senator to succeed Chauncey M. Depew, Mr. Barnes had in substance expressed a willingness to have the Republican vote go to an independent Democrat, who was unlikely to become identified with the dominant faction in the Democratic party. Witnesses for Col. Roosevelt testified to an alleged agreement that they said Mr. Barnes had with Charles F. Murphy to allow the Tammany leader to have a "free hand"

INTRODUCED THREE WIVES

Pastor Darnell Presented That Number at Different Times.

Declared Doris Vaughn Was Only Woman He Ever Married.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 12.—The government in the prosecution of James Morrison Darnell, on trial charged with violating the Mann white slave act, was prepared today to finish its side of the case after the examination of three more witnesses. The defense, it is expected, will introduce several witnesses.

The burden of yesterday's testimony was to the effect that while Darnell was alleged to have told several witnesses that Doris Vaughn was the only woman he ever married, various witnesses declared that the defendant introduced both Ruth Soper of Owatonna, Minn., and Ethel Spurgeon of Avon, Ill., as his wife.

The case is likely to go to the jury within a day or two.

Looked for Divorce.

Rev. George H. Ashworth, Sycamore, Ill., was recalled to the stand and reiterated his testimony of yesterday that Darnell counseled with the Rev. Mr. Schiller of Minneapolis, relative to obtaining a divorce from Ethel Spurgeon. Darnell told him the witness said, that he was referred to J. Crane, a lawyer, who refused to handle the case.

Mrs. Anna Vaughn, mother of Doris, testified that she questioned Darnell on Jan. 8 last, concerning the identity of the girl with whom Darnell was

POSTPONE HEARING ON RIGGS BANK SUIT

Goes Over to Next Monday on Request of Government Attorneys.

Washington, May 12.—Hearing of the case of the Riggs National bank against Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, Comptroller Williams and United States Treasurer Burke was postponed today until next Monday at the request of the government's attorneys.

In asking for delay Samuel Untermyer, on behalf of the defendant officials, said it was their desire to argue the motion to dismiss the case for lack of jurisdiction and to submit the demurrer to the charges of conspiracy at the same time. Joseph W. Bailey of counsel for the bank, said his client was willing for further extension.

"We are ready to argue the question of accountability of public officers in this case," said Mr. Untermyer, "but the government officers, however secure may be their position, do not feel that they ought to rest the matter on the legal proposition alone. We ask the court to give us an opportunity to develop the facts."

ANGLO-FRENCH TROOPS BEGIN NEW ADVANCE IN FLANDERS

IMPORTANT BATTLES ARE PROGRESSING

German Reinforcements Fail to Check Dash of Allies' Armies.

Berlin Recognizes Importance of the New Movement in West.

Teutons Claim Some Progress Made East of Ypres.

London, May 12. — The progress of the allies' offensive in Flanders and Northern France has given rise to the hope here that one of the really momentous phases of the war is in process of a solution which would be regarded as favorable from the British point of view.

Berlin recognizes the importance of the new turn of events. German newspapers emphasize in large headlines the beginning of the new Anglo-French offensive.

Fail to Check Dash.

German reinforcements rushed from Lens and Douai thus far apparently have failed to check the dash of troops which, sweeping northward from Arras, have captured important German positions. The German war office states that progress has been made against the British line east of Ypres.

GERMAN TROOPS WILL HAVE GREEN UNIFORMS

The Hague, May 12.—The German troops will be clothed in grass green uniforms during the summer months according to private information here from Ghent, where a large factory is said to be working day and night making the new clothing. Field gray will be the color worn again in next winter's campaign for which the Germans are making preparations according to stories arriving in Holland.

GERMANS HIDE FROM RIOTERS

London Mobs Destroy Property and Attack Any Teuton in Sight.

Police Have Difficulty in Restraining the Angry Crowds.

London, May 12—Anti-German riots in the East End of London were renewed this morning with even greater violence than yesterday. Wherever a German showed himself he was attacked. The police force has been so thinned by drafts sent to the army that it had difficulty in dealing with the angry crowds. Special constables had to be called out.

A number of German establishments were raided and sacked, and their contents scattered over the streets. The Germans themselves were forced to go into hiding. The police in some cases were defied by the angry crowds and some officers were injured during their endeavors to protect the Teutons. The furniture and fittings of German houses and stores were hurled through windows to the streets. When the proprietors were caught they were severely mauled. In some cases their clothes were torn from their backs.

Thrown in Horse Trough.

One German was thrown into a horse trough with the reminder that his compatriots had been spreading their time drowning women and children. He was only saved from a similar fate by the intervention of the police.

There were several instances of German butchers trying to escape in their

CUNARDER SAXONIA REACHES NEW YORK

New York, May 12.—The Cunard liner Saxonia reached this port today from Liverpool, having sighted the Lusitania at 2:45 o'clock in the afternoon of May 5, two days before she was sunk.

Until the Sandy Hook pilot boarded the Saxonia here passengers knew nothing of the Lusitania's fate.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 12.—David M. Parry, former president of the National Manufacturers' association, died at his home here today of uraemic poisoning.

TWO CHILDREN DIE WHEN HOME BURNS

Son and Daughter of New Denmark, Wis., Man the Victims.

Green Bay, Wis., May 12.—Two children, a boy and a girl, aged 18 and 13, of Jules Roebeck, living at New Denmark, in Brown county, were burned to death in a fire which destroyed their home above a blacksmith shop late last night. The father was burned about the arms and head while trying to get his children out of the burning building. He and his wife and three children were saved.

The stairway from the bedrooms led inside the shop and the fire had gained such headway before anyone awoke that escape was made only through dense smoke and close to the flames.

GUARANTEE AGAINST REPETITION IS ASKED

President's Note to Germany Intimates That U. S. Is Prepared to Meet Any Eventualities That May Arise From Non-Compliance.

Phrased in Unmistakably Emphatic Language and Indicates That American Government Is Prepared to Go to Full Length of Its Ability.

Washington, May 12.—The United States government, in a note to Germany today, formally demands of the imperial government a strict accounting for the loss of American lives in the sinking of the Lusitania and violations of American rights in the war zone. It also asks guarantees that there will be no repetition of such events or practices.

With the plain intimation in it that the United States is prepared to meet any eventualities that may arise from a non-compliance, the communication, phrased in unmistakably emphatic language, was prepared to be cabled to Berlin by nightfall.

WRITTEN BY PRESIDENT.

Written by President Wilson and approved unanimously by the cabinet, the note was being carefully examined by Counselor Lansing and the law officers of the government at the state department today to make sure that its phraseology covered every point of law involved.

The White House officially announced the fact that the president had finally determined the course of action to be pursued in the following statement issued by Secretary Tumulty after a conference with the president:

"The course of the president has been determined. It will be announced just as soon as it is proper to publish the note now in preparation."

TO OBSERVE USUAL CUSTOM.

This was taken to mean that the American government, observing the usual diplomatic amenities, would await the receipt of the communication in Berlin before making it public. At first there was some suggestion that the communication be sent personally by the president to Emperor William, but Mr. Wilson determined that it should be addressed not to an individual but to the German government and through it to the German people.

As for reparation, the United States, naturally, will seek financial reparation, but its protest now is in the name of international law and

FRENCH SOLDIERS CHANGE TROUSERS

Army Substituting Garments of Subdued Hue for Bright Red.

New York, May 12.—Dr. Henry H. M. Lyle, surgeon-in-chief of the American hospital in France conducted by Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, was a passenger on the Rochambeau which arrived today. Dr. Lyle said the French army was substituting garments of more subdued hue for the bright red trousers of its soldiers. The new color is a smoky shade of gray, which makes difficult detection of troops at a distance.

"The brilliant red of the French soldiers' trousers make him a splendid target," Dr. Lyle said. "How well the enemy profited by this is shown by the fact that a large preponderance of the men treated at our hospital were suffering from wounds in the legs and abdomen."

TO BRING AMERICAN DEAD TO NEW YORK

Cunard Line Will Shortly Transport Victims of Lusitania.

New York, May 12.—The Lusitania's American dead, so far as identified, now lying at Queenstown and other towns in Ireland will be brought to New York, according to a cablegram received here today by the Cunard line from Liverpool. The message said the company would transport the bodies across the sea, but when and by what vessel they would be brought was not stated.

A second cablegram confirmed the announcement, made in London yesterday of the cancellation of the Mauretania's sailing from Liverpool, originally set for May 29. This, the line's officials said, would necessitate arranging a new summer schedule of sailings.

SUMMARY OF THE WAR NEWS

From the Belgian coast to Arras, across the border in Northern France, one of the principal battles of the war thus far is now under way. The Belgians, in the little section of their fatherland which they still hold, are pushing forward, apparently with some success. Near the border the French are attacking furiously, in an attempt to pierce the German line. Between these two districts the Germans are on the offensive, pressing against the British army with great force. Although local successes have been won on both sides, the main issue, which is awaited with unconcealed concern, probably will not be decided for some time.

The Russians admit a further retreat in Galicia, although denying Austrian and German reports of a complete rout. British correspondents in Petrograd minimize the importance of the Austro-German victory, intimating that Russian strategy may have been responsible in part for the rapid advance of the Teutonic forces.

Reports from all sources indicate that the loss of life on the Gallipoli peninsula are severe. British reports indicate that the allies have paid a heavy price for establishing positions on the land. A dispatch from Athens says the losses of the Turkish troops have been so great that fresh troops are to be brought in from Smyrna.

The course of Italy is still undecided. Pope Benedict is reported to have almost given up hope that Italy will remain at peace. Austria's final counter proposals are expected shortly, but little hope apparently is entertained that they will satisfy Italy.

BARE CHANCE THAT MISS MILLIE BAKER IS SURVIVOR

"Woman By the Name of Baker" in Irish Hospital.

Dispatch Says Vanderbilt Handed Her His Life Belt.

Miss Millie Baker of this city, a passenger on the ill-fated Lusitania, sunk Friday off the coast of Ireland by a German torpedo, may be alive if information which has been received in Duluth proves true.

A dispatch from London carries a story from a survivor of the wreck of how Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, the multi-millionaire who lost his life when the big liner sank, gave up his own chance of being rescued in an attempt to save the life of a young woman, whose description answers that of Miss Millie Baker of this city.

That his gallant act in turning his own life belt over to the young woman just before the steamship sank may have saved the life of the Duluth girl is just possible. On a cot in the hospital of a small village on the south coast of Ireland, a woman by the name of "Baker" is reported to be lying ill and delirious.

Their One Hope.

This news reached Duluth yesterday afternoon in a telegram from Bayard Cobb of New York, a friend of the Baker family. It now furnishes the only straw to which the friends and relatives of Miss Baker are clinging. She was a first cabin passenger and since the sinking of the boat no word has been received indicating that she was among the survivors. No other woman named "Baker" was reported on the first-class passenger list, although there was a Mrs. Baker on the third-class list.

The text of the telegram received yesterday afternoon from Mr. Cobb is:

"A Mrs. or Miss Baker reported saved. Not identified yet. Possibly on account of being prostrated in hospital. Trying to get further particulars. May have to wait two or three days. Don't give up hope yet. See letter mailed today. Good luck."

It was the first favorable news which reached Mrs. A. Baker, 2209 Minnesota avenue, the mother of the missing young woman. Hope has been restored by the news and Mrs. Baker's condition, which has been serious during the past two or three days, is reported to be much improved. She has been prostrated with grief since the first news of the ocean tragedy reached Duluth.

Vanderbilt's Act.

The London dispatch, which relates an account of how Mr. Vanderbilt gave his lifebelt to a woman answering to the description of Miss Baker, is as follows:

"Thomas Slidell, a survivor, said he stood near Mr. Vanderbilt, who put on a lifebelt as the liner began to list badly to starboard. Mr. Vanderbilt could not swim, but when a young woman turned from one of the lifeboats that could not be launched the millionaire gallantly removed his lifebelt and handed it to her. A few seconds later the steamship sank. Slidell was rescued, but he saw no more of Mr. Vanderbilt and the young woman. From descriptions other passengers who witnessed the incident say the young woman Mr. Vanderbilt attempted to save was the Duluth girl who still is among the missing."

WATCHING TRAINS FOR KIDNAPED ITALIAN BOY

Chicago, May 12.—Trains coming into Chicago from St. Louis were closely watched today for an alleged Italian kidnaper said to be bringing 10-year-old Lorenz Volente to this city.

The boy, son of a wealthy Italian grocer of St. Louis, is said to have been kidnaped yesterday after his father had declined to pay blackmail of $5,000. Local detectives were handicapped by the vagueness of the description of the alleged kidnaper.

The Volente case recalls that of the two Viviano children kidnaped in St. Louis five years ago and brought to Chicago. A clue discovered here was followed so closely that the alleged conspirators set the children at liberty in the streets where they were picked up by the police.

ARE LIVING ON REFUSE

Health Director Protests Against Conditions at City Dump.

Says Sixty Men Search Loads of Garbage for Food.

Revolting conditions were discovered by Health Director Fahey yesterday afternoon, when he found about sixty men camping alongside the city dump at the foot of Eleventh avenue west, living largely on the refuse thrown away each day.

These men cannot be stopped from eating this food and drinking unhealthful water in the bay, according to the health director, unless the police arrest them on a charge of vagrancy and keep them off the dump.

"It is the most revolting condition I have ever seen," said Dr. Fahey this morning. "These men just climb over one another when a wagon of refuse appears. They search through the stuff thrown away and in many instances, hamper the work of the wagon drivers, as the men climb right into the wagon and begin picking out some food.

"Besides taking food, these men find old clothes, which they wear, and cans and pans, which they use for dishes and for warming the food. It is almost unbelievable, yet these men are there all the time, living right alongside the very dump itself.

"The men not only eat this food, but they drink the most unhealthful water and from a humanitarian point of view, this practice should be stopped. The only way I can see is for the police to arrest them on a charge of vagrancy, and keep a watch on the dump."

TEMPLARS TO MILL CITY ON TUESDAY

Knights Will Take Part in Annual State Conclave.

At noon next Tuesday 110 Knights Templars and thirty members of the Temple band will march from the Masonic temple to the Soo station, where they will board a special train for Minneapolis to attend the annual conclave of the grand commandery of Minnesota, to be held there Tuesday and Wednesday.

Arrangements for the trip were completed last evening at a meeting of Duluth commandery held at the temple. The knights and the band will meet at the temple at 11 o'clock next Tuesday morning, to prepare for the trip. At noon the parade will start, the line of march continuing down Lake avenue to Superior street and west to the Soo station. All the marchers will be dressed in the full regalia of the order.

A special train will leave at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, arriving in Minneapolis shortly after 5 o'clock.

At 6:30 o'clock in the evening the Duluth delegation will participate in a grand parade to the Armory, where a series of maneuvers and fancy drills will be executed by the various commanderies attending the conclave.

There will be two parades on Wednesday and the local delegation will leave on Wednesday evening for Duluth, arriving here the following morning.

OPPOSE INCREASE.

Publishers Say Freight Rates on Paper Are High Enough.

Washington, May 12.—Representatives of the American Newspaper Publishers' association and of many news print paper mills protested before the interstate commerce commission today against proposed increases in freight rates on news print paper east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio rivers. Representatives of the railroads were present to justify the increases.

Robert C. Morris, representing the publishers' association, said an increase in the cost of production of newspapers would work a hardship and that as the railroads recently benefited by the 5 per cent general increase they need no other.

The railroad representatives declared rates on paper had long been too low and that a readjustment was necessary and should be made now.

BARE CHANCE THAT MISS MILLIE BAKER IS SURVIVOR

"Woman By the Name of Baker" in Irish Hospital.

Dispatch Says Vanderbilt Handed Her His Life Belt.

Miss Millie Baker of this city, a passenger on the ill-fated Lusitania, sunk Friday off the coast of Ireland by a German torpedo, may be alive if information which has been received in Duluth proves true.

A dispatch from London carries a story from a survivor of the wreck of how Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, the multi-millionaire who lost his life when the big liner sank, gave up his own chance of being rescued in an attempt to save the life of a young woman, whose description answers that of Miss Millie Baker of this city.

That his gallant act in turning his own life belt over to the young woman just before the steamship sank may have saved the life of the Duluth girl is just possible. On a cot in the hospital of a small village on the south coast of Ireland, a woman by the name of "Baker" is reported to be lying ill and delirious.

Their One Hope.

This news reached Duluth yesterday afternoon in a telegram from Bayard Cobb of New York, a friend of the Baker family. It now furnishes the only straw to which the friends and relatives of Miss Baker are clinging. She was a first cabin passenger and since the sinking of the boat no word has been received indicating that she was among the survivors. No other woman named "Baker" was reported on the first-class passenger list, although there was a Mrs. Baker on the third-class list.

The text of the telegram received yesterday afternoon from Mr. Cobb is:

"A Mrs. or Miss Baker reported saved. Not identified yet. Possibly on account of being prostrated in hospital. Trying to get further particulars. May have to wait two or three days. Don't give up hope yet. See letter mailed today. Good luck."

It was the first favorable news which reached Mrs. A. Baker, 2209 Minnesota avenue, the mother of the missing young woman. Hope has been restored by the news and Mrs. Baker's condition, which has been serious during the past two or three days, is reported to be much improved. She has been prostrated with grief since the first news of the ocean tragedy reached Duluth.

Vanderbilt's Act.

The London dispatch, which relates an account of how Mr. Vanderbilt gave his lifebelt to a woman answering to the description of Miss Baker, is as follows:

"Thomas Slidell, a survivor, said he stood near Mr. Vanderbilt, who put on a lifebelt as the liner began to list badly to starboard. Mr. Vanderbilt could not swim, but when a young woman turned from one of the lifeboats that could not be launched the millionaire gallantly removed his lifebelt and handed it to her. A few seconds later the steamship sank. Slidell was rescued, but he saw no more of Mr. Vanderbilt and the young woman. From descriptions other passengers who witnessed the incident say the young woman Mr. Vanderbilt attempted to save was the Duluth girl who still is among the missing."

WATCHING TRAINS FOR KIDNAPED ITALIAN BOY

Chicago, May 12.—Trains coming into Chicago from St. Louis were closely watched today for an alleged Italian kidnaper said to be bringing 10-year-old Lorenz Volente to this city.

The boy, son of a wealthy Italian grocer of St. Louis, is said to have been kidnaped yesterday after his father had declined to pay blackmail of $5,000. Local detectives were handicapped by the vagueness of the description of the alleged kidnaper.

The Volente case recalls that of the two Viviano children kidnaped in St. Louis five years ago and brought to Chicago. A clue discovered here was followed so closely that the alleged conspirators set the children at liberty in the streets where they were picked up by the police.

ARE LIVING ON REFUSE

Health Director Protests Against Conditions at City Dump.

Says Sixty Men Search Loads of Garbage for Food.

Revolting conditions were discovered by Health Director Fahey yesterday afternoon, when he found about sixty men camping alongside the city dump at the foot of Eleventh avenue west, living largely on the refuse thrown away each day.

These men cannot be stopped from eating this food and drinking unhealthful water in the bay, according to the health director, unless the police arrest them on a charge of vagrancy and keep them off the dump.

"It is the most revolting condition I have ever seen," said Dr. Fahey this morning. "These men just climb over one another when a wagon of refuse appears. They search through the stuff thrown away and in many instances, hamper the work of the wagon drivers, as the men climb right into the wagon and begin picking out some food.

"Besides taking food, these men find old clothes, which they wear, and cans and pans, which they use for dishes and for warming the food. It is almost unbelievable, yet these men are there all the time, living right alongside the very dump itself.

"The men not only eat this food, but they drink the most unhealthful water and from a humanitarian point of view, this practice should be stopped. The only way I can see is for the police to arrest them on a charge of vagrancy, and keep a watch on the dump."

TEMPLARS TO MILL CITY ON TUESDAY

Knights Will Take Part in Annual State Conclave.

At noon next Tuesday 110 Knights Templars and thirty members of the Temple band will march from the Masonic temple to the Soo station, where they will board a special train for Minneapolis to attend the annual conclave of the grand commandery of Minnesota, to be held there Tuesday and Wednesday.

Arrangements for the trip were completed last evening at a meeting of Duluth commandery held at the temple. The knights and the band will meet at the temple at 11 o'clock next Tuesday morning, to prepare for the trip. At noon the parade will start, the line of march continuing down Lake avenue to Superior street and west to the Soo station. All the marchers will be dressed in the full regalia of the order.

A special train will leave at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, arriving in Minneapolis shortly after 5 o'clock.

At 6:30 o'clock in the evening the Duluth delegation will participate in a grand parade to the Armory, where a series of maneuvers and fancy drills will be executed by the various commanderies attending the conclave.

There will be two parades on Wednesday and the local delegation will leave on Wednesday evening for Duluth, arriving here the following morning.

FEW IDLE MEN IN THE CITY

Activity Now General, Both in Duluth and Surrounding Country.

Hundreds Have Been Given Work; Conditions Will Be Normal.

Labor conditions at the Head of the Lakes are now better than at any time during the last year according to reports from many authoritative sources. Few idle men are to be seen in the city, and those are being put to work in fairly large numbers every day—many being given employment in Duluth and others being shipped out to points nearby.

The coming of warm weather and the general improvement in business conditions are said to be responsible for the more active status of labor. Much work has been opened in this city and a general call has gone out from nearby towns and farm districts.

Hundreds Put to Work.

The continuation of operations at the steel plant at Gary has taken nearly 700 men, it is said, and it is expected that more will be given work in a short time. The sawmills at the Head of the Lakes have been opened for the year. Four large mills are now in full operation, and the combined force of these mills is about 850 men. The new Portland cement plant is being constructed, and 100 men have already been given employment there. Fifty more will be put to work within the next month, most of whom will be employed in steel work.

The small sawmills in Northern Minnesota and Wisconsin are now operating, and are taking a large number of laborers. The mills were somewhat later in starting than the big mills here because the owners waited for the mill ponds to get free of ice. These mills are said to have a good supply of logs and the run is expected to be a long one this year.

Clean-up Week Helps.

Clean-up and paint-up week, now on, has put a large number of men to work, both among union and non-union laborers. Many men are being employed at short jobs, cleaning yards and vacant lots, and a number are busy painting houses and other buildings. Some of the paint shops of the city are "open" shops, and both union and non-union men are being put to work. There is no cut in wages for painters this spring, and men doing this kind of work will find plenty of work as the building season progresses.

The employment offices are not overly crowded now, although there is no scarcity of labor. Conditions are expected to be normal this coming summer.

Theater Gossip.

For years it has been the gossip of theatrical circles that Miss Maude Adams in real life was NOT MRS. FROHMAN. Mrs. Charles Frohman, and that they had been married for years.

This gossip was specifically denied with the report of the death of Mr. Frohman on the Lusitania. Miss Adams was appearing in Kansas City when news came of the sinking of the Lusitania, and in an interview telegraphed to the New York Times she denied the gossip that she was Mr. Frohman's wife, while expressing the deepest grief over the death of a man with whom she had been so long associated in a business way.

Members of the Baldwin stock company are most enthusiastic boosters for Cloquet. They have

THEY LIKE CLOQUET. made two trips to the lumbering town, and have been most enthusiastically received both times. Far from looking on the jaunts to Cloquet in the light of a "trip to the tanks," as the slang of the profession designates the small town or the one-night stand, the Baldwin Players view the Cloquet trips as very attractive vacations.

"I never played to a more appreciative and responsive audience," said Miss Anne Bronaugh, the leading woman. "Mr. Baldwin can send us to Cloquet as often as he wants to during the summer. It is one of the prettiest and livellest little towns I have seen, and the other members of the company feel the same way about it."

But despite the liking for Cloquet on the part of the members of the company, they are not likely to take any more jaunts for some time to come. They will remain at the Lyceum all this week in "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," and will open Sunday afternoon in "Mam'zelle," which will continue all of next week. "Mam'zelle" offers opportunities for some surprises in the way of "specialties," and the company is busy rehearsing these this week.

The Orpheum circuit through Martin Beck has decreed there will be no more Orpheum vaude-

PULL OUT OF SIOUX CITY. ville in Sioux City after the regular season shortly ends there.

Sioux City doesn't patronize its big time vaudeville liberally enough to warrant the Orpheum people continuing that policy in the Iowa town at a loss.

The Orpheum there has had but two winning weeks this season, although Sioux City has been the Orpheum's biggest "cut salary" town. The bills have cost the Orpheum about $1,700 weekly under the "cut" scale. At the regular salary of the artists they would have reached $3,000. Often the Sioux City gross for the week did not reach the expense of the program.

The Orpheum, Sioux City, may be booked out of the Western Vaudeville Managers' association offices in Chicago, commencing next season, with a different grade of show.

The present week's bill at the Orpheum will be the last vaudeville bill of the season, the house

CLOSING WEEK AT ORPHEUM closing Saturday night for the summer season. The attendance during the last few weeks that the house has been offering the complete Orpheum shows, has not been phenomenal, or quite up to the standard that this class of entertainment deserves, but considering the season, which has been unusually severe on almost all forms of amusement in all parts of the coutnry, the Orpheum attendance has not been bad. With the closing performance next Saturday night, there will be only two Orpheum theaters in this part of the country still open, Minneapolis and Winnipeg, which are to close a week later.

While no definite date for the fall opening has yet been made, in all probability the opening date will be the latter part of August as usual, when the complete Orpheum shows will be again offered.

The present week's bill is one of genuine merit throughout, and is well worth seeing before the closing performance Saturday night.

An act of great beauty is that of Les Diadottis, a posing turn, said to be direct from Europe,

THE GRAND BILL which headlines the bill at the New Grand, which closes with today's performances. The productions are representations of famous paintings and statuary done in colors. Four handsomely formed women and two beautiful dogs form the personnel of the company.

Charles and Anna Glocker in a novelty sensation featuring comedy water juggling; Montrose & Allen in a diversion in comedy songs and talk, and Morton, Wells & Norworth offering a fund of bright and airy nonsense are other vaudeville acts on the bill.

A war drama that speaks for peace is "The Pawns of Mars" in three reels. Two comedies and a Western play complete the bill.

Tomorrow the new bill will be headlined with the Western act, Bert Sheppard and company. Mr. Sheppard is famous as the "Whip King." Fitch Cooper, the musical rube; Montabo & Wells, comedy acrobats and the Georgia trio singers and comedians are other acts to be presented.

Charlie Chaplin will be seen in his latest success, "By the Sea."

"Thirty," a two-reel story of newspaper life, in which is interwoven a pretty love tale features Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne in the leading roles. The Hearst-Selig News of events and a comedy complete the bill.

GLOBE TROTTING NEWSBOY VISITS "CROWNED HEADS" OF ZENITH CITY

GLOBE-TROTTING "PITTSIE" RYAN.

"Pittsie" Ryan, the newsboy of Alberta, Can., is the guest of Duluth today, resting up for the final walk between the Zenith city and his home.

Mayor Prince, other members of the city council, county officials, and members of the Commercial and Kitchi Gammi clubs were visited today, and many autographs were secured by "Pittsie" for his voluminous books of autographs. He has two of these books nearly full, including noted persons in every walk of life.

Duluth's guest was much pleased with the weather and scenery here. He says it has "everything beat;" that is so far as he has experienced on his little jaunt of 45,000 miles. He was told that he was undoubtedly expected to say this about every place he visited, but he declared that he was not given to flattery and what he said about Duluth might be taken "without" a grain of salt.

DULUTH LAW STUDENTS IN MOCK TRIAL AT UNIVERSITY

Several Duluth law students at the state university are participating in a big mock trial which is in progress among the students of the university law school.

One William Palmerly is charged with the murder of his friend, John Parsons Cook. The prosecution is contending that Cook died from strychnia administered by Palmerly. The defense plans to show that Cook died of idiopathic tetanus, or tetanus induced by an ulcerated condition of the tongue or from mercurial poisoning resulting from treatment for a disease.

The case is being tried before E. M. Morgan of Duluth as judge and a jury consisting of six members of the senior class. The state will put on twenty witnesses, four of whom will be experts.

Lawrence Jaques of Duluth will be prosecuting attorney. Opposing counsel will be David West, who will conduct the cross examinations for the defense and Ray Brown who will examine the preliminary witnesses.

Elgin, Ill., May 12.—The disappearance of Ray L. Seaman, teller of the Elgin National bank, yesterday, charged with the larceny of $10,000 in gold certificates, was the sequel to the disappearance in 1911 of L. N. Seaman, his father and founder of the bank. The father, who was arrested in Los Angeles, was tried in the Federal court in Chicago on a charge of having misapplied $38,000 and was acquitted. He died May 2 in Los Angeles.

The younger Seaman is alleged to have taken $10,000 in gold certificates from the bank vaults on Saturday when he was last seen there. He paid his personal bills about the city Saturday afternoon and left. Friends declare continued gossip over his father's dealings with the bank, together with poor health, drove the teller to leave.

BILL'S SPARE TIME.

Cincinnati Enquirer: Representative Hobson said in the course of a temperance discussion the other day:

"Doesn't drinking imply a host of other bad habits as well?

"A man saw a friend leaning against the bar in a wind-swept saloon on the Atlantic City beach.

"'Hello,' said the man, 'what are you doing now, Bill?'

"'I'm drinking whisky now,' Bill answered, 'as you see.'

"'I know,' said the man; 'but what are you doing, I mean, Bill, in your spare time?'"

Leaves Metcalfe Case Up to Civil Service Commission.

The city council will take no action on the appeal of R. N. Metcalfe, discharged health inspector, but the matter will be left entirely in the hands of the civic service commission.

This announcement was made yesterday by Commissioner Silberstein, who declared that the case is not under the jurisdiction of the city council. The civil service commission will meet on May 21 to consider Mr. Metcalfe's appeal.

At the council meeting Monday evening Mr. Metcalfe presented a statement to the commissioners, declaring that the hearings were constantly being postponed and that he was not receiving a square deal.

INJURIES MAY PROVE FATAL

Jack Polinsky Has Skull Fractured When He Backs Into Jitney.

Driver Unable to Stop or Reduce Speed of His Machine.

While attempting to "catch on" a wagon between First and Lake avenues on Superior street this morning, Jack Polinsky, age 12, backed into a rapidly moving jitney and was thrown to the curb, sustaining a fracture of the skull and cuts about the head which will probably prove fatal. The lad is the son of Sam Polinsky, 411 East Ninth street.

Jack ran out into the street a short distance beyond the First avenue crossing, and after an attempt to catch on the wagon failed, he dropped to the pavement without looking around. A car driven by John Andrews, 130 East Fifth street, going east, was upon him before the driver could stop his car, or even reduce his speed.

Pedestrians, aided by Andrews, picked the boy up and placed him on the curb, where he lay for nearly ten minutes before a passing automobile was stopped and pressed into service.

Dr. Harry Klein, police surgeon, who took charge of the case when the boy reached St. Luke's hospital, declared that the lad's chances for recovery "are slim." The skull is badly fractured, and he sustained severe cuts over the right eye, across the back of the head and across the jaw.

Eye witnesses stated that the jitneur was not to blame, and that the accident was "unavoidable" so far as he was concerned. Mr. Andrews has been driving a jitney since shortly after the inception of the buses.

ROOSEVELT THE LEADER

In the selection of a United States senator.

Platt Leader at First.

Brown testified that the late Thomas C. Platt was the leader of the Republican party when he was first elected to the senate. Col. Roosevelt, the witness said, became state leader in 1906, and, he considered, actively retained the leadership until he departed from the country after he left the White House, resuming it on his return and retaining it until after the next election.

"Did you consider Col. Roosevelt the boss of the Republican party when you say he was leader?" asked Mr. Ivins, but an objection was sustained.

Mr. Ivins argued that it had been testified to by Col. Roosevelt that Mr. Barnes dominated the party for more than a dozen years and that he wanted to show as a matter of fact that Col. Roosevelt was actually the dominant factor for some time. During the argument Mr. Ivins remarked:

"It seems to be a question of whose ox is gored."

Following an argument over questions along this line, Justice Andrews said:

"I have left in the case in justification the one charge that Mr. Barnes was dominant in 1911 at the time of the senatorial election. That requires the jury to find that Mr. Barnes was dominant. It requires the jury to find that Mr. Barnes made an improper alliance with Charles F. Murphy. To meet that charge, you, Mr. Ivins, may prove that Mr. Barnes was not dominant."

ANGLO-FRENCH TROOPS BEGIN NEW ADVANCE

but Sir John French's laconic message asserts that all German efforts to break through have failed. The British field marshal says nothing of the part British troops are taking in the offensive in the direction of Lille.

The situation on the huge eastern battlefield still is obscure, but it is evident that the gains are not all at the expense of the Russians. The official reports from Petrograd and Berlin are so divergent, however, that military experts are loath to commit themselves.

French Statement.

Paris, May 12, 2:33 p. m.—The French war office this afternoon issued the following statement on the progress of hostilities:

"In the sector to the north of Arras we have maintained our gains excepting in front of Loos, where a night counter attack resulted in taking from us a part of the terrain we captured in the daytime.

"On the rest of the front yesterday saw artillery engagements."

Kansas City, Kan., May 12.—Investigation of the recent municipal election in Kansas City, Kan., ordered by Governor Capper, begins before James L. Smalley, special assistant attorney general, today. Mr. Smalley said he thought the day's work would be limited to the examination of one witness.

In ordering the inquiry, Governor Capper declared gross fraud had been perpetrated and asserted disclosures he had in his possession would "make Terre Haute look like a Sunday school." The governor said the investigation promised to involve men prominent in both political parties.

humanity to obtain a guarantee that such tragedies will not be repeated and the lives of non-combatants sacrificed.

NOTE VOICES GENERAL FEELING.

While high officials and cabinet officers were reticent to discuss its contents, it was agreed that the note voiced the intense feeling of the United States over the occurrences in the war zone and wanted an explanation of them as well as a guarantee that they would not be repeated.

The communication lays stress on the inhumanity of the attacks, without warning, on merchant vessels. It reviews in a general way every case in the war zone in which the rights of American citizens have been transgressed—the sinking of the steamer Falaba with the loss of Leon C. Thresher, an American; the attack by German airmen on the American steamer Cushing, the torpedoing of the American steamer Gulflight while flying the American flag and finally the destruction of the Lusitania, with the loss of more than a thousand non-combatants, more than 100 of them Americans.

FIRM BUT FRIENDLY.

The note, while firm and pointed, does not abandon tones of friendliness, giving room for a disavowal by Germany of her acts or an abatement of her practices. This is intimated in the suggestion that the German government and the German people could certainly not have intended to sacrifice American lives in the pursuit of their maritime warfare.

Attention is called to the fact that while advertisements of warning appeared in the newspapers, the United States government was never officially informed of it, but irrespective of that, the position is taken that the serving of notice to do an unlawful act neither justifies it or makes it lawful.

CALLS FOR EXPLANATION.

The note calls on Germany for an explanation for her past and future and leaves open the steps the United States will take to compel an acquiescence in its position.

Cabinet officers known as the advocates always of vigorous steps in foreign affairs were highly pleased. They said the president's note was the kind of document that fulfilled the desires of every American and upheld the dignity and honor of the United States, indicating that the American government was prepared to go the full length of its ability.

living at Kenosha. Dr. Darnell refused to answer, she declared, and she then told him he had better marry the girl who was the mother of his child. Darnell, according to the witness, told her he had been compelled to bring the girl and child to Kenosha.

The government then announced that it rested its case.

Judge Geiger denied a motion then made by the defense to take the case from the jury and direct a verdict.

Mrs. Alice Spurgeon, mother of Ethel, was then called by the defense.

Mrs. Spurgeon cited several dates that Darnell visited her daughter at her home, Avon, Ill.

Denies Statement.

Milton H. Darnell, father of the defendant, testifying for the defense, denied the statement made yesterday by Assistant State's Attorney Charles C. Case, Jr., to the effect that his son was not married to Ruth Soper at Hammond, Ind.

"I asked Ethel Spurgeon if she had married my son when she was at my home and she first said they were married in Chicago and later she said the ceremony took place in Quincy," continued the witness. "I asked her the name of the minister and she said she didn't remember. Then I asked her for the marriage certificate and she said she didn't know anything about it. I told her she had better get married and stop running around the country without a marriage certificate."

Counsel for the defense introduced what he said purported to be a marriage license issued Jan. 19, 1911, in Quincy and bearing the names of James Wylie and Ethel Baldwin.

Mrs. Milton H. Darnell, mother of the defendant, said she visited her son while he was living in Owatonna. She asked Miss Spurgeon there about a marriage.

Miss Spurgeon, she said, told her they were not married and added, "If I had a child by him I'd kill him."

Would Kill Someone.

The testimony did not bring out whether Miss Spurgeon meant she would kill Darnell or the infant. A birth certificate was then introduced by the defense purporting to show the parentage of the child Ruth Soper claims as her own.

Prosecutor Goff objected to its introduction and was sustained.

An application for a marriage license was introduced purporting to show that Darnell and Miss Spurgeon applied for a license in Chicago, Dec. 19, 1911. Illinois statutes abolishing common law marriages in that state and an Indiana statute bearing on the legality of common law marriages also were introduced.

Mrs. Sadie Soper, mother of Ruth, called by the defense, said that from 1911 to 1913 Ruth went to school in Fargo, N. D., while the Spurgeon woman during that time was living in Owatonna.

She testified she gave her daughter $65 to leave Owatonna for Kenosha and that Darnell accompanied her on that date, Jan. 9, 1915.

Counsel for the defense stated during recess that they did not believe Darnell or Miss Spurgeon would be placed on the stand and announced that their case was practically closed.

GERMANS HIDE FROM RIOTERS

carts. They went racing down the streets at a mad gallop, but in most cases they ultimately were run down and their vehicles smashed.

A number of Russian Jewesses were flocking this morning to the police station in the East End and pleading for protection, explaining that they were being mistaken for Germans.

Reports are reaching the police that private houses belonging to wealthy Germans in the fashionable West End are liable to be burned. Troops are in readiness to assist the police if necessary.

Large placards in the windows of almost all business houses and markets bear the words: "No business transacted with Germans."

Anti-German outbreaks of particular severity occurred today in the neighborhood of the East India docks. Sixty or seventy German shops were wrecked. Germans in the vicinity are uniting for self-defense and police reinforcements are being rushed to the scene.

Germans Express Horror.

The protest of the German citizens of Bradford against the course of the German government in the torpedoing of the Lusitania is the first united public denunciation by naturalized Teutons expressing "horror and indignation of the German outrages."

Letters from individual Germans are appearing in the newspapers, but the prominent among the German residents have not as yet made any move.

The cabinet was in special conference today to review the allen situation as altered by recent happenings, and the country is eagerly expecting drastic action.

Considers Segregation.

Premier Asquith stated in the house of commons today that the cabinet was quite alive to the fact that the "progressive violations of the rules of civilized warfare and humanity by the enemy, culminating in the sinking of the Lusitania," and the feelings that thus were aroused had made it necessary to look beyond merely military considerations. The government, therefore, was carefully considering the practicability of the segregation and internment of alien enemies on a more comprehensive scale.

The premier added he hoped to make a more definite statement tomorrow.

PERJURY ENTERS IN WILL CONTEST SUIT

Grand Jury Begins Investigation of Trial for Campbell Millions.

St. Louis, Mo., May 12.—The Grand jury here today began an investigation of the trial of the James Campbell $16,000,000 will contest suit which last week was decided in favor of the defendants, Mrs. Florence Campbell, the widow, and Mrs. Lois Campbell Burkham, daughter of the late Mr. Campbell.

The investigation was asked by L. F. Ottofy, attorney for the contestants whose suit failed. Ottofy charged the defense with coercing and intimidating witnesses for the plaintiffs. Among the witnesses summoned by the grand jury today was Mrs. Hattie N. Reed, who had in turn testified for both sides.

The contestants had alleged that Lois Campbell (Mrs. Burkham) was not the daughter of Campbell, that Campbell was of unsound mind when he made the will and that he was unduly influenced by officers of St. Louis university to which the entire estate eventually will go.

The trial involved only the parentage of Mrs. Burkham, and Mrs. Reed testified first that she was the nurse who attended Mrs. Campbell at the birth of Lois at New York in 1893. When put on the stand by counsel for the plaintiffs, Mrs. Reed said she was not certain that the defendant was the "Mrs. Campbell" whom she had attended. The will was contested by several nieces and nephews of Mr. Campbell. A jury decided Mrs. Burkham was the daughter of Campbell and the court then dismissed the entire case, thereby confirming Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. Burkham's right to the entire estate during their life.

TROOPS DISPERSE WAR ENTHUSIASTS IN ROME

Rome, May 11, via Paris, May 12.—Troops were called out tonight to disperse a great crowd of war enthusiasts who paraded the principal streets crying, "Down with Austria! Down with Giolitti!" and cheering for Premier Salandra and Minister of Foreign Affairs Sonnino. Most of the persons in the throng apparently felt the greatest animosity toward Former Premier Giolitti, who is regarded as the leader of the peace party. An attempt was made to storm his residence, but it was frustrated by soldiers. The crowd jeered as it passed the German ecclesiastical college.

The Danish steamers Orion and Oscar II., bound for Copenhagen and held at Kirkwall, have been released.

STATEMENT BY BRITAIN

Official View of Germany's Justification for Torpedoing Lusitania.

Answer Is Made to Note Which Was Sent to United States.

London, May 12.—Inquiry in official circles here has elicited the following statement representing the British official view of Germany's justification for torpedoing the Lusitania, which Germany transmitted to the state department at Washington:

"The German government states that responsibility for the loss of the Lusitania rests with the British government, which through their plan of starving the civil population of Germany, has forced Germany to resort to retaliatory measures. The reply to this is as follows:

"As far back as last December, Admiral Von Tirpitz (the German marine minister) in an interview, foreshadowed a submarine blockade of Great Britain and a merchant ship and a hospital ship were torpedoed Jan. 30 and Feb. 1, respectively.

"The German government on Feb. 4, declared its intention of instituting a general submarine blockade of Great Britain and Ireland, with the avowed purpose of cutting off supplies for these islands. This blockade was put into effect Feb. 18.

"As already stated, merchant vessels had, as a matter of fact, been sunk by a German submarine at the end of January. Before Feb. 4, no vessel carrying food supplies for Germany had been held up by his majesty's government, except on the ground that there was reason to believe that the foodstuffs were intended for the use of the armed forces of the enemy or the enemy government.

Took Wilhelmina.

"His majesty's government had, however, informed the state department on Jan. 29 that they felt bound to place in a prize court the foodstuffs of the steamer Wilhelmina, which was going to a German port, in view of the government control of foodstuffs in Germany as being destined for the enemy government, and therefore liable to capture.

"The decision of his majesty's government to carry out the measures laid down by the order in council, was due to the action of the German government in insisting on their submarine blockade. This, added to other infractions of international law by Germany, led to British reprisals, which differ from the German action in that his majesty's government scrupulously respects the lives of noncombatants traveling in merchant vessels and does not even enforce the recognized penalty of confiscation for a breach of the blockade, whereas the German policy is to sink enemy or neutral vessels at sight, with total disregard for the lives of non-combatants and the property of neutrals.

"The Germans state that, in spite of their offer to stop their submarine war in case the starvation plan was given up, Great Britain has taken even more stringent blockade measures. The answer to this is as follows:

Britain's Answer.

"It was not understood from the reply of the German government that they were prepared to abandon the principle of sinking British vessels by submarine. They have refused to abandon the use of mines for offensive purposes on the high seas on any condition. They have committed various other infractions of international law, such as strewing the high seas and trade routes with mines, and British and neutral vessels will continue to run danger from this course whether Germany abandons her submarine blockade or not.

"It should be noted that since the employment of submarines contrary to international law, the Germans also have been guilty of the use of asphyxiating gas. They have even proceeded to the poisoning of water in South Africa.

"The Germans represent British merchant vessels generally as armed with guns and say that they repeatedly ram submarines. The answer to this is as follows:

"It is not to be wondered at that merchant vessels, knowing they are liable to be sunk without warning and without any chance being given those on board to save themselves, should take measures for self-defense. With regard to the Lusitania, the vessel was not armed on her last voyage and had not been armed during the whole war.

Attempt to Justify.

"The Germans attempt to justify the sinking of the Lusitania by the fact that she had arms and ammunition on board. The presence of contraband on board a neutral vessel does render her liable to capture, but certainly not to destruction with the loss of a large portion of her crew and passengers. Every enemy vessel is a fair prize, but there is no legal provision, not to speak of the principles of humanity, which would justify what can only be described as murder, because a vessel carries contraband.

"The Germans maintain that after repeated warnings, his majesty's government was responsible for the loss of life as they considered themselves able to declare that the boat ran no risk and thus 'light heartedly assume the responsibility for the loss of lives on board a steamer which, owing to its armament and cargo, is liable to destruction.' The reply to this is:

"First, his majesty's government never declared the boat ran no risk.

"Second—The fact that the Germans issued their warning shows that the crime was premeditated. They had no more right to murder passengers after warning them than before.

"Third—In spite of their attempt to put the blame on Great Britain, it will tax the ingenuity, even of the Germans, to explain away the fact that it was a German torpedo, fired by a German seaman from a German submarine, that sank the vessel and caused over 1,000 deaths."

LUSITANIA LIFEBOAT WITH BODIES ASHORE

Queenstown, May 12.—A Lusitania lifeboat bearing the bodies of three women and two boys which has been adrift since last Friday, is reported ashore today near Baltimore, on the South Irish coast.

There were no American first cabin passengers among the seventeen dead brought into Queenstown this morning.

PARIS AMERICANS CABLE A PROTEST

Over Hundred in French Capital Address the President.

Paris, May 12.—More than 100 Americans in Paris have signed the following cablegram, which was forwarded to President Wilson:

"We, the undersigned, having observed strict neutrality, though living amid the horrors of war, now feel that in justice to our conditions and in order to preserve our self respect, we must voice an indignant and energetic protest against the sinking of the Lusitania, an act pre-eminent in its savagery and which places the responsible government outside civilized humanity."

Among the signers of the message are Dr. Edmund L. Gros, chief surgeon of the American ambulance corps in France; A. Piatt Andrew, formerly assistant secretary of the United States treasury; Norman Hutchinson, American consul general of Roumania and Serbia; Lawrence V. Benet, former president of the American Chamber of Commerce in Paris; Capt. Arthur W. Kipling of the American ambulance corps; P. Lorillard Ronalds, George Blumenthal, William E. Iselin and Dr. Winchester Dabouchet.

Considered With Horror.

Calcutta, India, May 12.—American residents of Calcutta adopted a resolution today expressing the opinion that the destruction of the Lusitania was "an act to be considered with horror and indignation by every honorable person," and adding:

"We express our firm conviction and belief that the American government will take prompt action toward securing the safety of the lives of Americans and other neutrals traveling on the high seas."

MORE HONORS FOR TROYER

Police Present Retiring Chief With Watch and Charm.

Detective Irvine Pays High Tribute in Presentation Speech.

As a wind-up to the most extensive series of tributes ever given a retiring city official, policemen of Duluth assembled at headquarters this afternoon and presented Chief C. H. Troyer with a handsome watch and charm.

When the chief entered the assembly room at headquarters, escorted by Detective Donald Irvine, with whom he has worked for two decades, and found the entire force waiting to pay their respects to the man responsible for the ranking of Duluth's police force, the scene was an impressive one.

Handsome Remembrance.

The token, purchased by voluntary donations from the police officers who have worked under Mr. Troyer during his twelve years as chief, included the watch and chain, with a gold charm bearing an Elk's tooth on one side and Masonic insignia on the reverse.

Robert Donaldson, assistant superintendent of the Bertillion department, in a short talk, presented the gift to Mr. Troyer.

"It may seem singular to you, Sir," he said, "that so young a member of the department should have been chosen to officiate, and it may have occurred to you that the captain, or an older member, should take my place.

"This occasion has a significance, which sinks deep into the so-called calloused hearts of the men who have served under you. Their feeling of regard for you is beyond the power of my words to describe, and they have chosen to do you a greater honor—that of silence.

"The last twenty-five years, during which you have served the city, as far as you are concerned means that the city of Duluth has been getting more than a dollar's worth of service for every dollar paid you in salary. You are not indebted to this community; but we owe you much for your untiring, honest service.

Respected By Every Citizen.

"You leave us commanding the respect of every citizen. Even your opponents complimented you by adjudging you 'too active.'

"As our chief, we shall miss you; as a man among men, we shall miss you. That you are appreciated must be strikingly evident to you, for the fraternities to which you belong have done you fitting honor.

"In later years when you choose to grow reminiscent, it is our wish that the watch will recall to your mind the times when you were the working partner of 'Scotty' Irvine, or when yourself and Capt. Fiskett were being showered by the bullets of a would-be assassin."

Chief Troyer, evidently deeply touched by the tribute, thanked the men briefly for their remembrance, and their loyalty to him, and asked that they support his successor as well as they had him.

Beefsteak for Bankers.

Hellstrom Pleads Justification.

Bismarck, N. D., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank O. Hellstrom, who is backing the plan for the referendum of a large number of acts passed by the last legislature, has issued a letter to the voters of the state, justifying the movement.

POPULAR WEST END GIRL FIRST TO ENTER MAY QUEEN CONTEST

MISS LINDA OLSON.

The first young woman of the West end to enter the May queen contest to be held during the month under the auspices of the business men of the end of the city, is Miss Linda Olson, 2009 Piedmont aveune. Miss Olson is one of the most popular young women in the eastern part of the West end and will, it is predicted, be one of the leaders in the contest.

A great deal of interest is being taken in the proposed contest. Several other young women have been mentioned as candidate possibilities, and their names will probably be filed this afternoon at the Duluth State bank. The contest will come to a close on May 25.

Following the noon luncheon at the Rex hotel at 1 o'clock today, the plans of the parade and the May celebration to be held on May 28, will be thoroughly discussed. The committee has the plans well under way, and only a few details are left to be completed.

The noon luncheon was arranged by E. A. Thompson and Emil A. Nelson.

WEST END BUILDERS

The West end acquired an active worker when Emil A. Nelson decided to locate here. Mr. Nelson is one of the few business men of this end of the city who was born and raised in Duluth.

"I've got good reason to boost for Duluth," said Mr. Nelson yesterday afternoon. "Being born here, I am naturally proud of Duluth. Being in business in the West end, I also naturally think this is the brightest spot in Duluth, and unquestionably it is

LICENSES FOR PLUMBERS

Ordinance Calling for Examining Board Is Being Prepared.

A plumbing board to examine all applicants for a plumber's license and rules and regulations for the business in Duluth are included in the ordinance just prepared by members of the Duluth Plumbers' association and which will be submitted to the council at an early date by Mayor Prince.

For several years past local plumbers have asked for better legislation affecting their business and not until recently did the commission instruct the organization to prepare an ordinance favorable to the plumbers of the city. A copy of the bill was submitted yesterday to Mayor Prince and it is now in the hands of the city attorney, who will redraft it to fit the charter and other ordinances, before it is finally presented to the commissioners.

The principal feature of the ordinance is the proviso for a plumbing board, which meets with the approval of Mayor Prince. The board will consist of one master plumber to be selected by the local organization, one member of the inspection board of the water and light department and the city plumbing inspector. The members will be appointed by the council to serve two years. They will receive no pay.

Will Examine Applicants.

The ordinance provides that the board shall examine all applicants for licenses for master plumbers or journeymen. The former must answer questions relating to city laws and ordinances affecting the plumbing business, drainage rules and housing regulations, while a journeyman must prove himself a skilled mechanic. Masters will have to pay $5 and journeymen $1 for a license good for one year. A license can be revoked by the council if it is found that a plumber has violated any of the features of the ordinance.

Some of the most important features of the new ordinance follow:

Each building must be separately plumbed.

It shall be unlawful to employ unlicensed plumbers.

No person shall be appointed a city inspector unless he has five years' experience.

The plumbing inspector shall be appointed by the commissioner of public safety.

All plumbing work must undergo the 5-pound air or water test.

Underground sewers must not be nearer than two feet from a wall or in bad ground.

All pipes must be supported or properly secured.

All pipes must be free from defects and must be of the proper size set down by the ordinance.

All joints must be made with pure lead.

Every fixture must be trapped separately as near the fixture outlet as possible.

All refrigerator waste pipes must be of galvanized iron.

The inspector shall charge $1 for inspecting a drain and one fixture, 50 cents for each fixture up to ten and 25 cents for each fixture above ten.

For violating the ordinance there should be a fine not less than $5 and not more than $50 or imprisonment of from five to sixty days.

All former ordinances regulating the plumbing business are repealed.

Governor Vetoes Bill.

Columbus, Ohio, May 12.—Governor Willis today vetoed the bill which provided means for the participation by Ohio counties in the construction of a proposed Lake Erie and Ohio river canal. He held the bill was in conflict with Ohio's tax limitation statute.

DISLOYALTY WILL NOT BE TOLERATED

Strict loyalty to the new police regime will be required of officers on the force, when R. D. McKercher, newly appointed chief, takes office May 15. Commissioner of Public Safety Silberstein announced yesterday that loyalty would be a major requirement.

"If any officers or patrolmen are not satisfied with the new order of things under Mr. McKercher," he said, "I would be pleased to have their resignations, as disloyalty will not be tolerated. I have been given to understand that one or two members of the force are 'lukewarm' since Chief Troyer's resignation and 'might cause trouble.'

"Any man found guilty of disloyalty will be dropped."

Commissioner Silberstein stated that the present plans are to continue without radical changes in the personnel of the men handling the various departments. He said rumors of Capt. Fiskett's transfer from headquarters to New Duluth had no official foundation.

Jones Speaks to Suffragists

Tells of Employment Agencies and State Insurance Bills.

Senator Richard Jones, who explained that it was the second time he had spoken to an audience entirely of women, discussed the abolition of private employment agencies and the need for state insurance, at the meeting of the Duluth Woman's Suffrage association held yesterday afternoon in the library clubroom.

"It is fundamentally wrong for the worker to be obliged to pay for his or her job," he said. "This condition bears most heavily on the workers in the north woods. About 45,000 men are employed every winter in the lumber camps of Northern Minnesota, and the $1 employment ticket which they must pay before they get a job, added to the $1 a month hospital fee, 10 cents a month for mail, and $1.50 for the use of tools makes an unjust burden on the worker. It is difficult to get direct proof that the private employment agencies are in collusion with the foremen of camps, but it is generally supposed that the fees are split."

Senator Jones read a letter from Matthew Daly, who has had wide experience in lumber camps, telling how there are generally three crews for each camp, one coming, one going and one at work, and how crews when arbitrarily discharged can not find other employment without the private employment membership cards.

Not Confined to Lumber Camps.

These conditions are not confined to lumber camps, Senator Jones said, as several railroad foremen were discharged recently for co-ordinating with employment agencies.

Discussing the bill to abolish private employment agencies that was brought up at the last legislature, Senator Jones said:

"The committee members felt that the state employment offices were not equipped at this time to take care of labor adequately but the addition of Federal employment offices, recently established at the postoffices throughout the country, makes it certain that all labor could be cared for much better in this manner than under the present system which works so much injustice and actual hardship. Every postoffice of any importance is a free employment agency. Last week the Minneapolis postoffice sent seventeen men out to work on farms."

The need for further amendment to the employers' liability act was pointed out by the speaker who gave as examples of states where state insurance is of mutual benefit to employers and employes Ohio and Washington. "In both states," he said, "a per cent of the pay roll is paid to the insurance commission and the result in Ohio is that the employer pays one-half the rate paid by the Minnesota employers. In Ohio a compensation is paid after one week of inability to work, in Minnesota it is paid after two weeks. When an Ohio employe receives a permanent injury insurance is paid for life. I believe that inside four years Minnesota will have state insurance."

Senator Jones urged an education campaign on the suffrage question, saying that the pressure of public opinion will be the greatest force toward gaining the submitting of the question of equal suffrage rights to the people of Minnesota.

It was decided at the business meeting that preceded Senator Jones' talk to discontinue the meetings until September. Mrs. W. W. Lawrence, the president, appointed Dr. Mary McCoy chairman of a committee to take charge of special meetings that may be held in the summer.

Peggy Peabody's Observations

Women Are Deep Thinkers.

A prominent college professor is of the opinion that women do not do enough of the world's thinking. Just what he means by this is hard to state unless it is that most women do not concern themselves with what most men consider weighty matters. Perhaps he meant that we talk too much and that back of most of our talk there is very little to denote that we give much time to deep thought.

Women do not do enough of the world's thinking! Indeed! Well, I am sure that they do their share, though it is not of the order that receives the plaudits of the crowd or attracts the laurel wreaths to their brows. It is thought, nevertheless, that makes the great thoughts of the world possible. What is a woman doing when she is working and planning for the lives of her children? Is she not thinking something that is worth while, no matter how humble her plans, or how far from being realized they may be?

I know a mother fairly well along in years who did the washing, ironing and scrubbing in her family, to which duties she was unaccustomed, so that she might contribute $2 a week to her eldest son's tuition at a preparatory school in order that he might enter a famous medical school and become a surgeon. What the son finally did in the way of becoming a great surgeon is another story and one that does not do him credit. But don't you suppose that that mother thought things that were worth while as she bent over the washtub, and furthermore, did she not do someting that was worth while, even though the son was not equal to his part of it?

Perhaps you will say that this particular mother would have done better to let him earn the money for his tuition. I do not say that might not have been the easier way, but it is not the way of a mother's heart.

The women in the world have their minds fully taken up with the small matters of existence. Patching small trousers, darning stockings, frying doughnuts and baking gingerbread and otherwise stocking the larder, and answering the questions of their tiny offspring, give them plenty of food for thought. I cannot but see that it is the world's thought, for though it may be contemplated in lonely kitchens and in humble, quiet homes everywhere, and never discussed by those in whose hearts it has birth, it is no less truly the world's thought, and of exceeding use to the world.

Suggestions for the Sewing Room

Washington Star: When facing a circular skirt of transparent material it is much simpler to lay the material you are using as a facing over the hem of the skirt and shape accordingly, than it is to use a straight band which must be plaited at the top. It is always better, however, to cut skirts and tunics made of sheer materials sufficiently long, so as to turn a hem.

When sewing taffeta, use a thin, fine needle. The blunt end of a needle long used is liable to pucker the goods and the stitches will not be even. A heavier needle may be used in sewing china silk.

To tuck chiffon and other sheer materials, one must first baste every tuck, using dressmakers' pins, which are finer and sharper than the ordinary pin. Place the chiffon on the lapboard, hold it to the board with pins, lay the tuck with a measure and then pin and baste it in place. Lay all tucks, press the materials, and stitch.

An easy way of making hand tucks in lingerie is to crease the first tuck as usual for machine tucking and adjust the tucker, but do not thread the machine. Then run through the tucker. The needle will leave a distinct line along which to run your hand sewing. The marker also leaves a line for the next tuck. It is best to sew each tuck as it comes from the tucker, since handling obliterates the marks. This method insures absolute accuracy, with the daintiness of the hand sewing, and can be done in less than half the usual time.

Some women, when gathering a ruffle, make a long, loose stitch on the machine, place the edge to be gathered under the foot and sew it, then draw the upper thread until the ruffle has the desired fullness. This is a good way when one wants ruffles of varied fullnesses. A long piece of ruffling may be gathered at one time and then used as needed.

To properly shirr a wide skirt by hand, quarter the top and mark each quarter with a bright thread, then shirr each section separately. If you use three or four rows of shirring, use as many needles for the purpose. Start the first row, then the second and remaining ones. Run a few inches on the first row, follow it up with a second, etc. Draw up the threads and distribute the gathers by stroking them evenly into place with a needle. Remember, in distributing these small gathers, not to have each row the same length. An increase of one-half inch in each lower row is necessary to give the natural curve over the hips. If a heavy shirring is desired, make a short stitch and one long one. Continue so on each row. Fine stitching makes a more compact shirring.

Fine laces should be placed carefully on a frock, and all superfluous points and the like are slipped under slashes and stitched on the wrong side. Less valuable but expensive laces of other kinds and very gorgeous trimmings of odd shape and pattern are used in the same way. This keeps the pieces whole, and they may be used repeatedly.

MISS RAE TANZER IS INDICTED FOR PERJURY

New York, May 12.—Miss Rae Tanzer, who gained notoriety recently through her $50,000 breach of promise suit against James W. Osborne, a well-known criminal lawyer, which suit was subsequently withdrawn after the young woman had recanted her identification of Mr. Osborne as the man who had courted her, was again indicted today by the Federal grand jury for perjury. A previous indictment was found against Miss Tanzer on charges of using the mails to defraud.

The second indictment is based on testimony given during the recent trial of Frank D. Safford, a hotel clerk who had testified for Miss Tanzer at a hearing before United States Commissioner Houghton. Safford was convicted of perjury and was sentenced to nine months in the county jail.

Miss Tanzer, at Stafford's trial, reiterated her identification of James W. Osborne and testified that she was in his company at certain times.

The perjury indictment yesterday explains that on Nov. 29, 1914, when Miss Tanzer said she was in the lawyer's company in this city, James W. Osborne was in Providence, R. I.

A TIME TO BE CRITICAL.

Nobody likes the chronic faultfinder, though even he is not without his uses. If he wasn't such a nuisance he would have a great deal of value.

But there is always a time and a place for intelligent, constructive criticism—faultfinding—which is aimed at bettering that which it criticizes.

And now, in the middle of Duluth Clean-up and Paint-up Week, is just such a time.

Let everybody, at this stage of the game, become as critical as he pleases—ONLY HAVE THE CRITICISMS BEGIN AT HOME.

Have YOU done YOUR share of the work of Clean-up Week?

Is YOUR home place as spick and span and sightly as you can make it?

Is YOUR yard cleanly raked and seeded, the flower and vegetable beds neat and orderly with trim borders, the back yard clear of rubbish and confusion?

If your instinct is to start your criticism with your neighbor, look well at home to see if there is anything you can do to stir your neighbor into activity by the contrast between your home and his.

Clean-up Week is a time for criticism, but let it be self-criticism first. Let your first question be: Have I done all I can? Maybe, even though you have skimmed over the work, the answer to that question will keep you so busy you will find no time for the other question: Has my neighbor done all he should?

McKercher is making a most excellent beginning.

"SAFETY FIRST."

Disregarding utterly the right or wrong of Germany's act in sinking a ship full of noncombatants—men, women and children—and leaving to the president the expression of the nation's opinion of this act, there are at least two things that can be done to avert a possible repetition of this tragic horror.

One is, as the Chicago Tribune suggests, to take steps "to discourage or prevent the transportation of American citizens on ships carrying arms and munitions of war."

The other is for American citizens to stay at home.

No matter how much blame may in the last analysis be attached to Germany for her apparent disregard of accepted rules of civilized warfare, the British government cannot be acquitted of blame for permitting the transportation of neutral passengers and war supplies in the same vessel.

Nor, putting aside sentiment, is it easy to evade the conclusion that Americans who take passage on vessels threatened with destruction, and inviting destruction because they carry arms or ammunition that are to be used to destroy the enemies of the flag that flies over such vessels, take this step at their own risk.

Americans who went to Mexico when anarchy ruled that land took the hazard voluntarily, and there were many who held that they had no right to expect that American troops should follow to protect them and their investments. This contention is very largely true of those who take their lives in their hands and venture upon the soil of war-mad Europe.

Europe is no place for a pleasure trip, and will not be for many years even if the war should cease tomorrow. Neither is it a suitable place for a business trip except to those who are willing to risk their lives for business. Those who travel to Europe on business do so knowing the risks that attach to the adventure. If they wish to assume these risks, that is their business. They have no right to risk as well the peace of their country.

No more passengers should be carried on vessels carrying contraband of war. We know now what is likely to happen to them. Whether what may happen to them is moral or civilized, and whatever one may think of those who make it happen, the ugly fact is patent to everybody. Nobody has a right, then, to imperil the peace of the United States by facing these perils wantonly.

Does Commissioner Merritt expect the conductors to use a jitney for that trip he suggested?

IT GETS ON THE NERVES.

Did you ever encounter, directly or indirectly, somebody whose incessant clamor finally became so wearisome that your every nerve shrieked for help whenever you heard him?

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt commented at Syracuse last night on the president's Philadelphia speech. He commented in a sarcastic vein. He spoke of it as a "stall." He compared this country with China, as Republicans seeking to snatch party advantage even in the teeth of a national crisis are fond of doing. He told bombastically what ought to be done, and done right away, just as thousands of corner store loafers the country over are doing every hour; intimating, of course, that this is what HE would be doing if he were president.

All this despite the fact that there was utterly no warrant for anybody to take the Philadelphia speech as an indication of the president's intentions, and in utter disregard of the further fact that the president emphatically stated yesterday that what he said in Philadelphia the night before was not in any sense a reflection of the intended policy of the government.

The Colonel will find himself grating on the national nerves if he does not have a care.

And there's Borah—Senator Borah, described as a "Republican presidential possibility"—who came out the day after the Lusitania tragedy with a contemptible whine about the administration's policy, manifestly designed to discredit the Democratic president and to make capital for the Republican party out of a desperately critical juncture. This interview alone is enough to put this Borah person out of the running for any responsible public office.

On the other hand Herman Ridder, the chief and ablest spokesman for the German-American sentiment of the country, comes flatly out with this, which sounds much better and affords a pleasant relief from the pugnacious, war-at-any-cost, whingwhanging of the hero of San Juan: "I speak for myself, and I believe for the great majority of German-Americans, when I say that we are with the president of the United States to the finish in all matters affecting national honor or national prestige."

Is there any possible relation between THE Colonel's present belligerency and the fact that he once went down in a submarine?

OUT-RAFFLING RAFFLES

No doubt the originator of "Raffles" thought he had done something very clever and unusual and daring. And it must be conceded that he got credit for having done so, and perhaps he even succeeded in convincing some people that fiction is stranger than truth.

But Mr. Hornung had nothing whatever on Henry Carlton Carlyle—soldier, officer, traveler, impersonator, swindler and bigamist—who at present is sojourning in New York pending the disposition of certain little matters there, after which he anticipates a quick and final trip to dear old England.

Carlyle (the very name stamps him as remarkable, though not necessarily in the way he achieved remarkableness) arrived in this country some weeks ago and announced himself as Sir Henry L. Stirling, Bart., K. G. M. G. Boston received him in most kindly fashion, especially when he stirred the romantic highbrows with a story of having fallen in love with a picture and traveled twelve thousand miles to marry the original. Imagine that of Boston!

Having played with Boston romanticism till he got tired of it, he went to New York, where he excited the imaginations of the populace with stories of a commission to buy a "submarine detector" for the British government. (Note how well he knew the characteristics of the places he visited—romance in Boston, commerce in New York.)

But he had yet another card that he knew New Yorkers would follow suit on—he advertised for a young woman to serve as traveling secretary to an English nobleman and "companion to a titled lady." Several young women sought the position, paid a little money to ensure something or other, and later found themselves stung. They complained to Uncle Sam, who took Carlyle into custody and got him to admit his identity, the falseness of his claims, the possession (?) of two wives and a record of desertion from the British army accompanied by certain funds that had been placed in his keeping.

When Uncle Sam is through with Mr. Carlyle, the probabilities are that that ingenious person will be returned to England and shot for deserting in time of war. That may be the law, and right and just and all that; but it does seem like a deplorable waste of perfectly good human ingenuity.

"Pop! Pop!" says Teddy.

People and President

Baltimore American (Rep.): Nothing is more curious than the misapprehension that outcrops at times among foreigners that a fundamental distinction may be drawn between the head of the American people and the American people themselves; and that in international matters a condition of strain may be created between the two. Any superficial student of the American political system knows what Mr. Wilson recently said is literally true with respect to all international matters, that he cannot do anything other than what the people empower him to do. He is empowered in the present state of the world to preserve the principle of neutrality between the warring nations. This he has done so rigidly that the British critics charged that he was bending backward in his efforts to preserve the record clear with regard to neutrality matters in discussions with their country.

Mr. Wilson has been neutrally correct to the very last detail in all his transactions with the powers at war. He has failed to please any of them. But he has mightily pleased the American people. These are as ready to resent affronts from one side as the other, and as ready to deplore occasion for resentment. It would be highly unfortunate for either side to single itself out for different treatment than that which the head of the nation and the state department have uniformly given it. This is the treatment of uncolored neutrality.

There is no more possibility of the administration yielding to pressure to have the country show partiality to one or the other side than there is of the Constitution of the United States failing to command the devotion of the American people and their allegiance to the ministers who are charged with its execution. The United States of America is wholly apart from the exhibition of shameful and unredeemed animosity and world criminality that is in progress upon the other side of the water. It is a war that ought never to have been, and from which it is difficult to perceive any lasting good result. To the American sentiment the exhibition is revolting to the sensibilities and the principles of justice and humanity upon which the United States is founded and which it uniformly seeks to illustrate. It would be unthinkable for this country to exhibit sympathies in the strife.

A Budget of Merriment.

From the London Telegraph:

Bulls and Blunders, Spice for Speeches: being a selection embracing every phase of humor and wit, by J. C. Percy, London, Macredy, Percy & Co., is is net.

This is a second gleaning, and in some respects equal to the first made by Mr. Percy, entitled "Bulls: Ancient and Modern." Here again is a big, full, budget of merriment and jollity—some hundreds of jokes, quips and humorous catches; all bright, many brilliant, scarcely any old, and not a single one impeachable.

A little girl, glancing at Mr. Percy's first book, misread the title, "Hymns, Ancient and Modern;" and when corrected, her little brother came to the rescue with the suggestion that, after all, a "Bull" is a "him."

As a fact, the Chatty Children's Chapter of this new volume is one of the best parts in it, and certainly one of the best collections of juvenile wit ever made:

Can God do everything Pa?
Yes, my boy, everything.
Can he make a clock strike less than one?

There are two good fishing stories. One about a boy who being asked which of the Biblical parables he liked the best, answered: "That one where somebody loafs and fishes."

The other is:

For shame, my lad! What have these poor little fish done to be imprisoned on the day of rest?
That's what they get for chasing worms on a Sunday, sir.

Here is another good story of a different sort:

"We owe a great deal to the Jews," said a Zionist orator.
"We do, we do," answered a voice from the back.

A native clerk in Calcutta, having made a report to a high official, was asked how he was received by the great man: "In the language of your Shakespeare, he praised me with faint damns," was the reply. Possibly he was a brother to the Hindu baker in Bombay, who advertised himself a "first-class British loafer."

A college professor, lecturing his class, found them inattentive and anxious to be free. "One minute longer," said he. "I have still a few more pearls to cast."

Mr. Percy's volume is a health giver, and very pleasant to take.

As Health to "Also Ran."

You have drunk, O my friends, to the victors,
You have toasted the valiant and strong;
To the great of the earth you have drunk in your mirth,
To the wise you have lifted your song.
It is well—they are worthy, my brothers,
As aught that the heavens span.
But here's to a health of the others—
A health to—Also Ran.

To the men who went down in the struggle,
To the runners who finished unpaced,
To the weak and the young, the unknown, the unsung,
The depraved, the oppressed, the disgraced:
Who are you that should dare to reject them?
Do you know what the handicap weighed?
Did you suffer the pain, run the race, stand the strain,
That you scoff at the pace that they made?

It may be that they ran overweighted,
It may be they were left at the post—
Far or near, 'tis to them, the ill-fated,
We bow and drink a toast.
By all that has e'er helped to sweeten
Your lives; by your hope and your plan,
Stand up—raise your glass to the beaten,
With good health to—Also Ran.
—Saturday Night.

Will Dampen Their Enthusiasm.

New York World: Some of the enthusiasm for war as a source of company profits may subside if the British government adopts the suggested plan of appropriating two-thirds of the surplus profits made by firms producing war goods.

The Colonel and the Boss

By Savoyard.

Washington, May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Col. Roosevelt must now realize that it is a hazardous practice—writing letters. Donn Platt opined that it was only a natural born fool who would call to his aid pen, ink and paper when making love to a fair lady, and the litigations and adjudications of hundreds of courts of justice in our fair land, having jurisdictions of lawsuits growing out of breaches of promise of marriage and proceedings in chancery growing out of bills in equity praying for divorce, show the wholesomeness of Platt's philosophy.

"O, damn him, he writes letters," was the explanation Henry Clay gave for an excoriation he administered to James Buchanan in the United States senate one day when Martin Van Buren was president. And a letter that same Henry Clay wrote cost him the presidency a few years later. James G. Blaine was too ready with the pen for his own good. Had he never written the "Mulligan Letters" it is a certainty that he would have been president.

Few Americans have written more voluminously than Theodore Roosevelt. He is an impulsive man, audacious in the extreme, and much given to going off at half cock. His letters to Tom Platt, the boss of the G. O. P. of the Empire state for many years, are now public property and will require a great deal of explaining if the Colonel is to remain in politics with any hope of success. They show that while he was governor he was as much the instrument of Platt as Odell, or Higgins, or Black, or any of the others. Nay, at the suggestion of Platt the Colonel plowed with the Tammany heifer and appointed to important office a Democrat to please Grady, who fetched and carried for Dick Croker.

Again Roosevelt, the immaculate, severely criticized Governor Hughes. For what? Because the governor would not take orders from the bosses who made him governor. Contrast Roosevelt's attitude toward Platt with Tilden's toward John Kelly, with Cleveland's toward Tammany, with Woodrow Wilson's toward Jim Smith, if you would discover the difference there is between a true reformer and a sham reformer.

And Roosevelt was just as thick with Barnes as Brindle with Cherry. He explains it by saying that the boss was a dual character made up of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. He hoped to reform Mr. Barnes and became a missionary to the heathen. The result reminds of a story I one day heard of the late Ben Butterworth tell in a speech in congress. His parents were Quakers, most excellent folk, and they sought to rear their son according to the strict Quaker notion of this life and how to live it. But when Ben got to be 17 or 18 years of age he gave evidences of recalcitrancy that alarmed his parents, who consulted about it, and the father, at the suggestion of the mother, appointed himself to argue the point with his son. At it they went, hammer and tongs. For several evenings, when the boy so confounded his dad with his preachments that the faith of the old man was a little shaken. Not so the mother and this is the way she rebuked her spouse:

"Thee's a nice one to send to convert the heathen and here thee returns a heathen theeself!"

Roosevelt went out to convert the bosses and the outcome was that the bosses converted him and he was as supple in their hands as they would have him be. The correspondence with Platt is a startling revelation and is certain to do the Colonel immense harm.

Since his return from the African hunt Roosevelt has gone from blunder to blunder. All he had to do to remain the first citizen of the republic—the first citizen of the world, as some put it—was to demean himself in private as has his predecessors who survived their labors. But he was not built that way. He thought he saw a chance to again become president and cast his hat in the ring in February, 1912. He miscalculated. He expected the Democrats at Baltimore to fling the fat in the fire. Had he believed Wilson would be nominated he would have remained in retirement and there would have been no Progressive party. By this time he would have become the only possible candidate for the Republican nomination in 1916. The Platt letters would not have been made public, his popularity would have remained at its zenith, and he would have been a most formidable candidate.

But vaulting ambition overleaps itself. The Colonel could not wait till the pear was ripe. He plucked it green with most disastrous result to his party and to himself. Yet Roosevelt will not be without a following, but that following will be much smaller than it was. The difficulty with the man is that he lets I dare not wait on I would, though the character he has made leads the superficial observer to think that he dares to do that which might well appal the devil.

There is little doubt that Roosevelt saw the evils that had grown up, but he did not have the strength or the will to eradicate them. He knew that Platt had made him governor. He knew that Plattism was vicious, but he surrendered to it. He saw the evils of monopoly, and gladly he would have smitten it and reformed its mischief, but Wall Street had contributed enormously to his $3,000,000 campaign fund in 1904 and so he was weak enough to allow the Steel trust to absorb the Tennessee Coal & Iron company in plain defiance of law.

He had faith, plenty of it, but his works were deficient, and yet he earned the public gratitude. Had he not sounded the alarm when he did, soon after he was elected president in 1904, the Democratic party would not have been able to perform the immense labor of reform it has under the lead of Woodrow Wilson since 1913.

Let us give the Colonel credit for that.

Canadians Are Democratic.

Collier's Weekly: In England they tell some good stories about the Canadian volunteers who have what the British consider extremely democratic notions. Officers and men fraternize much as they do in American volunteer organizations and the British officers consider this detrimental to discipline. To illustrate the independence of the Canadian private they tell the story of a sentry on duty one dark night. Some one approached his post and he challenged:

"Who goes there?"
"Scott Guard," was the reply.
"Pass, Scott Guard," said the sentry.
Soon another soldier approached.
"Who goes there?" came the challenge.
"King's Own," was the reply.
A third man came along.
"Who goes there," shouted the sentry.
"None of your —— business," came back.
"Pass, Canadian," retorted the sentry.

The Efficiency and Economy Bill

Gunnar B. Bjornson in Minneota Mascot.

That "efficiency and economy" will be the one overshadowing issue in the next state campaign there is now every reason to believe.

That the cumbersome, overlapping, inadequate and antiquated system of state government now in operation in this state will have to be overhauled and reorganized along modern and up-to-date lines is generally admitted by all those who give the subject any serious thought.

That it was a matter of politics, and poor politics at that, that this organization was not effected at the recent session of the legislature is only too well known.

The men responsible for the defeat of the so-called efficiency and economy bill will wake up next election and find that they have been playing poor politics.

No one will contend that the bill in question contained the last word to be said on the subject of state reorganization but the thing to do was to improve the bill, wherever it was deficient, not to kill it.

The men who opposed the efficiency and economy bill not only played poor politics, but they displayed a selfish and shortsighted policy that the people of the state will neither condone or indorse.

That men outside of the legislature were responsible for the defeat of this measure will not be denied by anyone conversant with the facts. That these men were actuated by purely selfish motives, and an unwillingness to take a broad view of the whole situation will be demonstrated whenever the subject becomes an issue before the electors of the state.

The time has come when the state government must be organized along business lines.

It is not enough to single out a department here and a department there and adjust and reorganize on the installment plan.

What is needed is a thorough overhauling of every department and a reorganization that will make a corelated whole out of the present unrelated parts.

Only by such a system, a system that takes in every department, can a lasting and substantial improvement be gained.

It was a poor policy to play politics with the "efficiency and economy" bill.

There are some things that should not be made the football of politics.

Just a Moment

Daily Strength and Cheer.

Compiled by John G. Quintius, the Sunshine Man.

One word that our Lord Jesus came to earth especially to emphasize is the word "Father." As applied to God it was almost unknown before He came. Heathen religions were ignorant of it, and even the Old Testament knows comparatively little of God as the Father of His people. He is the Shepherd, the Shield, the Sun, the High Tower, the Rock of our defense, and a hundred other names are His in the Psalms and the prophets; but, it was for Christ to reveal and emphasize the new and more blessed name, "Our Father."

On a railway journey I have just read through the Gospel of Matthew with this in view, to find how often Christ uses the word "Father" when speaking of God or to Him and I find that no less than thirty-six times in this one Gospel is this word used.—Children of God.

In all labor there is profit.—Prov. xiv, 33.

Work is the grand cure of all the maladies and miseries that ever beset mankind—honest work, which you intend getting done.—Carlyle.

They gave their own selves to the Lord, and to us.—II Cor. viii, 5.

Before the world owes a man a living, he, himself, owes the world a life.—William T. Ellis, Dayton, Ohio.

Twisted Tongues.

Philadelphia Ledger: Who has not, in an unlucky instant of tongue twist, been guilty of a ludicrous inversion now and then? Sympathy is extended to the Boston teacher who, after lecturing her class of girls against slang, took them to the Egyptian archeological section of the Museum of Fine Arts and exclaimed with enthusiasm: "See the bully of a sacred mum!" An Oxford tutor, Spooner by name, became famous for such mistakes. Addressing an agricultural convention, he amiably declared: "I'm glad to see many tons of soil assembled." But that was not worse than the case of the clergyman who shocked his congregation by changing "loving shepherd" into "shoving leopard" in describing the attributes of the Deity.

A nervous actor who was supposed to say that he had "only two bags and a rug," when questioned regarding the luggage brought with him, provoked Homeric mirth in the audience by answering "two rags and a bug." The polite orator meant to say to a woman's rights meeting that he was afraid of talking to "weary benches," and said "beery wenches" instead.

The little pixies of the types that bring confusion to the proud climaxes and swelling periods of an unlucky editor by making him say something tragically different from what he put on paper offer many a parallel for these oratorical mishaps. One who writes enjoys no immunity from the mortification of being made to seem and to feel foolish by letters and words that leap out of their proper juxtapositions to bring discomfiture to the unwary.

National Geographic Society: Out of 11,370 square miles of territory occupied by Belgium before the present war, less than three hundred square miles thereof is still held by the Belgians and their allies. The normal population of the part of the country still held by the Belgians is only 100,000, while the peace population of the whole country was more than 7,000,000.

All of Belgium's cities, commerce, industry and resources of mine and timber lands now lie behind the German lines, which sweep from Westende, on the North sea, to Basle, where the Rhine leaves Switzerland for Germany.

Independent Belgium today is a thin strip of land wedged into the French department of Pas-de-Calais. This area is the sand dune, infertile, low-lying, sparsely populated part of Belgium. Antwerp, Brussels, Liege, Ghent, Charleroi, Louvain, Namur, Ostend, Malines and some score of other important cities of the low country are under German domination. In that strip of territory which the allies defend there is not a single city with 20,000 population, and there are but ten small towns in all the section.

The Late Unlamented State Legislature

Suggestions and Comments From the State Press.

Too Much to Expect.

Holdingsford Advertiser: It has been many a session since the state had as poor an aggregation of lawmakers as this. But it was hardly to be expected that the quality of the two previous sessions could be expected to keep up indefinitely. A slump had to occur sooner or later.

Not Quite Bad.

Bemidji Sentinel: Old Father Time has whirled the thirty-ninth legislative session into history. A peep at the records would indicate that in volume the legislature which gave its last kick recently lacks by several bushels the amount of legislation of its predecessors, but it has somewhat made up in quality what it has lacked in quantity. Not much really vicious legislation, aside from a few punk appropriations, appears to have squeezed through, although some of the members had excellent intentions along that line. Some most worthy statutes were picked in the bud and for this the house is mostly to blame. The members, elected as non-partisans, paid little or no attention to would-be leaders, and were found to abide by a fixed program in just about the same manner that a Missouri mule abides by your request to shake hands with its hind hoof. In fact, it is the house of 1915 that will live longest in memory. The house dearly loved disorder. Most of the time it had chaos looking like an old maid's parlor when the minister calls. It could make more noise than an M. & I. cattle train going over the Turtle river trestle, but like Towser of old, its bark was worse than its bite. All told, however, the legislature of 1915 could have been worse—much worse.

Cause of Danger Removed.

Little Falls Transcript: There is ever a modicum of comfort to be found. Now that the non-partisan legislature has passed into history the danger that always threatens an honest and innocent constituency of being made the victim of unwise and ill-directed legislation is for a time removed.

Only "Maybe."

St. Cloud Times: "It might have been" different if Governor Hammond had adopted the custom of President Wilson and had made frequent visits to the house, poured oil upon the troubled waters, and made the quarreling members behave.

An Expensive Lesson.

Wabasha Herald: The state legislature has adjourned and the state is still safe, thank God. The senate did fairly well, but the house seemed to be unwieldy with its many members, a considerable number of whom were not elected because of their special fitness as legislators, but went to the marble walls on just one issue, that of county option, whether for or against. The result is an expensive lesson to the people.

Individuals Different in the Mass.

Hutchinson Leader: The closing hours of the legislature were marked by turmoil, filibuster, confusion and dissension. It is a condition and an atmosphere not at all conducive to sound and sane legislation. Bills, instead of being considered in calm deliberation, were disposed of by the dictates of passion and prejudice. Much business failed utterly of any consideration whatever. The fault lay largely with the house, which in supreme indifference to its obligation, frittered away its valuable time in fruitless wrangling and debate. There is more or less of this in every session, but it is said that the present session was about the limit in these deficiencies—and it was made up of good men, too. It is difficult to fathom the mental processes of men in the mass. As individuals, they were good, sensible men, but as a body they exhibited strange and freakish traits.

Ranks Way Down.

Bemidji Pioneer: Minnesota's Thirty-ninth legislature, the only non-partisan body of its kind in the United States, is now history, its record in regard to accomplishments ranking far below that of previous sessions. As a constructive, law-making body it must be referred to as a failure. But few bills of a truly important nature have been made laws, while many bad measures were lost by the wayside.

Worked at Sixes and Sevens.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: The first experiment with a non-partisan legislature has not resulted in the highest degree of success. There were some able men in the house, among the most prominent being Spooner and Gordon, but they appeared to have been working against each other instead of together for the benefit of the state. The house members appeared to be unfortunate in the choice of a speaker, who, while a good citizen, was poorly equipped to be presiding officer, and who lacked executive force. The senate was much better governed, and was a body of exceptional ability. It was also fortunate in having an excellent presiding officer in Lieutenant Governor Burnquist. The Journal-Press has favored a short ballot for state officers and the election of the speaker of the house by the people, to prevent the usual trades in packing committees, which is a handy weapon for selfish interests. As a whole the non-partisan legislature was not very much of a success, but perhaps with experience the people will use better judgment in after years in electing really representative representatives.

Making a Memory.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: President Wilson has signed an executive order changing the name of Culebra cut to Gaillard cut. The great work is thus made a monument to a faithful American soldier, whose name is unfamiliar to most Americans, but who should be known and honored by all Americans.

Col. David du Bose Gaillard was a member of the isthmian canal commission, and he was specifically in charge of the central division of the zone, extending from Gatun to Pedro Miguel. He was the man who had direct charge of the work at Culebra. For six years he labored in the unhealthy climate, persisting in carrying through the work he had undertaken in spite of the advice of friends and physicians. His health was undermined, and he died in 1913, a martyr to duty, and as true a hero as any man who ever wore the uniform of the United States.

Inasmuch as Col. Gaillard's name is almost unknown to the nation it is well that his memory be made certain by an enduring monument, and his own work is the greatest and fittest of monuments. Just now, when Europe is producing her heroes of war, her heroes of destruction, it is peculiarly pleasing to honor the memory of a soldier of peace, a hero who constructed.

Twenty Years Ago

From The Herald of this date, 1895.

G. H. Feldtman, American manager for the English Land corporation of England, which controls a large part of Isle Royale, has entered into a contract with Frank M. Zeller of this city whereby the latter and his associates purchase all the marketable pine and hardwood on that island, subject to payment when manufactured ready for shipment. Mr. Zeller will organize a stock company and a large hardwood mill on the island. Isle Royale contains from 10,000,000 to 15,000,000 feet of cork pine and about 50,000,000 feet of hardwood, the latter consisting mostly of curly black birch which is largely employed in the manufacture of furniture. Duluth parties have offered to put in a sawmill capable of taking care of all the pine. On the mainland of Minnesota, only a few miles distant, there is pine to the extent of 100,000,000 feet which can be logged, towed to the island and manufactured cheaply.

Mrs. Mary E. Cameron of Detroit, Mich., yesterday attempted to commit suicide by throwing herself into the Fifth avenue slip. After being in the water a short time she was discovered by some men employed in the rear of the Stone-Ordean company's building, was rescued and taken to St. Luke's hospital. ENOUGH HORROR IN REAL LIFE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

"To what advantage does an audience, severally and collectively, gaze upon the representation of the agonies of human beings in a railroad wreck? One of the cleverest pictures of a horrible accident which present day photography makes possible, aided by the talent of experienced actors who portray with astounding realism the pain, fright and misery of wounded and dying in that unspeakable chaos—a wrecked train in deep water!

Is it a benefit to humanity to deepen in our minds the almost universal fear of death? Does such a film increase or decrease our philosophy of life here and hereafter, or reassure us as regards our own passing on?

Fear—deadly, benumbing fear—has a deterrent effect upon the mental and spiritual life. Few of us are spared the experience of the comparatively peaceful death moments of our own loved ones. Many of us are striving to regain our courage after such experiences. Need there be thrust upon the public the vision of wholesale death in one of its most terrifying aspects?

There is now prevalent so much of disquiet, so much of horror, so much of violence in the world. Need we seek for such in our moments of relaxation?

Rather let us seek for that which will prove an antidote—restore a mental balance in that audience, severally and collectively.

The public receives that which it demands.

Booker Preston, Superior—Please tell us the meaning of "S. O. S." Why was "C. Q. D." abolished?—Some operators say "S. O. S." stands for "Save our ship," or "Send out succor." It was adopted at an international convention in Berlin a few years ago as a universal call for help by wireless operators. It is an easy call to send and to keep repeating. "C. Q. D." was the old call. "C. Q." is the general call for any purpose, and probably originally stood for "Come quickly." Operators added the "D" for "danger" in the distress signal. The reason for the change is not known, unless it was the desire to get a call that would be easy to send, that would differ widely from the general call and would be universally recognized.

S. G.—Would you please answer this in the Open Court, a cribbage problem? —A plays a 4-spot, B plays a 5 spot, C plays a 6-spot, which gives him 15-2, with a run of 3 or 5 points. D has no more cards, A is also out of cards. B plays a 5-spot, his last card. What does B make? Please answer today.—One, only, for the last card.

What the Child Is Learning

Second Grade.

When the boy and girl finish their first year in the public schools and start out with their books under their arms early in September they begin the task of reviewing the things learned in the first two terms.

Second grade work is very similar to that of the first grade, although the most difficult of the three R.'s, 'rithmetic, is more in evidence than before. Two times two is four in the B second grade, as the child learns, and three times three is nine.

Beyond the third table, as it is called, he does not go until the last term of his second year, when addition, subtraction and multiplication add to his troubles. The multiplication tables, up to six, are taught in addition nine is the largest figure used.

Many poems and songs are memorized, as this work is one of the most characteristic features of the early grade work. "The Village Blacksmith" by Longfellow, is learned "by heart," as is "I'll Tell You How the Leaves Came Down," "Great, Wide, Beautiful, Wonderful World," "Hang Up the Baby's Stocking."

"Black Beauty" and "Beautiful Joe" are read for the first time in class, the reading list including other stories dear to the hearts of American children, such as "The Ugly Duckling," "Jack and the Bean Stalk," and Louise Alcott's "Little Men" and "Little Women."

In the geography class pupils learn to model objects from sand. They study a panoramic picture of Duluth; and they begin to learn about the streets and avenues.

Spelling grows more difficult and must be both oral and written. Frightened, beautiful, squirrel, rhyme, tortoise, caterpillar, chariot, and scalding are representative words.

In history class the story of Ponce de Leon, Balboa, Miles Standish, Samoset and Massasoit, Fulton and the steamboat, and the Boston tea party are told for the first time. Magellan, de Sota, John Smith, Pocahontas, Paul Revere and Israel Putnam also are introduced to the second graders before June.

SUBMARINES GIVEN ORDERS

German Commanders Instructed Not to Harm Neutral Vessels.

Note to United States Says Payment Will Be Made If Done.

Washington, May 12.—Germany, through Ambassador Gerard, yesterday notified the United States that submarine commanders had been specifically instructed not to harm neutral vessels not engaged in hostile acts; and that Germany would pay for damages to such ships in the war zone.

Neutral ships, carrying contraband, will be dealt with, the announcement says, according to the rules of naval warfare. If neutral ships are accidentally damaged in the war zone Germany will express its regret and pay damages without prize court proceedings.

Justifies Warfare.

The German government justifies its submarine warfare on the grounds that England is threatening to starve the civilian population of Germany by prohibiting neutral commerce in foodstuffs and other necessaries.

In previous communications Germany has disclaimed responsibility for any harm that might befall neutral vessels venturing into the war zone.

The text of the announcement cabled by Ambassador Gerard, which was issued by the Berlin foreign office in the form of a circular, follows:

Text of Note.

"First: Imperial German government naturally has no intention of causing to be attacked by submarines or aircraft such neutral ships of commerce in the zone of naval warfare definitely described in the notice of the German admiralty staff of Feb. 4 last as have been guilty of no hostile act. On the contrary, the most definite instructions repeatedly have been issued to German war vessels to avoid attacks on such ships under all circumstances. Even when such ships have contraband of war on board they are dealt with by submarines solely according to the rule of international law applying to prize warfare.

"Two: Should a neutral ship nevertheless come to harm through German submarines or aircraft on account of an unfortunate (*) in the above mentioned zone of naval warfare the German government will unreservedly recognize its responsibility therefore. In such a case it will express its regrets and afford damages without first instituting a prize court action.

To Investigate.

"Three: It is the custom of the German government as soon as the sinking of a neutral ship in the above mentioned zone of naval warfare is ascribed to German war vessels to institute an immediate investigation into the cause. If grounds appear thereby to be given for association of such a hypothesis, the German navy places itself in communication with the interested neutral government so that the latter may also institute an investigation.

"If the German government is thereby convinced that the ship has been destroyed by German war vessels, it will not delay in carrying out the provisions of paragraph 2 above. In case the German government, contrary to the viewpoint of the neutral government is not convinced by the result of the investigation, the German government has also already on several occasions declared itself ready to allow the question to be decided by the international investigation commission, according to Chapter 3 of The Hague convention of Oct. 18, 1907, for the peaceful solution of international disputes."

VOICE CONFIDENCE IN THE PRESIDENT

Territorial Pioneers at Annual Meeting Vote to Uphold Executive.

St. Paul, Minn., May 12.—A resolution adopted unanimously here yesterday by the Minnesota Territorial Pioneers' association, voiced confidence in President Wilson in his treatment of the delicate international situation that has arisen from the sinking of the Lusitania, and by speeches intimated a desire for peace if it could be assured without lowering the dignity of the United States.

The pioneers were in session to celebrate the fifty-seventh anniversary of the admission of Minnesota to the union.

Mill City Man President.

Officers were elected at a business session as follows:

Moses P. Hayes, Minneapolis, president; Frank Ford, Newport, vice president; John Stees, St. Paul, treasurer; and George Hazzard, St. Paul, secretary.

The next session of the territorial pioneers will be held here May 11, 1916.

The Territorial Pioneers Women's club also was in session here yesterday. Mrs. Jennie Pratt, Minneapolis, was chosen president for the ensuing year.

DULUTH IDEA OF LAKE RATE

Suggestions Made By Julius Barnes, Testifying in Lines Divorcement.

Lays Bare Ancient Methods of Package Freight Lines and Reasons.

Regarding the divorcement of railroads and lake lines, which seems about to be ordered by the interstate commerce commission, Julius H. Barnes of Duluth, testifying before the commission in February, 1914, offered suggestions to overcome the evil of lake and rail combination, which suggestions he termed "the Duluth idea," and which seemed to deeply impress the members.

The matter of divorcing the lines was up, and Mr. Barnes, appearing for the traffic commission of the Duluth Commercial club, of which he was chairman, told forcefully of the handicaps maintained in the shipping of package freight on the Great Lakes in order that the lake lines would never be in actual competition with the all-rail routes. He spoke of the ancient system of loading and unloading package freighters that is maintained because the lines do not want more economical and time-saving devices to reduce the freights; and declared that American ingenuity which would provide for a better system is held back, not because there is no place for it, but because it is not wanted. Part of Mr. Barnes' statement before the commission follows:

Private Capital Available.

"As to the divorcement of the package lines, I think there will be plenty of independent capital to operate on the Erie canal, when it is assured of a chance to actually operate. I think there will be plenty of capital to enter the transportation of the package freight on the Great Lakes, when it is properly assured of an interchange of traffic with the roads at each end of the lakes. I wish that the railroad owners of these lake lines would take a larger view of the operation of the lake carrying. I think they could perform a great public service which they do not do.

"I think no one factor has been so great in the development of the whole United States as that of the Great Lakes. I do not believe that the West and the Northwest could have competed in the raising of wheat with the pauper labor of Russia, India and Argentina except for the cheap transportation afforded by these lakes. I do not think the American iron and steel trade could have ever obtained the mastery of the steel trade except for the cheap transportation of those lakes.

"I do not believe the East could have constructed homes as cheaply as they have if it were not for the cheap transportation afforded for the products of the western forests. I do not believe the western factories could have been maintained if it were not for the cheap fuel which they have been able to obtain by reason of this great waterway. I doubt if the railroads could have gotten the great tonnage which they now handle if it were not for this waterway.

Special Steamers Needed.

"But in the face of all this, we find an advancing scale on that form of traffic which moves in boxes and bales and packages, and which needs a special type of steamer to carry it. In order to compete on this traffic, not only is one compelled to build a special type of steamer, without asurance that he will be able to compete for the other type of traffic, because the type of vessel that is suitable for package freight is not suitable for grain, coal and ore, because the unloading apparatus does not work as well with boats with decks as boats with open hulls.

"I believe that a properly and scientifically suitable water-carrying business on the Great Lakes could cut the charges so largely it would be almost unbelievable. For instance, there is a large eastbound traffic in flour. I believe a properly devised boat, properly devised terminals and proper cars could place that type of freight from the car to the boat and the boat to the car again for 25 per cent of the present handling charges.

> "The package freight on the lakes is taken on and off boats today by hand trucks, the same as forty years ago. The handling of coal and the handling of ore and grain has been systematized and cheapened until it has set a standard for the world.

Ingenuity Handicapped.

"But how are we going to get the same American ingenuity to effect a cheapening in the transportation of general freight, when the interests of the owners of that general freight transportation line lie in keeping the water transportation just as near the rail cost as possible?

"I have some theories that I believe would correct the situation. I believe, in the first place, that what I call the 'Duluth theory' of water rates ought to be accepted.

"The railroad claims its rates are made on two factors, the value of the service and the cost of the service. When you try to get the cost of the service, it is confused in trying to apportion among its different classes of traffic the money expended—the large investments in highways and terminals. In the case of the lake highway, the highway belongs to the people, and the value of the service belongs to the owners. The cost of the service can be definitely ascertained to the fraction of a cent on every class of commodity they put on the boats.

"I believe water rates should be framed without regard to the competitive railroad rates; that each operator on that waterway should be entitled to the cost of operation plus a fair return on the investment in equipment only. Your water rates made on that principle would be very much more economical than the rail rates. Operated on that plan today, ore and coal and grain rates on water-borne traffic do not exceed one-tenth the rail rate between Duluth and Buffalo.

> "If the railroad wishes to continue to operate on the old, cumbersome and expensive method, it would be at their expense, and not ours.

Suggestions to Commission.

"I would suggest that the commission, if it allows these lines to continue to operate under their present ownership, should prescribe a system of accounts which will detail every cost connected with the operation of the water carriers, with a special scrutiny of the items of shore expenses, soliciting expenses, etc.; that rates should then be framed on the knowledge thus obtained, which is not difficult to obtain. I believe the commission should ascertain the possible saving by the installation of proper handling devices for general freight—what saving can be made, and either instruct the railroads to install such handling devices for the economical transfer from water to rail or rail to water, or frame their rates based on such charges, and

"I believe the commission should order the concentration of shipments at a terminal at one end of the water route, and by that concentration I believe a very large saving would be effected in the way of idle labor, boats' time, etc.

"I believe the commission should have the power and should prescribe joint routes and joint rates and the divisions thereof, and that on short notice independent carriers should be able to enter such joint routes.

Suspend Coastwise Laws.

"I believe legislation should be passed asking the president, on the recommendation of the interstate commerce commission, to suspend the coastwise laws, so that the commission, to correct a very evident abuse, could, for such time and in such routes as, in their discretion, they may approve, allow foreign tonnage to enter the water-carried port-to-port traffic. Canada has done that for American boats for certain routes. There are eighteen or twenty standard package freighters running on the Great Lakes under Canadian ownership that would be glad to compete for this American trade.

"We think these suggestions would correct our present abuses and allow the railroads to continue to operate as owners until such time as a more economical method may be devised."

DR. RYAN IS RE-ELECTED

Again Heads St. Luke's Hospital Association; Has Good Year.

Rev. Dr. A. W. Ryan, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, was re-elected president of the St. Luke's Hospital association at the corporation's annual meeting yesterday afternoon at the hospital. W. J. Johnson was continued in the office of secretary-treasurer.

Dr. Ryan, W. J. Olcott and G. G. Hartley were re-elected directors of the association to succeed themselves, their terms having expired this year. The board of directors consists of nine members. The other six are: W. J. Johnson, Mrs. F. W. Paine, A. C. Le Duc, James Wanless, T. T. Hudson and H. R. Spencer.

Annual reports of the corporation showed that the hospital had experienced a good year. Mr. Johnson's report showed that $4,000 worth of charity work had been done by the hospital during the year; that the accounts receivable were $7,800, accounts payable $2,600, expenses for the last year $56,200, and the balance of cash on hand $93.

Recommends Buildings.

Miss Frances Smith, superintendent of the institution, in her report to the board of directors, recommended that a nurse's home, to cost $75,000, and an addition to the present quarters, to cost $125,000, be constructed. The board took no action on either project.

In his annual report, Dr. Ryan said, among other things:

"The work of the institution for the past year has been the most successful in its history. The annual report shows that 909 operations were performed during the year. This is far in excess of the record of previous years. Co-operation on the part of Duluth citizens has played a big part in the success of the hospital."

URGES PRESIDENT TO OUST DERNBURG

Washington Times Declares He Should Meet Fate of Genet.

Washington, May 12.—The Washington Times, in its leading editorial, demands the expulsion from America of Dr. Dernburg. It says:

"This man Dernburg, who flaunts in any and every city of the United States the crimes of those he represents in Berlin, needs nothing so much for the sake of common decency, not to speak of international obligations, as to be put from the country.

"What the first president of the United States did promptly to Genet was long ago due to this creature Dernburg. Genet officially was less of an offense to Americanism than Dernburg, semi-officially he was an outrage both to Americanism and all civilization.

"George Washington more than a century ago snuffed out the blatant Genet. Let the noisy, noxious Dernburg in this year of 1915 follow the less insufferable Genet."

Try Skin Absorption Instead of Cosmetics

The constant use of rouge and powder invites a coarsened, roughened condition of the skin, eruptions, enlarged pores, blackheads and wrinkles. If you've learned this from experience, suppose you quit cosmetics and try the following

Ask your druggist for an ounce of ordinary mercolized wax and begin using this tonight. Apply like cold cream, washing it off in the morning. Keep this up for a week or two. The wax will literally absorb the coarse, colorless or blemished top skin, but so gradually as not to discommode you at all. Just as gradually the clear, velvety, naturally-tinted underskin comes to the surface. And mercolized wax becomes your everlasting friend.

For those wrinkles and large pores, make a face bath by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel. This has remarkable astringent and tonic properties, and beneficial results come quickly. —Advertisement.

REFUSES TO APOLOGIZE

Merritt Tells Street Car Men He Made No Direct Accusations.

Commissioner Denies He Is Operating Car as Jitney.

Commissioner Merritt, head of the utilities division, yesterday afternoon refused to apologize for his statement that "the 'pay-as-you-enter' car would save the street car company much revenue in the way of missed fares and 'knock downs,'" and indications are that the street car employes will drop the matter for the present.

"We don't know whether we have a legal point to work on or not," declared one of the street car conductors this morning, "but we'll not forget the statement made by Mr. Merritt last Monday evening."

Visited Second Time.

Instead of apologizing when two conductors visited him yesterday afternoon, Commissioner Merritt declared that he made no statement against any of the local men, and that he would not be threatened by any one. After considerable wrangling, the commissioner exclaimed: "You fellows can go right to hell with that kind of talk."

Jacob M. Johnson and Emil F. Thelin, the two conductors selected by the street car employes to see Commissioner Merritt yesterday afternoon, went to their attorney, William A. Watts, immediately after the interview with the utilities head, and placed the matter in his hands. Mr. Watts said this morning that, in his opinion, the street car employes have no grounds for a slander suit, although the statement is a thrust against the men, and an apology should have been made by Mr. Merritt. He added, however, that he is still investigating the case.

Yesterday morning about twenty-five street car employes held an indignation meeting at the car barns, as the result of a statement published in the morning paper that Commissioner Merritt had accused the conductors of "knocking down" fares. A committee was sent to him demanding an apology, but the commissioner declared that he had never made such a statement and that the report in the newspaper was a lie. He gave the committee a copy of the statement and asked them to read it over.

Resent Being Called "Thieves."

In the afternoon Mr. Johnson and Mr. Thelin, after having found in the statement a reference to "knock downs" in fares, went to Mr. Merritt's office a second time and showed him the exact words he was quoted as having made in the statement to the city council last on Monday evening. He then declared that it was no specific charge against anyone, and that he would not apologize.

Mr. Merritt explained also that he was not operating two jitneys, as was charged yesterday morning, but that he had sold one of his cars to a jitney driver. It went to the highest bidder, he said, and that man happened to be a jitney driver.

lowing conclusion at the close of the report:

"It will be seen that the committee have come to a definite conclusion upon each of the heads under which the evidence has been considered:

"It is reported:

"First: That there were in many parts of Belgium deliberate and systematically organized massacres of the civil population, accompanied by many isolated murders and other outrages.

"Second: That in the conduct of the war generally innocent civilians, both men and women, were murdered in large numbers, women violated, and children murdered.

"Third: That looting, house burning, and the wanton destruction of property were ordered and countenanced by the officers of the German army, that elaborate provision had been made for systematic incendiarism at the very outbreak of the war, and that the burning and destruction were frequent where no military necessity could be alleged being indeed part of a system of general terrorization.

"Fourth: That the rules and usages of war were frequently broken, particularly by the using of civilians, including women and children, as a shield for advancing forces exposed to fire, to a less degree by killing the wounded and prisoners, and in the frequent abuse of the Red Cross and the white flag.

Established by Evidence.

"Sensible as they are of the gravity of these conclusions, the committee conceive that they would be doing less than their duty if they failed to record them as fully established by the evidence. Murder, lust and pillage prevailed over many parts of Belgium on a scale unparalleled in any war between civilized nations during the last three centuries.

"Our function is ended when we have stated what the evidence establishes, but we may be permitted to express our belief that these disclosures will not have been made in vain if they touch and rouse the conscience of mankind and we venture to hope that as soon as the present war is over, the nations of the world in council will consider what means can be provided and sanctions devised to prevent the recurrence of such horrors as our generation is now witnessing."

The report makes an official document of sixty-one printed pages, or upward of 30,000 words, accompanied by maps, showing the various routes of the army and the chief scenes of desolation. It states at the outset that 1,200 witnesses have been examined, the depositions being taken by examiners of legal knowledge and experience, though without authority to administer an oath. The examiners were instructed not to "lead" the witnesses, and to seek to bring out the truth by cross-examination and otherwise. The committee also submit extracts from a number of diaries taken from the German dead, chiefly German soldiers and in some cases officers.

Force of Evidence Cumulative.

"We began the inquiry with doubts whether a positive result would be obtained," says the report. "But the further we went and the more evidence we examined so much the more was our skepticism reduced. There might be some exaggeration in one witness, possible delusion in another, inaccuracies in a third. When, however, we found that things which at first seemed improbable were testified to by many witnesses coming from different places, the points in which they all agreed became more and more evidently true. When this concurrence of testimony showed itself in hundreds of depositions, the truth of the broad facts stood out beyond question. The force of the evidence is cumulative."

Taking up the conditions at Liege, Belgium, at the outset of the war, the reports gives a harrowing recital of occurrences at various points in the devastated territory. At Harve on Aug. 4, a report says, "the murder of an innocent fugitive civilian was a prelude to the burning and pillage of the town and of other villages in the neighborhood, to the indiscriminate shooting of civilians of both sexes and to the organized military execution of batches of selected males. Thus some fifty men escaping from burning houses were seized, taken outside the town and shot. At Melen, a hamlet west of Harve, forty men were shot. In one household alone the father and mother (names given) were shot, the daughter died after being repeatedly outraged, and the son was wounded.

Civilians Summarily Shot.

"In Soumagne and Micheroux very many civilians were summarily shot. In a field belonging to a man named E. 58 or 57 were put to death. A German officer said: 'You have shot at us.' One of the villagers asked to be allowed to speak, and said: 'If you think these people fired, kill me, but let them go.' The answer was three volleys. The survivors were bayonetted. Their corpses were seen in the field that night by another witness. One at least had been mutilated. These were not the only victims in Soumagne. The eye witness of the massacre saw, on his way home, twenty bodies, one that of a young girl of 13. Another witness say nineteen corpses in a meadow.

"At Heure le Romain all the male inhabitants, including some bedridden old men, were imprisoned in the church. The burgomaster's brother and the priest were bayonetted. The village of Vise was completely destroyed. Officers directed the incendiaries, who worked methodically with benzine. Antiques and china were removed from the houses, before their destruction, by officers, who guarded the plunder, revolver in hand.

Many Burned Alive.

"Entries in a German diary show that on Aug. 19 the German soldiers gave themselves up to debauchery in the streets of Liege, and on the night of Aug. 20, a massacre took place in the streets. • • • Though the cause of the massacre is in dispute, the results are known with certainty. The Rue des Pitteurs and houses in the Place de l'Universite and the Quai des Pecheurs were systematically fired with benzine, and many inhabitants were burned alive in their houses, their efforts to escape being prevented by rifle fire. Twenty people were shot, while trying to escape before the eyes of one of the witnesses. The Liege fire brigade turned out, but was not allowed to extinguish the fire. Its carts, however, were usefully employed in removing heaps of civilian corpses to the town hall."

Taking up the valleys of the Meuse and Sambre, the report gives lengthy details of terrible conditions described by witnesses at Andenne and elsewhere.

Four Hundred Massacred.

"About 400 people lost their lives in this massacre, some on the banks of the Meuse, where they were shot according to orders given and executed by civilians, some in houses where they had taken refuge. Eight men behonging to one family were murdered. Another man was placed close to a machine gun which was fired through him. His wife brought his body home on a wheelbarrow. The Germans broke into her house and ransacked it, and piled up all the eatables in a heap on the floor and relieved themselves upon it.

"A hair-dresser was murdered in his kitchen where he was sitting with a child on each knee. A paralytic was murdered in his garden. After this came the general sack of the town. Many of the inhabitants who escaped the massacre were kept as prisoners and compelled to clear the houses of corpses and bury them in trenches. These prisoners were subsequently used as a shelter and protection for a pontoon bridge which the Germans had built across the river and were so used to prevent the Belgian forts from firing upon it.

"A few days later the Germans celebrated a fete nocturne, in the square. Hot wine, looted in the town, was drunk, and the women were compelled to give three cheers for the kaiser and to sing "Deutschland Uber Alles."

Killed in Masses.

Similar details are recited at much length in reference to the districts of Namur, Charleroi and the town of Dinant. At the latter point, the report says, "unarmed civilians were killed in masses. About ninety bodies were seen lying on top of one another in a grass square opposite the convent. They included many relatives of a witness whose deposition is given. • • • It is stated that besides the ninety corpses referred to, sixty corpses of civilians were recovered from a hole in the brewery yard and that forty-eight bodies of women and children were found in a garden. The town was systematically set on f'ro by hand grenades.

"We have no reason to believe that the civilian population of Dinant gave any provocation, or that any other defense can be put forward to justify the treatment inflicted upon its citizens."

The committee states that it has received a great mass of evidence on "scenes of chronic outrage" in the territory bounded by the towns Aerschot, Malines, Vilvorde and Louvain. It states that the total number of outrages is so great that the committee cannot refer to them all. The report states that the battle of Malines was the occasion later of "numerous murders committed by the German army in retreating through the villages; and in the second place it led to the massacres, plunderings and burnings at Louvain." The report adds:

Outrages in Smaller Villages.

"The committee is specially impressed by the character of the outrages committed in the smaller villages. Many of these are exceptionally shocking and cannot be regarded as contemplated or prescribed by the responsible commanders of the troops by whom they were committed. We draw from these however, which we draw from these occurrences is that when once troops have been encouraged in a career of terrorism, the more savage and brutal natures, of whom there are some in every large army, are liable to run to wild excess, more particularly in those regions where they are least subject to observation and control. • • •"

"Evidence goes to show that deaths in these villages were due not to accident but to deliberate purpose. The wounds were generally stabs or cuts, and for the most part appear to have been inflicted with a bayonet.

"In Malines many bodies were seen. One witness saw a German soldier cut a woman's breast after he had murdered her, and saw many other dead bodies of women in the street. In Hofstadt two witnesses speak of having seen the body of a young man pierced by bayonet thrusts, with the wrists cut also.

"On a side road the corpse of a civilian was seen on his doorstep with a bayonet wound in his stomach, and by his side the dead body of a boy of 5 or 6 with his hand nearly severed.

Breasts Cut Off.

"Two young women were lying in the backyard of a house. One had her breasts cut off, the other had been stabbed.

"A young man had been hacked with a bayonet until his entrails protruded. He also had his hands joined in the attitude of prayer.

"In Sempst the corpse of a man with his legs cut off, who was partly bound, was seen by a witness, who also saw a girl of 17 dressed only in a chemise and in great distress. She alleged that she herself and other girls had been dragged into a field, stripped naked and violated, and that some of them had been killed with a bayonet.

"At Elewyt a man's naked body was tied up to a ring in the wall in the backyard of a house. He was dead and his corpse was mutilated in a manner too horrible to record. A woman's naked body was also found in a stable abutting on the same back yard.

Infant's Stomach Cut Open.

"At Haescht a child of 3 with its stomach cut open by a bayonet was lying near a house. At Werchter the corpses of a man and a woman and four younger persons were found in one house. It is said that they had been murdered because the latter, a girl, would not permit the Germans to outrage her."

Taking up conditions at Aershot and district during September the report says:

"At Haecht several children had been murdered, one of 2 or 3 years old was found nailed to the door of a farmhouse by its hand and feet, a crime which seems almost incredible, but the evidence for which we feel bound to accept. In the garden of this house was the body of a girl, who had been shot in the forehead.

"At Eppeghem the dead body of a child of 2 was seen pinned to the ground with a German lance. The same witness saw a mutilated woman alive near Weerde on the same day."

Terrible Conditions at Louvain.

A chapter is given to the terrible conditions at Louvain, where the report states, "massacre, fire and destruction went on." • • • Citizens were shot and others taken prisoners and compelled to go with the troops. Soldiers went through the streets saying 'Man hat geschossen.' One soldier was seen going along shooting in the air.

"The massacre of civilians at Louvain was not confined to its citizens. Large crowds of people were brought into Louvain from the surrounding districts, not only from Aershot and Gelrod, but also from other places. For example, a witness describes how many women and children were taken in carts to Louvain, and there placed in a stable. Of the hundreds of people thus taken from the various villages and brought to Louvain as prisoners, some were massacred there, others were forced to march along with citizens of Louvain through various places, some being ultimately sent to the Belgian lines at Malines, others were taken in trucks to Cologne, others were released.

Under Direction of Officers.

"Some were marched through Cologne afterwards for the people to see. Ropes were put around the necks of some and they were told they would be hanged. An order then came that they were to be shot instead of hanged. A firing squad was prepared, and five or six prisoners were put up, but were not shot. • • • This taking of the inhabitants, in groups and marching them to various places, must evidently have been done under the direction of a higher military authority. The illtreatment of the prisoners was under the eyes and often under the direction or sanction of officers, and officers themselves took part in it. • • •

"It is to be noticed that cases occur in the depositions in which humane acts by individual officers and soldiers are mentioned, or in which officers are said to have expressed regret at being obliged to carry out orders for cruel action against the civilians. Similarly, we find entries in diaries which reveal a genuine pity for the population and disgust at the conduct of the army. It appears that a German non-commissioned officer stated definitely that he 'was acting under orders and executing them with great unwillingness.' A commissioner officer on being asked at Louvain by a witness, a highly educated man, about the horrible acts committed by the soldiers, said he 'was merely executing orders,' and that he himself would be shot if he did not execute them." • • •

A Deliberate Policy.

"We are driven to the conclusion that the harrying of the villages in the district, the burning of a large part of Louvain, the massacres there, the marching out of the prisoners, and the transport to Cologne (all done without inquiry as to whether the particular persons seized or killed had committed any wrongful act) were due to a calculated policy carried out scientifically and deliberately, not merely with the sanction but under the direction of higher military authorities, and were not due to any provocation or resistance by the civilian population."

A division of opinion is given to diaries of German soldiers. The entry of a sergeant of the First Guards regiment, who received the Iron Cross, says under date of Aug. 10: "A transport of 300 Belgians came through Dulsburg in the morning. Of these, eighty including the oberburgomaster were shot according to martial law." The diary of a member of the Fourth company of Jagers says, under date of Aug. 13: "About 220 inhabitants and the village were burnt. Artillery is continuously shooting. Just now, the crossing of the Meuse begins near Dinant. All villages, chateaux and houses are burnt down during the night. It is a beautiful sight to see the fires all round us in the distance." Another diary, by a member of the Second Mounted battery, First Kurhessian Field Artillery regiment, No. 11, records an incident which happened in French territory near Lille on Oct. 11:

No Fight; But Twenty Shot.

"We had no fight, but we caught about twenty men and shot them."

The committee says of this last diary: "By this time killing not in a fight would seem to have passed into a habit."

The report adds that the most important entry is contained in diary No. 19. This contains no name and address, but names referred to in the diary indicate that the entries were made by an officer of the First Regiment of Foot Guards. The entry made at Eermeton, on Aug. 24, says: "We took about 1,000 prisoners; at least 500 were shot. The village was burnt because inhabitants had also shot. Two civilians were shot at once."

The conclusions of the committee as to the various detailed recitals, are as follows:

Significance of the Acts.

"We may now sum up and endeavor to explain the character of significance of the wrongful acts done by the German army in Belgium.

"If a line is drawn on a map from the Belgian frontier to Liege and continued to Charleroi, and a second line drawn from Liege to Malines, a sort of figure resembling an irregular "Y" will be formed. It is along this "Y" that most of the systematic (as opposed to isolated) outrages were committed. If the period from Aug. 4 to Aug. 30 is taken it will be found to cover most of these organized outrages. Termondor and Alost extend, it is true, beyond the "Y" lines, and they belong to the month of September. Murder, rape, arson and pillage began from the moment when the German army crossed the frontier. For the first fortnight of the war the towns and villages near Liege were the chief sufferers. From Aug. 19 to the end of the month outrages spread in the directions of Charleroi and Malines and reach their period of greatest intensity. There is a certain significance in the fact that the outrages around Liege coincide with the unexpected resistance of the Belgian army in that district, and that the slaughter which reigned from Aug. 19 to the end of the month is contemporaneous with the period when the German army's need for a quick passage through Belgium at all costs was deemed imperative.

Due to Intoxication.

"Individual acts of brutality—illtreatment of civilians, rape, plunder and the like—were very widely committed. These are more numerous and more shocking than would be expected in warfare between civilized powers, but they differ rather in extent than in kind from what had happened in previous though not recent wars.

"In all wars there are many shocking and outrageous acts of men of criminal instincts whose worst passions were unloosed by the immunity which the conditions of warfare afford. Drunkenness, moreover, may turn even a soldier who has no criminal habits into a brute, who may commit outrages at which he would himself be shocked in his sober moments, and there is evidence that intoxication was extremely prevalent among the German army, both in Belgium and in France, for plenty of wine was to be found in the villages and country houses which were pillaged. Many of the worst outrages appear to have been perpetrated by men under the influence of drink. Unfortunately little seems to have been done to repress this source of danger.

Without Precedent.

"In the present war, however, and this is the gravest charge against the German army—the evidence shows that the killing of non-combatants was carried out to an extent for which no previous war between nations claiming to be civilized (or such cases as the atrocities perpetrated by the Turks on the Bulgarian Christians in 1876, and on the Armenian Christians in 1895 and 1896, do not belong to that category) furnishes any precedent. That this killing was done as part of a deliberate plan is clear from the facts herein before set forth regarding Louvain, Aerschot, Dinant and other towns. The killing was done under orders in each place. It began at a certain fixed date. Some of the officers who carried out the work did it reluctantly, and said they were obeying directions from their chiefs. The same remarks apply to the destruction of property. House burning was part of the program; and villages, even large parts of a city, were given to the flames as part of the terrorizing policy.

Never Officially Denied.

"Citizens of neutral states who visited Belgium in December and January report that the German authorities do not deny that non-combatants were systematically killed in large numbers during the first weeks of the invasion, and this so far as we know, has never been officially denied. If it were denied, the flight and continued voluntary exile of thousands of Belgian refugees would go far to contradict a denial, for there is no historical parallel in modern times for the flight of a large part of a nation before an invader.

"The German government have, however, sought to justify their severities on the grounds of military necessity and have excused them as retaliation for cases in which civilians fired on German troops. There may have been cases in which such firing occurred, but no proof has ever been given, or, to our knowledge, attempted to be given, of such cases, nor of the stories of shocking outrages perpetrated by Belgian men and women on German soldiers." • • •

Referring to a statement by the chancellor of the German empire on Sept. 12, last, that Belgians had committed outrages on the German soldiers, the committee says:

Killed Without Inquiry.

"No evidence whatever seems to have been adduced to prove this and though there may be cases in which individual Belgians fired on the Germans, the statement that 'the whole civilian population of Belgium was called out' is utterly opposed to the fact.

"An invading army may be entitled to shoot at sight a civilian caught red-handed, or any one who though not caught redhanded is proved guilty on inquiry. But this was not the practice followed by the German troops. They do not seem to have made any inquiry. They seized the civilians of the village indiscriminately and killed them, or such as they selected from among them, without the least regard are mentioned, or in which officers are to guilt or innocence. The mere crime 'Civilisten haben geschossen' was enough to hand over a whole village or district and even outlying places to ruthless slaughter.

"We gladly record the instances where the evidence shows that humanity has not wholly disappeared from some members of the German army and that they realized that the responsible heads of that organization were employing them not in war but butchery; 'I am merely executing orders, and I should be shot if I did not execute them,' said an officer to a witness at Louvain. At Brussels another officer says: 'I have not done one-hundredth part of what we have been ordered to do by the high German military authorities.' • • •

Amazed by Depositions.

"That these acts should have been perpetrated on the peaceful population of an unoffending country which was not at war with its invaders but merely defending its own neutrality, guaranteed by the invading power, may excite amazement and even incredulity. It was with amazement and almost with incredulity that the committee first read the depositions relating to such acts. But when the evidence regarding Liege was followed by that regarding Aerschot, Louvain, Andenne, Dinant and the other towns and villages, the cumulative effect of such a mass of concurrent testimony became irresistible, and we were driven to the conclusion that the things described had really happened. The question then arose how they could have happened. Not mere military license, for the discipline of the German army is proverbially stringent, and its obedience explicit. Not from any special ferocity of the troops, for whoever has traveled among the German peasantry knows that they are as kindly and good-natured as any people in Europe, and those who can recall the war of 1870 will remember that no charges resembling those proved by these depositions were then established. The excesses recently committed in Belgium were, moreover, too widespread and too uniform in their character to be mere sporadic outbursts of passion of rapacity.

Committed On a System.

"The explanation seems to be that these excesses were committed—in some cases ordered, in others allowed—on a system and in pursuance of a set purpose. That purpose was to strike terror into the civil population and dishearten the Belgian troops, so as to crush down resistance and extinguish the very spirit of self-defense. The pretext that civilians had fired upon the invading troops was used to justify not merely the shooting of individual francs-tireurs, but the murder of large numbers of innocent civilians, an act absolutely forbidden by the rules of civilized warfare.

"In the minds of Prussian officers war seems to have become a sort of sacred mission, one of the highest functions of the omnipotent state, which is itself as much an army as a state. Ordinary morality and the ordinary sentiment of pity vanish in its presence, superseded by a new standard which justifies to the soldier every means that can conduce to success, however shocking to a natural sense of justice and humanity, however revolting to his own feelings. The Spirit of War is deified. Obedience to the state and its war lord leaves no room for any other duty or feeling. Cruelty becomes legitimate when it promises victory. Proclaimed by the heads of the army, this doctrine would seem to have permeated the officers and even the private soldiers, leading them to justify the killing of non-combatants as an act of war, and so accustoming them to slaughter that even women and children become at last the victims. It cannot be supposed to be a national doctrine, for it neither springs from nor reflects the mind and feelings of the German people as they have heretofore been known to other nations. It is specifically military doctrine, the outcome of a theory held by a ruling caste who have brooded and thought, written and talked and dreamed about war until they have fallen under its obsession and been hypnotized by its spirit.

The Principle Adopted.

"The doctrine is plainly set forth in the German "Official Monograph on the Usages of War on Land," issued under the direction of the German staff. This book is pervaded throughout by the view that whatever military needs suggest becomes thereby lawful, and upon this principle, as the diaries show, the German officers acted.

"If this explanation be the true one, the mystery is solved, and that which seemed scarcely credible becomes more intelligible though not less pernicious. This is not the only case that history records in which a false theory, disguising itself as loyalty to a state or to a church, has perverted the conception of duty and becomes a source of danger to the world."

Another division of the report is on the "killing of non-combatants in France." This is not as detailed as the case of Belgium, as the committee states that the French official report gives the most complete account as to the invaded districts in France. It adds:

"The evidence before us proves that, in the parts of France referred to, murder of unoffending civilians and other acts of cruelty, including aggravated cases of rape, carried out under threat of death, and sometimes actually followed by murder of the victim, were committed by some of the German troops."

Treatment of Women.

A special chapter is given to the treatment of women and children. The latter, it is said, frequently received milder treatment than the men. But many instances are given of "calculated cruelty, often going the length of murder, towards the women and children." At Aerschot, it says, women and children were herded into the church which had recently been used as a stable, detained for forty-eight hours with no food other than coarse bread, and denied the common decencies of life. "In other cases women and children were marched for long distances, the laggards being pricked by the attending Uhlans. A lady complains of having been brutally kicked by a private. Others were struck with the butt end of rifles. At Liege women and children were chased about the streets by soldiers. A witness gives a story, very circumstantial in its details, of how women were publicly raped in the market place of the city, five young German officers assisting." Another witness tells of a carousal of officers, at which the woman of the house was shot dead, and her husband then compelled to dig a grave in the garden and there bury his wife. The report goes on:

Sometimes Punished.

"In the evidence before us there are cases tending to show that aggravated crimes against women were sometimes severely punished. One witness reports that a young girl who was being pursued by a drunken soldier at Louvain appealed to a German soldier, and that the offender was then and there shot; another described how an officer of the Thirty-second regiment of the line was led out to execution for the violation of two young girls, but reprieved at the request or with the consent of the girls' mother. These instances are sufficient to show that the maltreatment of women was no part of the military scheme of the invaders, however much it may appear to have been the inevitable result of the system of terror deliberately adopted in certain regions.

"In this tale of horrors, hideous forms of mutilation occur with some frequency in the depositions, two of which may be connected in some instances with a perverted form of sexual instinct.

"We find many well-established cases of the slaughter (often accompanied by mutilation) of whole families, including not infrequently that of quite small children. In two cases it seems to be clear that preparations were made to burn a family alive. These crimes were committed over a period of many weeks and simultaneously in many places, and the authorities must have known or ought to have known that cruelties of this character were being perpetrated, nor can any one doubt that they could have been stopped by swift and decisive action on the part of the heads of the German army.

Offenses Against Infants.

"It is clearly shown that many offenses were committed against infants and quite young children. On one occasion children were even roped together and used as a military screen against the enemy, on another three soldiers went into action carrying small children to protect themselves from flank fire. A shocking case of the murder of a baby by a drunken soldier at Malines is reported by one eye-witness and confirmed by another.

"We cannot tell whether these acts of cruelty to children were part of a scheme inducing submission by inspiring terror. In Louvain, where the system of terrorizing was carried to the furtherest limit, outrages on children were uncommon. The same, however, must be said of some of the smaller villages which were subjected to the system. In Hofstade and Sempst, in Haecht, Rotselaer and Wespelaer, many children were murdered. Nor can it be said of the village of Tamines where three small children (whose names are given by an eye-witness of the crime) were slaughtered on the green for no apparent motive. It is difficult to imagine the motives which may have prompted such acts. Whether or not Belgian civilians fired on German soldiers, young children at any rate did not fire."

Property Looted and Burned.

Many instances are given of the use of civilians as screens during the military operation. Another branch of the report deals with looting, burning and destruction of property. "The general conclusion," the report says, "is that the burning and destruction of property which took place was only in a very small minority of cases justified by military necessity." Cases of firing on hospitals, Red Cross ambulances and stretcher-bearers are referred to, but this report adds: "On the whole, we do not find proof of a general or systematic firing on hospitals or ambulances; but it is not possible to believe that much care was taken to avoid this."

Cases of the Red Cross being misused for offensive military purposes, and of abuse of the white flag are also given. As to the latter the report says: "There is in our opinion sufficient evidence that those offenses have been frequent, deliberate and in many cases committed by whole units under orders. All the facts mentioned are in contravention of The Hague convention, signed by the great powers, including France, Germany, Great Britain and the United States, in 1907."

REFUSES TO APOLOGIZE

Merritt Tells Street Car Men He Made No Direct Accusations.

Commissioner Denies He Is Operating Car as Jitney.

Commissioner Merritt, head of the utilities division, yesterday afternoon refused to apologize for his statement that "the 'pay-as-you-enter' car would save the street car company much revenue in the way of missed fares and 'knock downs,'" and indications are that the street car employes will drop the matter for the present.

"We don't know whether we have a legal point to work on or not," declared one of the street car conductors this morning, "but we'll not forget the statement made by Mr. Merritt last Monday evening."

Visited Second Time.

Instead of apologizing when two conductors visited him yesterday afternoon, Commissioner Merritt declared that he made no statement against any of the local men, and that he would not be threatened by any one. After considerable wrangling, the commissioner exclaimed: "You fellows can go right to hell with that kind of talk."

Jacob M. Johnson and Emil F. Thelin, the two conductors selected by the street car employes to see Commissioner Merritt yesterday afternoon, went to their attorney, William A. Watts, immediately after the interview with the utilities head, and placed the matter in his hands. Mr. Watts said this morning that, in his opinion, the street car employes have no grounds for a slander suit, although the statement is a thrust against the men, and an apology should have been made by Mr. Merritt. He added, however, that he is still investigating the case.

Yesterday morning about twenty-five street car employes held an indignation meeting at the car barns, as the result of a statement published in the morning paper that Commissioner Merritt had accused the conductors of "knocking down" fares. A committee was sent to him demanding an apology, but the commissioner declared that he had never made such a statement and that the report in the newspaper was a lie. He gave the committee a copy of the statement and asked them to read it over.

Resent Being Called "Thieves."

In the afternoon Mr. Johnson and Mr. Thelin, after having found in the statement a reference to "knock downs" in fares, went to Mr. Merritt's office a second time and showed him the exact words he was quoted as having made in the statement to the city council on Monday evening. He then declared that it was no specific charge against anyone, and that he would not apologize.

Mr. Merritt explained also that he was not operating two jitneys, as was charged yesterday morning, but that he had sold one of his cars to a jitney driver. It went to the highest bidder, he said, and that man happened to be a jitney driver.

OUTRAGES BY GERMAN TROOPS DURING SWEEP ACROSS BELGIUM TOLD

lowing conclusion at the close of this report:

"It will be seen that the committee have come to a definite conclusion upon each of the heads under which the evidence has been considered:

"It is reported:

"First: That there were in many parts of Belgium deliberate and systematically organized massacres of the civil population, accompanied by many isolated murders and other outrages.

"Second: That in the conduct of the war generally innocent civilians, both men and women, were murdered in large numbers, women violated, and children murdered.

"Third: That looting, house burning, and the wanton destruction of property were ordered and countenanced by the officers of the German army, that elaborate provision had been made for systematic incendiarism at the very outbreak of the war, and that the burning and destruction were frequent where no military necessity could be alleged being indeed part of a system of general terrorization.

"Fourth: That the rules and usages of war were frequently broken, particularly by the using of civilians, including women and children, as a shield for advancing forces exposed to fire, to a less degree by killing the wounded and prisoners, and in the frequent abuse of the Red Cross and the white flag.

Established by Evidence.

"Sensible as they are of the gravity of these conclusions, the committee conceive that they would be doing less than their duty if they failed to record them as fully established by the evidence. Murder, lust and pillage prevailed over many parts of Belgium on a scale unparalleled in any war between civilized nations during the last three centuries.

"Our function is ended when we have stated what the evidence establishes, but we may be permitted to express our belief that these disclosures will not have been made in vain if they touch and rouse the conscience of mankind and we venture to hope that as soon as the present war is over, the nations of the world in council will consider what means can be provided and sanctions devised to prevent the recurrence of such horrors as our generation is now witnessing."

The report makes an official document of sixty-one printed pages, or upward of 20,000 words, accompanied by maps, showing the various routes of the army and the chief scenes of desolation. It states at the outset that 1,200 witnesses have been examined, the depositions being taken by examiners of legal knowledge and experience, though without authority to administer an oath. The examiners were instructed not to "lead" the witnesses, and to seek to bring out the truth by cross-examination and otherwise. The committee also submit extracts from a number of diaries taken from the German dead, chiefly German soldiers and in some cases officers.

Force of Evidence Cumulative.

"We began the inquiry with doubts whether a positive result would be obtained," says the report. "But the further we went and the more evidence we examined so much the more was our skepticism reduced. There might be some exaggeration in one witness, possible delusion in another, inaccuracies in a third. When, however, we found that things which at first seemed improbable were testified to by many witnesses coming from different places, the points in which they all agreed became more and more evidently true. When this concurrence of testimony showed itself in hundreds of depositions, the truth of the broad facts stood out beyond question. The force of the evidence is cumulative."

Taking up the conditions at Liege, Belgium, at the outset of the war, the reports gives a harrowing recital of occurrences at various points in the devastated territory. At Harve on Aug. 4, a report says, "the murder of an innocent fugitive civilian was a prelude to the burning and pillage of the town and of other villages in the neighborhood, to the indiscriminate shooting of civilians of both sexes and to the organized military execution of batches of selected males. Thus some fifty men escaping from burning houses were seized, taken outside the town and shot. At Melen, a hamlet west of Harve, forty men were shot. In one household alone the father and mother (names given) were shot, the daughter died after being repeatedly outraged, and the son was wounded.

Civilians Summarily Shot.

"In Soumagne and Micheroux very many civilians were summarily shot. In a field belonging to a man named E. 66 or 67 were put to death. A German officer said: 'You have shot at us.' One of the villagers asked to be allowed to speak, and said: 'If you think these people fired, kill me, but let them go.' The answer was three volleys. The survivors were bayonetted. Their corpses were seen in the field that night by another witness. One at least had been mutilated. These were not the only victims in Soumagne. The eye witness of the massacre saw, on his way home, twenty bodies, one that of a young girl of 13. Another witness say nineteen corpses in a meadow.

"At Heure le Romain all the male inhabitants, including some bedridden old men, were imprisoned in the church. The burgomaster's brother and the priest were bayonetted. The village of Vise was completely destroyed. Officers directed the incendiaries, who worked methodically with benzine. Antiques and china were removed from the houses, before their destruction, by officers, who guarded the plunder, revolver in hand.

Many Burned Alive.

"Entries in a German diary show that on Aug. 19 the German soldiers gave themselves up to treachery in the streets of Liege, and on the night of Aug. 20, a massacre took place in the streets. • • • Though the cause of the massacre is in dispute, the results are known with certainty. The Rue des Pitteurs and houses in the Place de l'Universite and the Quai des Pecheurs were systematically fired with benzine, and many inhabitants were burned alive in their houses, their efforts to escape being prevented by rifle fire. Twenty people were shot, while trying to escape before the eyes of one of the witnesses. The Liege fire brigade turned out but was not allowed to extinguish the fire. Its carts, however, were usefully employed in removing heaps of civilian corpses to the town hall."

Taking up the valleys of the Meuse and Sambre, the report gives lengthy details of terrible conditions described by witnesses at Andenne and says:

Four Hundred Massacred.

"About 400 people lost their lives in this massacre, some on the banks of the Meuse, where they were shot according to orders given and some in the cellars of the houses where they had taken refuge. Eight men belonging to one family were murdered. Another man was placed close to a machine gun which was fired through him. His wife brought his body home on a wheelbarrow. The Germans broke into her house and ransacked it, and piled up all the eatables in a heap on the floor and relieved themselves upon it.

"A hair-dresser was murdered in his kitchen where he was sitting with a child on each knee. A paralytic was murdered in his garden. After this came the general sack of the town. Many of the inhabitants who escaped the massacre were kept as prisoners and compelled to clear the houses of corpses and bury them in trenches. These prisoners were subsequently used as a shelter and protection for a pontoon bridge which the Germans had built across the river and were so used to prevent the Belgian forts from firing upon it.

"A few days later the Germans celebrated a fete nocturne, in the square. Hock wine, looted in the town, was drunk, and the women were compelled to give three cheers for the kaiser and to sing "Deutschland Uber Alles."

Killed in Masses.

Similar details are recited at much length in reference to the districts of Namur, Charleroi and the town of Dinant. At the latter point the report says, "unarmed civilians were killed in masses. About ninety bodies were seen lying on top of one another in a grass square opposite the convent. They included many relatives of a witness whose deposition is given. • • • It is stated that besides the ninety corpses referred to, sixty corpses of civilians were recovered from a hole in the brewery yard and that forty-eight bodies of women and children were found in a garden. The town was systematically set on fire by hand grenades.

"We have no reason to believe that the civilian population of Dinant gave any provocation, or that any other defense can be put forward to justify the treatment inflicted upon its citizens."

The committee states that it has received a great mass of evidence on "scenes of chronic outrage" in the territory bounded by the towns Aerschot, Malines, Vilvorde and Louvain. It states that the total number of outrages is so great that the committee cannot refer to them all. The report states that the battle of Malines was the occasion later of "numerous murders committed by the German army in retreating through the villages; and in the second place it led to the massacres, plunderings and burnings at Louvain." The report adds:

Outrages in Smaller Villages.

"The committee is specially impressed by the character of the outrages committed in the smaller villages. Many of these are exceptionally shocking and cannot be regarded as contemplated or prescribed by the responsible commanders of the troops by whom they were committed. The inference, however, which we draw from these occurrences is that when once troops have been encouraged in a career of terrorism, the more savage and brutal natures, of whom there are some in every large army, are liable to run to wild excess, more particularly in those regions where they are least subject to observation and control. • • •"

"Evidence goes to show that deaths in these villages were due not to accident but to deliberate purpose. The wounds were generally stabs or cuts, and for the most part appear to have been inflicted with a bayonet.

"In Malines many bodies were seen. One witness saw a German soldier cut a woman's breast after he had murdered her, and saw many other dead bodies of women in the street. In Hofstadt two witnesses speak of having seen the body of a young man pierced by bayonet thrusts, with the wrists cut also.

"On a side road the corpse of a civilian was seen on his doorstep with a bayonet wound in his stomach, and by his side the dead body of a boy of 5 or 6 with his hand nearly severed.

Breasts Cut Off.

"Two young women were lying in the backyard of a house. One had her breasts cut off, the other had been stabbed.

"A young man had been hacked with a bayonet until his entrails protruded. He also had his hands joined in the attitude of prayer.

"In Sempst the corpse of a man with his legs cut off, who was partly bound, was seen by a witness, who also saw a girl of 17 dressed only in a chemise and in great distress. She alleged that she herself and other girls had been dragged into a field, stripped naked and violated, and that some of them had been killed with a bayonet.

"At Elewyt a man's naked body was tied up to a ring in the wall in the backyard of a house. He was dead and his corpse was mutilated in a manner too horrible to record. A woman's naked body was also found in a stable abutting on the same back yard.

Infant's Stomach Cut Open.

"At Haescht a child of 3 with its stomach cut open by a bayonet was lying near a house. At Werchter the corpses of a man and a woman and four younger persons were found in one house. It is said that they had been murdered because the latter, a girl, would not permit the Germans to outrage her."

Taking up conditions at Aershot and district during September the report says:

"At Haecht several children had been murdered, one of 2 or 3 years old was found nailed to the door of a farmhouse by its hand and feet, a crime which seems almost incredible, but the evidence for which we feel bound to accept. In the garden of this house was the body of a girl, who had been shot in the forehead.

"At Eppeghem the dead body of a child of 2 was seen pinned to the ground with a German lance. The same witness saw a mutilated woman alive near Weerde on the same day."

Terrible Conditions at Louvain.

A chapter is given to the terrible conditions at Louvain, where the report states, "massacre, fire and destruction went on. • • • Citizens were shot and others taken prisoners and compelled to go with the troops. Soldiers went through the streets saying 'Man hat geschossen.' One soldier was seen going along shooting in the air.

"The massacre of civilians at Louvain was not confined to its citizens. Large crowds of people were brought into Louvain from the surrounding districts, not only from Aerschot and Gelrod, but also from other places. For example, a witness describes how many women and children were taken in carts to Louvain, and there placed in a stable. Of the hundreds of people thus taken from the various villages and brought to Louvain as prisoners, some were massacred there, others were forced to march along with citizens of Louvain through various places, some being ultimately sent to the Belgian lines at Malines, others were taken in trucks to Cologne, others were released.

Under Direction of Officers.

"Some were marched through Cologne afterwards for the people to see. Ropes were put around the necks of some and they were told they would be hanged. An order then came that they were to be shot instead of hanged. A firing squad was prepared, and five or six prisoners were put up, but were not shot. • • • This taking of the inhabitants, in groups and marching them to various places, must evidently have been done under the direction of a higher military authority. The ill-treatment of the prisoners was under the eyes and often under the direction or sanction of officers, and officers themselves took part in it. • • •

"It is to be noticed that cases occur in the depositions in which humane acts by individual officers and soldiers are mentioned, or in which officers are said to have expressed regret at being obliged to carry out orders for cruel action against the civilians. Similarly we find entries in diaries which reveal a genuine pity for the population and disgust at the conduct of the army. It appears that a German non-commissioned officer stated definitely that he 'was acting under orders and executing them with great unwillingness.' A commissioner officer on being asked at Louvain by a witness, a highly educated man, about the horrible acts committed by the soldiers, said he 'was merely executing orders,' and that he himself would be shot if he did not execute them." • • •

A Deliberate Policy.

"We are driven to the conclusion that the harrying of the villages in the district, the burning of a large part of Louvain, the massacres there, the marching out of the prisoners, and the transport to Cologne (all done without inquiry as to whether the particular persons seized or killed had committed any wrongful act) were due to a calculated policy carried out scientifically and deliberately, not merely with the sanction, but under the direction of higher military authorities, and were not due to any provocation or resistance by the civilian population."

A division of the reports is given to diaries of German soldiers. The entry of a sergeant of the First Guards regiment, who received the Iron Cross, says under date of Aug. 10: "A transport of 200 Belgians came through Duisburg in the morning. Of these, eighty including the oberburgomaster were shot according to martial law." The diary of a member of the Fourth company of Jagers says, under date of Aug. 13: "About 220 inhabitants and the village were burnt. Artillery is continuously shooting. Just now, the crossing of the Meuse begins near Dinant. All villages, chateaux and houses are burnt down during the night. It is a beautiful sight to see the fires all round us in the distance." Another diary, by a member of the Second Mounted battery, First Kurhessian Field Artillery regiment, No. 11, records an incident which happened in French territory near Lille on Oct. 11:

No Fight; But Twenty Shot.

"We had no fight, but we caught about twenty men and shot them."

The committee says of this last diary: "By this time killing not in a fight would seem to have passed into a habit."

The report adds that the most important entry is contained in diary No. 19. This contains no name and address, but names referred to in the diary indicate that the entries were made by an officer of the First Regiment of Foot Guards. The entry made at Ermeton, on Aug. 24, says: "We took about 1,000 prisoners; at least 500 were shot. The village was burnt because inhabitants had also shot. Two civilians were shot at once."

The conclusions of the committee as to the various detailed recitals, are as follows:

Significance of the Acts.

"We may now sum up and endeavor to explain the character of significance of the wrongful acts done by the German army in Belgium.

"If a line is drawn on a map from the Belgian frontier to Liege and continued to Charleroi, and a second line drawn from Liege to Malines, a sort of figure resembling an irregular "Y" will be formed. It is along this "Y" that most of the systematic (as opposed to isolated) outrages were committed. If the period from Aug. 4 to Aug. 30 is taken it will be found to cover most of these organized outrages. Termondor and Alost extend, it is true, beyond the "Y" lines, and they belong to the month of September. Murder, rape, arson and pillage began from the moment when the German army crossed the frontier. For the first fortnight of the war the towns and villages near Liege were the chief sufferers. From Aug. 19 to the end of the month outrages spread in the directions of Charleroi and Malines and reach their period of greatest intensity. There is a certain significance in the fact that the outrages around Liege coincide with the unexpected resistance of the Belgian army in that district, and that the slaughter which reigned from Aug. 19 to the end of the month is contemporaneous with the period when the German army's need for a quick passage through Belgium at all costs was deemed imperative.

Due to Intoxication.

"Individual acts of brutality—ill-treatment of civilians, rape, plunder and the like—were very widely committed. These are more numerous and more shocking than would be expected in warfare between civilized powers, but they differ rather in extent than in kind from what had happened in previous though not recent wars.

"In all wars there are many shocking and outrageous acts of men of criminal instincts whose worst passions were unloosed by the immunity which the conditions of warfare afford. Drunkenness, moreover, may turn even a soldier who has no criminal habits into a brute, who may commit outrages at which he would himself be shocked in his sober moments, and there is evidence that intoxication was extremely prevalent among the German army, both in Belgium and in France, for plenty of wine was to be found in the villages and country houses which were pillaged. Many of the worst outrages appear to have been perpetrated by men under the influence of drink. Unfortunately little seems to have been done to repress this source of danger.

Without Precedent.

"In the present war, however, and this is the gravest charge against the German army—the evidence shows that the killing of non-combatants was carried out to an extent for which no previous war between nations claiming to be civilized (for such cases as the atrocities perpetrated by the Turks on the Bulgarian Christians in 1876, and on the Armenian Christians in 1895 and 1896, do not belong to that category) furnishes any precedent. That this killing was done as part of a deliberate plan is clear from the facts herein before set forth regarding Louvain, Aerschot, Dinant and other towns. The killing was done under orders in each place. It began at a certain fixed date. Some of the officers who carried out the work did it reluctantly, and said they were obeying directions from their chiefs. The same remarks apply to the destruction of property. House burning was part of the program; and villages, even large parts of a city, were given to the flames as part of the terrorizing policy."

Never Officially Denied.

"Citizens of neutral states who visited Belgium in December and January report that the German authorities do not deny that non-combatants were systematically killed in large numbers during the first weeks of the invasion, and this so far as we know, has never been officially denied. If it were denied, the flight and continued voluntary exile of thousands of Belgian refugees would go far to contradict a denial, for there is no historical parallel in modern times for the flight of a large part of a nation before an invader.

"The German government have, however, sought to justify their severities on the grounds of military necessity and have excused them as retaliation for cases in which civilians fired on German troops. There may have been cases in which such firing occurred, but no proof has ever been given, or, to our knowledge, attempted to be given, of such cases, nor of the stories of shocking outrages perpetrated by Belgian men and women on German soldiers." • • •

Referring to a statement by the chancellor of the German empire on Sept. 12, last, that Belgians had committed outrages on the German soldiers, the committee says:

Killed Without Inquiry.

"No evidence whatever seems to have been adduced to prove this and though there may be cases in which individual Belgians fired on the Germans, the statement that 'the whole civilian population of Belgium was called out' is utterly opposed to the fact.

"An invading army may be entitled to shoot at sight a civilian caught red-handed, or any one who though not caught redhanded is proved guilty on inquiry. But this was not the practice followed by the German troops. They do not seem to have made any inquiry. They seized the civilians of the village indiscriminately and killed them, or such as they selected from among them, without any test regard to guilt or innocence. The mere crime 'Civilisten haben geschossen' was enough to hand over a whole village or district and even outlying places to ruthless slaughter.

"We cannot record the instances where the evidence shows that humanity has not wholly disappeared from some members of the German army and that they realized that the responsible heads of that organization was employing them not in war but butchery; 'I am merely executing orders, and I should be shot if I did not execute them,' said an officer to a citizen of Louvain. At Brussels another officer says: 'I have not done one-hundredth part of what we have been ordered to do by the high German military authorities.' • • •

Amazed by Depositions.

"That these acts should have been perpetrated on the peaceful population of an unoffending country which was not at war with its invaders but merely defending its own neutrality, guaranteed by the invading power, may excite amazement and even incredulity. It was with amazement and almost with incredulity that the committee first read the depositions relating to such acts. But when the evidence regarding Liege was followed by that regarding Aerschot, Louvain, Andenne, Dinant and the other towns and villages the cumulative effect of such a mass of concurrent testimony became irresistible, and we were driven to the conclusion that the things described had really happened. The question then arose how they could have happened. Not mere military license, for the discipline of the German army is proverbially stringent, and its obedience explicit. Not from any special ferocity of the troops, for whoever has traveled among the German peasantry knows that they are as kindly and good-natured as any people in Europe, and those who can recall the war of 1870 will remember that no charges resembling those proved by these depositions were then established. The excesses recently committed in Belgium were, moreover, too widespread and too uniform in their character to be mere sporadic outbursts of passion of rapacity.

Committed On a System.

"The explanation seems to be that these excesses were committed—in some cases ordered, in others allowed—on a system and in pursuance of a set purpose. That purpose was to strike terror into the civil population and dishearten the Belgian troops, so as to crush down resistance and extinguish the very spirit of self-defense. The pretext that civilians had fired upon the invading troops was used to justify not merely the shooting of individual francs-tireurs, but the murder of large numbers of innocent civilians, an act absolutely forbidden by the rules of civilized warfare.

"In the minds of Prussian officers war seems to have become a sort of sacred mission, one of the highest functions of the omnipotent state, which is itself as much an army as a state. Ordinary morality and the ordinary sentiment of pity vanish in its presence, superseded by a new standard which justifies to the soldier every means that can conduce to success, however shocking to a natural sense of justice and humanity, however revolting to his own feelings. The Spirit of War is deified. Obedience to the state and its war lord leaves no room for any other duty or feeling. Cruelty becomes legitimate when it promises victory. Proclaimed by the heads of the army, this doctrine would seem to have permeated the officers and affected even the private soldiers, leading them to justify the killing of non-combatants as an act of war, and so accustoming them to slaughter that even women and children become at last the victims. It cannot be supposed to be a national doctrine, for it neither springs from nor reflects the mind and feelings of the German people as they have heretofore been known to other nations. It is specifically military doctrine, the outcome of a theory held by a ruling caste who have brooded and thought, written and talked and dreamed about war until they have fallen under its obsession and been hypnotized by its spirit.

The Principle Adopted.

"The doctrine is plainly set forth in the German "Official Monograph on the Usages of War on Land," issued under the direction of the German staff. This book is pervaded throughout by the view that whatever military needs suggest becomes thereby lawful, and upon this principle, as the diaries show, the German officers acted.

"If this explanation be the true one, the mystery is solved, and that which seemed scarcely credible becomes more intelligible though not less pernicious. This is not the only case that history records in which a false theory, disguising itself as loyalty to a state or to a church, has perverted the conception of duty and becomes a source of danger to the world."

Another division of the report is on the "killing of non-combatants in France." This is not as detailed as the case of Belgium, as the committee states that the French official report states the most complete account as to the invaded districts in France. It adds:

"The evidence before us proves that, in the parts of France referred to, the murder of unoffending civilians and other acts of cruelty, including aggravated cases of rape, carried out under threat of death, and sometimes actually followed by murder of the victim, were committed by some of the German troops."

Treatment of Women.

A special chapter is given to the treatment of women and children. The latter, it is said, frequently received milder treatment than the men. But many instances are given of "calculated cruelty, often going the length of murder, towards the women and children." At Aerschot, it says, women and children were herded into the church which had recently been used as a stable, detained for forty-eight hours with no food other than coarse bread, and denied the common decencies of life. "In other cases women and children were marched for long distances, the laggards being pricked by the attending Uhlans. A lady complains of having been brutally kicked by a private. Others were struck with the butt end of rifles. At Liege women and children were chased about the streets by soldiers. A witness gives a story, very circumstantial in its details, of how women were publicly raped in the market place of the city, five young German officers assisting." Another witness tells of a carousel of officers, at which the woman of the house was shot dead, and her husband then compelled to dig a grave in the garden and there bury his wife. The report goes on:

Sometimes Punished.

"In the evidence before us there are cases tending to show that aggravated crimes against women were sometimes severely punished. One witness reports that a young girl who was being pursued by a drunken soldier at Louvain appealed to a German soldier, and that the offender was then and there shot; another described how an officer of the Thirty-second regiment of the line was led out to execution for the violation of two young girls, but reprieved at the request or with the consent of the girls' mother. These instances are sufficient to show that the maltreatment of women was no part of the military scheme of the invaders, however much it may appear to have been the inevitable result of the system of terror deliberately adopted in certain regions.

"In this tale of horrors, hideous forms of mutilation occur with some frequency in the depositions, two of which may be connected in some instances with a perverted form of sexual instinct.

"We find many well-established cases of the slaughter (often accompanied by mutilation) of whole families, including not infrequently that of quite small children. In two cases it seems to be clear that preparations were made to burn a family alive. These crimes were committed over a period of many weeks and simultaneously in many places, and the authorities must have known or ought to have known that cruelties of this character were being perpetrated, nor can any one doubt that they could have been stopped by swift and decisive action on the part of the heads of the German army.

Offenses Against Infants.

"It is clearly shown that many offenses were committed against infants and quite young children. On one occasion children were even roped together and used as a military screen against the enemy's on another three soldiers went into action carrying small children to protect themselves from flank fire. A shocking case of the murder of a baby by a drunken soldier at Malines is reported by one eye-witness and confirmed by another.

"We cannot tell whether these acts of cruelty to children were part of a scheme for inducing submission by inspiring terror. In Louvain, where the system of terrorizing was carried to the furtherest limit, outrages on children were uncommon. The same, however, cannot be said of some of the smaller villages which were subjected to the system. In Hofstade and Sempst, in Haecht, Rotselaer and Wespelaer, many children were murdered. Nor can it be said of the village of Tamines where three small children (whose names are given by an eye-witness of the crime) were slaughtered on the green for no apparent motive. It is difficult to imagine the motives which may have prompted such acts. Whether or not Belgian civilians fired on German soldiers, young children at any rate did not fire."

Property Looted and Burned.

Many instances are given of the use of civilians as screens during the military operation. Another branch of the report deals with looting, burning and destruction of property. "The general conclusion," the report says, "is that the burning and destruction of property which took place was only in a very small minority of cases justified by military necessity." Cases of firing on hospitals, Red Cross ambulances and stretcher bearers are referred to, but this report adds: "On the whole, we do not find proof of a general or systematic firing on hospitals or ambulances; but it is not possible to believe that much care was taken to avoid this."

Cases of the Red Cross being misused for offensive military purposes, and of abuse of the white flag are also given. As to the latter the report says: "There is in our opinion sufficient evidence that these offenses have been frequent, deliberate and in many cases committed by whole units under orders. All the facts mentioned are in contravention of The Hague convention, signed by the great powers, including France, Germany, Great Britain and the United States, in 1907."

NEW PLANT IN PROSPECT

Announcement Is Expected Soon of New Industry for Head of Lakes.

Early Opening of Steel Plant Looked for When War Ends.

Negotiations are now in progress which may lead to the establishing of an industry at the Western limits of the city that will involve a heavy capital expenditure and afford employment to several hundred hands. Definite announcement as to the plans of the promoters is expected shortly.

Reassuring gossip affecting Duluth is current in other quarters.

Opinions are expressed in well-informed iron and steel trade circles that the better conditions in the industry and the certainty of a period of great industrial activity in this country after the conclusion of the European war will prompt the United States Steel corporation to bring its Duluth plant to completion at the earliest date possible.

Steel Plant Soon.

It is intimated that the force employed in installing machinery at the plant is to be increased shortly and that two of the departments may be operated much sooner than has been forecasted. The assurance of prosperous conditions ruling in the Northwest in the event of the harvesting of a bumper crop and its disposition at high prices, are said to be promoting optimism in industrial circles through expectations of an unprecedented demand for various products. The steel plant at Duluth and the allied industries located here, it is conceded, would be in a favorable position to compete with Eastern concerns for Western trade.

Eastern Plants Rushed.

In the East extensions are being pushed at several iron and steel plants. The Bethlehem Steel corporation is rushing work on the completion of a large addition to its merchant mill and it is expected that the extension will be completed within a month. A large addition to its ordnance plant is under way. The completion of these works, it is estimated, will mean the employment of 3,000 men at Bethlehem.

It is expected that the plants of the Chicago Pneumatic Tool company, located at Franklin, Pa., will, within six weeks, be in operation night and day, employing upward of 500 men. The company has large orders for shells from the allies, estimated up to 300,000 shells.

The order was obtained from the Bethlehem Steel corporation and deliveries must be made before the summer of 1916. The necessary machinery for the construction of these shells is now being contracted for and preparations for the installment is under way.

This company has been furnishing air compressors and oil engines for both Russia and England.

A. P. Cook, clerk of the board of poor commissioners, has returned from Taft, Minn., where he was called in response to an appeal for help which purported to come from a sick man with a wife and nine children on his hands and no food or money.

Mr. Cook said that the man and the owner of the land which he was occupying had had a misunderstanding, and that affairs were not as bad as they had been pictured.

WAS FORMER VIRGINIA MAN

Edmund C. Burke Dies From Injuries Received in Auto Wreck at Seattle.

Married in Range City and Removed to State of Washington.

Seattle, Wash., May 12.—Edmund C. Burke, president of Burke & Farrar, Inc., died at Providence hospital as the result of injuries received on March 21 last when the automobile in which he and his family were riding was struck by a car driven by Clarence B. Blethen and hurled into a ditch near Kent.

An operation, made imperative by the seriousness of Mr. Burke's injuries, was performed. His weakened condition from confinement in the hospital for more than seven weeks and the shock of the operation proved too much for his vitality.

Mr. Burke was 47 years old and leaves an immediate family of his wife and five children—Donald, 14; Bernice, 8; Virginia, 6; Edmund C. Burke, Jr., 16 months old, and Marie, a 12-week-old daughter. Other relatives who survive him are three sisters—Mrs. John Kenny of St. Paul; Mrs. Katie E. Melady of Chicago, and Miss Mary Burke of St. Paul.

Born in St. Paul.

Mr. Burke was born in St. Paul and was educated in the public schools of that city. When Mr. Burke was 7 years old his father died, leaving him a large acreage between St. Paul and Minneapolis. This property is now worth several millions of dollars. Mr. Burke had one other brother, who died several years ago.

When a young man, Mr. Burke went to Virginia, Minn., and became postmaster, a position which he held for several years. He also became interested in that district.

In July, 1899, he was married in Virginia to Miss Marie Dean, and shortly after they removed to the state of Washington, first coming to South Bend, where Mr. Burke bought a shingle mill, which he operated for a year and then sold to J. A. Cole. In 1900 he removed to Seattle and engaged in the real estate business, selling his own property. He was instrumental during the railroad activities of 1905, 1906 and 1907 in buying and selling railway property. He bought and platted what is known as Greenwood Park addition to Seattle, and the Valley City Land Company's addition, consisting of 240 acres, between Tacoma and Seattle. Before these two properties were entirely sold he formed a corporation with Bert Farrar, under the name of Burke & Farrar, Inc.

GRAND JURY'S FINAL REPORT

Several secret indictments and three "no true bills" were returned by the May grand jury, which made its final report to Judge Dancer in district court this afternoon. Two indictments were made public. They were returned against:

John Mack and Andrew Niemiecko, charged with burglary in the third degree; the two men are accused of having broken into a room at the Grace hotel on May 6, and it is claimed that they stole $5 from one Sam Dahl, the occupant of the room.

Emil Vikkurt, for assault in the first degree; Vikkurt is charged with having stabbed Andrew Dahl in a hotel bar at 601 Garfield avenue last Monday night.

The grand jury freed Jaako Kalleomaki by returning a no true bill in his favor. He was held at the county jail on a charge of stealing a watch.

The jury also returned a report praising the conduct of affairs at the new county and city work farm.

CITY HALL GIRLS ORGANIZE CLUB

All the city hall girls met yesterday afternoon and organized a club, but they are unable to select a suitable name.

As a result they have appealed to the public for a good name for the club. No prize is offered for the name finally selected, but the originator will go down in the history of the organization, they say.

At the meeting yesterday afternoon the girls selected Miss Margaret Berresford, president; Miss Nellie Pendergast, vice president, and Miss Laura Arneson, secretary-treasurer.

Plans were made at the meeting to hold a luncheon this month and a picnic in June.

SURPRISE FOR DEPUTY ASSESSOR

Eleven young women and five young men, all employes in the city assessor's office, gave a birthday party yesterday noon in honor of Deputy Assessor Fowler.

The party was a complete surprise and at the termination of the luncheon Mr. Fowler was presented with a fountain pen, the gift of all the employes of the department.

Addresses were made at the luncheon by J. A. Scott, assessor, and Mr. Fowler. The refreshments were prepared by the young women.

EARLY START ON BATHING BEACH

Within a few days active work will begin on Duluth's bathing beach at Fairmont park.

Mayor Prince announced this morning that Park Manager Cleveland is now assembling the tools and equipment and that the first improvement will be the extension of Pulaski street, so that the workmen will have access to the park. The boulevard road branches off into this thoroughfare and it can, therefore, be used extensively by automobiles going to the new beach. Mr. Cleveland plans to run the roadway right up to the beach itself.

About $7,000 will be spent this summer on the proposed beach, in improving the grounds near the shore all along the Fairmont park extension purchased last year, the erection of a bathhouse and pavilion and the purchase of bathing suits, boats and other equipment necessary for beach purposes.

Mayor Prince expects the work on the beach to continue until the middle of July, when it will be ready for public use. There will be twenty-four bathhouses, all so constructed that they can be moved in case other improvements are made to the grounds.

Bids are now being received by Mr. Cleveland on furnishing the city with bathhouses, bathing suits and rowboats.

Merchant Insolvent.

Creditors of M. T. Nelson, merchant of Mahtowa, Carlton county, filed a petition in the United States district court today, asking that he be declared bankrupt, and his debts settled by the court. Stone-Ordean-Wells, F. A. Patrick company, and the Duluth Universal Milling company are signers of the petition.

They state that Mr. Nelson is insolvent and turned over all his property not more than four months ago to George G. Wright, with the request that his creditors be paid from his assets. The petition fixes his debts as follows to the three petitioners: F. A. Patrick company, $228.19; Stone-Ordean-Wells, $1,445.52; Duluth Universal Milling company, $338.99.

TWO FULL PARDONS; FIVE COMMUTATIONS

Net Result of Meeting of the State Board of Pardons.

St. Paul, Minn., May 12.—The net result of the session of the state board of pardons concluding yesterday was the granting of two full pardons and five commutations. Nineteen applications for clemency were denied.

One of the pardons went to Arthur Petit sentenced in St. Louis county in March for a statutory crime. He will be released at once.

Alleged Kidnapers Freed.

The board commuted the sentences of W. J. Sullivan, George C. Payne and Peter L. Newman, convicted in Crow Wing county on a kidnaping charge at Crosby. In January the board exercised clemency in the case of Sullivan, who is a law student, so that he never has been locked up and yesterday the board made the action effective as to all. The three are alleged to have kidnaped a striker from Crosby during labor troubles, but some viewed the affair as a prank of boys and no little pressure was brought to bear on the board to commute the sentences. Judge McClenahan, who tried the cases is on record as not opposing the board's action. Some radical state labor leaders opposed the commutation. The three are facing an action for damages in the Federal court. The second full pardon went to Francis McCarthy sent from Hennepin county in 1912 for from five to forty years for robbery. He is now out on parole and yesterday's action permits him to leave the state.

Reduced to Two Years.

George McColloch, sent from Cottonwood county in 1914, to the reformatory at St. Cloud for assault in the second degree, had his sentence commuted to two years. Alexander Le Plante, sent from Polk county in 1914, to Stillwater for arson in the third degree, had his sentence commuted to three years.

Application of Dr. Philip Mueller, sent from Hennepin county in 1912 to state prison for manslaughter in the first degree, and of Richard Herbst, sent from Hennepin county in 1913 for robbery in the second degree, were taken under advisement.

NEW FLOODWOOD WELL.

Good Flow of Water Is Struck at Depth of Ninety-Six Feet.

Floodwood, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ladd & Burg yesterday completed drilling a well for this village. The depth is ninety-six feet. With a steady pumping for one and three-quarter hours, throwing a one-inch stream of water, the level of water kept continually rising until it reached within sixteen feet of the surface, indicating an abundant supply of water of excellent quality. The outside casing is six inches in diameter, and the cost of the well, including pipes and casing, is $375. If this well proves satisfactory after a thorough trial, the council may decide to sink two more wells in different parts of the village, and the residents would be provided with plenty of water for drinking purposes as well as for fire protection.

PARDON FOR CARBERRY.

Efforts Being Made to Release Him From North Dakota Penitentiary.

Carberry admitted being drunk with Glass and Cochran and to having been near the scene of the crime, but always denied being the shooter.

Since his term in prison began, Carberry has become a greatly changed man, freed from the temptation of liquor he has been restored somewhat to his former position in life and his friends here believe that if given a chance he will become a useful citizen as he had never shown any criminal tendencies, being only weak in regard to becoming intoxicated.

St. Paul, Minn., May 12.—There is no truth in the report that elk in the paddock at Itasca state park have been killed by wolves, according to State Forester W. T. Cox, who has returned after two weeks spent in the northern woods. Seven of the new herd have died from injuries received in shipment, he says, but otherwise the elk are in good shape. Sick Women Made Well

Reliable evidence is abundant that women are constantly being restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The many testimonial letters tnat we are continually publishing in the newspapers—hundreds of them—are all genuine, true and unsolicited expressions of heartfelt gratitude for the freedom from suffering that has come to these women solely through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Money could not buy nor any kind of influence obtain such recommendations; you may depend upon it that any testimonial we publish is honest and true—if you have any doubt of this write to the women whose true names and addresses are always given, and learn for yourself.

Read this one from Mrs. Waters:

CAMDEN, N.J.—"I was sick for two years with nervous spells, and my kidneys were affected. I had a doctor all the time and used a galvanic battery, but nothing did me any good. I was not able to go to bed, but spent my time on a couch or in a sleeping-chair, and soon became almost a skeleton. Finally my doctor went away for his health, and my husband heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got me some. In two months I got relief and now I am like a new woman and am at my usual weight. I recommend your medicine to every one and so does my husband."—Mrs. TILLIE WATERS, 530 Mechanic Street, Camden, N.J.

From Hanover, Penn.

HANOVER, PA.—"I was a very weak woman and suffered from bearing down pains and backache. I had been married over four years and had no children. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound proved an excellent remedy for it made me a well woman. After taking a few bottles my pains disappeared, and we now have one of the finest boy babies you ever saw."—Mrs. C. A. RICKRODE, R.F.D., No. 5, Hanover, Pa.

Now answer this question if you can. Why should a woman continue to suffer without first giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial? You know that it has saved many others—why should it fail in your case?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.

Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

A STONE QUARRY IN YOUR BLADDER

Gravel and stone in the bladder are two of the greatest dangers to mankind. Neglect and abuse of the kidneys and urinary tracts are directly responsible for these conditions. At your time of life you must not take chances. If your kidneys do not properly filter out from your body the poisons which are accumulating every minute of the day, trouble is sure to follow. Uric acid poisoning, rheumatism, nervous disorders, skin disfigurement can all be traced straight to the kidneys and bladder. But gravel and stone in the bladder are the most painful symptoms of bad kidneys.

The best thing in the world for these troubles is GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil, now put up in Capsules. For over two hundred years this standard, reliable medicine has been a great boon to mankind. Thousands of physicians use it in their daily practice. What better recommendation could you ask? The capsules will filter and clarify your kidneys and urinary tracts so quickly you can hardly believe it. And at such a small cost. The imported genuine GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules are sold by druggists generally. Prices, 25c, 50c and $1.00. Your druggist will gladly refund the purchase price if they do not help you. But be sure to insist on GOLD MEDAL. They are the only genuine Haarlem Oil Capsules imported fresh every month from Holland, by the Genuine Haarlem Oil Mfg. Co., American Office, 194 Water St., New York City. All others are imitations.

THE IRISH HAVE WAITED FOR ANOTHER PETER MAHER

Not Since the Wilting of the Lad Who Nearly Beat Fitzsimmons Have the Emerald Isle Citizens Been Elated—Kid McCoy Was a Great Fighter; So Is Georges Carpentier and So Is Mike Gibbons.

BY BRUCE.

NATE LEWIS, manager of Charley White, met Mike Collins in Chicago. Nate had been on to the big town to witness the scrap between Al Reich and Jim Coffey.

"There were something over 9,000 persons in the garden," said Lewis. "There were something like 900 passes and 300 ushers. All of the Irish paid to get in. The pass holders and ushers were persons of other nationalities. Since you ask me, I should say Jim Coffey is very popular with his countrymen in the metropolis."

John L. Sullivan was Irish and so was Jim Corbett. Peter Maher was the idol of the real Irish, because of the fact that he came right from the auld sod. The same is true of Coffey. The latest aspirant for the heavyweight crown is as Irish as a bright green hat—and if he continues to strew pugilistic corpses along his course, the Irish population of the United States will be vigorously rooting for big Jim every time he starts.

Poor Old Peter Maher.

MAYBE Peter Maher was the hardest hitter the ring game ever uncovered. Followers of John L. Sullivan and Bob Fitzsimmons also claim the honor for their favorites. Be that as it may, the vivid fact remains that Pete could hit.

As a green fighter, impulsive, unwise to ring ways and untutored in the exact science of the game, Maher was sent against Bob Fitzsimmons, the hero of a hundred battles, at New Orleans. In the first round the rugged Irishman rushed at Fitz and knocked him prone to the resin. Joe Choynski stuck a knife blaed in under Fitz's glove and under his finger nail to rouse him. It is charged that the round was shortened to save the red head from certain defeat.

Fitz came out in the succeeding rounds and jabbed Maher into the quitting point. Had Maher won he would have been one of the greatest heroes in the history of the ring; as it was, poor Peter was a great drawing card until successive defeats made a trial horse of one of the most dangerous pugilists in the history of the game.

How McCoy Beat Maher.

ALONG came McCoy when Maher was going down the far side of the pugilistic hill. The men fought in a cold old building. Maher entered the ring first. Snuggled up close to a roaring stove fire, with his legs wrapped in blankets, the wily McCoy kept his veteran antagonist waiting in the blue cold of the ring for nearly half an hour.

Finally McCoy entered the ring. Quickly he crossed over to where the shivering Maher stood. Into the Irish ear of Peter the Kid whispered a terrible imprecation. Maher became enraged. He remained in a blue funk of furious impotency until the lightning-hitting McCoy put him away.

Later McCoy sent a courier around to Maher's dressing room. "What I said in the ring don't go now," was the pacifying message of Norman Selby.

McCoy One of the Greatest.

KID McCOY was one of the greatest of all the world's ring warriors. He possessed the classic countenance of a poet; the pale skin of an esthetic—and the fighting heart of a gun man.

Unlike Jim Corbett or Peter Jackson, McCoy loved to fight on the streets or any other place. He was cruel at heart and loved to inflict punishment.

In England, at a public bar, McCoy stood idly talking with one of those bar kids that are part and parcel of an English public house.

A burly, tough and villainous person approached and strenuously objected to the attentions the kid was paying to the girl.

"Who's your ugly looking friend?" sneered the kid. The tough swung a wide heave for the silk-tiled head of Norman Selby. The boxer hit a short one—one of those punches that has everything behind it, yet seems scarcely to travel six inches.

As they carried the big rough away the kid nonchalantly resumed his airy attentions to the woman in the case. The kid had great nerve—and a pirate's love for adventure.

His Prototype, Carpentier.

SKILLED observers of boxers who have touched both sides of the Atlantic, tell us that the young and Atlantic, tell us that the young and romantic Frenchman, Georges Carpentier, is the nearest modern approach to Kid McCoy. If Norman Selby were in his prime today he would have a holy picnic with all the heavyweights in the ring over the short ten-round route. If Carpentier escapes the grim lust of the present war and comes to the United States, he, too, will walk through the modern boxers.

McCoy could jab, murderously hook and shoot a right with power and the precision of a true marksman. The kid feinted Tom Sharkey into a knot and then clouted with his right. The sailor hit the floor as if he had been dropped from a high building. The tin horn politicians of Gotham had their money on Sharkey and the count was strung out to save him. The Kid could hit, he could box—he knew everything about the game.

Georges Carpentier is one of the greatest of modern boxers—and he is a real hitter and can and will take the gaff. More than this, he is the most romantic figure in Fistiana. If the young Frenchman would come to this country today he would prove the greatest box office attraction in the game.

The Brains of the Thing.

BOXING is a true art—one of the fine arts, when it is an art. Mike Gibbons is one of the few great artists of the present time. Michael has a fine and sensitive brain, that thinks and acts like lightning. Brawn is only a very infinitesimal part of the success of this wonderful lad—it is the perfect co-ordination of brain and body that makes him perhaps the greatest fighter of his time.

There is a right way to fight—a true and straight line to the very heart of ring effectiveness—and it is because of the knowledge of this correct way of doing ring things that Mike Gibbons, with his bank clerk physical makeup, beats the abysmal brutes of the ring.

Remember to buy it—You will forget you have it on. Cool, easy and perfect fitting.

DOOKS LOSE CLOSE GAME

St. Boniface Wins Second Contest of Series By 7 to 6 Count.

Spellman Cracks a Homer and Triple—Wolfe Also Stars.

St. Boniface, Man., May 12.—St. Boniface won the second game of the series here yesterday by the score of 7 to 6. The locals got away to a four-run lead in the initial round and clustered three more runs in the fifth. The Dooks got started in the sixth with a brace of runs and then came back in the hostile ninth and gave the spectators a scare by piling up four runs and coming within one of tying up the count.

Catcher Spellman was mainly responsible for the domestic win. With men on bases he cracked out a triple and homer. The visitors had plenty of opportunities to win the contest, but failed to hit in the pinches, ten men being stranded on the tow paths.

Wolfe again was a hitting hero, getting a single and two doubles out of four times up.

Neither Jones nor Leahy was effective.

CAPTAIN "DAN" MAHONEY MADE D. B. C. PRESIDENT

Genial Captain Is Unanimous Choice of Members as Successor to Ray W. Higgins; Walker Jamar Is Re-Elected Secretary; Treasurer's Report Shows Deficit; Communication Received From Julius H. Barnes.

Capt. "Dan" Mahoney was last evening unanimously elected president of the Duluth Boat club. The annual meeting of club members for the election of officers was held in the rooms of the Commercial club. More than 200 club members were present. W. S. Telford, John G. Williams and Bentley Neff were chosen as vice presidents. Walker Jamar was chosen to succeed himself as secretary and Arthur P. Barnes was retained in the office of treasurer. Anthony Puck was made club captain, succeeding President Mahoney, and Dr. Frank Lynam was retained as a member of the board of directors, with John Killorin, Ray Higgins and Elmer Whyte as new members.

For years, since the establishment of the original Duluth Boat club over on the Sixth avenue slip, "Dan" Mahoney has been one of the heart and soul labor squad of the club. For several seasons he was one of the greatest oarsmen in the organization, being a member of the famous "pie-eating" four, which won several big trophy events in the old Northwestern regatta.

The boat club has been one of the distinct hobbies of Dan Mahoney. He has fathered it and catered solicitously to its whims, so to speak. The honor of being chosen as president of the club is one well deserved and a very popular choice with the members of the club.

Funds Are Needed.

According to the treasurer's report, a deficit of $3,300 was incurred during the last fiscal year. As the sources of income of the club for the last fiscal year showed a decrease of $4,800 from that of the previous season, it will be seen that the officials of the club did remarkably well in keeping the deficit to fairly moderate proportions.

An active campaign for new members will be started in the near future. More funds are needed to operate the club and it has been decided that the best method to increase the income of the club is by securing additional members.

Retiring President Ray W. Higgins received a tribute from the members of the club. A vote of thanks was extended Mr. Higgins for the able manner in which he conducted the affairs of the club during his term of office.

Moving pictures of the races at the Philadelphia last year and of the crew candidates of Syracuse university at work in the tank, were shown by Coach James E. Ten Eyck, the coach explaining some features of the films.

J. D. MAHONEY.

Always solicitous of the interests of the boat club, and ever interested in its affairs, Julius H. Barnes sent the following telegram, which reached Duluth at the close of the meeting:

New York, May 11.—R. W. Higgins, Duluth.—I shall be thinking tonight of the annual meeting of the old club and I cannot let it pass without sending word to our members that I hope in all they do the interests of our club will be uppermost in their hearts and minds. The grand old record of our club and city must be maintained and increased and to new hands and fresh enthusiasm we must delegate that work. Greetings to all members, particularly those whose confidence, loyalty and aid has helped create our organization.

JULIUS H. BARNES."

GULFLIGHT FLYING THE AMERICAN FLAG

Washington, May 12.—The state department late yesterday made public a sworn statement by Ralph E. Smith, chief officer of the American steamer Gulflight, describing the torpedoing of that vessel May 1 off the Scilly islands. When torpedoed, the officer says, the Gulflight was flying a large American ensign, probably ten feet in size. He said he saw the submarine but "could not distinguish or see any flag flying on her."

Chief Officer Smith further says that shortly before the submarine was sighted two British patrol boats, the Iago and Filey, took positions on either side of the Gulflight and ordered her to follow them to the Bishop lighthouse.

"I personally observed our flag was standing out well to the breeze," the officer stated.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Automobile or Microscope

A WISE professor advised his graduating class of medical students to invest in a microscope and working outfit first, and an automobile afterward.

There were some sixty students all told. Every one of them didn't take the professor's advice. You see, the great American public judges a doctor not by his scientific attainments and equipment, but by his personal appearance, and an automobile gets more business than a microscope—this year.

An automobile gets you there five minutes ahead of the fellow who depends on a street car, or good sole leather. The patient once in your hands, well, these days you must go to opportunity, for opportunity hasn't the time to come to you.

Still, a microscope does give a doctor a great assurance—helps to save him from the resort to shotgun formulas and drug-agent methods of practice. The information derived from the microscopical examination of blood, sputum, urine, and other body secretions places the doctor on a sound footing as regards his treatment of the case; whereas, without such aid, he must grope blindly and shoot at random.

Now it costs money, this microscopical work. You can't expect to get it for nothing. But it is a mighty good investment, at that, considering it from the money side alone. For instance, if the germs of tuberculosis are found in the sputum, well, you know then. You don't have to waste time and money on treatment for "catarrh," "rundown condition," "anemia," "dyspepsia," or "bronchial trouble." You get busy with the right method. And just think of the tremendous importance of certainty as contrasted with doubt in such a case.

Likewise in kidney disease and other conditions of the urinary tract—the microscope gives positive, dependable information and points out the specific line of treatment required. Here, too, the element of timeliness makes all the difference in the world in the outcome.

There are scores of equally significant questions of diagnosis which can only be settled by the microscope. A doctor could make a fairly good guess without its aid, perhaps, but he can be sure certain with his microscope.

When in a tremendous hurry, call the doctor with the speediest automobile. When not so rushed, but anxious to learn the truth as soon as possible, look for the man with the microscope. He resides on every third corner.

Questions and Answers.

Why Be an Invalid at Twenty?: I am 20 years old and have had chronic joint trouble for five years—feet, hands and other joints. I have very badly diseased tonsils and the doctors have urged me to have them out. Is this a safe time of year for the operation? Is it dangerous? Could I come home right afterward? Would it help my joint trouble?

REPLY.

You have no right to be an invalid at 20, Miss G. E. Have the tonsils out, by all means, and right now is the best time in the world. The operation is less dangerous than it will be to keep the tonsils. You could probably return home after 24 or 48 hours. It may be the miracle which will heal the joints.

Anemia and Heart Trouble: Is anemia a symptom of heart trouble? Doctors say my heart is all right. My stomach always feels empty. Is that a symptom, too?

REPLY.

Anemia may be due to heart trouble, but usually the palpitation or pains or distress is a symptom due to anemia. So is the empty feeling.

Jeffersons-Washburns, Hunter's Park. Umpire—Robinson.

There are six games in the Duluth Grade School Baseball league scheduled for today. As several of the strongest teams in the two divisions of the league are pitted against one another, some interesting contests are looked for.

It was announced today that the decision in the Adams-Lincoln contest awarding the game to the Lincolns, stands as final. It is expected that this will have the effect of making the Blue and White stars play all the harder. It is believed that the Adams will make a valiant effort to regain the head of the Western division.

In the Eastern division much interest is being exhibited in the meeting between the Washington school and Lakesides. Both of these teams are strong and a real battle is expected.

The strong Jefferson team is scheduled to meet the Washburns, and as the Jeffersons are in the very thick of the pennant chase, some real excitement is looked for. Determined to get into the running, the management of the Washburn team has been endeavoring to strengthen.

With the arrival of real baseball weather, some improvement in the brand of baseball of the various teams is expected. All of the players are getting down to their knitting and the final half of the race for pennant honors in the two divisions of the league is expected to bring out some fast baseball playing upon the part of the kids.

COLERAINE READY FOR THE N. M. D. A.

Rest of Western Range Will Assist in Entertaining Delegates.

The 1915 meeting of the Northern Minnesota Development association, to be held at Coleraine June 10 and 11, will be one of the most successful sessions ever held by Northern Minnesota boosters in the belief of George D. McCarthy of Duluth, secretary of the association.

Mr. McCarthy returned from Coleraine yesterday, after conferring with the committee in charge of arrangements. With J. H. Hearding, assistant general manager of the Oliver Iron Mining company, Mr. McCarthy spoke at a banquet given by the Coleraine Commercial club Monday night.

"Coleraine will do its part to make the meeting next month a success," he said today. "Nashwauk, Bovey, Taconite, Marble and other towns on the Western Mesaba range also are taking an active interest in the meeting and will have large delegations on hand to assist in the entertainment of visitors."

OPPOSED TO EARLY TRAIN

New Duluth Commercial Club Will Confer With N. P. Officials.

Would Ask Injunction to Prevent Change in the Schedule.

Citizens of New Duluth and Fond du Lac do not intend to allow the Northern Pacific to change the running time of its last passenger train to the suburb to an earlier hour than at present if they can help it. At a meeting of the New Duluth Commercial club last night, unanimous sentiment was expressed against the proposed change in schedule.

"We have worked for several years to get the Northern Pacific railroad to give us a later train," said U. C. Tower of New Duluth this morning. "The train accommodates a number of New Duluth people who work uptown until 6 o'clock, gives our citizens longer time to go shopping uptown and also provides a train to Duluth in the evening that allows visitors to spend the entire day in the suburb. Any earlier train schedule than that now in use, would be a great handicap to this part of the city."

Similar expressions were voiced by Fred W. Damkroeger, president of the New Duluth Commercial club; R. L. Taylor, its secretary; Otto Krueger, former alderman; Noble Sampson, and many others.

A committee consisting of Mr. Damkroeger, Mr. Taylor and Mr. Sampson was appointed to confer with the railroad officials and remonstrate against any change. They will demand that if a train is required to accommodate the workmen at the steel plant, that the railroad put on the special service it rendered last summer.

If the proposed change is announced to go into effect without giving the proper kind of a hearing to the complaints of the New Duluthians before the state railroad and warehouse commission, the citizens propose to get an injunction against the railroad putting any such change into effect.

LUCIEN A. BARNES.

From a newspaper reporter to a banker is the evolution through which Lucien A. Barnes, banker, real estate man and one of West Duluth's leading citizens, has gone during the last quarter of a century in West Duluth. In the early days of West Duluth, he was a reporter for one of the local papers, and although his newspaper days are past, he still has a "nose for news."

Mr. Barnes is one of the leading spirits of the West Duluth Commercial club as well as of many of the lodges of West Duluth. As a booster he got his training early and is still at it.

Mr. Barnes represented this end of the city several terms in the city council under the old form of government and served on a number of boards, including the school board. As cashier of the Western State bank, he is in touch with the industrial interests in this end of the city. Mr. Barnes resides at 831 North Fifty-seventh avenue west.

"DIRT IN FULL RETREAT AFTER HAVING SUFFERED HEAVY LOSS," SAYS GRAVEL

ONE OF THE SPOTS MISSED TO DATE.

Rakes, brooms and brushes are busy in all sections of Duluth with the greatest clean-up and paint-up campaign in the city's history in full swing.

Before Saturday "dirt will be in full retreat, after having suffered heavy losses" in the words of Frank X. Gravel of "yours for cleanliness" fame, who is chairman of the citizens' committee in charge of the work.

Mounted Patrolmen A. Callahan and Harry Rood, with Motorcycle Officer L. A. Root yesterday notified owners of property found by the committee's inspection squad to be in bad condition. They reported to Commissioner Silberstein that all owners were showing a disposition to co-operate in making Duluth a real "spotless town."

One or two eye sores still are to be removed, however, according to Mr. Gravel. The above picture was taken about a block from the postoffice and near the city's civic center.

Front yards were in the spotlight Tuesday; today was back yard day and tomorrow, officially designated as "Paint" day, will be featured by much flourishing of paint brushes, it is expected.

FIREMEN HELPLESS WHILE HOUSE BURNS

Fritsch House on Hillside Destroyed; Hydrant Too Far Away.

Firemen at No. 8 station stood for nearly a half hour in front of their hall watching the residence of John Fritsch nearly two miles away going up in flames. The fire was out of their district, but the call was answered by the men from No. 2, who were unable to render assistance.

The Fritsch house was situated high up on the hillside near Thirty-second avenue and Tenth street. The nearest hydrant was more than five blocks away, and by the time the hose had been stretched that distance, the house was entirely consumed by the flames.

That the fire started from the kitchen stove, is the belief of Mrs. Fritsch. She had gone out to a neighbor about a block from her home and had been gone about half an hour when the flames were seen shooting up through the roof. The loss is estimated at nearly $1,000. Insurance amounting to $350 was carried on the house and $250 on the furniture. The building and contents were a total loss.

ADDITION TO WORKING FORCE

Fifty Additional Men Employed at Cement Company's Plant.

Fifty additional men, including several carpenters and bricklayers were put to work yesterday and five more went to work this morning at the Universal Portland cement plant at Gary. More than 100 men have now gone to work on the construction of the big plant.

It is now estimated that more than 800 men have been put to work in the suburbs since March 1. More than 500 men are now being employed at the steel plant and more than 100 are employed in Morgan park, making the "Model City" one of the brightest spots in Duluth to live in, and many men have been given work on street improvements in the suburb by the city.

The additional force that will go to work at the cement plant later on will be those employed by steel construction firms which have the contract for erecting the steel frames for the various buildings. This work will probably begin early in June.

Additional men are being put to work daily at the steel plant. While the number is not swelling fast still from three to ten men have been added daily to the force. It is said that work is being pushed faster than was at first expected and that probably before the end of the summer months as many men will be employed on the construction work as there were a year ago.

Pictures of the governor going in and out of the various schools as well as several features of interest on the trip, were taken. The show house has been furnished with 1,000 feet of the film.

AUTO MAGNATE VISITS DULUTH

General Manager of Franklin Company Says Business Is Brisk.

Arthur Holmes, vice president and general manager of the Franklin Automobile company, one of the best known automobile men in America, was a Duluth visitor yesterday.

Mr. Holmes is on his way to the coast to inspect the Franklin exhibits at the San Francisco and San Diego fairs and he made his second stop since leaving Rochester, N. Y., last Sunday. He arrived in the city yesterday afternoon and was the guest during the day of Joseph T. Peacha, Jr., manager of the Interstate Auto company, agents for the Franklin car in Northern Minnesota. Mr. Holmes left late last evening for Minneapolis, where he is visiting today and tonight he will leave for Spokane, Wash.

During the afternoon Mr. Holmes was taken on an automobile trip around the city and over the boulevard and he is well pleased with the city, this being his first visit to Duluth.

"Duluth is a beautiful city and you have some very handsome homes," said Mr. Holmes following his automobile trip. "That boulevard stands alone for uniqueness and I would rather ride up there every day, than on any street in the world. It is a delightful run and I am surprised that more Duluthians do not take advantage of the drive.

"Business conditions are improving rapidly and at our factory alone the sales have increased 149 per cent since last January. We shipped one of the largest trainloads of automobiles to the coast recently that was ever sent across the continent. That's an indication of the business being done by the Franklin factory at this time. We have also made several shipments to the countries now at war."

Regarding the one-gallon efficiency test conducted here on May 1 by Mr. Peacha, Mr. Holmes said that he was very well pleased with the local record and the reports from all over the country.

Mr. Holmes is an engineer and was the builder of the first Franklin cars turned out by the factory. The lightweight idea and air cooled engines are both inventions of Mr. Holmes.

COPPERS GETTING BIGGEST BENEFIT

Market Conditions in the East Growing Better All the Time.

Ernest Le Duc, mining engineer, has returned from New York, where he went on business for the Big Ledge Development company, of which he is president. Mr. Le Duc said today that market conditions in the East are better than at any time since the war began, coppers receiving the biggest benefit.

"Business conditions generally are good," added Mr. Le Duc, "especially in all lines making war materials. I was in New York when the Lusitania was sunk. The disaster stunned the city and created almost as much excitement as the sinking of the Maine in Havana harbor."

Mr. Le Duc will leave tomorrow for Humboldt, Ariz., near which the Big Ledge company is developing a large open pit copper mine, in which many Duluth people are interested.

Funeral Service for H. D. Bush Will Be on Thursday.

M'KERCHER GETS ON THE JOB EARLY

ON THE eve of assuming his duties as Duluth's chief of police, "Bob" McKercher figured in the arrest column at headquarters when he brought in George B. McClain, alleged burglar. McClain has a police record.

Police, in answer to a call from 201 East Second street, gave chase to a man who was thought to have broken into the confectionery store of Samuel Simon, 202 East Second street, and stolen fifteen packages of cigarettes, all one brand.

After the officers had fired several shots at the fleeing men and returned to headquarters empty-handed, Chief-to-be McKercher met McClain a few hundred feet from the police station, breathless and cut about the face.

In municipal court before Judge F. H. Cutting the prisoner was bound over to await grand jury action on a charge of third-degree burglary.

FIFTY-ONE WOULD QUALIFY AS JITNEURS

One lone woman and fifty men gathered in the assembly room at police headquarters this morning and the jitney business promises to flourish.

Under the direction of H. W. Healey, member of the state chauffeurs' examining board, the fifty-one will go through a two-day quiz in an attempt to qualify as jitneurs.

Mrs. Frances Fay, 407 First avenue west, was the one woman who wanted to compete with the street railway company for nickles.

Ten questions will be asked the prospective operators, covering operation of the machine, knowledge of the state laws and mechanical education. In addition to this they will be expected to know something of the city ordinances regulating traffic.

Physical examinations to test in particular the vision of the operators also will be given, according to Examiner Healey.

ADVANCE HAS BEEN CHECKED

Russians Believe They Can Hold Germans in the Carpathians.

Petrograd Admits Successes By Austro-German Armies.

Petrograd, May 12, via London.—While admitting that the Austro-German movement from Cracow has met with a degree of success, Russian military authorities asserted today that there was no possibility of a further advance with its consequent menace to the security of the Russian positions in the Carpathians.

In semi-official comment today upon this situation it was said the success of the Austro-German forces was due to their overpowering numbers. They advanced along a line of about thirty miles, stretching northward from Nowy Sandec and pushed on to points as far east as Stryzscow and Brzozow, the latter being within less than thirty miles of Przemysl. It is said here that the Russian forces have now been regrouped in such a way as effectually to oppose this movement.

In meeting the Austro-German onslaught the Russian generals were able to bring up only about one-fifth of their forces. The Germans and Austrians, however, are reported here to have concentrated thirteen divisions along a 16-mile front in the district of Krosno, just northeast of Dukla, and they have continually rushed in fresh reserves.

Retired in Good Order.

Notwithstanding their numerical inferiority, the Russians were able to retire in good order to more favorable positions. They destroyed the roads as they went and brought off their guns, ammunition and other stores. Their losses are described here as comparatively small. The view presented by military men here is that the Austro-German movement did not constitute a notable success, inasmuch as its object is supposed to have been destruction of the Russian army in the Carpathians and dislodgment of the Russians from their strong positions in the central Carpathians.

The German plan of activity was apparently to strike several successive blows before the Russians had time to bring up reinforcements. A series of furious infantry attacks followed the preparatory artillery actions. Military experts estimate that the Teutonic allies in their operation on the short front utilized three-quarters of the entire Austrian forces and one tenth of the entire German forces. About one-half of these forces probably were second line troops. Four corps are said to have been brought up from the Serbian front and twenty infantry and nine cavalry divisions from the western front.

Russian officers estimate that the losses of the Germans and Austrians during the battles of the last nine days at upward of 100,000.

WEATHER CONDITION IS UNUSUAL BUT NOT RARE

Perfect Summer Type of Day; Cooler Weather Promised.

"While the present excellent weather is unusual it is not rare."

That's the way Weather Forecaster Richardson puts it. He has long established himself as a discriminating picker of words when dealing with weather conditions, and continues to maintain his reputation.

Actual summer conditions exist today, tempered by the balminess of spring. The thermometer at the weather office on the top of the hill registered 76 degs. at 2 o'clock this afternoon, which would make the mercury lower down the hill, 80 or better. The conditions are regarded as perfect. They follow a thunder storm of much blustering sound but not much violence, which took up quite a long time during the night.

There will be cooler weather tonight and tomorrow, according to predictions, for the wind will get into the northeast. Whether a northeaster will develop is yet to be determined, but Mr. Richardson hardly expects it, for indications are that tomorrow, although partly cloudy, will be generally fair.

Mr. Richardson sounds the warning that there may be frost tonight in low places.

STATUE FOR TOP OF THE AERIAL BRIDGE

Women's Committee Suggests Lighted Sign Welcoming Incoming Vessels.

An electric-lighted statue of Greysolon du Luth on top of the aerial bridge, welcoming mariners to Duluth, is proposed by a number of Duluth women, who plan to raise about $1,000 to pay the expense.

The proposition was put to Mayor Prince yesterday by a committee of women and he plans to take the matter up with the other members of the city commission. If the plan is found feasible the women will be instructed to start their subscription fund.

The plan at present is to erect a wooden image of Greysolon du Luth and to wire it, so that it could be lighted at night, and to place the "explorer" on top of the aerial bridge. Government rules forbid hanging such an image from the bridge, so that it will be necessary to place it on top.

HAVE NARROW ESCAPE.

Fishermen Nearly Drown When Skiff Overturns at Good Harbor.

An accident in which Olaf and Chris Nicolaison, two fishermen, narrowly escaped drowning, was reported this morning when the fishing steamer L. Goldish arrived in Duluth after a trip along the north shore.

S. L. Goldish and August Koch, aboard the fishing boat, succeeded in rescuing the two after a hard struggle. The two men put off from Good Harbor bay in a small skiff to get a cook stove being brought to them by the Goldish, and when the stove was placed aboard the skiff the small craft capsized.

Neither of the men could swim hampered by heavy clothing, and they went under once before the men aboard the Goldish could reach them.

FORKS GETS BLOCK AFTER LONG FIGHT

Grand Forks, N. D., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Manager Billy Fox of the local ball team has finally obtained the services of Charley Block, center fielder of the Winona, Minn., club last year, and who was sold by the Winona club to Dubuque, Iowa.

The national commission passed on the case three times, once awarding him to Grand Forks, and in the other two instances, they awarded him to the Dubuque club. The Dubuque club has released its claim to him. He played yesterday with Grand Forks.

Manager Sundheim of the Virginia club played the game under protest, because of Block's participation, claiming he was under suspension.

BRANDON WANTS G. F. FRANCHISE

Grand Forks, N. D., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Grand Forks Baseball club has received an offer for the local franchise and the team that is now representing the city, and there is a bare possibility that the offer will be accepted.

Brandon, Man., has made the offer for the local club, several business men there being desirous of breaking into the circuit.

Inasmuch as the local club is dissatisified with the attendance, the owners are viewing the tender with more than the usual amount of interest.

AMATEUR BOXERS ARE SUSPENDED

San Francisco, Cal., May 12.—Arthur Kaufman of Brooklyn, national amateur champion middleweight boxer, and Matty Herbert and Arthur Neck of New York city were suspended from their amateur standing today by George James, local representative of the Amateur Athletic Union Registration committee. James has begun an investigation of an alleged demand for money for the men's appearance at an exhibition here.

The three boxers were competitors at the recent Panama-Pacific exposition national amateur championships.

BLUME BOOSTS THE WHITE SOX

H. A. Blume, president of the Duluth Baseball association, returned today from a trip to Winnipeg and St. Boniface. Magnate Blume went up with the members of the White Sox team and took in the first two games of the Northern league season.

"The team looks very good," said Blume today. "Most of the players are not in shape as yet. They have a fine park at Winnipeg and also a very nice one at St. Boniface. Neither of the parks is fully completed as yet.

"We think we have one of the best teams in the league, but then I suppose some of the other managers and owners are of the same opinion. We have heard nothing of Sutton as yet. Bryant's arm is still bad. The Indian, Cadreau, looks good.

"It is too early as yet to make any predictions. Several members of parliament who are interested in the St. Boniface team, are authority for the statement that Sunday baseball can be played in the French city. That is about all we know about it."

FAMOUS TENNIS PLAYER FALLS IN WAR

London, May 12.—Anthony F. Wilding of New Zealand, former lawn tennis champion of Great Britain, and who several times has been a member of the Australian team in the Davis matches, was killed in the fighting in the Dardanelles.

Mr. Wilding was a second lieutenant in the Royal marines.

URGES FLOWERS IN BUSINESS SECTION

Flower boxes in windows along the business streets are again urged by Mayor Prince.

The city executive urges all business men to place these flower boxes in the windows of their stores or offices as soon as possible, as the tourist season will soon begin and, he says, "Duluth wants to look its best for the visitors."

"Now that the city is being cleaned and made presentable," said Mayor Prince this morning, "let us continue the practice of putting the flower boxes in our windows. This practice has made a hit with the visitors, many of whom commented on the idea while here during the last two years.

"We should not lose sight of the fact that these flower boxes are not only attractive, but they add materially to the beauty of our business streets. The expense is slight and we should have these flowers in every window of Duluth."

Mayor Prince this morning ordered the flower boxes placed in the windows of the city hall, police station, municipal court and all other public buildings.

As the tourist season will start about June 1, the mayor would like to see all the boxes up by that time.

CORRECT FIGURES ACCENTUATE CASE

In the interview published in The Herald of last night, in which Traffic Commissioner G. Roy Hall was quoted, his statement concerning the reduction of ore rates as compared with the upholding of package freight rates, gave erroneous figures on the ore rates, owing to a misunderstanding. The true figures accentuate the case in favor of a divorcement of the lake and rail lines, which was the subject dealt with.

Mr. Hall was made to say that the lake rate for ore was 80 cents per gross ton in 1901 and 60 cents in 1914, a reduction of 25 per cent. He should have been quoted as saying that

"In 1901 the ore rate was 80 cents per gross ton; in 1914, 40 cents per gross ton. In other words, while the ore rate was being reduced 50 per cent per gross ton through the increase in the size of the boats engaged in carrying ore, . . . the package freight rates, although the boats engaged in that business were very much improved and were given the free use of the splendid government waterways on the Great Lakes, were constantly advanced."

PRISONERS ARRAIGNED

John Branch Given Third Term in Stillwater Prison.

Arraigned before Judge Dancer in district court this afternoon, John Milton Branch, an ex-convict, pleaded guilty to a charge of burglary in the third degree and was sentenced by the court to serve his third term at Stillwater prison.

Branch admitted that he had broken into the jewelry store of J. M. Weiner, 413½ West Superior street, on the evening of April 26 and taken four watches. He declared that he was drunk at the time and did not realize what he was doing.

The prisoner frankly told the court about his past and declared that he found it hard to live it down. He admitted that he had served four years in prison for other offenses. Branch stated that his mother was dead and that he did not know the whereabouts of his father or other members of his family.

Matt Lutzka was arraigned this morning under an indictment charging him with having committed an indecent assault on the person of Lucille Robinson, a 17-year-old girl. He pleaded not guilty and told the court that he would hire an attorney to defend himself. His case will be called for trial at the present term of court.

• • •

Nels Berkeland, indicted for grand larceny in the second degree, when brought before the court this afternoon declared that he would plead guilty to the charge. He is accused of having stolen $95 from Pat Madden at Fairbanks on April 3 last. The court deferred sentence.

• • •

Other prisoners who pleaded not guilty when brought before the court today were:

James Hageganes, indicted on two counts for grand larceny in the second degree.

Eugene C. Ferguson, indicted for grand larceny in the second degree.

Nels Nelson, charged with arson in the second degree.

Oscar Lehtinen accused of grand larceny in the second degree.

BANKERS AT FARGO.

Third North Dakota District Financiers in Session.

Fargo, N. D., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—John R. Rich of Minneapolis, chairman of the executive committee of the Regional National bank, and Professor Smith of the First National bank of St. Paul, were the chief speakers at the meeting of bankers of the Third district here this afternoon. There were a number of members of the association on the program. The Third district comprises Steele, Trail and Cass counties, and there is a large attendance. The annual banquet will be held at 6 o'clock.

WILL USE SAME SYSTEM IN FARGO

Duluth's system of pawnshop inspection and checking is one of the best used in any city of this size in the United States, according to Retiring Chief C. H. Troyer.

He intends to install the same plan in Fargo, N. D., where he will assume the position of police chief May 15.

His estimate of the Duluth plan is considered a warm compliment for Lieut. N. U. G. Terry, who has been at the head of this department for thirteen years.

Lieut. Terry is responsible for the adoption of the system used to safeguard persons who lose property or have it stolen from them, so that police receive a description of practically every article pawned.

The chief of police of Gary, Ind., while on a visit to the Head of the Lakes, became interested in Lieut. Terry's plan and after an investigation, adopted it for use in his city. Fargo will be the second city to copy Duluth in this respect.

COCKROACHES IN THE KITCHEN

How to Exterminate These Pests That Spoil the Food.

Nothing is more repulsive to the neat housewife than to see cockroaches crawling around the kitchen, pantry or closet, spoiling food and injuring clothing. The easiest and most effective way to completely exterminate them is with Stearns Electric Paste, the deadly foe of rats, mice, cockroaches, water bugs and all vermin.

Get a two-ounce box of Stearns Electric Paste from your druggist for 25 cents and use it at night as directed, and in the morning sweep up a panful of dead cockroaches. Directions in fifteen languages in every package.

OPEN SEASON FOR STRAW HATS HERE

Old Sol's smile today brought out the straw hat. The official ban is popularly supposed to exist until the first of June, but it was lifted this spring on May 1. On the streets of Duluth today there were at least a dozen men braving the stares of pedestrians by boldly appearing in public with a straw hat.

Some travelers from warmer parts of the country have appeared here during the week with gay straw lids perched jauntily on their heads.

Among the wearers this morning was Commissioner Voss, head of the finance division, who walked to work, wearing a bright summer's straw. He admitted later that it was last year's hat, but that the bright warm weather just compelled him to bring it out and wear it to work.

BULL KILLS HIBBING MAN

Peter Wiuf, Proprietor of Dairy, Gored to Death in Barn.

Although Dehorned, Infuriated Beast Crushes Victim.

Hibbing, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—A mad bull broke loose from its stall during the night and killed Peter Wiuf, aged 56, proprietor of the Brooklyn Dairy here, as he entered the barn at 6 o'clock this morning. The animal, although dehorned, had rammed the body against the wall with such force that the impact tore the boards from outside. The body was discovered by Mrs. Wiuf about an hour later, when she went out to call her husband for breakfast. The body was removed to Barrett's undertaking rooms where funeral arrangements will be made today.

Was Going to Oregon.

Mr. Wiuf had lived here ten years. He had recently purchased a farm near Portland, Or., where he intended to move in two months. He is survived by a widow, who is prostrated with grief, a 10-year-old daughter, his parents at Denmark, a sister, Mrs. A. Jensen at Iron Junction and a brother in Washington.

MANY EAGLES ARE GOING TO EVELETH

Large Delegations Are Expected From Twin Cities and Duluth.

Eveleth, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Information has been received by the Eagles convention committee that the Twin City delegation to the state convention which is to be held here June 8, 9 and 10, will come in special cars and remain for the full three days of the big convention.

The Minneapolis and St. Paul aeries have arranged for two special cars which will reach Eveleth Monday night, June 7, ahead of the opening day of the convention. The Twin City delegation is known throughout Eagledom as a jolly bunch and it may well be said that the convention will be open when the cars reach the city.

Big Duluth Delegation.

Duluth will send a big delegation, accompanied by a band. John N. Ward visited the Duluth aerie last week and was assured that the Zenith City bunch would be on hand and help keep things moving. Superior is out of the state and can send no official representation, but a number of the Wisconsin lodge men will accompany the Duluth delegation.

Will Visit Mines.

A feature of the entertainment will be trips to the great iron ore mines. The Adams and Fayal open pits will be inspected, and of unusual interest will be the trip to the Leonidas mine, of which the state holds the fee and which is the largest underground property in the world.

The Eagles of other range towns are uniting to assist the Eveleth aeries in making this convention the biggest state meeting ever held by the order. Automobiles will be provided to take delegates to the convention to any town on the Mesaba range.

HIBBING SERGEANT NEW POLICE HEAD

William Dwyer Named to Succeed Late Archie McFayden.

Hibbing, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sergeant William Dwyer was appointed chief of police to succeed the late Archie McFayden at the meeting of the village council last night. The recommendation was made by Mayor Power and unanimously acted upon.

Following an offer of Andrew P. Nelson to sell land now used to unload freight off the Great Northern tracks at Alice for $1,000, Trustee B. J. Burrows was appointed to investigate the necessity of maintaining this unloading place and report at the next meeting of the council. Nelson said that the village of Alice intended to buy this site, but when Hibbing annexed Alice nothing was done to this end. The road to the tracks, however, he declared, had been constantly used. He said that this was the only suitable location for this road, as the other adjoining property was a hill-in on one side of the road and a cut-in on the other.

Given Incinerator Site.

A communication was received from P. J. Ryan informing council members that the Oliver Mining company would grant permission to use land near the old Minnesota Equipment company shops for an incinerator.

An injury report from Franklin Lenore was received and placed on file. Anton Kroning asked for a permit to build a two-story brick building at 202 Sellers street. A report from the clerk of municipal court, showing a receipt for the week of $107, was received and turned over to the finance committee. Permission was given the Mesabe Telephone company to set up poles in the alley leading from the power plant to North street.

WILL SPEAK ON DRAMA BEFORE HIBBING CLUB

DR. JOHN W. POWELL.

Hibbing, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Saturday club will hold its annual banquet Friday night at the Oliver club rooms. Mrs. H. H. Faust, president, will be toast mistress.

The banquet beginning at 7:30 o'clock, will be served by the Ladies' Guild of the Episcopal church. A musical program and several short addresses will be given.

Dr. John Walker Powell of Minneapolis, formerly of Duluth, will speak on "Drama as a Social Force." Songs will be given by Mrs. H. F. White and A. Jensen of Virginia. Miss Frances Corbett will accompany on the piano. The banquet will be attended by members and friends of the organization.

FRUITLESS BALLOTS TAKEN FOR INSPECTOR

Virginia Council Votes Six Times But Without Result.

Virginia, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Six ballots were taken by the city council last night on septic tank inspector but without result. Fourteen seek the job. Mayor Boylan objected to the appointment of M. C. Butler to the job as proposed by Alderman McGhee, the mayor contending that as Butler was an unsuccessful bidder for building the plant it would be nothing short of an outrage to have him inspect its construction.

Women Make Protest.

Mrs. Fred Mollan headed a delegation of twenty women who protested against the proposed removal of an old building at Poplar street and Mesaba avenue, to another location, contending the building should be razed. Ben Bilawetz, owner of the building, stated he did not own the lot on which it stands and he faced a penalty of $5 per day so long as it remained where it is. He wanted permission to remove it to an adjoining lot belonging to E. Sigel. After a lively discussion the council put the matter over till next Tuesday evening.

The contract for laying the cement sidewalks, which has been so long held up, was awarded to Killbride & Forristel of Eveleth at 14 cents per square for private driveways and 15 cents for the sidewalks.

TWO ARE CONVICTED ON ROBBERY CHARGE

Itasca County Jury Finds Them Guilty of Holding Up Man.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 12—(Special to The Herald.)—Mike Schmitt and John Selvonsky, two of the three men who were charged with robbing Mike Vukovick of $15 on March 15 last, were found guilty by a jury in district court this morning after a trial lasting half a day.

The two men were accused in company with Mike Bearnet of robbing Vukovick on March 15 and they were immediately caught and brought before the grand jury which began its sessions on March 16 and indicted. Bearnet is to be given a separate trial.

Another Robbery Case.

The case of the state vs. John Makl on a charge of robbing Charles Pajunen on March 15, last, was next taken up and the jury has been selected. Makl is accused of robbing Pajunen of $40 in a local saloon, he was caught at once by a local policeman with the "goods" on him.

TO ACCOMMODATE FARMERS.

Eveleth Will Provide Barn Where Teams Can Be Stabled.

Eveleth, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—A new barn is to be built at the Eveleth market place to provide accommodations for the farmers who patronize the market. Many farmers have formed the habit of stabling their teams there while in the city and the present stables are not adequate.

Plans were drawn in the city engineer's office this week for a barn 100 by 16 feet, divided into stalls where twenty-five horses can be stabled away from the rain, sun, flies and the excitement of the street.

Range Librarians Meet.

Chisholm, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Clara Baldwin Range Library club is holding the last meeting of the year at Virginia today. The librarians will be entertained at luncheon by members of the domestic science department of the Virginia high school. Later the regular monthly business meeting will be held. Miss Margaret Palmer is president of the club.

WOULD FORCE POWER TO SIGN FRANCHISE

Mandamus Secured By New Phone Company Served on Hibbing President.

Hibbing, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—A writ of mandamus, ordering Victor Power, as president of Hibbing, to sign a franchise for the Range Telephone company allowing it to install an automatic telephone system here, has been served on the mayor by the telephone company. The writ ordered that this be done or that he show reason why he should not allow the franchise.

Upon the announcement of this to council members, who, during Mayor Power's absence, had acted favorably upon the franchise, the council last night unanimously went on record to set aside all actions in the attempt to grant this permission to the telephone company and to reconsider the motion, appearing in the minutes of a previous meeting, to do this.

Telephone Mass Meeting.

A public meeting will be held on the telephone question at some early date when representatives will be given a hearing.

"The reason why I have not signed this franchise before," Mayor Power said, "is that the Commercial club has disproved of this action. We should have a public hearing on the question and give everyone a fair chance to present their cases before any further action is taken."

ORE SHIPPING CONTINUES BRISK

Many Boats Loading at Two Harbors for Down the Lake Points.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The ore business on the Iron Range railroad continues fairly brisk with a bright prospect of a slight increase next week. Ore boats are arriving regularly and an average of about twenty-four train crews are bringing the ore to this port.

Up to date there has been approximately 500,000 tons shipped from the local docks, which is greatly in excess of the shipments for the same period last year. Last week the dock superintendent reported a shipment of 294,871 tons.

The lumber business at the local port has also been very brisk during the week. About half a dozen lumber boats have been loaded here in the last week. The lumber is being shipped in here by the Tower Lumber company at Tower. A number of boats are expected to arrive here the latter part of the week for lumber.

WINTON RECEIVES BIG LUMBER ORDER

To Furnish Several Million Feet to Chicago Speedway Park.

Ely, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The St. Croix Lumber company of Winton is shipping out about 1,000,000 feet of lumber for the Automobile Speedway Park association in Chicago.

This is a part of a bill of lumber sold by the Edward Hines Lumber company of Chicago. The order consists of approximately 6,000,000 feet of lumber. This is the largest lumber bill of its kind in the country sold to any one enterprise. The speedway track is now being constructed and will be completed by June 19.

LAUNCH CHISHOLM BOATS.

Pleasure Craft Are Placed in Service on Longyear Lake.

Chisholm, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The gasoline launch and rowboats to be used for pleasure purposes on Longyear lake arrived yesterday and were launched today. The outfit consists of an 18-passenger gasoline launch, three rowboats and one canoe and were shipped here to the order of J. J. Hayes. Mr. Hayes has built two docks, one on the eastern and the other on the western shore of the lake. The boats will leave either shore when passenger traffic demands. On the eastern shore is the new municipal lake park, which has been made most attractive to Chisholmites and visitors through the efforts of the village council, the green grass, shrubs, flowers, trees and rustic benches presenting a refreshing appearance after viewing the rock-bound stretches of country so plentiful here. At the park is a menagerie, containing many animals and birds.

Boy or Girl? Great Question!

This brings to many minds an old and tried family remedy—an external application known as "Mother's Friend." During the period of expectancy it is applied to the abdominal muscles and is designed to soothe the intricate network of nerves involved. In this manner it has such a splendid influence as to justify its use in all cases of coming mother-hood. It has been generally recommended for years and years and those who have used it speak in highest praise of the immense relief it affords. Particularly do these knowing mothers speak of the absence of morning sickness, absence of strain on the ligaments and freedom from those many other distresses usually looked forward to with such concern.

There is no question but what "Mother's Friend" has a marked tendency to relieve the mind and this of itself in addition to the physical relief has given it a very wide popularity among women.

You can obtain "Mother's Friend" at almost any drug store. It has helped a host of mothers to a complete recovery.

It is prepared only by Bradfield Regulator Co., 301 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Avoid the many worthless substitutes.

COLDER

Nothing but superlatives could be used in describing today's offering of fine weather; so why try? Unless something untoward happens before night, the weather man will have scored another triumph in his prediction yesterday, made for today — "generally fair." So far it is nothing short of a triumph for "what is so rare as a day in June" could easily be amended.

A year ago today was fine. May of this year, compared with the same month last year, is running true to form. The sun rose this morning at 4:35 and will set this evening at 7:32, giving fourteen hours and fifty-seven minutes of sunlight. Tomorrow the fifteen-hour day will begin.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The temperature has risen somewhat over the lake region and Central states but a turn to cooler has occurred over the greater portion of the Northwest. During the last twenty-four hours showers fell over the Upper Lake region, the Northwest, Pacific and Southeastern states. Heavy rain fell at Charleston, S. C."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, May 12.—Forecasts for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Thursday:

Minnesota—Fair tonight and Thursday; cooler in east portion tonight. Probably frost in north portion.

Wisconsin—Fair tonight and Thursday; slightly cooler tonight.

Iowa—Fair tonight and Thursday; cooler in northeast portion tonight.

North Dakota and South Dakota—Unsettled tonight; Thursday fair.

Montana—Partly cloudy tonight and Thursday.

Lower Michigan—Thunder showers this afternoon or tonight; cooler tonight in north portion; Thursday fair, cooler.

Upper Michigan—Generally fair tonight and Thursday; cooler tonight; probably frost except in extreme east portion.

SON'S DROWNING IS BLAMED FOR DEATH

Tragic Fate of Two Harbors Woman's Son Has Fatal Result.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Frank Engstrom, aged 51 years, a pioneer resident of this city, died at her home on Ninth avenue yesterday morning following an illness of several months.

Mrs. Engstrom's health has been failing ever since last July when one of her boys was drowned in Lake Superior. The blow proved too much for her and caused her much despair, being largely responsible for her death. She was a widow, and leaves one son and four daughters: Hugo Engstrom of Virginia, who was at the bedside when the end came; Mrs. A. Spicer of Riverton, Minn., Mrs. Hannah Anderson of Hopkins, Minn., and two smaller girls who are at home. The two daughters who reside at Riverton and Hopkins have been notified of their mother's death and are expected today.

The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon from the Swedish Lutheran church. Rev. Mr. Nelsenius will officiate and interment will be made in the Two Harbors cemetery.

Eveleth, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Gertrude Bjornaas and Mamie Kenta have been announced as the valedictorian and salutatorian, respectively, of the senior class of the high school. These honors go to the two pupils who have the highest grades during their high school career. It has been customary for the valedictorian and the salutatorian to deliver addresses at the graduating exercises, but this year two other members of the class will deliver the addresses. Ernest Lampi and Willard Shea will be the class orators.

The Buhl high school team will meet the Eveleth team in this city next Saturday afternoon. This will be the first game for the Eveleth high school team on the home grounds.

Standard Remedy For Many Homes

Indigestion and constipation are two conditions closely related and the cause of much physical suffering.

The tendency to indulge one's appetite is general, so that most people suffer at some time or another from rebellion of the overtaxed organs of digestion and elimination. A simple, pleasantly effective remedy that will quickly relieve the congestion of poisonous waste and restore regularity, is the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This is a mild, pleasant laxative-tonic and digestant, absolutely free from opiates or narcotic drugs and has been the standard household remedy in countless homes for many years. A free trial bottle can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 452 Washington St., Monticello, Ills.

DAMAGE SUIT IS DISMISSED

Plaintiffs Failed to File Claim Against Virginia.

Virginia, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The damage case of A. F. Groschau and A. E. Gross vs. The City of Virginia to recover $25,000 for alleged pollution of the waters of Three Mile lake by city sewage was dismissed in district court today by Judge Hughes.

The court dismissed the action soon after it was called for trial, on motion of City Attorney Montague, who represented to the court that the plaintiffs had not filed a claim with the city thirty days before the action was commenced, as the law requires. The plaintiffs can, of course, file the claim and subsequently bring a new suit, but it is not known whether this will be done.

This afternoon the court will call for trial the case of John Addybon vs. Frank Kowski to recover $60 wages.

It is expected the last of the jury cases will be reached this week, and that the petit jurors will be discharged Friday.

HIBBING PREPARING FOR LAWMAKERS' COMING

Hibbing, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Secretary J. E. Lawler of the Commercial club and citizens generally are preparing to give the state lawmakers and Governor Hammond a warm reception here next month. A general cleanup of the village is underway and it will never present a better appearance. It is hoped to have the itinerary of the visitors changed so that they will arrive here the evening of June 10 and spend the night here, thus having a chance to see the famous white way which got so much notoriety in the press of the country during the last legislative session.

Buried at Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., May 12.—The funeral of Frank Orazm, age 29, formerly of Hibbing, who died at Fergus Falls, was held yesterday afternoon at the Catholic church, Father Hogan officiating. Interment was in Greenwood cemetery. Orazm was a member of St. Barbara Lodge No. 40, Slavonian society, members of which attended in a body. Orazm left Hibbing ten years ago.

MAY LOOK INTO DERNBURG STATUS

Remarks of Former German Colonial Secretary Are Displeasing.

Washington, May 12.—Despite the uniform refusal of all the cabinet officers to discuss what took place at yesterday's meeting with the president, it became known that one subject of discussion was Dr. Bernhard Dernburg, former German colonial secretary, and sometimes spoken of as Emperor William's unofficial spokesman in the United States.

Dr. Dernburg's speeches were referred to, it was understood and his most recent utterances in Cleveland and New York justifying the torpedoing of the Lusitania were mentioned by at least one member of the cabinet.

Although the German embassy from time to time has stated that Dr. Dernburg has no connection with it and that he is in the United States as the representative of the German Red Cross, the state department never has been officially advised of his status, and in view of his prominence and the weight of his utterances, it was being suggested in official quarters that it might not be unusual if the state department were to inquire of Count Bernstorff of his standing.

So far Dr. Dernburg is regarded as a traveler and a guest of the United States.

A MOTHERS' NERVES

When your children "get on your nerves," the trouble is with your nerves, not with the children.

You find yourself scolding them when you should be reasoning with them and if you are wise you will realize that your nervous system needs attention.

GREAT YEAR FOR TOURISTS

Travel Will Follow the Lake Route During Coming Summer.

Duluth Hotel Keepers Report Long List of Reservations.

Beginning about June 7, when the first big passenger tourist boat docks here, Duluth is going to entertain the largest number of tourists that have been housed and entertained here for many years, if the enthusiastic predictions made by the various hotel owners are correct.

Chief Clerk Roy Quigley of the Spalding is authority for the statement that that hostelry now has more reservations for June than it has received at so early a date in the past five years.

There is a heavy booking at the Spalding, starting with the second week in June, and the Holland, Lenox, St. Louis and McKay also report that reservations are being received for the early weeks of June.

There are more than fifty reservations booked at the Spalding alone from the first boat. Later in the month there will be fifty delegates to the New England Grocerymen's convention making a stop over here. The delegates will make a return trip from the West over the Great Northern, and will take the boat for the trip down the lakes at this point.

"War conditions, the Panama fair, and the fact that this promises to be a great season for the 'See America First' propaganda, promise to give Duluth one of the greatest tourist seasons it has ever had," said Mr. Quigley.

"Every day we are receiving requests for rooms for June and July. We are hearing from prospective travelers who are going to the fair, to Yellowstone park, and to other scenic points of the West. Not only do we believe that the tourist travel will be heavy this season, but also it looks as if the very wealthy class of travelers who generally make a trip to Europe every year, will this season substitute a western trip."

Manager Prince of the St. Louis and Manager Tuttle of the Holland also expressed the belief that this would be a great season for Duluth, speaking from the standpoint of tourist travel.

All of the Duluth hotels are making ready. The staffs have been changed somewhat and provisions made for extra help.

The information received by the Eastern passenger representatives of Duluth railroads serves to strengthen the predictions of local hotel men.

Montanan Shoots Brother.

Medicine Lake, Mont., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Harley Thompson shot and seriously wounded his brother, Kid Thompson. The latter is in a Williston hospital and may die. The assailant is in the Plentywood jail. They quarreled over property.

Dandruff Soon Ruins the Hair

Girls—if you want plenty of thick beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most it not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.—Advertisement.

WHEAT AGAIN SELLS DOWN

Market Absorbs Large Volume of Realizing Sales; Close Strong.

Flaxseed Gains on Expected Big Decrease in Crop Acreage.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 12.—Wheat turned strong around the close under the influence of winter crop reports and good buying was in evidence.

May Wheat closed 1¼c off, July 1⅜c off, and September ½c up. May durum closed unchanged; July, 1c up, and September, ½c up.

Oats closed ⅝c up at 52¾c@53⅜c for on the track; rye unchanged at $1.11@1.12; barley 3c up at from 66c to 74c; and corn, ¾c off at $74¼c.

At Winnipeg, May oats closed ¾c up at 63½c, and July ½c@¾c up at 64¼c.

Puts on Minneapolis July wheat closed at $1.45¼, and calls at $1.53¼.

In face of the industrious circulation of crop damage reports from over widely-scattered sections of the Southwest, the wheat market turned weak today, and at the close of the first three hours' trading, substantial declines were recorded. At the outset, moderate advances were set, and then selling attributed largely to profit-taking after yesterday's big bulge, appeared. The remonstrance sent by President Wilson to Germany over the Lusitania incident was regarded as a bearish factor in view of the possibility of this country becoming involved in foreign complications. That it was felt might tend to affect grain shipments for the time being at least.

It was agreed by experts that the market would have gone off more had it not been for the bullish crop advices of the day. Said a Duluth board of trade man: "Our wheat crop has become a world affair now, so reports regarding it will be carefully noted from now to harvest time. In view of the large tonnage of new winter wheat already sold for foreign shipment, it would be very serious were anything to happen now to impair its present bright promise."

A strong demand for grain was reported on the Southwest markets, and on that score cash wheat at Kansas City sold up 2c@2½c a bu. While no actual sales to exporters or Eastern millers were reported at Duluth, fair inquiry was met with, and the receipt of offers at slightly under the market was advised.

Supplies of grain in elevators at the Head of the Lakes are rapidly dwindling, stores of all grades of wheat in hand today being reported at only 3,703,000 bu, while stocks of all grains 3,703,000 bu, compared to just 5,647,000 bu.

May wheat opened ½c up at $1.60 and declined 2¼c from that mark up to the noon-hour. July opened ¼c up at $1.56⅛, and declined 1¼c. September opened 1c up at $1.27, and broke 1¼c.

Durum was steady with light business recorded in it. May opened ½c up at $1.57, advanced 1c and then eased off the same extent. July opened ½c up at $1.55½, and gained ½c.

Flaxseed Strong.

Disquieting reports regarding the acreage likely to be sown to flaxseed this season is leading to a gradual firming up in that market. Dealers are coming around to the opinion that the area seeded will be lighter than even the most pessimistic had estimated, and consequent scarcity of supplies is thought to be foreshadowed. While business was comparatively light today the market showed good underlying strength.

May flax opened unchanged at $2.01, and closed ½c up at $2.01⅛ asked. July opened ½c up at $2.03¾, and closed ¾c opened ½c up at $2.04 asked. September opened up at $2.04 asked, and closed ½c up at ¼c up at $2.06½, and closed ½c up at $2.06⅛ asked.

At Winnipeg, May flax closed 7⅛c up at $1.85⅞, and July ⅞c up at $1.85⅜. At Buenos Aires, flax closed 2c up at $1.33¼, and London 3½c off at $1.91⅞.

MARKET GOSSIP.

The Paine Commission company had the following from Logan & Bryan of Chicago: "A successful board of trade man, who has been in the business since 1868, tells me that in his judgment the loss by hessian fly to the total American wheat crop has never exceeded 30,000,000 to 40,000,000 bu in any year. If we should lose 50,000,00 bu this year from this source, it would, in the long run, cut very little figure in the final price making for the crop."

Price Current says: "In the usual course of growing crop, it is still far from determining the size of the production of winter wheat. The indications are for an out-turn equal to that of last year, and should the condition be maintained as a high average to the harvest, the yield would run far above 700,000,000 bu and give some confidence in a billion-bushel crop, for that would only give the spring wheat out-turn a less than usual amount. The abandoned acreage is small. The only important damage that can happen to the crop would be that of fly and bugs, and these pests are likely to be confined to a comparatively small area. The period for development of the extent of this damage is about here, and the market will doubtless be kept well advised of the same."

A wire from Terre Haute, Ind., said: "We are getting some bad reports regarding the wheat crop in our territory. Judging from a couple of reports received today we think there must be some damage. For instance, our man at Clay City, a very good wheat station about 20 miles south of here, advises us that he has examined the wheat very carefully and while they had a prospect for a bumper crop a short time ago, he has decided that the prospects now are for only a very moderate crop, as the fly is in the wheat very badly and it is showing the effects of it in the last few days. We get practically the same report from Dana, thirty miles north."

* * *

John Inglis wired from Enid, Okla.: "Northern Oklahoma is badly spotted. Some fields show good growth and only slightly affected with fly, but there is a large acreage very seriously damaged and it may be plowed up. Crop is less promising than ten days ago. Oats are splendid with a large acreage. Weather is clear and warm."

Foreign crop summary:

Switzerland—Seeding for new crop is progressing slowly with wet soil and expected larger acreage will not be realized. Supplies of foreign wheat are fair but further purchases are necessary.

Denmark—Spring sowing been delayed, with weather damp and cold.

Holland—The official prices that millers are paying the government for wheat equals 58s 6d per 480 pounds.

India—The freight situation is causing very serious concern and it is feared that government purchases will be curtailed. The price as established by officials from time to time is working satisfactorily, and serving to prohibit speculation and is also leading to free offers.

Russia—Broomhall's agents at the various centers report wheat being consumed freely as food owing to the sobriety of the people and stocks are decreasing. Great efforts are being made to increase the spring area. In view of expected shipments from Archangel and Vladivostock, it is pointed out upon careful investigation that the amount will be very small, owing to the demoralized condition of all transit. This is emphasized by the fact that coal for military purposes has advanced equal to $15 per ton.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Market is firm with arrivals firmer and prices well maintained. Chilian grades are firmly held while Plates are arriving freely and going into consumption. The predominating influence was the unexpected strength in American yesterday and a tendency to renew buying of future delivery. Spot market was firm, wire cargo very strong, ranging a shilling higher and Plates and Manitoba 9d higher. American winters are much more firmly offered and it is believed that the disturbing reports from the Southwest of damage is responsible for the rise. Should this develop into facts, it is believed prices will show a marked advance as the market looks oversold. Foreigners have been waiting in anticipation of the excellent crop promise and resultant free marketings.

"Corn was quiet with Plates offered 1½d lower and spot unchanged. Argentine weather is better and American offers are liberal."

A Washington wire said: "The weekly weather in the wheat districts was on the whole continued favorable. Good rains occurred over nearly all districts east of the Mississippi greatly benefiting the crop, while in Kansas, Oklahoma and portions of surrounding states rains have been followed by clear warm weather which should prove beneficial. Some complaint is heard of damage by fly and the growth is too rank in localities west of Mississippi. In the spring wheat states seeding has been about completed and the soil is very generally supplied with sufficient moisture. Growth is somewhat delayed, however, by cool weather but the outlook is promising. In central states it was slightly too cool, but planting advances satisfactorily, and is generally earlier than usual."

GOOD PAY FOR FARM HANDS

Many Counties Issue Call for Laborers; Wages Unusually High.

Crop Conditions Reported Good; Small Grain Nearly All Seeded.

The farms of Minnesota are offering excellent opportunities for laborers this spring. According to reports from many counties to the commissioner of immigration, farm hands are needed. Unusually good pay is being offered, wages ranging from $35 to $40 a month, including board and lodging. Small grain is nearly all seeded, and conditions are favorable for the growing plant.

About the last of May reports, from counties late in reporting, as received this week by Fred D. Sherman, commissioner of immigration, are as follows:

Chisago County.

Seeding is all done. Crop conditions never were better. Ground is in good condition, with ample moisture. A large number of farmers are coming in from Iowa, Illinois and Nebraska.
C. M. JOHNSON, Reporter.

Traverse County.

Seeding is all done. The ground is wet in spots. Many will need farm help later on. More new farmers are coming in here this spring than during the last two years.
FRANK MURPHY, Reporter.

Watonwan County.

All small seeding is done. The ground is in fine condition, with plenty of moisture. Some new farmers are coming in. No farm hands are needed at present.
C. V. SONNESYN, Reporter.

Cottonwood County.

Seeding of small grain is all done. Some small grain is up and looking fine. On account of excessive rains, low spots are too wet. Some farm help is needed; wages are from $30 to $45 per month, with board.
REV. A. CONE, Reporter.

Cook County.

Seeding has not begun yet. There was lots of snow last winter, so the ground is in good shape. It looks as if there were quite a good many who intend to come in here and start farming. Of course, farming here is on quite a small scale as yet, but it is increasing a little every year.
CHARLES J. JOHNSON, Reporter.

Benton County.

Small grain seeding is completed. The ground is in excellent condition, with plenty of moisture to start germination. No farm help is needed at present. A few new farmers are coming in.
J. A. CEDERSTROM, Reporter.

Lyon County.

Small grain seeding is finished, and the grain is up. Ground is in favorable condition, with plenty of moisture. Some new farmers are coming in.
TOM DAVIS, Reporter.

Pine County.

Seeding is about done. Ground is in excellent condition, with plenty of moisture. No farm help is needed. More new farmers than ever are coming in.
GEORGE W. EMPEY, Reporter.

Rice County.

Seeding was finished April 24. Farm help is needed; wages from $30 to $40 per month. Some new farmers are coming in.
GEORGE D. REED, Reporter.

Roseau County.

Seeding is two-thirds done. Ground is quite wet and there is a sufficient amount of moisture. Some farmers are coming in here from Iowa and Illinois.
GEORGE H. MATTSON, Reporter.

Wilkin County.

Seeding is 90 per cent done. Ground is in good condition, with abundant moisture. A good many new farmers are coming in this spring. No farm help is needed at present.
GEORGE BURROWS, Reporter.

Chippewa County.

Small grain was all in a week ago, and some corn is planted now. Ground is too wet for good work. Farm help is needed badly; wages from $35 to $40 per month, with board. Not many new farmers are coming in so far this spring.

MARINE

OCEAN EXCURSION PLAN FOR LAKES

Northern Navigation Company Will Have Personally Conducted Cruises.

The long water voyage or cruise, stopping at various places of interest for an enjoyment of the features to be found, of late years, has been personally conducted so that the passengers might make every moment of the tour profitable as well as enjoyable, and in its schedule for the season of 1915, the Northern Navigation company, operating a large line of steamers on the Great Lakes, announces the first application of the plan to lake travel. Personally-conducted cruises have been arranged to practically all points of interest about the lakes.

Several cruises are arranged, one of which is from Detroit to Duluth, stops being made at Port Arthur, Fort William and at Duluth. At Port Arthur a special train meets the steamer to take the tourists to Kakabeka falls. Here a day is spent and a basket picnic is spread under the pines. Returning to Port Arthur, there is a dinner at the Prince Arthur hotel and dancing on its veranda.

At Duluth, automobiles meet the steamer and the passengers are taken upon a delightful trip around the city.

An accompanying cruise to this is one from Duluth to Detroit, stops being made at Fort William, Port Arthur and at Detroit, where a night is spent at one of the great hotels and where an automobile ride about the city of Detroit is one of the attractive features.

TIONESTA COMING ON FIRST TRIP

Leaves Erie Thursday—May Be Slump in Package Freight.

The steamer Tionesta of the Anchor line will leave Erie tomorrow and make a round trip of the lakes with package freight before her regular passenger schedule starts on June 1. The Juniata, which was booked to make a similar trip with freight before she went out on her passenger schedule on June 5, will be held in Buffalo and will not be sent out unless the freight conditions improve.

Considerable difference of opinion is expressed by the owners of package-freight boats as to the prospects for the season. It is generally recognized, however, that the season will be a dull one in certain kinds of package freight, particularly flour and knit goods. At the present time all the boats are loaded to capacity on every trip, but it is probable that after the congestion of freight which piles up on the docks for a month before the shipping season opens, has been removed there will be a general slump.

Flour is moving slowly. Although there is a demand for export flour there is great difficulty in finding boats to carry it.

Knitted goods from the Mohawk valley which formed a large item of the westbound freight each spring are light this year, having been sent in the other direction to England and the continent.

MASTERS WARNED OF VIDAL SHOALS

Lake Carriers Issue Guide on Approach to Davis Lock.

The Lake Carriers' association has just issued a bulletin making a suggestion to vessel masters which, it is hoped, will prevent ships from grounding on Vidal shoals near the Sault, where several have been damaged since the season opened, because of low water. The bulletin says:

"Vessels loaded for Lake Michigan via the Davis lock should keep a little to the southward of the new Vidal shoals channel range when 600 feet west of the intersection with the Canadian canal entrance range, and from there come in on the old range as when headed for the Poe lock, pass to southward of lighted float 300 feet west from the west end of the center pier, then haul into the Davis lock entrance."

Another bulletin announces that vessels destined to Lake Erie may be loaded so they will not exceed nineteen feet all around at Lake St. Clair.

LAKE BOATS TO SEE NIAGARA FALLS

Contract Let to Make River Navigable to Within Half Mile.

What has been considered for centuries as impossible is to be attempted in the Niagara river.

A contract was let at Buffalo today to a Toledo man to make the river navigable for lake boats to within a half mile of the falls.

The job is regarded as particularly hazardous, but modern engineers not only look upon the feat as feasible but as nothing unusual in the light of present day undertakings.

Lease Lumber Carriers.

North Tonawanda, May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The steamer F. R. Bucil and barge A. Stewart, owned by A. Weston & Son Lumber company of this city, have been leased for the season by Captains John and Hugh O'Hagen of Tonawanda and will be operated in the lumber carrying trade between upper lake ports and the Tonawandas. The vessels will go into commission today and leave for Duluth to load lumber.

WORLD COURT CONGRESS OPENS

Officers Say Convening of Body Is at "Psychological Moment."

Cleveland, Ohio, May 12.—The convening of the world court congress here this afternoon for a three-day session is at the "psychological moment," according to officers of the congress.

"The part America, as a neutral, will play in the final settlement of the war will be important," said John Hays Hammond, chairman. "If the United States, as the mutual friend of the warring nations, is able to point the way to an effective international court of justice, there is every reason to believe the belligerents will be willing to accept it.

"The object of this congress is, first, to arouse the American public to a consciousness of the possibilities in such a tribunal, and, second, to develop an insistent demand for it. The time is ripe."

If preliminary plans are carried out the congress will take no steps that would gain for it the name of "peace congress." The Lusitania incident will be ignored and means for ending the war will not be discussed. Plans for the development of an international court will receive the sole attention of the speakers, who include Former President Taft, Judge Alton B. Parker, John Mitchell and many others nationally prominent.

Today's program included noon luncheon, a reception and afternoon and evening sessions. Mr. Taft's address was set for the evening.

DO NOT JUDGE THE VALUE OF A PIANO BY ITS PRICE.

Remember, we are manufacturers of high-grade pianos, doing business directly with the public. Consequently, if you pay $400 at a retail store, we will duplicate the same grade piano for $300.

Better investigate, and not listen to the retailers—$100 is a lot of money. Besides, we give a longer guarantee, owing to the fact that we are manufacturers and know the quality of our goods.

UNITED STATES NOTE TO GERMANY READY TO TRANSMIT TO BERLIN

President Wilson Puts Finishing Touches to Demand on Teutons.

Copy Will Be Presented to German Embassy at Washington.

Text Will Be Made Public as Soon as Cabling Begins.

Washington, May 13.—President Wilson during the forenoon today put the finishing touches on the note to be dispatched during the day to Germany demanding guarantees that attacks on merchantmen carrying non-combatants shall end and for reparation for violations of American rights in the war zone.

Few changes are believed to have been made in the document, the main principles as outlined to the cabinet on Tuesday being maintained. While couched in friendly terms, it is firm.

It does not say what steps will be taken or what course will be pursued in the event of an unfavorable reply, but indicates that the United States will spare no pains, either by diplomatic representations or otherwise, to obtain an acquiescence in its position.

Text of Note Awaited.

The text of the note was eagerly awaited by official Washington. The unofficial outlines published today increased the anxiety to learn the exact phraseology of the document. Diplomatists were especially interested in the text which they were prepared to cable to their governments as a matter of information as soon as copies could be obtained.

It is known positively that the United States government has had no conversations either in Washington or in the foreign capitals with other governments concerning the note or the course that will be pursued should Germany refuse to comply.

In some quarters friendly to Germany the impression prevailed that the Berlin government would accede to the American demands and state its expectation that the United States would endeavor to secure the unrestricted passage of foodstuffs and conditional contraband consigned to the civilian population of Germany.

Copy to Embassy.

When the note is finally dispatched to Ambassador Gerard a copy of it will be delivered here to the German embassy.

It will be transmitted via Rome and Vienna and in all likelihood may not be presented to the German foreign office before late tomorrow because of the time that will be required for deciphering it by the American embassy staff in Berlin.

Although no mention is understood to be made as to the time when a reply is expected from the imperial gov-

BARNES ON THE STAND

Plaintiff in Libel Suit Appears as Witness in Own Behalf.

To Answer Roosevelt and Give His Version of Several Incidents.

Syracuse, N. Y., May 13.—William Barnes today went on the witness stand in the supreme court here to testify as a witness in his own behalf in his suit against Theodore Roosevelt. His counsel planned to have him answer allegations made by Col. Roosevelt when he was on the stand and to give his version of several incidents.

Mr. Barnes said he was the publisher of the Evening Journal of Albany, and at times had been the editorial writer of that newspaper. He said he was the responsible editor of the paper. After telling of his early political career since 1889 Mr. Barnes said:

"I was a member of the state committee from 1892 until 1910. In 1898 I was appointed chairman of the executive committee by Mr. Odell. Later I was appointed to the committee on other occasions. My activities were confined to relieving the chairman of details and doing work that was of no purpose.

"While I was chairman I went to the Fifth Avenue hotel every day, read the mail, saw people who the chairman of the committee did not care to see."

Mr. Brrnes said he was not the controlling factor in the party's direction and added that Senator Platt was the state leader.

PARDON FOR DESERTERS

Italian Consul Issues Proclamation to All Who Evaded Service.

Are Called Upon to Report for Duty at Once.

Italy is preparing to plunge into the world war soon, probably within as short a time as a few days, judging from the text of a communication received from the Royal Italian embassy at Rome by Attilio Castigliano, Royal Italian consular agent for the Head of the Lakes district this morning.

All deserters from the army and recruitents, or men who have failed to present themselves for military duty at the prescribed time, will be pardoned by the Italian military authorities, providing they present themselves for duty at once.

The communication, which was cabled to the Italian embassy at Chicago and forwarded to Mr. Castigliano from that city, reads:

"An amnesty is hereby granted to all deserters and renitents to military service under the condition that they present themselves to the Italian military authorities within a month, if they reside in Europe, and within three months if they reside elsewhere."

The decree was issued May 10 or since that time, according to Mr. Castigliano.

With this order was another royal decree forbidding the exportation of sulphur, cotton and woolen rags, alcohol and vegetable oils of all kinds. It is effective May 9.

Although Mr. Castigliano refused to comment on the latest order from the head of the Italian government, he admitted that it presaged serious developments and that it "looked bad."

Press dispatches from European centers indicate that Austria and Italy have failed to reach an understanding after months of diplomatic maneuvering, and that relations would be severed soon. The break is expected almost hourly by many military authorities, judging from press reports.

Just how much this latest edict will affect the large Italian population of Northern Minnesota and Wisconsin is not known. Records available in Duluth give no indication as to the number of men who have neglected to report for the military duty which they are supposed to give, who will take advantage of this royal pardon.

DENUNCIATION MOST SEVERE

Prosecutor's Arraignment of Pastor Darnell Full of Condemnation.

Attorney for Defense Asks Acquittal That Minister May Care for Family.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 13.—The case of James Morrison Darnell, who has been on trial for three days on a charge of violating the Mann white slave act, went to the jury shortly before 1 o'clock this afternoon.

In his closing argument for the government, Prosecuting Attorney Guy D. Goff, addressing the jury, said in part:

"For three years, life to Darnell was a Belshazzar feast, but he closed the doors of his soul to honor that he might gnaw the bone in peace and hear not the gabble of the goose beneath his window and the watchdog's warning.

"Must a man be shielded and permitted to walk scathless through transgressions just because he carries with him the odor of sanctity?

"To let this man go unwhipped of justice would be to lay the cornerstone of anarchy.

Must Be Rebuked.

"Men who have adopted the dual life must be rebuked. When a man becomes linked with a woman not his wife there is more hope for her than for him according to the teachings of the Nazarene. Publicans and harlots enter the kingdom before Pharisees and hypocrites. But whether true or not, it must be true, if there be a hell, that there is in it no corner so hot

PROGRESS IN DARDANELLES

British and French Troops Advance Along Gallipoli Peninsula.

Whole Strip May Be Under Control of Invading Army.

London, May 13.—London was cheered today by a dispatch from Athens recording a decided advance of the British and French troops along the Gallipoli peninsula. Some reports even claimed the occupation of certain heights which would mean that the entire peninsula was under the control of the invaders.

At two points on the western line of operations, offensive operations are under way. The first, initiated by the Germans, is against the British, French and Belgian forces near Ypres, while the second is the pushing of

ENEMIES OF BRITAIN TO BE SEGREGATED

London, May 13.—The government proposes to segregate "all adult male enemies for their own safety and for the safety of the country," Premier Asquith told the house of commons.

He also said that "all male enemies over military age will be repatriated," and that women and children in suitable cases will be repatriated, though some might remain.

French Claim Brilliant Victories to North of Arras.

Violent Counter-Attacks of German Troops Are Repulsed.

Paris, May 13, 2:31 p. m.—The French war office this afternoon issued the following statement on the progress of hostilities:

"We won brilliant successes Wednesday evening and Wednesday night to the north of Arras.

"At Notre Dame de Lorette we are masters of the fort, as well as of the chapel.

"In the vast quadrilateral of trenches and earth works which is to the south of the chapel of Notre Dame de Lorette we have been subjected to a very violent counter-attack. A ferocious

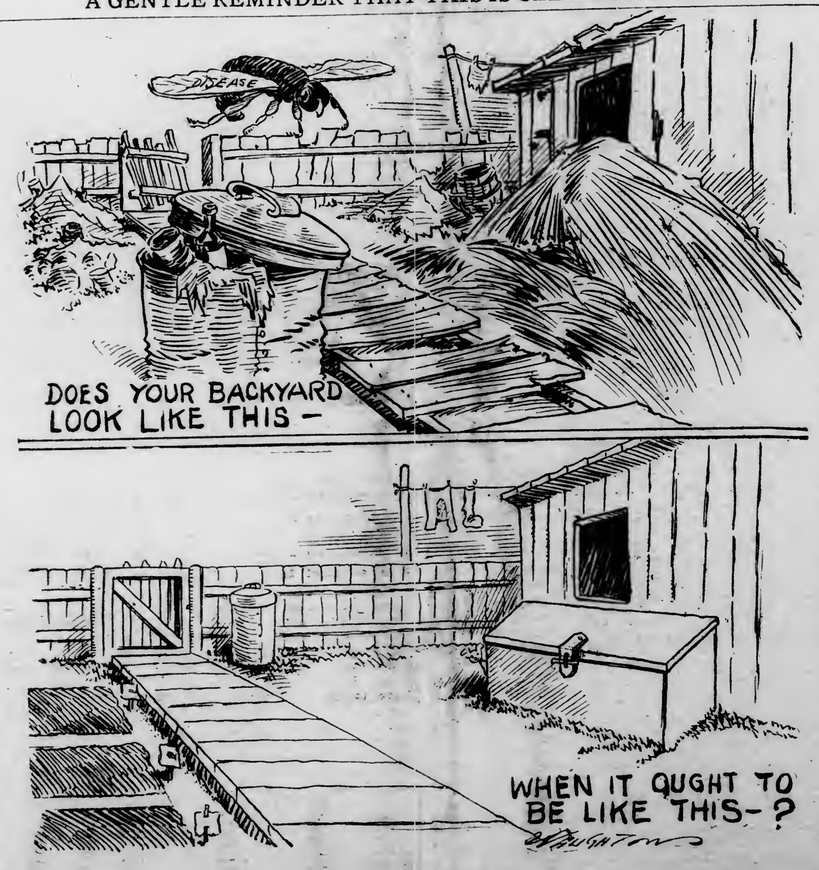
A GENTLE REMINDER THAT THIS IS CLEAN-UP WEEK.



H. M. S. GOLIATH IS VICTIM OF TORPEDO

Or[illegible] Older Ships of Pre-Dreadnaught Type Sent to Bottom With Loss of Over 500 Lives.

British Submarine Penetrates Into Sea of Marmora and Sinks Two Turkish Gunboats and Turkish Transport.

London, May 13.—The battleship Goliath has been torpedoed in the Dardanelles.

Announcement of the loss of the Goliath was made in the house of commons by Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the admiralty.

While no definite information apparently has been received as to the number of lives lost, Mr. Churchill said he feared it would reach 500.

Mr. Churchill, on announcing the loss of the Goliath, said:

"The Goliath was torpedoed last night in a torpedo attack by destroyers while protecting the French flank, just inside the straits.

"Twenty officers and 160 men were saved, which I fear means that over 500 were lost.

"The admiral commanding at the Dardanelles also telegraphed that the submarine E-14, which, with so much daring, penetrated to the Sea of Marmora, has reported that she sank two Turkish gunboats and a large Turkish transport."

The Goliath was one of the older British battleships of the pre-dreadnaught type. She was built in 1898. Her complement was 750 men. She was 400 feet long on the waterline and 74 feet beam. Her displacement was 12,950 tons. She was armed with four 12-inch guns and twelve 6-inch guns, twelve 12-pounders, six 3-pounders and two machine guns and four torpedo tubes.

The Goliath is the third British battleship whose loss at the Dardanelles has been announced. Loss of the Irresistible and Ocean, together with the French battleship Bouvet, was announced on March 19. All three ships struck mines during a general assault on the Dardanelles forts on March 18.

On April 5 a wireless dispatch from Berlin said information had been received there that the British battleship Lord Nelson had stranded inside the straits and had been destroyed by the fire of Turkish guns. This report was not confirmed by the British admiralty.

ANTI-GERMAN MOB WRECKS BUILDINGS

Demonstrations at Johannesburg Result in Heavy Losses to Germans.

Johannesburg, Union of South Africa, May 13.—There have been a series of violent anti-German demonstrations in Johannesburg, which culminated yesterday in the wrecking of a number of German and Austrian establishments. The police intervened to quell the disturbance, but they were virtually powerless.

Altogether over fifty buildings have been wholly or partly wrecked and their contents either burned or reduced to matchwood. The establishments cleaned out include ten large warehouses, ten saloons, three hotels and more than twenty shops.

Destroys Club.

The mob destroyed the German Liederkranz club and pillaged the offices of the General Mining corporation. This concern has an international board of directors, including some Germans. The crowd burned all the books, records and accessible papers of the company.

The offices of Sir George Albus, near the stock exchange, were raided and a bonfire was made of the furniture. The crowd also fired the premises of a well-known German firm, Gundelfinger & Co., general merchants. The damage here alone was not less than $250,000, and the total losses from the rioting, which continued far into the night, are placed well over $1,000,000.

ROCKEFELLER WINS VICTORY IN COURT

Collection of Tax of Million and Half Restrained By Injunction.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 13.—United States District Judge John H. Clarke today gave John D. Rockefeller a victory in his tax suit against the Cuyahoga county assessors who sought to collect more than a million and a half of dollars on personal property valuation of $300,000,000 in stocks and bonds. The court granted an injunction to restrain the collection.

SUMMARY OF THE WAR NEWS

The British battleship Goliath was torpedoed and sunk at the Dardanelles last night by a Turkish destroyer, with the loss of about five hundred lives. Official announcement to this effect was made today in London, together with the statement that two Turkish gunboats and a Turkish transport had been sunk. A British submarine made its way entirely through the Dardanelles straits into the sea of Marmora where it attacked the Turkish vessels.

The French war office announced that successes had been won in the new offensive movement of the allies just south of the French border. It is said the French yesterday captured the fort at Notre Dame de Lorette with many trenches; the village of Carency and most of the village of Neuville and that hundreds of Germans were bayoneted and 1,500 taken prisoner.

A dispatch from Tarnow, Galicia, says the great battle in that region is nearing a conclusive phase. Terrific fighting continues to the east of Tarnow. Along the Carpathian front the Austrian advance is believed to have placed the Russians in danger of being surrounded.

The growth of anti-German feeling in England since the sinking of the Lusitania led to the announcement by Premier Asquith today of the government's decision to repatriate all aliens over military age from countries with which Great Britain is at war, as well as alien women and children in certain cases.

The possibility of a final Austro-German victory in Galicia as a result of the advance from Cracow is said by the war office at Petrograd to have been eliminated. The Russians, strongly reinforced, are now occupying advantageous positions, the war office states, and are preparing to seek revenge. The German victory is attributed to the concentration of more than 150,000 of the finest German troops along a short front in the neighborhood of Krosno for the sudden blow struck at the Russian line.

The Union of South Africa forces have penetrated further into German Southwest Africa. An official statement from Cape Town announces the capture of Windhoek, capital of the German possession.

Austria is preparing to proclaim a state of siege in its territory along the Italian frontier in case of war with Italy. The exodus of Italians from Austria continues in great numbers and strong Austrian forces are being brought in continually to points near the border. The decision of Italy, however, is still to be reached, and parliament may be called upon to assume the responsibility.

The American note to Germany, calling for a guarantee that attacks on merchantmen carrying non-combatants shall cease and that reparation shall be made by Germany for violation of American rights, within the war zone, is to be forwarded to Berlin today. The text of the note probably will be made public late today.

Unofficial reports from the Dardanelles state that the allies have won important successes in their campaign for possession of Constantinople. The Turks are said to be losing ground steadily in the land fighting, and the effectiveness of their forts is reported to have been impaired greatly by the fire of the allied warships. French and British ships entered the Dardanelles again yesterday and bombarded forts as far up the straits as the narrows.

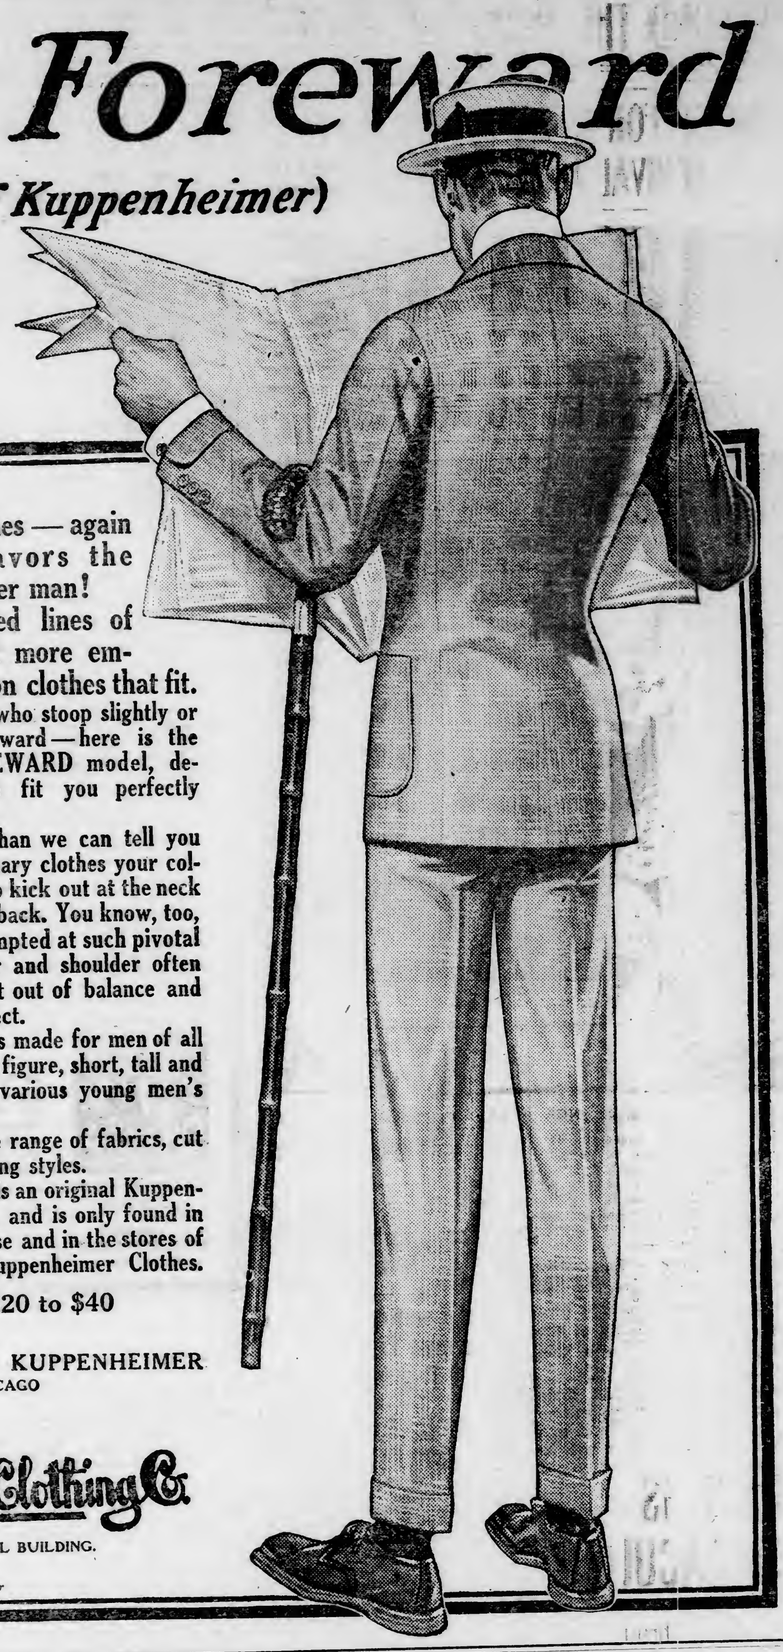
The Foreward

(By the House of Kuppenheimer)



SPRING Clothes — again fashion favors the Kuppenheimer man!

The body-shaped lines of the new style put more emphasis than ever on clothes that fit.

You difficult men who stoop slightly or carry the head forward—here is the Kuppenheimer FOREWARD model, designed especially to fit you perfectly without alteration.

You know better than we can tell you how often with ordinary clothes your collar has a tendency to kick out at the neck or sag too low at the back. You know, too, that alterations attempted at such pivotal points as the collar and shoulder often throw the whole coat out of balance and destroy the style effect.

The FOREWARD is made for men of all ages; men of regular figure, short, tall and stout men. And in various young men's models.

It comes in a wide range of fabrics, cut in the advanced Spring styles.

The FOREWARD is an original Kuppenheimer achievement, and is only found in the work of this House and in the stores of dealers who sell Kuppenheimer Clothes.

PROSPEROUS AND READY

Scandinavian Countries Are Coining Money From War; Prepared to Enter.

Fear Russia Will Attempt Invasion, Failing at Dardanelles.

"People of Sweden, Norway and Denmark are profiting from the war, and at the expense of combatants are greatly increasing their countries' wealth," said John Skadberg, Duluth attorney, who returned yesterday after a seven months' visit abroad.

"Diplomats are doing all they can to preserve the strictest neutrality in the Scandinavian peninsula, of course. I am of the opinion that Denmark and Norway are 'playing' the allies to win, while Sweden is kindly disposed towards Germany.

"Much more interest is shown there than in the United States, for small clusters of citizens gather each night to discuss the phases of the struggle.

All of the Scandinavian countries are mobilized and thoroughly prepared for war, and their interest is strengthened by the belief that they may be plunged into it themselves at almost any moment.

Enjoying Prosperity.

"In the meantime, they are enjoying the most prosperous era in their history. Products of all three countries, largely resulting from the fishing industry, bring double the normal prices," Mr. Skadberg said. "When the war opened, herring was sold on the market at £10 and £11 a barrel. Today £17 and £18 is the price paid. This is true of other commodities.

"The Scandinavians feel that if Russia fails in her attempt to open the Dardanelles, the czar's troops will sweep across Northern Sweden to Narvik, one of the large ports on the northern coast of Norway. They are preparing for such an attack."

First Gathering of Kind to Be Held in Mill City May 28.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—A state conference of commercial club secretaries will be held here all day Friday, May 28 at the Hotel Radisson.

According to men well informed, this will be the first statewide conference of this character ever held in Minnesota. It is called by the Minnesota Commercial and Civic Federation.

The officers of that body say that acceptances have been already received from the secretaries of the commercial bodies of Duluth, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Winona, Rochester, Brainerd and about twenty other cities, large and small.

Three subjects will be discussed: "How to Get Members"; "How to Collect Dues"; "How to Plan Programs of Civic Developments."

The time, place and subjects of the meeting were determined by a mail vote of the secretaries.

President Wilson of the Federation has received an invitation from the Minneapolis Rotary club that the whole number of secretaries attending the conference should be guests of the Rotary club at luncheon.

PUPILS WILL BE IN PARADE

Supt. Denfeld Declares School Vacation for Memorial Day.

Cadet Corps Will March; Program to Be Arranged Friday.

Duluth school children will take a prominent part in the Memorial day parade, May 31.

Supt. R. E. Denfeld of the city schools has declared the day a holiday so far as children attending the public schools are concerned, and it is expected that similar action will be taken by those in charge of parochial schools.

At a meeting to be held tomorrow afternoon at 4:15 o'clock at Memorial hall, court house, arrangements for the part that school children will take in the parade will be made.

Each school has been asked to send two delegates to the meeting to confer with members of the Citizens' staff. The meeting was announced yesterday by W. W. Huntley in a letter sent out to the various school principals. The letter is as follows:

Schools to Send Delegates.

"Dear Principal: The Citizens' Staff of the Grand Army of the Republic are desirous this year of having the best Memorial day parade ever.

"Memorial day will be observed on Monday, May 31, with parade starting at 9:15 a. m.

"We invite all school boys in the fifth grade and above to participate in this parade.

"We ask each teacher to select two delegates to attend a meeting at Memorial hall, court house, Friday, May 14, at 4:15 p. m. to make plans for the line of march.

"Please instruct the delegates how many flags will be needed for your school.

"There are two prize flags, which are offered to schools making the best appearance. One flag is contested for by all schools west of the Point of Rocks, and the other by all schools east of the Point of Rocks. These flags have been won the last two consecutive years by the Jackson and Merritt schools respectively, and if they should win this year the flags will belong to them permanently. Urge your school boys to try and capture the flag this year.

"Immediately after the parade the exercises will be held for the schools—perhaps in the Orpheum theater, although it is not definitely decided as yet.

"Any information desired regarding the schools' part in the exercises will be gladly given if you will call me on either phone 1802.

"Yours in patriotism and peace,
"W. W. HUNTLEY."

Use of Automobiles Asked.

One of the features of the parade will be the first public appearance of the Central high school cadet corps in uniform.

Automobile owners will be requested by the Citizens' staff to assist on Memorial day by lending their cars for the veterans.

Following the parade memorial services will be held at the Auditorium. Appropriate exercises will be held in each cemetery. These will be conducted by divisions of the local G. A. R. posts and W. R. C. circles. During the afternoon, services will be held on the U. S. S. Gopher in honor of the sailor dead.

Edward Armstrong, for the last eight years circulation manager of The Herald, will leave Duluth Sunday evening for San Francisco, where he will engage in business. Mrs. Armstrong and their daughter are now on the Pacific coast.

In Duluth he has been very active in Masonic circles, and served one year as master of Ionic lodge. His departure is keenly regretted both by his co-workers on The Herald staff and by the many friends he has made both through his Masonic activities and his business relations, but they are wishing him good fortune in his new enterprise.

EDWARD ARMSTRONG.

George H. Hunter, who has been Mr. Armstrong's assistant for several years, will be promoted to the position of circulation manager.

"STAR—The Chew of Good Cheer"

Men Who Chew Are Men Who DO

THOUSANDS of brainy, brawny men have made America the leader of the world in Telephone and Telegraph service.

These alert, clear thinking men chew tobacco, and the majority of them are STAR chewers and STAR boosters.

STAR is made clean and kept so; STAR plugs are thick, so that you get more of the mellow chewing, long lasting tobacco; STAR plugs won't dry out like thin plugs, and every STAR plug weighs a full 16 ounce pound, every time.

A trial STAR chew will change you from a "brand switcher" to a "STAR PLUGGER."

So great is the demand on the part of "chewers and doers" for STAR, that one hundred and twenty-five million ten-cent pieces are made and sold each year—enough to follow a telegraph line from St. Petersburg, Florida, to Seattle, Washington, a distance of about 4000 miles, and there would be over 600 miles of STAR left over.

CONTEST FOR QUEEN OF THE MAY CARNIVAL WILL BE LIVELY AFFAIR

MISS INGA A. BRENDE.

The contest for the queen of the May carnival and parade, to be held on May 28 under the auspices of the business men of the West end, is becoming lively. Miss Inga A. Brende, 2616 West Fifth street, bookkeeper for Morterud & Koneczny, announced yesterday afternoon her intention of entering the race.

Several other young women of this end of the city will enter and announce their names to the members of the committee before Saturday evening, according to statements made at the noon luncheon of the merchants held yesterday at the Rex hotel. It is believed that at least twelve will get into the field.

The plans for the festival were thoroughly gone over by the committee at the meeting following the luncheon. Every merchant has been supplied with coupons for voting. These will be distributed by the business men to customers purchasing goods in the stores. With each 25-cent purchase made the purchaser is entitled to one vote. The ballots will be deposited in sealed boxes that have been placed in each of the seven drug stores of this end of the city.

A handsome prize will be given by the committee to the successful candidate. This will be awarded at the wind-up of the parade. Plans are to have the parade start at 7 o'clock, headed by a band. Following the band will come a large float carrying the queen of May. Then will come the clean-up squads from the five different schools, marshaled by Capt. K. A. Franklin.

At the wind-up of the parade the float carrying the May queen will stop on one of the most prominent corners, where the award of the prizes will be made by Mayor W. I. Prince.

The luncheon was attended by about forty business men. Charles Mork presided and George M. Jensen was selected as secretary. The committee in charge of the celebration is headed by Carl E. Londgren. Other members are Sanford W. Hill, O. F. Wennerlund, C. J. Lundquist and E. F. Gustafson.

ESCAPE IS MIRACULOUS

Jitney Goes Through Retaining Wall Rail and Drops Ten Feet.

Driver and Passengers Escape Injury—Car Not Badly Damaged.

A jitneur and two male passengers had an almost miraculous escape from death at Thirteenth avenue west at 6 o'clock last evening. A "dinky" engine, standing on the Soo tracks, saved the car from making a complete somersault which would undoubtedly have caused the death of the three men in the car.

Arthur S. Pearson, jitneur; Harry Silk, 725 East Second street, and another man, whose name has not been learned, were in the car. Pearson was somewhat bruised, and Mr. Silk received a black eye and bruises about the legs and arms. Nobody was seriously injured.

The car, according to Mr. Silk, skidded and went through the iron railing on the lower side of the street. It struck the engine ten feet below and was held on its side, narrowly avoiding turning turtle, which would probably have resulted fatally to the three occupants of the machine.

The car, according to a statement made by Pearson to the police, became unmanageable when it struck a wet spot at the intersection of Michigan street and the grade between that and Superior street at the Point of Rocks. He said the car turned around a couple of times and finally headed for the railing carrying away with it more than twenty feet of the iron railing, which was imbedded in the cement sidewalk.

The passengers left at once and their names were not obtained by Pearson or the police. Mr. Silk gave an account of the accident to The Herald today. The car was not badly damaged, the wind shield and front part suffering most.

The accident attracted hundreds of people who were on their way home from work at the time. The driver resides at 3724 Annandale avenue.

WEST END BUILDERS

EMIL H. OLSON.

That the West end is the best place for business building is the opinion of Emil H. Olson. Mr. Olson should be a good authority on that subject in view of the fact that in the twelve years of business in the West end his firm has three times outgrown its quarters.

Mr. Olson is a booster for this district. During the twelve years that he has been in the city he has taken an active part in the upbuilding of the community as a member of committees of the West End Commercial club.

Mr. Olson resides with his family at 2307 West Second street.

REVIVALS DRAW CROWDS.

Rev. Paul Rood of Minneapolis Conducting Week of Meetings.

"Secret Sins" will be the subject of the sermon this evening by Rev. Paul Rood, pastor of the Gethsemane church of Minneapolis, who is conducting a series of revival meetings this week at the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street. The visiting pastor has been attracting large audiences to these meetings.

Tomorrow evening he will speak on "The Unanswerable Question," and on Saturday evening his subject will be "The Dew of Youth." He will give three sermons on Sunday, speaking in the morning on "The Second Coming of Christ" and in the evening on "The Question of the Ages."

A special service to be held Sunday afternoon for the Young People will be held at 4 o'clock. The pastor will then speak on "Popular Amusements."

West End Briefs.

Home and foreign subjects were discussed yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the Missionary Society of the Second Presbyterian church, 1515 West Superior street. Mrs. J. B. Campbell had charge of the foreign subject, "Siam and Laos," and Mrs. W. Berking spoke on, "Cuba and Porto Rico." Mrs. J. A. Ledingham read a paper.

L. A. Simonson, 2102 West Superior street, is spending a few days at Grand Marais, Minn.

Duck Shooters Fined.

Medina, N. D., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Shooting ducks in a small lake near here was the cause of the arrest of two strangers who were en route through North Dakota in an auto to Montana. Both had pump guns. These were confiscated by the wardens and the men were taken before a justice, who imposed the regulation fines.

Bagley Creamery Open.

Bagley, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Clearwater Cooperative creamery opened for the season when cream was received from about thirty farmers and over 400 pounds of butter was made. It is planned to churn every Monday and Friday, and ice cream as well as butter will be manufactured.

MILITARISM IN POLICE DEPARTMENT

Butt's Manual "Cops'" Textbook-Goose-Step May Be Tried—Chief McKercher Will Wear Uniform—First in Years to Do It.

"Do you know the goose step?"

Police Sergt. John Hunter was talking to Officer Fred Mahlen, who comes nearer to being a Brobdingnagian than any other member of the force. The giant admitted that he didn't.

"We are thinking of adopting the kaiser's famous goose step for the use of the relief patrol, so that we will make a more military appearance," said another member of the force.

Shudders agitated the manly frames of those who realized the import of the matter.

Butt's manual, the bane of every soldier's existence, is being studied by the police officers of Duluth, who, mindful of Commissioner Silberstein's edict in re-militarism, are preparing to "watch their step" after Saturday, May 15.

Patrolmen are waiting eagerly for Chief-elect McKercher's first appearance in his new uniform, for it has been several years since the chief of the city's bluecoats has worn brass buttons while on duty.

Shoe polish, metal polish, gun oil and whisk-brooms can be found in almost every policeman's locker, in the assembly room and strange, awe-inspiring "fronts" are expected when the men line up Saturday to hear Capt. A. G. Fiskett read the orders of the day.

As in the past, Capt. Fiskett will have charge of the patrolmen, while the plain clothes men, including Lieuts. N. U. G. Terry, F. A. Schulte and Holmstrom, and Detectives Irvine, Toewe and Bradley, will be under the supervision of the chief.

For Sallow, Wrinkled, Freckled, Pimpled Skin

If you have any cutaneous blemish, don't use paint, powder or anything else to cover it up. Too often this only emphasizes the defect. Besides, it's much easier to remove the disfigurement with ordinary mercolized wax. Applied nightly, the wax will gradually remove freckles, pimples, blackheads, moth-patches, sallowness, red or yellow blotches, or any surface eruptions. The affected cuticle is absorbed, a little each day, until the clear, soft, youthful and beautiful skin beneath is brought wholly to view. Ask the druggist for an ounce of mercolized wax and use like you do cold cream. Remove in morning with soap and water. Many who have tried this simple and harmless treatment report astonishing results. If bothered with wrinkles or crow's feet, a wash lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel will prove remarkably effectual.—Advertisement.

Prof. Waldron has been at the head of the department of horticulture for some years, and is regarded as especially familiar with the agricultural conditions in the state.

Austin Man on Lusitania.

Austin, Minn., May 13.—Fear is entertained that Fred Judson, son of Henry Judson, formerly of this city, lost his life on the Lusitania. He sailed on that boat and no word has been received of his being among the rescued. His father is a brother of Mrs. Avery of this city.

STOP WATCH WILL KEEP TAB ON SPEEDERS.

Commissioner Silberstein, head of the safety division, has purchased a stop watch for the purpose of keeping tab on automobile speeders. As automobiles are not permitted to travel faster than ten miles an hour, it is an easy matter to watch a machine for one block and thus obtain its speed.

WILSON THANKS TAFT FOR HIS CONFIDENCE

Washington, May 13.—President Wilson received a letter from Former President Taft, expressing confidence in his ability to handle the situation growing out of the sinking of the Lusitania. The president has written a reply to Mr. Taft thanking him warmly.

Mr. Taft, in his letter expressed his views of what should be done in the present situation. While the letter was not made public, it is understood that Mr. Taft and the president are in substantial accord in the general principles underlying the attitude of the United States.

ENRICH THE BLOOD

Hood's Sarsaparilla, a Spring Tonic Medicine, is Necessary.

Everybody is troubled at this season with loss of vitality, failure of appetite, that tired feeling, or with billous turns, dull headches, indigestion and other stomach troubles, or with pimples and other eruptions on the face and body. The reason is that the blood is impure and impoverished.

Hood's Sarsaparilla relieves all these ailments. It is the old reliable medicine that has stood the test of forty years,—that makes pure, rich, red blood—that strengthens every organ and builds up the whole system. It is the all-the-year-round blood-purifier and health giver. Nothing else acts like it, for nothing else is like it. There is no real substitute; so be sure to get Hood's. Ask your druggist for it today, and begin taking it at once.

Build Up Your Baby's Strength

Give him the right food. More babies die as a result of the wrong food than from any other cause, and it is so unnecessary. When your milk fails and you find you can't nurse your baby, give him the food on which three generations of boys and girls have grown healthy and strong—

Nestlé's Food

In Nestlé's there is everything your baby needs to make his little body plump, his cheeks rosy and his eyes bright. Pure cow's milk is its basis—but cow's milk so changed and modified, and with baby needs added, that your little baby can digest it just as easily as mother's milk. Add cold water and boil, and you have a Food your baby will thrive on.

Cow's milk alone will not do for your baby. It is dangerously full of germs which may carry disease to your baby. There are only eight clean dairies in a hundred in this country. And, besides, cow's milk is too heavy and indigestible for your baby's delicate stomach.

Let us send you a big box of Nestle's—enough for twelve feedings—and our Book on the care of Babies. Send the coupon today. Your baby's health depends on his food.

PROMINENT MASON DIES.

Erasmus Theodore Carr, Sovereign Grand Inspector in Montana, Dead.

By the death of Erasmus T. Carr, which occurred on the morning of May 12, at Glendale, Cal., the supreme council of the Thirty-third and last degree, for the southern jurisdiction of the United States loses its dean; by twenty years he was the oldest active member, in point of service.

He was born in Greenfield, Saratoga county, New York, on Oct. 28, 1825. Was an architect by profession and removed to Kansas in 1855. Was made a Mason in Leavenworth, July 6, 1856. Served for thirteen years as grand secretary of the Grand Chapter of Kansas and seven years as grand recorder of the Grand Commandery.

In the Scottish Rite he was crowned an active member of the supreme council, southern jurisdiction, Sept. 18, 1868, and appointed the sovereign grand inspector general in Kansas, but in 1885, having moved to Montana he was transferred to the inspectorship of that state. In 1901 he was grand prior of the supreme council but resigned shortly afterwards from active official life, although retaining the inspectorship of Montana.

The old regime of the supreme council is fast passing, the next in point of service being the present sovereign grand commander, Judge George F. Moore of Alabama, crowned in 1888, with John E. Mayer of Richmond, Va.; Dr. John W. Morris of West Virginia, present grand treasurer is the next, then Judge Edward T. Taubman of Aberdeen, S. D., completes the list of those active members in office previous to 1901, the year of the centenary celebration of the southern supreme council.

INJURED WOMAN FAILS TO RALLY

Mrs. William Switzer of Holyoke Dies in Duluth Hospital.

After a three weeks' fight for life, Mrs. William Switzer of Holyoke, Minn., injured April 25 when a blind horse walked off a bridge and carried the carriage down sixty-five feet to a creek, died at St. Luke's hospital yesterday afternoon. She was 50 years of age.

At the time of the accident Mrs. Switzer, with two of her sisters and three children, were driving home from church. One of the horses, which was blind, became frightened while crossing the bridge over a ravine and plunged over the edge of the structure, carrying the buggy and occupants with it.

Mrs. Switzer was the only one injured seriously and she was nearly drowned before other members of the party reached her. She was brought to Duluth, but efforts to save her life proved unavailing. The body is at Crawford's undertaking rooms awaiting funeral arrangements.

ROUTES FOR JITNEY LINES

Ordinance Will Be Amended to Provide Systematic Service.

Regular Schedules and Routes; Other Changes Considered.

When the jitney ordinance comes up for passage next Monday evening, it will be amended so that drivers will be compelled to travel along regular routes and to follow daily schedules.

Commissioner Silberstein, head of the public safety division, wants schedules established and routes adopted, so that the public will have much better service than they are receiving at the present time. He took the questions up with City Attorney Greene this morning and the amendment will be presented at the council meeting next Monday.

In addition to this change, the council will consider a number of amendments now being prepared by Capt. C. C. Teare, attorney for the Duluth Jitney association. These include the striking out of the section relating to liability insurance and the filing of a surety bond in its stead, the reduction of the license fee from $20 a year to $5 a year, and the carrying of passengers in parks, now prohibited by the ordinance. Several minor changes are also proposed.

The jitney ordinance was introduced two weeks ago by Commissioner Silberstein. It was planned at first to make it an emergency measure, so that it would go into effect at once, but Commissioner Merritt objected and it was decided to follow the regular program.

At the meeting last Monday many jitney owners protested against some of the features and a tentative draft was read by Capt. Teare, who included many of the features of the original ordinance and changes proposed by the members of the jitney association. The commissioners decided to meet with Capt. Teare during this week and to prepare amendments to be presented next Monday.

Besides the amendments proposed by Commissioner Silberstein regulating routes and schedules, he will also present one providing for a surety bond, instead of liability insurance amounting to $15,000.

AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—Baldwin Players in "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm."
ORPHEUM—International vaudeville.
NEW GRAND—Vaudeville and motion pictures.
REX—Dustin Farnum in "Captain Courtesy," photoplay.
LYRIC—"The Christian," photoplay.

Considerable secrecy surrounds the performances of "Mam'zelle" which will be staged

STOCK ACTORS AS VAUDEVILLIANS. by the Baldwin Players next week at the Lyceum.

The second act of the play permits of many surprises and vaudeville novelties, and the members of the company are busy rehearsing "specialties." Miss Berta Schmied and Leo Schmied will be added to the company for the week, presenting some new ballroom dances as a part of the interpolated vaudeville program. Walter S. Baldwin, Jr., has a blackface turn with A. Romaine Callender assisting him as an Englishman. Other members of the company say the "turn" is going to be a "scream." The vaudeville part of the program is not in the nature of "between act specialties," but an integral part of the play, and it offers an opportunity for the members of the company to show their versatility and originality. Whether the audiences will enjoy the specialties or not remains to be seen, but the members of the company are having hilarious times at rehearsals this week, and have entered into the spirit of it enthusiastically.

Four more performances of "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" will be given, tonight, tomorrow night, and Saturday afternoon and night.

The many pleasing features of the Orpheum show this week will undoubtedly leave a good impression as the closing bill with the patrons of first class vaudeville. It is one of the best all round shows seen at the two-a-day house since its reopening. The merit of this show will prove conclusively that the Orpheum management has kept faith with Duluth in promising high class attractions.

LAST WEEK AT ORPHEUM.

Two headline acts are on this week's program—Elsa Ruegger, cellist, and Jack Kennedy in "The Flare Back."

Miss Ruegger's appearance is an unusual musical treat and "The Flare Back," being a sketch with a popular theme, is proving a favorite number on the bill.

The Orpheum will close for the summer, Saturday night.

A vaudeville and photoplay bill that is likely to be a popular one is the new bill opening this afternoon at the New Grand for the remainder of the week.

Bert Sheppard, known as the "Whip King," supported b ya competent company, offers a Western act, full of novelty. Fitch Cooper, the musical rube, is a capable musician as well as an exceptionally clever comedian. The Georgia Trio are singers, dancers and comedians.

Montambo and Wells, in a European novelty in comedy acrobatics, have an offering of exceptional merit.

There are roars of laughter in Charles Chaplin's latest comedy, "By the Sea." Chaplin with his big feet performing their usual mirth-provoking perambulations, wanders down by the seashore and the result would stir the risibilities of the most forlorn gloom on earth.

"Thirty," a thrilling story of newspaper life with a pretty love story interwoven, features Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne. "The Sort of a Girl Who Came From Heaven" is a Vitagraph special, featuring Anita Stewart and Earl Williams.

The Hearst-Selig News of events projects, as usual, many interesting views that help make world's history.

DUSTIN FARNUM AT REX.

Dustin Farnum and his big story, "Captain Courtesy," are two pleasant memories. The story is told amidst nature's settings, in canyons, on the vast mesas and on the wooded sides of the Sierras and played with the vigor and energy of great outdoor actors who scale mountain sides and bridge dangerous chasms on magnificent horses trained for just such feats. Some of the wonders will force one to pinch himself to make sure he is not faring forth with the daring Dustin.

Courtney Foote, Herbert Standing and Winnifred Kingston, the all-star cast, are entitled to a great deal of credit for the fine support given Mr. Farnum. The producers have spared no pains to make the play realistic. It will be seen tonight at Rex Beautiful.

"THE CHRISTIAN" PLEASES CROWDS.

A prettier, more touching story of love and human interest has seldom been conceived by great writer than "The Christian" by Hall Caine, which is now being shown in motion picture form at the Lyric theater.

The passions and the strength of humanity, as well as its weaknesses, are played upon and by past masters in the art, both in the form of author and producer.

The crowds of people who have witnessed this production since its opening here last Sunday are enthusiastic in their praise of its story, its splendid acting and its sumptuous settings.

"Vanity Fair" would have been a great name for this work, had not Mr. Thackeray made use of it so long before Mr. Caine's time.

It is a Vanity Fair in fact.

MORE BODIES RECOVERED

Added Victims of Lusitania Wreck on Way to Queenstown.

Much Interest Felt in Transylvania, Nearing War Zone.

Queenstown, May 13.—A nasty rain and a choppy sea interfered with the search today for bodies of the Lusitania's dead, but six more were found in the vicinity of Skull and several others under a life boat. These bodies were placed on a tug to be brought into Queenstown.

All South Ireland is greatly excited over the outcome of the voyage of the Anchor line steamer Transylvania, now nearing the war zone.

Two Missing.

London, May 13.—The list of Americans on the Lusitania, as posted at the American embassy gives Lindon Bates, Jr., and Herman A. Meyers of New York, as missing and not as survivors, as erroneously published in the United States.

Memorial Services.

Liverpool, May 13.—Memorial services for victims of the Lusitania were held in St. Peter's church here today. Among those in attendance were several survivors of the disaster and a number of relatives of persons who had lost their lives, together with the lord mayor of Liverpool, Chairman Booth and directors of the Cunard Steamship company.

Offices Closed.

New York, May 13.—Offices of the Cunard line were closed from 12 to 1 o'clock today as a mark of respect to the Lusitania's dead and concurrent with memorial services held in Liverpool.

Revised lists of survivors in the first and second cabin were made up today. It included no additional names except those of Miss Delane Lehmann and Martin Lehmann. Announcement was made that these two names, hitherto left off the official list of the Cunard line could be safely added.

INCREASE IN NET EARNINGS FOR ROADS

Improvement in Traffic Is Shown By Recent Reports.

Improvement in railroad traffic is shown in the fact that many of the leading systems are now able to report increases in net earnings over last year, while until recently heavy declines in freight receipts were the rule.

Substantial betterment has been shown of late by the Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Milwaukee, Soo Line, New York Central, New Haven and Pennsylvania lines. Business with the Southern roads is also picking up as a result of the good movement in cotton and the consequent gain in shipments of Northern goods down that way.

The net surplus of idle freight cars in this country was reduced 37,457 during April, the number on May 1 standing at 289,627 as compared with 327,084 on April 1 and 230,533 a year ago.

BISHOP MORRISON CONFIRMS AITKIN CLASS

Aitkin, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—An impressive service took place Tuesday evening at St. John's Episcopal church, when Bishop J. D. A chorus of voices sang, with Miss Helen Stebbins as organist, and the bishop preached a very able sermon.

Wednesday morning Bishop Morrison administered communion and later departed for Faribault.

HELPING FARGO COLLEGE

Wealthy Men to Assist in Raising Proposed Endowment.

Fargo, N. D., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The effort to secure the $500,000 permanent endowment fund for the Fargo college, which has been practically suspended for some time, as a result of the European war, has been renewed, and there is considerable euthusiasm over the possible results.

About a year ago it was announced that an endowment of half a million would be sought. The Congregational educational department agreed to assist, provided $100,000 was raised locally. Fargoans responded promptly with contributions that exceeded $109,000. But before the eastern campaign could be inaugurated the war broke out, and the times were not considered propitious for prosecuting the campaign.

Recently, while Governor Hanna was East, he was met by President Hansel of the college. While there they called upon Presidents Sage of the Rockefeller and Pritchitt of the Carnegie foundations, both of whom expressed interest in the work, and may assist in a material way. Afterwards the governor and Mr. Hansel went to Maine, where they interviewed Mr. Stewart, a brother of the former well-known Minneapolitan, and feel he will materially assist in the endowment.

Again in Newspaper Game.

Charbonneau, N. D., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—After founding a number of papers in this and Pierce county, all of which he sold, A. M. Young is again in the newspaper business in this county, having purchased the Herald of this place from H. B. Winne. The plant was moved here a year ago from Tagus, where it had been used in the publication of the Mirror.

Sparta, Wis., Thief Sentenced.

La Crosse, Wis., May 13.—William Steele, who robbed a boxcar at Sparta, was sentenced to two years at Waupun by Judge Higbee. Ted Stout got one year for forging his father's name to a note.

Herald Want Ads are steadily increasing in usefulness. This is truly the "get-together place" of Duluth.

A New Method of Baking Cakes

Mrs. Nevada Briggs, the baking expert, says:

"There is just one way to make your cakes rise high and evenly—give them time to rise before a crust is formed and the batter is stiffened by cooking."

"If using a gas, gasoline or oil stove, light your oven when you put the cake in and keep the flame low until the cake has doubled in bulk; then increase the heat until it is evenly browned and will respond to the pressure of the finger. If using a coal or wood range, leave the oven door open until the cake is in; then turn on the drafts and by the time the oven is at baking temperature, the cake will have raised sufficiently."

For rich, moist, feathery cakes Mrs. Briggs always recommends

KC BAKING POWDER

It is double acting and sustains the raise. You can open and close the oven door, turn the tin around in the oven or do anything else necessary, without any danger of making the cake fall.

Try your favorite cake next time with K C Baking Powder and see how much higher it will rise. Make it just as you always do, with the same quantity of baking powder. While K C is less expensive than the old fashioned baking powders, it has even greater leavening strength and it is guaranteed pure and healthful.

COMPROMISE BETWEEN THE SHIPPERS AND VESSEL LINES

Boats Will Deliver Any Shipment in Excess of Five Tons.

At a meeting at the Commercial club, which lasted all morning, managers of the lake lines and representatives of the wholesale houses of Duluth reached a compromise in the matter of delivering merchandise to the various houses at the Head of the Lakes that have dock property for loading and unloading.

Some time ago the lake lines issued their tariffs for the season, and this included the announcement that deliveries, which have been made for years of goods coming up the lakes for the wholesalers, without regard to the amount, would not be made unless in amounts of fifty tons or more. This was recognized as a very serious matter to wholesalers here, for on shipments through to the Twin Cities, transfer is made directly from the vessels to the companies' warehouses, and thence to cars, which are delivered right to the doors of the Twin City houses. A regulation of the kind promulgated as to Duluth houses, it was pointed out, would be discriminatory to an extreme degree.

The interstate commerce commission was appealed to, and at the request of the Duluth traffic commission, suspended the tariff of the lake lines, and the hearing in the matter was soon to be held. However, the meeting of today will do away with that necessity so far as the delivery matter is concerned, a settlement of the matter, satisfactory to both sides, having been arrived at.

The lake lines were represented at the meeting today by the following, all from Buffalo, N. Y.: E. T. Douglass, general manager of the Western Transit company; James Carey Evans, vice president of the Erie & Western Transportation company; President Heald of the Mutual Transit company, and Harry S. Noble, assistant manager of the Mutual Transit company.

All of the wholesale houses of Duluth were represented, and C. Roy Hall, traffic commissioner of the Duluth Commercial club, on whose protest the tariffs were suspended, also took part in the discussion. The matter was gone over thoroughly and the situation fully explained to the transportation men. They were shown where the discrimination against Duluth would be disastrous, and were convinced that this city had plenty of evidence to show the interstate commerce commission in the matter. The officials of the transportation companies, being convinced of the justice of Duluth's claim, presented their side, showing that the delivery of small amounts, as has been done in the past, costs too much in proportion to the freight they get out of it, and also that more concentration of freight would not hamper the dealers, at the same time benefiting the transportation companies.

The compromise reached is that the transportation companies will deliver carload lots of freight in amounts to 10,000 pounds or more. This is a good deal different from the regulation objected to, which required lots of fifty tons, or 100,000 pounds.

FOR DEBTS OF ANOTHER MAN

Erick Newman Nearly Lost Home and Savings of Lifetime.

Court Interferes and Restrains Sheriff From Selling Property.

Only a recourse to the courts saved Erick Newman, stationary engineer, from losing his home and the savings of a lifetime to satisfy the debt of another for which he was in no way liable. In district court yesterday afternoon, Judge Ensign filed findings which decreed that Newman was not indebted to the Stone-Ordean-Wells company and that a confession of judgment which he had unwittingly signed be canceled and his property restored to him.

On April 6, 1914, Newman agreed to manage a grocery store business owned by Peter Myslkowski at Chisholm for a few months while the owner took a trip to the old country. He took charge at that time and ran the store until July 10, 1914, when Myslkowski returned.

Myslkowski had been securing his goods from the Stone-Ordean-Wells wholesale house and when he left for his trip abroad he informed the wholesalers that he had left Newman in charge of the business and arranged for a line of credit to be extended to him on his (Myslkowski's) account.

The court finds from the evidence that Myslkowski, without notifying Newman of his act, on April 25, 1914, advised the wholesale firm not to extend further credit on his account. Newman, however, did not learn that the credit had been stopped until two days later when Roland G. Lacy, a representative of the company called upon him.

Executed Mortgage.

Lacy induced Newman to execute a mortgage on his property and a note to cover his credit. On May 1, 1914, the court finds, Lacy destroyed the mortgage and the note it secure after he had secured Newman's signature to a confession of judgment for $584.21, which was then owing on goods furnished to the Myslkowski business. Judgment for this amount was accordingly entered in district court three days later.

Judge Ensign holds that the evidence shows that Newman had no understanding what a confession of judgment amounted to and the jeopardy in which his property had been placed. The court further holds that no consideration passed between Newman and the company and that therefore the judgment should be vacated.

The judgment was partially satisfied by the company in the sum of $221.55, which was money afterwards received from Newman from the business. The court ordered that an injunction issue restraining the wholesalers or the sheriff from selling Newman's property under an execution of judgment.

"It is not conceivable," said the court in its memorandum, "that any same man, poor, and with a family to support, such as he claimed, should pledge the home he had acquired by hard labor to pay the debt of another, a debt for which he was not liable and one which could not be enforced against him."

N. B. Arnold appeared in the case as attorney for Newman and Courtney & Courtney represented the defendant company.

NO FURTHER NEWS FROM MISS BAKER

No further news was received today as to the identity of the "Mrs. Baker" in an English hospital.

Reports from New York yesterday stated that there is a "Mrs. Baker" among the survivors and that there was a possibility of her being Miss Millie Baker of Duluth. The woman is seriously ill and it has been impossible to obtain any information from her as to her identity.

Local friends of Miss Baker are hoping that Miss Baker is among the survivors and are anxiously waiting for a report to substantiate the messages received yesterday morning.

Mrs. A. Baker, mother of Miss Baker, is reported slightly improved this afternoon.

SUPERIOR

LEGAL BATTLE ON RECALL PETITION

The recall of Mayor J. S. Konkel of Superior will now probably develop into a legal battle. The city clerk this morning decided that he would not certify to the petition recently filed which contained 1,246 names because it was not considered sufficient. An opinion handed down by the legal department was to the effect that the state law requiring one-third of the voters of the city to sign such a petition would be necessary. This will require an additional 600 names in order to make it fully comply with that law.

Men behind the recall movement intend carrying the petition into court. What ever decision is rendered by the district court will mean that it will later be appealed in the supreme court and that the battle will probably last another year.

Sawmill Burned.

The Caleson lumber mill at the east end was destroyed by fire last night. The loss, estimated by Eli Caleson, owner of the mill, is placed at $5,000. The origin of the fire is unknown. When the firemen from the East End station arrived, the fire had gained such headway that it was impossible to save any part of the mill.

Will Be Extradited.

Extradition papers for C. E. Johnson were secured yesterday by District Attorney Archie McKay from Governor Hammond of Minnesota. Johnson is wanted in Superior on a charge of thefts of drugs and tools belonging to local dentists. He was recently arrested at Grand Rapids, Minn., and refused to return to Wisconsin to stand trial without the extradition papers.

ORE GRADE IN DISPUTE

Hearing on Alleged Contract Violation on in District Court.

Mine Owners Allege Breach; Lessees Claim Lack of Grade.

A motion to dismiss the suit brought against the Iroquois Mining company by Swallow & Hopkins to recover $70,000 damages for an alleged breach of contract, is being argued before Judge Bert Fesler in district court this afternoon. The plaintiffs rested their case this morning.

The claim of Swallow & Hopkins is that the Iroquois company broke its agreement to purchase 100,000 tons of ore from the Holmes, No. 1 mine at $2.82 a ton, after 14,000 tons had been shipped. The Iroquois company claimed that it was merely exercising an option to terminate the contract, as contained in the agreement, and that it did so in June, 1913.

Not Up to Requirements.

Under the terms of the agreement the defendants might terminate the contract if the ore in two successive cargoes should prove to contain less than 50 per cent iron, natural. One full cargo was taken from the docks and another shipment, considerably smaller, followed. In both cases, it is alleged, the test showed a grade of less than 50 per cent iron natural and the company refused to accept any more ore.

The plaintiffs claim that two full cargoes were not shipped and that the second shipment would not have been made except at the instance of the company which had knowledge at the time that the grade was lower than 50 per cent. Evidence was produced to show that the ore of the next shipment, if it had been made, tested 52.3 per cent iron natural. The plaintiffs are suing for the loss of the profits.

Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell are attorneys for Swallow & Hopkins and Theodore Hollister of this city and H. K. Tenny of Tenny, Harding & Sherman of Chicago appear as counsel for the Iroquois company.

WATER POWER BILL AGAIN HELD UP

Madison, Wis., May 13.—After an extended debate on the water power bill, hopes of a vote of congressment on the Ackley bill as amended by the conservation committee were destroyed in the senate today when Senator Bosshard offered a fourth sub-amendment necessitating that the bill and all amendments go over until his amendment is printed. The bill was made a special order again for next Wednesday morning.

The Bosshard amendment does not repeal the present law, but amends by striking out the clause giving the state power to repeal or amend franchises at any time and by eliminating the plan of compensation when the state takes over water powers. It also provides for what the author described as fair compensation.

The senate passed the Baxter bill reducing barbers' license fees from $2 to $1 and placing the barbers' board under the state board of health.

The assembly sent to engrossment the Grell bill giving a locality the right to suspend the state law prohibiting the opening of saloons on Sundays.

It passed the Hambrecht bill throwing open the whole civil service eligible list to appointment and killed the Jenson bill, repealing the law which gives newspapers $100 for circulating the law supplement at the close of the legislature.

MONTHLY BULLETINS.

Street Cars Will Be Used to Give Health Instructions.

Monthly bulletins will be posted in the street cars by the health department, according to an announcement made this morning by Health Director Fahey.

This month the cards urge all Duluthians to clean up their yards and to make all buildings sanitary, so that they won't be breeding places for flies. Next month the public will be urged to "swat the fly."

These monthly bulletins will take the place of the publication issued by Dr. H. E. Webster, former health director, during the last two years.

HEARING ON SELLWOOD INHERITANCE TAX

In probate court today, Judge S. W. Gilpin heard arguments on the objections raised by Mrs. Martha M. Sellwood to the tax fixed by the court against her inheritance from the estate of her husband, the late Capt. Joseph Sellwood.

The court has fixed the tax at $1,186 and the widow now seeks to have the court re-determine it. Her claim is that the property which a widow receives under her statutory rights or in lieu of her statutory rights, is not taxable.

The attorney general's office takes the position that such property is taxable. The question will be submitted to Judge Gilpin on briefs.

JEWELRY STOLEN AS OWNER SLEEPS

New York, May 13.—It was announced by the police today that burglars had entered the apartments of Raymond McCune, son of A. W. McCune of Salt Lake City, a wealthy mine owner, and stolen $30,000 worth of jewelry. The robbery occurred last Thursday night while Mr. and Mrs. McCune were asleep. The jewelry, most of which belonged to Mrs. McCune, was taken from her dresser and included a $20,000 pearl necklace. Mr. McCune is a civil engineer. His wife was Miss Katherine Hooker of Lexington, Ky.

DON'T TAKE AN ADVERTISING FLYER

Advertising is not a gamble—it's a sane business weapon.

A business should no more take a "flyer" at advertising than it should at good storekeeping.

Advertising is a problem to be studied.

Once the right plan is found it should be kept up in season and out.

This newspaper will gladly advise with business men who are trying to solve the advertising problem.

LAKE STEAMERS COLLIDE AND SINK NEAR HURON

Freighters Osborne and Valcartier Come Together in Heavy Fog.

Osborne Has Coal, Valcartier Grain—Crews Are Saved.

Huron, Mich., May 13.—The steel freighter O. M. Osborne of Bay City, Mich., upbound with a cargo of coal, collided in Lake Huron, just above this port today with the freighter Valcartier, downbound, laden with grain, and so violent was the collision that both boats soon sank. The crews were saved without difficulty.

The Osborne, 350 feet long, lies on the bottom of Lake Huron near the mouth of the St. Clair river.

A tug towed the Valcartier to the river, where she settled to the bottom. The Valcartier was formerly the William Henry Mack of Cleveland. She is 354 feet long. It is believed a misunderstanding of signals during heavy fog was responsible for the accident.

Vessel men were not able to determine this afternoon what the property damage to the ships and cargoes would amount to.

Lights and Shadows of Police Court

USED WRONG PAINT.

It Was Red and Prisoner "Painted Town," Says Complainant.

CLEAN-UP and paint-up campaigns are wonderful, but when you use red paint, with the "town" as your objective, the result is anything but wonderful, in the opinion of William J. Elliott, jailed last night for grand larceny.

Elliott is alleged to have borrowed $11 from Mike Gnall with which to buy paint for his boat. Instead of painting the boat, he forgot to buy the paint and spent the $11 for sorrow-remover.

When Gnall remonstrated, Elliott borrowed his watch and sold it for $6. The watch was found in a pawnshop at 413½ West Superior street and Gnall decided that things had gone far enough.

After being arraigned before Judge F. H. Cutting in municipal court this morning Elliott asked for a hearing. If the evidence is sufficient he will be bound over to await grand jury action, and will face the possibility of a penitentiary sentence.

Sold Liberty for $4.

After collecting a bill for $4 from J. C. Clark, Max Snider, 19, employed at the time by Joseph Popkin, furniture dealer at 232 East Superior street, signed Mr. Popkin's name and cashed the check.

Police have been looking for Snider for some time, as the check, drawn on the American Exchange bank of this city, was cashed early in December, last.

He returned to Duluth yesterday after an absence of several months and Lieut. F. A. Schulte, with Detective Donald Irvine, took him into custody. Police say that Snider admitted the forgery. He will be arraigned in municipal court this afternoon.

GERMANS REPULSE ATTACKS BY FRENCH

Berlin Says Heavy Losses Were Inflicted Upon the Enemy.

Berlin, May 13, via London, 5:30 p. m. —The following announcement was made today at army headquarters:

"Western theater of war: East of Ypres we took another point of vantage from the enemy. In the afternoon strong French attacks on our front from Ablain to Neuville were repulsed with very heavy losses to the enemy.

"The village of Carency and the western part of Ablain, which are for the greater part included in the territory held by the French as a result of their occupation of our foremost trenches between Neuville and Carency, were, however, evacuated last night. Unfortunately on this occasion a number of our brave men and much material again were lost.

"French attempts to recapture a section of their trenches which we took from them northwest of Berry-au-Bac in the woods south of Nil-Aux-Bois, were without success.

"After strong artillery preparations the enemy attacked our positions between the Meuse and the Moselle last night. At Oroyp des Carnes they succeeded in penetrating a section of our foremost trenches stretching over a width from 150 to 200 meters.

HEARING IN SIOUX FALLS CASE SATURDAY

Roy Hall, traffic commissioner of the Duluth Commercial club, will leave tonight for Washington to attend the hearing of the case of Sioux Falls against the Chicago & Northwestern, the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha, and the Great Northern roads. Duluth is an intervenor in the case.

Mr. Hall regards this case as a very important one, for he looks upon it as the opening gun in the great southwestern case, in which Duluth is vitally interested.

FOUND DEAD NEAR TRACKS

Eric Peters, N. P. Section Hand, Believed Victim of Passenger Train.

Body Found in Ditch—Funeral Will Be Held Next Sunday.

Eric Peters, aged 39, a resident of Short Line park, was found in a dying condition lying in a ditch alongside the Northern Pacific railroad tracks at Seventy-third avenue west at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, by Theodore Swanson, section foreman for the company. The man died before an ambulance with officers from the West Duluth police station arrived to carry him away.

An investigation and examination conducted by Deputy Coroner McAuliffe at Fillatrault's undertaking rooms revealed several of the man's right ribs fractured and the right lobe of the liver injured. Death was caused by a hemorrhage of the liver.

It is believed that the man was struck by the passenger train from St. Paul, which had arrived in the city only a short time before the body was found. Mr. Peters had been in West Duluth since early Tuesday morning, and it is believed that he was on his way home when the accident happened.

Mr. Peters was employed as a section hand and worked with the crew under Mr. Swanson. He had not been working since a week ago, when his wife died. Her funeral took place last Sunday.

The deceased was a resident of Short Line park for more than twenty years. He leaves four children, all under 17 years of age, and he is also survived by his father. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Pine Hill church, with interment in the Pine Hill cemetery.

IMPROVEMENTS TO MATCH FACTORY

More Floor Space Will Be Provided for More Machines.

Improvements which will cost the company close to $7,000 are under way at the Union Match company factory, Fiftieth avenue west and Roosevelt street. The improvements include the building of an addition to the plant 33 by 100 feet and the rearrangement of the machinery so that there will be more floor space for the various machines.

The company yesterday laid off about half of the crew while the work of moving is taking place. The addition has been completed and it is expected that it will take about two weeks before the machines are set in place for the resumption of work.

Employment is being given to about 175 operatives at the plant. Nearly 100 of these were laid off yesterday, but will go to work as soon as the improvements are completed. The company is keeping three machines operating in order that the supply on hand will not be allowed to run too low.

A large number of rooters for the West Duluth school will attend the contest. A higher standing than that attained last year is expected this year, and many have hopes of winning the cup.

Contestants from the Duluth Central, the Superior Central and the Nelson Dewey high school of Superior will take part.

SUES THE CITY.

West Duluth Woman Wants $2,536 for Injuries in Fall.

Mrs. Caroline Paulson, 53, West Duluth, is plaintiff in a personal injury action against the city of Duluth which was brought to trial today before Judge Dancer and a district court jury.

While she was crossing Sixty-fourth avenue west at Seventh street on Aug. 4, 1914, Mrs. Paulson stepped off the sidewalk into a hole in the street. In falling she broke her left arm and sprained her right ankle. Damages in the sum of $2,536 are sought.

A jury was drawn this morning to try the case.

DEGREE TEAM WILL VISIT VIRGINIA

The degree team of Old Hickory Camp No. 1555, headed by Capt. C. C. Salter, will go to Virginia, Minn., on May 22 to give an exhibition drill and put on the work of class initiation. A class of about twenty-five new members will be initiated that evening by the Virginia lodge.

The Old Hickory degree team is said to be one of the best drilled teams in the order. At various encampments of the Woodmen the team has brought home some of the "bacon" in the shape of handsome prizes. In competition with similar teams of Duluth the organization has invariably walked off with the honors. Capt. Salter has been at the head of the organization for several yeras.

WEST DULUTH BUILDERS

T. F. WIELAND.

Some men are born famous; others have fame thrust upon them, and still others acquire it later in life, but T. F. Wieland says he is not yet in any of the three classes. Only once in recent years, said he this morning, has fame been thrust upon him and that was last winter when he established a "new sink" while curling.

Mr. Wieland might be termed an "old timer" in West Duluth, although his last period of residence in this end of the city dates back only about three years. He first came to West Duluth about twenty years ago and then laid a foundation for a big store.

It was but a few years after that when he decided that possibly strawberry raising and banking down in Washburn, Wis., were more profitable than selling hardware in West Duluth. Then Mr. Wieland spent seven years in Washburn and, by the end of that time, he found he was missing something good here, and immediately packed up his belongings and returned.

"There's no place like West Duluth," he said. "It may be small just now, but just watch it grow."

Mr. Wieland is senior partner of the firm of Wieland & Wade. He resides at 5801 West Eighth street.

DULUTH IN "MOVIES."

Governor's Visit and Other Features Shown on Screen.

Duluth in the "movies" was well featured at the Alhambra theater in West Duluth last night. The recent visit of Governor Hammond to the city and schools of West Duluth as well as activities on the water front, at the canal, Superior street, and other places in the city were shown by a 1,000-foot film.

Superior also comes in for a part of the film. The launching of an excursion boat at the Superior shipbuilding yards was one of the features. The pictures were taken by Chris Oliver of West Duluth, who later arranged them for the motion picture machine.

LONGFELLOW ALUMNI WILL HOLD BANQUET

The Alumni association of the Longfellow school will hold its annual banquet on Friday evening, May 28. In the school and invitations will be extended to students who would have graduated from the school this year but who are now finishing up their studies at the Irving junior high school.

The general arrangements committee is headed by Arnold Erickson, president of the society. Miss May McKeig was appointed chairman of the refreshment committee, Miss Katherine Keyes chairman of the program committee and Hugh Myles chairman of the decorating committee.

It is planned to secure Assistant County Attorney Mason M. Forbes to be the principal speaker of the evening. Mr. Forbes is a member of the alumni. John Nettleton, vice president of the society, will be toastmaster.

Long Run for Firemen.

The fire department at New Duluth made a run of three miles yesterday afternoon in the short time of twenty minutes. A fire started from sparks in the roof of the store building owned by E. Hogstead. One Hundred and Thirty-third avenue west and Third street, Fond du Lac. The fire was just getting a good start when the department arrived. The damage to the roof will amount to about $25. Capt. Charles Pearson of the New Duluth department, said that the run was one of the fastest the company has made since it was organized.

THE HAIR BEAUTY THAT BELONGS TO YOU

So many who have long known that hair beauty was certain to follow upon systematic hair care have been loath to commence what they mistakenly think too much trouble. Proper hair care means only keeping the scalp and hair perfectly clean by use of some preparation made for shampooing, not for general cleansing. You can enjoy the best that is known for about three cents a shampoo by getting a package of Canthrox from your druggist. Dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water and your shampoo is ready. After its use the hair dries rapidly with uniform color. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. Your hair will be so fluffy that it will look much heavier than it is. Its luster and softness will also delight you, while the stimulated scalp gains the health which insures hair growth.—Advertisement.

CONSTRUCTION WORK ON SUBWAY BEGUN

Duluth Will Be Given Outlet to Hermantown Farm District.

Construction work on the subway at Highland street under the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad was begun yesterday. The company has placed a steam shovel at work making the excavations, and it is planned to rush the work so that it may be completed early in the summer.

The railroad company intends building the subway and the approaches. Considerable excavating has to be done on each side of the tracks as well as under them. The street under the tracks will be 66 feet wide and give a clearance over the center of the street high enough to allow the passage of any wagon or load.

Work on the grading and paving of Highland street will be started soon by Gilman, Murphy & Patterson, the contractors to whom the city let this job. The work includes all of the road building from Fifty-ninth avenue to the connection with the Getchell road at Sixty-sixth avenue.

When this work is completed, Duluth will have a completed highway leading into the farming district of Hermantown. The Getchell road connects with the Morris Thomas county road about four miles north of this point.

MARINE

DISPATCH IS TOO SPEEDY

Boats Get Unloaded and Reloaded Too Quickly, Is Complaint.

Shippers Putting More of Their Ships Into the Trade.

Contrary to the usual complaint, dispatch is too good for the boats. This is especially true of vessels that are not fully supplied with cargoes. Ships that it was thought would be required to carry ore and coal that some managers have under contract are getting such prompt service at the docks they are getting around too fast.

A ship that arrived at Duluth Friday morning with a cargo of coal was unloaded and loaded with ore before Saturday night. In ordinary times a boat getting unloaded at a coal dock in two days is making very fast time. Barring a little congestion at a few of the Lake Erie ore docks the first of this week, the unloading has been on the same rapid basis.

Outside boats that were started with grain are unable to get cargoes of ore or grain and are likely to be laid up for a few days. A few will go down light for coal, but the coal business is too slow to do owners much good.

Shippers, on the other hand, are sending more ships into commission. M. A. Hanna & Co. will start another barge this week, making 19 out of 23 boats in commission. Pickands-Mather & Co. have 33 out of 37 in service. Two Shenango boats out of five are out. Only the small ships of the Cleveland-Cliffs fleet are in commission, while all of the Pittsburgh fleet is moving. Almost all of the ships under control of other shippers have gone into commission.

Until all of the shippers have all of their vessels in operation the outside fleet will get pretty slim picking.

It will require only a small improvement in ore shipments, possibly not more than will result from the putting into effect of the new rate on ore from mines to the Head of the Lakes to take up the slack in operations of the shipper-owned fleets. As soon as this comes outside boats will begin to feel the benefit, and it will no longer be necessary to resort to long delays and grain.

OPPOSE THE NEW PLUMBING CODE

Building Owners and Managers Appeal in Behalf of Engineers.

Objection to the new plumbing ordinance submitted to Mayor Prince last Tuesday by local plumbers, is made by the Duluth Association of Building Owners and Managers.

In a communication to Mayor Prince, Stewart G. Collins, secretary of the association, states that the proviso prohibiting anyone but a licensed plumber to make repairs, is unfair and should be excluded. All building owners, he writes, have expert engineers and these men can easily make repairs without being compelled to call in plumbers to handle the job.

The mayor said this morning that the city attorney is now going over the ordinance and it will probably be presented before the council at the meeting next Monday.

LITTLE HOPE FOR RECOVERY

Although Dr. Harry Klein, police surgeon, holds out little hope for the recovery of Jack Polinsky, 12, who sustained a fracture of the skull Wednesday morning when struck by a jitney, the lad showed a slight improvement this morning, according to reports from St. Luke's hospital.

After an examination yesterday Dr. Klein reported that the boy's skull was badly fractured, and that he had sustained several severe cuts about the head. He is the son of Sam Polinsky, 411 East Ninth street.

Police have taken no action against John Andrews, 130 East Fifth street, owner and driver of the jitney which struck the boy. Witnesses exonerated Andrews, saying that the lad was entirely to blame for the accident.

The lad attempted to catch a ride on a wagon as it was being driven along Superior street between First avenue west and Lake avenue. He let go of the wagon, dropping into the street, with his back towards the oncoming automobile.

FOUND DEAD NEAR TRACKS

Eric Peters, N. P. Section Hand, Believed Victim of Passenger Train.

Body Found in Ditch—Funeral Will Be Held Next Sunday.

Eric Peters, aged 39, a resident of Short Line park, was found in a dying condition lying in a ditch alongside the Northern Pacific railroad tracks at Seventy-third avenue west at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Theodore Swanson, section foreman for the company. The man died before an ambulance with officers from the West Duluth police station arrived to carry him away.

An investigation and examination conducted by Deputy Coroner McAuliffe at Filiatrault's undertaking rooms revealed several of the man's right ribs fractured and the right lobe of the liver injured. Death was caused by a hemorrhage of the liver.

It is believed that the man was struck by the passenger train from St. Paul, which had arrived in the city only a short time before the body was found. Mr. Peters had been in West Duluth since early Tuesday morning, and it is believed that he was on his way home when the accident happened.

Mr. Peters was employed as a section hand and worked with the crew under Mr. Swanson. He had not been working since a week ago, when his wife died. Her funeral took place last Sunday.

The deceased was a resident of Short Line park for more than twenty years. He leaves four children, all under 17 years of age, and he is also survived by his father. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Pine Hill church, with interment in the Pine Hill cemetery.

IMPROVEMENTS TO MATCH FACTORY

More Floor Space Will Be Provided for More Machines.

Improvements which will cost the company close to $7,000 are under way at the Union Match company factory, Fiftieth avenue west and Roosevelt street. The improvements include the building of an addition to the plant 33 by 100 feet and the rearrangement of the machinery so that there will be more floor space for the various machines.

The company yesterday laid off about half of the crew while the work of moving is taking place. The addition has been completed and it is expected that it will take about two weeks before the machines are set in place for the resumption of work.

Employment is being given to about 175 operatives at the plant. Nearly 100 of these were laid off yesterday, but will go to work as soon as the improvements are completed. The company is keeping three machines operating in order that the supply on hand will not be allowed to run too low.

SPEAKERS FOR THE DENFELD SCHOOL

Walter Yeager and Marie Exstrom Will Compete for Wallace Cup.

Walter Yeager and Miss Anna Marie Exstrom will represent the R. E. Denfeld high school at the annual oratorical contest for the Wallace cup to be held tomorrow evening at the Duluth Central high school. These two students were chosen at a contest recently held by the students of the school.

Mr. Yeager's oration will be "Peace and Disarmament" by Shuster. The selection to be given by Miss Exstrom is "The Piper," by Josephine B. Peabody.

A large number of rooters for the West Duluth school will attend the contest. A higher standing than that attained last year is expected this year, and many have hopes of winning the cup.

Contestants from the Duluth Central, the Superior Central and the Nelson Dewey high school of Superior will take part.

SUES THE CITY.

West Duluth Woman Wants $2,536 for Injuries in Fall.

Mrs. Caroline Paulson, 53, West Duluth, is plaintiff in a personal injury action against the city of Duluth which was brought to trial today before Judge Dancer and a district court jury.

While she was crossing Sixty-fourth avenue west at Seventh street on Aug. 4, 1914, Mrs. Paulson stepped off the sidewalk into a hole in the street. In falling she broke her left arm and sprained her right ankle. Damages in the sum of $2,536 are sought.

A jury was drawn this morning to try the case.

DEGREE TEAM WILL VISIT VIRGINIA

The degree team of Old Hickory Camp No. 1555, headed by Capt. C. C. Salter, will go to Virginia, Minn., on May 22 to give an exhibition drill and put on the work of class initiation. A class of about twenty-five new members will be initiated that evening by the Virginia lodge.

The Old Hickory degree team is said to be one of the best drilled teams in the order. At various encampments of the Woodmen the team has brought home some of the "bacon" in the shape of handsome prizes. In competition with similar teams of Duluth the organization has invariably walked off with the honors. Capt. Salter has been at the head of the organization for several yeras.

WEST DULUTH BUILDERS

T. F. WIELAND.

Some men are born famous; others have fame thrust upon them, and still others acquire it later in life, but T. F. Wieland says he is not yet in any of the three classes. Only once in recent years, said he this morning, has fame been thrust upon him and that was last winter when he established a "new shoot" while curling.

Mr. Wieland might be termed an "old timer" in West Duluth, although his last period of residence in this end of the city dates back only about three years. He first came to West Duluth about twenty years ago and then laid a foundation for a big store. It was but a few years after that when he decided that possibly strawberry raising and banking down in Washburn, Wis., were more profitable than selling hardware in West Duluth. Then Mr. Wieland spent seven years in Washburn and, by the end of that time, he found he was missing something good here, and immediately packed up his belongings and returned.

"There's no place like West Duluth," he said. "It may be small just now, but just watch it grow."

Mr. Wieland is senior partner of the firm of Wieland & Wade. He resides at 5301 West Eighth street.

DULUTH IN "MOVIES."

Governor's Visit and Other Features Shown on Screen.

Duluth in the "movies" was well featured at the Alhambra theater in West Duluth last night. The recent visit of Governor Hammond to the city and schools of West Duluth as well as activities on the water front, at the canal, Superior street, and other places in the city were shown by a 1,000-foot film.

Superior also comes in for a part of the film. The launching of an excursion boat at the Superior shipbuilding yards was one of the features. The pictures were taken by Chris Oliver of West Duluth, who later arranged them for the motion picture machine.

LONGFELLOW ALUMNI WILL HOLD BANQUET

The Alumni association of the Longfellow school will hold its annual banquet on Friday evening, May 28, in the school and invitations will be extended to students who would have graduated from the school this year but who are now finishing up their studies at the Irving junior high school.

The general arrangements committee is headed by Arnold Erickson, president of the society. Miss May McKelg was appointed chairman of the refreshment committee, Miss Katherine Keyes chairman of the program committee and Hugh Myles chairman of the decorating committee.

It is planned to secure Assistant County Attorney Mason M. Forbes to be the principal speaker of the evening. Mr. Forbes is a member of the alumni. John Nettleton, vice president of the society, will be toastmaster.

Long Run for Firemen.

The fire department at New Duluth made a run of three miles yesterday afternoon in the short time of twenty minutes. A fire started from sparks in the roof of the store building owned by E. Hogstead, One Hundred and Thirty-third avenue west and Third street, Fond du Lac. The fire was just getting a good start when the department arrived. The damage to the roof will amount to about $25. Capt. Charles Pearson of the New Duluth department, said that the run was one of the fastest the company has made since it was organized.

THE HAIR BEAUTY THAT BELONGS TO YOU

So many who have long known that hair beauty was certain to follow upon systematic hair-care have been loath to commence what they mistakenly think too much trouble. Proper hair care means only keeping the scalp and hair perfectly clean by use of some preparation made for shampooing, not for general cleansing. You can enjoy the best that is known for about three cents a shampoo by getting a package of Canthrox from your druggist. Dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water and your shampoo is ready. After its use the hair dries rapidly with uniform color. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. Your hair will be so fluffy that it will look much heavier than it is. Its luster and softness will also delight you, while the stimulated scalp and the health which insures hair growth.—Advertisement.

CONSTRUCTION WORK ON SUBWAY BEGUN

Duluth Will Be Given Outlet to Hermantown Farm District.

Construction work on the subway at Highland street under the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad was begun yesterday. The company has placed a steam shovel at work making the excavations, and it is planned to rush the work so that it may be completed early in the summer.

The railroad company intends building the subway and the approaches. Considerable excavating has to be done on each side of the tracks as well as under them. The street under the tracks will be 66 feet wide and give a clearance over the center of the street high enough to allow the passage of any wagon or load.

Work on the grading and paving of Highland street will be started soon by Gilman, Murphy & Patterson, the contractors to whom the city let this job. The work includes all of the road building from Fifty-ninth avenue to the connection with the Getchell road at Sixty-sixth avenue.

When this work is completed, Duluth will have a completed highway leading into the farming district of Hermantown. The Getchell road connects with the Morris Thomas county road about four miles north of this point.

Initiation By Women.

Plans for the initiation of a big class of new members to be held on May 26 by officers and team composed entirely of young women of the lodge, were made last night at the meeting of Non-Excelled homestead, No. 4276, B. A. Y. Invitations will be extended to members of Duluth homestead and the three homesteads of Superior to attend.

Following the business session last night the members were entertained at cards and dancing. A committee of seven men, headed by David Perry, had charge.

West Duluth Briefs.

Mesaba tribe, No. 25, I. O. R. M., has planned a "scalping bee" for a number of new members at the Great Eastern hall tonight. The initiation will be followed by a social session.

The Ladies' Aid and Missionary Societies of the West Duluth Baptist church held an all-day session yesterday at the church. During the afternoon a program was given by the Missionary society at which talks were given by Mrs. Milton Fish and Rev. Herbert Ford.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Westminster Presbyterian church entertained this afternoon at a social in the church parlors. A musical and literary program was given.

Mrs. Mary Healey and daughter, Cecile, of Hibbing, are guests at the home of Mrs. S. E. Gibson, 5804 Elinor street.

Mrs. John Gustafson of Knife River, Minn., is a guest at the home of Mrs. Victor Riska, 5219 Wadena street.

Watch repairing. Hurst, West Duluth.

MARINE

DISPATCH IS TOO SPEEDY

Boats Get Unloaded and Reloaded Too Quickly, Is Complaint.

Shippers Putting More of Their Ships Into the Trade.

Contrary to the usual complaint, dispatch is too good for the boats. This is especially true of vessels that are not fully supplied with cargoes. Ships that it was thought would be required to carry ore and coal that some managers have under contract are getting such prompt service at the docks they are getting around too fast.

A ship that arrived at Duluth Friday morning with a cargo of coal was unloaded and loaded with ore before Saturday night. In ordinary times a boat getting unloaded at a coal dock in two days is making very fast time. Barring a little congestion at a few of the Lake Erie ore docks the first of this week, the unloading has been on the same rapid basis.

Outside boats that were started with grain are unable to get cargoes of ore or grain and are likely to be laid up for a few days. A few will go down light for coal, but the coal business is too slow to do owners much good.

Shippers, on the other hand, are sending more ships into commission. M. A. Hanna & Co. will start another barge this week, making 19 out of 23 boats in commission. Pickands-Mather & Co. have 33 out of 37 in service. Two Shenango boats out of five are out. Only the small ships of the Cleveland-Cliffs fleet are in commission, while all of the Pittsburgh fleet is moving. Almost all of the ships under control of other shippers have gone into commission.

Until all of the shippers have all of their vessels in operation the outside fleet will get pretty slim picking.

It will require only a small improvement in ore shipments, possibly not more than will result from the putting into effect of the new rate on ore from mines to the Head of the Lakes to take up the slack in operations of the shipper-owned fleets. As soon as this comes outside boats will begin to feel the benefit, and it will no longer be necessary to resort to long delays and grain.

OPPOSE THE NEW PLUMBING CODE

Building Owners and Managers Appeal in Behalf of Engineers.

Objection to the new plumbing ordinance submitted to Mayor Prince last Tuesday by local plumbers, is made by the Duluth Association of Building Owners and Managers.

In a communication to Mayor Prince, Stewart G. Collins, secretary of the association, states that the proviso prohibiting anyone but a licensed plumber to make repairs, is unfair and should be excluded. All building owners, he writes, have expert engineers and these men can easily make repairs without being compelled to call in plumbers to handle the job.

The mayor said this morning that the city attorney is now going over the ordinance and it will probably be presented before the council at the meeting next Monday.

LITTLE HOPE FOR RECOVERY

Although Dr. Harry Klein, police surgeon, holds out little hope for the recovery of Jack Polinsky, 12, who sustained a fracture of the skull Wednesday morning when struck by a jitney, the lad showed a slight improvement this morning, according to reports from St. Luke's hospital.

After an examination yesterday Dr. Klein reported that the boy's skull was badly fractured, and that he had sustained several severe cuts about the head. He is the son of Sam Polinsky, 411 East Ninth street.

Police have taken no action against John Andrews, 130 East Fifth street, owner and driver of the jitney which struck the boy. Witnesses exonerated Andrews, saying that the lad was entirely to blame for the accident.

The lad attempted to catch a ride on a wagon as it was being driven along Superior street between First avenue west and Lake avenue. He let go of the wagon, dropping into the street, with his back towards the oncoming automobile.

THE FRIDAY MORNING club of Los Angeles has adopted a system that relieves the treasurer from saying, "A great many have not paid their dues and there is very little money in the treasury" in an embarrassed way as if she owed all the money. Doubtless all treasurers have felt as if they were installment house representatives about to take away the piano and the kitchen cabinet that have not been paid for

The dues of the Friday club are paid in two installments, Oct 1 and March 1. At each payment an admission ticket of distinctive color is given and only upon the presentation of this ticket may a member be admitted. Each member is given six guest tickets a year, in two installments and only tickets of the current year are honored. In order to guard the membership no person who is eligible may be admitted as a guest more than twice a year. An exception is made in the case of men—a concession that brings a few men to each meeting.

A luncheon is held each week after the program and reservations must be made by Wednesday. Talks at the luncheons are made by prominent men and women who are in the city temporarily, travelers, actors, artists and literary folk of many nationalities.

To prevent Lady Beauvedere's learning of her son's deed, Juliet goes to the house of the man who has the check, and is just about to leave, when Lady Beauvedere, who has followed her guest, comes upon the scene. The last act will show how Juliet explains herself without giving Vivian away. The play receives its title from the British ambassador, who is one of the aspirants for Juliet's hand.

Peggy Peabody's Observations

A Hectoring Wife a Menace.

If you would only try to learn when to leave your husband to himself, I believe that many of the difficulties encountered in your married life would amount to very little. It is, I will admit, a difficult art to learn, but once acquired, the effort expended sinks into insignificance compared with the benefits to be derived from knowing just when to interfere and just when to go quietly about your own business.

I should glean from observation that a man's moods were the bugaboo of the young wife. She has seen him at his best up to the time of marriage, and his relapse into his natural self after they become one is something of a shock to her. After she marries him, she may discover that he who heretofore was merry and glib of tongue will sit for an hour or two at a time and make answer in monosyllables only, to all that is said to him.

Of course, I know that it cannot be the pleasantest thing in the world to sit opposite a man at the breakfast table who neither looks at you nor speaks to you, so absorbed is he in his morning paper. It seems to me that leaving him to the enjoyment of his paper is preferable to having a conversation about it each morning that does not vary a particle.

I have a friend whose husband has the paper-reading habit at the breakfast table. He sits down with his favorite paper and from that moment until the meal is ended is oblivious to everything and everybody. To me it is tiresome beyond expression to hear his wife comment on the habit morning after morning, and I finally mustered up courage and asked her to please not mention the peculiarity while we were at breakfast. It may be unsociable and inconsiderate on his part but she does not improve the atmosphere of the breakfast table by her unceasing allusion to it.

It is advisable for both a husband and wife to remember that in all probability each has faults and mannerisms equally trying, which crop out as they live and learn of each other in their close relationship. As far as may be without harm these things should be borne with good grace. Those that are a real menace in any way to their best interests should be corrected if possible, but always in a cheerful, helpful way.

THE PRESIDENT RISES NOBLY TO THE OCCASION.

The tone of the communiction from the United States to Germany is friendly as well as firm. It is to be hoped that nobody will be foolish enough to mistake that tone for anything but what it is—the courtesy of a nation that retains its poise and dignity even in the face of what appears to be a grave affront for which an explanation is asked.

Acting "with deliberation as well as with firmness," President Wilson, after due time for thought and—doubt it not—prayer, has formulated his message to the Imperial German government.

As indicated in his former message in reply to the war-zone proclamation of February, he holds Germany to a "strict accountability" for its acts that have destroyed American lives and American property.

"In the name of humanity and international law," the United States, besides seeking an explanation for these acts and, of course, proper reparation therefor, demands a guarantee that hereafter its rights will be respected to the letter.

Behind these firm though courteous demands stand the American people to a man, ready for whatever may result. The American people do not want war, with Germany or with any other people. The president of the United States does not want war. War, to the American people and to the president more than to any of them, is a grim last resort—a resort to be refrained from at all hazards except the hazard of self-respect, but not a resort to be shrunk from if it becomes an unmistakable necessity.

But this nation cannot afford to let any nation in the world think for a moment that its interests can be lightly regarded with impunity. Manifestly, it is the purpose of the president to leave no room for doubt upon that point. As it is described, this country's message to Germany is the well considered, carefully framed, dignified, firm and courteous declaration of the man who, at this juncture, is best fitted of all men to express the virtually unanimous sentiment of the people of the United States.

The president leaves no room for doubt about the opinion of the American people on the sinking of the Lusitania with its precious cargo of non-combatant men, women and children. This act, and the previous acts in which the Falaba, the Cushing and the Gulflight figured, are declared to be indefensible under international law—the law of civilization. For them, a strict accounting is demanded from Germany and, above all, a guarantee that they will not be repeated.

What will Germany's answer be? That is up to Germany.

What will follow if the answer is not satisfactory? That is a bridge that will be crossed when—and if—it is reached. President Wilson makes it clear that his message is sent with due regard to all possible consequences, and that back of it is a readiness to accept these consequences, be they what they may.

The American people have patiently trusted the president to express their sentiments on this subject. He has splendidly justified that faith.

The American people, to a man, are ready to trust the president to safeguard their rights, their standing among the world's peoples, and their self-respect. He will not fail them.

Be the consequences what they may, the American people are back of their president to the limit of whatever fate may bring.

In the meantime, and until in due time Germany's reply is received, the need of coolness and restraint in public and private discussion is still paramount.

THERE IS STILL TIME FOR CLEAN-UP WORK.

Have you got it all done?

Good!

Repairs all made, yard all raked, rubbish all cleaned out, bare spots on the lawn raked and seeded, shrubbery trimmed, borders of flowers and vegetable beds made neat, fences and unsightly sheds planted with vines or scarlet runner beans, painting all completed?

Splendid! You're a good citizen!

And you, neighbor, how about you? Have YOU done your share of the work of Clean-up and Paint-up Week that your citizenship devolves upon you?

No? Too bad, but not too late—GET AT IT!

Perhaps you were too busy the first of the week to take it up. That is likely to happen to anybody. But surely you can spare an afternoon or evening now, and a couple of hours tomorrow will get rid of the worst of it, giving you Saturday to put on the finishing touches.

"England," said Admiral Nelson, "expects every man to do his duty."

"Duluth," says the committee of campaigners that has had charge of Duluth's big Clean-up and Paint-up Week, "expects every man, woman and child to do his duty."

There are two days more of this historic week. If you belong to the majority, your work is done and your home place is spick and span and clean and sightly. If you belong to the minority, your work is still undone. That may be not your fault at all—and until Saturday night everybody will assume that it is not. But it WILL be your fault if Monday comes with your work undone.

And remember this: that the cleaning up has been so general that by contrast your neglected place is going to look just ten times worse than it did before!

Clean-up and Paint-up Week draws to its close. HAVE YOU DONE YOUR SHARE toward making Duluth a Spotless Town? Or do you want YOUR place to be one of the SPOTS that will stand out uglier than ugly by contrast?

Why is there so little interest in possible candidates for vice president in 1916?

THE ECONOMICS OF ADVERTISING.

William Woodhead of San Francisco, president of the Associated Advertising clubs of the world, said recently in an address in Chicago that more than six hundred million dollars was spent last year in advertising in this country.

That's a lot of money. It is something like six dollars for every man, woman and child in the land.

If that much money could be saved, the benefit would be enormous and widely shared.

But what would the result be if this gigantic sum were saved by abolishing advertising?

One result would be an economic loss ten times greater than the saving.

Advertising is salesmanship. It is the cheapest and most effective form of salesmanship ever devised. To achieve by personal solicitation the volume of business that is created by advertising would cost a sum utterly beyond calculation.

Advertising cheapens salesmanship enormously and increases its efficiency beyond the power of any other human agency, thus saving many times its cost to society.

Moreover, it makes possible sales in a volume so large that cost, by this wide distribution of overhead charges, is enormously reduced.

To abolish advertising would save six hundred millions a year, but that saving would mean the loss to society of ten times that sum.

One would naturally expect the Mexicans to be eager to make peace at least long enough to manufacture a few submarines.

ONE WORTH WHILE RESULT--IF IT DOES RESULT.

Mr. Walsh and his United States commission on industrial relations seem to be getting it rather hot and heavy here and there—partly from galled jades and owners of gored oxen, but partly, too, from fairly unbiased critics who do not like the way the investigations of the commission are being carried on.

Mr. Walsh's habit of trying some of his cases in the newspapers and on the platform is fair game for the critics, too. His case would be stronger if he refrained from such tactics.

But one thing at least the commission seems to have accomplished—a thing that nobody and nothing heretofore has been able to do. It has penetrated beneath the hide of the Pullman company, which has complacently accepted tips from the traveling public for many years to swell its dividends. That is precisely what it has amounted to. The Pullman company, not the porters, has been the real beneficiary of the tipping practice. The company pays its men less than a dollar a day, because it expects the public to make up the difference between this pitiful sum and a living wage. And the public has done it, has grown used to doing it.

Robert T. Lincoln, executive chairman of the Pullman company, confessed to the commission that the $27.50 monthly wage of its porters is "too low," and he promised that it would be raised.

What the raise is to amount to we do not know. Perhaps it will be very small; possibly it will be enough to relieve the Pullman company of the contemptible ignominy of fattening its dividends by tips.

But having been convinced that the present practice is wrong and having promised to change it, it is hard to see how the Pullman people can evade a substantial increase in the pay of porters.

If the increase is large enough to give these workers a living wage, the dividends of the Pullman company may be slightly less, but they will be a great deal cleaner.

This is the time of the year when a man with a big back yard feels sowsow.

To Protect Little Business

The aim of the new Federal trade commission, according to Chairman Joseph E. Davies, is to protect the smaller business units of the country against unfair practices on the part of Big Business. Writing in the May World's Work, Mr. Davies says:

"A highly efficient plant of moderate size may be able to compete against a powerful rival by reason of its efficiencies; but it is utterly helpless when subjected to unfair competitive practices employed by a rival who by sheer force of larger means can withstand the cost of a campaign of extermination. It has been alleged, and with much force, that the trusts which have grown powerful and great have generally in the past employed these methods, and that they could not have attained their dominant position but for their employment. Ninety-nine per cent of the business corporations of the country have a capitalization of less than $5,000,000; 95 per cent, a capitalization of less than $1,000,000. A great menace to the existence of this 95 per cent of the business corporations of the country comes from the possibility of being driven out of the market, not by reason of the superior efficiency of the big rival, but by reason of unfair methods of competition employed by such a rival. These methods of unfair competition have been called the seeds of monopoly. It is the object of the Federal trade commission law to destroy these seeds in their inception and to furnish a body of disinterested business experts who are charged with the prevention of such practices. Governmental agencies seek to prevent a man's house from being broken into and his property stolen. This governmental agency seeks likewise to protect the smaller business units of the country from similar depredations that destroy the security of business and the order of society.

"This is the service to the great body of business of the country, both big and little, which the Federal trade commission was designed to perform."

Ethical Value of Billy Sunday.

Joseph H. Odell in the Atlantic: Wherever such a campaign is conducted religion becomes the dominant topic of thought and speech. Men and women are recalled from indifference and contempt to reflection upon the most sacred subjects. One does not care to discuss the spiritual quality of conversion, but there are cases far too obvious in changed personal characteristics to be misunderstood, and far too obvious in ethical effects to be discounted. Men cease to be profane; long-established habits of intemperance are suddenly broken; dishonesty gives place to honesty; vice becomes repugnant and virtue glorious. Thousands betake themselves to the study of the Bible, and many homes grow radiant that had been centers of gloom. Testimony of this nature can be collected, not only immediately after a Billy Sunday campaign, but even when years have elapsed. The effect is so marked that employers of labor have asserted that they could afford to pay Sunday very liberally out of the funds of their corporations for the increased efficiency that comes to their plants in the reduction of accidents and enlarged productivity caused by the men's cutting out intoxicating liquor. It is safe to say that, if testimony means anything at all, every community visited by Billy Sunday could send men into a circuit or supreme court whose word would be accepted as relevant and material evidence. Psychologists may explain it one way and religionists another, but there are certain facts of changed character, altered habit, transformed temperament, that lie thick in the wake of every Billy Sunday revival.

Zangwill Raps the Czar.

New York Times: Israel Zangwill, who at the beginning of the war issued an appeal from England to the Jews of the world to support the cause of the allies, in the conviction that the Russian czar and government had undergone a change of heart with regard to the Jewish problem in Russia, and that the condition of Jews in that country would be ameliorated as a result of the war, has apparently experienced a change of heart. Under the title "For Small Mercies," Mr. Zangwill has written for the current number of the Menorah Journal a sonnet in which he praises the London Nation for being the "one voice in England" that dared to point out the unchanged policy of persecution still practiced by Russia toward its Jewish population.

In the sonnet reference is made to "the spheres," the only permissible form in which allusion may be made in Russia to the czar and his counsellors. The sonnet reads:

Thinking of Poland and her tortured Jews,
Twixt Goth and Cossack hounded, crucified
On either frontier, e'en the Pale denied,
Wand'ring with bloodied staff and broken shoes,
Scarred like their greatest son with stripe and bruise,
Though thrice a hundred thousand fight beside
Their Russian brethren and are glorified
By death for those who flout them and abuse—
I suddenly was touched to thankful tears,
Not that one wave had obbed of all this woe,
Not that one heart had softened in "the spheres,"
One touch of bureau-malice to forego,
But that amid blind eyes, dumb mouths, deaf ears,
One voice in England said these things were so.

Pardonable.

Atlanta Journal: A woman mounted the step of a car carrying an umbrella like a reversed saber. The conductor touched her lightly, saying: "Excuse me, madam, but you are likely to put out the eye of the man behind you." "He's my husband," she snapped, with the tone of full proprietorship.

Invisible Government

By Sarovard.

Washington, May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Col. Roosevelt testifies that he was very hostile to "invisible government" while he wore the robes of magistracy. Perhaps he is sincere; obsessions of mind plague the great as well as the small of mankind. The fact is that there was more invisible government while Roosevelt was president than in any other period of equal extent of our history. More illegal monopolies were created and set on foot to prey on the common people the years 1904-1909 than ever before or since. It is true that he protested and aroused the public conscience, but that is all that stands between him and public execration.

While he was president, the Riggs National bank of this town, having the closest relations with Standard Oil, maintained a clerk in the office of the comptroller of the currency. That clerk was not there for fun. That clerk was there to obtain advance information for the Riggs bank in Washington and the Rockefeller bank in New York. Now everybody knows how valuable is such advance knowledge to the magnates of Wall Street. This was a sample of invisible government which the Democratic administration smote as soon as Mr. McAdoo became secretary of the treasury. And the Riggs bank is in bad humor about it to this day.

Mr. Roosevelt's explanation of the Tennessee Coal & Iron affair is unsatisfactory. He would have us believe that J. Pierpont Morgan, when he gobbled up that concern for his Steel trust, gave an exhibition of unselfish patriotism—that he was laboring for the public weal and not for his own interests.

Now, what are the facts? The late Mr. Harriman was the greatest of our railroad magnates and when he got hold of a railroad he put the line in the very best physical condition possible. He spent millions and millions for reducing grades and straightening curves. He replaced antiquated rolling stock with the best to be had. He bought and laid down thousands of tons of new steel rails and he pronounced the rails made by the Tennessee Coal & Iron company better than any turned out by the Steel trust.

Now that fact excited and put to work the patriotism of J. Pierpont Morgan, and for the good of the public he determined to acquire the ownership of the Tennessee Coal & Iron company for his Steel trust. But that was contrary to law. Then what was to be done? The law must be violated or evaded; and that was done, and done in the name of patriotism and for the public weal—done to avert a panic.

There was a concern in New York—a trust company—that was loaded down with Tennessee Coal & Iron stock. The panic of 1907—vulgarly called the "Roosevelt panic"—came on, and this particular trust company was greatly embarrassed. It was "norated around" that if it could weather the storm the panic would be greatly assuaged and it was proposed that Morgan and his set make a loan to the company. That proposition was rejected with more or less indignation; but Morgan agreed to stop the panic if he was allowed to buy that trust company's Tennessee Coal & Iron stock for his Steel trust.

As remarked, that was forbidden by law. Then the thing to do was to get the president of the United States to suspend the law. To that end Judge Gary, head the Steel trust; Henry Clay Frick, magnate of the Steel trust, and George W. Perkins of J. Pierpont Morgan & Co. rushed to Washington and had a conference with President Roosevelt after midnight. All three of these gentlemen had been liberal, munificent contributors to the enormous campaign fund of the G. O. P. in 1904 that was handled by Mr. Cortelyou to elect Col. Roosevelt.

You see the Sherman anti-trust law that forbade the absorption of Tennessee Coal & Iron by the Steel trust had a joker in its innards and here is what it was—nobody but the attorney general in the cabinet of the president could get after one for violating the law, so that if they had the president on their side the law was not worth the devil's fetchin'. And so it proved. Roosevelt gave assent to the absorption of its rival by the Steel trust; the attorney general had to be mute or get out, and the statutes of limitations clinched the thing.

How is that for invisible government?

The Colonel made mention of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde in this testimony. It is possible that there is some of Mr. Hyde in the composition of the best man in the world, and doubtless there is a little of Dr. Jekyll in the worst man in the world. There was shrewdness as well as satire in the remark of Dr. Franklin that when we get to heaven we will find folks there we never expected to see there.

Is it not possible that the Colonel has some of Mr. Hyde in his makeup? Was it not the Mr. Hyde in the Colonel that prompted him to denounce Alton B. Parker as a liar a few days before the election in 1904 after Judge Parker had asserted, what everybody, including the Colonel, knows now to be true—that the trusts were contributing enormous sums to Roosevelt's campaign fund?

And that Mr. Hyde in the Colonel's composition is a hefty chap, else the Dr. Jekyll in him would be strong enough to elicit an apology from the Colonel for the injustice he did the judge. That apology is due, and let us hope that the Dr. Jekyll in the Colonel will get busy.

A Bible for Mr. Perkins.

New York World: Painful as it is to disagree with a man who is trying to make this country a better place for our children to live in, we must take exceptions to Mr. George W. Perkins' remarks in Oklahoma that the men who adopted the Sherman law and the new Democratic tariff "tried by man-made laws to wipe out God-given economics."

The Sherman law is the ancient common law in the form of a statute. It is not so old as the Ten Commandments, but it stands to government and commerce about as they do to morals.

As to the tariff, Mr. Perkins must be mistaken about the God-given economics of the Aldrich, Dingley and McKinley laws. They were written for the most part, the privilege having been paid for in campaign subscriptions, by the manufacturers, or the attorneys of the manufacturers, who expected to profit by them.

No tariff, high or low, ever came from Sinai, and we are surprised to learn that Mr. Morgan's former partner does not know it. The American Bible society should send one of its publications to Mr. Perkins without delay.

Prima Facie Evidence.

Dayton's First Year

Editorial in the Madison State Journal.

Dayton, Ohio, has just issued its first fiscal report since the adoption by that city of the commission and managerial form of government. Parts of that report are promising. Here is the summing up:

"Your commission has not only reduced the temporary loan for the money borrowed to run the city under former administrations by $50,000, but has given additional public service to the amount of $139,947.93, all of which has come well within the normal and regular income of the city, without recourse to bonds, or loans of any kind."

This comes of non-partisan and economic management of city government; and all the time, every interest of the city has been fully maintained. All this comes from the responsible form of government and intelligent management. At every point, where there was retrenchment, better service is reported. We print here a few brief paragraphs from the report to show the run of things:

We have not issued any bonds in 1914 for operating expenses, or for any deficiencies, street repairs or street lighting; notwithstanding this, we have given you the following service in addition to that of 1913, amounting to $139,947.93.

Street repairs in 1913 were made by bond issues. In 1914, 37,477 square yards of paved streets have been repaired; 40 miles of graveled streets have been scraped, rolled and the holes filled; 25 miles of graveled streets have been scraped, cleaned and oiled.

A bureau of legal aid was established as a branch of the welfare department, and a lawyer was appointed, paid by the city, whose duties are to give free legal advice and protect the legal rights of persons financially unable to pay for same. In nine months this bureau has handled 648 cases for needy and indigent persons.

The eight-hour day has been established for all labor on city work at the same daily wage as paid previously. The laborer receives $2 for eight hours' work, or 25 cents per hour, whereas he formerly received $2 for 10 hours' work, or 20 cents per hour.

The first permanent municipal lodging house was opened at the workhouse Dec. 14, providing eighty-seven beds.

There are thirty-five similar paragraphs in the report, all showing an honest, efficient, forward-movement administration of the city's affairs, and covering, too, every detail of the city need.

Another Ohio city has followed fast in Dayton's steps. Columbus has adopted a new charter which calls for a non-partisan election of a responsible government. We hope that Columbus under her new charter will make as good a showing at the end of her first year as has the Dayton commission. An in time, perhaps, Madison and other cities still governed by cumbersome councils will see the wisdom and economy of this better plan of city administration.

A Spring Flower Suggestion

Indianapolis News: As spring blossoms unfold, the city resident who takes pride in the appearance of his own yard will do well to make note of those whose beauty and perfume most appeal to him. Later in the year, in the fall months, another planting season, he should remember, makes its advent, and it is then possible to select from the list he has in hand and establish in his own grounds the flowers that earlier drew forth his admiration. Just now the flowers of the narcissi are passing, the gorgeous Darwin tulips are at their best, the iris, the orchid of the poor man, is unfurling its blue and purple banners, and lilacs in all their numerous varieties and forms and colors are coming into bloom.

Unfortunately, welcome as these are in the season of their splendor, their beauties are too soon forgotten. The flower that blooms last, just before a planting season, nurserymen say, is the flower most commonly ordered. "So," says one famous dealer in trees and shrubs, "we can always be sure of a big demand in the fall season for the hydrangea. It blooms in August, and the memory of it is still fresh when the order for the autumn season is made out. But we have some difficulty at that time to induce the average buyer to purchase lilacs, syringas, dogwood, redbud, forsythia and similar shrubs and trees that bloom early in the spring."

There is practical value, then, in making a note of the flowers that strike one's fancy as the spring pageant develops. Set down the narcissi for its white and yellow freshness before the winds of March have died away, the tulip for its glorious color, the yellow bud for its golden lavishness, the lilac and syringa for their fragrance and all the others in the list of the early spring flowering group, and so be prepared when August and September arrive for transplanting to your own soil these floral beauties that otherwise you might forget. Attention to this detail will result, also, in introducing in the decorative planting of city yards that pleasing variety in both flower and foliage that checks the ever-present tendency toward monotony. Plant what you like yourself—not merely what your neighbor has planted.

Today.

The following poem has appeared in newspapers in every part of the world where English is spoken, and has been credited to various authors. The Literary Digest now gives "the credit to the poet to whom the credit belongs"—Douglas Malloch.

Sure, this world is full of trouble—
I ain't said it ain't.
Lord! I've had enough an' double
Reason for complaint.
Rain an' storm have come to fret me,
Skies were often gray;
Thorns an' brambles have beset me,
On the road—but, say,
Ain't it fine today?

What's the use of always weepin',
Makin' trouble last?
What's the use of always keepin'
Thinkin' of the past?
Each must have his tribulation,
Water with his wine,
Life it ain't no celebration.
Trouble? I've had mine—
But today is fine.

It's today that I am livin',
Not a month ago,
Havin', losin', takin', givin',
As time wills it so.
Yesterday a cloud of sorrow
Fell across the way,
It may rain again tomorrow,
It may rain—but, say,
Ain't it fine today!

Logic in a Grocery Store.

Philadelphia Public Ledger: "Have you any nice, fresh eggs today?" she asked.

"Permit me to state," remarked the grocer, who was also a college graduate, "that all nice eggs are fresh and that all fresh eggs are nice. Of course, I have them today. If I had them yesterday you would not be interested. And tomorrow will take care of itself. Do you care for any nice eggs?"

Keeping Up With Minnesota Editors

Press Comments on Current Events.

Would Be a Good One.

St. Peter Herald: Senator Moses E. Clapp is quite certain to have opposition in his own party when he comes up for renomination. Several aspiring Republicans believe they are of senatorial size and one or more of them will make an effort to wrest the toga from the junior senator. Why there should be a scramble does not appear, for Republican energy expended in this direction is practically sure to be wasted effort. It is written that the next senator will be a Democrat, and the Herald predicts that his name will be W. S. Hammond.

Only the Outs Disgruntled.

Slayton Herald: Already the political agitators are busy seeking for presidential timber, that is the Republican bread-mixers are. The Democratic party is well satisfied with its present head and the nation at large is also in a contented state of mind. Republicans galore may fight and quarrel for the coveted presidential nomination, but the Democratic leader of today will head the ticket if he chooses to do so. No one will have the nerve to oppose him since the giant caliber of the man has been brought out in the recent heavy diplomatic relations with the European nations.

The Fool's Assurance.

Warroad Pioneer: One-third of the fools in the country think they can beat a lawyer in expounding the laws. One-half think they can beat the doctors in healing the sick. Two-thirds of them think they can put the minister in the hole expounding the gospel and all of them think they can beat the editor running a paper.

Why Not "Maness?"

Red Wing Eagle: A society woman of Portland, Or., recently gave her occupation as "citizeness." Why not? In the voting booth she's a voteress. Driving her automobile she's a motoress. Were she injured in an accident she would be a victimess and possibly thereafter an invalidess.

May Be His Only Chance.

Red Wing Republican: A St. Louis woman hasn't slept for five years. Husband probably talks in his sleep.

Roosevelt, Four-Flusher.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: President Wilson's popularity is growing every day, notwithstanding the fact that Roosevelt, the only and original four-flusher, has started a campaign to discredit the work done by the present administration.

His Regular Exercise.

Albert Lea Tribune: Dan W. Lawler of St. Paul will announce his candidacy for United States senator, according to a rumor in Democratic circles. Lawler seems to have formed a habit of running for something and in his many defeats he never loses confidence in his ability to win eventually.

Just a Moment

Daily Strength and Cheer.

Compiled by John G. Quinlus, the Sunshine Man.

Sore with the burden of a sad world's woe,
My heart sometimes in tears doth overflow;
And griefs that love or skill may not allay
Brood o'er my soul, as clouds obscure the day;
Then, like a starbeam through a rift of night,
Shineth this word, that puts all fear to flight:
"God rules. Shall not the Judge of earth do right?"

Oh, then my crushing burdens I resign
Into the hands of Him whose love divine
Straight through the mist and damps of human woe
Can send a healing beam of light, to show
How present suffering, sorrow's fleeting night,
But fits the soul for Heaven's unfading light.
In this God rules, and shall not He do right?

So, weary with my struggling and unrest,
I fold my tired hands upon my breast.
Not mine to question why these hearts must bleed;
Not mine to fathom all the piteous need.
Mine but to rest upon His tender might;
Mine but to trust His love, in Him delight,
Seeing He rules who surely will do right.

War Freshmen From Canada.

Baltimore Sun: It would be interesting to know exactly how much military training those Canadian troops, who have so greatly distinguished themselves near Ypres, had before they left for the front. Probably very few of them have ever seen active service, and the great majority barely had time to be licked into the roughest sort of military shape before they confronted the finest army in Europe. Most of them were recruits fresh from the shop or the farm, the office or the factory. But in a few months they snatch the laurels of battle from the professional soldiers around them and save the British lines in a moment of tremendous crisis and danger. A large proportion of Kitchener's army is of this same raw material, but there is no sign that the recruits are not fighting as bravely as the regulars.

The Canadian war freshmen have covered themselves with glory, as have the military cubs from other quarters. With that object lesson before us, we may properly ask ourselves whether Americans could not do as well in time of need.

A Growing Opinion.

Kansas City Star: The American people have come to assume an attitude of hopefulness and indifference toward the state governments, according to a writer in the Atlantic Monthly. "Legislatures are expected to prove failures," he says. "Governors and other state officials are expected to be inefficient. The work of local officers is rarely taken very seriously and is expected to be spasmodic, and fragmentary."

The opinion is valuable because it is cropping out in so many places and indicates the widespread dissatisfaction with our scheme of government for cities and states.

The Atlantic Monthly writer asks: "Is it not fair to say that our scheme of divided responsibility has been a school for the encouragement of political inefficiency and for the promotion of petty local interests at the expense of the general welfare and has supplied an atmosphere devoid of stimulus to efficient work?"

Singular Gender.

Columbus Evening Dispatch: "Some days ago," relates the wife of a well known attorney, "I accompanied my husband on a business trip to Cleveland. As we ate our luncheon I chanced to overhear several traveling men jesting with the colored waiter.

"'George,' (travelling men always say 'George' to a colored waiter)—'this bill of fare has an item, chicken gibiets with biscuit. We would like to have some of that, but we want to know whether there is more than one biscuit.'

"George examined the menu card, scratched his poll, and finally answered:

"'No, suh—yo' don' git only one. De wo'd "biscuit" is singular gender, as de good book teaches. So yo' all don't git but one.'"

THE OPEN COURT

"Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer (though these need not be published). A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

CHIEF TROYER.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Men in public service for twenty-five years and fifteen years out of that time in the delicate and responsible position of chief of police and who come out of it with such honor as our worthy retiring Chief Troyer, are scarce. His record for honesty and efficiency has won for himself friends and admirers all over the United States and Duluth has the reputation of having one of the best chiefs of police in the whole Union. Even his adversaries would be proud of the esteem and the record he holds on his departing hour for efficient, honest and just services rendered us.

Fargo is certainly to be congratulated with its choice and I for one wish Mr Troyer all kinds of success in the future and hope to see him back here some day. While there are others who can take his place, there is only one Troyer. It is a disgrace to our community to allow such men to get away from us. Men of Mr. Troyer's standing as chief of police can be counted on a few fingers.

Regretting his departure and wishing him success in his new field, I am his admirer and constant friend.

ANTON GRONSETH.

ANSWERS PAX VOBISCUM.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I venture to suggest that Pax Vobiscum be just to honor, truth and virtue, before he is so generous in his dispensation of sarcasm. I would remind him that honi soit qui mal y pense. As regards his offer, 'twere better if he used this toward a fund for the development of purer ideals and the uplift of humanity. I remain pro honoris et veritas. Yours faithfully,

CECIL ARTHUR BURNABY.

This department does not pretend to be infallible. It will endeavor, however, to answer questions sent to it by readers of The Herald to the best of its ability, reserving the right to ignore all that are trifling or of concern only to the questioner, or that ask for advice on legal or medical questions.

A. P., Duluth—Can first cousins marry in the state of Illinois? If not in Illinois, in what state nearest Minnesota?—No; Wisconsin.

Seeker, Coleraine—In the "war talk" which encompasses the country at this time one oft hears the statement that Secretary of State Bryan has a son-in-law who is an officer in the English army. Can you tell me if this is true? Also, I would ask, who was the duck hunter shot and killed by Canadian soldiery in the American waters of Rainy river in the fall of 1914, and who was the man injured by bullets from the same source? What settlement was made of this matter and was the settlement, as made, made with the concurrence of the Washington government? If made without the concurrence of Mr. Wilson and his cabinet, why? If made with the full concurrence of the general government, why go to all this furore about the killing of a hundred or more Americans on the Lusitania? Why not place the price at so much per head—the same price as placed upon the head of the American duck hunter—and let Germany close the incident by paying in cash, the same as was done by the British government for the zealousness of her Canadian militiamen?—It is true that one of Mr. Bryan's sons-in-law is an English officer. No duck hunters were killed in the Rainy river hunters were killed in the fall of 1914. You probably refer to the American duck hunters who were illegally shooting in Canadian waters on Lake Erie and who refused to stop and submit to arrest when ordered to do so. Your questions indicate more a desire for argument than for information.

What the Child Is Learning

The Third Grade.

By the time the child reaches the third grade he is expected to be familiar with simpler words, when written on the blackboard and one-syllabled ones in his books; he has started to delve into the mysteries of 'rithmetic and is doing some 'ritin'.

In the third year the teacher tries to enlarge the children's vocabulary, to interpret the printed page, and to gain facility in the use of language.

Do you remember these sentences: "He sells sea shells. Shall she sell sea shells? Some shun sunshine. Do you shun sunshine?"

The third grader learns to twist his tongue about them.

Memory work, recitations and reading form the most important part of the third grade work. Hans Anderson's Fairy Tales, Old Indian Legends, Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, the Trotty Book and Little Lord Fauntleroy are some of the more generally used books.

In the history division they read the story of George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, Thomas Edison and other great Americans.

In the 'rithmetic class the child learns to write numbers of four places, and also learns the Roman notation up to M. Addition, subtraction, division, multiplication, fractions and compound numbers are included in the class work.

For the first time they learn the values of United States money, and how to tell time. The pint, quart, gallon, peck, bushel, inch, foot, yard, minutes in hour, hours in day, days in week, month and years are explained by the instructor.

Written compositions, with letter writing and punctuation work are features of the work in the language class. "Barbara Frietchie," "Red Riding Hood" and "Little Orphan Annie" are among the poems memorized.

The history of Duluth, unfamiliar to most parents, is learned when the child is in the third grade, as is the story of Marquette and the Jesuit missionaries. Col. Shibley, noted Indians of Minnesota, early settlers of Duluth, together with William Penn, Sir Francis Drake, Sir Walter Raleigh, Lafayette, Paul Jones, Cornwallis and Stonewall Jackson, come trooping out of their dusty closets for the information of Duluth 9-year-olds.

In the third grade students know much of geography, judging from the outline of the work given them. They learn to know the states of the nation, and delve into the mysteries of hemispheres, islands, mountains, rivers and oceans.

With all this they acquire a more specific knowledge of the parts of the body and their various functions, as well as proper methods of caring for the eyes, ears, nose, mouth and teeth.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle.

Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective.

They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

You will know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets by their olive color. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Blinds, Shades and Hygiene

THE most frequent illness in all the world is coryza—too common "cold in the head." It is a germ disease, just as surely as diphtheria or tuberculosis; and it is a house germ disease. That is to say, coryza, like tuberculosis, is a disease which varies in prevalence directly with the degree of crowding in living quarters. The tenements furnish the greatest number of cases of both infections.

Now, intelligent people ventilate their living quarters more or less, rather less. Everyone realizes that fresh air is essential for good health, but many individuals are a bit uncertain what fresh air means. It means outdoor air. You can bring it indoors in the form of a draft or current of air, but in no other way.

Most of the year outdoor air is comparatively cool, dry and in motion, as contrasted with the indoor warmth, moisture (from perspiring bodies and water in the exhaled breath) and stagnation—avoidance of the dreaded draft. Personally, we know that our stand is ridiculous in the opinion of the average reader; even professional colleagues insist we are a bit daft when we declare that drafts do only good. But just the same we can't see how a breeze or wind in the open is harmless and healthful, while a current of air indoors is injurious. Always provided personal comfort is the guide.

Fresh air is the best of all tonics. Sunlight, both direct and diffuse, is by all odds the most thorough germicide known to science.

Blinds and window shades are good friends of the ubiquitous disease microbe. There are too many laws on the books already, but we would hail with delight a law prohibiting the use of shades or opaque coverings upon the windows of living quarters. Fade the rugs? Well, a faded rug or a washed out wall paper would be preferable to a home for orphan microbes. And besides, the more sunlight that permeates the living quarters, the happier and more cheerful will the occupants be.

Throw back the blinds, roll the shades as high as they will go, wash the windows, push aside the curtains and let Old Doctor Nature disinfect your germ-infested cave. What was the sun made for anyway?

Questions and Answers.

Perhaps Tuberculosis: Farmer Girl writes: I get hoarse on any occasion, singing, talking much, or traveling. Am continually clearing my throat. Will you please suggest something?

REPLY.

We would suggest tuberculosis. Or perhaps a simple chronic rhinitis or diseased tonsils. You need a careful examination of the entire bared chest, and a specialist's examination of nose and throat.

Bread and Milk Club: Kindly advise me whether the exclusive milk diet you recommend for members of the Bread and Milk club would be good for stomach, liver and bowel trouble.

REPLY.

Members of the club feast on bread and milk one day a week only. Stomach, liver and bowel trouble might mean most anything. If you are a too hearty invalid you might join. If your health is frail, don't.

Dr. Brady will answer all questions pertaining to Health. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Dr. Brady will not prescribe for individual cases or make diagnoses. Address all letters to Dr. William Brady, care of The Herald. All questions will be answered, whether they come from people residing in Duluth or outside, provided they comply with the rules here stated.

DO YOU KNOW?

Do you know what must take place before a street improvement is finally ordered?

In the first place at least 25 per cent of the property owners, owning not less than 25 per cent of the property affected by the proposed improvement, must sign a petition asking the city council to order such an improvement made.

After the petition is received by the city clerk, it is turned over the public works division and later referred to the city attorney and city assessor, who decide on the legality of the petition. It is then given to the city engineer, who prepares an estimate on the improvement.

If the petition is found to contain a sufficient number of names and it is legal in every way the commissioner of public works introduces a resolution before the council ordering the improvement made. If satisfactory, the council agrees.

It is then referred to the engineer a second time for final plans and specifications. When these are completed, bids are advertised for and the contract awarded to the lowest bidder. The successful contractor must file a bond within ten days after the contract is awarded and he is then at liberty to begin active construction on a thoroughfare.

LARGENY CONVICT PUT UNDER PAROLE

Was Jointly Indicted With Edward Fitzpatrick for Fake Sale.

Julius Paul was paroled under a ninety-day work farm sentence yesterday when brought before Judge Bert Fesler of the district court. Paul was convicted on a charge of second degree grand larceny by a jury at the January term of court. The court placed him on his good behavior.

Paul was jointly indicted and tried with Edward Fitzpatrick on a charge of having defrauded A. N. Friedman out of $50 by a fake sale. Paul secured this amount from Friedman as commission for the sale of Friedman's store on East Fourth street. After Paul had collected the money, Fitzpatrick, who was to have been the purchaser, failed to show up. Fitzpatrick was acquitted, but the jury found Paul guilty.

Yesterday Paul abandoned his appeal to the supreme court from an order denying him a new trial.

TOO MANY JITNEYS NOW.

Mill City Promoters Will Not Attempt New Line Here.

There are already enough jitneys in Duluth according to three Minneapolis men, who have just been in Duluth looking over the field in view of starting a new line here. They were J. L. Bageton, C. L. Oman and Ed A. Olson. While here they were guests of Joseph H. Vitoff of the McKay hotel.

"The jitney has come to stay," said Mr. Olson yesterday afternoon before leaving for their homes, "but this is no place to start a new line. We had several narrow escapes from being run over by some of the fast-running jitneurs, and we have decided to go to Canada or some other place where the competition isn't so keen."

Baggagemaster Dies.

PUTS IT UP TO NEW YORK

Duluth Traffic Commissioner Tells Traffic World of Gotham Port's Danger.

Eastern Ports Benefit By West's Rate Fight But Don't Contribute.

A few days ago The Herald printed a story concerning the present status of the Erie canal matters, telling of the referendum vote which New York finds it necessary to take in November to find out whether the people of the state are willing to appropriate $27,000,000 to complete the canal, and pointing out the danger to New York city as a shipping point in case the enlargement of the canal is not completed.

That the Canadian routes are a very grave danger to the supremacy of New York as the gateway of trans-Atlantic assigned commerce from the West, including grain and other commodities and class freights, is becoming so apparent that even New York itself is taking notice.

It so happens that along the same line the Traffic World and Traffic Bulletin of Chicago, has been making inquiry, and has asked Traffic Commissioner G. Roy Hall of the Duluth Commercial club as to his opinion regarding probable freight rates on grain in connection with the new Erie canal. In reply, Mr. Hall has written the Traffic World as follows, and has enclosed The Herald's article:

No Change in Sight.

"The reconstruction of the Welland canal will permit larger boats to enter Lake Ontario, but until the canals around the rapids of the St. Lawrence river are enlarged so as to permit the larger vessels to reach tide-water at Montreal or to proceed to foreign ports, I doubt if there will be any material change in the present rates. The rate of freight today from Duluth to Montreal, all water, on grain, is 3½ cents per bushel, but this has been the rate for years.

"The improvement of the Erie canal should greatly reduce transportation charges on grain, but the completion of a deep waterway down the St. Lawrence river, enabling sea-going vessels to reach the Western lake ports would produce a remarkable change in the methods of doing business and heavy reductions in the cost of transportation. These savings would be immediately reflected to the growers of grain of our Western states.

Value of Sault Canals.

"As an indication of the value to this country of navigation on the Great Lakes and the improvements in carrying conditions made possible by the expenditure of considerable sums of money by the national government, in the deepening of channels, harbors, canals and locks and in aids to navigation of various kinds, rough calculations show that since the opening of the Sault canals in 1855 there has been a saving of over two billions of dollars in freight transportation costs on the traffic to and from Lake Superior ports alone for the three items of ore, grain and coal. Without the Great Lakes it seems extremely doubtful if the great crops of Northwestern grain could have been moved to eastern points of consumption or the tremendous tonnage of ore to the manufacturing points of the East, or the Northwest had been able to use Eastern coal for steam and heating purposes.

Danger to New York.

"There is one very important feature of the effect which the deepening of the Welland canal and the further program of improving the St. Lawrence river channels will have upon the movement of grain traffic and that is, unless the state of New York moves promptly to insure the early completion of the Erie canal, the great volume of western tonnage, which is now moving through the port of New York, both export and import, will be very materially reduced by the diversion of traffic through the Canadian ports and waterways. The improvement of the Erie canal, in my judgment, should be of great benefit to the city of New York through the low rates for canal and lake movement, which would completely offset the Philadelphia, Baltimore and Boston differentials, which New York people maintain have been so harmful to them.

Take No Initiative.

"From the standpoint of a Northwestern shipper or business man, all of the Atlantic ports look alike except where there is a difference in the cost of handling business through any of the ports as compared with others. The eastern cities have greatly benefited by the rate cases which have been decided by the interstate commerce commission upon the petition of western shippers and I have yet to hear of a single case where any of the big eastern cities have taken any part in these cases or contributed anything to the expense of them, although they have benefited fully as much, if not more, than the actual complainant.

"Now, it would, therefore, seem good policy for the state of New York and particularly New York city to urge and insure the early completion of the Erie canal. We would, naturally, prefer to have our business move through American ports, but I do not believe there are many western shippers who would spend very much money in forcing business through an American port at a higher price than is available through a Canadian port. As indicating what the port of New York is losing, I quote from the testimony of Julius H. Barnes before the interstate commerce commission in the rail-and-lake lines divorcement proceedings:

"'Only last week I closed two contracts for water transportation to Montreal, covering a total of two and a quarter million bushels of grain, because I could deliver that grain in Montreal at 2.5 cents cheaper in Montreal than New York, with the present situation at the opening of navigation.

"'I do not like that. I like to use American ports, and we like to do our business on American routes, and we hope to see the Erie canal once more put the grain trade in a position to use American ports.'"

CANADIAN BATTALION HAS FIFTY-FIVE MISSING

Ottawa, Ont., May 13.—Fifty-five men missing is the loss to the Third battalion of the Canadian division according to a list issued by the military department last night. There is also one member reported killed in action in this battalion. A total of 186 names is included in the list, other battalions also having lost heavily.

In a list of casualties among the Canadians issued by the military department, occur the names of two Americans, one Charles Smith, Second battalion of Waweka, (Waukesha) Wis., listed as killed in action and Peter Waide, Sixteenth battalion, of Homestead, Pa., as wounded.

GERMAN EMBASSY CANCELS WARNINGS

Waashington, May 13.—The German embassy last night notified by letter and telegraph newspapers in all of the large cities of the United States to discontinue the publication of the advertisement warning Americans against transatlantic travel on belligerent ships.

No reason for discontinuing the advertisement is given in the letters, and telegrams, but it was stated at the embassy that the warning was considered to have been sufficient.

Officials of the German embassy not only considered that the advertisements already published had had the effect of giving sufficient warning, but deemed it inadvisable to continue the advertisement in view of the existing situation following the sinking of the Lusitania. This advertisement, which appeared twice, was to have been published for the third time next Saturday. On its first appearance, the advertisement was printed in some papers on the same page with the approaching sailing of the Lusitania.

INJURED BADLY BY CORN CULTIVATOR

A Michigan farmer was so badly injured while cultivating that he had 33 running sores. He states that he tried many remedies and doctors with no success and that finally he used Allen's Ulcerine Salve which cured up all the sores completely. (Name and address on application).

Allen's Ulcerine Salve is one of the oldest remedies in America and since 1869 has been known as the only salve powerful enough to reach chronic ulcers and old sores of long standing. Because it is so powerful it often heals burns and scalds without a scar in a remarkably short time.

Allen's Ulcerine Salve heals from the bottom up and draws out the poisons. If applied on new cuts and sores it heals in one-third the time that common salves and liniments take. Sold by The Spencer Pharmacy Co. and other leading druggists.

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

Written for The Herald By Rev. J. S. Kirtley, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: MAY 16.

I Samuel xxvi, 5-16: David Spares Saul.

CONNECTION.

Seven years have passed since David and Jonathan separated. I made a mistake in the last lesson and said they never met again. They did meet once, for Jonathan went out to see him in his outlaw days. David was at last convinced that the insane king would kill him some day and he stayed away. First he fled to Nob, where the priests lived. There he secured from Ahimelech food and the sword which he had taken from Goliath. A certain servant of Saul's, Doeg, an Edomite, who saw him, reported the case to Saul who had Ahimelech slain and all his family, save Abiathar. The latter joined David and became his companion in all his wanderings. For a time he made his headquarters in the cave of Adullam southwest of Jerusalem and 600 men, who were hunted by Saul or were in trouble or were dissatisfied with the political order of Saul and believed that the future was with David, came to his standard. It was a wild life they led, outlaws, hunted, a price on their heads. David removed his father and mother to Moab, the people of his great grandmother Ruth, but he guarded the frontiers of Israel as if he was merely a frontier guardsman. He protected the estate of rich Nabal and on his death married the widow, Abagail. On the death of Samuel he went into polygamy and married Ahinoam, a Jezreelitess. His hiding place was betrayed by friends and Saul encamped against him, but was recalled to repel an invasion from the Philistines. The next time Saul came out he went to sleep in a cave in which David and his soldiers were hiding and David spared his life. Saul was touched and made all sorts of pledges, but was soon on the bloody hunt again, this time with three thousand men. Our lesson tells of it.

THE LESSON.

I.

Saul in David's Power. 5-9.

"And David arose and came to the place where Saul had encamped; and David beheld the place where Saul lay, and Abner, the son of Ner, the captain of his host; and Saul lay within the place of the wagons, and the people were encamped round about him. Then answered David and said to Ahimelech the Hittite, and to Abishai, the son of Zeruiah, brother to Joab, saying, Who will go down with me to Saul to the camp? And Abishai said, I will go down with thee. So David and Abishai came to the people by night; and behold, Saul lay sleeping within the place of the wagons, with his spear stuck in the ground at his head; and Abner and the people lay round about him. Then said Abishai to David, God hath delivered up thine enemy into thy hand this day; now therefore let me smite him, I pray thee, with the spear to the earth at one stroke, and I will not smite him the second time."

1. PRECAUTION.—David knew that the Ziphites had told of his hiding place and he watched from high peaks the movements of Saul's 3,000 men under Abner as they sought him. By the soft light of the moon he saw where they were encamped for the night and planned a peaceful attack that might still more deeply stir Saul's better nature. He knew exactly where Saul lay. His nephew, Abishai, brother of Joab, responded to his call for a companion and the two went. Here are his precautions, then—both of them brave beyond fear; both of them exquisitely poised; both perfectly informed as to the perils and as to the exact positions of the sleeping enemies; both ready for any emergency.

2. PERILS.—Saul and Abner, his guard, were sleeping within the space surrounded by the wagons, while the rest of the soldiers surrounded the wagons, a pretty safe place. To reach him they must pick their way through the soldiers. Several things were in their favor—no guards on watch, for the double reason that Saul knew this was a one-sided war and he was in his own country at that; all very tired from the long march and with Oriental habit they slept soundly; the time of the night when they would be most sound asleep, perhaps about midnight.

3. TEMPTATION.—There lay Saul, completely in his hands. One stroke of Abishai's spear through the neck would finish him, and perhaps no sound would ever be heard. Abishai would have been perfectly willing to have David get to a safe place before the deed and he himself run the risk of death. The young man urged it on the grounds of self-defense, of providence, and probably of public policy as well. One stroke and David's wanderings would cease, and he could go back home to rest and to rule over a loyal people.

II.

Saul Spared By David. 10-12.

"And David said to Abishai, Destroy him not; for who can put forth his hand against Jehovah's anointed and be guiltless? And David said, As Jehovah liveth, Jehovah will smite him; or his day shall come to die; or he shall go down into battle, and perish. Jehovah forbid that I should put forth my hand against Jehovah's anointed: but now take, I pray thee, the spear that is at his head, and the cruse of water, and let us go. So David took the spear and the cruse of water from Saul's head; and they gat them away: and no man saw it, nor knew it, neither did any awake; for they were all asleep, because a deep sleep from Jehovah was fallen upon them."

1. RESTRAINT.—It was innate nobleness that restrained him, reverence for God's work, repugnance to any form of wrongdoing. Perhaps his relationship to Saul held him; his love for Jonathan influenced him; his reverence for the office to which God called Saul, awed him. He kept saying, "God's anointed." Saul was owned by the Lord and therefore the Lord would have to bring him to death, not David, whether God would do it by old age or war. That was God's business.

2. APPEAL.—He had a purpose in view from the first, and that he will carry out. They must have whispered very softly to each other. At his command Abishai takes Saul's spear, which was struck in the ground to mark the place of the leader, and the bag of water lying within reach of his hand at night. That will again show Saul that he had been spared by the one whom he hunts to death.

III.

Abner, Saul's Guard, Ridiculed. 13-16.

"Then David went over to the other side, and stood on the top of the mountain afar off; a great space being between them; and David cried to the people, and to Abner the son of Ner, sayin, Answerest thou not, Abner? Then Abner answered and said, Who art thou that criest to the king? And David said to Abner, Art not thou a valiant man? and who is like to thee in Israel? wherefore then hast thou not kept watch over thy lord the king? for there came one of the people in to destroy the king thy lord. This thing is not good that thou hast done. As Jehovah liveth, ye are worthy to die, because ye have not kept watch over your lord, Jehovah's anointed. And now see where the king's spear is, and the cruse of water that was at his head."

1. DISCOVERY.—They were waked by David, who called from a distance, ridiculing Abner for not protecting his king and giving proof of his utter freedom from all vindictiveness. He must have had an almost malicious pleasure in showing how he had the king in his hand and Abner must have felt almost like a fool.

2. PENITENCE.—Again Saul was penitent. He saw not only the kindness of David in sparing him, but his courage in penetrating the lines of soldiers. David complains that he has not merited such treatment and that Saul's efforts are out of all proportion to his importance, like getting up an army to hunt a flea or a partridge. David knows Saul too well to trust him and, though Saul goes back home, David takes care of himself and his men. It was hardly penitence, it was temporary remorse.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

He that cannot forgive others breaks down the bridge over which he must pass himself; for everyone has need to be forgiven. As when the sea-worm makes a hole in the shell of the mussel, the hole is filled up with a pearl; so, when the heart is pierced by an injury, forgiveness is like a pearl, healing and filling up the wound.—Lord Bacon.

We greatly admire the forgiving spirit of David, of which he gave striking and unexpected evidence. We admire just as greatly his fine balance of judgment and poise. He keeps hold of himself. He will not be swept off his feet to ignore the real nature of the pitiable king, however much he would like to please him or end his own uncomfortable wanderings. Perhaps we can equally admire the first, self-respecting way in which he talks more like a king himself than was the poor wretch now in the convulsive throes of a remorse that will never become repentance.—James.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

1. What is the best way of curing enmity?
2. What is the difference between repentance and remorse?
3. What is the connection between human mercy and manliness?
4. What are the worst disadvantages of a bad reputation?
5. Why do you or why should you have enemies?

CRITICISM OF COUNTY JAIL

Grand Jury Pays Its Usual Respects to Women's Quarters.

"Disgrace to the City"—Bouquets for the Work Farm.

Before adjourning, the May grand jury took the usual rap at county jail conditions.

In doing so, it was following in the footsteps of former grand juries which have repeatedly called attention to the crowded quarters and insanitary conditions existing there.

In its final report to Judge Dancer in district court yesterday afternoon, the grand jury referred to the women's department at the jail as a "disgrace."

The inquisitorial body recommends that if the county cannot build or enlarge the present jail, that it start in at once to paint, paper and decorate the interior, which is at present, according to the grand jury, in a very poor condition.

The report in no way reflects upon the manner in which affairs are conducted at the jail by Sheriff Meining. "Seeing the amount of people handled there each day," the reports says, "we are surprised that it is kept up in the efficient manner it is."

Report in Full.

The jury visited the poor farm, work farm and city jail and its report on these institutions is very complimentary to the men in charge of affairs at each place. The text of the report is as follows:

"To the Hon. H. A. Dancer, judge of the district court.

"The grand jury made an inspection of the following institutions: Work farm, poor farm, county jail and city jail. We visited the work farm and found a much better institution than some of us ever thought of. The superintendent, Mr. Ward, is to be highly commended for the efficient manner in which he has, and is conducting the institution. We cannot speak too highly of the cleanliness and efficiency in the manner it is conducted.

"We took in the poor farm and found the same good management existing in every department, finding everything clean and sanitary. One thing we noticed in particular was Mr. Melby's stock. We all praised him for his judgment in handling nothing but the best in all departments. The buildings and stock are good for anyone to look upon, and spotlessly clean.

"We next visited the county jail, but must confess after seeing the other two institutions, we were disappointed to see the crowded and inadequate cellrooms, and would suggest if you cannot build or enlarge the present small quarters, that the authorities start in at once to paint, paper and decorate the interior, as it is at present in a very poor condition, and could be brightened up considerably with little expense.

"The women's department is a disgrace to any city the size of Duluth, and should be attended to at once. As far as the cleanliness and sanitation is concerned, it is all that can be asked for, seeing the number of people handled there each day, and we are surprised that it is kept up in the efficient manner it is.

"The city jail and city hall are conducted and carried on in the same good way as always. We, as the grand jury, at this time wish to extend our vote of thanks to the able and courteous manner in which we were received and taken care of by the different authorities at the various places visited.

"Respectfully submitted by the grand jury.

"D. G. GEARHART,
"Foreman."

PROGRESS IN DARDANELLES

French troops against the Germans to the north of Arras.

Attacks Checked.

For the moment, however, both of these attacks would appear to have been checked.

On the Bukowina frontier Petrograd reports a brilliant success won by the Russian Cossacks cavalry over the Austrian infantry. The Russian horsemen, forcing their way through a series of barbed wire entanglements, dislodged the Austrians from three lines of trenches and captured 2,000 prisoners, a battery of quick-firing guns, several searchlights and a whole string of caissons.

Russia admits that the Austro-German offensive is still proceeding in western Galicia, while Vienna claims that the Russian retreat is fast becoming a rout, with the invaders suffering enormous losses.

Fleet Re-enters Straits.

Paris, May 13.—A Havas dispatch from Athens says: "An allied fleet reentered the Dardanelles last night and bombarded the forts at Kilid Bahr, Chanak Kalessi and Nagara.

"Although the Turks have been strongly reinforced, the bombardment from allied warships is causing them heavy losses and they are steadily losing ground. Turkish trenches are filled with bodies."

DENUNCIATION MOST SEVERE

as that which furnishes the punishment for these polished, polluted, self-righteous rakes of the church who make religion a shining vice.

"He seemed to be content to go down the primrose path of dalliance sacrificing one after another to his swinish passion without fear or compunction, holding that it was his privilege as a gentleman of the cloth.

Adultery the Rule.

"No creature rising to the normal level of a mangy ape would resort to spiritual hypnotism to deaden girlhood's purest thoughts along the primrose path. His moral stamina was made of guttapercha. With him adultery was the rule and decency the exception.

"I thought I had met all manner of men, but never before have I met a penitent sanctimonious man with the hardihood to speak the message of Christ with the stain and odor of adulterous sin on his brow."

Attorney Richard A. Cooney, Chicago, counsel for the defendant, in his closing address said: "I know you, gentlemen of the jury, are open and fair-minded that there is no prejudice caused by the conduct of this foolish defendant.

"Prejudice with truth and crime, at this stage of the case would be a relic of the ages of centuries ago."

Mr. Cooney then introduced a marriage license issued to Ethel Baldwin and James Wylie and stated that it was unused and that no such marriage took place in Illinois.

"Ethel Spurgeon was never known in Illinois as Ethel Darnell or Mrs. Darnell excepting perhaps at the home of Darnell's parents," he continued.

Assumed Maiden Name.

"She had a little social escapade affair but after returning to Illinois she resumed her maiden name showing conclusively there had been no marriage ceremony, else she would have sought a legal separation.

"The best evidence of Darnell's marriage in Indiana to Ruth Soper is her own admission as well as his that they were married at Hammond on Oct. 2, 1913, and their baby born July 19, 1914.

"Those who love most, suffer most. Where love is there God is."

Reviewing testimony Attorney Cooney lauded Mrs. Sanborn and Mrs. Vaughn as admirable women.

"What greater wrong could be done this woman and her baby than to convict her husband for white slavery on slanderous charges?" said Attorney Cooney.

Infamous Term.

"I look upon the term 'illegitimate child' as the most infamous and blasphemous as applied in the arguments yesterday.

"He violated no federal statutes."

Attorney Cooney told the jury that there was but one duty for them to perform and that was to acquit the defendant and allow him to care for his wife and child. The defendant may have acted foolishly, he said, but "your duty is toward her and her child."

"You must not take away the legitimacy of the love born child of wedlock.

"Whatever he may be guilty of, you can't convict him of white slavery on the evidence," said Attorney Cooney.

combat which lasted all night long developed in this quadrilateral. In the morning we were complete masters of the situation, having inflicted very heavy losses on the enemy.

Take Carency.

"During Wednesday night we also took by assault all the village of Carency as well as the forest to the north of it, Hill No. 125. The German garrison stationed in this village and in this forest wood was composed of one battalion of the 109th regiment of infantry; one battalion of the 136th regiment of infantry; one battalion of Bavarian chasseurs, and six companies of pioneers, 300 men to a company. These forces had made of Carency and of Hill No. 125 in the forest a position of great strength. In spite of the fact that their numbers had been very much reduced by their losses in killed, wounded and prisoners on previous days, these forces during the entire night put up a desperate resistance to our attack delivered against a maze of trenches, blockhouses and narrow passages.

Broke Resistance.

"We broke down this resistance of the enemy, and at break of day we were in complete mastery of the situation. Our troops killed hundreds of Germans at the point of the bayonet. We made 1,050 prisoners, of whom about thirty are officers. Included in these latter is a colonel and the commandant of the battalion of chasseurs.

"At the southern exit of Souchez our positions were subjected yesterday to violent attack on the part of the enemy. Nevertheless we retained them.

"At Neuville our attacks on the village itself and to the north of the village made perceptible progress. To the north of Neuville we took possession of trenches several hundred yards long and we occupied the road called the Highway Des Carreres, which runs from Neuville to Givenchy. In the village itself we occupied yesterday morning only the southern portion, the enemy still holding the center and the northern part. An attack delivered late in the afternoon resulted in our occupying house by house at the central portion of this village. The Germans were driven back to the extreme northern part, where we are outflanking them. Our troops in this fighting gave admirable evidences of courage and tenacity.

"In the forest of Le Pretre we occupied yesterday a new line of German trenches."

UNITED STATES NOTE TO GERMANY READY TO TRANSMIT TO BERLIN

ernment, the belief here is that the German foreign office, realizing the state of feeling in the United States, will answer promptly.

Officials who have seen the note made it clear today that it makes no specific demand for financial reparation for the loss of American lives, but asks reparation in general terms and avoiding any impression that the loss of Americans on the Lusitania could be atoned by the mere payment of cash indemnities.

Express Confidence in President.

Although nearly a week has passed since the sinking of the Lusitania, messages regarding the disaster continue to arrive at the White House today from all parts of the world. Practically all of them expressed confidence in the president.

The German embassy issued this statement:

"The German embassy stated today that no statement or intimation had been given by the embassy or any official of the embassy concerning what response would be made to the American note regarding the Lusitania.

"This was brought out by statements appearing in the press this morning to the effect that officials of the German embassy have outlined the position of the German government towards the American note regarding the sinking of the Lusitania and have declared that the reply would be a polite but firm refusal to cease submarine warfare against belligerent merchant ships.

Received No Instructions.

"It was pointed out that the embassy itself so far was ignorant of the terms of the American note; that it had received no instructions whatever from the German government regarding the note, and finally, it was declared that no official connected with the embassy had expressed any opinion on the subject at all."

President Wilson's note to Germany on the sinking of the Lusitania, will be given out in Washington this evening for publication in morning papers tomorrow. Secretary Bryan announced today that it is between 1,200 and 1,500 words long.

In announcing the decision to publish the note tomorrow morning, Secretary Bryan said he expected it could be transmitted to Germany in time for delivery to the German foreign office early tomorrow. Actual transmission by cable and through Rome and Vienna, he said, would occur late today.

Numerous communications, the secretary said, have reached the state department from citizens on the attitude this government would take.

"The advice offered in these communications," said the secretary, "differs, but all conclude with expressions of support of the president of the United States."

Points of Note.

The principal points in the note are substantially as follows:

1—The United States government calls attention to the various incidents in the war zone proclaimed by the Germans around the British Isles; the sinking of the British liner Falaba, with the loss of Leon C. Thresher, an American; the attack by German airmen on the American steamer Cushing, the torpedoing without warning of the American steamer Gulflight, flying the Stars and Stripes, and finally the torpedoing without warning of the Lusitania with the loss of more than 1,000 lives of non-combatants, among them more than 100 Americans.

Acts Indefensible.

2—These acts are declared to be indefensible under international law. The United States points out that it never admitted Germany's right to do them and warned the imperial government that it would be held to "a strict accountability" for attacks on American vessels or lives. A strict accounting, therefore, is now asked from Germany.

3—The usual financial reparation will be sought, although Germany is in effect reminded that no reparation can restore the lives of those sacrificed in the sinking of the Lusitania and other ships.

4—Expressions of regret may comply with the legal precedents, but they are valueless unless accompanied by a cessation of the practices endangering lives of noncombatants.

5—The right of neutrals to travel to any point of the high seas on neutral or belligerent merchantmen is asserted.

Demands Guarantee.

6—In the name of humanity and international law, the United States demands a guarantee that these rights will be respected and that there be no repetition of the attacks on merchantmen carrying noncombatants.

7—The giving of warning to the American public without officially communicating them to the United States government is commented on in connection with the German embassy's printed advertisement before the sailing of the Lusitania, but irrespective of the failure to advise the American government of Germany's purpose, the point is made that notice of an intention to do an unlawful act neither justifies nor legalizes it.

8—The suggestion is conveyed that the German goverament, of course, could not have intended to destroy innocent lives, and that consequently the German submarine commanders must have misunderstood their instructions. The American government indicates its hope that this will be found to be true, and a cessation of the unlawful practices thereby will result.

9—In conclusion Germany's attention is called to the earnestness of the government and people of the United States in this situation. It is made plain that the United States will leave nothing undone either in diplomatic representation or other action, to obtain a compliance by Germany to the request made.

GERMAN CAPITAL IN AFRICA IS CAPTURED

Gen. Botha, With Union of South Africa Forces, the Victor.

London, May 13.—An official statement made public at Cape Town and received by the Reuter Telegram company says that Windhoek, capital of German Southwest Africa, was captured yesterday without resistance by Union of South Africa forces under Gen. Botha. The population of the town consists of 3,000 Europeans and 12,000 natives. Gen. Botha's troops took a considerable quantity of railway rolling stock. Martial law has been proclaimed throughout the conquered territory.

Announcement was made on April 20 that the forces of the Union of South Africa had occupied Keetmanshop, the most important town in German Southwest Africa next to the capital. Thus obtaining command of the railroad leading to Windhoek.

A statement was issued at Cape Town on May 6 telling of the occupation by Gen. Botha of Karibib after a forced march of thirty-five miles over a waterless waste. It was stated then that the early capture of Windhoek was expected.

WILSON PRAISED BY HENRY CLEWS

New York Banker Says President Has Done Noble Work.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 13.—Henry Clews, the principal speaker at this morning's session of the World Court congress, praised President Wilson's efforts in behalf of peace.

"While yielding to none in my lifelong devotion to the principles of the Republican party," he said, "due credit must be given the present administration for its accomplishments for the cause of peace. President Wilson has done noble work."

Mr. Clews said he believed that universal peace through the application of an international court of justice would ultimately prevail.

"The United States, always in the vanguard of progress and enlightenment, will lead the nations onward to the ultimate goal," he declared.

Tells of Tentative Plan.

The address of Emerson McMillin, New York banker and capitalist, dealt with a tentative plan for the formation of the proposed world court, based upon the population and commerce of the nations.

Mr. McMillin predicted that in less than a generation after the inauguration of the international court, international law will assume a stability to which it has not hitherto attained.

"And in the court we propose," he said, "the sovereignty of every nation will be recognized. The smallest nation will stand on a footing level with that of the greatest."

CUSTOMS OFFICERS VISIT GERMAN SHIPS

Said to Be Looking for Any Explosives Aboard Vessels.

New York, May 13.—The seventy customs inspectors who visited the German vessels lying at dock in Hoboken yesterday, continued their work today. It was said they would go later to the German docks in Brooklyn and thereafter complete the search by visiting every other German and Austrian ship in port.

It was understood that the search was being made on orders received from Washington. At the collector's office it was said the men were on their usual monthly trips of inspection, but no reason was given for increasing the force from its customary complement of twelve men to seventy. There were several reports as to what the inspectors were searching for, one being that they were seeking to determine if any one of the German ships had explosives aboard.

TIRED OF LIFE; TRIES TO END HIS EXISTENCE

Otto F. Fleischmann Shoots Himself While in Hotel Under Assumed Name.

New York, May 13.—Otto F. Fleischmann, president of the Fleischmann Vehicle company, a member of the Fleischmann family who established a fortune as manufacturers of bread, shot himself yesterday in a hotel here where he had registered under an assumed name. He was removed to a hospital, where it was feared he would not recover.

It was not until taken to the hospital that Fleischmann admitted his identity. His only explanation for the act was that he was tired of life and wanted "to be forgotten."

Mr. Fleischmann was one of the sons of the late Louis Fleischmann, who built up a large bakery business here and was noted for his philanthropies. Among them was a free bread line, which became famous as one of the charitable institutions of the city. Otto F. Fleischmann was president of the bakery business, as well as the vehicle company.

An operation to locate the bullet had to be abandoned because the patient suffered from loss of blood. A blood transfusion operation was decided upon, and it was performed at a late hour, Raoul Fleischmann, a brother, offering himself for the purpose. The surgeons said they were unable to indicate whether the transfusion experiment would prove successful.

DETROIT PEOPLE ARE NOW WALKING

Street Cars All Tied Up Owing to Strike of Employes.

Detroit, Mich., May 13.—Not a city street car was being operated in Detroit at 7 o'clock this forenoon as a result of a strike called by Detroit United Railway conductors and motormen because of the company's refusal to reinstate a motorman discharged for alleged careless handling of his car. The strike vote was taken during the early morning hours and was practically unanimous.

Thousands of factory employes and downtown workmen, who had depended on the street cars, were from one to three hours late in reporting at their work.

No disorder was in evidence when the men took their cars to the barns on the final run. Extra squads of police were called out, however, and steps taken to quell any disturbance which might arise.

Street car officials refused to make any statement as to what action they would take. They declared, however, the men had violated terms of their working agreement in that they had not first submitted their case for arbitration. The men, on the other hand, declared that the company had repeatedly violated its side of the working agreement and that while the case of the discharged motorman led directly to the strike, other factors, including unsatisfactory working conditions, induced them to walk out.

Peter Whaling, the discharged motorman, is an officer in the local union of street railway employes.

DULUTHIAN'S FATHER DIES IN MARQUETTE

He was 74 years old and is survived by two sons, Ernie of Marquette, and M. R. Bush of Duluth, and one daughter, Mrs. Henry Duer of Waupun, Wis. The remains were taken to Waupun for interment.

SPECIAL CONSTABLES ARE CALLED FOR DUTY

London, May 13.—Scotland Yard today issued an emergency call for all special constables to report immediately for duty. This would appear to be the only precautionary measure taken by the authorities this morning for the protection of Germans in England. For the moment the anti-German rioting and attacks on the poor quarters of London and Liverpool, as well as in Manchester, Birkenhead, Glasgow, South End and elsewhere, would appear to have ceased.

PROMINENT SUPERIOR WOMAN ENDS ILLS WITH NEW MINERAL

Mrs. J. B. Holt Says Akoz Relieved Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Mrs. J. B. Holt, a prominent resident of Superior and wife of the well-known cigar dealer at 1519 Tower avenue, is gladly telling her many friends of the wonderful relief Akoz, the new California mineral rival of radium, gave her after she had suffered for some time with kidney and bladder trouble.

"I had kidney and bladder trouble for some time," said Mrs. Holt, "and finally very acute pains attacked me in the lower bowels and groin, from which I suffered so severely that I could not sleep and had to get up often. I feared that it might be appendicitis. I bought an Akoz plaster and applied it over the seat of pain. It soon gave relief. I am also taking the Akoz mineral water and Akoz pills, from which I am being decidedly benefited. I shall continue taking Akoz as I believe it will effect a permanent cure in a short time. I can cheerfully recommend it to all in need of medical aid."

Akoz is not a patent medicine. It is a natural mineral containing no harmful constituent and has proven very effective in the treatment of rheumatism, stomach, kidney and bladder trouble, catarrh, eczema, piles and other ailments.

HOUSING CODE CONFERENCE

City Officials Will Meet; Public Hearing for Next Week.

Final Draft of Measure to Embody Wishes of Whole City.

City officials will hold a conference this afternoon on the proposed changes in the housing code and during the meeting arrangements will be made for a public hearing to be held some evening next week.

Mayor Prince said this morning that the commission does not want to act hurriedly in the matter and that the public will be asked to present views on the various changes in the housing code proposed by a general committee, consisting of representatives from the Commercial club, the Builders' exchange, the Real Estate exchange and the Duluth Association of Building Owners and Managers.

The conference this afternoon, the mayor announced, will be attended by City Attorney Greene, Building Inspector Kelley and Health Director Fahey. He will preside at the meeting and explain the changes as proposed by the general committee and in addition read the communication from E. A. Silberstein, president of the Associated Charities, protesting against a majority of these requirements.

The public hearing will be held some evening next week and after a general discussion is held, the officials will prepare only those amendments to the housing code that are received favorably by the people in general, the mayor said this morning.

The report of the general committee was made last week and includes more than a score of changes in the housing code.

PEANUT BUSINESS IS FLOURISHING

Superior Street in Evening Looks Like Circus Grounds.

"Hot popcorn and peanuts."

Superior street is not a circus ground nor a baseball park, but it looks as if it were fast becoming a popcorn and peanut market. With the coming of the jitneys, the peanut and popcorn venders have sprung up like mushrooms, and they may be heard crying their wares as lustily as an auctioneer at a knock-down sale.

Three wagons were operating at First avenue west and Superior street last night, two at Second avenue west and Superior street, and others were placed at strategic points from Second avenue east to Fifth avenue west. It looks as if business was picking up, especially wherever "jitney" prices are concerned.

ENGAGEMENT IS TERRIFIC

Battle on Borders of Galicia Approaching Conclusive Phase.

Entire Fighting Front Is Marked By Burning Villages.

Tarnow, Galicia, May 11, by courier to Cracow and via London, May 13.—The struggle in the region north of the Vistula river and on the borders of Galicia, which well informed persons here expect will bring a final decision in the battle against the Russian armies, appears to be approaching a conclusive phase.

A terrific engagement was fought today at positions twenty-two miles to the east of Tarnow, in the vicinity of Debica and Mielec, where the Austrian army under Archduke Francis Joseph came into fierce conflict with the Russian forces which were retreating eastward from the Dunajec river and Tarnow.

Airmen who flew over the battlefield today reported that the entire front was marked by burning villages, most of which had been bombarded. They say it looks exactly like a gigantic prairie fire.

Kida Line Forced.

To the north of the Vistula river, the Austrian corps, commanded by Count Kirchbach, has forced the Kida line, according to information reaching here.

Today and yesterday the wind brought with it as far as Tarnow the incessant roar of gunfire, indicating that Count Kirchbach's forces are trying to advance hand-in-hand with the troops of Archduke Joseph Ferdinand and Gen. von Mackensen.

Along the Carpathian front also the Austrian armies have made a forward movement, bringing the third Russian army and the remainder of the eighth Russian army in imminent danger of being surrounded and destroyed. The first train since Tarnow was retaken by the Teutonic allies arrived here today.

TELLS ROTARIANS OF MILK PRODUCTS

The Duluth Rotary club, at its weekly luncheon at the Spalding hotel this noon, listened to an interesting and instructive address by Henry Bridgeman of the firm of Bridgeman & Russell on the subject of milk and the way it and dairy products in general are handled.

Mr. Bridgeman explained the process of handling the products and explained the methods used to pasteurize milk. He said that all milk that passed through the company's plant is subjected to heat in a vat of 145 degrees Fahrenheit for thirty minutes before it is cooled off for commercial use, and is then given treatment in a centrifugal clarifier to remove all sediment. Mr. Bridgeman also discussed the value of milk as a food, compared with other foods, and told the club many things concerning the dairy products business which were revelations to them.

VERDICT OF $1 FOR ENGINEER

Mistake Causing Collision Blocks Efforts to Secure Damages.

Ira W. Foote Gets Only Nominal Decree Against Iron Range Road.

In view of his failure to discover before it was too late a mistake that resulted in a head-on collision between two trains of the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad company and cost the lives of four men nearly two years ago, Ira W. Foote, an engineer on one of the wrecked locomotives, will recover only nominal damages from the railroad company.

Was Badly Crippled.

Foote, badly scalded and crippled, sued the company for $25,000 damages. A jury in district court last evening, however, determined that he should receive only $1 for the injuries that he sustained. A nominal verdict for the plaintiff was reached at 8:40 o'clock last evening. It was read when Judge Dancer's division of the court convened this morning.

When Mr. Foote left Allen Junction with a train of ore "empties" on the early morning of July 29, 1913, a severe rain storm was in progress, and it was so dark that he did not discover that he had taken the wrong side of a double track system and was running on a track to which he had no right-of-way. About three miles out of Allen Junction, his train crashed into another travelling in the opposite direction. Four trainmen were killed outright, and others were severely injured, including Foote.

The train which Foote was pulling, was on the wrong track. The other had the right-of-way. The darkness and the storm prevented Foote from discovering his mistake and when the trains crashed together, both were running at their ordinary rate of speed.

Took Wrong Track.

Testimony in the case offered in behalf of the company, tended to show that in leaving Allen Junction, Foote should have switched from the track on which he had been traveling to the right-hand track of a double track system. This he failed to do. The result was that his train collided with another ore train coming from the opposite direction. The collision took place between Allen Junction and Colby.

Howard T. Abbott of Abbott, MacPherran, Lewis & Gilbert, appeared in the case as attorney for the railroad company, and Samuel A. Anderson of St. Paul and Warner E. Whipple of this city represented the plaintiff in the action.

SOCIALISTS TO MEET IN CHICAGO

National Convention for 1916 to Be Held on June 11.

Chicago, May 13.—The 1916 National convention of the Socialist party will be held in Chicago the week beginning June 11 of that year.

This was determined after a spirited contest by the National committee of the party, which continued its sessions here today. Morris Hillquit, New York, was chosen chairman, and Walter Lanferslek, Kentucky, secretary. Members of the executive committee are: Adolph Germer, Illinois; James H. Murer, Pennsylvania; George H. Goebell, New Jersey; Emil Seidel, Wisconsin; and Arthur La Seur, North Dakota.

The following woman's committee to perform propaganda work was named: Gertrude Reilley, New Jersey; Theresa Malkiel, New York; Anna M. Ringlar, South Dakota; Ella R. Blooer, Ohio; Frieda Hogan, Arkansas; and Flora E. Forman, Oregon.

Mr. Goebell presided over today's sessions. It was decided to make nominations by referendum, leaving the resolutions and other matters to the convention. The committee expects to make certain changes in the party's constitution and to act on resolutions dealing with the European war and the sinking of the Lusitania.

INJURIES MAY PROVE FATAL

Boy Holds Horse and Is Trampled By Animal.

His desire to be accommodating may cost William Bergren, 16, his life.

Yesterday afternoon the boy, who is the son of John Bergren, 727 East Second street, stopped near his residence to hold a horse for a stranger.

The animal, frightened by a passing automobile, reared and trampled the boy, who sustained a concussion of the brain.

Dr. A. L. McDonald, who took charge of the case after the Bergren boy was taken to St. Luke's hospital, stated that the extent of his injuries had not been determined, but that he was seriously, perhaps fatally, injured.

OPEN-AIR PATROL DRILL.

Shriners Rehearse for Convention to Be Held in Seattle.

Arab patrol of Aad temple held an open-air drill on the courthouse square last evening.

The Shriners were accompanied by the Temple band and after a short march from the Masonic temple building they executed a number of fancy drill movements under the direction of Capt. A. H. Paul. A large crowd watched the patrol during the evening. Charles Helmer lead the band.

The patrol is rehearsing every Wednesday evening in preparation for the Shriners' convention, to be held at Seattle next July.

ALL CREDITORS CONSIDERED.

Merchant Answers Petition Filed By Three Creditors.

M. T. Nelson, insolvent merchant of Mahtowa, Minn., filed answer today to the petition of involuntary bankruptcy petition placed against him yesterday in the Federal court here by three of his creditors, the F. A. Patrick company, Stone-Ordean-Wells, and the Duluth Universal Milling company.

Mr. Nelson admits all the allegations of the petition except those regarding his transfer of property to George H. Wright a short time ago. Mr. Nelson declares that he first conferred with Mr. Wright, who was and is still the president of the Jobbers' Credit bureau of Duluth; the credit man of the Stone-Ordean-Wells company, and Attorney H. S. Lord, all of whom, he avers, advised him to act as he did. He declares that the property was turned over for the benefit of all his creditors with the request that they take their share due them, and that he be allowed to become insolvent. If this were not done, he said he would have to file a petition. In his answer he asks permission of the court to have all his creditors considered, and that either he or Mr. Wright be permitted to make out a full list of his creditors.

TO SUPPORT WILSON.

Sentiment at Meeting of German-American Alliance.

Rochester, N. Y., May 13.—At the conclusion of a meeting of the German-American alliance held here last night, President William Otto issued the following statement:

"Although the organization did not take definite action, the sentiment was in favor of unqualified support of President Wilson in whatever action he takes. The German-Americans of this city are neutral in every respect and none of their societies will take action antagonistic to the policy of the administration."

FIVE-CENT ADVANCE IN PASSENGER FARES

The passenger tariff between Duluth and the Twin Cities will be increased 5 cents on June 10. On May 15 tariffs on all lines in Minnesota will also be increased 5 cents.

Under the Bendixen law, enacted by the legislature of 1913, the railroads of the state are permitted to charge 1 cent a mile additional for the first five miles. Under the original intent of the law, it was meant that this extra tariff applied only on short trips. It was also the intention of the recent legislature to modify the law so as to make it apply only to short trips. However, the amendment was never enacted and now the railroads of the state are going to tack on the additional 5 cents to both long and short hauls.

The Milwaukee railroad did increase its passenger rates after the passage of the Bendixen law. Others did not follow the example of the Milwaukee, their officials believing, possibly, that the legislature would amend the law at the recent session. The failure of the state legislative body to do so is responsible for the increases that are going into effect on state lines this month and on interstate lines next month.

HAYWOOD HAS PLAN FOR ONE BIG UNION

Washington, May 13.—Inquiry into the relations between capital and labor was continued today before the Federal industrial relations commission with William D. Haywood, secretary-treasurer of the Industrial Workers of the World, again on the witness stand.

Mr. Haywood had told the commission of an ideal era of freedom for which labor is striving which he described as a world in which one big union would control all means of production and in which there had been no such thing as "capital." This could be brought about, he said, only through implacable war between labor and capital ending with a great general strike and confiscation of the means of production.

Removes Hairy Growths Without Pain or Bother

(Modes of Today)

It is not necessary to use a painful process to remove hairy growths, for with a little delatone handy you can keep the skin entirely free from these beauty destroyers. To remove hair, make a stiff paste with a little powdered delatone and water. Spread this on the hairy surface and in about 2 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. To guard against disappointment, be careful to get real delatone.—Advertisement.

ON THE IRON RANGES

SETTLE PRAISES HIBBING SCHOOLS

National Playground Association Official Marvels at Excellence.

Hibbing, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Organized playground work in Hibbing only needs a competent supervisor to put it in equality with standard systems in the United States, according to S. T. Settle, field secretary of the Playground and Recreational association of America, who was in Hibbing yesterday. Mr. Settle and his wife were the guests of J. E. Lawler, secretary of the Commercial club, and C. C. Alexander, superintendent of schools, and were shown through the schools and about the village.

"Hibbing has sufficient playground apparatus," Mr. Settle said, "but should have a supervisor. The play should be organized and this is only possible through a director, who is thoroughly familiar with the work. All authorities on this are cognizant of the fact that playground training is one of the most important branches of child education. This is especially true in industrial cities where many people live on a small area.

Schools Far Advanced.

"Your schools are far advanced to those of most villages in the United States. I have visited nearly every village and city of this size in the union and believe that your indoor gymnasium and physical culture work is superior to that of any of those I have visited.

"I surely am impressed with Hibbing. Although your fine school system, parks and pavements cost money, it is evident that all these expenditures have returned dollar for dollar and none wasted. This kind of progressiveness is to be encouraged."

CALUMET, MINN., MAN NOW BEING TRIED

Facing Jury at Grand Rapids on Charge of Assault.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The case of the state of Minnesota vs. John Maki, commenced in district court yesterday forenoon, was finished early in the afternoon, and the jury, after being out only a few minutes, returned a verdict of guilty. Maki stole $40 from a companion, Charles Pajunen, in a local saloon on March 15 last, and was indicted by the last grand jury.

The case of the state vs. John Rokovena was then taken up. The jury has been selected and the state is putting in its testimony.

Rukoyena, in company with his brother, Tony Rukovcna, is accused of assault with intent to kill in a saloon brawl at Calumet, Minn., on Jan. 7 last, the victim of their attack having been one John Porchich, a fellow countryman. A club and a hatchet are alleged to have been used in the assault.

Deer River Man Sentenced.

Ed Holden, who was arrested last fall for picking the pockets of a drunken man at Deer River, appeared before Judge Stanton and entered a plea of guilty, and he was given a sentence of one year which was suspended on the condition that he take his presence out of the state and remain away.

Says Thin People Can Increase Weight

Food Alone Produces Fat, Says Noted Expert—How to Turn Food Into Healthy Flesh.

The reason that some people are chronically thin and under normal weight, says a noted authority, is because of a chronic leakage of the fat-making elements in their food. The assimilative functions of their stomach and intestines are not working properly. Only a small portion of the food nourishment of their meals ever reaches their blood—just enough perhaps to keep life within the body—the rest passes out as waste. The problem of gaining weight and flesh depends entirely therefore on a natural stopping of this dangerous waste of fats and the correction and repair of the organs of assimilation.

For those who wish to gain healthy flesh and put on from ten to twenty pounds of weight a single Sargol tablet taken at meals for a few weeks will almost invariably produce the desired effect. Sargol does not of itself build flesh, but, swallowed with your food, it acts upon every mouthful you eat, first separating all the fats, oils, sugars, starches and other flesh-making materials from the food waste and then preparing all the nourishing elements in a form which the blood can readily accept and distribute all over the body. Sargol stops the leakage of fats, keeps all the flesh-making materials within the body, allows only the worthless waste to leave it. It further repairs the faulty organs of assimilation, enabling them gradually to proportion, enabling them gradually to properly perform their natural functions so that the new found flesh "stays put." Sargol is not an experiment. Thousands have used it and proved it. Its action is natural and harmless and it is seldom indeed that it cannot produce an increase of from ten to twenty pounds of natural, healthy flesh on any person who is underweight. Boyce Drug Store and other druggists everywhere sell it with a positive guarantee of weight increase or money back as found in every package.

BUHL VILLAGE IS BEING BEAUTIFIED

Old, Dead Trees Being Pulled and Live Ones Planted.

Buhl, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—All the trees which have died on Buhl boulevards are being yanked from the ground and saplings planted.

This is only one of the many side line features being done by the village in its campaign to beautify the village. It is planned to plant several new trees. Sod, in many places between the sidewalk and gutter, is being laid while sowing of grass is being extensively carried on.

School Garden Work.

The school board has started men placing the two acres near the schoolhouse in condition for planting of gardens. The land is being plowed. An iron fence will be put around the entire plant. Tennis courts will also be smoothed while it is also planned to improve the ball diamond.

WOOD MAKES RAID NEAR STINGY LAKE

One Alleged Illegal Fisherman and Catch Are Taken.

Hibbing, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Game Warden Wood's fourth annual raid near Stingy lake, eighteen miles north of Hibbing, took place yesterday afternoon. He brought home with him 200 pounds of trout, black bass and crappies, which he alleges were seined by Al Arnold, who will be arraigned before Judge Brady. Wood confiscated one big black bass, which measured more than eighteen inches in length.

To "Hold Out" Chisholm Fine.

Arnold was fined $23.50 in the Chisholm municipal court on a similar charge last year. Yesterday, when Judge Masters of Chisholm heard that Arnold was arrested he told Wood to hold him and collect last year's fine from the prisoner or he would send him to the county work farm.

CITY OFFICIAL ENJOINED.

Two Harbors Mayor and Council Stopped From Carrying Out Contract.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Theodore G. Johnson, manager of the Journal-News of this city, yesterday had an injunction served upon the mayor, city council, city clerk and the city treasurer restraining them from contracting out the contract for the city printing which was let to Juls J. Anderson, editor of the Two Harbors Socialist, by the city council at a recent meeting. A hearing will be had in Duluth before Judge Bert Fesler on Saturday next, when the relator will move the court for an order directing the city officials to award the contract for the city printing to the Journal-News.

AURORA NIGHTLY DARK.

Breakdown of Machinery Puts Lighting System Out of Business.

Aurora, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Aurora is in nightly darkness as the result of a series of accidents to the electrical machinery here. Some time ago the boiler at the old plant went out of commission and it became necessary to get current from the new plant which is not yet completed. In starting the machine at the new plant the piston rod was bent and the packing blown out and efforts to temporarily repair the damage have failed and there will be no electric current here now until repairs are received.

The boiler at the old plant will not be in condition for several weeks and it will be Saturday or Sunday before the new plant can be repaired. In the meantime all power machinery in the village is idle and citizens are using lamps and candles for lights. This will not interfere with the play at the school Friday night as the schools have their own light plant.

WORK FOR MUSICIANS.

Oliver Iron Mining Company to Encourage Buhl Band.

Buhl, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Chauncey Mills, local band director, has made arrangements with the Oliver Mining company so that musicians who will play for the village can receive employment here. He said that the band is especially in need of two valve trombone and a clarinet player.

This announcement, it is expected, will help to a great extent, to build up the local organization.

Director Mills has announced a series of concerts which will be given following several more practices.

CHISHOLM COUNCIL MEETING NOT HELD

Chisholm, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Owing to the absence of Trustee Graham, who left Wednesday morning for a visit to the Pacific coast, and of Recorder Culver, who is spending the week in Virginia, the regular meeting of the council, which was to have been held Wednesday afternoon, was called off.

CHISHOLM BRIEFS.

Chisholm, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mabel Anderson, daughter of Contractor Gust Anderson, was taken to a Hibbing hospital late yesterday afternoon to undergo an operation for appendicitis.

Veterinary Surgeon Mason of Hibbing is inspecting local cows for tuberculosis.

The young ladies of the B. M. club will give a dance at the Chisholm opera house Sunday evening.

Local Eagles will assist the Eveleth aerie to make the coming state convention to be held in the latter city in June, a grand success. The Chisholm aerie will send their full membership to the convention dressed in natty white uniforms.

Trustee Graham left Wednesday morning for Portland, Or. He expects to be gone two weeks.

Walter Wye, for many years a resident of Chisholm, but now of Rice Lake, Wis., was in the village Monday. Mr. Wye is farming in Wisconsin.

Mrs. Mark L. Harris, assistant poor commissioner, has thanked the Loyal Order of Moose for their contribution of $10 per month for six months to aid the suffering poor of the village.

TWO HARBORS STREET WORK IS CONSIDERED

No Conclusion Reached By City Council as to Doing It.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council last night discussed street improvements in the north end of the city.

The streets being considered for improvement are Maple and Poplar from the north side of Seventh avenue to the south side of Eleventh avenue. There is also some talk of subgrading Eleventh avenue this year. A petition is being circulated among the property owners on Eleventh avenue and it is reported that it is receiving good support.

The property owners on Poplar and Maple streets appear to be in favor of having the work done this year. One-half the expense of improving these streets will be borne by the abutting property owners and the other half by the city.

City Engineer Morris estimates the cost of grading Poplar street will be approximately $1,800, which will also include twelve feet of crushed rock down the center of the street. The estimated cost of doing the same work on Maple street is approximately $2,000. The roadway on the both streets will be thirty feet wide.

Engineer Gives Views.

Engineer Morris told the council he was not in favor of putting only twelve feet of crushed rock on a thirty-foot wide street, as in his opinion, the job ought to be done right. The council, however, does not think that a heavy expense ought to be imposed on the property owners at this time and the matter was not settled. A hearing was set for the first meeting in June when all property owners interested in the grading of these two streets are requested to be present as definite action will be taken.

BY VIRGINIA M. B. A.

Notable Session of Organization Is Planned for May 28.

Virginia, Minn., May 13.—The Modern Brotherhood of America will hold one of the biggest celebrations in the local lodge's history Friday, May 28, at which Supreme President T. B. Hanley, Mason City, Iowa, A. L. Blatz, supreme secretary and State Manager W. E. Kinman of Minneapolis will be present. Members of the lodge from all range towns and Duluth will also attend. A class of ten candidates will be inducted into the order.

The committee on arrangements, of which E. F. Murray is chairman, is already making plans for the entertainment of the visitors. After the degree work, a banquet and dance will be given. At the banquet it is probable that Supreme President T. B. Hanley of Mason City will give a talk. Members of the local lodge and of the several range town and Duluth lodges will give short talks.

Mayor Michael Moylan and Senator O. H. Griggs will be asked to make addresses.

SOUDAN HUNTER FINED.

Arrested By Warden Wood for Illegally Killing Deer.

Biwabik, Minn., May 13.—John Prebe, miner from Soudan, pleaded guilty here before Justice Greene to killing deer during the closed season. He was given the alternative of a $50 fine or sixty days on the county work farm. He paid the fine, which with costs amounted to $53.

Prebe was arrested Monday by Game Warden George Wood of Hibbing. Wood secured a warrant and in searching the premises found one half of a deer, which he seized.

ELY'S BIG WATER TANK.

Actual Construction About Ready to Commence.

Ely, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Des Moines Bridge & Iron Works of Des Moines, Iowa, having the contract for constructing the new city water tank, will begin work soon. For the past month a gang of men have been blasting and clearing the land preparatory to the laying of the foundation.

The tank when completed will have a capacity of 300,000 gallons, which is 210,000 gallons more than the present tank.

The reservoir will be erected at the east end of the city south of the St. Croix Lumber company's headquarters.

IS HURT AT AURORA.

Man Found Badly Injured Alongside Iron Range Tracks.

Aurora, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles Kaullo, a Finn, was found alongside of the Iron Range railroad tracks here yesterday morning badly injured and taken to the Aurora hospital where his condition is considered hopeless. No one knows how the accident happened. He was badly bruised up and it is difficult for the physician to tell just how badly he is hurt as he must be handled so carefully. It is likely that his back is broken and that he has numerous internal injuries. Kaullo said Frank Koukku, a brother-in-law living at Hibbing, is the only relative he has in this country.

Two Harbors Funeral.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Mrs. Frank Engstrom was held this afternoon from the Swedish Lutheran church at 2 o'clock. Interment was made in the Two Harbors cemetery. A large number of friends of the deceased from out of the city arrived this morning for the funeral.

SOAP IS BAD FOR THE HAIR

Soap should be used very sparingly, if at all, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and greaseless). is cheaper and better than soap or anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at any pharmacy, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.—Advertisement.

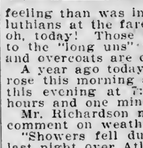
RAIN



For variety in weather, the last few days have few equals and no superiors. First there was rain and thunder storms, yesterday morning was equal to any June or July brand that could be thought of, and shortly after noon it was "good-by summer." Tosti's famous song contained no more feeling than was in the breasts of Duluthians at the farewell. And today—oh, today! Those who have switched to the "long uns" wished they hadn't, and overcoats are decidedly an fad.

A year ago today was fine. The sun rose this morning at 4:33 and will set this evening at 7:34, giving fifteen hours and one minute of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Showers fell during Wednesday or last night over Atlantic, Northern and Pacific districts. Heavy rainfalls occurred at Tampa, Fla., Charleston, S. C., New York, and Alpena, Mich. Cooler weather prevails in the lake region and Upper Mississippi valley; elsewhere the temperature has generally risen. Temperatures of 90 deg. or higher occurred Wednesday in South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri and Kansas."

It is alleged that Lofbacka, a contractor, while erecting the house for the plaintiff defaulted on the job and the plaintiff finished it. Afterwards he learned of a mechanics' lien being filed against the property and he sued the contractor and his bondsman, Ober, for the amount paid in settlement of these claims.

Selma Milan today started suit for divorce against her husband, Frank Milan, to whom she was married here in 1912, alleging desertion. She claims he left her in 1914. THREE BROTHERS ARE CLUBBED TO DEATH

Bodies Found By Neighbor on Farm Near Lowry, Minn.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 13.—The bodies of three brothers were found last night on their farm near Lowry, 100 miles west of here. They had been dead for three days having been murdered by being clubbed to death.

They were JOHN MITTONES.
ANUND MITTONES.
STREN MITTONES.

The bodies were found by John Christianson, a neighbor. One was lying near the barn, and the other two were in the kitchen of the house. Evidences of a struggle were found.

Sheriff Starts Posse.

Sheriff Gilbertson of Pope county immediately organized a small posse and started on the hunt of the slayer. Aid was asked of the Minneapolis police department, and two detectives were sent there today.

FARMERS REALIZED MONEY IN WINTER

Floodwood Parties Clear $60,000 Selling Timber From Their Lands.

Floodwood, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The farmers in this district realized from their last winter's wood about $60,000. The "crop" was in shape of hardwood bolts, pulpwood and balsam timber, taken from land that several years ago was considered barren of any marketable timber and known as the cut-over land.

The National Woodenware company alone has paid out over $30,000 to local farmers for hardwood bolts while the other local dealers and merchants paid out the remainder for pulpwood, balsam and cordwood. Considerable pulpwood is still piled along the Great Northern railway tracks awaiting shipment to paper mills, and about 1,500,000 feet of lumber in bolts is stored in local yards for the National Woodenware company to be shipped as needed at its plant in Hill City.

Help Actual Settlers.

Owing to the depressed condition that existed last fall and winter, the company was compelled to place a limit on the amount of timber it would accept and instructed its local purchasing agents, Garfield, Blackwood & Co., to absolutely refuse timber cut from lands bought for stumpage or speculative purposes, and to enter into no contract, excepting with actual settlers who wished to clear lands which would be used for farming purposes. This gave the settlers a chance to sell their timber at a very fair price, instead of burning it, and had hastened them to clear their lands.

Miss Taylor found conditions both in Grand Forks and East Grand Forks exceptionally satisfactory. Her survey was made under direction of the Grand Forks Y. W. C. A.

PALE BEAUTY FADES

The girl who comes home from school or shop tired out every day may be beautiful but she will soon fade. She will be fortunate if she escapes a physical breakdown because the case with which she tires is probably the first warning symptom of a thinning of the blood that cannot be disregarded.

Thin blood may give an attractive pallor for a short time but soon the patient becomes thin, flat-chested, haggard and angular. The only beauty that endures is that of rich, red blood shining through a transparent skin.

Almost any girl can build up her blood by using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They are useful to growing girls, to pale girls, thin girls and those who get tired or out of breath easily. Mothers of such girls should see to it that the tendency to anemia is checked by the uss of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills before the trouble becomes chronic.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will build up the blood if anything will. They are free from opiates or harmful drugs and can be taken with perfect safety by anyone. Your own druggist sells them so you can begin the treatment at once. A helpful booklet, "Building Up the Blood" will be sent you free on request by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

WHITE FLAGS QUITE NUMEROUS IN POLK

Indicate Farm Homes Favor Making County Dry May 24.

East Grand Forks, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Wet pro-license forces operating in Polk county, seeking to stave off county option, on which the electors will ballot May 24, are finding their task of country campaigning full of difficulties.

White flags, bearing the legend:

"This is a Dry Farm," float from the homes of many of the farmers—and are designed to warn away any workers for the saloons.

That the flags are exceptionally prevalent throughout the rural districts, is the word brought in by the workers—and they have few places, indeed, where they can do any very effective work.

The outlook, option forces declare, is for the success of the option movement, by which East Grand Forks and Crookston will be made dry.

Kelliher Beats Blackduck.

MOST STATE LAND IN KOOCHICHING

One-Third of State's Holding in Northern County.

International Falls, May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—State Auditor J. A. O. Preus and Theodore Nelson conducted the monthly sale of state lands here Tuesday. About 2,000 acres were disposed of. Mr. Preus told those present interesting and valuable facts in connection with land in this state. He said that one-third of all the land owned by the state is in Koochiching county and that he is anxious to put the land on the market that it might produce crops and aid in paying its share toward the upkeep of the county and state.

He further stated that three appraisers, Mike Emlaw as representative of the governor, Mr. Beagle for the state auditor and Mr. Hanscomb for the county, would go into the field at an early date and prepare the land to be thrown open to settlers. He requested that every person interested in a piece of land in the county leave a description of it with the county auditor and this land would be the first to be appraised and put on the market.

Sections 16, 70 and 34 were reserved for state experiment farm purposes.

SUSPICIOUS BLAZE IN LUMBER PLANT

Yards of Concern at International Falls Are Threatened.

International Falls, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire of supposedly incendiary origin for a time threatened the lumber yards of the International Lumber company, here Tuesday night. At about 10:45 p. m. fire under a large pile of tamarack planks was discovered by the night watchman and the alarm sounded. The fire department responded rapidly and after stretching over 1,000 feet of hose in almost utter darkness a heavy stream was played on the flames and further damage prevented.

It is generally believed here that the fire was set by some one who was so unscrupulous as to attempt to destroy all the lumber on hand in order to hasten the starting of the mill, which has not yet opened. About 8 o'clock a fire of seemingly large proportions was seen in Fort Frances and it appeared to be in the lumber yard there, but later it was found to have been a tract of brush and grass which burned off near the depot.

The distribution of the pike fry is under the supervision of Game Warden S. C. Bailey of this city. According to Mr. Bailey the hatchery has been a decided success and will be the means of stocking many lakes in this vicinity annually in the future. Mr. Bailey said that it is probable that the hatchery may be used to hatch white-fish next fall. The whitefish begin to spawn late in September and it is probable that the hatchery will be operated until November of each year should the proposition prove a success.

Annual Report of Work of North Dakota Children's Home Society.

Fargo, N. D., May 13.—The twenty-fourth annual meeting of the North Dakota Children's Home society was held at the Receiving Home here with a very fair attendance of the board of directors.

The principal business was to hear the annual reports of officers, and to elect a class of ten directors for the ensuing term of three years.

The following members of the expiring class were re-elected to succeed themselves:

Mrs. T. R. Sloane, E. J. Weiser, Herbert L. Loomis, Dr. J. G. Dillon and Mrs. E. J. Weiser, Fargo; Hon. Grant S. Hager, Grafton; Mrs. T. H. Cousins, Carrington; Hon. C. R. Meredith, Casselton; John Orchard, Dickinson, and Rev. Fred J. Hibbard, Langdon.

To Succeed J. W. Foley.

To fill a vacancy caused in the class expiring in 1918 by the removal of J. W. Foley from the state, Prof. Fred Hinkle, principal of the public schools at Clyde, N. D., was elected. There were no other changes in the board of directors, the board of medical advisers, or the board of legal counsellors.

CALUMET & HECLA WILL GIVE BONUS

$500,000 to Be Distributed Among Employes Making Up Wage Loss.

Calumet, Mich., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Calumet & Hecla Mining company officials announce the voluntary gift of $500,000 to the company's 10,000 employes, including those of the subsidiary companies, the Ahmeek, Allouez, Centennial, Osceola Consolidated, Tamarack, La Salle, Laurium, Isle Royale and Superior Copper mining companies to be made all in one payment on June 11.

Each employe, miner, trammer, surface man, mill and smelter man, office man and all others, will receive what he lost through the reduction of wages and the curtailment of operations by these companies because of the copper depression and partial suspension of mining when the declaration of the European war last August caused copper to fall to 11 cents per pound. The reason for making this disbursement to the employes is that the companies are now enjoying unprecedented prosperity with copper selling above 20 cents. The wages of these companies were cut Sept. 1, 1914, 10 per cent and salaries were cut 15 per cent, operations being reduced to 60 per cent and thousands of men being laid off.

Big Copper Demand.

After January 1, when the demand for copper metal strengthened, mining operations were gradually brought back to normal and on May 1 wages and salaries were fully restored. Since February all copper companies in the district have enjoyed the best market for copper since 1907, and all are earning profits sufficient, in the minds of the directors of the Calumet & Hecla and the nine allied companies, who suggested this gift, to warrant such a disbursement, although dividends were cut off during the depression and shareholders suffered without hope of making up their losses.

Some employes will gain as much as $200 each through the disbursement, miners here earning from $75 to $150 monthly and those on contract often making more, but each man's losses during the depression will be fully made up.

COURT DISMISSES CARY INDICTMENT

Grand Jury That Found Against Barnesville Man Apparently Prejudiced.

Fergus Falls, Minn., May 13.—On the showing made by counsel for Francis C. Cary, former Barnesville banker and potato dealer, that the indictment returned against him alleging his having misused the funds of the bank, was found by a prejudiced grand jury, Judge Page Morris in Federal court here dismissed the indictment.

Cary, who now lives in Minneapolis and was present in court when the ruling was announced, was promptly rearrested and released on $10,000 bonds pending the next grand jury.

The jury in the case of John E. Hanson, charged with bringing a girl from Canada, disagreed and was discharged after being out twenty-six hours. Court here has adjourned.

HOW TO PREVENT ACID STOMACHS AND FOOD FERMENTATION

By a Stomach Specialist.

As a specialist who has spent many years in the study and treatment of stomach troubles, I have been forced to the conclusion that most people who complain of stomach trouble possess stomachs that are absolutely healthy and normal. The real trouble, that which causes all the pain and difficulty, is excessive acid in the stomach, aggravated by food fermentation. Hyperacidity irritates the delicate lining of the stomach and food fermentation causes wind, which distends the stomach abnormally, causing that full, bloated feeling. Thus both acid and fermentation interfere with and retard the process of digestion. The stomach is usually healthy and normal, but irritated almost past endurance by these foreign elements—acid and wind. In all such cases—and they comprise over 90 per cent of all stomach difficulties—the first and only step necessary is to neutralize the acid and stop the fermentation by taking in a little warm or cold water immediately after eating, from one to two teaspoonfuls of bisurated magnesia, which is doubtless the best and only really effective antacid and food corrective known. The acid will be neutralized and the fermentation stopped almost instantly, and your stomach will at once proceed to digest the food in a healthy, normal manner. Be sure to ask Bonoe Drug Store, 321 West Superior Street, or any druggist for the bisurated magnesia, as I have found other forms utterly lacking in its peculiarly valuable properties.—F. J. G.

Don't Ever Rub Your Eyes

Use "Benetol" as an Eye Wash, Not Only Soothing and Cleansing, But Kills Every Germ That May Have Been Blown or Rubbed In.

The hands or gloves collect untold billions of germs. Some may be harmless, others dangerously poisonous when brought into contact with the eyeball or eyelids. When you come home from auto riding and your eyes burn from the dust and wind—or when they smart from any cause—don't rub them. Give them a cooling, healing, bath with a mild solution of "Benetol."

Soothing, Cleansing, Antiseptic.

This is only one of hundreds of uses for this wonderful antiseptic and germicide. The sooner you learn of this most remarkable preparation, the better will be your health and general welfare.

As a gargle it cures sore throat, as a mouth wash it keeps the teeth free from tartar, cures pyorrhea and keeps the gums healthy and free from disease, as a nasal cleanser it cures catarrhal conditions, applied to cuts and burns it heals and makes infection impossible, and taken internally it keeps the bowels, kidneys and liver pure, sterilized and free from germ life.

For children and grown-ups it is alike harmless both internally and externally, yet as a destroyer of disease germs it is more powerful than even pure carbolic acid.

Never before in the history of medicine has such a preparation been known. "Benetol" is sold by druggists in 25c, 50c and $1.00 packages. Send for our trial assortment of "Benetol" liquid, ointment and tooth cream.

This trial assortment is not to be had from stores and is sent direct on receipt of 10 cents (silver or stamps) only to those who have never tried "Benetol."

Made only by the Benetol company, 130 Benetol building, Minneapolis, Minn.

Sold, recommended and guaranteed in Duluth by all druggists and leading drug stores everywhere.

SCARCITY OF BASEBALL STARS MAY CAUSE PEACE

Federal League Cannot Find High Class Players to Fill the Ranks of the Teams, Because They Are Not to Be Had—Willard Will Have to Fight Coffey—Havana Writers Pan Jack Curley.

BY BRUCE.

PUTTING the thing simply and sententiously, there are not enough baseball players to go around. Money is the impelling motive in this industrial age and it was money that moved the men behind the Feds to organize a league. The Federal league has been in serious existence for a little more than a season and it has been discovered that the real big league ball players are not to be had—because they "ain't."

A lad makes a great name on the ball field of some village. For miles around he is looked upon as a wonder. Visions of Kelly, Anson, Gore, Dalrymple are conjured up in the superheated imaginations of the followers of the bucolic star.

Maybe he gets a big league trial. Citizens of the little cross roads town and of the country for miles around anxiously await news of the first big hit of the wonder. The chances are that their hopes will be blasted, and their enthusiasm turned to the cold ashes of earth by the obscure announcement that the wonder has been given his unconditional release after a short trial.

Some big league philosopher once muttered a few crisp words about many coming and few remaining.

Baseball is played on every street corner, in every alley, on every vacant lot, on the roofs of tall buildings of our crowded cities and in every village and hamlet of our great country—and out of the four million or five million men and boys playing the game it seems quite impossible to cull real players sufficient to keep three big leagues going.

Today the Federal league presents the somewhat farcical appearance of a few stars being supported by a horde of mediocre performers. Several big league baseball critics strongly assert that it will not require much of a team to win the pennant in the National. The American does not present the strength of several seasons back.

In your enthusiasm for your little league perhaps you have spotted a blooming star. The scout of the big league club came along in due season, ever on the tireless hunt for material.

Eager to air your knowledge of the game, perhaps anxious to render a real service to the young player in question, you went to the scout and told him that there was a wonder hiding his light under a bushel, a diamond in the rough. Blooie! like that your hopes are shattered.

"That boob couldn't hit a curve ball with a barn door," says the scout, and his lip curls in scorn. "Say, he pulls away from a curve a mile. Friend, there's about one real ball player in this here league—and he's too old to go up."

Thus are hopes crushed to lowly earth. The wonder you fondly conjured up was looked at but once by the scout.

Yessir—the men behind the Federal league thought first of the money there was in baseball. They plunged in where angels of more subtler experience would have feared to tread. The Feds have not found the modern golden fleece that Jason hiked after in the early dollar days. Why? Because the magnates of the Federal league have not the goods of quality to sell to the public.

Baseball is a commercial game. It can be compared in a vague manner to merchandising. If a merchant has a shoddy line of goods he cannot expect the public to patronize his emporium. The Feds have not an up to date line of baseball goods.

It would require a deep student to analyze the present situation. The amusement game as a whole is being revolutionized. Ask any smart theatrical man and he will throw his hands aloft and shrug his shoulders. Some of the big baseball men are frankly nonplussed. This talk of peace must be taken seriously. When business men are losing a lot of money, something is going to happen. Good business men do not pursue a money-losing policy blindly or without seeking a redress or an adjustment of conditions.

Therefore if the forces of organized baseball and the integral part of the Federal league should be amalgamated, don't gasp with surprise, Bill. Amalgamation is the trend of the age. The good towns will get good baseball; the others can fend along as best they may.

What They Say in Gotham.

REALIZING perhaps that the Duluth Herald covers a wide field (see circulation statement). Billy Gibson, the manager of Jim Coffey, has taken the trouble to send to this column comments of all of the prominent sporting writers of New York regarding the victory of Coffey over Al Reich.

All of the reputable and competent writers of boxing laud the young Irishman and predict that he is the most logical man to meet Willard. Therefore look for a meeting between Coffey and the new heavyweight champion some time next fall.

Coffey has the sporting press behind him—his claims cannot long be denied by the syndicate behind Willard.

Another little matter for your contemplation—Willard will have to fight before the lapse of a very great length of time. The reason is one of the most simple in the world—the gangling champion is not getting the coin.

Willard's tour came to an ignominious termination in Minneapolis. Now the big Kansan is riding a horse in the parade and assisting in the ballyhoo of a wild west show.

Again let us reiterate that the present amusement age is a complex and mystifying one. You never can tell.

Those behind Willard declared that he would make a million in a year. Jack Curley went so far as to send out figures to the various writers of the country. His estimate was published in this paper.

If those qualified by ripe experience to express an authoritative statement can be taken seriously, Willard is far from the million-dollar mark. The people want to see him fight. Somehow all of the followers of the game are not satisfied that Jess is a wonder. Let him get out and fight. As an actor this Willard person is a shine.

A Word From "Cush" Rice.

CAPTAIN CUSHMAN A. RICE, an adventurer on the byaths of many lands, a gentleman who was in Duluth a year ago and kicked up some local dust for a few days, mailed a Havana postcard to this department the other day. In a heavy pencil-marked enclosure is a story of denunciation of Jack Curley and some of those associated with him in the promoting of the Havana scrap.

Several other exchanges of several cities of the United States are carrying stories sent from the island with the idea of knocking Curley and Harry Frazee. The article sent here was signed by various Havana sporting writers; the matter sent to other papers was also prepared by both English and Cuban writers.

All of this leads one to the opinion that big Jack got in rather bad in the little island of Cuba.

WOULD SUSPEND RACING.

House of Commons Members Memorializing Jockey Club.

London, May 13.—A movement looking to the abolition of all horse racing until the end of the war, has been started privately in the house of commons. As legislation to bring about a cessation of the sport might be attended with difficulties, the parliamentary leaders have suggested the preparation of a memorial to the jockey club asking that body to prohibit all race meetings. The memorial was signed by a large number of the members of the house of commons of all political affiliations, last night.

WHITE SOX LOSE AGAIN

St. Boniface Chefs Defeat O'Brien's Troopers By 5-to-1 Score.

The Sox Gather But Three Widely Scattered Blows.

St. Boniface, Man., May 13.—The Chefs had an easy time with the Duluth White Sox yesterday, winning the contest by the score of 5 to 1. Three widely scattered blows were accumulated by the visitors. Leahy and Posten failed to hold the locals in check.

As in the previous game the hitting of Catcher Spellman was the decided feature. The receiver cracked out a homer and triple. Fast fielding marked the contest, the outfielders for both teams making some nice plays.

It was announced here yesterday that no more Sunday baseball would be permitted in St. Boniface. The baseball officials tried to evade the law by taking up a collection instead of selling tickets.

Fargo, N. D., May 13.—Fargo defeated Fort William here yesterday by the score of 3 to 2 in a fourteen-inning contest. Dumont, for the locals hurled a great game. THE GIANTS MISS FRED MERKLE

FRED MERKLE.

With Fred Merkle out of the game the infield of the Giants is handicapped. The big first sack guardian, despite the fact that he has been branded as a bonehead, is a great ball player and his absence is making a difference in both the defensive and offensive strength of McGraw's machine.

DOOKS SIGN AN INFIELDER

Third Baseman Has Been Secured; Rumor Says Forks May Quit.

H. A. Blume today received a wire from Darby O'Brien which stated the Dook had secured a new third baseman on an optional agreement. The name of the player is omitted from the message. Blume has no idea who the new member of the squad may be.

Herr Blume stated today that in the event of Frank Hoffman being able to show him that he is a free agent, a contract will be offered the former Oshkosh hurler.

The matter of Hoffman's baseball status has been taken up with Secretary Farrell. A decision is expected to be reached within a few days.

Blume or local fans cannot understand the news coming out of Grand Forks to the effect that the directors of the club there are disappointed in the attendance and are willing to dispose of the club.

If there is talk of a falling attendance in the Northern league thus early in the season, it argues ill for baseball in the circuit during the remainder of the season.

Peculiar stories have been emanating from Grand Forks all spring. Maybe this is another—and maybe there is some truth in it. A transfer of a team at the very start of the season would prove a rather bad move. Another thing, a move to Brandon would necessitate a shifting of the schedule.

BOARDMAN TO PITCH FOR ST. BONIFACE TEAM.

RITCHIE-WELSH PICTURES BARRED

Federal Judge Interprets "Boxing Match" as Prize Fight.

New York, May 13.—Federal Judge Hough handed down a decision yesterday holding that the admission into the United States of the moving picture film of the lightweight championship fight between Ritchie and Freddie Welsh in London, England, last July, would be a violation of the Federal law.

Judge Hough held that although the fight may have been classed as a boxing match in England and in this state, it was within the technical meaning of the term prizefight or pugilistic encounter and, therefore, came within the scope of the Sims law excluding moving pictures of such contests.

KENNEDY TO ENTER MEET

Vaudeville Star Will Compete in Open American Golf Championship.

Jack Kennedy, a vaudeville star who is here the present week, playing at the Orpheum, will enter the national open American golf championship tournament this season, according to the announcement made yesterday. The actor man is a real player, having competed with the best professionals in the East for the last few years. In the open championship play, professionals and amateurs compete. Some of the stars Kennedy will measure his stroke with will be performers of the stellar hue of Harry Vardon, the famous English professional; Tom Ray, Francis Ouimet, Jerome Travers, Chick Evans, Hagen and scores of other prominent competers from all parts of the country.

This year's national will be held over the links of the Baltusrol, N. J., club. The date is June 15 to 18, and it is expected that the greatest entry list of competitors that ever left the home tee will be in the play.

Mr. Kennedy has been keeping in steady practice for the big event since early in the present season. At the close of his theatrical tour the actor-golfist plans to go East and start real training for the big event.

SEMI-PROS BREAK OVER FRANK BAKER

Interstate Association Disrupted Because He Is Allowed to Play.

Philadelphia, May 13.—The playing of J. Franklin Baker, who failed to report to the Philadelphia Americans this season, on the Upland team of the Delaware County league, resulted yesterday in the disruption of the Interstate Association of Baseball Leagues.

When the association, which was organized as a sort of a national commission for the semi-professional and amateur baseball players in this vicinity, voted 9 to 7 in favor of allowing Baker to play in the Delaware County league, Joseph P. Rogers, the president, and James M. Daley, the secretary, resigned, and three of the affiliated leagues withdrew from the association.

President Hackney of the Philadelphia Suburban league, who entered the protest against Baker, declared that the playing of a "contract jumper" was a violation of one of the cardinal principles of the association.

He was sustained by President Rogers, who declared that to permit Baker to play would be contrary to the spirit of sportsmanship and fair play which the association had been organized to instill into the minds of young ball players.

MAY GOLF SCHEDULE OF NORTHLAND CLUB ISSUED

First Medal Play Match of the Season Carded for Saturday; Official Opening Is Set for May 29; Great Year Is Looked For.

On Saturday of the present week the first scheduled golf event of the present season will be played over the links of the Northland club. The affair will be single club handicap, 18 holes, the match to be played with a single club, the player to make the choice of the club. The first prize will go to the lowest score with the wooden club, the second prize going to the lowest score with the iron club.

The match is a unique one and is arousing considerable interest among the players of the club. The fact that there is a medal up for the winner makes the competition the more interesting.

On May 22 there will be a medal play handicap of 18 holes. The contest will be a ball sweepstakes event, the entrance fee to be one golf ball, the winner to take 50 per cent of the ball stake, the second lowest player 30 per cent and the third, 20 per cent.

Memorial Day Opening.

The official opening of the season is set for May 29. There will be a Memorial day medal play handicap of 18 holes. It is expected that this event will bring out the largest field of the early season.

With the announcement of the golf program for the present month, comes also the prediction by John L. Mullin of the games committee that the present season will be one of the best in the history of the country club.

There are a number of the younger players who are going in strongly for the game this spring, and with the links of the club much improved since last year, everything points to a great season.

Have Been Practicing.

Players have been out on the green for over a month. The majority of the steady players are in excellent condition at the present time, so that the first game of the season will furnish some real sport.

While the May program is all that has been planned to date, it is said that some real feature events have been planned for the Northland links during the season, and that a series of match games between some of the cracks of the Northwest may be held here.

ROWING RACES CARDED FOR SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Eights, Fours and Scullers Will Compete; Forrestal Lost to Senior Eight; New Oars Are Badly Needed.

Rowing contests between the two junior eights, two bantam fours, mixed eights, and a sculling contest between Grant and Kent and Hoover and Horak will feature the Duluth Boat club regatta of Saturday afternoon.

The first event of the program is scheduled to start at 5 o'clock. All of the events will be over a mile and a quarter course.

Forrestal has been lost to the senior eight. This leaves but three men on the port side of the boat—that is three experienced candidates. The leaving of Forrestal again revives the question: Shall the boat club enter a senior eight in the national this season? Ten Eyck is undecided. In a manner the question has also been put up to the oarsmen and the members of the club.

If Duluth stands a chance of copping off some sculling events and several other races, would it be policy to concentrate efforts on the senior eight?

When all arguments have been heard, pro and con, it all comes back to the fact that the senior race is the big event of the regatta and the event that a lot of ranking is made on.

If Whiteside and Osman return, some of the problems of Ten Eyck will be lifted. Wallace Quimby chose a bad year to quit rowing. Maybe they will strong-arm the red-head and drag him out to the boat one of these nights.

New Oars Needed.

One old oar was broken yesterday and another early today. New oars are needed, as the men are handicapped with the present scarcity of blades.

Can you imagine rowing at 6 o'clock on a morning like the present one. Again let us repeat, it is a hard life.

Progress is being made with the members of the big squad. Every week shows some real improvement. The men are down to real work, and with the passing of the stinging cold it is expected that some time trials will be started.

Havana, Cuba, May 13.—That the holding of prizefights in Cuba is legal, was decided yesterday by the supreme court. The court rendered this decision in dismissing a test complaint against Governor Bustillo of Havana on an indictment charging that he was

THE GOOD JUDGE READS BUT DOESN'T HEED THE WARNING.

PAL, I WOULDN'T PICK THE JUDGE'S POCKET, BUT IF YOU GET ANY REAL TOBACCO CHEW, WE SPLIT 50-50.
THAT'S ALL RIGHT CULLY! HE'D GIVE IT TO US BUT I DON'T LIKE TO ASK HIM FOR IT.

A MIGHTY mean man who will swipe the Real Tobacco Chew. Easy enough to ask—and everybody knows that users are glad to tell other men about the Real Tobacco Chew.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough—cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

THE REAL TOBACCO CHEW IS NOW CUT TWO WAYS!! W-B CUT IS LONG SHRED. RIGHT-CUT IS SHORT SHRED.

Take less than one-quarter the old size chew. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just take a nibble of it until you find the strength chew that suits you, then see how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end. The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up. An excess of licorice and sweetening makes you spit too much.

"Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste."

Leakless Inner Tubes

Goodyear Laminated Tubes
Built Layer on Layer—Extra Thick

Here is something every motorist should know.

Goodyear Laminated Tubes are built of many thin layers—each of pure rubber—vulcanized together. No flaw can be hidden as in a thick piece of rubber. It is seen and eliminated. Every layer is perfect.

Such a Tube can't leak. And our valve patch can't leak, because it is part of the Tube and not stuck on.

Remember that. Many a tire trouble is due to leaky Tubes.

14% Heavier

Goodyear Laminated Tubes are extra heavy. They have always outworn any tire. But this year we have added 14 per cent to their average thickness—all pure rubber.

And our Tube prices this year are reduced 20 per cent. So these layer Tubes, extra-thick, now cost about the same as others.

Always Gray

Goodyear Laminated Tubes are not colored. They are gray—the natural pure rubber color. Color requires a large percentage of mineral adulteration. And minerals hold heat, a Tube's worst enemy.

Whatever tires you use, get Goodyear Tubes. They will outlast your tires, save you leaks and trouble. They will also convert you to Goodyear Fortified Tires, built by the same high standards.

Any dealer will supply you. (2376)

ECZEMA COVERED CHILDREN'S HEADS

Broke Out in Blisters. So Bad Could Hardly Bear To Wash Heads. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Children Were Healed.

Gilchrist, Mich.—"My two children were covered all over their heads with sore eruption which I was told was eczema. It broke out in blisters; a patch as large as a quarter would break out and on top of the sore was a scale. I cut the hair as near down to the head as I could when the first eruption broke out. The eruption was so bad I could hardly bear to wash their heads and there was not a spot as large as a pin on the head that was not broken out.

"I shampooed their hair, then rubbed the Cuticura Ointment on. After I had used the sample I bought one box of Ointment and one cake of Soap and I had not used all of them when the eruption had dried up and my children were healed." (Signed) Mrs. John Rolston, August 6, 1914.

FOR POLISH WAR VICTIMS

Formation of American Relief Committee Is Now Being Perfected.

Ignace Paderewski, the Pianist, Issues Appeal to American People.

New York, May 13.—Ignace Jan Paderewski, the pianist, who has come to America to organize the work which is being carried on here for the relief of Polish victims of the war, hopes to be able shortly to announce the personel of a national American relief committee. He has been seeking as members prominent men and women throughout the country who will consolidate the work of the several Polish relief comimittees already organized whose means thus far have been sufficient to relieve but a limited number of sufferers.

Mr. Paderewski issued the following appeal:

"The present European was is, on the eastern front, raging exclusively over Polish soil. It is sweeping away every sign of civilization, destroying dwellings, devastating fields, gardens and forests, starving and exterminating human beings and animals alike. An area equal in size to the state of New York and Pennsylvania has been laid waste. Two hundred towns, 1,400 churches, 7,500 villages have been completely ruined. The losses in property destroyed, and in agricultural, industrial and commercial production brought to an absolute standstill, amount to $2,500,000,000.

Millions Need Assistance.

"A total of 18,000,000 inhabitants, including nearly 2,000,000 Jews, are continuously enduring the horrors of this gigantic struggle. Very few only could flee to the places which are still holding their own against the aggressors; the great majority, almost 11,000,000 of helpless women and children, homeless peasants, unemployed workmen, the very essence and strength of a nation, have been driven out into the open. Thousands and thousands are hiding among ruins, in woods or in hollows; feeding on roots and on the bark of trees.

"To provide an immediate aid to this almost incredible number of sufferers, to concentrate the efforts of all who may be touched by so appalling a distress, a general Polish relief committee has been formed on a neutral soil, in Lausanne, Switzerland. The president of that committee is the greatest of Poland's living sons, Henryk Sienkiewicz, the writer; its members are all men of high standing, universally respected, representing the three parts of ancient Poland, all united by the one desire to lessen the sufferings of our countrymen without distinction of race religion, or political opinion.

Poland Is Ruined.

"Unfortunately, though well organized, having its agencies in every part of the country, our committee could accomplish comparatively little towards the succoring of a whole nation. The funds put into our hands were extremely modest. Poland has nothing more to give, for she is ruined, and the interest and sympathy of other countries are totally absorbed by other worthy causes.

"A few Polish relief committees have been organized in this country, but, however noble are the hearts of the organizers, however great the generosity of their supporters, the means so far collected will relieve but a very limited number of sufferers. And there are millions of families helpless, hungry, sick succumbing.

"In the face of such a disaster individual efforts must remain inefficient. Only a great wave of mankind's pity can surmount so immense a wave of human misery.

"Only a great, enlightened, generous nation can help effectually our perishing multitudes.

Appeals to Americans.

"Nobody knows better than I do the kindness and generosity of the American people. Ardent and prompt, warm-hearted, free-minded, they always respond with the enthusiasm of youth to everything that is true, sincere.

"Is there anything more true than human pain?

"Is there anything more sincere than the cry for help from those who suffer?

"In the name of Christian charity, in the name of common humanity, I, therefore, appeal to the great American people. They have already given much to other stricken nations; they may be tired of giving; yet I am certain that there is no soul in this noble country who will condemn me for asking, even before our thirst for liberty is relieved.

"Some bread for the Polish women and children!

"Some seed for the Polish farmers!

Frank A. Vanderlip of the National City bank of this city has consented to act as honorary treasurer of the fund. Contributions may be sent to the Polish Victims' Relief Fund, care of the National City bank, New York, or to the already existing Polish relief funds in New York, Boston and Philadelphia.

Losses Are Heavy.

Geneva, Switzerland, May 13.—A dispatch from Cracow to the Journal De Geneve says that the losses of the Austrians and Germans since May 1, amount to 165,000 officers and men. Losses of the Russians in prisoners are placed at 50,000.

The dispatch says the Russians are holding firmly the principal strategic positions and that both sides are getting heavy reinforcements.

The Doctor's Advice
by Dr. Lewis Baker

Worried Man writes: "Let me say that my condition puzzles and worries me. In the last year I seem to have been growing old rapidly, though only 38. My food and sleep do not recuperate my strength and energy, and lately I have dizzy spells, trembling, headaches, loss of appetite, memory and hopelessness. Despondency and worry over my condition are ever present."

Answer: Cheer up, get well and then conserve your vitality by proper, temperate living. Obtain three grain cadomene tablets in sealed tubes with full directions, use them and an agreeable, pleasing restoration should ensue to your satisfaction.

Mrs. L. C. B. asks: "Do you think it is possible to reduce my weight from 240 pounds to about 190 pounds?"

Answer: It is impossible to say just how much one can reduce until after trying, but 5-grain arbolone tablets should be used according to directions with each sealed tube, obtainable at most any drug store. If the flesh is unnatural you should easily reduce as desired.

Mrs. L. B. writes: "What can I do for a bad case of stomach, liver and bowel trouble? My food sours in stomach, I rift, have heart-burn, and a full, uncomfortable feeling after meals; constipated at intervals, coated tongue and bad breath all the time."

Answer: Thousands of people in this country are afflicted as you are, and to get immediate relief and gradually effect permanent results, I advise you to buy of your druggist a dollar package of "double-four stomach and bowel medicine" and use as per directions on the packet.

J. R. O. asks: "I am thin, angular, weak and tired. What can I take to improve my health, strengthen my nerves and increase my weight about 20 pounds?"

Answer: Take regularly with your meals three grain hypo-nuclane tablets, sold in sealed packages, by druggists, with complete directions. These tablets improve the blood, increase nutrition and strengthen the nervous system if used regularly for several months.

"Lee" writes: "I have tried so many remedies for rheumatism that I am almost afraid to try any more, but if you can tell me a sure remedy I will try it."

Answer: Do not be disheartened because you have not been able to find something that would overcome your rheumatism, for you can be relieved if you will take what I tell you. Get from the drugstore: Iodide of potassium, 2 drams; sodium salicylate, 4 drams; wine of colchicum, ½ oz., comp. fluid blamwort, 1 oz.; comp. essence cardiol, 1 oz., and syrup of sarsaparilla, 5 ozs. Mix and take a teaspoonful at mealtime and again before going to bed.

C. L. asks: "I have tried to cure dandruff, itching scalp, falling hair and baldness with numerous tonics, etc., but in vain. What do you recommend?"

Answer: I have been recommending plain yellow minyol for the past seven years and scores of my patients are delighted with the quick, pleasant action of this remedy in stopping itching, falling hair, dandruff, etc. It gives the hair health, lustre and vigor as nothing else does. Obtain in 4-oz. jars with full directions.

H. M. B. writes: "Can you please prescribe medicine which will relieve me of such distressing symptoms of kidney and bladder, as the following: Pains in small of back, soreness in region of bladder, frequent calls at night but scanty flow with pain, burning and foul odor, puffing of limbs, etc.

Answer: Those seeking relief from kidney and bladder disorders should begin taking balmwort tablets, a very successful formula sold in sealed tubes with full directions.

Mrs. N. B. B. asks: "I suffer from headache and constipation periodically and my blood seems too thick causing languor and tired feeling. I will thank you to prescribe for me."

Answer: Three grain sulpherb tablets (not sulphur) are most effective, in relieving constipation, thinning the blood and removing the symptoms of languor, etc. I advise you to begin taking as per directions with each sealed package.

"W. Z." writes: "I have such a very severe cough and cold and have not been able to get anything to help me. It is weakening my system."

Answer: Use the following and your cold and cough will vanish and you will soon be strong again. Get a 2½ oz. bottle of concentrated essence mentholaxene and take every hour or two. This can be taken pure or made into a full pint of home-made syrup. Full directions as to use will be found on bottle. This is a mild laxative and will drive the cold from the system.

B. G. O. asks: "Will you please prescribe a home treatment for a bad case of catarrh of the nose and throat. Also, my daughter is affected with Pelvic Catarrh or green sickness."

Answer: Your daughter should begin taking a tonic flesh-building treatment and for such a case I know of nothing better than three-grain hypo-nuclane tablets. Local treatment is also necessary for both catarrh of the head and Pelvic Catarrh. A simple but effective antiseptic and curative treatment can be followed at home by buying either a two or eight ounce package of antiseptic Vilane Powder containing complete directions. —Advertisement

WAR REPORTS BREAK WHEAT

Market Down at Close on Allies' Reported Gains in Dardanelles.

Flaxseed Firm on Steady Crushers' Inquiry and Light Offerings.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 13.—The wheat market was weak at the close, through selling on reported successes of the allies in the Dardanelles.

May wheat closed 1¾c off, July 1⅞c off and September 1⅝c off. May durum closed 2c off, July 2c off and September ½c up.

Oats closed 1⅛c off at 51¾@52¾c for on the track; rye unchanged at $1.11@1.12; barley 2c up at from 68c to 75c, and corn ⅜c off at 73⅜c.

At Winnipeg, May oats closed ⅜c up at 62⅝c bid, and July unchanged at 64¼c asked.

Puts on Minneapolis wheat closed at $1.44⅜, and calls at $1.52⅜.

Lower Liverpool cables and the general impression among operators that the chinch bugs and flies damage reports from over the Southwest had been greatly exaggerated led to a weak market in wheat around the opening this morning. Declines of 1¾c were recorded.

Later, strength developed at Winnipeg on the reported working of a substantial export business and quotations there rallied to around yesterday's closing basis. That upturn was immediately reflected here.

Crop advices of the day were more cheerful, intimations coming to hand from various points in Kansas, Missouri and Illinois to the effect that conditions are averaging up satisfactorily and that fly damages were confined to limited areas. Reports from over the Northwest told of good progress being made by the wheat plant in Minnesota and North and South Dakota. It is thought that the cold weather and rains of the past week have resulted in strengthening the roots and promoting a vigorous condition of the growing wheat. Good progress is advised in seeding other grains.

All the Southwest grain markets were off, Omaha being 1@1½c and Kansas City 1⅝c down.

The liberality of Argentine shipments of late has resulted in taking the strain off the American markets in a measure. Ocean freight rates are easier down there. Shipments for the week are estimated at 4,000,000 bu.

May wheat opened 1¾c off at $1.57¼, and after hovering around that basis during the first two hours trading, it recovered to $1.58 at the noon hour. July opened 1⅝c off at $1.53⅜, and gained ½c. September opened 1c off at $1.25½, and recovered to $1.26.

The durum market was neglected, with no quotations being made in it at the start. The May future opened unchanged at $1.57 and declined 1c.

Flaxseed Quiet.

Business in flaxseed was quiet with sales confined to small lots.

Steadiness, however, was shown in the market due to further reports of small acreage being seeded to flax in the Northwest. On top of that there was information to the effect that the area of country sown to flax in the Russian Baltic provinces is certain to be greatly reduced as a result of the German raid through that territory.

May flax opened unchanged at $2.01½, and closed ½c up at $2.02 nominally. July opened unchanged at $2.04, and closed ⅜c up to $2.04⅜. September opened unchanged at $2.06½. October closed 1c up at $2.07½. October opened at $2.05, and closed at that figure asked.

At Winnipeg, May flax closed ¼c up at $1.82½, and July ⅜c off at $1.85 asked.

At London, flax closed unchanged at $1.91¾. It was a holiday at Buenos Aires.

MARKET GOSSIP.

C. E. Lewis & Co. had the following from Baltimore: "We are having great difficulty in obtaining freight for new crop business, some lines have declined to book more, others advanced price materially. Exporters and steamship agents say they expect very high freights this summer and very scarce, as there is much better demand for boats in other parts of the globe at good prices."

Minneapolis: Cash market was strong with good local and country milling demand. No. 1 northern blue stem sold at 4@6½c over May, with few cars to go out 7c over May, and velvet chaff at 2@3c over May. Flour sales were reported moderate. Cash sales were reported there at No. 1 northern wheat sold there at from $1.56½ to $1.61, and No. 2 northern at from $1.52 to $1.58. Stocks of wheat in Minneapolis elevators decreased 670,000 bu in five days.

Goodman's report to Clement Curtis from state grain dealers' convention at Champaign, Ill., gives the following summary of conditions in Illinois:

"Wheat growth is fine and a week in advance of the usual season. Plant is heading in central and eastern counties. Rains are needed in south half. Hessian fly is showing up in most sections. No important damage is reported as yet, but it is feared. Chinch bugs are numerous in counties along Mississippi and central counties. Oats acreage is normal with condition excellent. Early planted corn is up. State needs good rain."

A New York wire said: "Exporters appear to be doing something this morning. The feeling in the East is that the Western interests who bought wheat on last week's soft market have sold out on the recent sharp advance and are now working to get the market down. I think I can promise you that any good break in the market will be met by good buying."

Van Dusen-Harrington company's weekly crop letter says: "In Southern Minnesota, the weather of the past week has been cold and wet with practically no work done. All grain that has been sown is looking fine. Today it is warm and fair so the work of planting corn will soon be resumed. The same weather conditions prevailed in Northern Minnesota and North Dakota, where barley seeding was interrupted.

"The weather in South Dakota was also cold and rainy. Seeding is practically all done but the corn planting. Frost occurred in all three states, but no damage was done to grain; it really was beneficial, as it held back the growth and the roots were developed. It is too early to report on acreages of grains sown, but it looks like wheat 110 per cent, barley 85, oats 100. Conditions remain remarkably good."

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Easy American cables and favorable reports from India led to profit-taking, and prices declined, with the undertone easier. Spot market was easy, ½@1½d lower, with cargo market easy, winters 3d lower and Manitobas and Plates 6d lower. Advices as received from America are to the effect that damage reports are being exaggerated and spring prospects are highly favorable, with the Canadian outlook excellent.

"Corn was easy with declining spot, weakness in Buenos Aires and increasing movement in Argentina of new crop, with cargo market 6d to 1s lower."

C. E. Lewis & Co. had the following closing letter from Chicago: "The early advance was met with considerable profit taking, the offerings being absorbed by local bulls and new investment buyers. Damage reports continued to pour in from a widely scattered area, Kansas and Missouri leading. Cash markets were strong in all centers and locally premiums gained ½c on futures. Foreign news was a standoff. We look for much higher prices for July and September wheat."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Lower Quotations From Liverpool Cause Weakness in Wheat.

Chicago, May 13.—Decided weakness showed itself today in the wheat market here. Lower quotations at Liverpool appeared to be responsible to a considerable extent. Belief that crop damage from hessian fly had been overdrawn was generally referred to as the chief underlying influence on both sides of the Atlantic. After opening 1⅛@2⅜c down, the market rallied, but remained well under last night's level.

Later the heaviness became pronounced, seemingly as a result of the uncertain diplomatic outlook and the disturbing character of war news. The close was depressed, 2c to 2⅜c under last night.

Bearish Argentine reports acted as a weight on corn. The market was also affected by the setback in wheat. Opening prices which ranged from ⅜@½c to ¾@⅞c lower, were followed by something of a recovery but then a fresh decline.

Smallness of country offerings led afterward to an upturn, but the effect failed to last. The close was nervous at ¾c to 1⅛@1¼c net decline.

Oats displayed relative firmness as compared with other grain. The only selling pressure on oats was from pit speculators.

Higher prices for hogs lifted provisions at the start. The market, however, soon turned easy with cereals.

GRAIN EXPORT PROSPECT BRIGHT

Experts Figure on Billion Bushel Crop and High Prices.

The abnormal situation in the grain trade this year is interesting and especially so from an American standpoint.

Statistics show that with the older sources of supply out of line as a result of the war 90 per cent of the world's requirements of wheat, amounting to 192,776,000 bu up to May 1, were supplied by the United States, Canada and Argentina. During the ten months, the United States and Canada shipped 383,358,000 bu of wheat abroad, as compared with 230,958,000 bu during the same period last yeaf and 209,664,000 bu in the 1912-13.

Exports are still about 50,000,000 bu below the total of last season. Russia then contributed up to May 1, 134,304,000 bu, while this year only 12,064,000 bu has been shipped out from that country. The Danubian regions are also delinquent and Australia has been able to spare only 8,568,000 bu, against 56,176,000 bu a year ago.

What is more interesting still is that in view of the large acreage sown and present conditions, experts are figuring upon a billion-bushel wheat yield in this country for the present season, which would leave 400,000,000 bu to be disposed of abroad at high figures. The outlook in the Canadian Northwest is also said to be brilliant, so that taken on a conservative basis, authorities say that a 1,200,000,000-bushel crop should not be an over-estimate for the two countries this year.

The following figures of the world's wheat exports for the ten months to May 1, compared with the corresponding period last year are instructive:

U. S. and	1914-15	1913-14
Canada	383,358,000	230,958,000
Russia	12,064,000	134,304,000

India	16,821,000	26,552,000
Argentine	63,534,000	26,938,000
Australia	8,568,000	56,176,000

COPPER STOCKS CONTINUE DECLINE

Market Breaks Sharply on Fears of Trouble With Germany.

Mining stocks turned weak at Boston today on fears of complications with Germany over the Lusitania affair and sharp declines were recorded through the list.

Butte & Superior closed 50 cents off at $60.50, after selling down to $59.75. Calumet & Arizona closed 75 cents off at $63.25; Copper Range $2.25 off at $49.75; Granby $2 off at $80; Greene-Cananea 25 cents off at $29.25; North Butte 75 cents off at $30.75; Quincy $2 off at $83.50; and Shattuck 50 cents off at $27.

At New York, Amalgamated Copper closed $1.12 off at $66, and Anaconda 50 cents off at $31.50.

In the Boston curb list, as reported to Paine, Webber & Co., Calumet & Montana sold at 35@40 cents; South Lake at $7; Denn-Arizona at $11; Keating at $2; Rainbow at $8.75; New Baltic at $3; Tonopah-Nevada at $7; Butte & London at 22 cents; Warren at $7; Warren Dev. at 99 cents; United Verde Extension at $3.75; Calaveras at $1.32; Jumbo Extension at $1.06, and First National Copper at $2.06@2.00.

Ray Cons. Copper's surplus for 1915 was $741,539; in 1914 it was $333,480. It is the announced intention of the company to resume dividend payments on June 30 next.

News Bureau of New York said: "Large inquiries for copper metal for June and July delivering caused steadiness in domestic quotations at 19 cents. The trade would not be surprised to see this metal advance in the near future."

STOCKS ARE UNSETTLED

Uncertainty Over International Conditions Causes Caution in Trading.

Early Losses Are Recovered and Market Becomes More Apathetic.

New York, May 13.—Uncertainty was shown by the stock market in today's early dealings, but declines predominated at the opening. Dealings were not extensive, but embraced more than the usual number of issues. War specialties were variable. Westinghouse Electric gaining nearly 2 points, while others of that group were lower. Motors lost 1 to 3 points, and coppers denoted pressure. Standard railways fell from substantial fractions to a point, Baltimore & Ohio, Reading, Union Pacific and Lehigh Valley being heaviest.

Stocks weakened before the end of the first hour on vague rumors bearing upon the international situation. United States Steel, Amalgamated Copper, Reading and others of that class broke 1 to 2 points, while war specialties fell from 3 to 6 points. Unlike previous days, however, the decline was not accompanied by any considerable amount of selling. In fact, trading in the early session was far below that of recent days. Public interest was utterly lacking, brokers advising their clients to keep out of the market during the present period of unsettlement. Bonds were heavy.

Slow recovery wiped out most of the early losses, but the list continued to fluctuate feverishly at the higher level. Later prices fell again on very light dealings.

The stock market halted for the greater part of today's session, uncertainty over the international conditions begetting extreme caution.

Trading became more apathetic later, the list drifting half way between the high and low level. The close was heavy.

CARE OF BABIES IN HOT WEATHER

Better to Prevent Disease Than Cure Sick, Says Fahey.

Special preparation for the care of infants during the hot weather is urged by Dr. E. W. Fahey, director of public health.

"It is more economical and of greater benefit to prevent disease than to cure the sick," said Dr. Fahey this morning. "This applies especially to the babies, for their ills depend largely upon the season and a change of season gives warning of the diseases to be guarded against.

"Hot weather severely taxes the vitality of all babies, but this applies ten-fold to bottle-fed infants. Persistent breast nursing at regular intervals does more than any other thing to successfully carry a baby through the hot months. If a mother cannot nurse her baby, the only substitute is fresh, clean cow's milk."

Withdrawing From Capital.

BUY A HOME

FOR YOURSELF INSTEAD OF THE LANDLORD

$20.00 a month rent amounts to $240 a year, $2,400 in ten years. You've paid the landlord full price for his house in ten years, but he still owns it; all you have is the rent receipts.

For a small payment down and $20 or less per month you can buy a home and own it, clear of all encumbrance, in less then ten years.

GERMAN DRIVE CHECKED.

Petrograd, May 14, via London, 1:55 p. m.—The Russians have fallen back upon strong strategic positions along the River San which runs north and south through Central Galicia. They now regard the German drive through West Galicia as having been checked permanently.

London, May 14.—For the first time in the past six months the authors of the German and the French official announcements on the progress of hostilities find themselves in agreement. The German communication admits the truth of the more important of the claims made by Gen. Joffre, the French commander-in-chief, as to the great successes won by the French between La Bassee and Arras.

If this attack can be pushed home the consequences will be still more marked, in the opinion of British military commentators, who are claiming today that a little further advance by the French will open a conspicuous gap in the German line, a development which will necessitate the falling back of the Germans on a wide front.

British Holding Own.

To the north of La Bassee the British are doing little more than holding their own, but at the same time they are keeping great masses of Germans engaged, troops who otherwise would

GERMAN SUBMARINE SUNK IN NORTH SEA

Captain of Steamer Believes He Ran Down One of Submersibles.

Blythe, Eng., May 14.—A German submarine is reported to have been sunk in the North sea. The captain of the steamer Collairnie on reaching port today stated that his vessel apparently had destroyed the submarine by running it down off the Northumberland coast.

No submarine was seen, but the captain said his ship struck a submerged object. A large quantity of oil subsequently appeared on the surface and the conclusion was drawn that a submarine had been run down.

WALL STREET STAYS CALM

Believes Germany Will Receive President's Note in Conciliatory Spirit.

Speculative Favorites Are Freely Offered But Banking Support Evident.

New York, May 14.—President Wilson's note to Germany overshadowed all other considerations and developments in the stock market today. Its possible effect was not altogether apparent at the outset, prices yielding only slightly, except in the so-called war shares and similar specialties, which yielded a point.

Later, however, the entire list became unsettled, standard railways as well as other dividend paying stocks losing 1 to 2 points.

Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Reading, United States Steel and Amalgamated Copper, which constitute the most active speculative favorites, were freely offered during the first half hour, but seemed to confidently be taken. Evidence of the banking support which checked the severe decline of the early week was seen from time to time. The short interest was fairly

LORD DE FREYNE AND HIS BROTHER KILLED AT FRONT

LORD DE FREYNE.

London, May 14.—The death at the front of Lord De Freyne and of his brother, the Hon. George Philip French, is announced. Lord De Freyne came into the public eye in 1905 when as Hon. Arthur Reginald French, he resigned his post in the British army and went to the United States and enlisted as a private in the army there. His father died in 1913, when he succeeded to the title.

BARNES STILL ON THE STAND

Continues His Direct Testimony in Libel Suit Against Roosevelt.

Tells What He Said in Contradiction of What Colonel Said He Said.

Syracuse, N. Y., May 14.—William Barnes resumed the witness stand in the supreme court here today to continue his direct testimony in his libel suit against Theodore Roosevelt and to submit later to cross-examination at the hands of counsel for Col. Roosevelt.

William M. Ivins first asked Mr. Barnes about the testimony of Loyal W. France, a witness for Col. Roosevelt, who quoted Mr. Barnes as saying in speaking of direct primaries, that he could ruin the reputation of any man by throwing enough limelight upon him and that he could vote the riffraff of the Democratic party in the Republican primaries and so disgust the people that they would demand the repeal of the primary law.

"What I said to Mr. France," asserted Mr. Barnes, "was that I was against the primary law as it then stood. I said that the opposite party could injure any man in the primary if they desired to do so."

"Did you say the system of direct primaries was subversive to party interests?"

"It couldn't be."

Roosevelt in Africa.

Mr. Barnes said he recalled when Col. Roosevelt went to Africa and his return. During the colonel's absence Timothy Woodruff was chairman of the Republican state committee. Asked what happened at a meeting of the state committee, to choose a temporary chairman of the state convention of 1910, Mr. Barnes said:

"William L. Ward and Col. Roosevelt were in a room in a New York hotel. Col. Roosevelt told me I took the direct nomination matter too seriously. I told him he had been out of the country. I told him we,—the mem-

TELLS STORY OF COAL STRIKE

"Mother" Jones Again Witness Before Industrial Commission.

Washington, May 14.—"Mother" Jones continued her story of the Colorado coal strike before the industrial relations commission today and described her nine weeks' detention at Trinidad. She told of being carried away from the strike field by militiamen and of her re-arrest when she endeavored to return. She was again held, she said, for twenty-six days in a cellar, with sewer rats. She was released after several efforts had been made to secure a writ of habeas corpus.

"Mother" Jones read a statement reviewing court decisions relating to the use of militia in strikes.

"Under decisions such as these," she said, "men, women and children are deprived of life and liberty. The fiendish horrors perpetrated by the militia at the command of corporate greed threaten the very existence of our government. There are no rights which the workingman can enforce in the courts. If you do not want anarchists in this country the courts must hark back to the days of liberty when the writ of habeas corpus was sacred and when military power could not kill and imprison men and women without regard to the law."

AMERICAN PEOPLE STAND FIRMLY BEHIND PRESIDENT WILSON'S NOTE WHICH PUTS ISSUE UP TO GERMANY

Press of the United States Voices View That the President Has Expressed the Sentiment of the Nation in Calling the German Government to Stern Account.

New York, May 14.—President Wilson's note to Germany was editorially commented upon throughout the United States today with distinct praise and approbation. Excerpts from editorials from some of the leading newspapers as indexing American sentiment follow:

GERMANY MUST CHOOSE.

New York Times: It is the great diplomatic achievement of the note that it puts upon Germany the choice not only of what her reply shall be, but of what is to follow. * * * The president's eloquent appeal to her great traditions, to her sense of honor, and of justice, must triumph over any warlike inclination she may feel to pursue a course that can have but one ending.

INDICTMENT FOR ALL AGES.

New York Tribune: He (the president) has drawn an indictment against the German nation which will lie for all ages to come, if the kaiser's government fails now to meet the demands of the president of the United States promptly and completely. * * * Wronged, we have offered Germany a peaceful solution in the present crisis, but—and the president's message sums it all—we shall omit neither word nor act necessary to the performance of our sacred duty.

MIGHT HAVE BEEN STRONGER.

New York Herald: It might have been stronger; it might have been weaker; it will serve. Mr. Wilson has overcome the influence of those members of his cabinet who are for peace at any price. He has lived up to the very best traditions of his character.

CALM AND RESTRAINED.

New York World: It is calm; it is restrained. It is courteous, but with a cold, cutting courtesy that gives added emphasis to every word. * * * By the strength of his case and the moderation of his tone, the president has made it as easy for Germany to do right as to do wrong. If he is to fail in his effort, it will be in good conscience and in a good cause.

HAS SPOKEN FIRMLY.

New York Sun: The note * * * is impeccably urbane, though not without little ironies in its tone, friendly in spirit, resolute in its assertion of American rights and of the freedom of the seas. It recalls Germany's contention for that liberty. * * * The president has spoken firmly. The country, supporting him as firmly, awaits without passion the German reply.

TEETH IN ITS END.

New York Press: Into the end of his note to Berlin, President Wilson has put some teeth, and not too many at that—into the end, because the first of it is filled with those graceful but empty rhetorical phrases which long ago exhausted the patience of Americans, no less than they excited the derision of the Berlin militarists.

POSSIBLY DANGEROUS.

New York American: The President's letter is undeniably vigorous, but it is possibly dangerous as well. The nation desired that its rightful demands should be laid before the German government, but it did not anticipate that the president would go so far beyond the plainly and soundly rightful scope of those demands as to invite a rebuff.

IS THE COUNTRY'S POSITION.

Springfield, Mass., Republican: The government's position in this case is the country's position. It is not extreme, yet it covers the ground.

APPROVES ITS TONE.

Buffalo, N. Y., Courier: Right-minded men of every party will approve its tone and tenor. The clearness, the definiteness with which the presentation is made can satisfy the most rigid Americanism that views large affairs sanely. It seems to meet every requirement of American patriotism and honor.

NO BACKDOWN.

Buffalo, N. Y., Express: There has been no backdown. Let the people's

RULERS FIRED FROM ORDER OF THE GARTER

King George Orders Names of Enemies Stricken From List.

London, May 1.—"The king, as sovereign of the Order of the Garter," says an official announcement, "has given directions that the following names forthwith be stricken off the roll of the knights of the order:

"The emperor of Austria, the German emperor, the king of Wurtemburg, the grand duke of Hesse, Prince Henry of Prussia, the duke of Saxe Coburg and Gotha, and the duke of Cumberland."

The Order of the Garter was instituted by King Edward III about August, 1348. Since 1831 it has consisted of the British sovereign and twenty-five knights companions who were lineal descendants of King George I and of sovereigns and extra knights who have been admitted by special statutes.

FINAL CHAPTER IN SEA TRAGEDIES

Loss of Mrs. Mounsey on Empress of Ireland Finally Established.

Chicago, May 14.—The final chapter in the sea tragedies of the Mounsey family of Chicago was read today when the following cablegram from Liverpool, Eng., was received:

"It was not mother."

It was a rumor that Mrs. William Mounsey, now known to have been lost on the Empress of Ireland, really survived in a mental wreck known in Liverpool as Kate Fitzgerald, that caused William Mounsey, his son-in-law, Charles H. Lund and Mrs. Lund, to sail on the Lusitania. The two men lost their lives, but Mrs. Lund survived to send the disappointing message received today by her sister, Ethel Mounsey.

AGREE TO SETTLE STREET CAR STRIKE

Expected Trolley Service in Detroit Will Be Resumed Shortly.

Detroit, Mich., May 14.—By unanimous vote the striking employes of the Detroit United Railway today agreed to a plan for settlement of the labor trouble which began yesterday morning and it was said street car service would be resumed before night.

The plan for a settlement, drawn up by Mayor Marx and Charles B. Warren, president of the Detroit Board of Commerce, provides for the immediate resumption of car service and the appointment of an arbitration board to decide upon the merits of the demands of the employes.

The agreement arranges for immediate arbitration of the case of Motorman Peter Whaling, whose discharge was largely responsible for the strike.

KING CALLS STATESMEN

Victor Emmanuel Receives Leaders of Political Parties in Italy.

Has Not Decided Whether to Accept Resignation of Cabinet.

Rome, May 13, via Paris.—King Victor Emmanuel today received in the order named the following statesmen: Signor Manfredi, president of the senate; Signor Marcora, president of the chamber of deputies, and Signor Giolitti, a former premier, but now the leader of the party in Italy in favor of neutrality.

These audiences were observed with deep interest because of the resignation yesterday of the cabinet on the ground that it did not have the unanimous support of the constitutional parties of the country in its international policy.

The king has not yet announced whether the resignations will be accepted.

The members of the cabinet found it impossible to bridge the differences separating them from the followers of Signor Giolitti. They preferred to resign rather than appear before parliament when it meets May 20, and exhibit to the world internal divisions in Italy, which probably will be accompanied by recriminations and accusations. To do so, they believe, would be most undignified for Italy.

King Free to Choose.

The cabinet's resignation leaves King Victor Emmanuel free to choose the men he considers best adapted to guide Italy in the present grave situation.

Both Signors Marcora and Manfredi have been mentioned as possible premiers.

Politically the king is above all parties, and he is in possession of information enabling him to form excellent judgment as to the feeling of the country.

It is believed in some quarters that the present course may bring a solu-

DISCUSSION OF SITUATION INOPPORTUNE

Note Now Believed to Be in Hands of the German Government.

Time for Reply Not Specified in Communication.

President Wilson to Go to New York to Review Fleet.

Washington, May 14.—The government and people of the United States today turned expectantly toward Berlin, where Ambassador Gerard had been instructed to present to the German foreign office a note calling the attention of the imperial government to the "unlawful and inhumane" destruction of the Lusitania and other violations of American rights on the high seas.

Germany is asked in the note to disavow the acts of her submarines' commanders in the torpedoing without warning of the Lusitania, a British ship with a loss of more than 100 American lives and the American steamer Gulflight, "as a result of which two or more American citizens met their death." Reparation, "so far as reparation is possible," is asked and the United States declares it "confidently expects that the imperial German government will take immediate steps to prevent the recurrence of such acts and practices."

No time is specified for a reply, but the communication says "the government and people of the United States look to the imperial German government for just, prompt and enlightened action in this vital matter."

Policy of Silence.

White House officials adopted the policy of silence. They felt that any discussion of the situation at this time would be useless and inopportune inasmuch as the question is now before the Berlin government.

The cabinet met today in a regular session, but no further action was con-

DR. DERNBURG HAS NOTHING TO SAY

Says He Has Made It Point Not to Mix in Affairs.

New York, May 14.—Dr. Bernhard Dernburg, former colonial secretary of the German empire, replying today to a written question, asking for his views on the American note, sent back to interviewers a paper on which was written above his signature:

"Ever since my arrival here I have made it a point not to mix with any matter under official discussion between the United States and Germany. I think it wise not to deviate from this policy and I have no statement to make."

AIRMEN DROP BOMBS ON DUTCH TRAWLER

London, May 14.—A Reuter dispatch from Ymuiden says the Dutch trawler Sgravenhage reports that a Taube aeroplane, coming from the west dropped three bombs at the fishing boat on Wednesday in spite of the fact that she was flying the Dutch flag. The bombs fell into the sea where they exploded.

SUMMARY OF THE WAR NEWS

The furious attack of the French along the section of the front just south of the Belgian border is said to have resulted in a further advance. The official statement from Paris announces the capture of several German trenches near Souches.

Rain interfered with the fighting yesterday and apparently the movements were less important than on the preceding day when both the Paris and Berlin communications chronicled success for the allies. Today's French announcement states that the ground recently won north of Arras has been maintained.

At Petrograd it is said the German movement in Galicia has been checked permanently. The Russians have fallen back on strong positions along the River San which runs through Central Galicia. Fresh troops have been brought up to relieve the pressure on the Russian center and are attacking the German flanks.

To meet this situation, the Germans are transferring troops further to the east, apparently with the intention of attacking the Russian left flank.

Great demonstrations in favor of war are reported in dispatches from Rome. It is said that grave events are looked for in the near future. So far as is known King Victor Emanuel has not accepted or declined to accept the resignation of the cabinet tendered last night.

Advices from the Dardanelles, as conveyed from sources favorable to the allies, say the French and British forces are continuing to gain in the land fighting, although it is conceded the decisive phase has not been reached. One British correspondent asserts the whole coast line of Gallipoli peninsula is in the hands of the allies.

The captain of a steamer which put in at Blyth, Eng., reported his ship had struck a submerged obstacle which apparently was a submarine and that he believed the submarine had been sunk. A Dutch trawler reported it had been attacked in the North sea by a German aeroplane, while flying the Dutch flag. Three bombs were dropped but the trawler was uninjured.

The great battle now in progress in northern France is characterized in a London dispatch as one of unbelievable fury. It is said both sides have been exhausted by the struggle, but that the allies are holding firmly to the positions in which they are now established.

The Russian war office announces that the battle in western Galicia is becoming less intense, but official reports from Berlin and Vienna continue to claim that the Austro-German forces are sweeping eastward, putting the Russians to rout and capturing vast numbers of prisoners.

HOME-BUYING GROWS IN FAVOR

Salaried Men in Duluth Find Real Estate Good Investment on Time Payments; Many Such Deals Now Being Closed; Aggregate Number Foots Up Substantial Amount.

"I don't know whether people are getting richer, or if the business depression has driven economical lessons home, or what the reason is," said a Duluth real estate man today, "but I do know that this spring there are more applications for home-buying than I have seen for several years."

Among the real estate offices that advertise time-payments on homes this seems to be the universal report. More applications than for several years are coming in for homes, where a man may obtain a house and lot for himself and family on making a more or less substantial payment and then to pay as for rent. These are coming from all classes of wage earners, say the real estate men, and while these deals are not looked upon as big business, in the aggregate they amount to a good deal.

The real estate man quoted declares that there is every indication that before the summer is very far advanced, there will be a substantial addition to the wage earners who have become taxpayers, and quite a number of such deals are being closed these days.

"While I would naturally like to turn big deals," said the man mentioned, "there is nothing that gives me more pleasure than to sell a home on time payment and to men whose income consists of salaries. Not only does it speak well for the men themselves, but it speaks well for the city and for its future. When you get a city of home-owners or of men who are paying for their homes, you are getting a more substantial city, and you are assured of a class of people who spend their money for the best things in life and little for the frivolities—and the frivolities never yet made a great trade center. With a growing taxpayer list, the portend is toward a steadier city and toward solidity in its population. And the sooner the floating element is out of Duluth the better for Duluth."

JUDGE ENSIGN, 82 YEARS YOUNG, OBSERVES NATAL DAY ON BENCH

Josiah D. Ensign, dean of the Duluth bench and bar, is today quietly celebrating his eighty-second birthday.

He is Duluth's senior jurist and is a veteran on the district court bench where he is now serving his twenty-seventh years as judge.

Today finds Judge Ensign active in the harness and engaged with his usual duties. He is passing the day as he would any other day. His many friends, however, took occasion to greet him or extend some slight token of esteem.

Judge Ensign was born in Erie county, N. Y., eighty-two years ago today.

He was admitted to practice in Ohio in 1857. After practicing there for twelve years he came to Duluth to engage in the practice of law. This was in 1870.

He was twice mayor of Duluth in the early 80's.

CONTINUOUS RECEPTION

Shriners to Have Ovation Extending Over Several Hundred Miles.

Spokane Has Raised $10,000 for Its Part of Entertainment.

Seattle, Wash., May 14.—A reception, extending over several hundred miles, and amounting to a continuous ovation from the moment special trains bearing Shriners cross the Washington state boundary until they reach salt water on Puget Sound, will greet the thousands of nobles who will attend the imperial council session in Seattle in July, according to plans officially announced by the executive committee of Nile temple, in charge of arrangements.

El Katif temple of Spokane will have charge of the first portion of the reception, having raised more than $10,000 for this purpose. As each train crosses the boundary between Idaho and Washington, from the East, Spokane nobles who lived formerly in the East will meet the delegations from their old homes, and make them welcome to the Far Northwest.

Spokane to Entertain.

These reception committees will accompany the trains into Spokane, where the entire city will be decorated in their honor. Special festivities will be staged, styled the "Rendezvous," with a grand reception at the famous Hotel Davenport; automobile trips over the boulevards, and displays of scenic Western views at the theaters.

From Spokane an escort will be formed for the imperial divan, and for the special trains, proceeding with them to Seattle. As each train rolls into the convention city, it will be met by 100 beautiful young women, daughters of Shriners, who will pin on each noble and members of his family, a Seattle rose.

Will Work in Relays.

Committees of Shriners and business men, each working in systematic relays, will take charge of the delegates after the formal reception and accompany them to the registration headquarters, not leaving them until they have reached their hotels and are quartered comfortably. In each room fresh-cut flowers will be placed each day by committees of young women organized from the families of local Masons.

In addition to the general reception arrangements, the temples of the Northwest will have a special temple erected opposite the imperial council headquarters, where the united temples will entertain Eastern and Southern nobles as an additional feature.

The Week's Events.

Entertainment events for the week, which already include trips to Mount Rainier, Puget Sound navy yard, and for 200 miles on Puget Sound, have been extended to cover a distinctly Western production, in a stampede and round-up to bring together the best cowgirl riders of the country during Shrine week. Another entertainment feature will be a balloon ascension, the balloon being brought to Seattle by Moolah temple of St. Louis, and sent up on Thursday, July 15, when the Shriners gather for an immense barbecue at Woodland park, in the northern part of the city.

MEDICS END MEETING.

MURDERED BROTHERS NEVER FAVORED BANK

Glenwood, Minn., May 14.—Sven, Louis and John Mitmoen, the three brothers found murdered on their farm five miles west of Lowry, Pope county, were evidently killed for their money and apparently two or three men did the work. The murdered men were bachelors. They were wealthy men, owned several hundred acres of land and saved their money carefully. They never used a bank and, according to neighbors, kept from $5,000 to $10,000 in the house all the time. They secluded themselves from all company and liver very miserly. One of the brothers was believed to be insane.

Sheriff Gilbertson and a detective from the Twin Cities are working on the case and expect to make arrests shortly.

Sheriff George Gilbertson found $2,700 in gold and bills in a bureau drawer which the murderers had overlooked.

LONDON SURGEONS GET BIG PAY FROM NAVY

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

London, May 1.—Six prominent London physicians and surgeons are receiving $25,000 a year each from the British navy as special advisers during the war. This fee, moreover, does not prevent them pursuing their private practice during time when they are not occupied with government business.

The questioning member urged that in his opinion and that of several other members, the expense was not justified, and he announced that he would bring the matter up for discussion at a later date.

LOWER PRICE FOR BUTTER

Pasturage for Stock Causes Better Supply of Dairy Products.

Egg Market Is Strong; Fruits and Vegetables Plentiful.

Consumers will appreciate the easier situation in butter today, and predictions of a slightly lower market in the near future. Creamery butter quotations are off 1 cent at 29@31 cents a pound.

The slight recessions that have come about in butter prices are attributed to a gradual increase in the product of the creameries as a result of pasturage being now available for cattle.

While egg quotations are unchanged at 19@21 cents a dozen their market is strong. Receipts are said to be decreasing and a good call is being met with in all quarters. Dealers aver that the public appears to be consuming more eggs than in past seasons at this time, that being attributed to the higher cost of meats and a better recognition of the fact that they rank high in food value.

A broad inquiry for butter and eggs is being met with on this market from Eastern dealers, and shipments from here to Buffalo on the package freight steamers are increasing according to the Bridgeman-Russell company and the Victor Produce company.

Strawberries Abundant.

Supplies of fruits and vegetables are liberal today and their market is gradually becoming cheaper. Strawberries are the big noise in fruits. With arrivals this week from Arkansas, an improvement in quality is noted, and the demand has increased. Lower prices are expected next week, and with the source of supply gradually working northward, further reductions will come along in due course. The orange market is firm, and in spite of the high quotations, the movement of the fruit is good.

The first car of Florida pineapples for the season is due to arrive here next Monday. From present indications a good sale in them is expected. Box Ben Davis apples are still selling freely, being helped along by their exceptionally fine quality. Prices are firm, but no immediate advance is looked for.

Vegetables Getting Cheaper.

The price tendency in the vegetable list is reported lower by the Fitzsimmons-Palmer company and the Culbertson Bros. company. Supplies of state-grown green stuffs, such as lettuce, green onions, asparagus, radishes, etc., are increasing and quotations are due to become cheaper in the near future.

Florida tomatoes are coming to hand in quantities, and an easier market in them is expected. In heavy root vegetables, figures in carrots and rutabagas have been advanced, but the remainder of the list is unchanged. Potatoes are cheaper for the season, with extra fancy Minnesota stock being quoted at 55 cents a bushel. There is reported to be an abundance of potatoes still in the country districts and growers are endeavoring to market them.

In poultry, a good call for spring chickens is advised by the trade. Receipts of live poultry are light and little improvement is likely for some time. There have been no changes in prices.

The feature in meats is a substantial decline in pork. Beef is firm, and the lamb and mutton market strong. Dealers say that cheap quality veal is a drug on the market, while the better grade carcases command their price.

JURY FINDS PASTOR DARNELL GUILTY

Plea for New Trial Will Be Heard By Court Next Week.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 14.—James Morrison Darnell was yesterday afternoon found guilty by a jury in the Federal court of violating the Mann white slave act in that he transported Ruth Soper from Owatonna, Minn., to Chicago and then to Kenosha.

Counsel for the defendant made a motion for a new trial and the plea will be heard a week from yesterday.

When the jury filed in to make its report, Darnell, the defendant, was sitting alone with his counsel at a table where he had sat throughout the trial. Others who testified for the defense were present. The announcement of the verdict was received by the defendant without any display of emotion, save a slight drooping of his mouth.

The defendant's mother and Ruth Soper were in the marshal's office when the jury reported and when informed of the verdict Mrs. Darnell, mother of the defendant collapsed and was assisted to her hotel by Mrs. Vaughn. Ruth Soper made no comment. Darnell's father was not in the Federal building at the end.

James Morrison Darnell delivered his last sermon as a Unitarian minister at a Kenosha, Wis., church on Jan. 10, last, and resigned his pastorate and was unfrocked a day later. He was arrested on Feb. 16, indicted by a Federal grand jury on Feb. 27 and was brought to Milwaukee from Chicago on March 6. He was arraigned on March 24, and entered a plea of "not guilty." His trial began on Monday last and ended today.

GREAT FLOOD OF OLD METAL

German War Ministry Issues Statement Thanking the Donors.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Berlin, April 20.—So great has been the flood of old metals for melting purposes, that the war ministry has had to issue a statement thanking the donors, but declaring the lack of metal is not sufficient to necessitate such sacrifice.

"Of late," says the ministry, "there have been accumulating in the raw materials of war division of the ministry metal objects of all kinds from the household and the factory, even church bells, for the use of the army. It is impossible to thank each sender for his laudable interest, so the war ministry bespeaks in this way its gratitude.

"The army authorities do not wish to take advantage of this movement, because at the present there is no shortage in old metal. Aside from this fact, the less well-to-do circles of our population would be apt to compete in a spirit of sacrifice in giving to the fatherland their metal, while in the case of a real shortage, larger supplies and objects, such as roofs, could be used."

TO CONSIDER HOUSING CODE

Public Hearing Will Be Held at City Hall Next Tuesday.

Next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock a public hearing will be held in the council chamber to consider the proposed amendments to the housing code.

This announcement was made yesterday afternoon by Mayor Prince following a conference of city officials, who met in his office to go over the amendments submitted by the general committee, consisting of representatives of the Commercial club, Builders' Exchange, Real Estate Exchange and the local branch of the Building Owners and Managers. It is the intention not to take any action until the sentiment of the public is learned, nor make any changes in the present housing code, unless they are satisfactory to the citizens of Duluth.

The conference yesterday afternoon was attended by Mayor Prince, City Attorney Greene, Health Director Fahey, Building Inspector Kielley and Adolph Anderson, deputy building inspector.

E. A. Silberstein, president of the Associated Charities, has submitted a statement to the council, objecting to many of the proposed amendments and because of the divided opinion, the council is anxious to have the matter settled immediately. After next Tuesday's meeting, those amendments favored will be prepared and submitted at the regular meeting of the council the following week.

WHAT IT COSTS TO BE BEAU BRUMMEL

To be a real Beau Brummel this summer, it will cost any Duluthian exactly $151.

This is the estimate placed on the perfectly correct gentleman's outfit by an eastern tailor—and only one outfit at that. Here is the list:

Suit	$ 75
Shirts	12
Neckwear	4
Underwear	12
Sox	2
Shoes (buckskin)	18
Walking stick	10
Hat (sea grass)	18
Total	$151

Silk is the predominant feature of the outfit and the shirt will have a soft roll collar, worn just low enough to reveal in a perfectly nice manner, the contour and complexion of the shoulder.

Of course, any Duluthian can obtain a cheaper outfit—say $30.30.

FLEISCHMANN DIES AS RESULT OF SHOT

New York, May 14.—Otto F. Fleischmann, 34, president of the Fleischmann Vehicle company, and son of the founder of the Fleischmann Bakery business and its famous bread line, died late yesterday from the revolver shot he fired into his breast in the Holland house.

Mr. Fleischmann's brother, Raoul, gave up a pint of his blood in a transfusion operation which it was hoped might save Fleischmann's life, but the sacrifice was in vain.

ANSWERS BY CHAUFFEURS

Many Amusing Replies Are Made to Questions of Examiner.

In Case of Accident "Would Settle as Cheap as Possible."

In Duluth nearly every automobilist knows the rule about driving past an open street car gate, while on the ranges chauffeurs and prospective chauffeurs haven't a very high regard for the state speed laws.

This is the conclusion reached by H. W. Healey, Duluth automobile expert and member of the state board of chauffeurs' examiners, who has been conducting a quiz for would-be jitneurs in the assembly room at police headquarters for two days.

Many humorous answers were given to questions asked by Examiner Healey in the two days, some of the chauffeurs being classed with the boy in the village school who always was at the foot of the class.

"What kinds of oil do you use on the various parts of your car?" was asked one bus proprietor.

"Have only had my car a month and never have used any oil," was the reply.

"What would you do in case of an accident?" was another.

"I would stop and go back and make a settlement as cheap as possible," said one man from the range.

Brakes and steering gears are among the most unimportant parts of a machine, in the belief of some budding jitneurs. Nine-tenths of them, when asked what they would do before taking out a strange car on a dark night, spoke about tires, "gas" and water—nothing else.

Drives the Pistons.

"The drive shaft" explained one Duluthian, "is in the center of the car, under the engine. It is used to drive the pistons."

Although most drivers were familiar with the ten-foot rule in passing street car gates, they disagreed as to the speed at which they could pass open gates. Some said ten miles an hour, others thought three was enough. The law makes no provision as to speed in this case.

Nine out of every ten men didn't know four types of tires used on automobiles. One man thought of three: "non-skid, demountable and Federal!"

Examiner Healey will hold another examination in Duluth in thirty days, when the 30 per cent who failed this time will be given a second chance. About seventy-five took the examination, with sixteen who asked for the privilege failing to report.

"I expected a much larger number than this," said Mr. Healey, "and there are forty or fifty who may have to be called to time. One unusual feature was the surprising number of boys, several of whom seemed almost too young. Some names will be given the city clerk to check up with birth records, because I want to be sure that they are over the legal age."

VALUE OF MEXICAN MONEY DECREASES

Delegate Demands Law of Supply and Demand Be Repealed.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Mexico City, April 27.—The purchasing price of Mexican paper money has been decreasing steadily until today the Mexican peso is worth but 11 cents gold in this city, instead of 50 cents in normal times. The price of commodities has risen accordingly and the populace has become greatly excited.

A few days ago the exchange value of the peso was the occasion of a heated debate among the delegates attending one of the national conventions now in session. An orator had been holding forth for an hour or more in an incendiary speech wherein he charged Wall street and the financiers of London, Berlin and Paris for being responsible for the "thirty cent" variety of money now prevailing here. He was interrupted by the president of the session, who said:

"Mr. Delegate, I desire to call your attention to the fact that the relative value of Mexican currency and the gold coin of foreign states is due to the law of supply and demand."

"Then," thundered the orator, "I demand that this law be repealed forthwith."

The statement met with great applause on the part of the majority of the delegates, who signified their willingness to vote for the repeal, but the chairman failed to put the question.

FORTY-SIX YEARS A DULUTHIAN—T. H. PRESSNELL

Forty-six years ago today, Capt. Thomas H. Pressnell, Duluth pioneer, first set foot on Duluth soil.

"I came from Superior in a rowboat, after traveling four days from St. Paul to Superior over the old military road," said Capt. Pressnell today.

The same afternoon that he arrived in Duluth, Capt. Pressnell took charge of the Minnesotan, the first paper in Duluth. It had been started in April, 1869, a month before the captain arrived.

"Duluth wasn't much at that time," said Capt. Pressnell. "There were a few houses near where the aerial bridge now stands and a few others scattered up the hillside."

STATE BANKS MAY JOIN THE FEDERAL RESERVE

Washington, May 14.—After consideration lasting several months, the Federal reserve board has virtually decided that it will allow state banks to enter the Federal reserve system with the right to withdraw and surrender membership if they so desire.

This is believed to assure the entrance of hundreds of strong state institutions into the system. Early in consideration of the problem, it was made clear by state bankers that their principal objection to entering was that apparently when once in, they must surrender their charters or liquidate to get out.

21st Anniversary Sale 21st

Here Is Our Unusual and Startling Proposition

To the Men and Women of Duluth During Our 21st Anniversary Sale:

6% Until Purchase Price Is Paid Back to You

With each purchase amounting to $15 or more we give you a certificate, binding ourselves to pay you annually a dividend of 6% (six per cent) on the full amount bought until the entire purchase price has been paid back to you. For examples: If a man or woman buys clothing to the amount of $25 during this Anniversary Sale, he or she will be entitled to a return of 6% ($1.50) each year until the $25 are repaid. Our checks will be sent between the 5th and 15th of May each year.

This Offer Is Limited to Three Days

Saturday, Monday and Tuesday

Our reason for offering this unusual proposition is, First: To show our appreciation of the liberal support the buying public has given this store for over 21 years. Secondly: We want to acquaint new patrons with the high-grade clothing and service this store offers. Third: This store aims to establish a bond of business friendship with its customers that makes for mutual helpfulness.

6 per cent will be paid back to you each year on any purchase of $15 or more until the entire amount of your purchase has been paid back to you.

Cut Out This Coupon

and present with your purchase, and a certificate of purchase will be made out to you showing the amount bought and the dividend you will be entitled to each year.

GATELY'S

It's like putting money in the bank and drawing 6% interest. The dividend will be sent to you no matter where you may be if you notify us of your whereabouts in case at any time you move away from Duluth.

Open a Charge Account

In addition to our liberal offer made above, we invite you to open a charge account. You can purchase anything that you desire and have it charged. Pay later according to your convenience. Through our great organization and concentrated buying power of 116 stores, we can offer you privileges and accommodations that you may have difficulty in getting elsewhere. Our charge account system is extended absolutely free of charge to our patrons. No interest, no extras, no red tape.

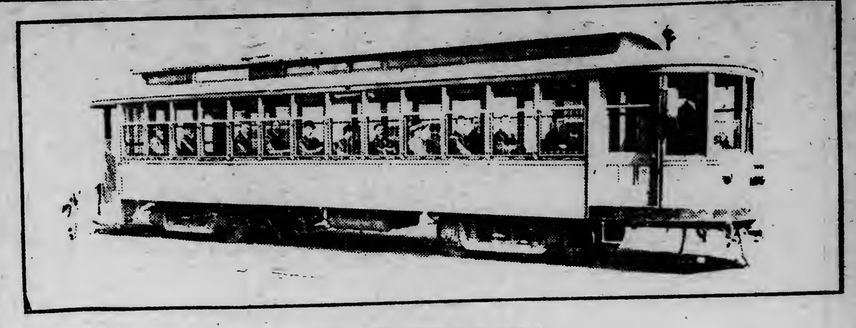
"LADIES AND GENTLEMEN, ON THE RIGHT WE SEE---" REAL "RUBBERNECK" TROLLEY CARS FOR DULUTH



THE "RUBBERNECK CAR."

"Ladies and gentlemen, to the right you see the Alworth building—the tallest structure in the city of Duluth. This, ladies and gents, is to Duluth what the Woolworth building or the Singer tower is to New York. Here we are, ladies and gents, the Aerial bridge. This has helped to make Duluth famous. It is the only bridge of its kind in the world (thank heaven), and tourists have traveled thousands of miles to see it. Here we have * * *"

We are going to have sight-seeing trolley rides in our city this summer. "Ask Mr. Hanna" is the man who has started the thing. There will be a lecturer on the car—one who is paid, understand—not a Socialist or a disgruntled taxpayer or a man who runs for office every two years, but a college youth captured in the wilds of the Minnesota campus and tamed. The special sight-seeing trolley will travel from Fifth avenue west and Superior street as far east as Lester Park. Everything we have in the city will be explained, eulogized and patted on the back. The young man who is to do the lecturing has been instructed to get a lot of local color and a lot of facts, some figures, and to draw on his imagination. Old residents who have lived here for the last fifty years should be especially interested in the trip, as they will undoubtedly learn a lot of things about the city. Go out and get acquainted, citizens and citizenesses.

The entire trip will consume something like two hours. It will cost only four bits, and a special car with only cross seats will be provided by the traction company.

Prominent residents of Duluth are invited to call in and give interesting and romantic bits of family history that can be woven into the lecture when the car is passing their homes. For instance, if your great grandfather was scalped by the Indians while attempting to locate the present site of the city, or if your paternal grandmother did the first crochet work in Northern Minnesota, or if your grandfather and grandmother were married on horseback while being pursued by wolves (how silly), bring down the facts. It will make great stuff for the young man to tell on the illustrated lecture trolley tour.

Think of all the time, labor and trouble Burton Holmes was put to in order to gather facts and other things for his illustrated lecture. Any interesting family history or scandal of those persons owning palatial homes, will be most gratefully received.

Mr. Hanna believes that Duluth is one of the distinctly show cities of America. He is going to make the trip interesting to tourists—and also others. Help Mr. Hanna help make it interesting by collecting data. At first the trip will cover only the East end, Lakeside and Darkest Woodland, but later an industrial tour through the West end and West Duluth may be added.

BOTH BLAMED BY THE COURT

Marriage in Cloutiers' Case Not Merely Failure, But a Panic.

Neither Entitled to Divorce, But Bonds of Matrimony Are Severed.

Although neither is entitled to a divorce because of the misconduct of the other, Judge Ensign of the district court has decreed that the bonds of matrimony existing between Darcy E. Cloutier, 30, and his wife, Malvina C. Cloutier, 34, should be dissolved.

Under the court's decree, which was filed with the clerk yesterday afternoon, it is adjudged that each has treated the other in a cruel and inhumane manner and therefore is not entitled to a divorce.

"But," the court adds, "the conduct of both plaintiff and defendant has been such, and the possibility of future conjugal happiness in said marriage relationship one with the other is such, that the court deems it advisable and for the best interests of all concerned and particularly for the children that the bonds of matrimony heretofore existing between plaintiff and defendant be dissolved."

Corsets as Weapons.

In his bill for divorce, Cloutier accused his wife of having inflicted bodily injuries upon him. He recited one instance where she had used a pair of her corsets as a weapon to strike him with. On Oct. 16, 1914, he claimed, she struck him over the nose until it bled and then boasted of her act to others.

Cloutier also alleged that his home had been neglected by her and that their children were sent to school with such an untidy appearance that the teacher put in a complaint. The health department, he claimed, also investigated the condition of his home. The Cloutiers have been living on Park Point.

Cloutier, the plaintiff, at the time he started the divorce action, was defendant in a criminal prosecution for wife desertion. When he left the city in April, 1913, his wife notified the police that he had eloped with a nurse from the city contagious hospital, where he had been employed as janitor.

Later, Cloutier was arrested on a charge of wife desertion. He was allowed, however, to plead guilty to a charge of non-support and was required by the court to put up a bond to support his wife. When the bond expired he again left home and was again indicted by the May, 1914, grand jury on a charge of wife abandonment. He returned to the city last October and was arrested by the sheriff under the May indictment. He pleaded not guilty. The case has never been brought to trial.

Answer and Cross Bill.

Mrs. Cloutier in her answer and cross bill alleged that her husband's suit for divorce was brought in an attempt to justify his course of conduct in abandoning her. She also brought charges of desertion and cruelty against him and asked the court to dismiss his complaint and grant her the divorce.

Both sought the custody of the five children. The court, however, held that the children should be left in the care of the mother and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jules Charboneau of Hull, Ont., where three of them have been residing for some time past.

Judge Ensign, in his decree, orders that Cloutier pay his wife $50 for attorney's fees and $25 monthly allimony for the support of the children. It is understood that the criminal case against Cloutier has been dropped and that it will not be prosecuted.

CHIEF TURNS IN HIS STAR

"Mac May Want It," Says Troyer as He Leaves Office.

Will Begin His New Duties at Fargo Saturday Morning.

"Well, boys, I've turned in my star."

That was "Former Chief of Police" C. H. Troyer's good-by to the force at headquarters this morning, after twenty-four years of service as a police officer in Duluth.

"I might have kept it," he added with a smile, "but Mac may want to use it until the new badges come." The chief had worn the star on his vest near the arm-pit for twelve years. With it he surrendered to Assistant Secretary Fred Johnson his flashlight and other equipment carried by officers.

Shortly after 12 o'clock Mr. Troyer saw the last of a long line of callers that had kept him busy since early morning. Included in the line were the usual number of citizens with petty grievances, but in addition there were many old friends, prominent business men, who "dropped in" to wish him "God-speed."

His last conference as chief was with a member of the health department, who sought the aid of patrolmen in forwarding clean-up work.

Chief R. D. McKercher began to take possession this afternoon, and by tomorrow morning the change in regime will have been effected.

Mr. Troyer will leave for Fargo, N. D., tonight and will take up his work as chief of police there at once upon his arrival. Mrs. Troyer, with her daughter Bernice and sons Mark and Stanley, will remain at the family residence, 1722 Greysolon road, until June.

NEW CHIEF TO CLEAN UP CITY

Silberstein Declares All Undesirables Must Leave Duluth.

Police Will Raid Places That Are Found to Be Disorderly.

All undesirables must leave the city.

This is the order issued today by Commissioner Silberstein, head of the safety division, to Robert D. McKercher, when the latter assumed the duties of chief of the police department.

As a result Chief McKercher will shortly start a careful investigation and those undesirable men and women, who have failed to take the above warning and remained in town, will be arrested.

"This is final," declared Commissioner Silberstein this morning. "We will not tolerate any undesirables in Duluth and I propose to start at once and clean our city. The law must be enforced and prostitutes above all must get out. Those, who came here since the election, believing that Duluth was going to 'open up' will find they misjudged conditions and the sooner they leave, the better.

"The police have information on a number of suspicious houses, now operating under blinds of some kind, and we will raid every such place, if necessary. I have instructed the new chief to start at once and clean our city. I want Duluth to be a good, clean moral town and the law properly enforced during my term of office."

The police claim that many women came to Duluth from Superior and the range towns immediately after the election and that they are now on the streets. These are to be watched from now on and those failing to leave town and who continue to ply their trade, will be arrested. Chief McKercher is in accord with the commissioner's wishes and declared that he will do everything in his power to clean the city of all undesirables.

"Duffy's a Lasting Benefit"

MR. FRED F. ZINK.

Her husband relieved of stomach trouble of 12 years' standing, Mrs. Zink wrote us over two years ago as follows:

"My husband suffered with stomach trouble for over 12 years, during which time he doctored with three doctors who gave him no relief. He kept growing worse, had to be very careful as to what he ate, as things always soured on his stomach, but thank God, after taking three bottles of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey he was entirely cured. He still takes it as a tonic and we would never be without it. He now looks fine and weighs 180 pounds. I can highly recommend it to any one afflicted with stomach trouble."—Mrs. Fred F. Zink.

She now writes that Duffy's is keeping them both in health:

"I am glad to say that my husband and I are still using Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. He is as healthy as can be, and says that Duffy's is a flesh builder remedy that can be guaranteed to make any thin person stout. It is certainly increasing my weight fine."—(Signed Mrs. Fred F. Zink, 2228 Saratoga Street, New Orleans, La.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

is an absolutely pure tonic stimulant which should be in every home. It is made from sound grain thoroughly malted, including barley the most expensive grown. Repeated refinings, or distillations, are resorted to in order that injurious by-products may be removed. This leaves only the sound wholesome soul of the grain which gives to Duffy's the healthful benefit so necessary for medical use. That's why it helps improve the appetite and digestion, aids in making new rich blood, assists in rebuilding wornout tissues and feeding starved nerves. It's a medicine for all mankind which has stood the test for generations, and today men and women everywhere know from actual experience that they can always

TO ESTABLISH SAFETY ZONES

Fourteen "Silent Cops" for Use in Making Near-Corner Stops.

Police Will Aid Traction Company in Bettering Traffic Conditions.

Fourteen safety zones, known as "silent policemen," will be established on downtown business corners next week, when the near-corner stop will be put into effect by the Duluth Street Railway company.

This announcement was made today by Commissioner Silberstein, head of the safety division, after a conference with Herbert Warren, general manager of the street car company. The zones, he said, will be located on near corners from Sixth avenue west to First avenue east.

According to the plans of the commissioner, the safety zones will be marked by two standards a distance of about four feet from the street car tracks and connected with a heavy rope. A small sign, bearing the words, "Cars stop here," will be suspended from the rope, thus designating to the public where they can wait for the street cars. A zone will be about ten feet long.

In addition, no vehicle will be allowed to stop at the curb alongside a zone, so that moving vehicles will have no trouble in passing. In this way automobiles and teams will not be tied up whenever a car stops to receive or discharge passengers, as they will be able to pass to the right of the zone. At present, all vehicles must stop at least ten feet before a street car that is discharging passengers.

Mr. Warren said this morning that the company is ready to start the near-corner stop plan at once, and that it will be done as soon as the safety zones are in. In this way, he said, the public will understand where the cars stop and there will be no confusion when the change is made.

TRUSTEES APPOINTED.

Uncles Take Charge of Property of Three Minor Children.

Judge Dancer of the district court has appointed Elof Anderson and Andrew Johnson trustees for the money and property belonging to the estate of Mrs. Ellen Johnson, whose death occurred in this city on March 30, 1914.

Mrs. Johnson left cash amounting to $2,545.03 and some realty. Under the terms of her will, the property was bequeathed to her children, of which there are three, Mamie, Herbert and Anita.

The will provided that if the children were not of ago at the time of her death, their uncles, Elof Anderson and Andrew Johnson, should take charge as trustees and take care of their property for them.

The appointment of the two men as trustees was in conformity with his provision of the will.

WILL DYNAMITE WOODEN BRIDGE

Old Structure at Fond du Lac Will Be Demolished.

Fond du Lac will be attacked bright and early next Monday morning.

No, this is not a warning by the German government, nor an ultimatum by Japan.

It is merely an announcement by Commissioner Farrell, head of the works division, who has ordered the wooden bridge over Mission cheek dynamited next Monday morning.

Residents in the suburb, if awakened by loud explosions, should not jump out of bed and begin packing, for fear of an invasion by some foreign power, nor should they run to Judges Cant, Windom or Cutting for protection. They should merely sit back and smile, for the "little old bridge" will be gone, at last.

The old wooden structure has served for many years, but it served only when the water was low, for whenever it rained heavily or there was an overflow of Mission creek, the bridge was impassible. This was especially true following the heavy flood two years ago Memorial day.

It was after that flood that the council decided to construct a new bridge and the dynamiting next Monday morning will be the first step. Commissioner Farrell will motor to Fond du Lac tomorrow and make arrangements for the "attack," and within a few weeks active construction of the new bridge will begin.

The new bridge will be in the form of a concrete arch and will cost about $3,500.

JITNEYS MUST HAVE SYSTEM

Safety Head Will Insist on Having Routes and Schedules.

Jitneurs Object; City Attorney Preparing Final Draft of Ordinance.

Although jitney drivers are objecting to amendments to the jitney ordinance, establishing regular routes and daily schedules, Commissioner Silberstein, head of the safety division, said this morning that these provisions will be included in the measure when it comes up for passage next Monday evening.

City Attorney Greene is now preparing the amendments establishing routes and schedules and also those recommended last Monday evening by Capt. C. C. Teare, attorney for the Duluth Jitney association. At the council meeting last Monday he protested against many of the features of the ordinance, when it was given its second reading and his suggestions made to the commissioners were approved. These will all be incorporated in the amendments now being prepared, the city attorney said today.

"This ordinance," said Commissioner Silberstein, "will be complete when it comes up for passage next Monday. We do not want a measure that will legislate but partly and which will not protect the public, although it will be favorable to the jitney drivers.

"At present jitneys can be found by the scores between 11 o'clock in the morning and 1 o'clock in the afternoon and after 6 o'clock in the evening, but there are but a few operating the rest of the day, unless on Sunday. We want the jitneys all the time and we want them to operate systematically. Of course, some of the drivers are objecting to routes and schedules, but if they want to operate on our streets, the citizens have a right to demand efficient service."

In all probability the amendments now being prepared will include a surety bond in place of liability insurance, while the annual license may be reduced from $20, the amount specified in the ordinance.

COMPULSORY CLEAN-UP WORK

City Attorney Frames Measure to Force Property Owners to Act.

Police and Health Officials Need More Power, Says Silberstein.

City Attorney Greene is now preparing an ordinance that will compel every property owner to keep his grounds clean, and if he fails to do so, will give the public safety division the power to order the work done and the costs charged to the owner himself.

Many property owners during the last few weeks have refused to clean their yards when ordered to do so by the health department, and because of the fact that there is no legislation affecting such a case, the authorities have been unable to act. As a result, Commissioner Silberstein has instructed the city attorney to prepare an ordinance giving the police and health departments more power.

With such an ordinance in effect, the commissioner is confident that Duluth can be made a spotless city. Those who have refused to follow the orders of his subordinates will readily do so in the future, he believes, or be assessed for the cost of having it done.

Such an ordinance is in effect in several cities of the country, and it is the plan of Mr. Silberstein to have it ready for introduction at the council meeting next Monday. He is eager to put it into effect at once, so that the city can be made clean before the summer season begins.

JITNEYS MUST HAVE SYSTEM

Safety Head Will Insist on Having Routes and Schedules.

Jitneurs Object; City Attorney Preparing Final Draft of Ordinance.

Although jitney drivers are objecting to amendments to the jitney ordinance, establishing regular routes and daily schedules, Commissioner Silberstein, head of the safety division, said this morning that these provisions will be included in the measure when it comes up for passage next Monday evening.

City Attorney Greene is now preparing the amendments establishing routes and schedules and also those recommended last Monday evening by Capt. C. C. Teare, attorney for the Duluth Jitney association. At the council meeting last Monday he protested against many of the features of the ordinance, when it was given its second reading and his suggestions made to the commissioners were approved. These will all be incorporated in the amendments now being prepared, the city attorney said today.

"This ordinance," said Commissioner Silberstein, "will be complete when it comes up for passage next Monday. We do not want a measure that will legislate but partly and which will not protect the public, although it will be favorable to the jitney drivers.

"At present jitneys can be found by the scores between 11 o'clock in the morning and 1 o'clock in the afternoon and after 6 o'clock in the evening, but there are but a few operating the rest of the day, unless on Sunday. We want the jitneys all the time and we want them to operate systematically. Of course, some of the drivers are objecting to routes and schedules, but if they want to operate on our streets, the citizens have a right to demand efficient service."

In all probability the amendments now being prepared will include a surety bond in place of liability insurance, while the annual license may be reduced from $20, the amount specified in the ordinance.

COMPULSORY CLEAN-UP WORK

City Attorney Frames Measure to Force Property Owners to Act.

Police and Health Officials Need More Power, Says Silberstein.

City Attorney Greene is now preparing an ordinance that will compel every property owner to keep his grounds clean, and if he fails to do so, will give the public safety division the power to order the work done and the costs charged to the owner himself.

Many property owners during the last few weeks have refused to clean their yards when ordered to do so by the health department, and because of the fact that there is no legislation affecting such a case, the authorities have been unable to act. As a result, Commissioner Silberstein has instructed the city attorney to prepare an ordinance giving the police and health departments more power.

With such an ordinance in effect, the commissioner is confident that Duluth can be made a spotless city. Those who have refused to follow the orders of his subordinates will readily do so in the future, he believes, or be assessed for the cost of having it done.

Such an ordinance is in effect in several cities of the country, and it is the plan of Mr. Silberstein to have it ready for introduction at the council meeting next Monday. He is eager to put it into effect at once, so that the city can be made clean before the summer season begins.

TO ESTABLISH SAFETY ZONES

Fourteen "Silent Cops" for Use in Making Near-Corner Stops.

Police Will Aid Traction Company in Bettering Traffic Conditions.

Fourteen safety zones, known as "silent policemen," will be established on downtown business corners next week, when the near-corner stop will be put into effect by the Duluth Street Railway company.

This announcement was made today by Commissioner Silberstein, head of the safety division, after a conference with Herbert Warren, general manager of the street car company. The zones, he said, will be located on near corners from Sixth avenue west to First avenue east.

According to the plans of the commissioner, the safety zones will be marked by two standards a distance of about four feet from the street car tracks and connected with a heavy rope. A small sign, bearing the words, "Cars stop here," will be suspended from the rope, thus designating to the public where they can wait for the street cars. A zone will be about ten feet long.

In addition, no vehicle will be allowed to stop at the curb alongside a zone, so that moving vehicles will have no trouble in passing. In this way automobiles and teams will not be tied up when near a car stops to receive or discharge passengers, as they will be able to pass to the right of the zone. At present, all vehicles must stop at least ten feet before a street car that is discharging passengers.

Mr. Warren said this morning that the company is ready to start the near-corner stop plan at once, and that it will be done as soon as the safety zones are in. In this way, he said, the public will understand where the cars stop and there will be no confusion when the change is made.

Uncles Take Charge of Property of Three Minor Children.

Judge Dancer of the district court has appointed Elof Anderson and Andrew Johnson trustees for the money and property belonging to the estate of Mrs. Ellen Johnson, whose death occurred in this city on March 30, 1914.

Mrs. Johnson left cash amounting to $2,515.03 and some realty. Under the terms of her will, the property was bequeathed to her children, of which there are three, Mamie, Herbert and Anita.

The will provided that if the children were not of age at the time of her death their uncles, Elof Anderson and Andrew Johnson, should take charge as trustees and take care of their property for them.

The appointment of the two men as trustees was in conformity with his provision of the will.

WILL DYNAMITE WOODEN BRIDGE

Old Structure at Fond du Lac Will Be Demolished.

Fond du Lac will be attacked bright and early next Monday morning.

No, this is not a warning by the German government, nor an ultimatum by Japan.

It is merely an announcement by Commissioner Farrell, head of the works division, who has ordered the wooden bridge over Mission creek dynamited next Monday morning.

Residents in the suburb, if awakened by loud explosions, should not jump out of bed and begin packing, for fear of an invasion by some foreign power, nor should they run to Judges Cant, Windom or Cutting for protection. They should merely sit back and smile, for the "little old bridge" will be gone, at last.

The old wooden structure has served for many years, but it served only when the water was low, for whenever it rained heavily or there was an overflow of Mission creek, the bridge was impassible. This was especially true following the heavy flood two years ago Memorial day.

It was after that flood that the council decided to construct a new bridge and the dynamiting next Monday morning will be the first step. Commissioner Farrell will motor to Fond du Lac tomorrow and make arrangements for the "attack," and within a few weeks active construction of the new bridge will begin.

The new bridge will be in the form of a concrete arch and will cost about $9,500.

"BEYOND THE POINT OF ROCKS"

THREE MORE ENTER RACE FOR QUEEN OF THE MAY CARNIVAL

MISS RUTH PETERSON.

The race for the honor of being May queen at the celebration to be held by the West end business men on May 28 is becoming more exciting. Three more young women of this end of the city announced their names as contestants yesterday.

Miss Ruth Peterson of 22 Fifteenth avenue west, formally entered the contest and left her name with the merchants to enable them to remind those who wished to vote that she is a contestant.

Announcement of the entries of Miss Anna Olson, 2320 West Second street, bookkeeper for Enger & Olson, and of Miss Goodney Neilson of Restormel street also were made yesterday. This brings the number of contestants up to five, and, it is confidentially said by some of the young men, that several others will enter early next week.

It is claimed that the Modern Samaritan and Yeomen and other lodges intend having a representative each in the race, but have not yet decided on the names to present. Miss Linda Olson and Miss Inga A. Brende announced their candidacy earlier in the week.

ACTIVE YEAR IN BUILDING

Six Large Structures Now Being Constructed in West End.

Four to Front on Superior Street; Large Sums Expended.

Building activities in the West end are fast assuming proportions that will rival the busiest period of any former year in the history of this end of the city. Six large buildings are now in the various stages of construction, four of which will front on Superior street.

The largest of the business blocks is the one under construction by the John Wahl Candy company at Twenty-sixth avenue west and Michigan street. This building will have a frontage of fifty feet on Michigan street and be 120 feet deep. It will have a full basement and be two stories high. It will be used for a factory.

The Standard Oil company is getting ready to erect a large service station at the southeast corner of Superior street and Twenty-second avenue west. This improvement will cost, it is estimated, about $7,000. The site contained a high knoll, and this has already been graded down to the level of the street.

A handsome building is under construction on Superior street between Nineteenth and Twentieth avenues, which will be the future home of the Minnesota Tea company. The building will have a full basement, and the front part will be one story high while the rear half will be two stories. This building will cost $20,000 when completed.

Frank Johnson is just completing a handsome building for the Independent Bakery company that will cost nearly $20,000. The building has a 50-foot frontage and is 140 feet deep. It is located between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth avenues on Superior street. The ovens for the bakery will be of the latest type and will each cost about $2,500. The place will soon be ready to be occupied.

A large garage building, one story high, with a 50-foot front on Superior street and 140 feet deep, will be built on Superior street, between Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth avenues. The construction of the foundation has already been started. The place will cost $7,000.

Jacobson Bros., contractors, have already placed a crew of men at work on the construction of the Junior high school. This building will be erected adjoining the Lincoln school. This addition to the school facilities of the West end will cost the city about $100,000. It will be completed late in the fall, and will be ready to put into use at the opening of the second semester of school next winter.

These contractors have also recently completed building a handsome brick business block on Third street just west of Twenty-ninth avenue. This building cost about $6,000. The brick structure replaced a frame building, which during the last three years was damaged by fire several times.

P. George Hanson & Son have started the construction of three residences on Fourth street, west of Twenty-second avenue, each of which will cost about $3,900. These will be completed in about two months.

FARRELL WILL ADDRESS CLUB

Public Works Commissioner to Be at Ensign School.

Commissioner J. A. Farrell will be the principal speaker this evening at the meeting of the West End Hillside Improvement club at the Ensign school, Twenty-third avenue west and Tenth street. The commissioner will be asked to give his views on the proposed lowering of the grade of Piedmont avenue above Tenth street.

It is proposed to lower the grade for the purpose of allowing the street railway company to extend its tracks away from the vicinity of the Ensign school. The tracks, at present, terminate in front of the school and the switches necessary to turn the cars around are said to be a menace to the children attending the school.

The residents will also ask the commissioner to provide some drain to take care of the overflow from the public fountain at Fourteenth street and Piedmont avenue. This overflow is now running down the stone gutters of Piedmont avenue and is said to be rapidly ruining them. It is proposed to ask for a drain that will carry the water into Miller's creek, which would only require the laying of a small pipe a distance of about thirty feet.

Baby's Happiness Depends on Health

Cross, fretful babies usually need a laxative to make them comfortable, and comfort begets happiness. Constipation is the cause of much discomfort. Mothers should watch closely the condition of their children's bowels and see that they are regular.

A mild, pleasant tasting laxative such as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is ideal for children because of its natural composition and gentle action, and because it contains no opiate, narcotic or other harmful habit-forming drug. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sold by druggists everywhere. A teaspoonful at bedtime will bring easy, certain relief.

A free trial bottle can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 452 Washington St., Monticello, Ills.

DOCUMENT IS WELL WORDED

Delegates at World Court Congress Approve Note to Germany.

Solid Support of America at Command of the Government.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 14.—Delegates to the World Court congress read President Wilson's note to Germany with grave concern today. All agreed that whatever contingency arises the government will receive the firm support of the nation.

"The American public will stand back of the government in any exigency which arises," said John Hays Hammond, chairman of the congress.

"In the present situation the solid support of America is at the command of the president and leaders in social and economic life undoubtedly will be glad to lend him the support of their patriotic and helpful counsel.

"I have no doubt in the absence of congress he is enlisting the counsel of men experienced in international affairs and representing all parties and all sentiments."

Well-Worded Document.

Henry Lane Wilson, former minister to Mexico said:

"The note to Germany is an excellently worded state document. Americans generally desire peace, but not at a sacrifice of honor and dignity and the note seems to express this attitude.

"If the situation develops to that point where it is impossible to avoid conflict, the American people will stand solidly behind the government.

"In such an event, ancestry, religion and politics will have, in my opinion, absolutely no influence on the attitude of our citizenry, 'hyphenated' or otherwise."

Without Serious Break.

Dr. John Wesley Hill of New York said:

"It is to be hoped that this crisis will be passed without a serious break in the long standing friendship existing between Germany and the United States.

"Self-respect and national honor, however, arise above all other considerations, and as President Wilson asserts and defends them, he is assured of the sympathy and support of the American people."

The World Court congress today entered on the third and last day of its session. Dr. Albert Shaw, Dr. Harry A. Garfield, Prof. Jeremiah W. Jenks and Prof. Samuel T. Dutton were speakers at the day sessions.

Tonight John Mitchell, Dr. John Wesley Hill, Gen. Ballington Booth and Dr. Charles F. Thwing will be the speakers.

Acted With Caution.

Springfield, Ill., May 14.—Governor Dunne, commenting on the American note to Germany, today said: "The president and his advisers at Washington have acted with the utmost caution and deliberation.

"They have only formulated the position of this republic as to the protection of the lives and rights of its citizens after sufficient time has elapsed to let reason and law supplant the shock that resulted from the loss of so many non-combatant American lives.

"The American nation, through its president, has spoken, and the patriotic citizenship of the republic stands loyally behind him and will sustain him to the end.

Prompted by Patriotism.

Frankfort, Ky., May 14.—"President Wilson, I believe, is prompted by patriotism, justice and firmness in the declaration he has made public," Governor James B. McCreary of Kentucky said today.

"The president's statement seems to be positive, firm, comprehensive and up to the demands of the occasion."

active in effecting initial declines but selling for this account was not especially aggressive.

War Shares Weaken.

As the session progressed war shares continued to weaken, Bethlehem Steel and New York Airbrake losing 3 to almost 5 points. Motor stocks were correspondingly lower, but representative issues held at their quotations of the first half hour, with here and there a substantial rally.

The decline was without any of the sensational features which attended the movement of a week ago, when the market collapsed on news of the sinking of the Lusitania.

A canvass of the leading banking and brokerage houses showed a condition of outward calm. There was a general disposition to believe that Berlin would receive the president's communication in a conciliatory spirit.

Sales in the first hour amounted to 210,600 shares.

Another Selling Movement.

The second hour was one of almost utter stagnation, but just before noon another selling movement wiped out much of the early recovery. Reading and Steel were again singled out, the former coming within a fraction of its low price of last week. Other less active shares reflected equal pressure. Sales to midday amounted to 300,000 shares.

The market became decidedly more active during the noon hour, altogether, at the expense of quoted values. All the leaders made lower prices, Steel declining to 50⅜, a loss of 2⅝ points.

Numerous specialties were lower by 3 to 5 points.

be available against the French offensive.

In the eastern field the Germanic forces in Galicia who are said to number 1,500,000 men are reported to be within twenty miles of Przemysl. The Russians would appear to be developing counter attacks on the West Galician front and in Bukowina and they claim initial successes, but military men here are careful of committing themselves on the outcome of these activities pending further developments.

War Not Over Soon.

The hint made by Lord Haldane of the possibility of conscription has been interpreted in some quarters as meaning there is now less confidence that the war will be over by fall and that the authorities are making their dispositions in case another winter campaign is necessary.

The resignation of the Italian cabinet has nonplussed the general public, but well informed political observers think this is only a move in the game and that the final development will be the advent of Italy on the side of the allies.

The opinion has been advanced, although without official sanction, that the king probably will reinstate the cabinet and that Premier Salandra will accept the king's judgment as equivalent to a vote of confidence by the country.

French Statement.

Paris, May 14, 2:30 p. m.—The French war office this afternoon issued the following statement on the progress of hostilities:

"It has been raining without stop since yesterday morning. Last night, in spite of the handicap of a difficult and slippery terrain, we occupied several German trenches to the southwest of Souchez and we have maintained on the rest of the front from Loos to Arras all the gains recently made by us.

"In the valley of the Aisne we yesterday destroyed four German blockhouses and leveled several trenches."

bers of the legislature and the state committee,—intended to make the position of the party known at the convention. He said he did not understand my action in voting for Vice President Sherman as temporary chairman as he understood I did not approve of some of the things done during the administration of Mr. Taft. He said he thought I should have voted for him as temporary chairman.

Did Not Agree With Him.

"I said I had read his speech at Osawatomie and the doctrine of new nationalism and that I did not agree with his ideas. He made some other references to Mr. Taft that are not material."

Barnes then explained how Col. Roosevelt became temporary chairman of the convention, and said that in appointing the committee on resolutions the delegation from Mr. Sherman's district had recommended a man, but that Col. Roosevelt appointed someone else. Mr. Barnes told of the action of the convention in nominating Henry L. Stimson for governor. Mr. Barnes said he nominated no one. Col. Roosevelt made the speech nominating Mr. Stimson after he had retired as temporary chairman.

templated pending the receipt of Germany's reply. The president took a short automobile ride before the cabinet meeting and will leave late tonight on the yacht Mayflower for New York to review the Atlantic fleet there next week.

During the trip, which will last nearly a week, the president will be kept in touch with every development in the situation, but only important matters will be placed before him. He has declined many invitations to events in New York not connected with the review of the fleet.

British View.

London, May 14.—Referring to the note of President Wilson to the government of Germany, the Westminster Gazette says:

"The central fact is that, in the name of humanity and international law, the United States demands a guarantee that the rights of neutrals to travel over any portion of the seas, in neutral or belligerent vessels, shall be respected. This is of profound importance, not only for the present war, but for the future peace and security of the world, and by dispatching this note the greatest of the neutral powers definitely takes a stand on maintaining the limits hitherto set down for warfare at sea.

Should Spare Advice.

"President Wilson is acting for the honor and the safety of the American people, and all of us who have the bias of belligerents will do well to spare him advice or comment in dealing with the situation which may arise out of the dispatch of this note.

"It is more than our cause which is at stake and more than our interests that have to be considered. We will merely take note of the fact that one of the greatest issues of the war is sharply defined in this note and that the answer, whatever it may be, must make clear to the whole world whether or not Germany definitely abjures legal sanction to the limitations of that which hitherto has been unchallengeable between nations."

KING CALLS STATESMEN

tion to the court better than that which might have issued from the clash of contending elements.

Some believe he will summon the cabinet before the chamber of deputies for discussion of its course, being guided himself by what these discussions reveal, while others argue that Premier Salandra resigned because of the attitude of Signor Giolitti and that Giolitti must, of necessity, take the place of Salandra.

Neither Course Possible.

Most dispassionate observers are of the opinion that neither of these courses is possible, arguing that in such a grave hour of the national life the men in power must have behind them the support of at least a very large majority of parliament. It would be impossible for either Giolitti of the retiring ministry after the bitter recriminations of the last fifteen days to win such support. Consequently, it is argued that the king probably will choose a new cabinet composed of men who have not taken part in the heated exchange.

AMERICAN PEOPLE STAND FIRMLY BEHIND PRESIDENT WILSON

response go out from every corner of the land. We are all Americans.

DIGNIFIED AND LOGICAL.

Albany, N. Y., Argus: Dignified in its tone, logical in its argument and conclusions, firm in its demands, the United States note to Germany reflects the poise of the president, Woodrow Wilson, under most trying circumstances.

ISSUE PLACED SQUARELY.

Albany, N. Y., Knickerbocker Press: The note places the issue squarely before Germany for action, and an announcement of future policy acceptable to the United States government, particularly a policy of sea warfare, must not long be delayed.

A GRAVE ALTERNATIVE.

Columbus, Ohio, Ohio State Journal: How Germany will promise to protect the lives and property of our people in the future, or in what manner this country will receive her refusal to, remains to be seen. It is a grave alternative; and while it is not likely to result in war, it will bring about an enmity toward Germany that will be full of anxiety.

LITTLE ROOM FOR PARLEY.

Louisville Courier Journal: The note to Germany meets the requirements and is such as the government of the United States should address to Berlin. The president leaves little room for parley and none other than mouthings or funture remains for Germany.

GERMANY MUST EXPLAIN.

Louisville Anzeiger: We agree with the president that the German government must explain the loss of the lives of American passengers, but we do not think that the death of Americans gives the president the right to demand the cessation of Germany's undersea warfare against British commerce so long as England does not abrogate its starvation warfare.

THE NATION'S SENTIMENT.

Chicago Tribune: Whatever the fate of our relations with Germany, the president undoubtedly has voiced the sentiment of the nation upon the use of submarines and as to the rights of neutrals on the high seas.

CANNOT MISTAKE POSITION.

Chicago Herald: There is now no possibility of mistaking the position of our government. And it is a position in which the American people will sustain their government in whatever measures may be necessary to uphold it.

ACCEPTS THE CONSEQUENCES.

Indianapolis Star: In manly fashion the president's note does not shrink from the logical consequences of his position, but accepts the full significance of his attitude.

FORCEFUL DIPLOMACY.

St. Paul Pioneer Press: The American note reached to a wonderful height of forceful diplomacy. Hoping for the best, the universal American sentiment will be that America has done its duty, and the people will support the president through whatever may be the consequences.

A DIGNIFIED PROTEST.

Springfield, Ill., State Journal: It is the dignified protest of a nation which, while feeling that its rights and the rights of other neutrals have been violated, is neither vindictive nor resentful.

BUT ONE SACRED DUTY.

St. Louis Die Westliche Post: For the press of the whole country, there is at present but one sacred duty—to leave nothing undone to avert inner strife. That we Americans of German descent with a bleeding heart contemplate the possibility of an armed conflict between the United States and the land of our forefathers, no fair-minded person will condemn us for. There still is hope for an honorable understanding on both sides. May Providence grant that the worst be averted.

NO BACKWARD STEP.

St. Louis Republic: There is not in the note any slightest hint that this government will stop short of the fullest reparation for the past and the guarantee of the recognition of the full rights of American citizens in the future.

DISAPPOINTING.

Cincinnati Volksblatt: The note is disappointing in that it disregards the just complaints of Germany and appears to espouse the cause of Great Britain. We think that the difficulty admits of a satisfactory solution by advising American citizens to travel on American vessels. Unwittingly the president shelters British cowardice, which tries to make British ships immune to German attacks by taking American passengers aboard.

ENGLAND RESPONSIBLE.

Cincinnati Freie Presse: The part of the note dealing with the loss of lives in the Lusitania catastrophe more properly ought to have been directed to London. England alone is responsible for the Lusitania's destruction through her brutal threat to starve a nation. Germany cannot stop the under-sea warfare without surrendering herself, bound hand and foot to a brutal enemy. We are not obliged and have no right to set up ourselves as the protectors of British shipping.

WHAT AMERICANS THINK.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Commercial Tribune: The strength of a just man armed is apparent in the protest sent by President Wilson. Devoid of truculence, breathing the highest ideals of international justice, this remarkable paper, freighted with momentous possibilities, brushes aside all formalities and in frank and unmistakable language tells the kaiser's government what the American people think of the series of incidents leading up to the slaughter of innocents on board the Lusitania.

NOW UP TO GERMANY.

Washington Post: The note is framed in moderate language and leaves abundant opportunity for the German government to reply in a way that will restore good feeling between the two countries. * * * The question is now up to Germany. It is unnecessary to speculate whether the Americans can note will lead to war or peace, because the issue rests with Germany and not with the United States. The alternative is clearly set forth.

GERMANY MUST CHOOSE.

Boston Globe: President Wilson has not shirked a grave responsibility. The American note clearly shows that Germany must relent or take whatever consequences we may decide to adopt.

ENLIGHTENED POSITION.

Boston Herald: President Wilson has never written a great state paper more exactly suited to the occasion. We hope most fervently that in a spirit of reasonableness Germany will coincide with the enlightened position set forth with clarity and power by the president.

WORDS OF A PATRIOT.

Boston Journal: President Wilson's words are those of a patriot. We cannot believe that a nation which is bound by so many ties of friendship to this nation is so far possessed by war madness that she will fail to heed the message.

APPEAL TO SANITY.

Boston Post: The note is all that such a message from a justly aggrieved nation to the aggressor nation should be. In it is the voice of the American people at its finest and best. It is a powerful appeal to German sanity.

ITS MEANING CLEAR.

Philadelphia Public Ledger: The administration has spoken and spoken to the point. The German government cannot have the slightest doubt as to its meaning. Will Germany listen to the voice of prudence before it is too late?

WILL FIGHT TO UPHOLD FLAG.

New Yorker Staats Zeitung: While the Staats Zeitung makes no editorial comment on President Wilson's note today, it has the following to say printed in English: "Nor is this a time to burden millions of the American people with unjust and unnecessary anguish of mind. The German-Americans must suffer in any conflict between the United States and Germany pains of which their fellow citizens can never know anything. It is rather a time for showing them the greatest degree of consideration. They have fought to uphold the flag in the past and they will do so again, against any enemy whatsoever. They deserve the fruits of past loyalty, until they have forfeited the right to claim them. There has never been but one flag under which the German-American has fought. There never can be but one flag under which he will ever fight. And that flag is the Stars and Stripes."

STATES ISSUE SQUARELY.

Philadelphia Record: The note is in every respect a masterly document. It puts the German government squarely in the position of choosing whether it will obey the dictates of conscience, reason and humanity, and retain the friendship of the United States, or accept the stigma of an outlaw nation and deliberately provoke a new quarrel. There can be no mistaking the concluding paragraph of the American note.

MUST BE BACKED UP.

Manchester, N. H., Union: The United States could not have demanded less than it does in this message. We may hope that Germany will come to her senses, * * * but if such shall not be the case, President Wilson's temperate declaration * * * must be backed up if it costs, for every American life already sacrificed, a thousand more of America's best manhood; and for each dollar lost in the sinking of the Lusitania, a million more in treasure.

SOLEMN NOTIFICATION.

Chicago Journal: The president's note is even a more admirable and far-reaching document than was indicated by the summary sent out yesterday. It is particularly admirable in that it makes the defense of American rights an occasion for upholding the rights of humanity. It is a solemn notification that engines of war which violate the rights of neutrals and the principles of humanity cannot be used, no matter how handy some sabre-rattling power might find them.

THE CAUSE OF CIVILIZATION.

Chicago News: Every one who reads the note should bear in mind that the cause represented by the authorities in Washington is not alone the cause of civilization. The ruinous doctrine that international law is whatever a belligerent power chooses to make it had to be challenged in unmistakable terms. The note is admirable in spirit and in substance. The people of the United States stand firmly behind the propositions thus laid down by their government.

VOICE OF A STATESMAN.

Baltimore Sun: There is all the red blood in the message that a red-blooded nation can ask. It is the voice of a statesman speaking the mind of a great people most anxious not to break the peace but determined not to tolerate further wrong.

SUBMARINE MUST YIELD.

Chicago Post: The president strips the issue between the United States and Germany down to this fundamental: If the submarine and international law conflict the submarine, not law, must yield. This is an absoluto negation of "necessity knows no law." It is necessity must know law. We, too, have our necessity as well as those nations whose sense of rights of others may be weakened by the desperation of feeling brought by the war for existence.

FIRM BUT FRIENDLY.

San Francisco Chronicle: Unmistakably firm, the note is yet friendly in tone and though this latter qualification may be displeasing to the jingoes, it commends itself to the common sense of people unafflicted with inflammable hatreds. The nation mourns the loss of her citizens, but while demanding justice does so as one who would render justice to all others.

ATTITUDE CONCILIATORY.

Los Angeles Times: It is apparent that the feeling and attitude of the president and his advisers is conciliatory. That is the state of mind of the country. But America will insist to the last that there be no more murderous attacks on merchantmen carrying non-combatants, women and children.

TRUE PATRIOTISM.

Seattle Times: It is a temperate and meaningful note and 90 per cent of the American people will stand behind the president in his efforts to carry out those real American declarations of true patriotism.

NO JINGO UTTERANCE.

Seattle Post-Intelligencer: It is no jingo utterance, no "mere scrap of paper," but a cool, calm declaration—ultimatum if you please—of this American nation, and in support of it there will be no faltering or division.

MANLY AND PATRIOTIC.

Denver Post: The president's note to Germany is manly and patriotic. The stand of the United States is unquestionable, notwithstanding the suave and diplomatic expressions used. The red-blooded people of the West would have preferred a note containing a little more emphasis and less circumlocution. But, anyhow, come what will, the contents of this note and its sentiment are indorsed by the unanimous sentiment of the great Rocky mountain regions.

TAKES LIFE BY HANGING

Despondent Over Death of Her Father, Mrs. Carlson Commits Suicide.

Lifeless Body Found Suspended From Rafter of Barn.

Despondent over the death of her aged father, Mrs. Matilda Carlson, aged 50 years, hanged herself from a rafter in the barn at the family home, twelve miles from Duluth on the Rice Lake road, about 1:30 p. m. yesterday.

Her lifeless body, suspended by a halter rope from the top of a hay chute, was discovered by Frank Carlson, the husband, not long after the suicide. She was the mother of three children, aged, respectively, 20, 19 and 15 years, and had been married twenty-one years.

Mr. Carlson called the three sons, who were working in the field near by at the time of their mother's death, and then came to Duluth to summon the coroner. Dr. James McAuliffe, deputy coroner, made a trip to the Carlson farm late yesterday, returning last night with the body, which was taken to Crawford's undertaking rooms.

The husband was at a loss to account for his wife's act, although he said that she had been ill for nearly two months, since the death of her father. He left the farm house shortly before 1 o'clock yesterday, he said, and returned about an hour later to find the doors locked.

"I thought Matilda was visiting some of the neighbors, for the key was in its accustomed place under the doorstep," he said, "and so it never occurred to me to worry about her. Later on I went around to the barn for something and saw her body hanging there over the stalls."

Mr. Carlson came to Duluth twenty-eight years ago from the southern part of Sweden and made a comfortable home on an eighty-acre farm near Duluth. Mrs. Carlson joined him seven years later. Her married life has been a happy one until the last month or two, according to other members of the family.

The Easiest Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.—Advertisement.

SHIP CARRIES MANY WOMEN AND CHILDREN

New York, May 14.—Seventy-six cabin passengers and 300 in the steerage were booked to sail for Liverpool today on board the White Star line steamship Cymric. Among the cabin passengers were twenty-six women and seven children, while 40 per cent of those in the steerage were women or children. At the offices of the line it was said that the Cymric carried as many passengers as she could accommodate.

VON MUECKE ANXIOUS ABOUT THE IRON CROSS

Damascus, Syria, via London, May 14.—Lieut. Von Muecke and a landing party from the German cruiser Emden, which escaped when their ship was sunk in the Indian ocean on Nov. 10, have arrived here after six months of adventurous wandering. There are fifty men in the party.

"Have I won the Iron Cross?" was the first question asked by Lieut. Von Muecke.

He and the sailors in his command were delighted when told they were regarded in Germany as heroes and they all have been awarded the coveted cross.

Regular Summer Work on Duluth Short Line Now Going on.

Moose Lake, Minn., May 14.—The Northern Pacific railroad this week began its regular work of improving the roadbed of the Duluth Short line. The operations are being conducted from the Barnum pit, where a huge steam shovel is located, busily scooping up the gravel and loading the waiting trains. As many as 150 cars are being hauled out of this pit daily. There is one "spotting" engine at the pit and on the road hauling in both directions are five trains, some of them making two trips a day. The crews work sixteen hours a day and therefore a train runs as far as it can in the allotted time. They then tie up wherever they happen to be.

BRANCH LABORATORY WILL PROVE BENEFIT

Marquette, Mich., May 14.—Governor Ferris has signed the bill appropriating $5,000 for the establishment of a branch laboratory in the upper peninsula. As the legislature did not specify where the branch is to be located, it lies with the state board of health to decide the question.

There is a strong possibility that the branch laboratory will come to Marquette, although the copper country has been mentioned. One thing appears certain: The branch will come to Marquette, if located in the iron country, and Houghton will be selected if the copper country is chosen. It is proposed to maintain the laboratory in connection with a state institution.

Physicians and municipalities in the upper peninsula will profit by the establishment of a branch laboratory north of the straits. It means that samples of water and other things upon which an analysis is desired will not have to be sent to Madison, Chicago, Ann Arbor, or Lansing.

A VIGOROUS MESSAGE.

There can be no complaint that the president's message to Germany lacks firmness, vigor or courage.

The text is even more vigorous than the unofficial statement of its salient points had indicated.

It was an iron hand, though velvet-gloved, that penned it; and beyond any doubt whatever it sets forth in unmistakable terms the unmistakable judgment of the whole American people.

Moreover, the message makes it clear that while our wish is for peace and friendship, a far higher consideration is that the rights of America and Americans shall be respected, and that the common rights of humanity and civilization shall not be wantonly disregarded.

"The Imperial German government," so runs the last paragraph of the message, "will not expect the government of the United States to omit any word or act necessary to the performance of its sacred duty of maintaining the rights of the United States and its citizens and of safeguarding their exercise and enjoyment."

The president does not mince words in characterizing the acts that have made his message necessary. They are acts of "lawlessness," no less: they are "obviously subversive of the principles of warfare for which the Imperial German government has in the past so wisely and firmly contended;" they are "in clear violation of universally acknowledged international obligation." The use of submarines against neutral merchantmen, and against the merchantmen of belligerents carrying neutral passengers, involves "inevitable violation of many sacred principles of justice and humanity."

Withal, the message is restrained, courteous, dignified, yet now that its text is before us it is clear that there is utterly no danger that anybody will mistake its courtesy for an evidence of timidity.

Coming from a man so widely known as an enemy of war and a friend of peace, this message is doubly significant, doubly strong.

There can be no doubt whatever that this statement of and insistence upon American rights and the rights of humanity reflects, to their entire satisfaction, the sentiments of the American people. Their commendable patience and restraint during the interval between the sinking of the Lusitania and the delivery of the president's message is thus splendidly rewarded.

The issue is now with Germany. If it wishes to add another to its growing list of enemies, it can. If it wishes to recognize the fact that the president voices not only the sentiments of the American people but of neutrals the world around, it can do that. It must understand that the United States does not seek a quarrel, but that all its deepseated love of peace will not stand in the way of necessary action if its well established rights and its self-respect are wantonly jeopardized.

Has anybody noticed whether the women get off the jitneys backward?

ONE MORE DAY OF CLEAN-UP WEEK!

There is but one more day of Clean-up and Paint-up Week in Duluth.

But that day is Saturday, when most people have a little more time, and to which doubtless some have postponed part or all of their work.

Still, so furious was the work early in the week that we have a feeling that these appeals are being directed to a rapidly dwindling audience, and that nearly everybody, now, is sitting back to admire the vastly improved condition of things.

The next step, after the improved condition of things has been sufficiently admired, will be to look about and see how the others have done.

WHAT ARE YOUR NEIGHBORS SAYING ABOUT YOU?

Have they completed their work and are they wondering whether you are ever going to make a start? Let's hope not, but if they are, let's fool 'em. Let's get at it tonight and tomorrow, and prove to them that they have misjudged you by doing a better job than they did.

There's but one more day of Clean-up and Paint-up Week, but that's plenty for a fellow with energy and ginger.

What a glorious year in which to advance the cause of the sane Fourth!

THE LAW OF THE LUSITANIA CASE.

The international law governing such cases as the sinking of the Lusitania appears to be well settled. Yet—though not by any means in the way of justifying or extenuating that act—it is to be remembered that that law was formed to meet conditions differing widely from those that prevail today. The difference comes in the revolutionary and startling advent of the submarine.

Under international law, if Germany had given the Lusitania's passengers and crew half an hour to take to the boats and save themselves, its rights to sink the vessel would have been unquestioned, since capture was impossible.

But the German submarine gave no warning at all.

If the Lusitania had been convoyed, even by a destroyer or two, Germany's right to sink her, passengers and all, would have been beyond cavil.

But the Lusitania was not convoyed.

Under international law, Germany had a right to capture the Lusitania and make a prize of her if she could. Under the conditions above described, she had a right to sink her if capture were impossible, as of course it was.

But under international law Germany had no right to sink without warning this unarmed passenger vessel with her two thousand souls. Either, then, there is no longer any international law that commands respect, or Germany has made a new code to fit her own needs.

The international law here referred to was settled long before there was such a thing as a submarine, and when sea conflicts were between vessels of somewhere near equal size and strength. The submarine, microscopic compared with even a modest cruiser but deadly far beyond its size, will doubtless be Germany's justification for its new code. The submarine manifestly can take no prizes. It is adventuring in perilous waters, far from home ports and very likely without near-by support. It must do its work quickly, or not at all. If it stops in front of a great liner, it may be rammed and sunk. If it calls upon a fast liner to halt, the vessel may quickly hasten its speed and escape.

This, no doubt, will be Germany's justification for the sinking of the Lusitania if there can be such a thing as justification. In all probability, the sober last thought of the world will be that the act cannot be justified at all. The coming of the submarine seems an absurdly inadequate excuse for setting aside regulations which civilization has adopted in the interests of a decent regard for humanity.

Oswald Garrison Villard, in a letter from Washington to his newspaper, the New York Evening Post, thus describes the law of the Lusitania case:

> The question of the ammunition on board has bothered a great many amateur authorities on international law, and even some people in responsible positions. Without reason, however. The fact that the Lusitania had several thousand boxes of ammunition in her hold did not in any wise alter her status as a merchant ship entitled to sufficient time to let her crew and passengers escape before the ship was sunk. It gives the Germans a talking point, but does not alter the essential situation, which is this: Up to this time the law of the sea demanded the removal of crew and passengers, when the prize could not be taken into a harbor. The Germans, by a fiat of their admiralty, served notice that they proposed to abrogate this rule of naval warfare of their own accord, although that rule had been made binding upon them by international agreement, and it has hitherto been accepted by all the world that these international agreements could not be altered save by another international convention.

It should be stated, though this does not alter the facts, which are truly stated, that Mr. Villard, though born in Germany of a German father and an American mother, is not a sympathizer with Germany in the present war.

Whom would you rather see in the White House just about now than Woodrow Wilson?

THE OBSTACLE OF SECTIONALISM.

We hope particularly that every citizen of Southern Minnesota to whom it comes will read the broad-guaged appeal of a Southern Minnesota editor, published in another column on this page, for greater solidarity and less sectionalism in Minnesota.

Coming as it does from the southern part of the state it is particularly interesting and valuable. It states a truth, a melancholy truth but a great and menacing truth, when it says: "There is just one thing which more than any other is holding the state back. That thing is sectionalism. It is apparent that there is too much jealousy between Northern and Southern Minnesota, too much pitting of city interests against country interests."

It is a splendid appeal for a better understanding between the sections and for a stronger and more united effort for the upbuilding of this mighty commonwealth which, as this far-seeing Southern Minnesota man says, abounds in resources which are as yet untouched.

To all that is said in the editorial reprinted on this page The Herald, and we believe every citizen of Northern Minnesota, can and will say "Amen."

All this trouble in the world and nothing heard from Castro. 'S matter?

THERE IS A MIGHTY WORK FOR A CONFERENCE OF NEUTRALS.

Following the sinking of the Lusitania with its complications came the suggestion that a world conference of neutrals be called.

The suggestion at that time was out of place, because America's relationship to the Lusitania tragedy could not be delegated to any conference. It was business that we must attend to ourselves, and that we ARE attending to, through President Wilson, with firmness, courage and self-respecting poise.

But there SHOULD be an international conference and organization of neutrals, and there is a mighty piece of business for it to do.

The question whether the world's affairs shall be arranged for it by the embattled nations or by the nations at peace should be taken up by such a conference, and settled beyond dispute.

Such a conference should declare in unmistakable terms that if Germany England, France, Austria and Russia wish to take up the next few years in destroying each other, that is their business, but that THEY MUST NOT LET THEIR QUARREL FURTHER INTERRUPT THE PEACEFUL BUSINESS OF THE WORLD.

Because some of the nations of Europe, even if they are the greatest, have chosen to involve themselves in a tremendously destructive war is no reason why the nations that prefer peace should be compelled to sit idly by and let the quarrels of others paralyze their commerce and industry.

The world has as much right to insist that these European quarrels and their effects be confined so far as possible to the interested parties as the people of a community have to insist that a street riot shall not interrupt its traffic.

There should by all means be an international conference of neutrals, and it should be called by the United States and should meet as soon as possible. That conference should immediately frame and assert the demand of the peaceable civilized world that the warring nations shall keep their quarrels to themselves, shall let the world highways alone, shall keep their hands off neutral commerce and shall let that part of the world which chooses peace conduct its affairs without wanton interruption.

The war is far from its end. There is utterly no possibility that it will end soon, and a very strong possibility that at its present rate it will take years to decide it.

Must the rest of the world submit idly to a permanent paralysis of the industry and commerce on which the well-being of its people depends, and sit twiddling its thumbs and enduring its idleness in patience while the brawling nations of Europe usurp the theater of the world's affairs?

Is war or peaceful industry the business of this world? If war is its business, then of course the peaceful nations must submit to industrial and commercial paralysis, even to starvation, until the business of war is ended.

If industry is the business of the world, then the warring nations should be told emphatically that if they must fight they must, but that they must keep their fighting within their own borders—that they must let that part of the world which chooses not to fight go ahead with its constructive business of peaceful industry.

A conference of neutrals could take no part in the discussion of the drowning of American men, women and children by a submarine striking from ambush.

A conference of neutrals COULD and SHOULD assert and maintain the world's right to a continuance of its ordinary affairs. It could erect some bulwark against the torrent of madness that is tearing down the pillars of world civilization.

The Futility of Sectionalism

F. E. Hadley, Editor of the Winnebago Enterprise, in the Minneapolis Journal.

We are unanimously agreed that Minnesota, from the pine-clad region of the north, to the fertile farming section bordering the Iowa line, is a mighty good state. It is a state abounding in resources which are as yet untouched, and it is a state that is destined to grow and prosper.

There is just one thing which more than any other is impeding progress in Minnesota, and holding the state back. That thing is sectionalism. It is apparent that there is too much jealousy between Northern and Southern Minnesota, too much pitting of city interests against country interests.

The sooner we cultivate a broader spirit, and discard the narrow viewpoint, the sooner Minnesota will stand out alone and to the fore in the sisterhood of states.

The men who are sent to the legislature to represent the various legislative districts should be thoroughly imbued with the idea that they are to make laws for the whole state, and not for the particular benefit of any clique, clan or interest. We should be Minnesotans first, and Northern, Central or Southern Minnesotans second; our urban or rural ambitions should be subordinated to an earnest desire, for the welfare of the people as a whole.

Selfishness is a common but not a beautiful thing. It is an attribute of even the lowest orders of life. And, while it is but natural that the residents of each section should be desirous of seeing their own particular section built up and enriched, the state will attain greater growth and development, when we all realize the fact that what benefits one particular region has a beneficial effect on all.

Sectionalism has no place in the grand plan of state-building. Sectionalism represents a sordid and narrow view from which no great good can come. Minnesotans should abandon their geographical viewpoints and unite on a general program of state-building.

We of Southern Minnesota realize the fact that, while the needs of Northern Minnesota are vastly different from our own, we are citizens of the same commonwealth, and that the sooner the northern section is fully developed, the better it will be for the southern part of the state. We of the small towns realize the necessity of having big cities. The cities provide markets for the products of our farms, and form manufacturing centers from which we can secure the manufactured necessities.

It is high time that all the people of Minnesota express a desire to be hitched to the chariot of progress, and pull the state out of that threatened rut of sectionalism, which is the greatest menace to our continued advancement. Sectional prejudices should be buried in the Cemetery of Foolish Things, and all unite on a program of construction, which cannot but help be of benefit to every interest, no matter where located in the state.

Let us be men, and abandon all childish tendencies to "get even." Let us be broad-minded, and not attempt to live so much within ourselves and for ourselves.

The Fall of Nineveh.

The herdsmen sang on windy hills
while fast the tidings fled;
The wild-eyed woodman's fire of joy
lit gorge and mountain head;
The unconscious dying roused to hear;
the wife in travail pain
Smiled glad to think she bore her babe
too late for Asshur's reign.

And thus the deep, triumphal chant
went up by cloud and moon;
"The trampling power is low tonight
that cowed a world at noon
As run the dawn's rejoicing gleams
our eager beacons glow,
And hoofs are loud among the hills,
and nations wait to know.

"Now he who tilled shall eat the grain,
the dresser drink the wine,
And tranquil on the weary shall the stars of evening shine.
No more for war's dread Baalim, on many a watered plain,
The starving poor shall offer up their
blood and toil in vain.

"No more the moon on pointed leaves
to eyes unnerved by dread
Shall seem on dewy nights to show
the lance's lurking head!
No more bright hopes and dreams that burned in many a youthful brain
Shall fade beneath the helmet's weight
or die among the slain!

"O'er halls wherein Sennacherib new
wars with captains planned,
While lands kept time in dying groans
to feel his realm expand—
Above their vaunting tiles that told
their fame and Asia's woes—
Oblivion and the mantling mold in godlike satire close.

"They poised the spear against a world
and deemed it tipped the scale,
Lo! much beneath the dark and dust
their vaunted arms avail!
A God they knew not walked the gloom
to mock their armored horde—
The rivers were His battering-ram, the stranger was His sword!

"Now, sweet shall be the cheering dawn, and even with rustling
feet,
And toil beneath the noon for bread
of wife and children, sweet;
For night has come to Nineveh, and
wars are done away."
So herdsmen sang beneath the stars
ere Christ in manger lay.

Oh, Median kings that proved as stern
as Asshur's broken sway—
Oh, hopes, that walked those ancient hills, why prove ye dead today?

—Frederick E. Pierce in New York Times.

Seeing America First

By Fred C. Kelly.

Pulled from Diary:

Two expressions pursue one clear across the continent and back again. There is no escaping them. They are these:

Well, you've struck very exceptional weather here.

There are more automobiles in use here, I guess, for the number of people, than in any city in the United States.

I do not know whether it is a good or bad omen, but less than one man in five met in sleeping or smoking compartments knows who his congressman is. After asking casually a few times and finding that the average traveler did not know the name of his congressional representative, I made it a point to inquire of several score of prosperous looking train acquaintances, and their ignorance of things political in their own localities proved highly entertaining. A number did not know the name of the governor of their state, and only about half knew the names of their United States senators. Most of those who did know had to stop and think a moment. Yet I did not put my inquiry to any but men who looked like persons of affairs.

The answer is that the average human being is unobserving. Probably every representative in congress has his name mentioned in every newspaper in his district numerous times each month. And the chances are that every man who doesn't know the name of his congressman has, nevertheless, seen it in the paper over an over again without it making any impression on him.

These same men would doubtless walk by a new variety of flowering tree or a new building day after day, without knowing it was there.

What are we going to do about this? To be perfectly frank, I really do not know.

No matter how crabbed looking a man may be, and regardless of whether he is standing grouchily on the brick platform of a railway station, walking sullenly along the right-of-way, or leaning gloomily over the gate of an ill-kempt farm yard, this is certain: If you wave your hand at him from a train, he will wave back. There is not a man in the world so mean that he will not wave his hand at anybody who waves a hand at him from a passing train.

Here is another matter of grave concern that I have been investigating:

From the Atlantic to the Pacific coasts and back I have asked at hotels whether the strawberry shortcake on the menu was old fashioned shortcake made of biscuit dough, or new-fangled shortcake made of sweetened sponge cake with a nauseous smear of whipped cream on it. Invariably, the offering has proved to be the latter variety. Then I inquired of a number of capable housewives and learned that sponge cake is just as expensive or more so as an old-fashioned crust made of biscuit dough. I also found out by means of numerous and zealous inquiries that 999 persons out of every thousand prefer the kind of strawberry shortcake that hotels and restaurants do not have. Now, here is the idea: If the variety on the menu costs as much, or more, to manufacture, as the other kind, and is only one-tenth of 1 per cent as popular, why then, do not the chefs switch over to the other side? Why, oh, why not?

Pullman Uplift

New York World: Harsh things have been said by an unreflecting element of the public about the Pullman tipping system and the niggardly policy of the company in tolerating it. How undeserved and unjust these criticisms now appear in the light of Robert T. Lincoln's tribute to the company's benevolence in the treatment of its colored employes! Testifying before the industrial relations commission, Mr. Lincoln, who is vice president and chairman of the Pullman board of directors, said:

> I believe that outside of the learned professions, where they have made some progress, the one large element that has done more to uplift colored men has been afforded through employment by the Pullman company.

The Pullman company, it thus appears, is a chartered steward of the public welfare. It is a "good" corporation engaged in social service. With every car it operates it aids in the uplift of some one of its 6,500 porters. Could the son of the great emancipator be employed in a more appropriate or congenial work?

Passengers who object to tipping, and declare that the imposition could be abolished by raising the porters' wages from the inadequate sum of $27.50 a month now paid them, should bear in mind that tips enable the company to carry on its beneficent mission. To increase the wages of porters would expose them to the dangers of swollen prosperity. As Mr. Lincoln further said, "If you increase their wages and they continue to get tips as at present, they would get much more money. And you can understand how that might not be desirable."

It is in thus protecting the porter from the demoralization of just wages and in preventing him from earning too much of its own funds that the Pullman company shows its ideals of uplift. It is observable, however, that it does not subject his income from tips to any such limitation.

The Half-Brick in Action.

Manchester Guardian: There is one Prussian officer now convalescing in his native country who cherishes a quite special hate for England and her methods of warfare. This officer—and I tell the story as it was told me by an American friend who heard it from the man's own lips—was recently in command of a small detachment who were holding a farm building against our men. The British attack was vigorously pressed, and one by one the Germans were killed or wounded. The officer almost alone remained, unhurt, to meet the final charge of the enemy, and he was preparing to sell his life as dearly as he could when a British soldier with a "disgusting chuckle" seized a broken half-brick and knocked him senseless. The officer (I forget how) subsequently rejoined his own army, and soon afterwards received in an orthodox fashion the wound from which he is now recovering. But the abrasion on his scalp is what is really troubling him, and he declared to my informant that it must be due to this not being considered an honorable wound that he failed to get the Iron Cross for his defense of the farm building.

Trade Picking Up.

Seattle Post-Intelligencer: "I see our traffic with Iceland is increasing."

"How so?"

"Leif Ericson landed on these shores, sailing from there in the year 1000."

"Well?"

"And I notice last week another ship from Iceland arrived."

The Late Unlamented State Legislature

Suggestions and Comments From the State Press.

Thankful for Omissions.

Slayton Herald: The legislature closes with as poor a record of doing things as has ever graced a body of its kind since the state was organized. We say they have a poor record for doing things. Still, how thankful the people of the state should be toward every member for their failure to enact a thousand laws. The state needs no more laws, but it does need the laws that are on the statute books enforced. Anything that will place a black eye on a state is a disregard for law and order.

Thirty-Third Degree Pessimism.

Redwood Falls Gazette: The farce at the Minnesota state capitol, which was by courtesy called the 1915 session, is closed. No action taken by the members of the legislature won the approval of their constituents as much as did this act of closing.

Vacillating, indeterminate, lacking in virility and often even in common sense, the house maundered its way through the ninety days, accomplishing—what?

Occasionally, under pressure too great to be resisted, it passed a bill directed toward the public welfare, the next bill perhaps, being one of which the kindest thing to be said was that it was negative in its results and possibilities. Everything done, except the passing of the county option bill, was negative; nothing positive, nothing consistent or convincing.

The best that can be said of the senate is that it served to checkmate some of the worthless moves made by the house—not a high praise after all.

What will Minnesota do about it?

Forget it for two years, then elect the same men to do the same thing over again?

Summa Summarum.

St. Cloud Times: The session of the legislature cost the state over $300,000. What do we get in return? County option and legalized prize fighting.

A Mark of Credit.

Sandstone Courier: There is at least one good thing, besides passing the county option bill, that the legislature can be given credit for—they didn't pass quite the usual amount of useless bills to clog our statute books.

Compares Well.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: Partisans are trying to blame the non-partisan election law for the weak state legislature, but it don't seem to take root. The body was just as intelligent, as active, as foolish and as grasping as some that previously were elected by the brewery combine.

One Industrious Member.

Baudette Region: If everybody worked as hard as the tongues of the members of the house which has just adjourned you could count all the unemployed on the fingers of one hand.

Governor Corrals What Glory There Is.

Breckenridge Gazette: About the only man who emerged from the late unpleasantness—otherwise the late session of the legislature—with any particular credit, was Governor W. S. Hammond.

For What Was Missed Be Thankful.

Preston Times: The legislature has adjourned and after a time we shall know just what it did and didn't do. Fortunately it did mostly the latter and for this we should be thankful. If it actually be true that it kept the appropriations below the 1913 mark, as is alleged, we have cause for thankfulness. It demonstrated, too, the utter fallacy of the non-partisan law and it is too bad that it was not repealed. However, let us be thankful that it was no worse.

Just a Moment

Daily Strength and Cheer.

Compiled by John G. Quintius, the Sunshine Man.

When you consider the great things God hath done for you, when you think on your glorious privileges, the great blessings you enjoy, and all your gracious receipts, our hearts should and will be ready to cry out, "What shall I render unto the Lord for all His benefits toward me?" Now, you can render nothing to God as a valuable recompense for His favors and blessings. But this is all He seeks, and all that you can give, and that which He will be well satisfied with, that you glorify Him. He lets out to you all the blessings you enjoy for the rent of glory. Resign and give yourselves to God to be His, and to serve Him, and live to Him. "Yield yourselves unto God." You must cordially own His right to you and power over you. Give your hearty consent to be His. None can lay such claim to you as God can do; you can never serve a better master; and you are never more your own than when given up to Him. Therefore resign yourselves to Him deliberately and to His whole will in all things. Resign yourselves to Him wholly, soul and body, to be wholly and forever His. Study much self-denial. Many are discouraged in acting for the glory of God in their place, by incumbrances, inconveniences, and worldly losses they are put to, and scoffs and scorns they meet with. Therefore study to be denied to your own ease, credit and profit, and all your own interests. Lay all down at God's feet. Count nothing too dear to you, so you may be instrumental in promoting the glory of God.—Ibid.

Live in the sunshine, don't live in the gloom,
Carry some gladness the world to illume,
Live in the brightness, and take this to heart:
The world will be gayer if you'll do your part.
Live on the housetop, not down in the cell;
Open-air Christians live nobly and well.
Live where the joys are, and, scorning defeat,
Have a good morrow for all whom you meet.
Live as the victor, and triumphing go
Through this queer world, beating down every foe.
Live in the sunshine, God meant it for you.
Live as the robins and sing the day through.

Twenty Years Ago

From The Herald of this date, 1895.

Rev. H. J. Nikander and Nels Malhann of Ishpeming, John Mitchell of Negaunee and Mr. Hensa of Calumet, Mich., visited West Duluth yesterday and were guests of Charles Kauppi. They represent the Finnish synod and came here to look over probable sites for a theological seminary.

Frank McDonnell has returned to West Duluth from Reedsburg, Wis., where he has been for the last six months superintending the erection of a water works plant.

Duluth temperature at 7 a. m. today, 36; maximum yesterday, 46; minimum yesterday, 32.

Last evening Sheriff Butchart and fifty deputies left on a Missabe road special train for the strike at the Franklin mine. General Manager Cole started up the steam shovel under protection of the deputies. The strikers stood off and looked unpleasant, but made no attempt to stop the work.

It is reported that Otto A. Watzke of West Superior has purchased the entire interest of Samuel and Edward Ward in the Lyle gold mining property on Dryweed island, in Rainy lake. The consideration is said to be $20,000, which is considered a phenomenal price for a property that is not developed. The Lyle is one of the best-appearing properties on the American side and has made an excellent showing. A stamp mill is on the ground ready for work and several shafts are being sunk. The Ward brothers will prospect for new claims in the Seine region.

David T. Adams has taken out a permit for the erection of a three-story brick flat on First street, between Seventh and Eighth avenues east, at a cost of $15,000.

E. Z. Williams arrived home today from Honolulu on the Omaha train, which was two hours late, the cause, it is said, being delay occasioned by the demonstrations given along the line in honor of "E. Z."

There is a large damage suit on before Judge Lewis today, involving $100,000. It is the case of John Helmer, John M. Huggans and Nelson Sellers against Alfred Merritt and George L. Cheesebrough. It is alleged the defendants refused to transfer an option for a lease of the property in accordance with a contract made with the plaintiffs. The property is the Helmer mine, a 40-acre tract in 5-57-17, which is regarded as very valuable.

The village of Barnum has asked the Duluth chamber of commerce to aid it in securing one of the state agricultural experiment stations provided for by the last legislature.

> No greater disgrace can befall the army and through it our whole people than the perpetration of barbarous outrages upon the innocent and the defenseless. * * * It must be remembered that we make war only on armed men.

A VIGOROUS MESSAGE.

There can be no complaint that the president's message to Germany lacks firmness, vigor or courage.

The text is even more vigorous than the unofficial statement of its salient points had indicated.

It was an ultimatum, though it does not so word it; and beyond any doubt whatever it sets forth in unmistakable terms the unalterable sentiment of the whole American people.

Moreover, the message makes it clear that while our wish is for peace and friendship, a far higher consideration is that the rights of America and Americans shall be respected, and that the common rights of humanity and civilization shall not be wantonly disregarded.

"The Imperial German government," so runs the last paragraph of the message, "will not expect the government of the United States to omit any word or act necessary to the performance of its sacred duty of maintaining the rights of the United States and its citizens and of safeguarding their exercise and enjoyment."

The president has not minced words in characterizing the acts that have made his message necessary. They are acts of "lawlessness," no less; they are "obviously subversive of the principles of warfare for which the Imperial German government has in the past so wisely and firmly contended;" they are "in clear violation of universally acknowledged international obligation." The use of submarines against neutral merchantmen, and against the merchantmen of belligerents carrying neutral passengers, involves "inevitable violation of many sacred principles of justice and humanity."

Withal, the message is restrained, courteous, dignified, yet now that its text is before us it is clear that there is utterly no danger that anybody will mistake its courtesy for an evidence of timidity.

Coming from a man so widely known as an enemy of war and a friend of peace, this message is doubly significant, doubly strong.

There can be no doubt whatever that this statement of and insistence upon American rights and the rights of humanity reflects, to their entire satisfaction, the sentiments of the American people. Their commendable patience and restraint during the interval between the sinking of the Lusitania and the delivery of the president's message is thus splendidly rewarded.

The issue is now with Germany. If it wishes to add another to its growing list of enemies, it can. If it wishes to recognize the fact that the president voices not only the sentiments of the American people but of neutrals the world around, it can do that. It must understand that the United States does not seek a quarrel, but that all its deepseated love of peace will not stand in the way of necessary action if its well established rights and its self respect are wantonly jeopardized.

Has anybody noticed whether the women get off the jitneys backward?

ONE MORE DAY OF CLEAN-UP WEEK!

There is but one more day of Clean-up and Paint-up Week in Duluth.

But that day is Saturday, when most people have a little more time, and to which doubtless some have postponed part or all of their work.

Still, so furious was the work early in the week that we have a feeling that these appeals are being directed to a rapidly dwindling audience, and that nearly everybody, now, is sitting back to admire the vastly improved condition of things.

The next step, after the improved condition of things has been sufficiently admired, will be to look about and see how the others have done.

WHAT ARE YOUR NEIGHBORS SAYING ABOUT YOU?

Have they completed their work and are they wondering whether you are ever going to make a start? Let's hope not, but if they are, let's fool 'em. Let's get at it tonight and tomorrow, and prove to them that they have misjudged you by doing a better job than they did.

There's but one more day of Clean-up and Paint-up Week, but that's plenty for a fellow with energy and ginger.

What a glorious year in which to advance the cause of the same Fourth!

THE LAW OF THE LUSITANIA CASE.

The international law governing such cases as the sinking of the Lusitania appears to be well settled. Yet —though not by any means in the way of justifying or extenuating that act—it is to be remembered that that law was formed to meet conditions differing widely from those that prevail today. The difference comes in the revolutionary and startling advent of the submarine.

Under international law, if Germany had given the Lusitania's passengers and crew half an hour to take to the boats and save themselves, its rights to sink the vessel would have been unquestioned, since capture was impossible.

But the German submarine gave no warning at all.

If the Lusitania had been convoyed, even by a destroyer or two, Germany's right to sink her, passengers and all, would have been beyond cavil.

But the Lusitania was not convoyed.

Under international law, Germany had a right to capture the Lusitania and make a prize of her if she could. Under the conditions above described, she had a right to sink her if capture were impossible, as of course it was.

But under international law Germany had no right to sink without warning this unarmed passenger vessel with her two thousand souls. Either, then, there is no longer any international law that commands respect, or Germany has made a new code to fit her own needs.

The international law here referred to was settled long before there was such a thing as a submarine, and when sea conflicts were between vessels of somewhere near equal size and strength. The submarine, microscopic compared with even a modest cruiser but deadly far beyond its size, will doubtless be Germany's justification for its new code. The submarine manifestly can take no prizes. It is adventuring in perilous waters, far from home ports and very likely without near-by support. It must do its work quickly, or not at all. If it stops in front of a great liner, it may be rammed and sunk. If it calls upon a fast liner to halt, the vessel may quickly hasten its speed and escape.

This, no doubt, will be Germany's justification for the sinking of the Lusitania if there can be such a thing as justification. In all probability, the sober last thought of the world will be that the act cannot be justified at all. The coming of the submarine seems an absurdly inadequate excuse for setting aside regulations which civilization has adopted in the interests of a decent regard for humanity.

Oswald Garrison Villard, in a letter from Washington to his newspaper, the New York Evening Post, thus describes the law of the Lusitania case:

> The question of the ammunition on board has bothered a great many amateur authorities on international law, and even some people in responsible positions. Without reason, however. The fact that the Lusitania had several thousand boxes of ammunition in her hold did not in any wise alter her status as a merchant ship entitled to sufficient time to let her crew and passengers escape before the ship was sunk. It gives the Germans a talking point, but does not alter the essential situation, which is this: Up to this time the law of the sea demanded the removal of crew and passengers, when the prize could not be taken into a harbor. The Germans, by a fiat of their admiralty, served notice that they proposed to abrogate this rule of naval warfare of their own accord, although that rule had been made binding upon them by international agreement, and it has hitherto been accepted by all the world that these international agreements could not be altered save by another international convention.

It should be stated, though this does not alter the facts, which are truly stated, that Mr. Villard, though born in Germany of a German father and an American mother, is not a sympathizer with Germany in the present war.

Whom would you rather see in the White House just about now than Woodrow Wilson?

THE OBSTACLE OF SECTIONALISM.

We hope particularly that every citizen of Southern Minnesota to whom it comes will read the broad-gauged appeal of a Southern Minnesota editor, published in another column on this page, for greater solidarity and less sectionalism in Minnesota.

Coming as it does from the southern part of the state it is particularly interesting and valuable. It states a truth, a melancholy truth but a great and menacing truth, when it says: "There is just one thing which more than any other is holding the state back. That thing is sectionalism. It is apparent that there is too much jealousy between Northern and Southern Minnesota, too much pitting of city interests against country interests."

It is a splendid appeal for a better understanding between the sections and for a stronger and more united effort for the upbuilding of this mighty commonwealth which, as this far-seeing Southern Minnesota man says, abounds in resources which are as yet untouched.

To all that is said in the editorial reprinted on this page The Herald, and we believe every citizen of Northern Minnesota, can and will say "Amen."

All this trouble in the world and nothing heard from Castro. 'S matter?

The Futility of Sectionalism

F. E. Hadley, Editor of the Winnebago Enterprise, in the Minneapolis Journal.

We are unanimously agreed that Minnesota, from the pine-clad region of the north, to the fertile farming section bordering the Iowa line, is a mighty good state. It is a state abounding in resources which are as yet untouched, and it is a state that is destined to grow and prosper.

There is just one thing which more than any other is impeding progress in Minnesota, and holding the state back. That thing is sectionalism. It is apparent that there is too much jealousy between Northern and Southern Minnesota, too much pitting of city interests against country interests.

The sooner we cultivate a broader spirit, and discard the narrow viewpoint, the sooner Minnesota will stand out alone and to the fore in the sisterhood of states.

The men who are sent to the legislature to represent the various legislative districts should be thoroughly imbued with the idea that they are to make laws for the whole state, and not for the particular benefit of any clique, clan or interest. We should be Minnesotans first, and Northern, Central or Southern Minnesotans second; our urban or rural ambitions should be subordinated to an earnest desire, for the welfare of the people as a whole.

Selfishness is a common but not a beautiful thing. It is an attribute of even the lowest orders of life. And, while it is but natural that the residents of each section should be desirous of seeing their own particular section built up and enriched, the state will attain greater growth and development, when we all realize the fact that what benefits one particular region has a beneficial effect on all.

Sectionalism has no place in the grand plan of state-building. Sectionalism represents a sordid and narrow view from which no great good can come. Minnesotans should abandon their geographical viewpoints and unite on a general program of state-building.

We of Southern Minnesota realize the fact that, while the needs of Northern Minnesota are vastly different from our own, we are citizens of the same commonwealth, and that the sooner the northern section is fully developed, the better it will be for the southern part of the state. We of the small towns realize the necessity of having big cities. The cities provide markets for the products of our farms, and form manufacturing centers from which we can secure the manufactured necessities.

It is high time that all the people of Minnesota express a desire to be hitched to the chariot of progress, and pull the state out of that threatened rut of sectionalism, which is the greatest menace to our continued advancement. Sectional prejudices should be buried in the Cemetery of Foolish Things, and all unite on a program of construction, which cannot but help be of benefit to every interest, no matter where located in the state.

Let us be men, and abandon all childish tendencies to "get even." Let us be broad-minded, and not attempt to live so much within ourselves and for ourselves.

The Fall of Nineveh.

The herdsmen sang on windy hills
while fast the tidings fled;
The wild-eyed woodman's fire of joy
lit gorge and mountain head;
The unconscious dying roused to hear;
the wife in travail pain
Smiled glad to think she bore her babe
too late for Asshur's reign.

And thus the deep, triumphal chant
went up by cloud and moon;
The trampling power is low tonight
that cowed a world at noon
As run the dawn's rejoicing gleams
our eager beacons glow,
And hoofs are loud among the hills,
and nations wait to know.

"Now he who tilled shall eat the grain,
the dresser drink the wine,
And tranquil on the weary shall the
stars of evening shine.
No more for war's dread Baalim, on
many a watered plain,
The starving poor shall offer up their
blood and toil in vain.

"No more the moon on pointed leaves
to eyes unnerved by dread
Shall seem on dewy nights to show
the lance's lurking head!
No more bright hopes and dreams that burned in many a youthful brain
Shall fade beneath the helmet's weight
or die among the slain!

"O'er halls wherein Sennacherib new
wars with captains planned,
While lands kept time in dying groans
to feel his realm expand—
Above their vaunting tiles that told
their fame and Asia's woes—
Oblivion and the mantling mold in godlike satire close.

"They poised the spear against a world
and deemed it tipped the scale,
Lo! much beneath the dark and dust
their vaunted arms avail!
A God they knew not walked the gloom
to mock their armored horde—
The rivers were His battering-ram, the stranger was His sword!

"Now, sweet shall be the cheering dawn, and even with rustling
feet,
And toil beneath the noon for bread
of wife and children, sweet;
For night has come to Nineveh, and
wars are done away."
So herdsmen sang beneath the stars
ere Christ in manger lay.

Oh, Median kings that proved as stern
as Asshur's broken sway—
Oh, hopes, that walked those ancient hills, why prove ye dead today?
—Frederick E. Pierce in New York Times.

Seeing America First

By Fred C. Kelly.

Pulled from Diary:

Two expressions pursue one clear across the continent and back again. There is no escaping them. They are these:

Well, you've struck very exceptional weather here.

There are more automobiles in use here, I guess, for the number of people, than in any city in the United States.

I do not know whether it is a good or bad omen, but less than one man in five met in sleeping or smoking compartments knows who his congressman is. After asking casually a few times and finding that the average traveler did not know the name of his congressional representative, I made it a point to inquire of several score of prosperous looking train acquaintances, and their ignorance of things political in their own localities proved highly entertaining. A number did not know the name of the governor of their state, and only about half knew the names of their United States senators. Most of those who did know had to stop and think a moment. Yet I did not put my inquiry to any but men who looked like persons of affairs.

The answer is that the average human being is unobserving. Probably every representative in congress has his name mentioned in every newspaper in his district numerous times each month. And the chances are that every man who doesn't know the name of his congressman has, nevertheless, seen it in the paper over an over again without it making any impression on him.

These same men would doubtless walk by a new variety of flowering tree or a new building day after day, without knowing it was there.

What are we going to do about this?

To be perfectly frank, I really do not know.

No matter how crabbed looking a man may be, and regardless of whether he is standing grouchily on the brick platform of a railway station, walking sullenly along the right-of-way, or leaning gloomily over the gate of an ill-kempt farm yard, this is certain: If you wave your hand at him from a train, he will wave back. There is not a man in all the world so mean that he will not wave his hand at anybody who waves a hand at him from a passing train.

Here is another matter of grave concern that I have been investigating:

From the Atlantic to the Pacific coasts and back I have asked at hotels whether the strawberry shortcake on the menu was old fashioned shortcake made of biscuit dough, or new-fangled shortcake made of sweetened sponge cake with a nauseous smear of whipped cream on it. Invariably, the offering has proved to be the latter variety. Then I inquired of a number of capable housewives and learned that sponge cake is just as expensive or more so as an old-fashioned crust made of biscuit dough. I also found out by means of numerous and zealous inquiries that 999 persons out of every thousand prefer the kind of strawberry shortcake that hotels and restaurants do not have. Now, here is the idea: If the variety on the menu costs as much, or more, to manufacture, as the other kind, and is only one-tenth of 1 per cent as popular, why then, do not the chefs switch over to the other side? Why, oh, why not?

Pullman Uplift

New York World: Harsh things have been said by an unreflecting element of the public about the Pullman tipping system and the niggardly policy of the company in tolerating it. How undeserved and unjust these criticisms now appear in the light of Robert T. Lincoln's tribute to the company's benevolence in the treatment of its colored employes! Testifying before the industrial relations commission, Mr. Lincoln, who is vice president and chairman of the Pullman board of directors, said:

> I believe that outside of the learned professions, where they have made some progress, the one large element that has done more to uplift colored men has been afforded through employment by the Pullman company.

The Pullman company, it thus appears, is a chartered steward of the public welfare. It is a "good" corporation engaged in social service. With every car it operates it aids in the uplift of some one of its 6,500 porters. Could the son of the great emancipator be employed in a more appropriate or congenial work?

Passengers who object to tipping, and declare that the imposition could be abolished by raising the porters' wages from the inadequate sum of $27.50 a month now paid them, should bear in mind that tips enable the company to carry on its beneficent mission. To increase the wages of porters would expose them to the dangers of swollen prosperity. As Mr. Lincoln further said, "If you increase their wages and they continue to get tips as at present, they would get much more money. And you can understand how that might not be desirable."

It is in thus protecting the porter from the demoralization of just wages and in preventing him from earning too much of its own funds that the Pullman company shows its ideals of uplift. It is observable, however, that it does not subject his income from tips to any such limitation.

The Half-Brick in Action.

Manchester Guardian: There is one Prussian officer now convalescing in his native country who cherishes a quite special hate for England and her methods of warfare. This officer—and I tell the story as it was told me by an American friend who heard it from the man's own lips—was recently in command of a small detachment who were holding a farm building against our men. The British attack was vigorously pressed, and one by one the Germans were killed or wounded. The officer almost alone remained, unhurt, to meet the final charge of the enemy, and he was preparing to sell his life as dearly as he could when a British soldier with a "disgusting chuckle" seized a broken half-brick and knocked him senseless. The officer (I forget how) subsequently rejoined his own army, and soon afterwards received in an orthodox fashion the wound from which he is now recovering. But the abrasion on his scalp is what is really troubling him, and he declared to my informant that it must be due to this not being considered an honorable wound that he failed to get the Iron Cross for his defense of the farm building.

Trade Picking Up.

Seattle Post-Intelligencer: "I see our traffic with Iceland is increasing."

"How so?"

"Leif Ericson landed on these shores, sailing from there in the year 1000."

"Well?"

"And I notice last week another ship from Iceland arrived."

The Late Unlamented State Legislature

Suggestions and Comments From the State Press.

Thankful for Omissions.

Slayton Herald: The legislature closes with as poor a record of doing things as has ever graced a body of its kind since the state was organized. We say they have a poor record for doing things. Still, how thankful the people of the state should be toward every member for their failure to enact a thousand laws. The state needs no more laws, but it does need the laws that are on the statute books enforced. Anything that will place a black eye on a state is a disregard for law and order.

Thirty-Third Degree Pessimism.

Redwood Falls Gazette: The farce at the Minnesota state capitol, which was by courtesy called the 1915 session, is closed. No action taken by the members of the legislature won the approval of their constituents as much as did this act of closing.

Vacillating, indeterminate, lacking in virility and often even in common sense, the house maundered its way through the ninety days, accomplishing—what?

Occasionally, under pressure too great to be resisted, it passed a bill directed toward the public welfare, the next bill perhaps, being one of which the kindest thing to be said was that it was negative in its results and possibilities. Everything done, except the passing of the county option bill, was negative; nothing positive, nothing consistent or convincing.

The best that can be said of the senate is that it served to checkmate some of the worthless moves made by the house—not a high praise after all.

What will Minnesota do about it?

Forget it for two years, then elect the same men to do the same thing over again?

Summa Summarum.

St. Cloud Times: The session of the legislature cost the state over $300,000. What do we get in return? County option and legalized prize fighting.

A Mark of Credit.

Sandstone Courier: There is at least one good thing, besides passing the county option bill, that the legislature can be given credit for—they didn't pass quite the usual amount of useless bills to clog our statute books.

Compares Well.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: Partisans are trying to blame the non-partisan election law for the weak state legislature, but it don't seem to take root. The body was just as intelligent, as active, as foolish and as grasping as some that previously were elected by the brewery combine.

One Industrious Member.

Bandette Region: If everybody worked as hard as the tongues of the members of the house which has just adjourned you could count all the unemployed on the fingers of one hand.

Governor Corrals What Glory There Is.

Breckenridge Gazette: About the only man who emerged from the late unpleasantness—otherwise the late session of the legislature—with any particular credit, was Governor W. S. Hammond.

For What Was Missed Be Thankful.

Preston Times: The legislature has adjourned and after a time we shall know just what it did and didn't do. Fortunately it did mostly the latter and for this we should be thankful. If it actually be true that it kept the appropriations below the 1913 mark, as is alleged, we have cause for thankfulness. It demonstrated, too, the utter fallacy of the non-partisan law and it is too bad that it was not repealed. However, let us be thankful that it was no worse.

Just a Moment

Daily Strength and Cheer.

Compiled by John G. Quintius, the Sunshine Man.

When you consider the great things God hath done for you, when you think on your glorious privileges, the great blessings you enjoy, and all your gracious receipts, our hearts should and will be ready to cry out, "What shall I render unto the Lord for all His benefits toward me?" Now, you can render nothing to God as a valuable recompense for His favors and blessings. But this is all He seeks, and all that you can give, and that which He will be well satisfied with, that you glorify Him. He lets out to you all the blessings you enjoy for the rent of glory. Resign and give yourselves to God to be His, and to serve Him, and live to Him. "Yield yourselves unto God." You must cordially own His right to you and power over you. Give your hearty consent to be His. None can lay such claim to you as God can do; you can never serve a better master; and you are never more your own than when given up to Him. Therefore resign yourselves to Him deliberately and to His whole will in all things. Resign yourselves to Him wholly, soul and body, to be wholly and forever His. Study much self-denial. Many are discouraged in acting for the glory of God in their place, by incumbrances, inconveniences, and worldly losses they are put to, and scoffs and scorns they meet with. Therefore study to be denied to your own ease, credit and profit, and all your own interests. Lay all down at God's feet. Count nothing too dear to you, so you may be instrumental in promoting the glory of God.—Ibid.

Live in the sunshine, don't live in the gloom,
Carry some gladness the world to illume,
Live in the brightness, and take this to heart:
The world will be gayer if you'll do your part.
Live on the housetop, not down in the cell;
Open-air Christians live nobly and well.
Live where the joys are, and, scorning defeat,
Have a good morrow for all whom you meet.
Live as the victor, and triumphing go
Through this queer world, beating down every foe.
Live in the sunshine, God meant it for you.
Live as the robins and sing the day through.

The consideration is said to be $20,000, which is considered a phenomenal price for a property that is not developed. The Lyle is one of the best-appearing properties on the American side and has made an excellent showing. A stamp mill is on the ground ready for work and several shafts are being sunk. The property is the Helmer mine, a 40-acre tract in 5-57-17, which is regarded as very valuable.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 200 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

LABOR CONDITIONS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I have been a reader of The Herald for a good many years and always considered the paper to be fair and liberal in its dealings with the public, but some employment agent must have given The Herald a wrong tip in regard to the labor situation as it exists today.

That party who is responsible for that article in last night's Herald can go on Michigan street between 7 a. m. and 11 a. m. and hire 1,000 men before 12 o'clock at any wages he is willing to pay from $10 up and if more men are needed, down on the Sixth avenue dock are a few hundred more and the last resort, if men are still needed, over on Eleventh avenue they would be able to hire a few more that are badly in need of work.

It seems to me it took the health department a long time to find out these conditions that exist in Duluth at the present time. Every one else has known of those conditions for months past.

Not only workingmen out of work visit the dumping ground but you can see women and children with gunny-sacks sorting over the garbage for a piece of bread, meat or whatever they can find.

Now it is the duty of any paper to boost for the home city but let the truth be known. Send one of your own reporters to cover the labor situation in the city of Duluth and get the truth. You have a lot of good honest men on the staff of The Herald. I have been down on Michigan street for a few days and there is less call for men than in the last fifteen years that I have been in Duluth. A few men on county road work, work for $12 to $15 per month; farm hands $15 per month. If that is prosperity, then for humanity's sake don't say any more about the labor condition in the city. Don't take the employment agents word for it, find out the truth.

PUTTING THE POET IN HIS PROPER PLACE

To the Editor of The Herald:

I saw in a recent issue of The Duluth Herald a poem that stated:

"George Washington first to the White House came."

Did he? No wonder the person writing that poem signed it "Unidentified." If I were so poor in history as that person, I would be ashamed to sign my name, too.

I am in the eighth grade and studying history. I happened to be studying about the presidents at the time I saw this poem, and I see that John Adams was the first occupant of the White House, as of course you know. The cornerstone of the White House was not laid until 1792, and the building was completed in 1800. So we see how impossible it was for George Washington to have come first to the White House. He came to the "chair" in 1789. Yours truly,

JEAN BLAKE.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

This department does not pretend to be infallible. It will endeavor, however, to answer questions sent to it by readers of The Herald to the best of its ability, reserving the right to ignore all that are trifling or of concern only to the questioner, or that ask for advice on legal or medical questions.

To receive attention, every inquiry must bear the name and address of the person sending it. This is not wanted for publication, but as an evidence of good faith.

Express Driver.—Something happened to me today which I would like to ask about through the Open Court. I drove up to the Lyceum building today to collect express. As I stopped off the wagon the porter of the theater told me to move on and said the people were coming out from the show. I told him the street was just the same for me as for anybody else, and went on to get my express. Coming out of the building I looked for my wagon and horses and found them up on Fifth avenue. I had then to carry my load way up there. When I crossed Fifth avenue going to the depot a mad policeman stopped me and told me I had made him trouble, and told me never again to get near the building. I told him I was going to find this out if I didn't have just as much right as do automobiles to the street. The policeman told me he had orders to keep teams away from the building. Now I would like to know if this traffic cop does things on his own hook or if he has the orders from the chief of police. —There are certain districts where automobiles and other vehicles may not be left standing while the driver leaves them. These have been established for several years and you got into one of them. You have the right to drive up there and stop, but not to leave your vehicle standing. The traffic cop was in the right, and it is up to you to hand him a cigar and obey his orders goodnaturedly in the future. He's your friend, not your enemy, and is doing his share in solving Duluth's growing traffic problem.

H. E. S., Finlayson—We are going to celebrate the Fourth of July in this place. Some think a merry-go-round would be a very good attraction. Do you know of one that we might get on that date.—Watch the advertisements in the trade papers or put a want-ad in The Herald.

A. R.—Will you please tell me how many passenger steamers there are larger than the Lusitania?—The Aquitania, Imperator, Vaterland, Bismarck, Columbus, Olympic and Britannic. The Mauretania is a twin ship of the same tonnage.

What the Child Is Learning

The Fourth Grade.

When the child enters the fourth grade, he learns for the first time to grasp connected thoughts in reading, rather than to recognize the individual word, and is expected to be able to read intelligently, so that he can be understood without reference to his text book.

As in the other grades, reading, most important of the R's, is given the most attention. Daily drills in articulation, enunciation and pronunciation are established; word study periods, to broaden the vocabulary, also are a feature of the work.

The Fourth Readers are much in evidence, and today are supplemented by Ruskin's "King of the Golden River" and "Stories of the Old World." Whittier and Longfellow are the favorite poets of this class, and many of their works are memorized.

In the arithmetic class they learn to read and manipulate numbers up to 100,000. Addition, subtraction, multiplication and division, with larger numbers, are continued. In multiplying and dividing three figures are used. Fractions, compound numbers and mental arithmetic also are added to the pupil's difficulties.

The least common multiple and greatest common divisor, accompanied by decimals, are presented for the first time.

Oral and written composition work, including a study of Homonyms, antonyms and synonyms, is given the language class. "The Wreck of the Hesperus" and "Paul Revere's Ride" are memorized.

History forms an important part of the class work, for the boy learns more fully about the discovery of America, as well as the exploration and settlement which followed Columbus' trip. The story of St. Augustine, Virginia, New York and Pennsylvania, the Indian wars, and the French exploration of the Great Lakes is read and discussed. The Revolutionary and Civil wars are studied from the simpler histories.

What was the ordinance of 1787? Your 10-year-old daughter should know.

Can you tell about the first railroad system, the discovery of anthracite coal, the causes of the Mexican war, and of the war of 1812? A fourth grader should be able to do it.

Physiology is one of the most important classes in this grade, and there the children learn about the construction of bones and muscles, and the reasons for their formation.

AMERICAN NOTE SENT TO GERMANY FIRM IN ITS DEMANDS ON TEUTONS

Expects Imperial Government Will Disavow Acts Complained of.

Also Take Immediate Steps to Prevent a Reoccurrence.

Document Cabled Ambassador for Presentation to German Government.

Washington, May 14.—The United States government yesterday cabled Ambassador Gerard for presentation to the German government, a note calling attention "to the grave situation which has resulted" from violation of American rights on the high seas, culminating in the sinking of the Lusitania with a loss of more than 100 American lives.

The communication expresses the confident expectation of the United States "that the imperial German government will disavow the acts of which the government of the United States complains, that they will make reparation so far as reparation is possible for injuries which are without measure, and that they will take immediate steps to prevent the recurrence of anything so obviously subversive of the principles of warfare for which the imperial government in the past so wisely and so firmly contended."

In its conclusion, the note states that "the imperial German government will not expect the government of the United States to omit any word or act necessary to the performance of its sacred duty of maintaining the right of the United States and its citizens and of safeguarding their free exercise and enjoyment."

Text of Note.

The full text of the note was made public last night by the state department as follows:

"Department of state, Washington, D. C., May 13, 1915.

"The secretary of state to the American ambassador at Berlin:

"Please call on the minister of public affairs and after reading to him this communication leave with him a copy.

"In view of recent acts of the German authorities in violation of American rights on the high seas which culminated in the torpedoing and sinking of the British steamer Lusitania May 7, 1915, by which over 100 American citizens lost their lives, it is clearly wise and desirable that the government of the United States and the imperial German government should come to a clear and full understanding as to the grave situation which has resulted.

"The sinking of the British passenger steamer Falaba by a German submarine March 28, through which Leon C. Thrasher, an American citizen, was drowned; the attack on April 28, on the American vessel Cushing by a German aeroplane; the torpedoing on May 1 of the American vessel Gulflight by a German submarine, as a result of which two or more American citizens met their death; and, finally, the torpedoing and sinking of the Lusitania, constitute a series of events which the government of the United States has observed with growing concern, distress and amazement.

Duty to Make Protest.

"Recalling the humane and enlightened attitude hitherto assumed by the imperial German government in matters of international right and particularly with regard to the freedom of the seas; having learned to recognize the German views and the German influence in the field of international obligation as always engaged upon the side of justice and humanity; and having understood the instructions of the imperial German government to its naval commanders to be upon the same plane of humane action, prescribed by the naval codes of other nations, the government of the United States was loath to believe that these acts, so absolutely contrary to the rules, the practices, and the spirit of modern warfare, could have the countenance or sanction of that great government. It feels it to be its duty, therefore, to address the imperial German government concerning them with the utmost frankness and in the earnest hope that it is not mistaken in expecting action on the part of the imperial German government which will correct the unfortunate impressions created, and vindicate once more the position of that government with regard to the sacred freedom of the seas.

Held Accountable.

"The government of the United States has been appraised that the imperial government considered itself to be obliged by the extraordinary circumstances of the present war and the measures adopted by their adversaries in seeking to cut Germany off from all commerce, to adopt methods of retaliation which go much beyond the ordination methods of warfare at sea, in the proclamation of a war zone from which they have warned neutral ships to keep away. This government has already taken occasion to inform the imperial German government that it cannot admit the adoption of such measures or such a warning of danger to operate as in any degree an abbreviation of the rights of American shipmasters or of American citizens bound on lawful errands as passengers on merchant ships of belligerent nationality; and that it must hold the imperial German government to a strict accountability for any infringement of these rights, intentional or incidental. It does not understand the imperial German government to question these rights, assumes, on the contrary, that the imperial German government, accepts, of course, the rule that the lives of noncombatants, whether they be of neutral citizenship, or citizens of one of the nations at war, cannot lawfully or rightfully be put in jeopardy by capture or destruction of an unarmed merchantman, and recognize also, as all other nations do, the obligation to take the usual precaution of visit and search to ascertain whether a suspected merchantman is in fact of belligerent nationality or is in fact carrying contraband of war under a neutral flag.

Objection to Submarines.

"The government of the United States, therefore desires to call the attention of the imperial German government with the utmost earnestness, to the fact that the objection to their present method of attack against the trade of their enemies lies in the practical impossibility of employing submarines in the destruction of commerce without disregarding those rules of fairness, reason, justice and humanity, which all modern opinion regards as imperative. It is practically impossible for the officers of a submarine to visit a merchantman at sea and examine her papers and cargo. It is practically impossible for them to make a prize of her, and, if they cannot put a prize crew on board of her, they cannot sink her without leaving her crew and all on board her to the mercy of the sea in her small boats. These facts, it is understood, the imperial German government frankly admits. We are informed that, in the instances of which we have spoken time enough for even that poor measure of safety was not given, and in at least two of the cases cited, not so much as a warning was received. Manifestly submarines cannot be used against merchantmen, as the last few weeks have shown, without inevitable violation of many sacred principles of justice and humanity.

Rights of Americans.

"American citizens act within their indisputable rights in taking their ships and in traveling wherever their legitimate business calls them upon the high seas and exercise those rights in what should be the well justified confidence that their lives will not be endangered by acts done in clear violation of universally acknowledged international obligation, and certainly in the confidence that their own government will sustain them in the exercise of their rights.

"There was recently published in the newspapers of the United States, I regret to inform the imperial government, a formal warning, purporting to come from the imperial German embassy at Washington, addressed to the people of the United States and stating, in effect, that any citizen of the United States, who exercised his right of free travel upon the seas, would do so at his peril if his journey should take him within the zone of waters within which the imperial German navy was using submarines against the commerce of Great Britain and France, notwithstanding the respectful but very earnest protest of his government, the government of the United States. I do not refer to this for the purpose of calling the attention of the imperial German government at this time to the surprising irregularity of a communication from the imperial German embassy at Washington addressed to the people of the United States through the newspapers, but only for the purpose of pointing out that no warning that an unlawful and inhuman act would be committed could be possibly accepted as excuse or palliation for the act, or as an abatement of the responsibility for its commission.

Under Misapprehension.

"Long acquainted as this government has been with the character of the imperial German government and with the high principles of equity by which they have in the past been actuated and guided, the government of the United States cannot believe that the commanders of the vessels which committed these acts of lawlessness did so unless under a misapprehension of orders issued by the imperial German naval authorities. It takes it for granted that, at least within the practical possibilities of every such case, the commanders even of submarines were expected to do nothing that would involve the lives of noncombatants or the safety of neutral ships, even at the cost of failing of their object of capture or destruction. It confidently expects, therefore, that the imperial government will disavow the acts of which the government of the United States complains, that they will make reparation, so far as reparation is possible, for injuries which are without measure, and that they will take immediate steps to prevent the recurrence of anything so obviously subversive of the principles of warfare for which the imperial German government has in the past so wisely and firmly contended.

Looks for Prompt Action.

"The government and people of the United States look to the imperial German government for just, prompt and energetic action in this vital matter with the greater confidence because the United States and Germany are bound together not only by special ties of friendship, but also by the explicit stipulations of the treaty of 1828 between the United States and the kingdom of Prussia.

"Expressions of regret and offers of reparation in case of the destruction of neutral ships sunk by mistake, while they may satisfy international obligations if no loss of life results, cannot justify or excuse a practice, the natural and necessary effect of which is to subject neutral nations and neutral persons to new and immeasureable risks.

"The imperial German government will not expect the government of the United States to omit any word or any act necessary to the performance of its sacred duty of maintaining the rights of the United States and its citizens and of safeguarding their free exercise and enjoyment.

The celebration will begin with a dinner at 6:30 o'clock, to be served by the women of St. John's English Lutheran church. During the luncheon a program of music will be rendered by a concert orchestra of twenty pieces under the direction of Gustav Flaaten.

Chauncey Colton, master of Ionic lodge, will preside during the evening, and following the dinner addresses will be delivered by Harry M. Burnham of Jackson, Minn., grand master of the Minnesota grand lodge of Masons; Robert E. Denfeld, past grand master; Edward Armstrong, past master of Ionic lodge; Dr. John W. Hoffman of the First Methodist church, and I. K. Lewis. Mr. Colton will present Mr. Burnham with the official jewel of his office during the evening.

In addition to the addresses, there will be music, numbers by the Ionic quartet, Mrs. Donna Riblette Flaaten, and Gustav Jackson. Arrangements for the celebration this evening are in charge of W. D. Underhill, J. Harris Trux and Sheldon Fraser.

Ionic lodge was organized in 1889, but the charter was not granted until Jan. 16, 1890. Invitations to the celebration this evening have been sent to all the charter members of the lodge and all the past masters of the body now living. Arrangements have been made to seat them all at a table of honor.

The Great American Amble

THE original American toed straight ahead and carried a tomahawk. He needed no arch supports but mother earth. He didn't know a bunion from a boil and the only corn that interested him was that which his faithful spouse planted, tilled, harvested, ground, cooked and served without a sprinkling of women's rights. None of these modern evils bothered the good Indian. He walked like a king of the land and he toed straight ahead.

Some civilized person undertook to improve on the red man's carriage and the outcome was the white man's shoe. At first this artice served a useful purpose—it outwore moccasins and saved the feet. But that was only while the shoes were made by hand and to measure.

In the fulness of time machinery crowded back the pioneer shoemaker and turned out footwear of the ready-made order. The public no longer had shoes moulded to fit its feet; it had its feet moulded to fit the shoes. We are speaking now of the earlier fashions, not of the present.

Art Versus Nature.

The manufacturer sized up the human foot and decided it was an ugly thing. He thought it should have an extra curve or two bent into it, and the toes appeared to him too broad, so he shaved them down to a neat, stylish point. This meant pressure between the toes and the shoe, and pressure meant corns. Corns meant credulity, and credulity gave birth to corn-cures. The shoe dealer stocked corn-cures among his many specialties, thus catching 'em coming and going, so to speak.

The extra curve, or rather angle, which the shoemaker put in his shoes threw the big toe out of alignment, drove it away from the straight line, dislocated the head of its metatarsal bone, produced a bunion.

Be an Indian and toe straight ahead if you would avoid foot trouble. Be a specially ugly Indian when buying shoes and get what you want, not what the dealer thinks you need. Straight inside sole lines—almost touching at the moderately rounded toes when the shoes stand side by each. Broad heel, not over an inch high. Roomy toe.

Then stop ambling. Train yourself to toe straight ahead or a wee trifle inward, and see how much better your feet will feel.

Questions and Answers.

Pellagra: What is pellagra, and how is it treated?

REPLY.

A chronic disease of unknown origin. It is characterized by sore mouth and tongue, digestive disturbances, a peculiar skin trouble and more or less mental disturbance of a melancholic or demented type. The most effective treatment known is a diet rich in peas, beans and fresh vegetables.

Heroic Remedy: I am told that skunk grease, if applied daily to chest, throat and bridge of nose, will cure hay fever and asthma. What is your opinion of it?

REPLY.

It would be a low, mean case of hay fever or asthma that would hang on after such heroic treatment. Report your result by wireless—don't write.

Theater Dance.

Novel Entertainment to Be Staged at Lyceum Monday.

Duluth will enjoy a novelty in entertainment Monday night, when an informal dance will be held on the Lyceum stage after the play in celebration of the first anniversary of the appearance of the Baldwin Players. Walter S. Baldwin has arranged with Miss Berta Schmied to direct the dance that will continue until 12 o'clock. The members of the audience who wish to remain may go upon the stage to dance or remain in their seats as spectators.

Miss Schmied, assisted by her brother, Leo Schmied, will demonstrate some of the newest social dances as an added attraction to the presentation of "Mam'zelle" at the Lyceum all next week. Among the dances will be the Persian tango, the latest New York fad, that is decidedly popular at the Club de Vingt in New York where there are two tango nights a week and every other dance is the Persian tango.

The black and white polka will be danced in costume but just what it is, has been kept a secret. It, like the pony trot that was introduced by Miss Schmied at the Lyceum last spring, was arranged by her.

She will also show the Maurice fox trot as presented by the dancing master, Maurice, with whom she studied in New York last winter. During her stay in New York Miss Schmied took lessons from Louis Chalif, the Russian ballet master and danced with Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Castle, Joan Sawyer and others.

Many Foolish Questions at "Money Factory"

Visitors to Bureau of Printing and Engraving Inquire of Women Guides, "Is This Real Money?"

One of chief duties of the women guides at the bureau of engraving and printing at Washington is to answer foolish questions. They have answered so many that it is impossible to label them "Foolish Question 99,461," "Foolish Question 99,462," and so on—they lost count years ago.

The printing of notes is responsible for more idiotic questions than any other department as many visitors think the notes are made just to demonstrate the process and many persons ask for notes to take home as souvenirs. When a guide explains that the government would soon be bankrupt if it handed out such souvenirs it is not unusual for her to hear, "Well, it's so easy to make money here and so much of it is turned out I can't see why in the world any one should be poor. We ought to have all we want when it's such a simple thing to manufacture."

Some of Questions.

Here are some of the questions that are put to the women guides:

"Now show us, please, where they make the real money?"

"Surely this isn't the money that we use?"

"It must cost a lot to hire all these men just to show us how money is made."

"What do they do with all this paper after we are through looking at it?"

"You don't mean to tell us this is real money?"

"How many nationalities of notes do you print here?"

"Are all dimensions of notes printed?"

"Why do those men and women wear green shades?"

"What is that lady doing?"

"Do the men ever get the ink off their hands?"

"Where do they percolate (perforate) the stamps?"

"Where do they put the puchifications (perforations) in the stamps?"

"How much are these men paid?"

"Where is all this money sent?"

A young girl asked where the money was masticated (mascerated), but a woman asked where it was "chewed," who did the "chewing," how long it took to do it, and if it didn't make the "chewers" ill.

Not all the foolish questions are asked by those who have little acquaintance with bank notes for bankers are among the guilty ones. A New York banker of forty years' experience insisted a new bank note was being printed because he said he had never seen a bill which was green on one side and offered to give the guide every bill in his pocket which happened to be of that kind. The young woman refused to take money in such an easy way.

Romantic Questions.

Some of the foolish questions are foolishly romantic. Sometimes a woman, after glancing over a room full of hundreds of men and women workers, will ask, "Do these folks every marry?" A guide who was exasperated by the question, "Are the printers married to their assistants?" told her questioner she thought that if they were married they would not be working so amicably side by side.

The question asked by the very young, "Are many interesting romances started here?" is blighted by the frost in the reply, "This is not a matrimonial bureau, but one of printing and engraving."

The humdrum of answering senseless questions is relieved sometimes by the fright shown by sightseers in a room where mercury lights give the flesh a ghastly color. An old woman while in this room noticed that her grandson's face was yellow and his lips were blue. She grabbed the child, shook him and cried hysterically, "My Otto! My little darling! Grandmamma told you not to go into that miserable monument. Oh, he's got heart disease! Save him! He's dying!"

Otto, according to the guide, was clutching a bag of candy, and doubtless was feeling at his best when his fond grandmother began her wail, but the notion that he was so near the great beyond made his eyes open wide with fright.

Planning Meals for Several Days

By MARY JANE McCLURE.

The housewife who is thrifty with her time as well as her money knows the advantages and economy in buying a whole ham. The initial cost per pound is less than it would be by the slice—the whole or half ham baked or boiled, provides the meat for several meals and there are various ways of using the small pieces. Select a ham of mild sugar cure and of firm, even texture.

The following recipes will be found delicious and economical:

Baked Ham in Cider—Wash thoroughly a ten-pound ham. Drain the ham dry and over the fleshy side sprinkle a little clove, a teaspoon of cinnamon and half a teaspoon of ginger. Cover the ham with a very thick paste of flour and water. Put skin side down in a roasting pan and fill the pan with cider. Cook slowly for three hours, basting often. Remove the paste and rind. An hour before it is served, return the ham to baking pan, flesh side down. Brush the fat portion with beaten egg, sprinkle generously with chopped parsley and bread crumbs, and let it heat through. Make a gravy by boiling down the cider in which the ham was first roasted.

Virginia Ham—Take slices of ham and freshen with boiling water. Spread each slice with mixed mustard and a sprinkle of sugar. Put in baking dish and cover with cold milk. Cook about thirty minutes. Dissolve one-half teaspoon of extract of beef in one tablespoon of butter; add one tablespoon of flour and make a gravy with the milk left in pan after the ham is cooked. Serve with baked potatoes.

Using All of the Ham—First dish—Cut enough from the end of a ham for the family, and cover with cold water. Bring slowly to simmering point, and add young and tender string beans or wax beans. Simmer two hours, then add peeled potatoes cut into dice and cook until well done. There should be very little broth left.

Second dish—Cut as many slices as are needed for ham and eggs.

Third dish—Cut off the other end of the ham, cover with cold water, and simmer. Add one cup of lentils soaked over night and simmer two hours. Add one large onion sliced, potatoes cut in dice, and fifteen minutes before serving put in small dumplings made of one cup of flour, one-half teaspoon of salt, one egg, and enough milk for a stiff dough. Drop dumplings into stew with a teaspoon.

Fourth dish—Boil the remainder of the ham for serving cold sliced ham.

Fifth dish—Ham that is left can be chopped for omelette or croquettes. Take bread or cracker crumbs, add mashed potatoes, chopped ham and an egg. Form into little cakes and fry.

The first and third recipes are Pennsylvania Dutch dishes and are tasty and nutritious. The ham need not all be served in one week, as it keeps well.

Peggy Peabody's Observations

Parents Should Stick to Offspring

The case of a young girl who eloped with the husband of another, the rector of a church, is a disgraceful and disgusting one to be sure. It is not a case that calls for much clemency to the guilty from anyone, or one that arouses much sympathy in the hearts of the public. This girl knew it was wicked and wrong to run away with another woman's husband or to hold other than ordinary friendly relations with him.

I know another case in which there is little or no excuse for desertion of a blood relative through early indiscretion. An aged grandmother of a girl closed her doors upon her granddaughter, who was orphaned, and told her to get out as she was through with her forever. The girl was motherless and fatherless and without friends and never needed a real friend more than she did when turned out.

To have the members of her family in her hour of direst need and publicly announce their intention of disowning her, especially when she fell back on her grandmother as a last resort, is enough to dishearten any girl no matter what her failings may have been if she had honest intentions to reform.

I am not writing altogether of girls. The same applies to wayward youths. You say that patience can be exhausted; so it can, and I have had my patience tried and tried again. My confidence has been abused but I have found that it pays to stick to your offspring instead of casting them adrift. Teach them, if they err, what it meant to bring them into this world and the deprivations you have made and the sacrifices that have caused their real existence. But until the limit is actually reached, stick to your offspring unless they prove absolutely worthless.

To my mind the father and mother who forsake their children in trouble are not what I call absolutely normal. Of course there are exceptions, as may be instanced when a child is an out-and-out deserter and shirks reasonable responsibilities that should be his or hers.

The natural parents stick through thick and thin. Perhaps the peculiarities of parents who find it in their hearts to leave their young to whatever fate overtakes them are responsible for the shortcomings of the children.

Theater Gossip.

Monday night will be the anniversary of the first appearance of the Baldwin Players in Duluth. On Monday Mr. Baldwin's company will have been in Duluth for one year, playing continuously with the exception of a six weeks' vacation last fall. The company opened its winter and spring engagement on Jan. 3, so that it has played here continuously for nearly five months with interruptions of but a day or two at a time when some road show held the stage at the Lyceum. The engagement will continue indefinitely during the summer months, and with the big tourist trade that is in prospect, Mr. Baldwin expects the company to do even better business than last summer.

ONE YEAR IN DULUTH.

This engagement sets a new record for a stock company in Duluth. From three to four months has generally been the life of a stock company in Duluth and then the engagements were none too popular. When a company can remain for an entire year it approximates a permanent stock company, and this is what Mr. Baldwin hopes to ultimately develop in Duluth, making this city also a producing center and sending some of the company's best productions out on the road for brief tours. The bill for anniversary week will be "Mam'zelle." Three more performances of "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" will be given, tonight and tomorrow afternoon and night.

ORPHEUM WILL CLOSE

Following the performance tomorrow evening the Duluth Orpheum theater will close for the summer months and will remain dark until late in August. The theater will be available for special performances during the summer, but there will be no regular attractions there. Manager Garver expects to leave for Chicago next week for a brief visit, and may return to remain in charge here during the summer.

This week's bill is an excellent one and makes a fitting close to the season.

CHAPLIN WINS FAVOR AT GRAND.

Charlie Chaplin was at the Grand last night, and vaudeville took second place. The popular playhouse was crowded, and roars of laughter greeted the funny little film comedian who is appearing in one of his latest Essanay features, "By the Sea."

The film comedy is one of Chaplin's best, and is full of mix-ups, which give the star a good opportunity to show his cleverness and originality. The only adverse criticism that could well be made of the picture is that it is too short.

The vaudeville bill is better than that of the first part of the week and more popular. Bert Sheppard and company, the "company" being one attractive little miss, is a master in handling the Australian whip, snuffing candles, putting out cigars, cutting a whiskey bottle in halves, and doing several other stunts that might prove perilous to his partner if the whip were in inexperienced hands.

Fitch Cooper, the musical rube, has a peculiar genius for producing music from strange instruments. His playing of airs on a plain handsaw was considered clever. Cooper also entertains with a good line of talk.

The Georgia Trio, burnt cork comedians, have some clever songs, dances and comedy.

Momtambo and Wells entertain with a European acrobatic act that has much to commend it.

In addition to the Charlie Chaplin film, Francis X. Bushman and Miss Beverly Bayne appear in a newspaper film-drama entitled "Thirty." The Hearst-Selig News shows many interesting news events of world-wide interest.

HAZEL DAWN AT THE REX.

Hazel Dawn, who recently completed a successful starring tour in "The Debutante," in which she won great personal triumph, and who made her first appearance before a Duluth audience at the Rex theater in "One of Our Girls," a Famous Player production, will again delight her many admirers today and tomorrow when she will play the leading part in "Niobe."

Peter Amos Dunn, the president of an insurance company, brings to his own home, for safe keeping, the precious statue of Niobe, which his company has heavily insured. Electricians wiring the house at the time, wrap the coils about the feet of the statue. Dunn falls asleep and dreams that the current passing through the wires brings the statue to life. The perfectly moral president finds himself in a delicate and amusing position in trying to explain to his shocked wife and other members of his household the presence of the scantily clad maid running wildly through his home.

ONE DAY MORE FOR "THE CHRISTIAN."

The capacity of the Lyric theater will very likely be taxed this evening and tomorrow, to accommodate those who will want to see "The Christian" before it closes its engagement here.

Only one more day after today remains in which to see this picture.

"The Christian" has been a great success here—many coming to see it a second and even a third time.

The bringing of this great subject to this city has proved conclusively that the people are ready and willing to patronize the better attractions, even in the photoplay, when the opportunity is presented.

NO ANSWER TO CRITICISMS

Denfeld Will Not Reply to Comment of Hennepin Superintendent.

After Aug. 1 New Grade School Teachers Must Be Normal Graduates.

Criticisms of a new rule on teachers by H. I. Harter, superintendent of Hennepin county schools, are ignored by R. E. Denfeld, superintendent of Duluth schools and president of the state high school board, author of the new law.

Under its provisions, which become effective Aug. 1, places in grade schools will be given to advanced normal school graduates only. It will not bar from continuing in their places teachers already holding positions.

"Natural born teachers will not have a chance," declares Supt. Harter. "Just how such a regulation will benefit our schools is more than I can discover. From their work it seldom is possible to distinguish the elementary from the advanced normal graduates, and I think one will find as many weak teachers in one class as in the other.

"I know teachers with first-grade certificates who never saw the inside of a normal school, who are the equals of any normal graduates in Minnesota." he declared, according to Minneapolis press dispatches.

"I have nothing to say in answer to any criticisms of this rule," said Supt. Denfeld. "The high school board is doing all it can to strengthen the work of high and grade schools and this certainly cannot be done by 'letting down the bars.'"

The members of the high school board are: Supts. Denfeld, C. G. Schulz, state superintendent of education; George E. Vincent, president of the state university; Eli Torrance of Minneapolis, president of the state normal school board, and George F. Howard of the University extension agricultural school.

EXPENSIVE NAP.

Lake Nebagamon Resident Forgets Taking Ways of Big City.

Unmindful of the ways of the city, John Conners, resident of Lake Nebagamon, retired to his room at the Ryen hotel, West Superior street, early last night, and forgot to lock the door.

This morning he reported to police that the night's rest had cost him, in addition to the hotel charge, $15 in cash, $15 in notes, a new purse, and his bank book. The book was issued by the United States National bank of Superior, Wis., and showed a deposit of $500.

Ryen didn't know of any alleged friends who might have robbed him, and was unable to give police much assistance in their search for the man who took his purse.

JITNEY PICKPOCKET.

Young Woman Reports Theft of $16 From Her Bag.

Jitney pickpockets are the latest in Duluth criminal circles.

Although other cities have reported cases of jitney passengers being robbed in various ways, the first victim in Duluth, Miss Ronda Johnson, was reported yesterday.

Miss Johnson boarded a jitney at Eighteenth avenue east yesterday afternoon, and rode as far as Third avenue west. She paid the driver before reaching her destination, and soon after leaving the car discovered that $16 had been taken from her bag.

She did not notice the number of the car, she said, and could not remember the appearance of the driver or the other passenger, a man. Police are on the lookout for the thieves.

EMBRYO FINANCIER.

Elias Ruttle Accused of Stealing First Installment of Railroad.

In several more days Elias Ruttle, 41, might have achieved a place in the hall of fame and been ranked as a financier, but as it was he was arrested on a petit larceny charge and his praises will be unsung.

Elias is alleged to have stolen 1,000 feet of railroad ties, and complainants stated that, given a little more time, Elias might have walked off with part of the railroad. Hence his narrow escape from the title financier.

He was arraigned before Municipal Judge F. H. Cutting this morning, pleaded not guilty, and will be given a hearing May 18. Ruttle was arrested yesterday afternoon near the Great Northern right-of-way by Officers Nyberg and Duff.

NOT WORRIED BY HIS BROTHER'S ABSENCE

When N. A. Thompson, 617 Eleventh avenue east, applied at police headquarters this morning for information regarding the alleged disappearance of his brother, A. N. Thompson, former mayor of Virginia, the police knew nothing of the case.

"I know of nothing wrong," he said. "When I read a newspaper item stating that my brother had been missing a week, and that I was helping in the search, I thought I would find out about it."

Unverified reports from Virginia stated that Mr. Thompson, who now is superintendent of parks, had been missing since Tuesday. He sometimes takes trips and is away two or three days without his friends knowing of his whereabouts, according to the Duluth brother, who was not alarmed over the story. The missing man is 48 years of age.

PROTEST AGAINST REPATRIATION

Germans and Austrians Besiege American Consulate at London.

London, May 14.—Germans and Austrians again besieged the American consulate today but instead of demanding protection for themselves and their property they sought the aid of the American officials to prevent their being repatriated in consequence of the decision announced yesterday by Premier Asquith. Most of the callers at the consulate were either over or under the internment age. Many were women who brought their children. Those persons explained that for years their homes had been in this country, and that their deportation to Germany and Austria would be regarded by them as a greater calamity than internment here.

The American consul general, Robert P. Skinner, took their statements, but was unable to promise any action in their behalf further than the transmission of their requests to the proper authorities.

In addition you must send in a statement of your moneys and credits, showing just how much money you have in the bank, the mortgages, bonds and notes you hold and royalties you receive and at what periods of the year.

These assessors are at work now, and you may receive a call any day if you have not already done so.

Prior to the last week in June notices are sent to all the owners of property, notifying them of the valuation placed on their belongings and of a meeting of the board of equalization during the last week in June, when complaints may be made against any valuation. The mayor, city assessor and city clerk comprise this board. After the list is readjusted, the figures are copied on the tax books and these are turned over to the county auditor.

The county board goes over these assessments, making changes wherever it is deemed necessary and the figures are then canvassed by the state tax commission. After this the lists are returned to the auditor, who makes duplicate copies, which are turned over to the county treasurer.

Notices are sent out by the county treasurer notifying all owners that taxes must be paid within the period from Jan. 1 to March 1, after which a penalty is attached.

Gen. Sosa has started from Guaymas with 200 soldiers and will be joined by 100 more at Corral, and these, with the garrison in the valley, will make 500, sufficient to drive off the raiders.

RAISE SUNKEN BOAT.

International Falls Craft Taken From Rainy Lake Position.

International Falls, Minn., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Natoma, W. E. Rose's boat that was reported sunk at Bruel narrows on Rainy lake some time ago, is now ashore for repairs. Word came here at the time that the craft was lying in thirty feet of water, having sunk after being pulled off the rock on which it foundered. It was later found that the water in which the boat sunk was only six feet deep, so that it was not entirely submerged. A few days ago it was dragged ashore and the torn bottom is now being repaired and in a few days it will again be on the water.

RATE ADVANCE NOT ALLOWED

Interstate Commerce Commission Rules on Effect of Cummins Law.

Railroads Likely to Fight—First Story Published Here.

According to a Washington dispatch, the interstate commerce commission has decided that railroads cannot automatically increase their freight rates 10 per cent because on June 3 the so-called Cummins amendment to the rate law becomes effective, prohibiting any limitation of the liability of a carrier to a shipper.

Railroads had argued that the increased liability automatically raised their rates 10 per cent. The carriers' contention that they were entitled to an increase because of this amendment, was based largely upon the ground that their tariffs now on file provide one rate, when the usual bill of lading is issued, and a 10 per cent higher rate when a shipper rejects that bill and insists upon one with unlimited liability.

First Exploited By The Herald.

The probability of this contention on the part of the railroads was first pointed out in The Herald some weeks ago. The Herald was the first in the United States to indicate the danger of an increase in the rate. Traffic Commissioner G. Roy Hull of the Duluth Commercial club having discovered the believed discrepancy between the regulations of the roads, accepted by the interstate commerce commission, and the Cummins bill.

Traffic men, as a whole, believe that under the new law, the railroads have the right, for the regulations concerning the bill of lading mentioned have been accepted, indorsed and ratified by the commission and, according to all precedent, cannot be altered, unless voluntarily changed by the roads themselves.

Fight Only Begun.

It is generally believed that the decision just handed down by the interstate commerce commission in the matter, by no means closes the incident, for the railroads, it is understood, are prepared to make a fight for what they claim is their right. They have just been fighting for a 5 per cent increase in freight rates the country over but have been granted it only in part and in certain sections of the country. Their counsellors declare that an increase is necessary to make the business profitable enough to warrant the roads making extenstions and improvements; and it is believed hardly likely, with a better increase than that asked practically presented to them, as they believe it to be, that they will quit their efforts.

In its decision regarding the effect of the Cummins bill on the bills of lading, the commission says:

Commission's Decision.

"Applying correct rules of interpretation, the Cummins amendment does not automatically bring into effect the increased rate. There is nothing in the expressed terms of this act, or in the history of this legislation that shows any intent or purpose on the part of congress to affect in any degree the existing rates charged by the carriers for transportation of property. The lawful rates on file at this time, therefore, are the rates providing for the limited liability. The Cummins amendment, by making contracts limiting liability for loss caused by the carriers unlawful, does not destroy these rates, but they remain in effect and are lawfully applicable."

The commission declares that it has been shown there is no need for a revision of bills of lading, etc.

As to Extraordinary Cases.

"If in a proper manner and a proper proceeding," says the report, "it shall be made to appear that with regard to any commodity or commodities, the existing rates do not afford the carriers proper compensation for the services they perform, and the risk imposed upon them, it could hardly be denied that the rates on such commodities might be properly increased in sufficient amount to properly compensate the carriers for their added risk and liability. Where rates are lawfully based upon declared values, the defense in rates should no more than fairly and reasonably represent the added assurance. It does not appear that this amendment affords justification for any increase in rates on any commodities in general."

Needed changes in bills of lading, live stock contracts and certain parts of the carriers' classification and rate schedule, the report says, cannot be made with the usual thirty days' notice, and permission is given to the roads to make such changes effective June 1, on not less than three days' notice.

STATE SUPREME COURT DECISIONS

St. Paul, Minn., May 15.—The following decisions were rendered today by the Minnesota supreme court:

HENNEPIN COUNTY.
Judgment Affirmed.

Charles D. Ziegler, appellant, vs. John Suggit, et al, defendants, John Suggit, respondent—

In an action brought by plaintiff against the defendant and two others for conspiracy and fraudulent representations, held, that the pleadings, records, files and judgment in a former action between the plaintiff and the defendant Suggit show that the cause of action is the same and that this action is barred by the former adjudication.

Judgment affirmed.
SCHALLER, J.

Hallam, J., took no part.

HENNEPIN COUNTY.
Properly Dismissed.

Abrum Silverstein, appellant, vs. Knights and Ladies of Security, respondent—

The trial court properly dismissed this action on the ground that the evidence shows conclusively that plaintiff is not entitled to recover.

Order affirmed. TAYLOR, C.

HENNEPIN COUNTY.
Court Did Not Err.

Peter Skow, respondent, vs. James T. Elwell, et al., defendants, Dahl Punctureless Tire company, appellant—

1. In an action for personal injuries in which the defense of assumption of risk was neither pleaded nor litigated by consent, it is held, that the trial court did not err in granting a new trial for the error in submitting such question to the jury.

2. Where several defendants answer separately, a defense interposed by one is not available to a co-defendant where his separate answer does not present it.

Order affirmed. SCHALLER, J.

HENNEPIN COUNTY.
Order Affirmed.

Paul Pink, respondent, vs. Metropolitan Milk Company, a corporation, appellant—

1. The directors of a corporation represent the corporation only when acting in meeting as a board The separate action of the persons composing the board is not the act of the board or of the corporation.

2. The power to employ a cashier and accountant, or to authorize an agent to do so, is presumably incident to the position of general manager of a commercial corporation. There is evidence that plaintiff was hired by one authorized by defendants' managing agent.

3. An agent of a corporation empowered to hire a cashier and accountant has authority to hire him for what is, under the circumstances, a reasonable length of time. Under the circumstances of this case, it might be fairly inferred that one year was a reasonable length of time.

4. Grounds for new trial not assigned in the trial court will not be considered on appeal. Order affirmed.
HALLAM, J.

HENNEPIN COUNTY.
Order Affirmed.

Donald W. Grant et al., appellants vs. vs. Eugene S. Bibb, as administrator, et al., respondents—

1. A judgment creditor whose judgment is irregular has no right to redeem from a mortgage foreclosure sale, but if he undertakes to do so, and the purchaser at the sale receives the redemption money and appropriates it to himself, he waives any defect in the title of the holder of the judgment to redeem, and the redemption thereupon operates as an assignment to the redeeming creditor of the rights acquired by the purchaser at the sale.

2. The certificate holder may reseind his acceptance of the redemption money and still assail the right of litigation out of which the judgment arose was still pending was patent. Plaintiffs were put upon inquiry by the fact of redemption. They could not themselves have determined the validity of the judgment, but they could have ascertained that it was in litigation, and in that situation they were bound to determine whether they would recognize it as valid or disregard it as invalid.

3. The fact that they could not themselves litigate the validity of the judgment presents no reason why they were obliged to recognize it as valid. Order affirmed. HALLAM, J.

HENNEPIN COUNTY.
Finding Sustained.

Park Rapids Lumber company, appellant, vs. Aetna Insurance company, et al., respondents—

Evidence considered and held to sustain a finding of the trial court that certain policies of insurance did not cover the property destroyed by a fire.

There was no prejudicial error in excluding certain evidence.

Order affirmed. BUNN, J.

WASECA COUNTY.
Not Abuse of Discretion.

George Nelson, appellant, vs. Chicago & Northwestern Railway company, respondent—

1. An order opening a default judgment and permitting defendant to answer held not an abuse of discretion.

Order affirmed. BROWN, C. J.

SWIFT COUNTY.
Order Affirmed.

M. Hoban, appellant, vs. S. H. Hudson, respondent—

Plaintiff was given the option to demand and receive a refund of the amount of certain shares of stock in a foreign corporation provided he gave written notice of his election to have the refund on or before a certain date. In ignorance of the fact that the corporation had discontinued the office it maintained in this state when the contract was made, and that the officers thereof, then residents of the state, had removed to a distant state, plaintiff attempted to serve the notice by mail. He deposited such notice in the postoffice at Benson, Minn., where he resided, two days before the time required within which it must be served, but it did not reach an officer of the corporation until two days after such time. Held, that service was not made until the notice was received by the officer of the corporation, there being no facts pleaded or proven which created an estoppel, or waiver, or any agreement express or implied which would warrant the inference that the notice was to be considered served when deposited in the United States mail.

Order affirmed. HOLT, J.

OLMSTED COUNTY.
Order Affirmed.

John Ferrier, appellant vs. Thomas McCabe, respondent.

When it clearly appears from the complaint that, after the cause of action accrued, the time allowed by statute for bringing suit thereon expired before the suit was brought, and no fact is set forth avoiding the operation of the statute a demurrer is rightly sustained.

The right to amend a pleading after a demurrer thereto has been determined is vested in the discretion of the trial court. The record fails to show any abuse of this discretion in the order made.

Order affirmed. HOLT, J.

RED LAKE COUNTY.
Findings Sustained.

Arthur Prenevost, respondent vs. Omer Delorme, appellant.

1. An appointee to fill a vacancy in the county board, in a county not newly organized, or in which the number of commissioners is not increased, holds only until the next election occurring after there is sufficient time to give the notice prescribed by law, and until a successor is elected and qualified. Section 5727, general statutes 1913, governs such cases, not section 680, general statutes 1913.

2. On appeal from a judgment in a contested election proceeding, the respondent, having prevailed in the trial court, is permitted in the appellate court to urge any fact appearing in the record which will support the judgment of the court below.

3. The findings of fact are sustained by the evidence.

Judgment affirmed. SCHALLER, J.

YELLOW MEDICINE COUNTY.
Order Affirmed.

W. C. Rusack, respondent vs. Victor Johnson, appellant.

1. Ingalls vs. Oberg, 70 Minn. 102, 72, W. 481, followed to the effect that "In reviewing the action of the trial court in denying a motion to dismiss on the ground that the plaintiff had failed to establish a cause of action, an appellate court will consider all the evidence in the case, and affirm the action of the trial court, if sufficient evidence was admitted to sustain a verdict for the plaintiff, although not introduced until after the motion."

2. Evidence examined and held, sufficient to sustain the verdict.

3. Record examined and held, to contain no prejudicial error.

Order affirmed. SCHALLER, J.

STATE OF MINNESOTA.
City Not Liable.

Charles Lamont, appellant, vs. Ed Stavanaugh, et al., defendants, City of Waterville, respondent.

A city is not liable for the injuries received by a person on its streets in an assault by a police officer, although such officer is known to the officials appointing him to be a man of vicious propensities and violent temper.

The failure to require a bond of such police officer does not make the city liable for such assault.

Affirmed. BUNN, J.

STATE OF MINNESOTA.
Judgment Affirmed.

Anton Sovell, appellant, vs County of Lincoln, et al., respondents.

A voluntary conveyance of real estate is void as to subsequent creditors of the grantor providing it is established that it was actually fraudulent and that the purpose or effect of the conveyance is to defraud such creditors.

The evidence sustains a finding that the conveyance in this case was actually fraudulent and that its purpose and effect was to defraud a subsequent creditor of the grantor.

Judgment affirmed. BUNN, J.

STATE OF MINNESOTA.
Order Affirmed.

Johanna C. Brown, administrator, respondent, vs. Chicago & Northwestern Railway company, appellant.

1. A cause of action for death by wrongful act survives under the laws of Iowa, belongs to the estate of the person killed, and the administrator of his estate may maintain an action to recover thereon.

2. Having the right of action in that state, the administrator duly appointed under the laws thereof, may maintain the action in this state.

3. Sec. 8423 G. S. 1913, relating to the admission in evidence of certified copies of records and proceedings when certified as therein required, has no application to foreign records and documents when authenticated and certified in accordance with the act of congress. Merz vs. Ry. Co. 86 Minn. 33, distinguished.

4. Evidence held to support the verdict to the effect that the death of plaintiff's intestate was caused by the negligence of defendant in operating a train over and across a public highway without warning or signal of its approach, and also to the effect that decedent was not guilty of contributory negligence.

5. The record contains no error in the instructions or refusals to instruct the jury.

Order affirmed. BROWN, C. J.

Planning for the Stork's Arrival

Among those things which all women should know of, and many of them do, is a splendid external application sold in most drug stores under the name of "Mother's Friend." It is a penetrating liquid and many and many a mother tells how it so wonderfully aided them through the period of expectancy. Its chief purpose is to render the tendons, ligaments and muscles so pliant that nature's expansion may be accomplished without the intense strain so often characteristic of the period of expectancy.

At any rate it is reasonable to believe that since "Mother's Friend" has been a companion to motherhood for more than half a century no more timely advice could be given the inexperienced mother than to suggest its daily use during expectancy.

Ask at any drug store for "Mother's Friend," a penetrating, external liquid of great help and value. And write to Bradfield Regulator Co., 302 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for their book of useful and timely information to expectant mothers. It contains many suggestions that are of interest to all women.

DENMARK MAY HAVE A COAL SHORTAGE

War Stops Shipments to Little Kingdom, Says Duluthian.

Denmark is threatened by a shortage of coal, according to Dr. H. A. Anderson, who returned yesterday from Copenhagen, Denmark, where he studied medicine during the last year.

"If the present war continues until next fall," said Dr. Anderson, "the entire little nation will practically be without any coal. The present supply is fast being utilized and there is no opportunity to obtain shipments, especially from England, while the war lasts.

"Many Danes are now making fortunes supplying the warring nations with hash, which is sold in small tin cans. It is in great demand and factories are constantly springing up throughout the country.

"The Frederick VIII, on which I was a passenger on the trip home, passed within about forty feet from a floating mine just north of Scotland. In addition our ship was stopped several times by English cruisers off the British coast. We had just passed the war zone when word was received by wireless that the Lusitania had been sunk by a torpedo."

ST. CLOUD CHURCH IS SUING FOR SUBSCRIPTION

St. Cloud, Minn., May 14.—The case of the First Methodist church of St. Cloud vs. W. L. Seabury, an action to force payment of a subscription toward the new Methodist church, has been set for trial in district court today.

According to allegations Mr. Seabury subscribed $180 to the building fund. He paid $17 and declines to pay the remainder. The defense contends that an oral understanding was had to the effect that the subscriber might withdraw if he found it necessary.

DULUTH MAN LOSES $175

Arrives at Minot to Engage in Farming, Is Victim of Thug.

Shipped Household Goods to McGregor and Was Awaiting Them.

Minot, N. D., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Looking into the barrel of a revolver, held in the hand of a bandit, J. E Thorson of Duluth handed over $175 to the thug.

Thorson had just arrived in Minot, expecting to engage in farming in this district. His household goods and farm machinery had been shipped to McGregor, N. D., and Thorson waited over a day in this city.

Thorson had left his car, and was walking down the railroad tracks, when he was accosted by a man who demanded to see the copy of his shipping contract. Thorson produced it, and the next moment he found himself facing a gun in the hands of the supposed officer. All the money he had, $175, was lost by Thorson.

The Duluth directory gives the names of several Thorsons but no J. E. Thorson.

UNRULY COW EXPLODES DYNAMITE—IS KILLED.

Baudette, Minn., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A cow belonging to John Martinson of Pitt was unruly this week and in jumping around in the barn stepped on a stick of dynamite which exploded. The cow was killed and Mr. Martinson was badly hurt.

LARGE INCREASE IN 1915 ACREAGE

Substantial Gain in Amount of North Dakota Land Sown.

Fargo, N. D., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is a great deal of speculation in North Dakota this year as to the wheat acreage. All estimators concede it will be larger than last year with estimates ranging from 5 to 15 per cent. The official government estimate of the acreage is being awaited.

In the meantime private persons have secured figures from every county in the state which indicate the total wheat acreage in North Dakota this year will be 8,100,000 as against 7,200,000 last year, or roughly a 10 per cent increase. These figures are regarded as practically accurate, though unofficial. The estimate has been made by many who are thoroughly in touch with the local conditions in their home counties and are not regarded as much out of the way.

The increase is due largely to the amount of new lands in the western part of the state this year that have never been seeded to wheat before and have been in flax and other crops. There is also some increase in the acreage in the central counties in fact as far east as the western side of the Red river valley counties. The increase in the central part of the state runs from 2 to 5 per cent.

In Red River Counties.

There is very little change in the wheat acreage in the Red river valley counties. Had the seeding conditions been more favorable the wheat acreage would have been larger, but the delay in getting onto the low lands has prevented some farmers from putting in as much wheat as they intended, which will result in an increased corn acreage. It is estimated that the 500,000 acres of corn last year will easily be 600,000 this year. The oat acreage will remain practically the same and the barley will show a decrease. There is some speculation as to flax, many people anticipating a reduced acreage but with the new prairie lands being broken it may keep up the flax acreage practically to last year's figures. There has also been a slight increase in the winter rye acreage.

SOME PLACES ARE NEEDING MOISTURE

Otherwise North Dakota Crop Conditions Are About Ideal.

Fargo, N. D., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Crop conditions for the state south of the main line of the Great Northern from Grand Forks to Williston are ideal. There are favorable conditions in the northeastern counties, but it is very dry between the Great Northern main line to the Canadian line all the way west of Devils Lake.

There are some localities in that region abundantly supplied with moisture, but the great part of it is dry and in some localities there has not been sufficient moisture to sprout the seeded grain. Lack of snowfall last winter and rain this spring are both factors.

It will require repeated heavy rains in that section all through the growing period to insure a crop. The Red river valley, on the other hand, has had considerable more moisture up to date than required.

Crops in North Dakota have been put in this year better than usual and the yields will depend largely on the precipitation between now and July.

NORTH DAKOTA PORK PRODUCTION INCREASES

Fargo, N. D., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—"We want to ship 500,000 hogs from North Dakota in 1915," is the statement made by the boosters for pork production in this state.

"North Dakota will ship 600,000 in 1915," declares President Rogers of the South St. Paul stockyards.

The local people hope they are wrong and President Rogers is correct.

"Last year," said President Rogers, "we paid the North Dakota farmers for 320,000 hogs in addition to the number they killed and butchered at home. We have been closely studying the situation in this state this spring and from the advices we have received we now feel confident there will be 600,000 shipped this year."

The growth of pork production in North Dakota is one of the most remarkable movements anywhere in the west and has attracted a great deal of attention among livestock men everywhere.

MILL CITY CLOCK OFF; MAN LOSES BRIDE—SUES.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 14.—Owing to the vagaries of the city hall clock, R. O. Anderson of Devils Lake, N. D., missed his train several weeks ago, was late for his wedding, and his bride refused to marry him. As a result of the eccentricities of the timepiece, Anderson has asked the city for $25,000 damages.

DUNN CENTER WILL START NEW ACTION

To Continue Fight to Capture Dunn County, N. D., Seat.

Dunn Center, N. D., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Discouraged over the decision of the supreme court which permits the Dunn county seat to remain temporarily at Manning, the residents of this place will soon initiate new legal proceedings to bring the matter again before the state's highest court in a different form from the first action.

When Dunn county was organized, Manning was designated the county seat by the commissioners, but no vote on the permanent location was taken till last fall. Dunn Center received a majority of the votes, but not two-thirds, as is required to change the county seat in organized counties.

Claim Majority Decided.

Dunn Center contended that a majority was all that was required, but the commissioners decided differently and the matter was taken into courts. As the action finally resulted, the appeal to the supreme court was on slightly different grounds from the original action and the attorneys for Dunn Center contend that the matter can be brought up again on a different line.

Dunn Center is in almost the exact geographical center of the county and on the new railroad, which reached here last year. Manning is twelve miles inland and on one side of the county, which makes it inconvenient for many taxpayers.

HALLOCK PLANNING FOR JUNE MEETING

Will Royally Entertain Those Attending Red River D. A. Session.

Hallock, Minn., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The people of Hallock and all Kittson county are preparing to entertain most royally the second annual convention of the Minnesota Red River Development association here June 16 and 17. A meeting of about fifty prominent citizens was held Wednesday, Representative P. H. Konzen presiding. Many of the proposed entertainment features were informally discussed, and it was decided to call a mass meeting of citizens of Hallock and surrounding country for next Saturday evening, when all committees will be appointed and active work of preparing to entertain the big convention started.

There will be three pronounced features of the convention, the senatorial excursion, which will spend Wednesday, June 16, here and in this vicinity; the meeting of the Red River Valley Stock Breeders' association, and a conference of farmers' clubs, which will be held on Thursday, the 17th.

Meetings for Women.

There will be sectional meetings, including at least two sessions specially devoted to the ladies, and at least four joint sessions, at which speakers of national reputation will discuss matters of interest to the people of the ten counties.

A splendid spirit of enthusiasm was in evidence at the meeting just held, and the famous Kittson County Alfalfa squad will leave nothing undone to make history at the great gathering to be held here June 16 and 17.

Secretary Davies was present at the conference and outlined some of the things that will be necessary to make the convention a success.

EATON WILL EXPLAIN.

Naval Militia Commander to Confer With Bemidji People.

Bemidji, Minn., May 14.—Guy A. Eaton of Duluth, commander of the Minnesota naval militia, in a letter received by Ralph B. Lycan, a member of the committee which has been investigating the possibility of establishing a company here, states that in order to make the plan successful here the support of the business men is necessary.

For the purpose of interesting the business men by outlining to them the advantages offered by the establishment of a company here, Commander Eaton says that he will come here during the next week to fully explain the proposition. A public meeting will be held at which all recruits and as many business men as possible will attend.

MINISTERS JOIN IN TRIBUTE TO BISHOP

Men of Other Beliefs Attend Aitkin Banquet to Bishop McGolrick.

Aitkin, Minn., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A public banquet was served Wednesday evening at the Willard for Bishop J. McGolrick, and plates were laid for 100 guests. J. C. Hessian was toastmaster. Rev. A. L. Richardson of the M. E. church responded to "Public Conscience;" R. L. Mason to "Winds." Mr. Hessian spoke of the excellent work accomplished here by Rev. A. Turbiaux, who for three years has been pastor of St. Calumes' church, and Father Turbiaux responded. Bishop McGolrick delighted the audience by an address upon 'Our State Institutions."

Church Is Filled.

Communion was administered Thursday morning by the bishop and at 10 o'clock the church was filled for the high mass sung by Rev. Father Lydon of Duluth, chancellor of the diosese, during which Prof. Knpuule's orchestra played Gounod's mass of St. Cecelia. The class of 100 young people who had been prepared by Rev. A. Turbiaux were presented to Bishop McGolrick and received confirmation after which he addresesd the congregation.

Rev. J. Quillian of Brainerd was deacon of the mass and Rev. J. Crean of Brainerd, sub deacon.

CROP CONDITIONS PRONOUNCED FINE

Never Appeared Better in Minnesota Red River Valley Counties.

Crookston, Minn., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—N. S. Davies, secretary of the Minnesota Red River Valley Development association, who spent the last three days in Polk, Marshall and Kittson counties looking over the crop situation, returned yesterday and reports that during the residence of thirty-five years in the valley he has never seen crop conditions so uniformly good at the present time as this season.

The grain went into the ground under ideal conditions, the soil being very mellow and in addition the farmers have taken more pains in preparing the seed bed this year than ever before; in fact, there has been steady improvement along this line for a number of years past. Coupled with this the increased acreage of corn and potatoes has left a decided improvement in the field. On every farm can be seen the last year's corn and potato fields planted this year to grain, each looking like a great garden spot.

The grain this year is coming up very even owing to the fact that there has been plenty of moisture followed by warm weather so that the grain all sprouted uniformly.

Grain Is Well Up.

Practically all of the wheat and oats are up some of the wheat being from four to five inches high. Considerable barley has been sown and all of it will be seeded before the end of the week.

Corn planting has started and by the end of the week 50 per cent of the farmers will have finished corn planting between Crookston and the Canadia border. Farmers of Kittson county who were interviewed state that conditions were never more favorable and the same story was told by the farmers of Marshall county.

Throughout the valley among farmers and business men greater optimism never prevailed and while ideal conditions now do not by any means insure a crop, still as a prominent banker expressed himself, "crops sailing conditions for 1915 could not have been better during the first leg of the 1915 cruise."

JOHNNY M'GRAW STANDS FOR SUCCESS OF GIANTS

If the Phillies Were Managed By "Muggsy" They Would Carry Faith of Fans —Sunday Baseball in Canada Would Reap Rich Profits—The Boxing Referee.

BY BRUCE.

IF Johnny McGraw were manager of the Phillies the bunch Pat Moran is piloting would carry oodles of coin of the realm. Pat Moran as a manager is an unknown quantity. He faithfully represents the letter X. Patrick and colleagues got away from the barrier and have set a lurid pace. Well, wait.

The late Elbert Hubbard wrote an essay on the philosophy of success. In it he declared that one man accounts for the success of every great business; that one brain, clear and indefatigable, holds to the groove of success.

Some declare that it is the players that make a pennant winner—then if that is the case, McGraw and the illustrious Cornelius McGillicuddy must have the talent of Chris Columbus and the trading ability of David Harum—or they have the ability to make their players perform at a higher stride than the performers of the opposing teams.

Right now the Giants are running in the ruck. Go out on the street and ask the average fan whether he would take the Phillies or Giants for place or show. The chances are that said fan would hook onto the Giants.

It's McGraw. From the day he fought and yelled and kicked dust into the faces of opposing players on the Cedar Rapids diamond until the present time, the man who but recently has dropped the name of "Muggsy," has fought with clenched fist and tightly drawn jaw muscles for the golden crown of success.

Men like John McGraw are born once in several decades; that is one of the reasons why it is always a foolish proposition to count his team out of the race.

Sunday Baseball in Canada.

WHETHER those behind the St. Boniface baseball team will abandon their attempt to play Sunday baseball in the Dominion of Canada, is not as yet known. The fact remains that large chunks of the coin of the realm would reward the baseball magnate who owned a baseball team that was permitted to play baseball in St. Boniface or Winnipeg.

Winnipeg on Sunday is as quiet as a dinner table gathering when little brother has pulled some terrible break for a socially distinguished guest. There is no scenery around the Peg to look at. The theaters are closed and they don't publish newspapers. If the authorities allowed baseball the Sunday gate would total around the 20,000 paid admission mark.

At St. Boniface the game played last Sunday was not advertised at all, according to the statement of Herr Blume. There were somewhere in the neighborhood of 8,000 citizens on hand.

If they let the league play Sunday baseball in Winnipeg the owners of the teams would clench fists and swear over the schedule making act—all of the magnates would jealously jockey for Sunday dates.

Some persons hate to see some other persons make money. Shame on 'em.

The Newspaper Men Referee.

WHY is a referee? Mail answers to this department. His duties are about as definite as those of a student of harmony sent to a boiler shop. The newspaper writers of boxing are the ones who decide the winners or losers or even uppers.

This fact has led to an increase in the circulation of some of the newspapers. All smart and energetic managers arise early in the day after a ring battle. All of the papers giving his boy a decision are purchased in large quantities. All day he labors on the job of cutting out the favorable stories and sending them to the influential sporting writers around the country.

The peculiar fact of the matter is that the manager of the other boy has just as much opportunity to labor. Unless the battle is distressingly one-sided the newspapers are likely to thoroughly disagree. Thus is everyone made to feel good.

And the referee—why, bless you, all he has to do is to collect his yen after the show and get his picture in the paper. If he is a smart chap he can do both.

DOOKS WIN FINAL GAME

St. Boniface Chefs Are Defeated By Score of 7 to 5.

Error By Williams in Second Round Nearly Loses Contest.

St. Boniface, Man., May 14.—Duluth won the final game from the Chefs yesterday by the score of 7 to 5. Shannon, an amateur of the local corner lots, was sent to the mound and failed to hold the visitors. The Dooks bunched hits and runs in the fifth and seventh rounds.

Williams dropped a fly in the second inning with the bases filled, the error giving the Chefs a lead. The Dooks played an up hill game all the way through.

"Sticks" Bryant was found easy and O'Brien found it necessary to send a call to the dog house for Boley.

After the games the visitors left for Fargo, where they are scheduled to open a series today.

FRANK HOFFMAN JOINS THE DOOKS

Hurler Purchases His Own Release From Old Joe Killian.

Frank Hoffman purchased his own release from Joe Killian, the former manager of Winona, and was yesterday signed by Herr Blume. Last night Frank was shipped to Fargo and is scheduled to work in the opening game of today against Col. Bob Unglaub's Uhlans.

Magnate Blume declares that a twirler will have to deliver the goods to stick this season with his club. Only eleven men will be carried after the weeding-out process has been completed. With the hurlers it will be a case of the survival of the fittest.

Byers Defeats Mausolf.

Clayton Byers, Pacific coast pool champion, last evening won from August Mausolf. The score in the series now stands 450 for Mausolf and 445 for Byers. The visitor ran out his string of 150 when Mausolf had but four to go. The game was the best that has been played in the series as yet.

DIVISION SERIES CARDED FOR THE "KID" LEAGUE

Two Teams With the Highest Standing in Each Division Will Meet in Series to Decide Which Team Will Enter the Pennant Games; Duluth to Send Team to St. Paul.

Western Division.

Adams vs. Lowells, Duluth Heights.
Monroes vs Emersons, Thirty-second avenue west and Superior street.
Irvings vs. Lincolns, Nineteenth avenue west and Boulevard.
Bryants vs. Jacksons, Tenth avenue west and Third street.

Eastern Division.

Franklins vs. Lakeside, Fifteenth avenue east and Fifth street.
Washingtons vs. Salters, Twelfth avenue east and London road.

Because of the fact that the playing season of the Duluth Grade School league would terminate within ten days under the ordinary procedure of the schedule, it has been decided by President Duby of the league, at the suggestion of the sporting editors of the two Duluth papers, that the two teams of the Eastern and the two teams of the Western divisions having the highest standing at the close of the season, play a series of three games for the championship of their divisions, the winners of the series to meet in a final series for the league title.

This arrangement will serve to prolong the season and should also work up a high degree of interest in the final series of games for the city championship.

As has been stated several times, the winners of the titles in the Eastern and Western divisions will play the final series of games at Athletic park. It is believed that the holding of a series between the two highest teams in each division before the final series of the school league season will set the stage for the biggest baseball attraction that has as yet been attempted in the public schools of the city of Duluth.

Strong Teams to Play.

Some of the stronger teams of the Eastern division are scheduled to meet today. The strong Washington school team should find a worthy foe in the Salters. The Franklin-Lakeside game should also be a close contest.

In the Western division the Adams and Lincolns have shown the greatest strength. Should these two teams meet in a final series for the premier honors of that division, interest in the West end school would undoubtedly reach a high mark.

One of the best played games of the season was staged yesterday between the Washburns and Endions, the former team winning by the score of 4 to 3. The game was well played by the kid stars, some really clever plays being pulled. As the score indicates, there was very little to choose between the two teams.

A Trip to St. Paul.

It was announced today that a school team will be taken to St. Paul. An all-star aggregation may be chosen from the various players of the league, or the winner of the grade league pennant may be chosen to represent the city of Duluth.

Some very fast grade school baseball is played in St. Paul. It will be necessary to take a real team down from this town. Whether an all-star team or the winner of the grade school league flag is chosen as the Duluth representative, the team finally decided upon will be given a course of stiff workouts before leaving Duluth.

Interest in the league is increasing each week. The players, the kid followers of the players, the teachers, the parents and the general public are taking a genuine interest in the progress of the youngsters.

When the final games come it is expected that Duluth will turn out a record-breaking crowd to get a look at the kiddos in the big pennant clash.

AMATEURS WILL CLASH

Baseball Games Scheduled for Saturday and Sunday at Athletic Park.

There will be a double-header played by the Duluth Amateur league teams tomorrow afternoon at Athletic park. The Board of Trade aggregation is scheduled to play the Duluth Street Railway team, and the Duluth-Edisons will meet the F. A. Patricks.

Gladstone: Great Example of Temperance

ENGLAND'S "GRAND OLD MAN" CHAMPIONS PERSONAL LIBERTY

No one will question the sincerity of the late Mr. Gladstone in the cause of temperance when in 1864 he wrote:

"How can I, who drink good wine and bitter beer all my life in a comfortable room among friends, coolly stand up and advice hard-working fellow creatures to take the pledge?"

Charles Dickens, the most popular writer of the English language, says: "There is no intrinsic harm in beer, far from it."

T. C. Flanagan, the famous Canadian athlete and trainer, says: "I have always maintained that beer is the best upbuilder and sustainer next to beefsteak that a man under a steady grind for long periods can take. There must be moderation, of course, in this as in other foods."

KIESELGUHR FILTER
LATEST TRIUMPH IN BREWING

Why is Fitger Natural Beer filtered instead of pasteurized?

Because pasteurization, the old method for "keeping" bottled beer, spoils the taste. Kieselguhr filtration, the new method used to "keep" Fitger Natural Beer, preserves the taste.

Heretofore people have always preferred draught beer to the pasteurized bottled article. Now they prefer Fitger Natural Beer in bottles to the finest draught.

They prefer it because Fitger Natural Beer has the full, delicious taste and aroma of the finest draught, because it is filtered brilliantly clear of the yeast cells which draught beer contains, because it comes in convenient, scientifically clean bottles sealed at the brewery and opened by themselves.

FIRST-YEAR MEN WINNERS

Central Freshmen Show Up Seniors in Interclass Diamond Contest.

STANDING OF THE TEAMS.

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Freshmen	1	0	1.000
Juniors	1	0	1.000
Seniors	0	1	.000
Sophomores	0	1	.000

The second game of the Central high school interclass baseball series resulted in a victory for the freshmen over the seniors by the score of 27 to 16. The fourth-year men were not expecting a very hard contest, and were considerably over-confident. They had not been practicing very much and had not made a decision regarding a lineup. The team went up in the air in the first inning, and the first-year players shoved over eleven runs. This was enough to cinch the game although the seniors fought hard and made several good rallies. The playing of both teams was decidedly amateurish, but this is accounted for by the fact that this was the first game for both of the teams. The weather was cold and the pitchers experienced difficulty in getting warmed up.

The senior pitchers, Baker, Peterson and Bernt, were all good when they got warmed up, but the errors of their teammates threw the game away. The whole freshmen team played especially good, showing the result of a lot of practice. Christoferson was one of the shining lights of the first-year squad. He fielded his position well, and made several long wallops, one of them going into the lake for a home run.

The crowd was amused when Bondy of the freshmen crew stopped two of the senior pitcher's fast ones with his head, although they did not affect him in the least. The lineup and score by innings follow: Seniors—Westover, centerfield; Anderson, Bartlett, catcher; Melander, shortstop; Baker, Peterson, Bernt, pitchers; Sandberg, Laskey, right field; Moerke, first base; Nelson, third base; Gunderson, second base; Boyd, left field.

Seniors	0 1 7 0 3 1 3 0 1—16
Freshmen	1 1 3 5 0 0 0 3 2 3—27

Wednesday afternoon the senior team defeated the policemen nine by the score of 20 to 4.

FUTURE OF SEAL HERD

Experts Favor Ending of the Suspension of Seal Killing.

Expected That Secretary Redfield Will Recommend It to Congress.

Washington, May 14.—Congressional legislation to carry out recommendations of a commission of three scientific experts with a view to resumption of commercial killing of seals at the Pribilof islands in the Bering sea will be recommended next winter by the secretary of commerce, William C. Redfield, according to present expectations. The ultimate future of the Alaska seal herd has been a vexed international problem for years.

Canada and Japan, which are interested financially in the American herd by the term of a treaty which abolished pelagic sealing, made an investigation contemporaneously with the American experts. Both governments have made representations to the United States that the condition of the seal herd warrants resuming sealing operations at once.

The report of the three American experts, submitted to congress in its closing days and about to be published, is by Wilfred H. Osgood, Edward A. Preble and George H. Parker, selected by the National Academy of Science, the Smithsonian institution and the secretary of agriculture at the instance of the secretary of commerce. These men investigated conditions on the Pribilof islands last summer.

Report of Experts.

Their report, whose revision has just been completed, points out that the treaty effective Dec. 15, 1911, between the United States, Great Britain, Japan and Russia, is essentially an agreement by which the foreign nations relinquish their right to take seals on the high seas in exchange for a share in land sealing to be conducted by the United States. Great Britain and Japan paid large sums to retire their sealing fleets, "obviously expecting to be reimbursed in the near future by their 15 per cent share of land sealing." The United States reserved the right to suspend land sealing if necessary to protect and preserve the seal herd and to increase its number. This suspension occurred in 1912. The report contends that now, after three sensons without commercial sealing, there is no necessity for continued suspension.

Would Not Jeopardize Herd.

"The condition of the seal herd in 1914," says the report, "is such that resumption of commercial sealing on a moderate scale in 1915 could be undertaken with confidence that the protection and growth of the herd would not be jeopardized in the slightest degree. The inference is clear that unless sealing is resumed agitation will continue and integrity of a most desirable treaty endangered."

The voluminous report states that the people of the Pribilof islands, though not natives, have for so long made the islands their home that they recognize no other. "They are a people still semi-civilized," says the report. "They constitute a heritage acquired by the United States with the islands and their valuable wild inhabitants and considerations of economy and humanity demand that they be accepted as such and managed with all possible wisdom and fairness.

Many Changes Needed.

"Many changes in the methods of dealing with the natives seem to be necessary. In their management a great deal will depend on the personality of the officials in charge. It is believed that the work necessary to put the sealing plant on an efficient basis and the resumption in the near future of commercial sealing, accompanied by a better system of compensation and the opportunity of exchanging the reward of their labor according to their desires, will help to make the natives of self-respecting and the people may become an entirely self-supporting, efficient, happy community."

There are good reasons, from both economy and welfare of the seal herd, to resume commercial sealing at once, the report concludes. There should be only two restriction to practically guarantee growth and preservation of the herd. These are that females should not be killed for their skins or for food and that breeding bulls should be maintained in numbers sufficient to supply one to each forty bearing cows.

Not Near Extinction.

The report says the management of all the animals should be placed in charge of a specially qualified officer and the management of the natives and the fiscal affairs under another officer, the former having senior rank. That the Pribilof seal herd is not on the verge of extinction is asserted, with the declaration that complete rehabilitation of the herd may be confidently expected in view of its present size and condition. "Provisions commensurate with the needs and importance of the property involved," the report adds, "are to be regarded as wise investments and curtailment of operations at this time is not justified by conditions."

Among statements by the three experts are:

Male Seals Increased.

"The fur seal herd contains approximately 994,000 individuals, 93,250 of them bearing female seals. The ratio of one seal bull to forty bearing cows meets all possible demands of safety and conservation. The law of 1912, stopping commercial killing, has greatly increased the male seals. The male seals will be greatly in excess by 1916. The herd is in excellent condition. Yearling seals rarely come to land at all until after the close of the killing season. The increase in the number of bearing seal cows was small. Marking of breeding reserves with a permanent hot iron brand is practicable. Method of killing seals is not objectionable from the humane standpoint, but shorter drives are desirable. Dead animals should be measured before they are skinned, the present system of weighing being antiquated. Buildings, transportation methods and methods of work need general reforms. The fox herd is in poor condition, the reindeer herd is increasing, sea lions and certain birds need continued protection. The natives constitute a serious problem; their condition, while far from hopeless, is not creditable to the government."

MANY MINERS IN BRITISH ARMY

More Than 130,000 Recruited and Many Enrolled as Sappers.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

London, April 28.—According to trade union officials, more than 130,000 miners have been recruited into the British army since the beginning of the war. Most of these have been enrolled as engineers or sappers, thus providing trained men for this work, which is proving of the highest importance in the trench warfare on the western front.

The capture of Hill No. 60 near Ypres is a case in point, where the spade played a vital part in the operations. Tunneling and mine-laying of a swift and certain nature was essential to this operation and the sappers employed were skilled miners from Wales and the north of England.

Accustomed to working underground, with a complete mastery of the pick and prop, and an instinctive understanding of all the difficulties to be encountered in the way of cave-ins and falls of earth, these skilled miners are able to drive saps and tunnels with a speed and accuracy not to be attained in the case of ordinary infantrymen, although every infantryman is given a thorough course of instruction in spade work during his training.

Part of the miner's usefulness, especially in night work between the lines, lies in his almost uncanny ability to see clearly in what to ordinary persons is almost absolute darkness. This special ability comes, of course, from long working in the half light of the underground world. It is of the greatest value, not only in sapping and tunneling, but also in the work of the "listening patrol" in night attacks, and in reconnaissances.

All of the candidates weigh considerably more at the present time than will be the case later on. The cold weather has given the men little chance to take off weight. However, there is no real reason why weight taking off should start at this early date.

FIRST-YEAR MEN WINNERS

Central Freshmen Show Up Seniors in Interclass Diamond Contest.

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Freshmen	1	0	1.000
Juniors	1	0	1.000
Seniors	0	1	000
Sophomores	0	1	.000

The second game of the Central high school Interclass baseball series resulted in a victory for the freshmen over the seniors by the score of 27 to 16. The fourth-year men were not expecting a very hard contest, and were considerably over-confident. They had not been practicing very much and had not made a decision regarding a lineup. The team went up in the air in the first inning, and the first-year players shoved over eleven runs. This was enough to cinch the game although the seniors fought hard and made several good rallies. The playing of both teams was decidedly amateurish, but this is accounted for by the fact that this was the first game for both of the teams. The weather was cold and the pitchers experienced difficulty in getting warmed up.

The senior pitchers, Baker, Peterson and Bernt, were all good when they got warmed up, but the errors of their teammates threw the game away. The whole freshmen team played especially good, showing the result of a lot of practice. Christoferson was one of the shining lights of the first-year squad. He fielded his position well, and made several long wallops, one of them going into the lake for a home run.

The crowd was amused when Bondy of the freshmen crew stopped two of the senior pitcher's fast ones with his head, although they did not affect him in the least. The lineup and score by innings follow: Seniors—Westover, centerfield; Anderson, Bartlett, catcher; Melander, shortstop; Baker, Peterson, Bernt, pitchers; Sahlberg, Laskey, right field; Moerke, first base; Nelson, third base; Gunderson, second base; Boyd, left field.

Seniors	0	1	7	0	1	3	0	1	—16
Freshmen	1	1	3	5	0	0	3	2	—27

Wednesday afternoon the senior team defeated the policemen nine by the score of 20 to 4.

Gandil Suspended.

Chicago, May 14.—First Baseman Chick Gandil of the Washington Americans yesterday received word from President Johnson of the American league that he had been suspended for three days as the result of his altercation with Umpire Chill Wednesday. Gandil disputed one of Chill's decisions.

College Baseball Thursday.

Princeton, N. J., May 14.—The Princeton baseball team won from Notre Dame in the twelfth inning yesterday by a score of 6 to 5.

Middleton, Conn., May 14.—Result yesterday: Dartmouth, 3; Wesleyan, 1.

Fromme to Jersey City.

New York, May 14.—Arthur Fromme, pitcher for the New York Nationals since 1913, was released yesterday to the Jersey City team of the International league. Fromme came to the Giants in the famous deal with Cincinnati for Dover, Ames and Groh.

No Demand for Ship.

London, May 14.—The Cunard line announces that the only sailing date they have canceled is that of the steamer Mauretania. This was canceled, it is added, for the reason that there was not a sufficient demand for passenger accommodations to warrant running her.

FUTURE OF SEAL HERD

Experts Favor Ending of the Suspension of Seal Killing.

Expected That Secretary Redfield Will Recommend It to Congress.

Washington, May 14.—Congressional legislation to carry out recommendations of a commission of three scientific experts with a view to resumption of commercial killing of seals at the Pribilof islands in the Bering sea will be recommended next winter by the secretary of commerce, William C. Redfield, according to present expectations. The ultimate future of the Alaska seal herd has been a vexed international problem for years.

Canada and Japan, which are interested financially in the American herd by the term of a treaty which abolished pelagic sealing, made an investigation contemporaneously with the American experts. Both governments have made representations to the United States that the condition of the seal herd warrants resuming sealing operations at once.

The report of the three American experts, submitted to congress in its closing days and about to be published, is by Wilfred H. Osgood, Edward A. Preble and George H. Parker, selected by the National Academy of Science, the Smithsonian institution and the secretary of agriculture at the instance of the secretary of commerce. These men investigated conditions on the Pribilof islands last summer.

Report of Experts.

Their report, whose revision has just been completed, points out that the treaty effective Dec. 15, 1911, between the United States, Great Britain, Japan and Russia, is essentially an agreement by which the foreign nations relinquish their right to take seals on the high seas in exchange for a share in land sealing to be conducted by the United States. Great Britain and Japan paid large sums to retire their sealing fleets, "obviously expecting to be reimbursed in the near future by their 15 per cent share of land sealing." The United States reserved the right to suspend land sealing if necessary to protect and preserve the seal herd and to increase its number. This suspension occurred in 1912. The report contends that now, after three seasons without commercial sealing, there is no necessity for continued suspension.

Would Not Jeopardize Herd.

"The condition of the seal herd in 1914," says the report, "is such that resumption of commercial sealing on a moderate scale in 1915 could be undertaken with confidence that the protection and growth of the herd would not be jeopardized in the slightest degree. The inference is clear that unless sealing is resumed agitation will continue and integrity of a most desirable treaty endangered."

The voluminous report states that the people of the Pribilof islands, though not natives, have for so long made the islands their home that they recognize no other. "They are a people still semi-civilized," says the report. "They constitute a heritage acquired by the United States with the islands and their valuable wild inhabitants and considerations of economy and humanity demand that they be accepted as such and managed with all possible wisdom and fairness.

Many Changes Needed.

"Many changes in the methods of dealing with the natives seem to be necessary. In their management a great deal will depend on the personality of the officials in charge. It is believed that the work necessary to put the sealing plant on an efficient basis and the resumption in the near future of commercial sealing, accompanied by a better system of compensation and the opportunity of exchanging the reward of their labor according to their desires, will help to make the natives of self-respecting and the people may become an entirely self-supporting, efficient, happy community."

There are good reasons, from both economy and welfare of the seal herd, to resume commercial sealing at once, the report concludes. There should be only two restriction to practically guarantee growth and preservation of the herd. These are that females should not be killed for their skins or for food and that breeding bulls should be maintained in numbers sufficient to supply one to each forty bearing cows.

Not Near Extinction.

The report says the management of all the animals should be placed in charge of a specially qualified officer and the management of the natives and the fiscal affairs under another officer, the former having senior rank. That the Pribilof seal herd is not on the verge of extinction is asserted, with the declaration that complete rehabilitation of the herd may be confidently expected in view of its present size and condition. "Provisions commensurate with the needs and importance of the property involved," the report adds, "are to be regarded as wise investments and curtailment of operations at this time is not justified by conditions."

STATEMENTS ERRONEOUS

Russ General Staff Says Many German Claims of Victory Unfounded.

Military Attache at Russian Legation, Washington, Gets Message.

Washington, May 14.—The military attache of the Russian embassy has received the following dispatch from his government in Petrograd:

"The Russian general staff, in a statement issued May 12, says that last week the German military authorities made erroneous statements about operations on the Russian front.

"Thus they said that the Germans took twelve guns during the battle at Libau, whereas the Russian artillery detachment operating there had but four guns. At Rossiente, the Germans not only did not cause the Russians heavy losses, but had no success at all. The Russians were not in full retreat, as the German communique says, but the German forces were obliged to withdraw along the front of the Russian offensive for a distance of from six to thirty miles.

No Attacks There.

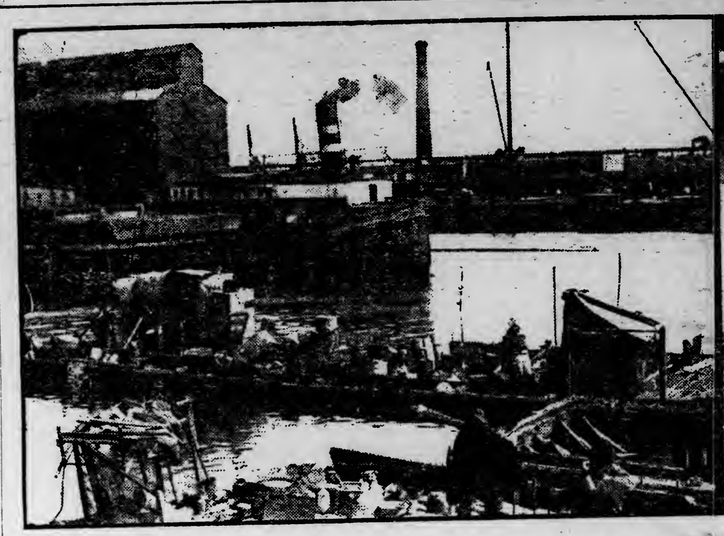
"The Germans affirm that they have driven back the Russian attacks at Kalwarya, Augustowo and Przasnysz and inflicted great losses on the Russians, but the Russians made no attacks there. The Germans attacked the Russian forces at Vaskiedno Rejetz and at the Farm Pomicany, but some of their attacks were only demonstrations and the others were for the purpose of reconquering the necessary points they had lost previously.

Losses Heavy.

"In Galicia after the abortive German attempt to surround the Forty-eighth division of the Russian army, the German action during the last nine days has had the character of frontal attacks against the Russian fortified positions, which have been successfully repulsed by the Russians. It is true that the Russian losses are very heavy, but it is true also that the losses of the German-Austrian army are enormous. Wishing to boom their success the Germans multiplied by many times the number of Russian prisoners taken by them, a great part of whom were wounded, as the Russian troops gradually retreating, had no means of taking them from the field of battle.

"The boom about the great victory in Galicia seems to be intended to raise the spirits of Germany and to restrain Italy from the decisive step she is now about to take."

TWO MARVELOUS FLOATING "HOTELS DE GINK" ARE ABODE OF SOME SIXTY SOLDIERS OF MISFORTUNE ON DULUTH'S WATER FRONT



THE HOUSEBOAT "HOTEL DE GINK."

THE KITCHEN ON SHORE, NEAR THE LOOSETANIA.

Lulled to sleep by the softly rippling waters of St. Louis bay and regaled by gentle Lake Superior breezes during the long watches of the night, sixty ex-gentlemen of the road, knights errant, and soldiers of misfortune, have been unbidden guests of the city of Duluth for several weeks.

When Dr. E. W. Fahey, director of public health, made a tour of inspection along the waterfront Tuesday afternoon, he saw two wonderfully strange and weirdly constructed floating Hotels De Gink, rocking on the bosom of the bay near Eleventh avenue west.

Stretched out comfortably in long deck chairs, which once were bed springs, tomato crates, and sugar barrels, the sixty odd knights were surveying the scene with an air of complacency born of a long life of indolence.

Each man had a supply of "snipes" tucked away in his vest pocket, except one, who had found a corn cob pipe. He evidently, judging from his condescending mien, was the captain of this good ship "Astorbilt," until recently an unnamed and unsung mud scow.

Upon closer examination Dr. Fahey found that this craft which defied all laws of navigation and physics was the proud possessor of a hurricane deck, where the sun's rays reached every empty tomato can and warmed each protruding toe.

Call to Tiffin.

When the Japanese chimes (a much battered pail) called the first cabin passengers to tiffin, the salon was crowded with dusty, ragged Weary Willies who had no care in life except the possibility of working, or of encountering soap and water.

Soon the Astorbilt docked.

It was a momentous occasion. One knight, who had preferred to take his morning siesta on land, threw a rope to the ship and hauled it in. Then the bedspring-deckchair became a gangplank. The dusty ones disembarked and started for the incinerator nearby, where "tables were laid" for sixty, and a "good time was had by all."

After tiffin the indolent ones again embarked on their floating palace and her consort, the Bumard liner Loosetania, prepared to while away the afternoon as best they might.

As Dr. Fahey left to return to his office, he thought he saw a group of first cabin passengers starting a pool on the length of time of the voyage.

The health department head has conferred with Commissioner Silberstein of the public safety department in an attempt to have the Astorbilt and her consort sunk and the passengers routed.

Increasing Rock Output.

Ten more men were put to work on the rock crusher at the Point of Rocks yesterday, as the city has several prospective purchasers in view and a large supply is desired before the latter part of next month. "Silence Zones" for Hospitals.

Mayor Prince has asked City Attorney Greene to prepare an ordinance establishing "silence zones" in the vicinity of St. Luke's and St. Mary's hospitals. Complaint has been made that the noise around these two buildings is injurious to the patients and the ordinances will not only taboo any unnecessary disturbances, but will provide for penalties in case of any violations.

Improvements for Incinerator.

Repairs to the incinerator plant at the foot of Eleventh avenue west were ordered yesterday by Commissioner Silberstein, who inspected the structure the previous afternoon. The building will be relined with brick and a number of minor improvements will be made both to the interior and exterior.

Because of the cold weather today, Commissioner Farrell this morning ordered his men to stop oiling the streets. The oil does not stick in cold weather and will ruin carpets and rugs if walked on, he said. The oiling will continue as soon as the weather becomes warmer.

CITY TO HAVE 200 AT WORK

Large Force on Sewer and Street Jobs By End of Next Week.

At least 200 men will be employed on street and sewer work by the latter part of next week, according to Commissioner Farrell, head of the works division.

Yesterday morning the Gilman-Murphy-Patterson company began work on the Highland street pavement and a gang of twenty men has already been employed. This morning the commissioner and S. R. Okes of the S. R. Okes Construction company of Minneapolis signed the contracts for the paving of Minnesota avenue, from Twelfth to Thirty-eighth streets, and active work will begin either tomorrow or Monday. Mr. Okes expects to employ about forty men until the improvement is finished.

A. N. Nelson, who was awarded the contract for the Woodland avenue paving job, started a small crew of men this morning and he expects to begin active construction on Monday morning. Today the men are staking out the ground and getting the tools and materials in shape for the crew. Mr. Nelson expects to employ about forty men altogether.

Commissioner Farrell has already started work on a number of small sewer jobs and minor street improvements throughout the city and he said this morning that a total of about 100 men are now employed by his division. More work under contemplation, he said, will give employment to about fifty more men.

SMITH CASE CONTINUED.

Vessel Wheelsman Charged With Mailing an Obscene Letter.

Hearing for Fred A. Smith, wheelsman on the Steamer Griffin, who was arrested by the Federal authorities on a charge of mailing an obscene letter addressed to the Helm Steamship company, was continued today by United States Commissioner Thomas H. Presnell until May 22.

Smith is charged with having used language of an obscene nature regarding a lake captain. The letter was mailed at Toledo, Ohio, according to the complaint, and there is some question as to the jurisdiction of the court in the case. Smith was arrested by Deputy United States Marshal Mallory on board the Steamer Griffin, then stationed in the Duluth harbor.

RIOTING IN MILAN OVER POLITICAL SITUATION

Rome, May 14, via Paris.—Dispatches from Milan say that serious rioting has broken out in that city over the political situation. The adherents of the opposing political factions have resorted to the use of fire-arms and the situation is described as most grave.

The disorders were precipitated by the resignation of the Italian cabinet last night.

SUPERIOR

THREE ARRESTS IN BURGLARY CASE

Man Pleads Guilty to Petit Larceny to Shield Woman.

One man and two women have been arrested in connection with the burglarizing of the Yale laundry which took place Wednesday night, but which was not made public until last evening.

Walter Carney, the man arrested, pleaded guilty to petit larceny in police court this morning, and in so pleading said he was doing it to protect another woman in the case. The police say they did not have tangible evidence against Carney but since the plea of guilty another charge of burglary has been placed against him.

The two women arrested gave the names of Nellie and Margaret Newman. Both lived in rooms across the street from the laundry. In their room was found a large quantity of the goods taken. They will be given a hearing in court this afternoon when they will be given an opportunity of explaining how the stuff got there.

Among the articles stolen was a large quantity of women's apparel. The stuff taken was valued at between $200 and $300. The clothing had been left with the laundry for dry cleaning.

Authorize Bond Issue.

The supervisors of Douglas county authorized the issue of bonds amounting to $75,000 to be used in road building this season. The authorization of the bonds brought forth several resolutions, asking for apportionment for various townships of the county. The bonds will be placed on sale within a short time.

Will Act on Petition.

A meeting of the men back of the recall movement will be held today at which time action will be taken as to the fight to be made to have the petition, recently filed, accepted. The city clerk has declared that 128 of the names of the petitioners are illegal or cannot be located. Whether to secure additional names or take the petition into court, will be decided at the meeting this afternoon.

Fired By Incendiary.

The Caleson sawmill in the East end, which was burned Wednesday night, was fired by an incendiary, according to an opinion of Eli Caleson, owner of the mill. He says that the fire started at a point farthest from the boilers. An investigation is being conducted. Mr. Caleson carried no insurance on the building and the loss of $5,000 falls entirely upon him.

Visit to Steel Plant.

Members of the industrial class of the Superior Central high school will visit the Minnesota Steel plant this afternoon. The young people will take an excursion boat to the plant. The trip is one of a series of trips to various industries at the Head of the Lakes. Prof. George W. Frederick will head the party.

SOCIALISTS TO RAISE BIG CAMPAIGN FUND

Chicago, May 14.—The national committee of the Socialist party, concluding its annual business meeting here today, decided to raise a campaign fund of $100,000 by appeal to members and to observe the first week in May hereafter as Socialist week. In the future members of the executive committee will be chosen by referendum vote of the party membership, instead of by the national committee. The term of the executive committee was extended from one to two years and the ten foreign-speaking federations of the party were granted autonomy over their own memberships.

NEAR REVOLUTION IN ITALIAN CAPITAL

Entire City Occupied By Soldiers; Fierce Rioting in Progress.

Rome, May 14, via Paris.—The agitation in Rome has assumed almost a revolutionary character. The entire city has been occupied by the military.

A riotous crowd made its way this morning to the Piazza Montecitorio, where is located the chamber of deputies, and forced entrance into the building by smashing the windows.

OPEN BIDS FOR CEMENT WALKS

Bids were opened this morning by Secretary Culver of the public works division on constructing cement sidewalks west of Twelfth avenue west.

Olson & Johnson entered the lowest bid, with their proposal of $5,069, and in all probability they will be awarded the contract. The other bidders were: John Stocker, $5,242, and Fredericks & Berg, $5,111, the latter bid being incompetent.

Last week the council rejected bids recently entered on this work and Commissioner Farrell was authorized to advertise for new proposals.

SMOKE NUISANCE.

The Delineator: The family doctor was paying a semi-social, semi-official visit. As he took a leisurely departure he paused to discuss with Margaret's mother the general health conditions of the city.

"We're not so badly off—comparatively, that is," he said. "For one thing, there are only two uncontrolled, unmitigated smoke nuisances in the town."

From the sofa in the corner Margaret spoke:

"Yes, doctor, I know," said she. "Papa and Uncle Jim."

HIGHER PRICE LOOKED FOR

Steel Products Average Lower at Present With Prospects Good.

Second Half Year Delivery Orders Better Even Now.

Average prices of leading steel products are now slightly under those of a year ago, and they are off a fraction from the high of this year.

Tinplate is about $3 a ton lower than the average of last year. In the last two weeks wire nails have been reduced $1 per ton and steel beams are up the same amount. With these changes, the average price of the seven leading steel products, together with Bessemer pig iron at Pittsburgh is $30.80 per ton, compared with the average last year of $30.97. The latter figure was the lowest average for a whole year since the organization of the United States Steel corporation.

Last year also saw low prices for fifteen years in a number of steel products. The lowest figures during that period were set last December, when the average for the eight principal products was $29.41 a ton.

Tinplate Advances.

Tinplate showed an advance recently of about $4 per ton from the low of 1914, while other products advanced $1 and $3 per ton from the same point.

Steel makers generally feel confident that higher prices than at present will prevail during the last half of the year. Quotations for second half delivery are in fact, higher than those now prevailing for prompt shipment, especially in the case of the Steel corporation.

The following table as prepared by the Wall Street Journal, shows prices of some of the leading steel products and Bessemer pig iron at Pittsburgh and annual averages since 1900:

THE PASSING OF "AMALGAMATED"

Brokerage houses and financial experts were greatly interested in the recent announcement that Amalgamated Copper had decided to distribute the stock of mining companies in its hands as a holding concern and to go out of existence.

The company has had a checkered career since it was first launched in 1899, and its stock has been batted back and forth by operators on Wall street.

"The Amalgamated Copper was one holding company, however, which shook from start even Wall street's belief in the virtue of the combination process," says the New York Evening Post. "Its history during more than half a dozen years, was made up, not only of 'inside speculation' of a peculiarly obnoxious sort, but of blunders in trade policy so glaring that it was quite impossible to conceive its subsidiary companies, had they been independent, falling into. The story of 'Amalgamated,' in 1901 and 1906 especially, embodied the worst delusions of the period.

"The change in the point of view, regarding 'holding companies,' may be judged by the disappearance from the scene, without leaving either chaos or great regret behind them, of the Northern Securities, the Standard Oil, the American Tobacco and the International Mercantile Marine. That they have passed away so quietly shows that we are living in another era."

ASSESSMENT FOR TWO PAVING JOBS

City Assessor Scott this morning completed the assessment rolls for the paving of Kenilworth avenue, from Livingston street to Princeton place, and Sussex avenue, from Kenilworth avenue to Snively road.

The total pavement for the two thoroughfares, the engineer estimates, will cost $11,265.66, and the city assessor places an 80 per cent advance assessment of $9,012.53, which will have to be paid by the owners of property affected by the improvements. These include also several sidewalks. Out of the advance assessment the city will have to pay $600 for street intersections.

COMPETE FOR WALLACE CUP

Duluth and Superior High School Speakers in Contest.

Each Institution Represented By One Orator and One Declaimer.

Tonight in the auditorium of the Central high school the representatives of the Superior Central, Nelson-Dewey high, Denfeld high, and Duluth Central will meet in the annual Wallace cup contest. It is a contest in oratory and declaiming, each school having one contestant in each division.

The contest is for possession of a cup offered by Dr. C. J. Wallace, and competed for annually by the four high schools of Duluth and Superior. The school that wins the cup the greatest number of times in ten years takes permanent possession of it. Duluth Central has won it twice and Superior Central three times. The contest this year is the sixth one.

All of the schools are represented by unusually good speakers this year, and it is expected that the judges will have a hard time selecting a winner. Irving Grover, orator, and Roberta Ritchie, declaimer, will be Duluth Central's representatives; Anna Ekstrom and Walter Yeager will speak in behalf of Denfeld high; Mildred Smith and Claude Cooper will represent Superior Central; and Anna Turnberg and Oscar Caleson will uphold the honors of Nelson-Dewey high of Superior.

GERMAN-AMERICAN PAPER'S VIEWS

Expresses Hope German Government Will Give Peaceful Answer.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 14.—The Germania-Abend Post says: "We do not remember ever having written an article with heavier heart. While we compose it, we are under pressure of the most cruel situation which an American citizen of German extraction may have to face. That which has always appeared to us not only as the direst calamity that could befall us, but also as the most heinous crime that could be committed against civilization has apparently at least become a possibility—a war between the two countries dearest and nearest to our hearts.

"On one side there is no sentiment more natural and more beautiful than the loving attachment to the country where our cradle stood. That this attachment could only be deepened and intensified by the war that has been forced upon Germany and by the vile slanders that have been heaped upon her, every justly thinking man will realize. On the other hand we are American citizens who, under all conditions, have to conserve their loyalty to the great country of their adoption.

"The entire history of German-Americans, their attitude in war and in peace, may already be considered convincing proof that they performed no mere formality when they swore oaths of allegiance to the United States, but circumstances may compel us to furnish this proof again and under circumstances that form the greatest test for our loyalty.

"We can only express the most ardent hope that the German government, while fully conserving its legitimate rights, may yet find in its answer the tone that will spare us the worst—the same tone in which the German emperor spoke in those momentous August days when he so honestly and ardently endeavored to preserve the blessings of peace to the peoples of Europe."

The Milwaukee Wisconsin says: "There is no mistaking the firmness of the note nor its purpose, if possible, of averting an irreparable breach of friendly relations. Even hair-trigger Americans as well as all who would have been impatient with any show of weakness must recognize its dignity and adequacy. In its stand adverse to the use of submarines against merchantmen, the government at Washington will command the support of every neutral nation."

The Milwaukee Journal says: "The note asserts rights guaranteed American citizens under the laws of nations to safety of lives on neutral vessels and on merchant vessels of belligerents. This right, unquestioned in the laws of nations, no nation that assumes to keep the respect of its own citizens and of other nations can neglect. The president's firmness and desire for friendship are certain of support from all Americans."

GOING TOO FAR.

Chicago News: Ol' Bije Wilson was the sole proprietor of a balky horse down in McCracken county. The fact was pretty well known throughout the neighborhood and Bije couldn't have disposed of that horse even to David Harum, who bought a horse that would "stand without hitching."

One day a neighbor drove up behind Bije, who was stalled as usual. It was a narrow embankment, and there was no room to pass. The neighbor accepted the situation philosophically. Every now and then Bije's horse would turn his head and as promptly Bije would shy a pebble at it. It seemed that the box bed of his "side bar" buggy was loaded with pebbles.

"What're ye doin' that fer, Bije?" the neighbor asked. "That won't start 'im."

"Wall, ye see," Bije answered. "I don't mind a hawse balkin' now and then, but I'll be durned if he can turn around and grin at me about it."

ONE OF DULUTH'S BEAUTIFUL RAVINES TURNED INTO AN UNSIGHTLY DUMPING GROUND.

WARNINGS ISSUED THAT HEAVY STORM IS DUE.

The weather bureau, at 3 o'clock this afternoon, was notified to issue storm warnings for Lake Superior from Duluth to Marquette and on Lake Michigan from Escanaba to Green Bay.

Northeast gales with heavy thunder storms are expected. The storm is centered over Nebraska today and is moving East.

It is expected that the storm will reach considerable proportions.

GERMANS REPULSE BRITISH ATTACKS

Berlin Statement Says Further Gains Made Near Ypres.

Berlin, May 14, via London, 5:20 p. m.—German army headquarters today gave out a report on the progress of hostilities reading:

"In the western arena—Strong British attacks against our newly acquired front at Ypres yesterday failed with heavy losses to the enemy. On the Menin-Ypres highroad we gained further territory in the direction of Hooge.

"In the district southwest of Lille, the enemy attacked yesterday in only a few places and then after heavy preparatory artillery fire. All these attacks were repulsed.

"In the Lorette hills and to the north of Arras the day passed comparatively quietly and there were no important attacks by the enemy.

"Our losses during the capture of Carency by the enemy amounted to between 600 and 700 men. A further attempt on the part of the enemy to recapture from us a section of the trench we had taken to the northwest of Berry-au-Bac again resulted in failure.

"Between the Meuse and the Moselle the advance of the enemy in the forest of Le Pretre broke down in front of our positions under our fire.

"The occupants of a French biplane which was forced to land at Hagenou were captured.

"In the eastern arena: The battle at Shavli in Courland, Russia, did not come to an end yesterday.

"North of the Niemen river, on the lower Dubysa, we took eighty prisoners. In a night advance west of Przasnysz parts of the Russian First Turkestan army corps succeeded in penetrating, after several unsuccessful efforts, into our foremost trenches. By evening, however, the enemy had again been everywhere driven back with heavy losses, including 120 prisoners.

"Southeastern arena: The advance guards of the armies under General Mackensen are before Przemysl on the left bank of the lower San. Joining this army on the right and the left the Teutonic allies continue their pursuit of the Russians on one side in the direction of Solinadodromily and in the other in the direction of Kolanines and Kielce.

"The Russians have been unable to maintain their positions from Kielce to the Plica or to Inowlodz and they are beating a hasty retreat toward the east."

VAST SUM FOR WAR MATERIAL

Contracts Already Placed Foot Up to About $1,500,000,000.

Arms and Ammunition Cover $500,000,000; Remainder for Miscellany.

Orders for war materials and supplies aggregating $1,500,000,000 in value are estimated to have been placed in this country so far by the European belligerents.

Many of the reported orders have been confirmed by the companies receiving them, notably the Bethlehem Steel company, Westinghouse Electric company, Westinghouse Air Brake company, American Locomotive company and the Pressed Steel Car company.

Large Sum for Ammunition.

It is thought that arms and ammunition will account for $500,000,000 of the total mentioned. Then come purchases of grain, provisions, canned goods, copper, horses, motor trucks, shoes, woolen goods and a host of other materials by the various nations at war, mounting up into an aggregate that is expanding enormously.

The bulk of this business calls for delivery of goods over an extended period, and it is thought that it will be several months before the maximum in export shipments is reached. In the meantime men are being taken on by the thousands at the various industrial plants affected in this country and prosperity is being ushered in through the disbursement of foreign capital in enormous chunks.

France a Good Customer.

The French government has been a large purchaser, it being computed that it will have spent $450,000,000 in war supplies over here by the close of the current year. By that time, if the war is not ended, it is estimated that orders for ammunition will fall off considerably as France, Great Britain and Russia are increasing their outputs of ordnance, and they hope to make themselves largely independent in some lines. France, for example, expects to be able to turn out 200,000 shells a day by Jan. 1, 1916. The call for copper, horses, woolen goods and food supplies and various raw materials is, however, expected to expand as the struggle drags on by reason of the gradual exhaustion of domestic supplies in the countries affected by the struggle.

CHALK BRIQUETTES AS FUEL.

Power: The Leeds briquette works at Hunslet has recently been making experiments to determine the possibility of the use of chalk briquettes for fuel. It is said that the company is able to obtain its chalk in the south of England at a cost of from 14 to 25 cents per ton, and that it is proposed to sell it in briquette form at from $3.75 to $5 per ton. The briquette are five inches long, four inches wide and two and a half inches thick. It is claimed that they burn with little or no smudge, with an exceedingly small amount of ash, and that they give off from 40 to 50 per cent less smoke than coal. If the idea should prove as successful as seems possible from the foregoing it will be a large step toward the solution of the smoke problem.

REGARD CONDITION MOST ENCOURAGING

Banking Authority and Brokers Feel Business to Be Growing.

George M. Reynolds, the Chicago banking authority, who has returned from a western trip, is quoted as follows:

"Business is on the up-grade all along the line. Improvement will be slow. The war news is unfortunate, but nothing that seems within the range of possibilities can prevent betterment. Business is broadening in the West. Crops are in the best of condition. I never saw fields look better than those I have passed through in Kansas, Colorado, and states to the north. Wheat is in excellent shape, and the alfalfa crop will be a world beater."

Eastern brokers regard the reaction that came about in the stock markets through the Lusitania incident as a healthy market development, although it proved expensive to hosts of speculators. They aver that the lower range of quotations set has induced numbers of investors to come into the markets, and that securities have been picked up on a broad scale.

Discussing the general situation, Hayden, Stone & Co. of Boston, say in their weekly market letter:

"We have previously commented on the inconsistency of a rise in stocks on peace rumors and war orders. At the same time, there is no doubt that the longer the war continues the greater will become the relative commercial supremacy of this country. Shipments on orders placed are only just beginning. It is probable that we shall not actually reach the crest of the export movement until 1916. In short, while the market has done much to discount the effect of war orders, the influence of these, commercially, has scarcely begun to be felt.

"There is also another factor on the constructive side to which enough attention has not been paid. When the market reopened in December, this country was in every respect in the most thoroughly liquidated condition in twenty years' time. This condition still largely exists. There has been little or no construction, practically no conversion of liquid capital into fixed. That a tremendous amount of liquid capital exists is shown by the eager absorption of all attractive investment offerings; this condition has always led to an era of construction in the past and and is likely to do so in this case."

CLEVER PATIENTS.

Chicago News: "I hate to read a story where the hero is thrown into prison," said Angelica.

"You should never worry about that," replied Uncle Digby. "The quick witted hero will invariably get out. I never worry when my heroes get into prison, but I do not care to have them sick or wounded. Under such circumstances they are never able to accomplish much. Sick people are pretty helpless."

"Yes," said Angelica, "but once I got ahead of a whole hospital full of nurses and doctors. I never said anything about it before, but I'll tell you.

"You know, they boil the water that you drink at a hospital, which gives it a horrible taste. Boiled water should be as good for you as mineral water, for it tastes just as bad. How I did hate that boiled water! And it never seemed to be quite cool, either.

"The nurse didn't seem to care whether it had been thoroughly chilled or not. I think she enjoyed giving it to me warm.

"One day I was awfully thirsty. I asked for water. Even boiled water was better than nothing. But the water seemed a little warmer than usual and I could not drink it. Then I set my wits to work. I had to have cold water and I at first contemplated getting out of bed and hunting up a faucet. But I gave up that idea, for I was pretty weak.

"And at last I hit upon a scheme. I rang the bell and when the nurse appeared I told her I wanted to brush my teeth. Pretty soon she returned with some real water—real, honest germ laden, unboiled cold water—in a bright, attractive, beaded tumbler. The instant the nurse left the room I drank it down with one big gulp and then I poured the boiled water over the tooth brush.

"Day after day I worked that trick. The nurse and the doctor, when they figured out how much boiled water they were getting down me, were very proud and happy. It was a record. Other doctors had a lot of trouble getting boiled water down their patients throats, but I was a model.

"I could hear my doctor bragging to his doctor friends about his water consuming patient and exciting their envy. Every nurse and doctor, you see, is ambitious to see how much boiled water they can get into a patient.

"Once the doctor and nurse wanted to see me drink it. Nothing could give them more pleasure than witnessing their precious boiled water disappear down my throat, but I refused to perform with any one looking, although I trembled for fear my refusal would excite suspicion."

"That was a slick scheme," said Uncle Digby. "The next time I'm sick and they bring me medicine I'm going to call for some shoe polish, saying that I have been seized with a sudden notion to shine my shoes. Then I'll drink the shoe polish and shine my shoes with the doctor's dope."

ONE MEANS OF SUPPORT.

Baltimore American: Miss Campbell, the Sunday school teacher, discovered, to her horror, that some of the small members of her class had taken as literal truths the tales of ancient gods and goddesses which they had read in a child's mythology at school.

She determined, if possible, to destroy this belief by simple logic, and with this end in view she asked:

"Who was it, Amelia, that supported the world on his shoulders?"

"Atlas, ma'am," the little girl replied, promptly.

"That is correct," said the teacher. "Now, children, think. If he was supporting the world on his shoulders, of course he could not be standing on it. Now, what supported Atlas?"

"I know," cried Amelia. "He married a rich wife!"

Creamettes

Builds Sturdy Bodies

SOME mothers feed their children Creamettes three times a day. This new more tender macaroni product is the ideal substitute for meat.

The ordinary macaroni, as you know, takes from 30 to 35 minutes to cook. Creamettes cooks to a delicious tenderness in from 5 to 8 minutes.

Creamettes is made from the creamy parts of Durum wheat and has a rich new flavor all its own.

Try it with cheese, with ham, with tomatoes, with bacon, or with nuts.

OPTION ON SITE FOR BIG STORE BUILDING

Duluth Men See Retail Opening in West Duluth.

Option on some desirable Central avenue property near the heart of the business district is said to have been secured by a Duluth company and a deal may be closed within a few days for the purchase of the site on which later will be erected a handsome store. The property is said to be located on the west side of the street.

No intimation as to who the purchasers are would be given out, but it is claimed that the same people were considering Grand avenue lots early last year for the same purpose. The recent industrial activity in this end of the city has, it is said, caused a sudden turning of attention to West Duluth by uptown business interests.

Several desirable locations have been considered, said a West Duluth realty man last evening. One is located near the corner of Central and Grand avenues, another in the block between Ramsey and Bristol street, and still another in the block between Bristol and Roosevelt streets.

It is said that the building under contemplation for this purpose will have a frontage of at least fifty feet and cover the entire lot, 140 feet deep, and be at least two stories high with a full basement.

WILL OPPOSE NEW COMMISSION

West Duluth Club Members Do Not Favor Advisory Board.

The proposed advisory commission will be discussed as a special order of business this evening at the meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club. It is expected that a large percentage of the members will turn out for the discussion, and many of the members propose to fight any action toward indorsing the appointment of such a commission.

Members of the club will also discuss a plan to ask the railroad and warehouse commission to authorize the Northern Pacific railroad to establish a special train service for employes of the steel plant. The service given last year, they say, they want re-established.

WILLIAMS ONE OF PARTY OF THREE

Victim of Accident Headed for East With Two Companions.

David F. Williams, who was found dead alongside of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad tracks early Tuesday morning, evidently fell off an ore train at about 9 or 10 o'clock Monday night, according to a story told by George Steers, who with another companion whose name is Ward, rode from Hibbing on the ore train with Williams. Steers called at the Fillatrault undertaking rooms yesterday afternoon to give his version of the accident.

He said that he and Ward were riding on a car a short distance from the one on which Williams was riding. The train was pulling into Duluth between 9 and 10 o'clock, and when it arrived at the ore dock the two men went back to hunt for Williams. Williams was not to be found, so they walked back along the tracks for some distance and then came to the conclusion that he had jumped off and started ahead of them for the city. He told the undertaker that he had read the story in The Herald and had proceeded to hunt up the undertaker.

The three were on their way back to Baltimore, Md., from where they had got a message that there was work to be had. Steers said he usually was employed as a brakeman. He said that evidently Williams had fallen in an attempt to get on, when he noticed that the train was approaching the ore dock. Williams, he said, was a member of the Steamshovel Engineers' union of Baltimore.

No arrangements have as yet been made for sending the body back to the man's home in Washington. It is probable that the arrangements will be made this afternoon or tomorrow.

CLOQUET TIME SOCIAL.

Work of the Manual Training Classes Will Be Exhibited.

Cloquet, Minn., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A "time social" will be given at the Y. M. C. A. this evening and the work done by the manual training classes will be exhibited. The work this year has been exceptionally fine. Will Merrigan has had charge of the class during the past winter and under his direction the students have done very well. This is the second time social held at the Y. M. C. A. and promises to prove very successful. The idea is rather a novelty. The exact time of the arrival of each person is recorded and the ones arriving nearest the time previously fixed and set aside by the secretary receive a prize. The employes of the Northwest Paper company will furnish the program and everyone over 18 years of age is invited to attend.

EDITOR IS ARRESTED

Ugly Charge Against Proprietor of Duluth Italian Newspaper.

Accused of Trying to Extort Money By Threats.

Vincenzo Cimino, editor of "El Corriere Italo Americano," an Italian newspaper published in Duluth, after a rather sensational career in the realms of the fourth estate here, landed in jail yesterday afternoon, charged with mailing matter threatening various citizens of Duluth.

Cimino's arrest is all the more interesting to Italian-Americans here as it follows other proceedings of a more peaceful nature, instituted against him a short time ago. Prominent Italian-Americans some time ago published notices in The Herald stating that they had no connection with "El Corriere Italo Americano," and that they were not supporters of its editor's policies.

The federal complaint declares that Cimino before March 20, last, by scheme and artifice, sought to defraud divers persons out of certain sums of money. In other words if they did not "come across" with money to support his paper that he would "roast" them, or more specifically use articles that would be defamatory to their reputations. The editor is said to have published his demands in the columns of his newspaper. One of these, the complaint alleges, was mailed in Duluth to Capt. Fiskett of the Duluth police department.

When arraigned before United States Commissioner Thomas H. Fresnell, Cimino entered a plea of not guilty. He was put under a $1,00 bond, and held in jail until the bond could be produced. His hearing was set for May 21.

PRISONERS ENTER PLEAS

Ten Men Indicted By Last Grand Jury Deny Guilt.

Ten prisoners indicted by the May term grand jury appeared before Judge Dancer in district court this morning and pleaded not guilty to the several indictments returned against them. They were:

Emil Vikhurt for assault in the first degree. Vikhurt is charged with having stabbed Andrew Dahl with a knife in a saloon row at 601 Garfield avenue Monday night, May 10. Dahl will recover.

John Mack and Andrew Niemiecke for burglary in the third degree. They are accused of having broken into Room 38 at the Grace hotel on May 6, taking $5 from Sam Dahl, the occupant of the room.

Ivor Johnson for assault in the second degree. Johnson is accused of having used one Oscar Sandstrom's head as a target for a rock on April 8 last.

Elizabeth Vogel and Thomas Miller for adultery. Edward Vogel, the woman's husband, charges that Miller lived with Mrs. Vogel between April 29 and May 4.

John Skot and Mike Spolaree for the malicious destruction of property. They are charged with having stripped the brass trimmings off from a stationary engine at Thirteenth avenue east on May 10 last.

Hattie Jenkins, alias Hattie Bates, and Alice Wright, for assault in the first degree. The defendants, both negresses, are charged with having slashed Sam Dahl with a knife after they had attempted to rob him of $5 on April 30. Dahl is also the complaining witness in the burglary case against John Mack and Andrew Niemiecke.

ROADS DECLARED IN GOOD CONDITION

Biwabik Man Makes Fast Trip From Duluth to Home City.

Motorists traveling between Duluth and the range towns are experiencing no difficiulty with bad roads these days, according to Fred B. Myers, Biwabik banker, who last evening made a trip from Duluth to Biwabik, a distance of 72.4 miles in exactly two hours and thirty-three minutes.

Two weeks ago, Mr. Myers made the same trip in two hours and forty minutes. During the last few days he has made several trips by automobile between Biwabik and this city and has much to say in praise of the way in which the roads between Duluth and the range are kept up.

"Commissioner Kauppi should be complimented for the splendid work he is accomplishing on the Miller Trunk highway, the principal road between Duluth and the ranges," said Mr. Myers this morning. "Where the Miller Trunk crosses the big 'seven-mile' swamp, the road is being put in better shape than it has ever been before. It has been ditched up and gravel has been put over a clay foundation. Commissioner Kauppi has certainly done himself proud with this job."

INJURED BOY NOT EXPECTED TO LIVE

"Jack" Polinsky, 12-year-old boy who sustained a fractured skull Wednesday morning when struck by a jitney, is in a critical condition at St. Luke's hospital and physicians in attendance hold out but little hope for his recovery.

He has been conscious for short periods at various times since the accident, but has shown no marked improvement. He is the son of Sam Polinsky, 411 East Ninth street.

BOY, TRAMPLED BY HORSE, WILL LIVE

Following an examination yesterday Dr. A. N. McDonald stated that Wilbert Bergren, 16-year-old boy who was trampled by a horse Wednesday, probably would recover. It was at first believed that his injuries were fatal.

The boy, who is the son of John Bergren, 727 East Second street, was holding a horse when it became frightened at a passing automobile. Wilbert's skull was fractured.

SMALL HOUSES OVERCROWDED

Fifteen to Twenty Persons in Three and Four Rooms.

Commissioner Will Make Effort to Regulate Rooming Houses.

Conditions in the western suburb, where the police found from fifteen to twenty persons living in houses of three or four rooms, have caused Commissioner Silberstein, head of the safety division, to order the preparation of an ordinance that wil regulate rooming houses in the city of Duluth.

The commissioner has written to several other cities for copies of ordinances regulating rooming houses and a measure affecting Duluth will be drawn up from these.

"The conditions at New Duluth and Gary," said Mr. Silberstein this morning," are deplorable. We found twenty persons living in a house of four rooms, the people sleeping from four to six in a room.

"In many of these homes the women have no privacy whatever and from a moral standpoint this should be stopped at once. However, if only from a sanitary point of view, such a condition should not be permitted to exist. I tried to find some law that regulates these conditions, but I find no measure on the local books and I am going to have one ready just as soon as possible.

"We have a housing code that regulates the building of a house, but nothing at all that will keep a house morally clean and in a sanitary condition. The new ordinance will regulate rooming houses only and will have no bearing on hotels."

Are you making it "pay"—this occupation of keeping boarders? Perhaps a better way to put the question would be: "Are you advertising in The Herald the fact that you keep boarders?"

OPTION ON SITE FOR BIG STORE BUILDING

Duluth Men See Retail Opening in West Duluth.

Work of the Manual Training Classes Will Be Exhibited.

Cloquet, Minn., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A "time social" will be given at the Y. M. C. A. this evening and the work done by the manual training classes will be exhibited. The work this year has been exceptionally fine. Will Merrigan has had charge of the class during the past winter and under his direction the students have done very well. This is the second time social held at the Y. M. C. A. and promises to prove very successful. The idea is rather a novelty. The exact time of the arrival of each person is recorded and the ones arriving nearest the time previously fixed and set aside by the secretary receive a prize. The employes of the Northwest Paper company will furnish the program and everyone over 18 years of age is invited to attend.

Mrs. Barrett's husband, Captain John Barrett, lost his life trying to save John Beebe in the Negaunee mine on Jan. 11, 1914. Mrs. Barrett will receive a monthly pension of $45 for herself, and $5 a month for each child under 16 years of age. There are seven children under this age.

EDITOR IS ARRESTED

Ugly Charge Against Proprietor of Duluth Italian Newspaper.

Accused of Trying to Extort Money By Threats.

Vincenzo Cimino, editor of "El Corriere Italo Americano," an Italian newspaper published in Duluth, after a rather sensational career in the realms of the fourth estate here, landed in jail yesterday afternoon, charged with mailing matter threatening various citizens of Duluth.

Cimino's arrest is all the more interesting to Italian-Americans here as it follows other proceedings of a more peaceful nature, instituted against him a short time ago. Prominent Italian-Americans some time ago published notices in The Herald stating that they had no connection with "El Corriere Italo Americano," and that they were not supporters of its editor's policies.

The federal complaint declares that Cimino before March 26, last, by scheme and artifice, sought to defraud divers persons out of certain sums of money. In other words if they did not "come across" with money to support his paper that he would "roast" them, or more specifically use articles that would be defamatory to their reputations. The editor is said to have published his demands in the columns of his newspaper. One of these, the complaint alleges, was mailed in Duluth to Capt. Fiskett of the Duluth police department.

When arraigned before United States Commissioner Thomas H. Presnell, Cimino entered a plea of not guilty. He was put under a $1,00 bond, and held in jail until the bond could be produced. His hearing was set for May 21.

PRISONERS ENTER PLEAS

Ten Men Indicted By Last Grand Jury Deny Guilt.

Ten prisoners indicted by the May term grand jury appeared before Judge Dancer in district court this morning and pleaded not guilty to the several indictments returned against them. They were:

Emil Vikhurt for assault in the first degree. Vikhurt is charged with having stabbed Andrew Dahl with a knife in a saloon row at 601 Garfield avenue Monday night, May 10. Dahl will recover.

John Mack and Andrew Niemiecke for burglary in the third degree. They are accused of having broken into Room 38 at the Grace hotel on May 6, taking $5 from Sam Dahl, the occupant of the room.

Iver Johnson for assault in the second degree. Johnson is accused of having used one Oscar Sandstrom's head as a target for a rock on April 8 last.

Elizabeth Vogel and Thomas Miller for adultery. Edward Vogel, the woman's husband, charges that Miller lived with Mrs. Vogel between April 29 and May 4.

John Skot and Mike Spolarec for the malicious destruction of property. They are charged with having stripped the brass trimmings off from a stationary engine at Thirteenth avenue east on May 10 last.

Hattie Jenkins, alias Hattie Bates, and Alice Wright, for assault in the first degree. The defendants, both negresses, are charged with having slashed Sam Dahl with a knife after they had attempted to rob him of $5 on April 30. Dahl is also the complaining witness in the burglary case against John Mack and Andrew Niemiecke.

ROADS DECLARED IN GOOD CONDITION

Biwabik Man Makes Fast Trip From Duluth to Home City.

Motorists traveling between Duluth and the range towns are experiencing no difficulty with bad roads these days, according to Fred B. Myers, Biwabik banker, who last evening made a trip from Duluth to Biwabik, a distance of 72.4 miles in exactly two hours and thirty-three minutes.

Two weeks ago, Mr. Myers made the same trip in two hours and forty minutes. During the last few days he has made several trips by automobile between Biwabik and this city and has much to say in praise of the way in which the roads between Duluth and the range are kept up.

"Commissioner Kauppl should be complimented for the splendid work he is accomplishing on the Miller Trunk highway, the principal road between Duluth and the ranges," said Mr. Myers this morning. "Where the Miller Trunk crosses the big 'seventy-mile' swamp, the road is being put in better shape than it has ever been before. It has been ditched up and gravel has been put over a clay foundation. Commissioner Kauppl has certainly done himself proud with this job."

INJURED BOY NOT EXPECTED TO LIVE

"Jack" Polinsky, 12-year-old boy who sustained a fractured skull Wednesday morning when struck by a jitney, is in a critical condition at St. Luke's hospital and physicians in attendance hold out but little hope for his recovery.

He has been conscious for short periods at various times since the accident, but has shown no marked improvement. He is the son of Sam Polinsky, 111 East Ninth street.

BOY, TRAMPLED BY HORSE, WILL LIVE

Following an examination yesterday Dr. A. N. McDonald stated that Wilbert Bergren, 16-year-old boy who was trampled by a horse Wednesday, probably would recover. It was at first believed that his injuries were fatal.

The boy, who is the son of John Bergren, 727 East Second street, was holding a horse when it became frightened at a passing automobile. Wilbert's skull was fractured.

SMALL HOUSES OVERCROWDED

Fifteen to Twenty Persons in Three and Four Rooms.

Commissioner Will Make Effort to Regulate Rooming Houses.

Conditions in the western suburb, where the police found from fifteen to twenty persons living in houses of three or four rooms, have caused Commissioner Silberstein, head of the safety division, to order the preparation of an ordinance that wil regulate rooming houses in the city of Duluth.

The commissioner has written to several other cities for copies of ordinances regulating rooming houses and a measure affecting Duluth will be drawn up from these.

"The conditions at New Duluth and Gary," said Mr. Silberstein this morning, "are deplorable. We found twenty persons living in a house of four rooms, the people sleeping from four to six in a room.

"In many of these homes the women have no privacy whatever and from a moral standpoint this should be stopped at once. However, if only from a sanitary point of view, such a condition should not be permitted to exist. I tried to find some law that regulates these conditions, but I find no measure on the local books and I am going to have one ready just as soon as possible.

"We have a housing code that regulates the building of a house, but nothing at all that will keep a house morally clean and in a sanitary condition. The new ordinance will regulate rooming houses only and will have no bearing on hotels."

Brainerd Lands Convention.

Brainerd, Minn., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Through the efforts of local delegates to the Knights of Columbus state convention at St. Peter, John M. Taylor and Neil O'Brien, landed the 1916 convention for Brainerd.

Are you making it "pay"—this occupation of keeping boarders? Perhaps a better way to put the question would be: "Are you advertising in The Herald the fact that you keep boarders?"

NASHWAUK STATE BANK IS CHANGED

Has Now Become First National Bank of Range Village.

Nashwauk, Minn., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nashwauk now can boast of a National bank. The change was made on Monday when a charter was received changing the Nashwauk State bank with a capital of $10,000 to the First National bank with a capital of $25,000. The Nashwauk State bank has done business in Nashwauk for the past twelve years. The officers of the First National bank of Nashwauk are: S. R. Kirby, president; John A. Redfern, vice president; John T. Ring, cashier.

The Nashwauk Gun club is in receipt of an invitation from the Mesaba Gun club of Hibbing to participate in a Merchandise shoot to take place on May 30. The invitation has been accepted and it is expected that about eight members will take in this event.

Little Raino Lanto Monday fell off a wagon and sustained a broken arm. Mr. and Mrs. Lanto took the boy to the Adams hospital and the arm was set.

The town board held its regular monthly meeting Monday evening and considerable business was transacted. The township is doing extensive repair work to the roads which are being put in fine condition by Road Overseer McWilliams.

Henry Hogan has arrived home from Blackduck, where he has been employed the past winter for the county. Mr. Hogan was sent to Nashwauk to act as inspector on the work of repairing the Buck Lake road which will be done by Contractors McWilliams, Latvala & Lake of this village. This road, when repaired, will be one of the finest in this part of the county.

Duluth Contractor Warned.

Contractor Dahl of Duluth has been given notice that if Central avenue is not put in good condition by June 1 the village will do the work and sue the contractor for the amount of its cost. The paving, which was done five years ago by Contractor Dahl, is in poor condition and the contractor has been repeatedly notified to fix this street, but so far he has done nothing and the village council has decided to make Dahl live up to his contract and guarantee.

HIBBING MAY GET HARDING TO COME

Kansas City Engineer to Be Offered Power Plant Job.

Hibbing, Minn., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—In its efforts to get an expert to take charge of the power plant here, the water and light board has instructed Recorder D. Haley to communicate with H. V. Harding of Burns & McDonnell, consulting engineers of Kansas City, to get him to accept the position. Mr. Harding had charge of the recent survey and appraisal of the power plant and members of the water and light board are confident that if he were appointed he would put the local plant on a high efficiency basis.

Mr. Harding is a brother to Supt. Harding of the Virginia plant, who has brought that system to a most efficient basis. Although the cost of currrent has lowered materially in Virginia since Harding took charge of that plant, the profits are said to be considerably larger. This, it is expected, will hold true with Hibbing.

TOWER GRADUATING CLASS IS LARGEST

Sixteen Boys and Girls to Receive Diplomas June 4.

Tower, Minn., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The senior class of the Tower high school, which will receive their diplomas on June 4, numbers sixteen, equally divided between boys and girls. This is the largest graduating class in the history of the school.

The members of the class are as follows: Leonard Aronson, Florence Benson, Alice Carlson, Louis Chiabotti, Jr., Leora Elkrem, George Fredrickson, Jeanne Gallien, Belle Klitto, Mabel Lee, Harold Morcom, William Mike, Walter Naslund, Leonard Naslund, Archie Swanson, Esther Swanson, Rose Stefanich. Valedictory and salutatory honors have been awarded to Belle Klitto and Rose Stefanich respectively. Four of the members have already made or are making preparations to attend college, and several others will attend normal school.

The members of this class have always taken active part in school athletics and other affairs. Among the boys, five were regulars on the football team, four were on the varsity basket ball team, and all took part in baseball. Of the high school orchestra, which has been considered by critics as the best high school orchestra on the range, four are members of the graduating class. The girls of the class, although taking interest in basket ball, took all the honors in scholarship as well.

The high school has an enrollment for the present year of seventy-nine, not including the Soudan high school department, in which are thirty-five more. Notwithstanding the inducements offered by the good hunting and fishing about Lake Vermilion, the attendance of the high school for the present year is up to 96 per cent.

ITASCA DEVELOPERS TO MEET AT COHASSET

County Association Has Prepared Good Program for Gathering.

Coleraine, Minn., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The program committee of the Itasca County Development association has prepared a program for the spring meeting to be held in Cohasset, Thursday afternoon and evening, May 20. The Cohasset Commercial club will entertain the association in the afternoon with a boat ride on the Mississippi and an auto ride along the valley road.

On the return a picnic supper will be served, and at 8 o'clock the program will be given at the village hall.

The program follows:

Keenan, Deer River; "The Dairy Cow," Otto Bergh, superintendent state experiment station; "Legislating For Northern Minnesota," Representative A. M. Peterson; "The Summer Meeting of the N. M. D. A. at Coleraine, June 10-11," Alexander King, Philip Stone and others.

The meeting promises to be one of unusual interest and well attended. Two of the villages have already promised large delegations.

TO REACH DECISION.

County and Hibbing Officials to Consider Proposed Courthouse.

Hibbing, Minn., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Village officials and county commissioners will hold a joint meeting at an early date to decide action on the construction of a branch courthouse here. Before the bill passed the legislature providing for the construction of a district courthouse here, similar to the one at Virginia, the village officials, upon the recommendation of a grand jury, purchased a site and began construction work. When the bill came before the legislature, however, the village stayed proceedings on the building.

It is probable that the county commissioners will approve of the plans for the building designed for the village. This building, it is expected, besides making quarters for the district court, will house the police station and municipal court.

The play which will be presented is a production of student life, full of laughs and thrills.

NEW ELY ADDITION WILL BE PLATTED

Ely, Minn., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Semer is in the city this week looking after his property here. Mr. Semer will have his land at the west end of the city platted into lots and added to the city plot as Semer's addition.

Last fall the Iron Range Railway company notified all parties, owning residences located on their land at the west end of Camp street, to vacate not later than May 1. Owing to the scarcity of lots within the city limits the order has not been enforced but will be as soon as the lots in the new addition are for sale.

SAND PIT LEASES BEING CONSIDERED

Hibbing, Minn., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—State Mine Inspector F. A. Wildes returned home yesterday from St. Paul where he conferred with State Auditor J. A. O. Preus relative to the leasing of state gravel pits in this section. The passage of a bill at the last legislature gives the state auditor power to lease state lands direct to persons for building sites, gardens or sand or gravel pits. Leases for the sand and gravel pits in this section will be sold to the highest bidder at an auction.

CHISHOLM MUSICIANS TO PLAY AT HIBBING

Chisholm, Minn., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Under the direction of John Hulme, well known as a local musician, an organization picked from members of the Finnish Temperance society, will journey to Hibbing Sunday, May 23, to give a concert at Sampo hall and a large delegation of Chisholmites is scheduled to attend.

LARGEST CHISHOLM STORE IS DESTROYED

Worst Fire Since Village Burned Down; Lasts Good Share of Night.

Chisholm, Minn., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The department store of Shapiro & Sons, the largest here, situated in a new two-story double brick building in the heart of the business district, was completely destroyed by fire breaking out shortly before midnight and burning until well along today. The fire is supposed to have started from the stub of a cigar carelessly thrown into the basement where excelsior and other inflammable substances were stored.

The total loss is placed at about $77,500 all but $19,500 being covered by insurance. It was the worst fire since Chisholm was burned in 1908 and was the third time the firm has been burned out, they having lost heavily in the big Virginia fire of sixteen years ago, and in the great Chisholm fire seven years ago. The firm is composed of Simon Shapiro and his two sons, Moses and Abraham. Their plans are not known at noon today but it is expected they will rebuild and continue in business as their business was a very prosperous one. The fire got beyond the control of the local department which worked faithfully and had a good water pressure all the time so Hibbing was asked for aid.

Hibbing Sends Help.

Chief McIlhargy and some of the Hibbing department rushed here with a motor fire truck and helped the local boys, although the nozzles on the Hibbing apparatus were of a different size than local ones which interfered with prompt work. By hard work other buildings on the block were saved, although adjoining structures were badly scorched.

Fire Chief Nitch and his men worked vallantly against big odds and saved the town from what looked at times like the destruction of a good part of the business section.

A passerby discovered smoke issuing from the basement about 11:50 p. m. and rushing to the fire department headquarters gave the alarm. The whole department responded, fire bells rang, whistles blown and the village aroused as never before since 1908. Everyone remained up until about 3 a. m. when Chief Nitch pronounced all danger passed. The building is a mass of ruins today, being completely gutted and the fire was not all extinguished until about noon.

CHISHOLM EAGLES WILL HAVE PICNIC

Mayor Victor L. Power of Hibbing will deliver the oration of the day.

There will be a fine program of athletic sports, swimming races, refreshments, music, dancing, tugs-of-war, boating and an all round good old fashioned time. The program of sports will be issued later.

Monday the case of the State vs. Gust Saari and Axel Mattson, charged with first degree assault, will be called. They are alleged to have attacked Oscar Holmstrom here with a double-bitted axe about two months ago during a quarrel, inflicting serious injuries. RAIN

As to the weather—well, the less said about it the better, else The Herald might be barred from the mails. Yesterday afternoon and last evening gave warrant for the hope that the atmosphere might warm up, but the weather man, who had predicted cool weather, was not to be frustrated and you see the result.

A year ago today was fine. The sun rose this morning at 4:32 and will set this evening at 7:35, giving fifteen hours and three minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions—expunged:

"Temperatures of 90 deg. or higher occurred Thursday in Colorado, Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas and Missouri, and indications favor continued hot weather in those states today. In the plateau region and extreme Northern districts cool to chilly weather is the rule this morning. During the last twenty-four hours rain fell over Florida, New England states, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Southern Wisconsin, the Red river valley, the Northwest and far Western districts."

FIND OUT

The Kind of Food That Will Keep You Well.

The true way is to find out what is best to eat and drink, and then cultivate a taste for those things instead of poisoning ourselves with improper, indigestible food, etc.

A conservative Mass. woman writes: "I have used Grape-Nuts 5 years for the young and for the aged; in sickness and in health; at first following directions carefully, later in a variety of ways as my taste and judgment suggested.

"But its most special, personal benefit has been as a substitute for meat, and served dry with cream when rheumatic troubles made it important for me to change diet.

"Served in this way, with the addition of a hot cup of Postum and a little fruit it has been used at my morning meal for six months, during which time my health has much improved, nerves have grown steadier, and a gradual decrease in my excessive weight adds greatly to my comfort."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

INHERITED NERVOUSNESS

The causes of nervous disorders are of two kinds, predisposing and exciting. Heredity is a predisposing cause. A nervous parent is very liable to have a nervous child. But even with this predisposition the child will not necessarily develop any form of nervous disease without an exciting cause. It may not develop during childhood at all but throughout life a person with an inherited predisposition to nervousness is an easier victim of all forms of nervous disorders than one without it.

Worry, overwork, overstudy and excesses of all kinds are exciting causes and should be avoided by those who know themselves to have inherited a nervous disposition. Thin blood and a general run-down condition of the system are also to be avoided by such people. Be moderate in everything, avoid worry, keep the blood rich and red and the general health built up with a non-alcoholic tonic like Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and avoid a nervous breakdown.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a general tonic with a special action on the nerves and relieve and correct many forms of nervous trouble. Your own druggist sells them. Write today to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for the free booklet, "Nervous Disorders, A Method of Home Treatment."

This will prove a welcome bit of information for all those who are overworked, gloomy, despondent, nervous and have trembling limbs, heart palpitation, dizziness, cold extremities, insomnia, fear without cause, timidity in venturing and general inability to act naturally and rationally as others do, because the treatment consisting of grain tablets can be obtained and taken without the knowledge of any one. If the reader has any of the symptoms, and decides to try it just go to any large well stocked drug store and ask for three-grain Cadomene Tablets, and then take according to the directions which accompany each sealed tube. The tonic invigorating power is soon felt and the joy of a healthy body experienced. These tablets, originally dispensed by prominent physicians and pharmacists, now are packed with full directions for self administration, so that it is wholly unnecessary to pay a physician for prescribing them.—Advertisement.

WHEAT AGAIN TURNS WEAK

Market Declines on Political Situation and Wave of Selling Orders.

Flaxseed Slumps on Lack of Crushers' Support and Liquidation.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 14.—The market was weak around the close, on liberal offerings and liquidation.

May wheat closed 2⅝c off; July, 2c off, and September 2¾c off.

May durum closed 2c off; July, ½c off, and September ½c off.

Oats closed 1c off at 50¾@51¾c for on the track; rye, 1c up at $1.12@1.13, and barley unchanged at from 68@75c.

At Winnipeg, May oats closed ¼c off at 63⅝c, and July ¼c off at 63⅞c.

Puts on Minneapolis July wheat closed at $1.42⅝, and calls at $1.48½.

After a show of strength around the opening the wheat market turned easy today, quotations falling off to slightly below yesterday's close. The break in the face of more bullish reports from over the Southwest regarding Hessian fly damage, was attributed to a disposition on the part of operators to go slow in view of the uncertainty over the political situation between this country and Germany. There were rumors of fair export inquiry at the seaboard, but it did not manifest itself on the local board. There was nothing doing with Eastern millers either. This led to stagnation in the market, with a receding tendency during the first three hours' business.

Stocks of wheat in elevators at the Head of the Lakes are being gradually worked down, and predictions are made that the stringency in the supply situation will be more manifest by the end of the month. Wheat stocks were reported today at 3,713,000 bu of all grades, a reduction of 169,000 bu during the last five days. From that is to be deducted some tonnage loaded on steamers but not yet reported out of stocks.

Inspections of wheat here today were down to 27 cars against 67 last year. At Minneapolis, due to urgent bidding by millers and the payment of liberal cash premiums, a larger amount of grain proportionately is coming to hand. Receipts there today were 129 cars of wheat against 82 last year.

Clearances today of wheat and flour were off to 295,000 bu, but Bradstreet's reported a liberal volume of world's clearances for the week, amounting to 6,687,000 bu.

May wheat opened unchanged at $1.56⅝, advanced to $1.57¼, and then eased off to $1.56. July opened ⅜c up at $1.53⅛, gained ½c more and then receded to $1.52⅞ at the noon hour. September opened unchanged at $1.21¾ and broke 1¼c.

Trading in durum was only nominal and its market movement narrow. May durum opened unchanged at $1.55, gained ½c, and then eased off to the same extent. July opened unchanged at $1.54 and held there.

Drop in Flaxseed.

There was a sharp reversion in the flaxseed market, and with a falling off in inquiry from crushers for the time being, sharp price recessions were recorded. The advance is to be regarded by the trade as having been too rapid of late, and a break was thought by many to be overdue. It was pointed out by a flax specialist this morning that over 1,000,000 bushels of seed is held in Duluth elevators for which there is at present no market. Even admitting the general shortage in American and world's supplies, he felt that some further decline is to be expected to bring buyers into the market.

May flax opened unchanged at $2.02 and closed 2c off at $2.00 asked. July opened 1⅛c up at $2.05 and closed 3¼c off at $2.01½ asked. September opened off at $2.01½ asked, and closed 3½c unchanged at $2.07½ and closed 3½c off at $2.04 asked. October opened unchanged at $2.05 and closed 2c off at $2.03 asked.

At Winnipeg, May flax closed 3c off at $1.71½, and July 3¼c off at $1.81¾.

At Buenos Aires, flax closed 1⅛c up at $1.34⅜, and at London ⅞c off at $1.91.

MARKET GOSSIP.

Secretary Dorsey of the grain dealers of Texas, in his official report, makes the wheat acreage 140 per cent of last year and condition 103 per cent.

* * *

The Modern Miller says: "Because of the big forecast of the government on May 1 the scattered damage due to chinch bugs and Hessian fly so far reported since May 1 is minimized."

* * *

The Paine Commission company had the following from Logan & Bryan at Kansas City: "There is a tendency to modify the seriousness of fly damage. Many say the loss has been considerable, but the immense crop promised can stand a reduction and still have more than a normal yield."

* * *

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Weakness in America was partially offset by smaller percentage of Plate shipments to United Kingdom and estimated light Indian shipments this week. Spot market was unchanged to ½d lower with cargoes market steady and partially 3d lower. Indian offers are dear and Plate offers lighter and more firmly held. The general market is quiet, but there are signs of a revival in the continental demand. Private cables received here reiterate damage to winter wheat. Corn was easy with favorable Argentine weather and freer offerings."

* * *

Foreign crop summary:

Argentina—Weather continues clear and cool.

India—Weather is favorable and wheat offers are liberal, but high prices are maintained.

Italy—It is officially estimated that the new wheat crop will show a yield of about 36,000,000 bu larger than last year. Broomhall thinks this is overestimated.

Australia—Much concern is being felt regarding the prolonged dryness and all agricultural work is being interfered with. Seeding of wheat is very slow. Supplies are light and Argentine arrivals small.

United Kingdom—Merchants here are perplexed regarding the government's recent purchases, that is to the amount and disposition to be made of the same, and this accounts largely for the apathetic condition, as reticence is pursued by officials.

* * *

Le Count wired from Salina, Kan.: "The chance for Kansas to repeat last year's crop is gone. Crop will be largely reduced this year. Hundreds of fields between here and Kansas City have been badly damaged by Hessian fly. In my opinion some fields are ruined beyond repair. They are sickly and yellow in appearance. Here in the valley wheat is very heavy and damage is less apparent, but I found all fields badly affected and damage will become more pronounced daily."

* * *

John Inglis wired Logan & Bryan from Arkansas City, Kan.: "From Chickasha, Okla., to Arkansas City, present condition in Oklahoma indicates better than the average yield, notwithstanding impairment. Northern counties are damaged by fly. Chinch bugs are numerous. Abundant moisture is minimizing depreciation so far."

A New York wire said: "There are signs of something doing in the export line. One big export house here is very active with cash wheat and freight brokers. This is the best indication I know of cash business doing."

C. E. Lewis & Co. had the following closing letter from Chicago: "Prices eased off on heavy liquidation sales for Eastern account, with considerable bear pressure. Crop reports were mixed, like in Northwest, and in Eastern Canada rains. Bug reports came from widely scattered areas of Indiana and Ohio. Foreign news was a standoff. German situation is causing considerable bear reflection on same in stock values affected grain. We advise purchases on declines."

* * *

T. W. Lewis wired from Minneapolis: "The reports from the winter wheat territory are far less rosy today. LeCount confirms damage to wheat around Salina, Kan., and this is the district where they raise the largest yields per acre. There are also numerous reports from districts in Kansas, Missouri, Indiana and Ohio, and it is very probable we will hear more talk of crop damage next week. It is wise to go slow and await the outcome of these reports before taking the bear side too strongly."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Restricted Trading and Unsettled Prices Features of Wheat Trading.

Chicago, May 14.—Restricted trading and unsettled prices were features today in the wheat market here. The influence of the uncertainty attached to the diplomatic situation appeared to be largely responsible both for limiting the volume of business and for the irregularity of quotations. Extremely bullish reports concerning insect damage to growing wheat in Kansas and Nebraska had much to do with a temporary bulge in new crop futures. The opening, varied from 1c decline to 1⅛c advance, was followed by a further setback in the May delivery and a decided gain in July, with comparative steadiness later at about last night's level all around.

Afterward the strength of the new crop deliveries became more pronounced, but late assertions of comparatively little crop damage in Kansas formed a signal for heavy selling. Lowering of export bids tended also to deprive the market of support. The close was unsettled at 1⅞c to 2⅛c under last night.

Price changes in corn were unimportant and transactions light. The market seemed to keep within ⅜c either way from last night's prices.

Favorable weather for planting tended later to pull down prices and also did slowness of cash demand. The close was nervous at ⅜c to 1⅛c net decline.

Oats had the same action as corn. Trade was almost wholly of a scattering character.

Provisions advanced a little with hogs. There was no decided pressure to sell.

FLAX ACREAGE MUCH REDUCED

World Shortage Feared By Duluth Board of Trade Men.

Decrease From 40 to 50 Per Cent; European Supply Low.

Probability of a world's shortage in flaxseed is agitating linseed oil manufacturers at present. Members of the Duluth board of trade who have made inspection trips over the Northwest recently, place the decreased acreage likely to be seeded to the crop this season at from 40 to 50 per cent, that applying besides North and South Dakota to Northeastern Montana, which up to the present has been recognized as banner territory for flaxseed.

Europe's Supply Decreases.

Cognizance is now being taken of the certainty of a large decrease showing this year in the European supply of the seed owing to war conditions, and furthermore it is conceded that the Argentine harvest of last season will fall far below original estimates, thus leaving a greatly decreased surplus to draw from in that country.

With all attention being devoted to the raising of food products, it is estimated that the area seeded to flax in the Canadian Northwest this season will fall off to the extent of nearly 50 per cent. The Canadian government now recognizes the world's shortage situation and is urging western farmers to raise as much flaxseed as possible.

The following statement upon the subject has just been issued by the department of agriculture at Ottawa: "The persistence of the German occupation of Belgium and parts of Northern France and the increasing signs of warlike activity in the Baltic provinces of Russia (the great flaxseed producing area of Europe), make it certain that the crop of flax for seed, as well as for fiber, is likely to be very far below the average this year on that continent.

Chance For Canada.

"This offers another extraordinary opportunity to the Canadian farmer in the west and points to the advisability of our farmers, on good strong land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, putting as much land down to this crop as they can satisfactory prepare. This may be done it should be added with a fair certainty of very profitable returns on labor and expense involved.

"Fortunately flax may be sown considerably later than wheat or oats, and what is more important still, may be expected to give a good crop even when sown on new breaking if the land is properly handled. Prairie sod broken three and a half to four inches deep, packed or rolled, then thoroughly disced and sown to flax before the end of May, at the rate of forty pounds to the acre, is very likely to give a good yield under reasonable weather conditions.

"With the soil in such shape as it is at present in Southern Alberta and Southwestern Saskatchewan, including the Goose Lake and Kindersley country, large areas might yet be prepared and sown to this crop, since the wheat is all in and a large proportion of the oats and barley sown.

SEVERE DECLINES IN THE COPPERS

Market Breaks on Liquidation—Lower Prices in Leading Stocks.

Mining stocks slumped sharply at Boston today, breaks extending to $3.50 being recorded in some issues. The weakness was more marked towards the close on liquidations and the catching of stop-loss orders.

Butte & Superior was subjected to heavy pressure and it closed $2 off at $58.25. North Butte broke $1.63 to $29.12.

Calumet & Arizona closed $1.75 off at $60.25; Copper Range, $3.75 off at $46.50; Granby, $3 off at $76; Mohawk, $3 off at $65; Osceola, $3.50 off at $72.50; Quincy, $1.75 off at $80.75, and Shattuck, $1.50 off at $24.50.

At New York, Amalgamated Copper closed $2.75 off at $63.25, and Anaconda $2.38 off at $29.12.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Lowest Prices and Greatest Activity Recorded in Last Hour.

Losses of Three to Ten Points Shown and Closing Weak.

New York, May 14.—Latest developments in the situation between this country and Germany were reflected in the nervous tone of the stock market at today's opening. Initial prices were mostly lower, and though in few instances did declines go beyond fractions, greater heaviness was shown later, and a number of stocks fell a point or more. United States Steel was the only leader to open with a large offering, 7,000 shares changing hands in one block at 52, 1 point down. War shares like Bethlehem Steel, Pressed Steel Car and General Electric lost as much. Trading was moderately active, but without any trace of the hysteria which characterized recent operations.

After the first hour the market settled into a state of extreme dullness. War stocks went lower, but the more seasoned issues made half way recoveries from lowest prices. Evidently much of the early selling originated from speculative quarters with an admixture of foreign offerings. In point of fact, London's market for American securities was firm, with gains in some of the high grade issues. Local traders were inclined to await further news from abroad before taking a stand on either side of the market. Prices fell again just before midday. Bonds were heavy.

Activity on the downgrade was resumed in the early afternoon, all speculative favorites going lower. Steel was most susceptible to adverse influences, large blocks changing hands at an extreme decline of 2⅜ points. Special stocks were down from 3 to 7 points.

A succession of declines for which liquidation was partly responsible, marked the course of today's market. The international situation was the outstanding factor.

Lowest prices and greatest activity were recorded in the last hour when stocks showed losses of 3 to 10 points. The closing was weak.

LOWER RATE ON JUNE 1

Railroads Encourage Early Shipping—Won't Wait for Time Limit.

Tariffs Establish 55-Cent Rate Ahead of Date Set.

To encourage the early moving of ore by the independents, the three ore roads in St. Louis county, the Duluth, Missabe & Northern, the Duluth & Iron Range and the Great Northern, will put into effect the 55-cent carrying rate to Duluth and Two Harbors on June 1 instead of waiting until June 15, at which time they were to establish the new rate under order of the interstate commerce commission. The new rate is a reduction of 5 cents. The decision of the commission was handed down only a few weeks ago. The tariffs have just been issued.

If the new rate does increase the ore shipments as much as it is generally thought it will, June should see a marked improvement in the lake business. Some of the coal shipped have decided to take more coal after May 15 and expect to be shipping on practically summer schedule by June 1. Others there are who want very little coal until late in the summer, but if the midsummer is going to be even fairly busy June will be the month of starting.

Furnaces Conservative.

There is no disposition on the part of furnaces to purchase iron ore for future needs. The buying is extremely conservative, and the outlook is that the rest of the season will be a good deal like last year. In 1914 the ore shippers sold ore in small lots throughout the season, and except the large contract sales the business was done on comparatively small orders.

A number of furnaces last year did not take all of the ore they had purchased early in the season, and still others bought only enough to round out mixtures. These furnaces will be forced to buy ore this summer if they operate the mills, and a large percentage of the furnaces in the Central states are operating.

Ore shippers have not lost faith in their forecast of a busy midsummer and fall and look to the 55-cent freight rate on ore from mines to Duluth and Two Harbors to prove their contention that a much improved business will be had this summer.

REMOVING SHOAL IN DULUTH HARBOR

Maj. E. D. Peck, United States engineer here, has a dredge at work in the harbor basin removing a shoal that has accumulated in the path of vessels about 100 feet from the docks at the ends of Sixth and Seventh avenues west. Two weeks ago the steamer Elwood, loaded with ore and out-bound, ran onto this shoal and it took about five hours to release her. The ridge has been proving a menace and will be removed. About 8,000 yards of ground will be taken up, extending from the east side of the Sixth avenue dock to the west side of the dock at the end of Eighth avenue.

The lodgment of sand and refuse would not have mattered much except for the exceedingly low stage of water that prevails this year.

GRAIN FROM FORT WILLIAM TO ENGLAND

Steamer Glenfoyle Takes First Cargo That Will Go Clear Through.

The steamer Glenfoyle established a precedent for Fort William when she cleared from that port a few days ago with a cargo of 122,000 bushels of oats consigned to Manchester, Eng., thereby constituting Fort William an ocean port.

The cargo was consigned to W. S. McLaughlin & Co., of Winnipeg, and although at present consigned to Manchester its ultimate destination will not be made public as Atlantic sailing orders will be delivered only to Capt. John Croker, to whom Capt. William Taylor, the lake captain, will hand over the command of the vessel at Montreal. The Glenfoyle will be followed by other lake vessels that will be transferred to Atlantic service.

The Glenmavis will be the second vessel to sail from Fort William direct to England.

John Bell, manager of the Great Lakes Transportation Co., is quoted as saying that this service will be continued during the war, and that within two or three years, the Welland canal being completed, a regular and permanent service will be established between English ports and the Canadian Head of the Lakes, and that with the enlarging of the Montreal canals, ocean liners will make Fort William a regular port of call.

The same is expected for Duluth.

RAISING OF BOATS WILL BE COSTLY

Steamer Osborne, Sunk in Collision, Was Formerly Named Carnegie.

The collision near Port Huron yesterday, which resulted in the sinking of two vessels, will probably result in considerable loss, for the raising of the Osborne, which sunk in the lake, will be a pretty expensive job. This steamer is the A. W. Osborne instead of the O. M. Osborne. She was formerly the Andrew Carnegie, her name being changed last winter. The Osborne belongs to the Wilson Transit company.

The Valcartier, formerly the W. H. Mack, sank in St. Clair river, and while her raising will be costly, it is not believed that it will be as expensive as that of the Osborne. The Valcartier belongs to the Canadian shipping trust, and her Duluth agents are the Duluth Shipping company. Harry Dinham, manager of that company, had received no further information concerning the matter today.

The Osborne carried coal, which will not be materially damaged by being submerged, but the Valcartier was loaded with grain, which will be quite considerably damaged.

LUMBER HOOKERS WILL CHANGE HANDS

North Tonawanda, N. Y., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Negotiations will be concluded here in a few days whereby the fleet of eighteen lumber carriers owned by the Edward Hines Lumber company of Chicago will be sold to the Hamilton Transportation company, in which many marine men here are stockholders.

William D. Hamilton of Chicago, commodore of the Hines fleet, is a member of the new company which will purchase the boats. The sale price is reported at $165,000.

ROOMERS FLEE IN NIGHT CLOTHES

Morning Fire in Second Street Residence Does $500 Damage.

Several partially-clad roomers fled to the street this morning when fire broke out in a third story bedroom of a residence at 320 East Second street, shortly after 8 o'clock. No one was injured.

The dwelling, which is owned and used as a home by Mrs. Helen H. Corson, was damaged to the extent of about $500, and is covered by insurance.

Firemen were unable to learn the origin of the blaze, but it is believed that it started from a spirit lamp. The blaze was confined to the third story and attic of the structure. Apparatus from Engine Companies No. 3 and No. 4, with Chief Joseph Randall and Assistant Chief Wilson, responded to the alarm.

FAVORS FACTORIES RATHER THAN PARKS

Bemidji, Minn., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—F. J. Kline of Los Angeles, who was manager for the Walker and Akeley interests in this vicinity, about twenty years ago, and who assisted in the survey of the county, is in Bemidji on business. Mr. Kline represents C. F. Ruggles' interests here and while he says he has no proposition to offer in regard to the Ruggles timber, he told members of the Commercial club that he would be pleased to receive any proposition they had to make and convey it to Mr. Ruggles.

"A park would be a nice thing," said Mr. Kline, "but who ever heard of a city becoming prosperous from its parks? What you need over there where that Ruggles timber stands is a lot of busy factories that will bring you in some earnings."

DO NOT JUDGE THE VALUE OF A PIANO BY ITS PRICE.

Remember, we are manufacturers of high-grade pianos, doing business directly with the public. Consequently, if you pay $400 at a retail store, we will duplicate the same grade piano for $300.
Better investigate, and not listen to the retailers—$100 is a lot of money. Besides, we give a longer guarantee, owing to the fact that we are manufacturers and know the quality of our goods.

The Best Job You Will Ever Get Will Come to You Through a Herald Want Ad

BIG BENEFITS

REAPED FROM CONTINUOUS PUBLICITY

"A number of men have come to me at different times and asked me what I thought of certain advertising for their business. Invariably they had figured it out that a few hundred dollars, if spent in a lump sum, would put them far in the lead of their competitors.

"Such business men should be discouraged, because a man who expects to reorganize or revolutionize his industry with one burst of advertising is really worse than the man who does not believe in advertising at all.

"To get the cumulative results from advertising one must advertise sometimes for years. Sherwin-Williams' paints and varnishes were first advertised in a great big national way, including national publications, in 1907, and if we had dropped out for a year in the meantime we would not be getting the cumulative results that we are today. To my mind the biggest benefit from continuous advertising is that it hammers home your name. Instead of seeing and asking for paint, people now see and ask for Sherwin-Williams. The same is true of Ivory soap, Pompeian cream, of Heinz food products and Big Ben alarm clocks.

"Too many concerns are discouraged all too quickly. They forget that advertising is not like other investments, and if they do not get a big percentage of their money back at once they say, 'Oh, well, that is not paying; let's cut it out.' How do they know it isn't paying? In a great many such cases, where a concern stops its publicity, competitors get in and in a few short months capture a good part of the other fellow's trade by using persistent advertising methods."

CHARLES MITCHELL LEMPERLY,
Advertising Manager Sherwin-Williams Co.
